READERS PLATFORM
From a reader in Ballyduff comes the following article which may well be read and very carefully noted.

SAFETY BEFORE BORROW
We live in a land of modern mechanism devoted to speed and pleasure and it is about time we moderates eased down and used a little caution as regards the safety of our fellow road-users. Every day you read a newspaper you'll observe the many accidents which occur throughout Ireland some of which could be avoided were a little caution exercised. I don't profess to be an authority on this subject but I would like to give my suggestions which are provided of commonsense and respect for other road-users.

As we all know today a great many people drive a car and I doubt if one out of fifty is capable of such but as long as they are of age to receive a licence they can't be held responsible for the streets and country always curious to defeat the end for which the car or any other vehicle was made for—to pass another vehicle on a narrow highway leaving a road for a cyclist or other road-user. Anxious to be first at all times regardless of any safety rule of the road they only think of themselves thus making it next to impossible for everyone and at times for anyone who comes in their way.

If you drive don't drink—and vice-versa is a good motto but it is very much abused and drinking proves a dangerous pastime. It is bad enough to be sober, but any driver under the influence of drink cannot be capable of controlling any vehicle and therefore should avoid excessive drinking when in charge of a car, as it is really next to a criminal offence in this modern world of wheels.

In view of the many accidents occurring at our cross roads and by-roads an avenue of fear and unreason danger, unless a person exercises great care it is well for all drivers of motor cars and other cars as well to slow down and drive so that the road is clear. But it seems to be idle to be warning some people. Since the mind controls the body it would be a good suggestion if we were trained by means of a danger sign at the corner of every dangerous by-road. There is no necessity for speeding even though we have the right of way for very often the right of way encourages speed—by means of a sign as the law protects them. Why don't the experienced drivers set an example for the young who sometimes forget the rules of the road. The young drivers beat fast and are thrilled by the speed of this ever rushing world of ours. They remain unconscious of the real dangers that confront them and others and seem to be only conscious of the great fun and excitement that their heart dwells in.

We don't live in a land of jaunting cars any longer—when in the old days one used to measure his pleasures by the length of time he drove by the swiftness of time. Such is this present-day world of ours. It is fashioned to defeat its own ends by the hand of man.

ODD ISN'T IT?
At a meeting of the County Waterford Vocational Education Committee held on Monday last at the Technical School Dungarvan there was a most unusual discussion. The C.E.O. submitted the results of a recent Irish examination when on the list it was noted that there was a street in Abbeyside according to the official returns known as 'Victoria Street'.

This street is well known to most of us as Home Rule Street and why anyone in Abbeyside or on the County Vocational Education Committee should wish to perpetuate the name of Queen Victoria in our little part of the Irish Republic is beyond my powers of explanation.

For the record I would like to make it quite clear that the Home Rule Street and as far back as memory serves some of our oldest citizens it has always been known as such.

It might do no harm if the Vocational Education Committee would oblige by altering the official returns referred to at the outset from Victoria Street to Home Rule Street.

AS I WAS SAYING
Last week in this column I referred at length to the present bye-election campaign in this Constituency, which of course major news in all parts of Waterford at the moment. Since my last commentary appeared we have had an Taoiseach Mr. De Valera in Dungarvan and Lismore, when he came to the Old Boro on Thursday last (June 12th) he received a reception befitting the leader of our Government. On the platform he spoke at length on the reasons for the recent budget, making it very clear that it was the policy of Fianna Fail to see to it that Ireland paid its way. Mr. De Valera to most of those present while appearing to have looked very well and during his speech drove home facts that could not be overlooked. However, the question stands out—the members of the Opposition still maintain that we have no work to be done by Fianna Fail—so who are we to believe? Certainly it must be borne in mind that no man is allowed carry on freely without paying his way. This has been the case of our country for a long time and it cannot just be blamed on one Government. For a long time past the Governments of this country seemed to have out-paced themselves as regards their means of spending and as this seems to be really a matter for the politicians believe you me I have no intention of lording on their toes. They should be responsible for the money they spend and for the money they spend they should be responsible for the money they spend.

