Sergeant Describes Hearing Cry For Mercy

The story of a series of assaults which took place in the vicinity of Grattan Square and Main Street, Dungarvan, on the night of July 15th was told at Dungarvan District Court on Wednesday when three local men charged with assaulting two women from the neighbourhood...

Before the Court were William Terry, Cathal Brugha, James Edward Daly, Michael Duggan, and Michael Duggan, 27, Caseyville, Dungarvan, and each charged on three counts with unlawfully assaulting the two women...

Justice - He is very arrogant and looks as if he wants to go to jail. Mr. Thomas Lannon was then called and he said that he was a member of the County Council and had been employed for the past 10 years. Football Champions Topple

Abbeyside Fail To Stop Mount Sion

S.F.—Stradbally 1-3; Kilrossanty 0-4
S.H.—Mount Sion 6-8; Abbeyside 3-7

THE double-decker programme arranged by the Co. Board for the Gaelic Field, Dungarvan, in which a semi-final in each of the County senior football and hurling championships was contested drew a huge attendance on Sunday last. Conditions were ideal with warm sunshine tempered by the mildest of breezes and everything pointed to a thrilling evening's sport.

In the football semi-final Stradbally, who have been in the doldrums since that great team brought them such form in the early forties, were making no secret of their high ambitions and ability to take the crown from their while in the hurling semi, Abbeyside, who have always proved a thorn in the Mount Sion side, left this was their year.

The football game opened on a high note and it was early evident that the Cove men meant business. They were very fit and tackled with success and strength. As the game progressed they were more and more confident. The champions, however, were not to be taken for granted. They were a well-balanced team and their shooting boots at home. Kilrossanty were a spent force and but a shadow of the great green and gold that brought many a title to the Comeragh stronghold. Even when they looked like coming to terms and when the old battle cry came up "everybody in it" it sounded only like an echo.

Early expectations of a good game were heightened as the hour progressed and Kilrossanty found their crown slipping. The exchange became a topsy-turvy affair and eventually the game developed into a dog-fight with no quarter being asked or given.

Stradbally were deserving winners and now await the outcome of the Ardmore-Mount Sion semi-final next Sunday to decide who will take the title for 1961.

THE HURLING GAME
A crippling set-back in the opening few minutes of the hurling semi-final saw Abbeyside completely demolished by a well-organised and powerful Mount Sion side who were short of a few players.

Stradbally Topple The Champions
In an exciting first half which was void of action up to the 20th minute, but in which two goals had miraculously and late-arrived escapes, Stradbally led two minutes to the interval. Lead over champions Kilrossanty and the game had all the ingredients of a really first-class thriller.

Stradbally had two well taken points in this period and held that lead at the interval. The champions were not at all happy leaving the field at half-time as the possibility that they would lose their crown was glaringly evident. There was a feeling of resentment amongst the players which boiled over in the Kilrossanty camp during the interval and this did not look too good for a team who, going into the second half were being led by two points and who were hard pressed in the last ten minutes of the previous half.

Supporters who were looking forward to a really first-class second half must have been utterly disappointed as the game progressed. The football became scrappy and at times sub-standard. The man and let the ball look after itself. Needle exchanges between players led to the cause of two outbursts and two players from each side were sent to the bin. However, in our view, the real offenders were not punished at all, and looked as if they could do what they liked on the field.

Stradbally had a goal and a

Champions On Top In Hurling Semi-Final

Three fast goals in the space of four and a half minutes and Mount Sion were handily on their way to victory. They were taking no chances, especially with their hurling, but at stake. A blow such as this would knock the steam out of any opposition but Abbeyside approached the long tradition of hurling teams from the village, battled on valiantly against overwhelming opposition. Sion, who are regarded as unorthodox champions of Ireland never let up and continued at full stretch throughout the hour, but it was not so. To the end they battled adding two goals and four points to their total. Mount Sion is playing with two goals and five points in a rather lively second Abbeyside whom it was thought could stretch the champions in a close final, failed in this respect, but gained honour and respect. As the game progressed, Sion were supreme, playing with the confidence expected of them as champions. In the second half when Abbeyside applied pressure their defence was one of the best seen in the village forwards being on the mark with their shooting, then they were ready to take the ball and could well have had a busy time. At midfield M. Sion's pair of Mick Dempsey and Mike Power had a busy hour during the challenge of the village pair Dan Barry and Mike Kelly. The champions had the better of the exchanges in this respect, but the game was not M. Sion's best player on view, was there here and everywhere.

Best for Abbeyside in defence were Noel McGovern, Austin Flynn, John Brown and Mike Kelly. In attack Johnny Hogan had a good game and was ably assisted by John Whelan, who was very popular among the boys. Tommy Landers and Pete Clancy.

Best in defence for M. Sion were Fred O'Brien, Jim Hurley, Mick Gallagher, John Phelan and Tommy Hennessy.

Thomas Hogan had a great game between the posts, for he saved many a goal. The PLAY
The first three minutes of play Larry Guinan had a M. Sion goal. One minute later the champions scored another major score. A half minute later Semus Power sent in a long high lobbing ball which hit the goalpost and rebounded for a soft third goal. Three and a half minutes later, Philly O'Dea sent in a high lobbing ball which hit the goalpost and rebounded for a soft third goal.

After the resumption of the game, the champions broke away first and Noel Kelly had a point from the field after one minute. Encouraged by this they continued to attack and after two minutes they were in a free and the same player pointed from the kick to the goal. In the 10th minute, Jimmy Guilty gave them a two point lead when he had a minor goal. Stradbally led two points to nil at the interval.

Tallow and Round About Notes

Farm Sold—The farm and residence at Liffinty, Tallow, owned by Mr. Robert Smith has been sold to an English buyer. The old Geraldine Castle of Lisfinny which stands adjacent to the dwelling-house on the farm, was the scene of an episode in the Land War when Jasper Douglas Pym, M.P., who was wanted by the R.I.C. for sedition took up his abode in the uppermost part of the old keep.

The castle was guarded day and night by the forces of the Crown. Food was smuggled up through the roof by the R.I.C. for sedition took up his abode in the uppermost part of the old keep. Mr. Pym succeeded in making his escape and this is how it happened. On a dark night he slipped through the roof and hid in the hay. The R.I.C. men searched the house but did not find him. He was later seen in the town and he was arrested. He was held in the town and he was later released.

Thirty years ago... WHEN THE SWEEPSTAKES BEGAN

The Stone Breaker
The Stone Breaker was a common sight along the roads of Ireland, sitting on top of a pile of stones, his hammer banging away in its strange rhythm. His job was to break up the large stones and reduce them to a suitable size for metalling the surface of the road. Although his eyes were covered with heavily meshed glasses he missed little that passed his way.

Doctor Felix Kersten, the man whose powerful influence over Hitler's diabolical Gestapo, saved whole populations from deportation and the horror of the gas chambers, rescued many of our nation's Jews from the grip of the swastika and the death camps. This startling revelation is set forth in a new book, "The Story of Felix Kersten," which will be published in The Sunday Press commencing next Sunday.
