SLOW TO TOURISM

The first big holiday week-end of the summer season has come and gone and as far as weather conditions were concerned it could hardly have been better. It was clear skies and warm sunshine all the way and people were not slow to appreciate the fact that the weather had taken for the better as they trooped out-of-doors to sporting fixtures, the beaches, to the peaceful quiet of their own back gardens.

As a result there was a return to work on Tuesday bearing evidence of the great outdoors in the form of fairs of various shades and intensity.

But one feature of the holiday which was conspicuous by its absence was the usual number of GB plated cars. The first great influx would normally have begun with the outbreak of the British Seamen's strike over 10,000 people from Britain who had been stranded in the week-end here could not do so because of the strike. It is estimated that they would have brought with them out-cure to the British Seamen's strike who were stranded in the country and unless there is an early settlement, which appears extremely unlikely, the strike will be a very serious blow to the tourist industry. Hoteliers and guest house owners are already describing the position as grave and one that is going to get worse day by day as the strike continues. The principal tourist resorts are likely to be especially badly hit and it is reported that in the case of the hoteliers there were over 90 cancellations inside of a week.

The Fishguard-Rosario Fair has been advertised as a boon to the south-east region has meant a big loss to people in the tourist business all over the area. Besides the regular bookings from holiday makers a lot of which has been made in recent years are made in the form of the loss of the passing trade—the bed and breakfast brigade—who travel through the area in the summer months. Business in this sphere is very slack and many houses which in recent years have made extensions to gear themselves for this expanding trade find little or no demand for the accommodation they can provide.

Even with an early settlement of the strike there will be a loss, but if it lasts for any length it certainly will knock a big chunk out of the tourist trade. If the strike proves anything besides that it is a heavy dependence on the British market and that when things go wrong over there it is not until we get the breeze up here too.

STITCH IN TIME
If some repair work is not carried out to the seawall at the Fen in Aboyness soon a major job will be called for in the not too distant future. A number of stones have become detached and only require attention now with a trowel and a little cement to put matters right.

PAKEEN RETIRES
The arrival of the Whelan, Dungarvan who recently retired from the service had served his full term of forty years as a postman. Pakeen as he was popularly known was on the town route for several years prior to his retirement and had earlier served on all the delivery routes in the Dungarvan mail district.

As well as having a fine national record while serving with the P.R.A. during the war of Independence he was well-known as a sportsman having won several trophies for hurling and football.

On the occasion of his retirement Mr. Whelan was the recipient of a beautifully inscribed eight-day chiming clock which was presented by his colleagues.

In making the presentation the postmaster, Mr. Tom Collins, said that Mr. Whelan had given excellent service and had been a most efficient officer in his retirement which he hoped would be a long and happy one. He took with him the best wishes of all his colleagues.

Mr. Pakeen many years of health and happiness in his well-earned retirement. The picture of "Pakeen" on the rounds taken a few years ago

COUNCIL SHOULD HAVE ASKED LOCAL FIRMS TO QUOTE FOR JOB

Printed in London

Officials of Dungarvan Urban Council were criticised by several members of the council last night's meeting of the Council for failing to ask local printing firms to quote for the supply of new rent collection cards introduced recently and which were stated to have been printed in London.

Why Mr. Lee who raised the matter was told that it had cost about £40 to supply the cards to the Council's 512 tenants.

Mr. Lee then asked whether these cards printed in London when there are two printing offices in Dungarvan where they should have been set. These firms are paying rates here and the London firm does not. I think the whole thing is very unfair. We have been hearing on the T.V. and the radio to buy Irish, but here we are sending work out of the country which could be done at home.

Mr. P. Doyle, Town Clerk, explained that they saw the cards used in the system in another county and were told that it was a much more satisfactory system as it meant no receipts had to be issued. He understood that there was no one supplying the cards in this county so he got a quotation and then issued the order to the London firm.

Mr. Doyle said they're only a bit of cardboard and I'm sure they could be printed here.

Mr. Lannen, who was the local printing firm asked Town Clerk, Mr. Doyle, but I know they were not able to do them.

Mr. Lannen—Well the local firms should have been asked that but about the copyright business is played out now. All that need be done is to make a small change here and there and I'm sure the local people could supply a system equally as good.

Mr. T. Kynne, T.D., Chairman, said that the local firms should be asked to quote for the job.

Mr. Lannen—Well the local firms should be asked to quote for the job.

DUNGARVAN CREAMERY WANT MORE WATER FOR NEW PROJECTS

Further Developments Will Be Asset To Town

Developments planned by the Dungarvan Co-operative Creamery will give much increased employment and will be an asset to the town. This was stated in a letter from the Creamery read at last Friday night's meeting of Dungarvan Urban Council. Regarding a wide increase in their daily water supply from the Council's scheme at Ballinacorney.