On Sunday afternoon last Mr. Wm. Norton the leader of the Labour Party addressed a well-attended meeting in Dungarvan and he scored a big success in his references to the removal of the gun out of Irish politics. He provided many interesting points for the consideration of the public as will be seen from our exclusive report which appears elsewhere in this issue. It was described to me as one of the best speeches heard in Dungarvan since the election campaign.

On Sunday evening I heard that a very big meeting was addressed in Cappoquin by Mr. Dillon, T.D., and Mr. Flanagan, T.D. It was said that it was the biggest meeting since Cappoquin for a long number of years.

On Wednesday morning last we had another big meeting in the Square, and like all former meetings, set a record in attendance. This was a Fine Gael meeting and was addressed by Mr. Liam Cosgrave, T.D. Mr. Coburn, O.D. and the one and only O.D. John Flanagan, T.D. Here again the facts recorded in the annuals of the Coalition Government were produced—convincingly mind you and from all that was to be seen and heard the meeting was regarded as an outstanding success.

And now we head for Thursday next (June 26th) when the big event comes off—polling day. We will once again enter the jolly old polling booth there to record our votes. As has been stated by all leaders of the parties concerned the election is perhaps one of the most important of all time and there is little doubt but the outcome will be closely watched by everyone in every corner of the country for on the results of Waterford Limerick and Mayo bye-elections depend the action of the Government and the future of the State.

SYMPATHY
To Mr. Frank Murphy of 24 Carrol St. Yonkers New York my sympathy is extended on the death of his father, the late Mr. Michael Murphy, O.D. The deceased was a very popular and esteemed man and was very well liked by all his neighbours. The burial took place at Old Parish on Monday morning after the celebration of Requiem High Mass for the repose of his soul. The large and representative cortege present on the day was a fitting tribute to the esteem and respect held for deceased his sons, and relatives. Ar dheis De go raibh a anam.

LABOUR PARTY MEETING
Mr Norton At Dungarvan

Addressing a largely attended public meeting in the Square, Dungarvan on Sunday evening last in support of the Labour Candidate for Waterford, Councillor John Griffin the leader of the Labour Party, Mr. Wm. Norton T.D. strongly defended the policy of the Coalition Government during their three and a half years in office. He said that they had been attacked from all quarters by Fianna Fail but he would like to mention it known for once and for all that the policy of the Coalition Government was both sound and proper and far from what had been suggested by their opponents.

They were carrying out capital development work on a loan which was repayable over a period of from 24 to 30 years. There was nothing wrong about a simple instalment plan, especially when it kills any necessity to overburden the taxpayers at a time when they might not be able to stand up to such at the same time. It is to provide the country with the opportunity to advance and prosper thus making the repayment of their loans simple and easy to bear.

Mr. Norton said that there was one thing in particular that the Coalition Government could forever be well proud of—that was the fact that they, and they alone took the gun out of Irish politics. They abolished the conditions under which many Irish political prisoners were left to rot in Irish jails all over the country. They opened the gates of those prisons and set the men free to go and abandon the method of the gun and look to the Constitution and they thus ended a tragedy that had been going on for the past twenty years. Continuing the fight the Labour Party referred to was indeed a tragic one in the history of Ireland—a period when men were taken out and put up against the wall and shot for the simple reason that they stood firm in their principle to the Irish Republic, long after so many had forgotten all about it. Not a bark of a gun had been heard in this country amongst Irishmen since the Labour Party Government took over nearly four and a half years ago.

Thank God said Mr. Norton we stopped all of that. We abolished the excursions of a British expeditionary force to Ireland and our country became a peaceful one and one in which we relied entirely on Constitutional methods to get whatever freedom we wanted. Mr. Norton said that when they came into office, they had to face a huge task which entailed building up the nation to its proper standing and at the same time with the other hand they had to clear the bad mess created by the policy of Fianna Fail over so many years. He said that no matter what their opponents were trying to put over on the people of this country, the majority would have to realise that during the three and a half years of the Coalition Government, they were governed by a true representation of the people and had taken a really substantial step in the path of stability and progress.

Mr. Norton went on to deal with the budget pointing out that it was the most brutal, taken a really substantial step in the path of stability and progress.

Dungarvan's Annual Eucharistic Procession

Striking and inspiring scenes of devotion and adoration were afforded at the Annual Eucharistic Procession held in Dungarvan on Sunday last under ideal weather conditions.

