THE FENIAN RISING—IV

In last week's installment we had reached the stage where the landing party 32 in number came jubilantly ashore from the "Erin's Hope" at Mweelnahorna, Ring after having boarded the fishing smack of Paid Mor O Faolain of Ballingoul Their jubilation, however, was short-lived as a coastguard had observed the landing from the Helvick Head Station and his suspicions were immediately aroused at seeing such a large number of men coming off the brigantine and got into my boat I should say there were more than twenty Browne handed me two sovereigns but I did not know where he got them Having parted company with the vessel we hoisted our sails and made for shore I landed them on the Ring strand outside the pier at Ballinagoul The men in the boat were speaking Irish and English When they were leaving the boat one of them gave me a sovereign?

It is supposed that the music attracted the boa on board and being disturbed, it must have found its way into the hold as the hatches were off at the time and concealed itself among the cargo, where it was not dis-covered until the ship was well on her voyage home. When she arrived in dock the question arose as to how it was to be captured but it was successfully accomplished. The reptile was about eight or nine feet in length, and as thick as the calf of a man's leg

This report is taken from an Irish newspaper of June 5th 1876 which does not, however, recount how the capture was accomplished On another occasion however when a similar incident occurred, the snake was trapped by a tea-chest being inverted over him Perhaps the crew of the "Suspense" managed in the same way for they were very likely to have had an empty "Musgrave s' chest empty "Musgrave s ches aboard Certainly they were cer tain to have had on board a full chest of Musgrave Tea for these famous blends have been fav-ourites in Ireland for the greater part of a century
