A GOOD JOB!

WHAT CONSTITUTES A "GOOD JOB" ? Good rates of pay — ample opportunity for advancement - security of employment! Judged by any standard a term of service

TAKE THE MATTER OF PAY There is no doubt that the new rates of Army pay compare favourably with those obtainable in comparable employment in civil life. A recruit for instance, on first joining is paid £2 2 0 per week. As a trained soldier his pay increases to £2 16 0 On promotion to Corporal he earns £3 6 6 a week Since food clothing and accommodation in the Army are free, a sum of not less than £2 0 0 can be added to these rates to arrive at a true comparison How many young men of 17 or 18 years can start a civilian career in jobs worth

THEN WHAT ABOUT THE PRUSPECT OF ADVANCEMENT? In the Army there is ample scope and opportunity for advancement Within the past 12 months there

★ By any standard a term of service with the Forces "ADDS UP TO A GOOD JOB"

have been over 600 promotions to and within the Non-Commissioned ranks

AND FINALLY - in the Army there is absolute security of employment
