PENSMAN takes you Behind the Spotlight

AFTERMATH
It is still only the eye of the by-election which has been reached by the time it has gone through the printing process and reaches you the election will have taken place and the results possibly declared. It was an intensely fought campaign which brought politicians from all over the country into the constituency. There were meetings at practically every cross-roads while people both going to and coming from Mass for the last two Sundays were subjected to amplified bombardment by one or other of the parties fighting for the seat.
So keen was the competition that at some venues there were clashes of interest, but in practically all cases it was a matter of first come first served, and there were no unseemly scenes which were so much part of political campaigning not so long ago.

CONGRATULATIONS

The young men who form the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Dungarvan are to be congratulated on the many articles they have been concerned with since the establishment of the Chamber and on least their latest undertaking in organising the very successful and profitable Exhibition and "Buy Day" Week in the town. The Exhibition was a real eye opener to the big number of workmen housed in the Town Hall to see the various stands as very few realised the extent of the industrial operations carried on by so many of the industrial and business concerns of the town. As the President of the Junior Chamber pointed out at the official opening of the Exhibition the combined annual turnover of the thirteen firms participating in the Exhibition totalled £7 million and this must surely be a big factor for contributing to the prosperity of the town and district.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

A man whose memory can go back with almost phenomenal clarity to the 1920's, Mr. J. J. O'Connell, who has recently retired from the office of the Development Association, has recalled old times and what many still call the good old days when he called to see me at the office recently. Reflecting on the construction of the new modern Supermarket beside our Office in O'Connell Street, he recalled that the only one who had been in the town at that time was a small shop on the corner of O'Connell Street and the market square. He recalled that the only one who had been in the town at that time was a small shop on the corner of O'Connell Street and the market square.

IN THE WORLD OF COUTURIERS

According to a Fashion expert writing in a recent issue of one of the leading magazines, the young country girl is beginning to hit the big spots in the realm of couturiere. The fashion world has become highly competitive in recent years. This is what the expert has to say, and I repeat this for the sole benefit of those who are interested in the matter.

DAILY THOUGHTS

There are a few more in our daily thoughts series for the coming week. December 10 There is no sense in always telegraphing to heaven for God to send a cargo of blessings unless we are at the wheel to unload the vessel when it comes. December 11 No act of love is ever lost. Whenever there is suffering God is at work. December 12 Pleasure is like treacle. Too much of it spoils the taste for everything. December 13 Happiness comes through quiet acceptance of the talent, temperament, and task that God has appointed. December 14 Patience is God's foster-daughter. December 15 Luck whines; labour whistles. December 16—True politeness is perfect ease and freedom. It simply consists of treating others as you love to be treated yourself.

A REQUEST

A request has come to me from a reader in Cork for the words of an old-time Dungarvan "Fifty Years Ago" which was published in the "Leader" on December 10, 1916. Perhaps some of my readers would be able to help us out by obtaining them.

BOYLES, O'Connell Street, Dungarvan

After many happy years of trading in the above shop, I would like to advise that I have recently sold my business to Mr. and Mrs. Michael Whelan. I would, therefore, like to record my sincere gratitude to my many customers and friends for their kind patronage in the past, and I would hope that the new owners can count on that support in the future.
