Today in Power's Brewery... Hygiene...

People generally are becoming more hygienically minded. And in Power's Brewery today every available equipment is being installed to achieve absolute hygiene in the finished bottled drinks. The bottles are sterilised in a very strong and very hot detergent solution BEFORE passing into the new washing machines where they are very thoroughly brushed inside and out and are finally given a final rinse with pure fresh water and are finally examined as they pass on to the filling machines through a very Powerful Inspection Lens recently designed by a leading American Firm, and which shows up clearly the INSIDE of all bottles dark and white. The hygienic maintenance of all machinery and equipment is also being provided for and a new sterilizing tank is being installed into which after each day's bottling will go all taps couplings and piping through which the beer passes from Cask to machine from first to last the bottle is untouched by hand.

Easter Sunday

GREAT GAELIC ATTRACTION FOR DUNGARVAN

AUGUSTINIAN BENEFIT MATCHES

(By TAORHLINE)

ALL the winter respite it is only natural to expect that all followers and supporters of our National games will make the Old Boro their mecca on Easter Sunday and why not surely it heralds the opening of the Gaelic season which in a few weeks will be in full swing. The capital attraction needless to say on the day's programme is the meeting of Cork and Waterford in senior hurling for a magnificent and a beautiful set of silver goal centred medals. No match in recent years has created so much interest as the clash between the Desec and the Corkmen who on the 23rd of June will parade the Thurles pitch in the first round of the Munster Championships in Munster for a number of years. The meetings of these two famed rivals have stirred the hearts of all Gaelic enthusiasts for the simple reason both play hurling of a high order and one can always expect to witness our national game at its very best. It is no secret in official G.A.A. circles that both counties engaged on Sunday next are presently team building and young players who have figured prominently in minor and junior competitions are being given a chance to make the grade. Cork are sending their very best available man and from reports to hand they expect to have a formidable combination. I expect Mossie and Jerry Riordan, I expect Mullins and John Ryan, I expect Matt Founy, J. Daly, M. Twoomey to be the mainstay of Sunday's team. They are all players well up to the grade A standard and with such experienced players available Cork will be a tough handful on Sunday next and they will not readily bow to defeat.

EASTER SUNDAY

Cork v. Waterford At Dungarvan

Great has never been fully given to the very fine displays of hurling which Cork and Waterford served on both in Tournament and Championship games. Very often we hear of the great displays given by Cork and Killenny. But I have seen matches between Cork and Waterford that would easily rank with the best of them and it is ill luck that keeps the name of Waterford from being only once inscribed on the All Ireland Cup. And on at least two other occasions in my time Waterford had any won would have been worthy All-Ireland Champions. Both Cork and Waterford favour the clean striking and clean fast ball play. They concentrate on the ball and hurl it as it ought to be hurled. They both have a style which makes hurling a joy to watch. Coupled with this is a friendship which has lasted down through the years. Whenever they meet in tournament or championship all the players taking part will be playing for their places on the Munster Championship team.

I am looking forward to a great display of hurling as the team which Cork is fielding are a team that should give of their very best against Waterford. They are young fast and very good ball players with a fair amount of field craft. It would not surprise me if this game turned out to be a greater exhibition of hurling than when the two counties meet later on.

Bo Peep tried on many of these and finally decided on a Merrie Jane. Frock in a Lime Green Model with 3 sleeves and trimmed with a contrasting bow of nigger brown which cost her 91/-.

ANOTHER TOPICAL SONG OF DAYS LONG GONE BY

Once again I am able to turn the beam of Spotlight on Dungarvan of the Past, thanks to the co-operation of some of our old residents who have supplied me with copies of Tom Keohans' famous Topical Songs. In the good old days these songs were rendered at the memorable productions of the renowned Dungarvan Dramatic Club and were indeed the life and joy of the Old Boro. They are lively reflections of the brilliant talent possessed by the composer and will without doubt live for all time in the memory of Dungarvanites wherever they may be. If any of my readers possess copies of such songs I would appreciate it if they would forward same so as to enable me record them for all time. And now on with the Spotlight on another Topical song of days long gone by —

You've heard of the wonder of Russia, Of Italy France and of Spain, Of the marvels of Holland and Prussia, And of England the boastful and vain, But there's also a place called Dublindale, With which no other land can compare, And of all that exists in our Siltland, Dungarvan claims bountiful share.