As the time for the commencement of the procession approached the various sodalities and confraternities in very large numbers took up their allotted positions along Mitchell Street and as the Blessed Sacrament borne in a beautiful monstrance by Very Rev. T. Canon O'Brien, P.P. V.F. our beloved Parish Priest assisted by Rev. Fr. Creed and Rev. Fr. Dee (who had been ordained previously in the day at Mount Mellery Abbey) emerged from St. Mary's Parish Church the processionists moved off under perfect marshalling along the flag and bunting bedecked route around the town.

Hymns, played by the Dungarvan Brass and Reed Band under Mr. M. Clancy were sung and recited with fervent devotion in this great public demonstration of faith and worship of the Blessed Sacrament by the people of Dungarvan and Abbeyside as they marched along.

Arrived at the Square the huge concourse knelt in silent adoration as Benediction was imparted and then the procession reformed and proceeded along Main Street, Church Street and Convent Road back to the Church gates where Benediction was again imparted.

As the Sacred Host was borne back to the Church the magnificent assembly sang Faith of Our Fathers to bring to a conclusion one of the finest processions held in Dungarvan for many years.

A big number of priests from the parishes of Dungarvan, Abbeyside, Kilgobnet and Ring were present.

Those who went to such pains to decorate their houses and the streets along the route of the procession are to be complimented for the fine way in which they prepared the town for this very august occasion.

FIANNA FAIL MEETING
Mr de Valera in Dungarvan

Speaking at a largely attended public meeting in the Square, Dungarvan on Thursday, June 12th an Taoiseach Mr. Eamon de Valera said that he hoped the people of County Waterford would realise that this election was most serious. There were grave issues at stake and the ordinary people should take a keen interest in public affairs. Public affairs are the affairs of the ordinary man and unless he regards them as such then the future of the State would be endangered. Because people had not taken an interest in public affairs in other countries they lost their national and their freedom.

Mr. de Valera urged all to study the position very carefully and to bear in mind that Fianna Fail had been ruling for the greater number of years and many of them of the younger generation could regard themselves as better able to judge the conduct of any Government and 'indeed' he added 'we ought to be able to make up our minds which of their programmes is the right one and which is not.' The policy of Fianna Fail was still the same as what it was when it was founded and all could go back to the speeches ever made by them during the past 20 years of their existence and see that the policy they preached was the same as that of Sinn Fein, because when those who took the Treaty departed from the policy of Sinn Fein Fianna Fail was founded to put that policy into effect. They had been the national and progressive party since then.

Mr. de Valera said that the proof was to be seen everywhere of the soundness of that policy and he referred to the electrical development, industrial development, agricultural development, housing, the advancement of social welfare, the setting up of scores of hospitals etc. etc. They had and still were putting the resources of the country to the utmost for the benefit of the people as a whole. They had to give them land during World War II they had to defend its rights politically and otherwise, against the efforts that were being made to use the country to her advantage. They had to win the secure the Constitution and win the right of the nation to remain the people of 25 millions that was part of the British Empire and land annuities. The farmers of this country he said knew the benefit of this action as it cut the payment of annuities by half.

Mr. de Valera went on to state that in the eight general elections which were held over the past 25 years the Fianna Fail Party had secured more support as one Party than all the other parties put together. That was said to mean that the people referred to their defeat in 1948 and said that this was brought about by the coalition of independents. He had always warned the people of Ireland against the Coalition Government and written in history that they were no good for a nation, and he pointed out that that was not hard to understand. Mr. de Valera asked how could men of such conflicting opinions work in pursuit of a well-defined object. There were too many speaking with different voices and all trying to serve their own parties. He said that in the Coalition Government Fine Gael was the major element and since the downfall of that Government the Fine Gael Party was indeed a sorry sight to anyone looking for consistency in public life. Fine Gael, he stated, had proved that it had no convictions, its spokesmen advocate one thing today and another tomorrow. They have not the fundamental conviction needed to give confidence to the people—example of men with a noble object in view who tried in every way to pursue that object.

