The May issue of An Cosantoir contains a turther note-worthy article in the present series Irish Leaders of Our Time 'Mr Dan Breen TD writes in his usual frank forthright fashion on Sean Treacyone of Ireland's most able leaders and of Tipperays's most doughty fighters in the War of Independence. Author and subject were comrades-in-arms through heetic days and danger-filled nights. The account of their joint activities makes a thrilling story which is told from the point of work of the result of the point of view of one who sees in it (as well lie may) an example for all time for the soldiers of Ireland—of courage of endurance of laughter in the