Where where tell me oh where, Where are attractions so rare? You could well write a book on them, After one look on them, Up from the Park to the Square, While up Blackpool and Shandon, The things that you'd find on Clare, They're beyond all conceiving, Much less than believing, Until you've been actually there.

Quite apart from its scenic pretensions, Dungarvan has features of note, Take the latest of modern inventions, John McGrath's patent life-saving boat, No it isn't a punt nor a liner, Like all ships 'twas baptised with champagne, And all honour was done the designer, When 'twas called a 'McGrath-reoplane.

Vain vain Dungarvan is vain, Vain of this produce of brain, We'll have no more fatalities, Of bathing casualties, Causing worry and pain, Joe Moloney made mention That such an invention, In Dublin Museum should reign.

But I don't think we'll send it, We don't want to lend it, This precious 'McGrath-reoplane.

There's a great and delicate question, Engaging our Council of late, It arose on Pat Sexton's suggestion, That our town wasn't quite up-to-date, So Mick Brennock has taken the notion, On an excellent scheme to embark, And already a plan is in motion, To dry up the 'Cats Lough' for a Park.

Hark hark rat-payers hark, Hark to it yet keep it dark, Every Tom Cat and Kitten, In protest has written, To Patsy Mulcahy the Clerk, They appeal to Mike Byrne, To get Johnny Curran (Whose bite is much worse than his bark), To vote for deserting, This scheme for converting, Their Cemetery into a Park.

On the subject of Parks I may mention, About Captain Foley's Black Ass, Who's objection to total abstinence, From the grazing of public-grown grass, In the Abbeyside Park he was spotted, His tail which hung close to the ground, For identification was knotted, Before being interred in the pound.

Round round chasing him round, The Captain next morning was found, His state was quite funky, He thought his line donkey Had been either kidnapped or drowned, But his fears were unfounded, His joy was unbowed, And gone was his grief so profound, When a familiar bray as he walked down the Quay, Made him look for his ass in the pound.

Were you down at the Friary, Toether morning, When we bade sweet good bye to the Club, It became a hot-shop without warning, Ard 11 Church Street, created hubbub, Tommy Wals had his gear in a jiffy, All the water he brought into play, Would have swollen the Silt or the Liffey, Oi have caused a high-tide at the Quay, Gav a brilliant it gay, Keeping the fire fidd at bay, Tom Cooke was a figure who worked like a nigger, In giving the engine full sway, While Jim Draper lamented the Club he frequented, Contracted such sudden decay, For gone was the most of it, Only the ghost of it, Haunted poor Doolan next day, There's a story I think that's worth telling, Of a U boat Commander at sea, Who torpedoed the 'Katherine Ellen', Then came up and enquired for Ned Dea, To Mike Casey he sent his best wishes, And he hoped he had sugar galore, The boat went underneath with the fishes, And the crew brought the story ashore, Swore swear Phil Night he'd never go to sea anymore, He thought 'twasnt good for him, Gave what it would for him, He'd often said before, But next time he'd be wiser, Not even the Kaiser, Would get him outside his own door, He'd abandon the sailing and take to the tairling, Cause it's much neater ashore, There are many more things we could mention, But the night is advancing and it's late, We'll call you once more to attention, While we try to proceed with our Show, Ard if any of you wish to enter 'The Noughty Society' here, Send your name to the Ringville, Head Centre, With a quid as your fee for the year, Here here no place like here, Here in Dungarvan, Every Gaybrick who came to it, Gave a good name to it, Whether from 14 or from near, So take plenty of pride in it, While you abide in it, And when you on high do appear, You'll look down with affection, And sweet recollection, On all you left after you here.

LATE MALACHI CONLON M.P. AND HIS DUNGARVAN CONNECTIONS
Ireland today mourns the loss of a true friend and a loyal statesman in the death of Malachi Conlon M.P. for South Armagh whose death occurred on Monday the 27th ult after a heart attack. He was a very prominent Anti-Ferretist and carried the banner in green white and gold persistently through the ranks of the enemy and always determined in his noble cause—the unity of Ireland. The late Mr. Conlon was also a newspaper man in his native district and in 1947 I had a clash of swords with him in what became known through-out the country as 'The Battle of the Squares'. The battle was fought through the pages of the Irish Press but strange as it may seem it was a battle that was never won or lost—it just faded out. Malachi Conlon was my last opponent but I never had the opportunity of taking him up on the invitation he made me during our fight. For the benefit of my readers, I now reproduce the facts of this most unusual battle which will long be recorded in this column in memory of a great Irishman—the late Malachi Conlon. M.P.

