Cappoquin there is one portion of the embankment extending for over a mile which would need to be built anew. If that responsibility is to fall on the Co Council where will the rate-payers be? My argument is that it should be a national responsibility and not a liability of the Co Council which can never bear such a burden. There is an embankment of 64 miles on the embankment of 6½ miles on the Bride two miles on the Colli-gan four miles on the Brickey two miles on the Mahon and 36 miles on the Sur I fail to see how the local authority can be expected to assume that burden in view of the present condition of the embankments and in view of the fact that the Land Com-

HURLING AND CAMOGIE MATCHES

UCC AND DUNGARVAN IN GREAT GAME

DUNGARVAN DEFEAT

At the Gaelic field, Dungarvan on Sunday last two very in-teresting matches were played The first match was between Dungarvan and Knockanore in Camogle and the second was a hurling match between UCC

and Dungarvan
The weather was very uncertain with cold showers but the attendance was fairly good The field was very heavy due to the recent rains and taking everything into consideration the hurling display proved a fast and exciting game which held the interest of the spectators until the final whistle sounded. The Camogle match was first on the programme and started off with both sides having an equal share of the play. As the game went on Dungarvan scored a goal to give them the lead The Knockanore girls were playing well and fought back to equalise when Teresa Hynes raised the green flag. No other score was registered in this half and both sides entered the second period on even terms Dungarvan attacked early in the second half and were playing much better Nellie Phe-lan put Dungarvan in the lead when she scored a goal Knockanore backs were now pressed and had to concede a third goal to Dungarvan At this stage Knockanore fought back and Teresa Hynes was on the mark for another goal which made the game much more ex-citing Towards the closing citing Towards the closing period of the game Edie O Hara

Dungarvan Knockanore Mr P Ryan refereed The Hurling put the issue beyond doubt when she scored two goals in quick succession for Dungarvan which gave them victory on the final

The Huring
The hurling game opened to a lively start and both sides pressed UCC missed a score by inches after a few minutes play and when Dungarvan attacked from a free the UCC backs at present the Co Council's liability will be unbearable

SOMETHING REMEMBER

Whenever the end of the war may come it will not mean the end of the Emergency Even after active hostilities cease, international trade will for a long time remain unsettled and the country will still have to rely largely on its own resources to produce the food needed for man and beast.

As regards wheat we did fairly well this year and our aim for next year, 700,000 acres, is relatively little more than what we grew in 1944 We should be able to reach our target in 1945 without having to add greatly to the labour and trouble of sowing and harvesting But to succeed