An Taoiseach said that in 1948 the Fianna Fail Party had been accused of extravagance and being extravagant and so forth. He would like to point out he said that when Fianna Fail left office in 1948, their national debt was £265 millions whereas when the Coalition Government left office the debt was £100 millions. Allowing for the claims of the Coalition he said that the debt had increased by £222 millions so that instead of reducing the spending they had in actual fact greatly increased it. That was the Government, he said that promised to reduce the debt by £10 million. He said that they made use of fancy terms in trying to sell the people what they wish to put over what they wish to disguise and hide the fundamental truth. He recalled a time when the late Mr. Jim Larkin and his son, as well as Mr. Norton, stated that they would have nothing to do with Fine Gael, the party that was the reject of the people. Today the position was that these same men were trying to get the people to think that Fianna Fail was the reject party.

Mr. de Valera went on to state that when they left office in 1948 they had several plans ready to be put into operation. Many of these had been shelved

Catholic Scout Notes

June 20th Waterford Troop C.B.S.I. (St. Joseph's Abbey) Troop Meeting—Following the Scout Prayer the meeting began with the two P.L.s present handing in their reports on attendances. The other P.L.s arrived later except the Tiger P.L. who was said to be excused.

An inspection was held but no faults found with the uniforms were small.

At roll-call P.L.s were asked to give a report of good deeds done by their patrols recently. The idea behind it was to remind fellows there were such things as good deeds.

An outdoor game was played which brought in semaphore map-reading and other such things which scouts should know.

The patrols were asked to write down their ideas of a troop meeting programme. It might make an improvement if the P.L.s used these plans for their patrol meetings.

The SM informed the Troop that the Troop Chaplain congratulated them on last Sunday's programme.

After the Scout Prayer the C.O.H. was held.

The next Troop meeting will be held on Wednesday at 7.30 p.m. etc.

General—There are now about twenty names on the camp list so it's time for those few who have not signed up yet to start scribbling.

Some fellows are under the impression that cooking will be done by the patrol system in Camp they are wrong the cooking will be the same as usual.

Mick Hayes and R. Keating are playing the part 'Horatius' at the Bridge this year. It's the fellows you saw on Tuesday night last.

Paddy Feeney and Cyril Farrell are the two wise guys in the Troop when camp comes heap big heavy pockets.

Views Of Our Readers

(To The Editor) A Chára I wish to address a question to the Labour Party anyone can see that it is the aim of Fine Gael to get an over all majority. Have the Labour Party any guarantee that when the Fine Gael Party get that majority they will have any use to do with Labour? Everyone knows they will as they never had any use for the working man but to use him for their own ends. The sooner Labour gets away from Fine Gael the better for themselves. Fine Gael did wrong things but was the only Party to do anything for the workers and the small farmer. If Fine Gael got their way they would ruin the poor people as they are all for the big shots and have no use for the plain people but to get their votes at the election. I appeal to Labour to look out before it is too late. Is mise.

"A WORKING-MAN"

(To The Editor) Dear Sir—Remours set foot by Fianna Fail Agents are circulating in the general area that the Labour Party has been sold out to the Fine Gael Party and that should a general election take place as a result of the present bye-election the Gael will gobble up the Labour Party in like way to what happened to the former Farmers Party. At election time such propaganda is to be expected. Nevertheless we feel it desirable that all Labour supporters that they have my personal assurance that our Party are standing now and always as a separate distinct Party with its own policy and programme. Any understanding we have with Fine Gael in this bye election is that of a common wish by our united effort to defeat Fianna Fail and force the general election and thus give the people of the country a chance of giving their views on the withdrawal of portion of the food subsidies. After we have achieved that much desired object the Labour Party remains unattached to any policy or programme not founded on the teachings of the late James Connolly and will continue to struggle to get to the bottom of the cause for which he laid down his life for a 32-County Ireland. The Labour Party was founded in 1912 and has continued to hold its own policy throughout all the years. The old Cumann Na nGaedheal Party did not swallow them from 1922-1932 neither did Fianna Fail from 1932-1947. It is not very likely that any new set up will cause the Labour Party to waver from its aims or objects. Do not let Fianna Fail Agents talk get any Labour supporters to be foolish enough to fall for the claim that Fianna Fail has the support of the people beyond using their votes to hold them in power—Yours sincerely T. A. KYNE, T.D.

