PENSMAN takes you Behind the Spotlight

MOST WORTHY CAUSE
During the coming week and in the months and years ahead a new era will be made on the charity of the people of not only Dungarvan and district but the entire West Waterford and East Cork areas. It will be a call to which a few have already responded but which for the majority has not as yet readily been registered. A call will go out from the penman's desk and should be heard by every reasonable person, and it is hoped that the class concerned is of a reasonable, responsible community.

The call is for financial assistance for the setting up of a new five-day residential school for mentally handicapped children in Cappoquin. The school will greatly assist more than sixty mildly retarded children in the area within a 25-mile radius of the Cappoquin town.

ST. AUGUSTINE'S COLLEGE P.P.U. ANNUAL MEETING AND DINNER

The Thirtieth Annual Reunion of Past Pupils was held in St. Augustine's College, Dungarvan, on Sunday last. The president Mr. Shaun Murphy, Cork, said that there was a feeling of unity and comradeship in the school, where children will be informed in a suitable and constructive fashion on all aspects of careers or education. A considerable amount of what is involved and not rush forward blindly towards one career because of the status or sturdiness of another because of some imaginary stigma.

A SHAMEFUL ACTION

A few weeks ago an act of utter vandalism which only came to my notice when the past couple of days and which deserves public condemnation occurred in Dungarvan. It appears that a well-known member of the Urban Council town staff who is also a member of the Fire Brigade left his bicycle in the main street against the side of his house at Congress Villas. Sometime afterwards the bicycle was found in a wrecked condition in a field near Killybegs. The tyres and tubes had been slashed on both wheels and one of the wheels had been badly buckled after having been apparently derailed.

FISH LANDINGS

A schedule of figures sent to the Minister by Mr. John B. Wright, Public Relations Officer, Dungarvan, shows a break-down of the value of sea-fish landings at fishing ports in the county in 1964. It is a record of the total value of these landings was £1,565,000 which was an increase of £91,000 over the previous year.

RECEIPTS AND TURNOVER

Replying to the report of the Dungarvan Branch of the C.I.V. O.S.A., Mr. Power, O.S.A., emphasized the importance of teaching Civics as a subject in all schools. The Department of Education had intended including Civics as a compulsory subject in the curriculum of secondary schools. It was long overdue and was being introduced into the educational programme. Civics meant training our children to be good citizens. It was a subject for a series of lessons in patriotism. In showing us how to live and work for our country, it is an achievement of the past and present.

NEED FOR CIVICS

Replying to the report of the Dungarvan Branch of the C.I.V. O.S.A., Mr. Power, O.S.A., emphasized the importance of teaching Civics as a subject in all schools. The Department of Education had intended including Civics as a compulsory subject in the curriculum of secondary schools. It was long overdue and was being introduced into the educational programme. Civics meant training our children to be good citizens. It was a subject for a series of lessons in patriotism.

MEMBERSHIP

Appalling for an increase in membership Mr. Power said: "Since we formed the Society in 1961 we have secured a membership of nearly 300 and the very best thing a member can do for our Society is to get at least one new member."

GUESTS

Guests at the dinner included Very Rev. T. A. Hunt, O.S.A., Australia, former Provincial of the Australasian Province, Rev. J. Dougherty, O.S.A., Nigeria, and Rev. T. Power, O.S.A., Australia Provincial.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS AT DUNGARVAN SHOW SOCIETY'S A.G.M.

A note of sadness marked the opening of the address of Mr. P. Power, President, to the Annual General Meeting of the Dungarvan Show Society held at the Hotel Ormond when he mentioned the number of absent members of the Society who had died in the past twelve months.
