nical Institute — Mr Wilfred Cantwell B Arch Dublin (Architect for the extension to the Central Technical Institute) visited Waterford on Monday Nov 17th and make a prelimin supply here. On the whole is a good agreement and in future much higher prices will be paid for cattle and agricultural produce thus ensuring more profit for the farmer and stock rearer. The agreement will be beneficial in many other ways. The talks were realistic From the beginning it was recognised that each country had its own economic policy and that it was within the limits of each policy that agreement was sought. No that agreement was sought. No that agreement was sought. No the process of their correspondence
