DUNGARVAN SWIMMING CLUB GALA

Ideal Conditions Prevail

Unlike the previous Sunday when a rain storm completely washed out the event the postponed 7th Annual Gala of the Dungarvan Swimming Club held at the Pool on Sunday evening last was favoured with ideal conditions. The return of the heat-wave saw hundreds of spectators seated at the Lool-side bathed in warm summer sun-

Council tenants be prohibited from keeping pigs and poultry in their houses was next consi-

Mr Good said that the motion as it appeared on the agenda looked bald but he meant was not to hurt anvone but that if there were certain bye-laws there that they would have to be observed. He asked if there were any such bve-laws

Clerk-Yes there are bye-

Chairman-There's no doubt but some people should be checked for the way they keep pigs Mr Good—Is it the duty of the Sanitary Officer to report on these matters?

Chairman—It is Mr Kyne—The way I see it is that pigs can be kept and not be a nuisance the position is that when they are a nuisance a complaint is made and then

Mr. Good-Mr Walsh should come here and make a full state-ment on the matter vere up in a heap here as it is Chairman—That's a good idea It was then decided to adjourn the matter to next meeting and to request the Sanitary Officer to attend

Agendas For Press When the matter of sending agendas for meetings to members of the Press came before

additional expense
When the Chairman asked him to explain the Clerk said him to explain the Clerk said Finally the license was renewthat normally two typings turn-

I don't mind that. Finally the members agreed that copies of all agendas be sent to the Press at the same time as to members Abbeyside Housing Scheme

Tallow & Moorehill
Notes

Young Boys Escapade — While holidaying with his grandmother Mrs Lawton, Listinney, Tallow, Wille Roche, aged 3, had a providential escape from injury when he slipped away from the house and travelled fully 2 miles of the main Tallow-Fermoy road, which just now resembles a city street with motor traffic While his grandmother was busy with her household duties the boy wandered away and his absence was not discovered for some time When the alarm was raised a thorough search of the neighbourhood failed to reveal his whereabouts and the grandmother was almost distracted when no tidings were forthcoming Thinking that the child had got lost in an adjacent wood, a search party of neighbours was quickly organised, but before they set out welcome news arrived that the missing boy was safely restored to his grandmother none the worse of neighbours was quickly organised, but before they set out welcome news arrived that the missing boy was sound at a farm house two miles away and having travelled this main road midst heavy traffic it can be readily understood what an escape he had However all swell that ends well and the bonny boy was safely restored to his grandmother none the worse of the sectting experience
