UNRULY MEETING

Last Monday night's meeting of Dungarvan Urban Council must surely go down as one of the most unruly and worst conducted meetings of the Council in many years. At times during the three hours which it lasted there was utter disorder and it was punctuated by roaring and shouting.

The trouble began when one of the members, councillor Wade, attempted to take control by insisting that the agenda for the meeting should be set aside to enable him to raise a matter which he claimed should receive priority over the listed agenda items.

The presiding Chairman, Mr. R. Walsh, allowed the initiative to be taken from the Chair and both he and Councillor Wade indulged in a most unedifying sequence during which the Council Chamber was filled with the raucous sound of shouting men.

If Councillor Wade felt as strongly about the issue as he wished to raise, and I have no doubts but that he did, he should have realised that certain procedures had to be followed and he should have observed them. On the other hand the Chairman was at fault in not controlling the meeting and also in allowing the discussions to develop into shouting matches so much so that at one stage it appeared that the only solution was to adjourn the entire proceedings.

It is a sad commentary on public administration that elected representatives should indulge in such disruptive actions especially when so many matters of vital importance for the town were listed for discussion. I hope that more common-sense and less heat and friction will prevail in future meetings and that the common interests of the townspeople will be discussed in a calmer, more responsible and more gentlemanly manner.

INCREASE IN ROAD DEATHS

According to the statistics recently released, the number of people who died on Irish roads last year was four hundred and fifty-eight, an increase of eleven on the previous year. Injuries from road accidents in 1969 totalled 9,476 which was a drop of 240 on the figures for 1968.

The frightening thing about the fatal figures, is that they show an ever-upward spiral and point towards the mounting problem of solving or at least reducing the incidence of road accidents.

In recent years a number of moves have been made in an effort to make the roads safer—the latest being the breathalyser test introduced in November but somehow none has had the desired effect.

Personally I believe that one of the greatest contributing factors to road deaths and to most of the serious accidents is speeding and if

OFF STREET PARKING PLANS FOR DUNGARVAN MOVE TO SOLVE TRAFFIC PROBLEMS

At their meeting last Monday night Dungarvan Urban Council considered the very comprehensive Traffic Management Report for Dungarvan prepared by Mr. J. D. Hally, County Engineer and following a discussion agreed to recommend to Waterford County Council the adoption of stage 1 of the report.

The discussion on the report which was marked item 5 on the agenda for the meeting at one stage developed into a howling shouting match between Mr. T. Wade and the presiding Chairman, Mr. R. Walsh.

Mr. Hally said that briefly the report contained a survey of the parking patterns in the town as it stood at the moment with projections for the future, including an estimate of the cost of implementing the recommendations it made.

He said that in the town centre there would be enough parking space for short term parkers coming to one hour if the long term parkers, people who brought their cars to work in the mornings and left them until lunch time and so on would go elsewhere. This was the most urgent problem to be tackled as the Guards were not anxious to proceed against parking offenders until alternative off street parking spaces were provided.

The immediate solution to the problem was the acquisition of the Scanlan's Yard and its conversion into a car park.

THE CONVICT OF CLONMEL

Here is another old ballad which has not so far been included in our collection. It is a translation by J. J. Callanan from the original Irish version:—

How hard is my fortune,
And vain my repining;
The strong rope of fate
For this young neck is twining.
My strength is departed,
My cheek sunk and pallid;
While I languish in chains
In the goal of Cluin Meala.

No boy in the village
Was ever yet milder;
I'd play with a child
And my sport would be wilder.
I'd dance without tiring
From morning till even,
And the goal ball I'd strike
To the lightning of heaven.

At my bed-foot decaying,
My hur-bur is lying;
Thro' the boys of the village
My goal ball is flying;
My horse among the neighbours
Neglected may follow,
While I pine in my chains,
In the goal of Cluin Meala.