BOOKS WORTH READING

(Selected by Thomas Tobin)

"Broadcasting & Television Since 1900" by Maurice Gorman, published by Andrew Dakers at 18. This is the first book to tell the amazing story of British broadcasting and television in all their aspects from the time when the idea of broadcasting first disentangled itself from its origins in wireless telegraphy, down to the Beveridge Report of 1951. It recalls the first radio programmes from the whole vast field now covered by broadcasts of thirty years, as well as the many colourful radio personalities. It tells the dramatic story of television and traces the steps by which the British system of radio and television comparing it with those adopted by other countries, and for the first time gives the thrilling account of how broadcasting went to war. Finally it surveys the whole vast field now covered by the BBC and its competitors and forecasts the future of broadcasting in vision and sound.

There is probably no one better fitted to write this story, for the author has first-hand knowledge of many of the events that he describes. Maurice Gorman spent twenty-one years in the BBC doing such varied jobs as editing the "British Times" directing British war-time broadcasts to America and an Anglo-American service for Eisenhower's troops and starting the Light Programme and the post-war Television Service. Whilst not attempting to conceal his own opinions of the merits and demerits of British broadcasting in its different phases he writes as an historian, viewing the rise of an important new medium which will remain one of the outstanding achievements of the present century.

The publishers of this book have long been known for their superb historical publications. Their latest addition to their proud list certainly lives up to the Dakers reputation. The book is one which should have a place in every public library for it has terrific educational values.

"Twilight Star" by Rebecca Marsh published by Andrew Daker Ltd, at 8/6. Nan Taylor had grown up on the respectable side of Twilight, a Californian harbour city and had followed the customs of its respectable residents by going to college and then becoming secretary to a big importer. Among her beaux was the boy next door and a teller in a local bank, and it was taken for granted that she would marry one of them. However, in a short time she had become a home of her own—in short, she had become a widow and a mother. It is a story of a woman's life that her ancestors had known.

But Nan had other ideas. The other side of the town beckoned her—the carnival side, where children rode on the carousels and men performed dare-devil feats on motor-cycles. A girl rather than grow old without ever knowing the thrills of such adventure, she bought up the carriage pony-ride concession and crossed the street into Wondertown. A most enjoyable story.

"The Glass Spear" by Sidney Hobson Courtier published by Andrew Daker Ltd, at 8/6. Eileen Lennox, a fabulous mystery woman of the Australian ranch of Kinie Ger has not emerged from her locked room for years. No one has ever seen her during that time, and her only contact with the other occupants of the house is via the housing telephone by which she had dominated the lives of her three wards, Dick Thewan, Jay Lenseil and Steve Danes.

When Dick returns to Kinie Ger after the war, he finds that Huldah is trying to force Jay to marry Herman Carpentary, a former outlaw who has recently and mysteriously been made manager of the ranch. Before Dick can penetrate the web of hatred and intrigue in which Jay is caught there is a strange and brutal murder soon followed by other violent deaths—all uncannily tied up to the weird and frightening rites of the native Bushmen.

"The Glass Spear" is an exciting psychological drama whose unending tension of mystery is almost worthy of comparison with the great story from Sidney Hobson Courtier's pen and a worthy achievement for the farseeing publishers.

"Ireland for Everyman" by H. P. H. is a new revised edition that has just been published by Messrs M. Dent & Sons, Ltd, at 7/6. The Everyman guides have been long established as models of their kind and this particular one on Ireland is especially worth reading. It is no ordinary guide—far from it. It is more of an armchair tour of the Emerald Isle. It is a book which should be taken from the bookshelf and placed in the pocket for ready reference by the tourist visiting Ireland and for the Irishman touring his own country. The same suggestion applies.

In the junior soft ball doubles Munster Finals at Horse and Jockey last Sunday our two local lads Maguire and Sullivan entered the arena against the two All-Ireland Champions McCarthy and Moriarty to have the first tilt at a title for Waterford in a good many years. At the commencement Teddy and Maguire showed good promise in leading as far as 15-9 but there the Kerry boys brought superior alley craft into play to win the first game. The second game again raised our hopes with our lads leading 17-13 and again the Kerrymen showed their skill finishing the rubber 21-15 21-17 21-6.