The letter went on to say that in order to cope with milk supplies from other creameries which have been grouped into the Waterford Co-operative Creamery and the tremendous increase in milk production necessary to embark on a very large development programme.

"At the moment," it stated, "a new milk powder factory has been completed and is in production. This will be followed by a new, far bigger buttermilk factory and a new milk intake department. All will call for extra water supplies and the new estimate of requirements is 1,250,000 gallons per day or 110,000 gallons per day more than is being used at present."

MAXIMUM SUPPLY
Mr. P. Doyle, Town Clerk, said that the existing capacity of the existing scheme was 1,100,000 gallons per day and the maximum and the total annual output was 377 million gallons. Some discussion on the position had been held with the Creamery people already.

Mr. T. Lannen suggested that if necessary another bore-hole should be drilled at the site of the existing scheme at Ballinacorney. They should do everything possible to co-operate with the Creamery.

Mr. T. Kynne, T.D., Chairman, agreed, but asked whether the money for such a project was to come from the Council's funds. He said, "The banks have gone and the Government has gone."

Mr. T. Kynne then asked what it would cost to sink another bore-hole.

Mr. P. Doyle, Town Engineer, estimated the cost at £14,000 or so.

Mr. Lannen—Well I propose that we go ahead with it as it would be money well spent.

Mr. Kynne suggested that the County Manager have further talks with the Creamery to see if there was really a need for all the water they said they wanted. "It's a vast amount of water," he said, "and I think a lot is being wasted."

This was agreed and the Manager said he would discuss the position with the Creamery Management.

This was agreed and the Manager said he would discuss the position with the Creamery Management.

COUNCIL MEMBERS VOTE SYMPATHY TO DEPUTY FAHEY

Special Meetings of Waterford County Council and County Committee of Agriculture were held consecutively at the Court House, Dungarvan, last Friday evening to pass votes of sympathy to Mr. John Fahey, T.D., in the recent death of his mother.

The vote was seconded by Mr. T. Kynne, T.D. All the other members and the County Manager, Mr. C. A. O'Connell, associated themselves with the vote which was passed in a unanimous manner.

AGRICULTURAL MEETING
Mr. M. Harty proposed the vote of sympathy to Mr. Fahey, Chairman of the Board of Agriculture, Ireland, who died on the 2nd inst. Mr. Harty was seconded by Mr. P. Doyle, Town Clerk, and Mr. P. Conroy, C.A.O.

Votes of sympathy were also passed at a meeting of the County Committee of Agriculture, held at the Court House, Dungarvan, last Friday evening, presided over by Mr. P. Doyle, Town Clerk, and Mr. P. Conroy, C.A.O.

Mr. P. Doyle, Town Clerk, said that the existing capacity of the existing scheme was 1,100,000 gallons per day and the maximum and the total annual output was 377 million gallons. Some discussion on the position had been held with the Creamery people already.

N.F.A. COUNTY CHAIRMAN RE-ELECTED
When the Waterford County Executive held its eleventh meeting on the 2nd inst. at the Court House, Dungarvan, the County Chairman, Mr. John Fahey, was re-elected for a second year in office, while the Vice-Chairman, Mr. M. Harty, was also re-elected. Mr. Fahey was unanimously elected to continue as Secretary.

In the course of his report the Chairman outlined the difficulties of the recent campaign for increased milk prices and the lack of unity between producer organisations. This he deplored. As a member of the N.F.A. National Executive and of the team which had negotiated with the I.C.M.S.A. in an attempt to reach unity he was able to provide delegates with a clear picture of the background leading up to the present unfortunate situation and also to state the long-term drive for improved farm income, which has been the basis of the N.F.A. Review Team's negotiations with the Government.

Mr. Barry stressed that the Government had been made fully aware by N.F.A. of the absolute need for an increase in the price of milk together with the urgent need for assistance to other branches of the farm economy. He appealed to all members to give the utmost support to their leaders at the present time.

A CONSTRUCTIVE APPROACH
Of particular interest to the meeting was the address by Mr. E. Barnett, M.R.C.V.S., Livestock Consultant to N.F.A. Mr. Barnett was previously Chief Veterinary Officer to the Department of Agriculture for a number of years where he established an excellent reputation with his wide experience of livestock problems. He now spoke on the development of a discussion group jointly organised by the Health Executive and the C.A.O. of this country. These groups operate at branch level and provide a reception on the right-of-way serving Keating Street and Western Terrace, said that rusty corrugated iron and garden rubbish blocked it.

The backs of various Council housing schemes is in the hands of the Assistant C.M.O.,

The Town Engineer said that most of the right-of-way were overgrown and had filth and rubbish dumped in them. It would cost hundreds of pounds to clear them.

The Council decided to do nothing about clearing them at present as no money was available, but the County Manager is to follow up a suggestion that legislation might be introduced by the Minister to allow Councils to do away with these rights-of-way but adding the land to the gardens at the backs of each of the houses.