Next Sunday the pattern
At home will be keeping,
And the young active hurlers
The field will be sweeping;
With the dance of fair maidens
The evening they'll hallow,
While this heart, once so gay
Shall be cold in Cluin Meala.

TRIBUTES TO RETIRING GENERAL MANAGER WATERFORD CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY

Presentation To Mr. Jim Foley

Mr. Jim Foley, B.Sc., Dairying, Dungarvan, who for the past sixteen years has been General Manager of the Waterford Co-operative Society, has retired from that position and to mark the occasion, a presentation was made to him of a Record Player at a function held by the Society at Lawlor's Hotel, Dungarvan, last Friday night. Mr. Foley's record of service with both Societies extends back over 34 years and as well as being General Manager of Waterford Co-operative Society he has been Managing Director, Kilmacadea Creamery and a director of Wexford Creamery. He has been active in the rapid expansion, modernisation and rationalisation of the Society's activities and was closely associated with the establishment of both Wexford and Kilmacadea Creameries. Mr. Foley has not completely severed his connection with the Society as he will continue to serve as Secretary to the Board and in this capacity the benefit of his experience will continue to be available to the Society for some time to come.

GLORIOUS TRIBUTES

The presentation was made on behalf of the Society by Mr. Thomas P. Walsh, Chairman, who paid glowing tributes to the work done on behalf of the Society by Mr. Foley since the amalgamation took place. Mr. C. Dempsey who associated himself with the Chairman's remarks said that Mr. Foley had always given of his best to the Society and always had the farmers' interests at heart. They were very fortunate, he said, that Mr. Foley had agreed to remain on as Secretary of the Society as in this way his great experience and wonderful advice would still be available to them.

REWARDS FOR TAGS ATTACHED TO SALMON

A great part of the life history of the salmon remains a mystery of the mysteries of Nature and tagging or marking of salmon by means of numbered tags is one of the methods used in probing it. The study of the recaptures of tagged salmon provides information on how fast they grow, where they wander, what proportion of the total population survives in the sea and finds its way home. Salmon are tagged at three stages of their life. Artificially reared and some naturally reared smolts are tagged a few weeks before they go to sea. The main purpose of this is to find out how many of them return to their parent river so that they can be used in the open sea or in estuaries have been tagged for many years on different parts of the Irish coast. The work has given much information on the local movements and the habits of the salmon which pass close to our shores and enter our rivers. In this way it has been shown that some salmon caught within a mile or two of our coasts are not native Irish fish but are on their way to Sweden.

CO-OPERATION SOUGHT

The collaboration of fishermen is therefore sought by the Department of Agriculture and Fisheries. Several types of tags may be found, one of which consists of a cartridge containing a message. Fishermen are requested to return these messages or any other type of tag with information as to the fisherman's name and address, date and place of capture, type of gear used, length of fish from tip of the snout to the fork of the tail and the weight as accurately as possible. Fishermen are asked also to scrape about 50 scales from the shoulder of the fish and send them with the other details. The Department has decided to increase the reward payable for such information from 5/- to 10/- for tags from Irish sources. The Department also desires to remind fishermen that salmon are better tagged in Greenland and elsewhere outside Ireland for experimental purposes; that some of these salmon are caught in our waters and that the required information and tag sent to the Department about such tagged salmon attracts a reward of 30/- per fish. So far there have been two recaptures in Ireland from taggings in Greenland waters.

VERY HAPPY OCCASION

Mr. Foley in his reply said that for him this was a very happy occasion and he expressed his deep appreciation of the gesture of the Board in making this presentation to him. He went on to say that he had made up his mind to retire as general manager because he was moving on in years and his health had not, in recent times, been up to the mark to enable him to cope with the exacting position of general manager. Mr. Foley then said that at all times he had got nothing but kindness from the members of the old and new committees of the Society and referred to the wonderful advance which the Society had made from an annual turnover of £100,000 to £5 million with an expanded development during the past 5 years. This, he added, had not been a one-man effort but was the result of teamwork in which Board and Management were involved. He described the Waterford Society as the best dairy in Ireland producing best quality products and said "you have a fantastic set-up here with a wonderful team and we can look forward to the 70's with confidence."