While it must be remembered that for their first year in training it was no small feat for Fiddy Sullivan and Maguire to enter the Munster Finals, to meet the All-Ireland Champions of last year and it proves now that the champions had their hands full in the first two games.

In the minor singles the Lismore lads played the champion Moss O'Connell, Kerry, neck and neck making it a game ball each in the first game but the luck fell to Kerry in the second game young Doherty ran up a good score and held the Champion steady but here again alley craft came into play to bring the Kerry boy home with 21-20 21-15. It was no soft day for Kerry as was expected, they had to go all out to win from Waterford and just scrape it out of the fire against Tipperary in the senior softball doubles. Waterford's defeat must be placed at the disadvantage of no back wall to our alley.

Co. Waterford Vocational Education Committee

Irish Scholarships Awarded

An Fear Mor, Vice-Chairman, presided at the monthly meeting of the above held in Dungarvan, on Monday evening last. Messrs M. H. O'Hara, T. O'Faolain, J. Mansfield, D. Leahy, T. McCarthy, M. Creagh and N. Walsh were present.

When the Press representatives arrived for the meeting the usual Press tables were not there and before they had been provided the Committee were discussing the fifth item on the agenda.

Irish Scholarships Awarded
As a result of an oral and written examination the following twenty students of the Committee's schools were awarded Irish scholarships at Ring College. The awards were made in order of merit—

Mary Meehan, Ring, John Hurley, Carvan, T. Catherine Walsh, Eileen Flannan, Dubh Carrraig, Araglen, Marjorie Meaney, Drumroe, Cappoquin, M. Keane, Cahernaleague, Ballinamult, Con O'Donovan, Ballyteary, Araglen, Eugene Edgewood, M. Mary Moloney, Flower Hill, Ballyduff, Patricia Mulcahy, King St, Abbeyside, Alice Hannon, Knockanore, Ballyduff, M. Daly, Shandon, Dungarvan, Imelda O'Donovan, Station House, Ballyduff, David McGrath, Boolavon, Alice Power, Hill, KilmacThomas, Myra Barron, Ballincoush, Brigit Houlihan, do Patk, Crothy, Ballymacarbury, Henry Dunphy, Knocknagrang, Richard Tobin, Ring.

It was decided in case any of the foregoing did not avail of the scholarships to award them to those next on the list.

Reports from St. Mary's College of Domestic Science, Dublin on holders of Scholarships in Domestic Economy were read. The report in the case of Miss Margaret Walsh, KilmacThomas, stated that her progress was excellent but in the case of another student from the Committee's schools the report stated that her general education was poor and her progress at the college was also poor.

The CEO explained that when this student got the scholarship there was no competition and she had done the usual examination and qualified. He added that her further stay at the College would be governed by the results of an examination being held at the present.

O'Faolain and Mr. Creagh said that when the girl settled down she might do better as this was only her first year in the college.

A letter from the College intimating that Miss Mary Sweeney Cappoquin had passed her Hotel Cookery Course and had secured a position at a hotel in Galway.

Mr. Walsh remarked "Up Cappoquin" and Mr. Creagh said that when the girl settled down she might do better as this was only her first year in the college.

Permission to erect the Mobile School at KilmacThomas was received from the County Council. It was decided to accept the quotation for the Irish Public Bodies Mutual Insurance for fire coverage on the school for £800 at 30/- per annum for a five years period.

Other items
Permission was granted to P. O'Faolain to teach at the annual Irish course to be held at Newcastle Co. Tipperary in July.

The CEO stated that the Rural Building Construction Course was now in progress at Ballinacree. Several members stated that generally the opinion was that this was a very satisfactory course.

When an application from the Engineering Institute for permission to purchase files for his classes at £10 came up Mr. Mansfield mentioned a plastic car model which he saw at the recent Dublin Show and said that he thought it would be a big help in teaching students the mechanics of the engine could be plainly seen and followed.

Understood he said, that the cost was around £12.

Other members agreed that it would prove most useful and the purchase of the files and the model car were approved.

Provisional sanction for the holding of the Irish Course at Ardmore in July was granted.

