REQUEST TIME Here is an old-timer which will never die reproduced this week man in sunny California — The Old Fenian Gun

(By Phil O Neill) (Dedicated to Fergus O Connor)

It hung above the kitchen fire Its barrel long and brown And one day with a boy's desire I climbed and took it down My father's eyes with anger He cried what have you done

I wished you left it where it was That's my old Fenian gun Curiosity awakened I looked it placed it on my shoulder and I marched across the floor My father's anger softened he shared my boyish fun

Like that old Fenian gun'

I remember sixty-seven well he said "when lads like me We thought we d strike another

To set old Ireland free How foolish were our bosish was months upon the run But it did good work for Ireland

I was down then in Kilmallock Twas the hottest fight of all, never die reproduced this week And see—he bared his arm especially for an old friend Mr There's the mark still of a ball Thomas McHugh an Abbeyside I hope the boys that's going Will keep the ground we've won

And not disgrace the cause in which beld that Fenian gun placed it oer the fire place once more heard my father sigh, knew his thoughts were turning back On days now long gone by. And then I solemnly declared Ill be my father's son And if ever Ireland wants my l ll hold a Fenian gun

Thats years ago—Ive grown to man And weathered many a gale Ah well' he said ' tis in yer The last long year was spent inside A gloomy English jail-

I ve done my part—I ll do it still Until the fight is won. When Ireland free will bless the Who held a Fenian gun