NEW MANAGEMENT STRUCTURE

With a view to expanding trading in the Agricultural Goods field, the Board announced at the function that in future the Society would operate as two divisions, Dairy and Trading, each under the control of a general manager. The newly-appointed General Manager of the Dairy Division is Mr. Stephen O'Connor, former

More about decimals
Knowing that 5 means a half, how do we find the decimal for a quarter and for three quarters? A quarter is, of course, half of a half. Divide .5 by 2 and we find it. The answer is .25. Remember the point and the fact that you can add ciphers after any decimal. For instance .5 or 10/- can be written as .50 as it will be in our new money system — meaning fifty pence. Three quarters or 15/- can be got by multiplying .25 — a quarter — by three, i.e. .75. Thus £1.55 will be written £1.25 £1.10s. will be written £1.50 and £1.15s. £1.75 the .25 .50 and .75 in each case standing respectively for 25, 50 and 75 new pence.

COUNTRY'S WELFARE IS BEING SUBORDINATED BY GOVERNMENT BECAUSE THEY FEAR POLITICAL EMBARRASSMENT

FINE GAEL LEADER IN DUNGARVAN

Mr. Liam Cosgrove, T.D., speaking at a meeting of the Waterford Constituency Executive of Fine Gael at the Friary Hall, Dungarvan, last Friday night said: "We have just heard yet another warning from the Central Bank that this country is on the brink of a grave economic crisis. It is a situation in which vigorous and clear leadership was called for from the government but this is not the case. Yet all the signs are that since the election this government has sat back with a feeling of extreme complacency and an apparent attitude that getting back to power despite a fall in the Fianna Fail Party's percentage vote is the equivalent of a licence to do nothing for the next four years. Whatever the economic difficulties ahead of us and whatever their cause it is very clear that the government's failure to act decisively on a number of key issues will aggravate those difficulties and will make subsequent recovery much more difficult than it need be. Economic needs and the welfare of the country are being subordinated because of fear of political embarrassment. "One case in point is the Devlin Report on the public service. This major report, the cost of which is estimated at £124,000 and which was published several months ago, it makes it perfectly clear that as the public service is now organised the effective use of our national resources in implementing a national development programme is not possible. Reading it, it is easy to see why instead of a planned sustained development programme, we have had haphazard stop-go development (with the "go" conveniently coinciding with general elections). Here is a report which shows clearly that a large part of the nation's resources are being used effectively or wastefully used, and sets out in very clear and comprehensive terms the kind of reform which is necessary to deal with this situation. The government, instead of recognising this issue for the critically important one which it is and giving top priority to deciding its policy on it, appears instead to have shelved the whole matter by weakly pushing the report back to the various government departments concerned for their views. One might presume that after three years, and the expenditure of £124,000, that the views of the various government departments concerned had already been fully taken into account before the report was published. Naturally any department or agency whose reform is suggested in the report is going to start arguing in favour of leaving things as they are. If this is going to be the basis of government policy in this matter then the whole concept in the Devlin Report is as good as dead. What the government should have done is to announce, very shortly after publication of the report, that it accepted the report in principle and that it was proceeding, with all possible speed, to implement it. What government departments should have been asked was not their views on this report but their time table for implementing the part of it which applied to them.

MOVE TO START N.A.C.A. BRANCH IN DUNGARVAN

An enthusiastic and well-attended meeting of the National Athletic and Cycling Association (N.A.C.A.) was held recently in Dungarvan. Two officers of the Association, Mr. B. Lynch and Mr. P. Cronin, addressed the meeting. They pointed out that this body stood for Athletics in all 32 counties of Ireland, and were the only athletic association to have clubs affiliated from the Six Counties and have promoted sports fixtures recently within the Six Counties. They stated that many athletes had been misled on the International as against the National issue, and that it was only in recent months that many people had realised the importance of these matters. Waterford was an area which always stood firm on the National ideal, and they were glad to note that the Waterford County Board G.A.A. stood firm on the 32 county principle in athletics. Both speakers then answered many questions pertaining not alone to athletics in County Waterford but in Ireland as a whole.