On the proposal of Mr. Creagh a sincere vote of sympathy was passed to the Hennebery family and to Mr. T. O'Faolain on the death of his aunt, Mrs. Hennebery Portlaw.

Mr. O'Faolain thanked the Committee for their kind expression of sorrow.

Dungarvan U. D. C.

Tributes To Late Mr Pats O'Donnell

Date Fixed For Annual Meeting

Mr. T. Lannen, Chairman, presided at a meeting of Dungarvan Urban District Council held at the Town Hall on last Friday night. Messrs N. Kelly, M. J. Keane, T. McCarthy, T. Lee, and Senator J. Butler, were present.

Mr. M. O'Meara, Acting Town Clerk was in attendance.

Late Mr Pats O'Donnell
Mr. Kelly said that as all members knew, the death of Mr. Pats O'Donnell had taken place suddenly that evening, and by his death he had lost one of the greatest Gaels who had ever stood in Waterford. The late Pats O'Donnell he said had played for Dungarvan for Waterford and for Munster, and his heart and soul had always been tied up in the G.A. By his death Mr. Kelly said, that the G.A. and the country had lost a good man and he proposed that the members stand in a minute's silence as a mark of respect.

The Chairman speaking in feeling terms said—"It was indeed a great shock to the death of Mr. Patrick O'Donnell. Pats was as familiarly known to me as to any of the people always gentle and from ways a smile and a kind word. The memory of his presence on the football field is still fresh in our minds. It is hard to realize he has gone to his reward. To his wife we offer our deepest sympathy in her great loss."

The Chairman associating himself with the expression of sympathy said that he knew Pats O'Donnell to be a very kind man and a good neighbour and his sudden and untimely death came as a great shock. His widow he said must be suffering a very great grief and he hoped that the Council's sympathy on behalf of the people of Dungarvan would help in some way to lighten her great sorrow.

Mr. McCarthy said that he had been shocked when he heard the terrible news as he had seen the late Pats O'Donnell the previous day looking his usual healthy and smiling. He knew Pats he said for a long time when he helped the Dungarvan Club and the County to win many matches. The funeral which took place to a very sad death as he knew the late Mr. O'Donnell as a very kind gentleman and a good citizen and his death has come as a terrible blow to his widow and family.

Mr. Lee and Mr. O'Meara also associated themselves with the vote of sympathy which was then passed in respectful silence.

ESB Meters
Mr. Lee drew attention to the fact that the people who were on the fixed rate of 1/2 per week with the ESB in Loughmore could only pay their bills on a certain day now while they could pay any day before. He hoped that they will wish to see more of these excursions coming along to see us during the 1952 summer season, and they can be sure of a very hearty welcome.

GA Junior Football Championship
The game was well contested from start to finish, and was played in a good sporting manner. The Ardmore men won the game by a fairly good attendance present, and included some of the survivors of the one-time famous Ardmore football team.

Now that the Ardmore men have their first match, they hope that they will wish to see more of these excursions coming along to see us during the 1952 summer season, and they can be sure of a very hearty welcome.

New MO For Ring
In their recent appointments the various vacant medical posts the appointments Commission have appointed Dr. Anne Casey to the Ring Dispensary district. Dr. Casey is well and popularly known in her native Ardmore. She is the eldest daughter of Mrs. Foley and the late Dr. M. A. Casey of Dungarvan. We welcome Dr. Anne Casey to Ring, and we feel sure that she will be very happy amongst the kindly and happy people of the district.

A Good Greyhound
At the recent trials at Shelbourne Park Dublin the good greyhound "Jimmaril" jointly owned by William Hennessey, Ardmore, and Mrs. M. Casey, Co. Kildare (nee Mary Byron, Ardmore), had a great win with the result that immediately after the trial Mr. Hennessey sold the dog for £280. Mr. Hennessey is very popular in all sporting circles in this area and on behalf of all his friends we offer him and Mrs. Casey our best congratulations and hope that this will be only one of the many successes in store for them.

Troy School Of Dancing Successes
At Dungarvan Pats I did last week pupils of the above talented school secured no fewer than 3 cups, 99 medals and numerous certificates including Dungarvan pupils of the same school.
