CAPPOQUIN NEWS A GLOOMY ST PATRICK'S DAY— St Patrick's Day 1945 should long be remembered by the pre-sent inhabitants of Cappoquin as one of the most gloomy dreary and depressing National Festivals ever experienced in the

There were large congregations present at the two Masses at which brief appropriate sermons were preached, but beyond this, and the wearing of the Sham-rock by practically everybody there was nothing else to out-wardly indicate that we were celebrating a Festival which in previous years, was one of the most joyous and festive holidays of the whole year in this town and district

A "Festival" according to the dictionary means "a day of civil or religious joy" and it had always been observed as such even while this country was governed by an alien and non-Catholic Government but it is a sad commentary on our socalled newly-won freedom that the people of Eire should now be deprived of the right or the facilities to honour the Feast of their National Apostle in the same joyous and festive manner as of old

After last Mass on St Pat rick's Day most of the country parishioners went straight home while the majority of the townspeople also went home to din-ner so that the town presented an almost deserted appearance in a short time after Mass

The Boys Brass and Reed Band turned out soon after Mass and played a nice selection of appropriate music near "The Cornerstone but their performance would have been far bet ter appreciated had they waited until the people had finished their dinners say between 2 and 3 o clock when their musical selection would have commanded a large and more appreness and monotony of the after-