THE BATTLE OF THE SQUARES

Extracts from the Irish Press dated the 18th Sept. 1947.
The slowly moving battle between the man from Charlestown and the man from Dungarvan about which of their towns has the biggest Square in Ireland has embroiled another bather. He is a Dungarvan sympathiser and starts off by stating that his Square is so big that he was unable to photograph it though he tried several times. Then he says that it is near 100 yards long by about 100 yards wide and thus becomes the first man in this controversy to introduce mathematics. In conclusion after a few lines

Late Mrs. Mary Clancy, Kilrush

WATERFORD COUNTY COUNCIL

Press Excluded As Tramcase Discussed
Councilors Protest

On a motion proposed by the Chairman (Mr. D. Heskin) seconded by Mr. M. McGrath, Waterford County Council agreed at their adjourned estimates meeting held in Dungarvan on Friday last to go into committee to discuss the question of the Tramcase Separate Charges and to exclude the Press Mr. John Kiwan dissented from the decision. At the outset the Chairman said in connection with the matter a deputation had been appointed to meet the Minister concerning his decision refusing to make an order to allow the Council to enforce its bye-law under the Tramcase. The Council's representative met the Minister and his officials and in view of the fact that it had been decided previously to object to the enforcement of the bye-law the Chairman suggested that the Council go into committee to discuss the situation. As it stood matters were at a dead-end and before anything was done he thought the Press should be asked to leave. Mr. M. F. Walsh said that he thought the Press should be allowed to remain but should be asked to take no action in the matter. Chairman—The position is such that we don't want to commit the Council in anyway. The matter is so delicate and we want to be very careful about it. Who I'd ask the Council to go into committee. Mr. J. Kirwan said that he was against such a suggestion and he thought that the Press should be allowed to attend the meeting. The matter was one of great interest to the ratepayers and they should know what was happening. If the Minister had turned down the Council and that was all the Council should have nothing to be afraid of. Chairman—We have nothing to be afraid of but the matter is so delicate. It will be discussed at the next meeting and all the facts will be made known. Mr. Kirwan said that they should not be trying to save the Department. Mr. McGrath—We are not hiding anything as it will all come out at the next meeting. The motion was then moved and the Press had to leave the meeting.

Congratulations
A vote of congratulations was passed with Mr. Seamus Power, County Waterford County who rode to victory in the 'greatest steeplechase' in the world—the Grand National. Coupled with the vote were Mr. Power's father (an ex-member of the County Council) and Mr. Phelan (the breeder of the horse) and Mr. M. Phelan his brother (Superintendent Home Assistance Officer). Present at the meeting were Messrs D. Heskin (Chairman), Leahy P. Roche J. Kilwan T. Power P. Butler Senator J. Butler W. Dower R. Barron M. McGrath M. F. Walsh, and J. Quirk. Messrs S. J. Moynihan Co. Managers M. Hally Solicitor and J. G. Downing Secretary were in attendance.

Death of Mrs M Butler - We regret to announce the death of Miss Nora Butler daughter of John and Mrs Butler Knockanore Kilmacthomas which took place at a Waterford City hospital on Friday last week. Deceased was in her early thirties had been ailing for some months and was well known and liked throughout the area. Her remains were removed to the Parish Church, Clonessa, on Saturday evening and the burial took place after Requiem Mass on Sunday.
Chief mourners were Mr and Mrs J. Butler (parents), Nicholas Butler (brother), Mrs. T. Butler (sister-in-law) (sister-in-law).
G.A.A. - Unfavourable weather prevailed at Leamybrien on Sunday last when Dungarvan junior footballers disposed of Stradbally in a first round championship game that provided very few thrills for a rather small attendance. Mr Tommy Parsons Dungarvan refereed the game that ended with the score Dungarvan 0-5 Stradbally 0-3.
Entertainment - Kilgobbin Dramatic Society were well patronised when they played at the New Hall, Stradbally on Sunday night last to a very appreciative audience.
Fire Outbreak - A small outbreak of fire at the forestry plantation near Killybegg during the week-end is now being investigated by the Garda.
No Water - Four new cottages erected outside Kilmacthomas which have all been occupied during the last few months have no water supply and residents are compelled to carry water for a distance of several hundred yards. We learn that the occupants of those cottages would pay eight and fourpence per week to a packed house and the work rent is preparing a strong protest which will be submitted to the County Council within the next few weeks.
