Did you know?

The Cromiech

The first traces to be found in this part of the world of the activity of primitive man consist in the uses to which he put these erratic blocks of granite called Cromlechs In the time of St Patrick they appear to have been objects shrouded in mystery and awe Excavation has shown that they are sepulchral monuments built over graves which no doubt contained the bodies of great warriors and kings. There has been much speculation as to how the builders managed without modern machinery to place so large a stone weighing in some instances as much as 80 tons on top of the supporting stones. Some authorities, however, hold that these large granite boulders, far from having been moved by prehistoric man, were placed in position by the glaciers of the Great Ice Age

Poems Of "Heather Bell'-

MAYOURNEEN Oh, as white and as fair was Mayourneen's calm brow As the tall stately lily-bell's chalice of snow As the soft feathery foam on the moon-lighted fountain, And as pure as the snow on the crest of the mountain

Have you seen the sweet violet that lies in the shade Concealed in the depths of the dear-haunted glade Oh as modest and mild and as dusky the hue In the soft dreamy depths of her pensive eyes blue

Her long dusky tresses in wavy showers hung Like a dark silken cloak o er her fair shoulders flung And the wild apple blossom alone could compare With the rose pink and white of her dimpled cheeks rare

How fair is the sunset at eve to behold As it tinges the waves of the ocean with gold Just as fair was the smile on Starrett and Smiley Burnette Mayourneen's sweet face So tender the beauty—so winning its grace

Her rippling laugh rang like the clear sounding rills Or music of silver bells heard on the hills, Now lonely and long do I listen again Stay Winter Oh stay in thy dark shrouded gloom Retire not at sight of the but love is blind !!! Springtide's young bloom Blow louder ye wild winds your sad music drear brings to my ear

For the Spring shall bring back all the violets again And the gold of the sunset shall smile on the main But frozen in death is bright smile she wore the And her blue eyes soft