GOVERNMENT'S RESPONSIBILITY

Mr. Cosgrove went on: "A related matter on which there has been equally little action by government is the Buchanan Report. This relates to another vitally important matter of national planning. It has again become evident that major reform in this field is vitally important if the fastest possible rate of national growth is to be achieved. Some of the details of Buchanan's proposals may, with good reason, be rejected by the government. For that matter the whole report may be rejected. But government has a clear responsibility in this situation to make its policy known and to make known the reasons for that policy. Failure to make any decision at all known is the worst possible course. Certainly from the short term political point of view not taking decisions or giving leadership on important matters may be the easy way out. Despite this lack of leadership at government level a brilliant team in the mid-West (Shannon-Limerick) region have

SENIOR FOOTBALLERS DISPLAY SATISFACTORY

Cork 4-6; Waterford 1-3

Waterford senior footballers trip to the Cork Athletic Grounds on Sunday last for their challenge game with Cork in preparation for their remaining National Football League games produced a satisfactory result from the selectors viewpoint. For although Cork scored a ten points win (4-6 to 1-5) it took a full strength Waterford side short at least six of their selected line-up. Waterford shaped better in the first half on a very wet and fast pitch. At the interval they had the first score of the game, a Don Riordan goal, seven minutes after the start and while Cork had some great opportunities wasted through faulty shooting, Waterford took their chances in the style.

Cork also saw some of their best efforts thwarted by a brilliant Tom Fleming in the Waterford goal and indeed Cork's own score in the first half was only disputed by the Waterford players who maintained that Jimmy Barrett's shot was saved from going over the line by Fleming.

Waterford's creditable performance inspired their selectors with confidence for their remaining league games v. Wexford and Kilkenny, and with full points from both outings Waterford can force a play-off in Division 4B.

Waterford players to go on well were Tom Brady, Mick Connan and Michael Power. Scorers: Cork—J. Barrett (2), B. Cummins (1), T. Holland (1), T. O'Brien and B. Cummins (0-2 each), N. Burke and M. O'Keefe (0-1 each), Waterford—T. Riordan (1-0), V. Kirwan (0-3), R. Cashin and M. Power (0-1 each), D. Long, N. O'Keefe, J. Barrett, W. Morgan, B. Murphy, J. Lucey, S. Looney, J. Crowley, K. WEST WATERFORD DARTS LEAGUE (RESUMED)

A tremendous fight back by Morrissey's (Cappoquin) against long-reigning O'Mahony's (Aragin), highlighted the resumption of the West Waterford Darts League on Monday night, January 12th. Leading by 200 in the final game of 1969, O'Mahony's looked all set for their first victory on the home mat until the visitors inspired by the high scoring Tom Barry and Jim Russell staged their dramatic recovery culminating in a glorious finish on X10 from their long serving stalwart Mick Walsh.

The Tavern (Cappoquin) dropped two valuable points at Cummins' (Lismore) where Val Flynn with a superb three-dart finish from 56, clinched a fine victory for the homesters after a long and hard-fought battle. Grady P. Keating and M. McNamara, only Eddie Maher and Billy Byrne ever looked like capturing the Tavern from their lethargic form. Madden's (Lismore) continued in a hard-fought victory over Hotel Lismore in a keenly contested local derby. The losers paid the penalty for some shabby starting, although Mick Feeney turned in a splendid performance.

John Henry and Dan Murray continued their fantastic winning streak in the Tavern in their 4-2 victory over Lindy's at Ballyduff. Henry in particular was superb, and as the outstanding parter in the Tavern. The Tavern's victory was a well deserved one as the club has never been more popular than at present.
