ERIN'S OWN FANCIED FOR COUNTY HONOURS SUNDAY'S SENIOR HURLING FINAL

CLONEA IN FINAL AFTER

FORTY YEARS

Sweet Dungarvan town with Shandon Grounds scene of many a thrilling hurling encount tr will be the mecca of all Gaels on Sunday next when Clonea reckoned the shock team of this years champion-ship throw down a strong chal lenge to the Champions Erin's Own in the senior hurling county final The game is creating county wide interest and at every corner and cross road of the historic Decies Sunday's the historic Decies Sundays final is a chief topic Erin's Own on form are fancied to retain the title but I have a healthy respect for the Clonea men who on more than one outing during the season impressed me by their earnestness and enthusiasm It came as a surprise earlier in the year particularly to Mid Waterford enthusiasts when Clonea decidents of the service hurling ed to enter the senior hurling arena and few even the most ardent supporters of the wearers of green white visualised their favourites contesting the final Their entry to the final is no flash in the pan and they proved in each outing a formidable combination with distinct possibilities Clonea have a great hurling tradition behind them and often during the course of my travels old players recall for me past deeds of great men from famed in song and story Cluan

Fiald de Paor
Away back in 1897 Ballytruckle won the first official Waterford Hurling Championship then came the Ballydurn man in 1899 who took Co Honours for the first time Ballydurn I un derstand lies between Clonea and the famed football locality of Rathgormack In 1903 Clonea proper came into the limelight by winning the senior hurling championships again they were victorious in 1905 and they made it three in all in 1907 After a lapse of forty years Clonea are back again in search of further honours and it would be no sur-prise to see them take the Blue Riband on Sunday next

In this year's championships they accounted in masterly fashion for Avonmore and on the run of play in their initial outing they proved superlor to the Western team Next to fall by the wayside Brickey Rangers and then fans sat up and began to take notice of this hard hit ting team from Clonea who were intent on going places In but Clonea in no uncertain manner trounced the Blues at the city team put in the usual match Urbs Intacta venue and their training display on that day was easily their best and most impressive to date From 1907 up to the chambions and down Mid-Was all-important enter the full-back, and it would not surpressive the same to see him flanked by nephew Joe Murphy and Johnny As Sunday draws near excitement is mounting to fever pitch all Waterford will be up with the Mons Larkin will I hear fill the chambions and down Mid-Was all-important enter the full-back, and it would not surpressive the full-back and it

hurling showed a marked improvement which in the years that followed bore fruit and today the Decie men are equal to the best in the land. Few will disagree when I say Erin's Own put Waterford hurling on the map I have often heard it said they picked up the best in town and country 'ny club is quite in order to do the same. Twenty years ago Erin's Own won their first title and the men who were the back-bone of the team in its infancy are today the leading lights. I mention Charlie Ware and Jim Ware Johnny Fanning. lights I mention Charlie Ware and I must be not see some thrilling and I mis organising ability and end I must be see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling and I must be not see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling thrilling and I must be not seed to see some thrilling thrilling and I must be howledge of iron was introduced into Ireland by the Celts, and from about 900 to 350 B.C. iron weapons came into general use Traces of the transition from bronze to iron are not very numerous, nd examples of ornamental ironwork of the period are extremely rare. In olden times the smith was considered a very important personage, as armourer he ranked with the bard and physician The metalworkers of the late-Celtic period were not only capable of executing some of the finest repousse bronze that the world has ever seen, but they also excelled in producing wrought ironwork of great merit, iron celts, iron swords, tree-axes, knives, shears, pins and brooches have been dis-work that has survived is the iron Bell of St. Patrick, which has an unbroken history through fourteen hundred years It is formed of two plates of sheet Iron fastened together by Iron rivets

In the later periods the work of the smith was mainly concerned with the production of simple essential household articles During the 18th century, however, numerous fine specimens of ornamental wrought-ironwork were produced in the form of gates, grills, stair-railings, lampholders, balconies and door-hinges, that reached a very high degree of beauty and skilful craftmanship
