U.D.C. LAND PURCHASES

Dungarvan Urban Council has always made a proud boast that it is one of the most progressive in the country but in later years it has been coming more and more to maintain this boast. The manner in which the Urban rates have been set in recent years has been, to say the very least, most alarming and there are now more than a few within the confines of the Dungarvan Urban boundary who believe the burden of rates is proving a virtual nightmare.

We know all the fine things that can be put in the balance to offset any complaints about the rising tide of rates but there must be some step to the upward spiral somewhere or else some new system of financing local authority expenditure will have to be devised.

Already the prospect of what next year's rates will be like is really frightening. The County Council demand will, in all likelihood, be up a good deal, but the Urban services in which further stages of the town sewerage scheme will be included, will surely be no less than what that much abused word, fantastic, really signifies.

It was then with more than a little amazement that I read in a report of the last meeting of the Urban Council that negotiations for the purchase of over fifty acres around 20 acres of land for the sum of £40,000 had practically been completed. This deal will cost a mere additional 4/2d. in the £ on the rates! But who cares about that? Apparently not the Urban Council members anyway!

They are thinking away not into the future in the most progressive way possible. They appear to be thinking, too, as if the town was full of millionaires!

This recent land purchase was made for house building. Already the Council has made available for development by an outside contractor six acres in Abbeyside and a building scheme of over 60 houses is under way there. Another lot of contractors has purchased land elsewhere at Monagh, Abbeyside, for which there are plans prepared for the building of over fifty houses. This will mean a total of about a further 120 new houses in Abbeyside when these two schemes are completed.

The Council's latest £40,000 purchase will, it has been stated, provide sites for yet a further 104 houses which will bring the grand total when this is completed (it is expected to start building on it in March next year) to over 300 new houses within the Urban area in a very short period. This seems to be busy progress, even at a time when money, even at its present inflationary value, is becoming scarcer and more worthless. Incidentally it will be interesting to see what procedure the Council will follow to select the contractors to develop this site which they have most recently purchased. This will indeed be very (so-called) interesting!

NOT ANY MORE

Christmas is fast approaching and all the hustle and bustle usually associated with it will soon be upon us. However, on this occasion there is one part of this hustle and bustle which I have decided will not bother me. Having given the matter a good deal of consideration I have decided to dispense with the custom of sending Christmas cards.

I may as well admit that I have been trying vainly for a number of years back but then when the time came I always found myself being rushed into doing the same old thing. However, I have taken a firm decision on the matter now and as from this year it is something that I will do no more, except perhaps in the case of my family relatives who are away from home and who will not be around over the festive period.

Sending Christmas cards is supposed to represent an act of goodwill and each card with its greeting and message is supposed to represent and convey to the receiver the warm good wishes of the sender. But to me, sending Christmas cards has always represented an unwelcome chore, and most inconvenient and burdensome task.

A long list of names and addresses to which fresh names had to be added each year had to be kept from one Christmas to the next and when the appropriate time arrived this had to be found, often after some nerve-wrecking searches and then the job of writing the cards and addressing the envelopes had to be undertaken. To me there was never a great deal of goodwill in this and this is one of the reasons why I have now decided to put a stop to it.

Of course, I will admit that another major deciding factor has been the exorbitant increase in the cost of postage. The minimum charge, now at sixpence, will push the overall cost of dispatching even a modest number of cards to a hefty sum. Add to this the cost of the cards and the custom has practically pushed itself into the luxury class!

Of course, there are many people who hate to break with the old traditions of Christmas, but in fact this custom of sending Christmas cards, compared with most other Yuletide customs, is one of comparatively recent origin. It has now become a highly commercialised part of Christmas and has snowballed out of all proportion. To those who will continue to send cards, all I would like to say is that they should, as far as possible, make a point of buying and sending Irish manufactured cards as in this way they will, at least, be helping home industry.

However, I know many people like myself who have now decided that this is one custom which they will no longer practise. The fact that I will be sending no cards this year will not mean that I will be less mindful of all whose names are usually figured on my Christmas card list up to this; indeed, no, and perhaps because I will not have to go through the rigmarole of writing them and the embarrassment of the last minute rush of buying cards for unexpected arrivals, I will have a warmer and more genuine feeling for them all.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

Thoughts are like acrobats. You only hear about the ones that crash.

It is not marriage that fails; it is people that fail. All that marriage does is show them up.

Many of us spend half our time wishing for things we could have if we didn't spend half our time wishing.

THE PRIDE OF TIPPERARY

The choice for our ballad corner this week tells of the character of the bus who came from the neighbouring county across the Suir.

There are scores of purty Irish girls from Cork to Donegal. But the naicest and sweetest and the purest of them all is the charmin' stile ullaigh and she's neither short or tall. And she's loved by all the boys in Tipperary.

She owns an aggravatin' cap, 'twas her son of ayle, As she looks at you with a sweet, intoxicatin' smile, Truth, you couldn't be sober long in Tipperary.

Oh, sure there's not another girl could put your heart in such a whirl, You couldn't keep from livin' 'til you'd look at her at all, It's the two bewitchin' eyes of her, the near convenient size of her.

That makes the sweetest prize of her from Cork to Donegal. Her father keeps a little farm a mile beyond the town, An' once a week on market day you'll see her drivin' down, As dainty as a duchess in her little lace and gown; Truth, there's not a finer sight in Tipperary.

The boys get wild about her and she's one or two in jail, For everywhere she wanders, sure there's fightin' in her trail, An' whenever she goes a milkin' there are two to hooid the tail Of every cow in Tipperary.

It's a treat to see her walking round the lam on any day, For the best they all adore her an' whenever she's away, Sure, the little ducks get love-sick and the hens refuse to lay, For she's loved by everyone in Tipperary. An' if you don't believe me then I'll tell you what to do, Just stop a Tipperary man an' say it isn't true, An' as soon as you're fit to travel (if the doctor pulls you thro'), You can take the shortest road from Tipperary.

Planning Policy Reviewed By County Council

PUBLIC SHOULD BE INFORMED OF REGULATIONS

He felt that when the Council passed a resolution in August 1969 approving of the planning policy submitted by the County Engineer in regard to the main Waterford-Dungarvan-Youghal road it did not get enough publicity and as a result the public did not know that the restrictions it contained were coming into force and this was the cause of a lot of the trouble. This was stated by Mr. Austin Deasy at a special meeting of Waterford County Council in Dungarvan last Monday at which the operation of the Local Government (Planning and Development) Act, 1963, was reviewed and future policy in relation to developments on arterial and main roads was defined.

At the outset the County Manager, Mr. C. A. O'Connor, stated that he was anxious that the Council should have a full and detailed discussion on the matter and he suggested that the members should go through the report submitted by the County Engineer paragraph by paragraph.

The report headed "Review Of Planning Policy" was then read by the Co. Secretary, Mr. J. G. Dowling and stated:

"1. In the Development Plan for the County of Waterford adopted by the County Council on 22nd September, 1967, the last paragraph of Section 2.22 states that 'it is the Council's policy to control development along its roads, particularly Arterial and Main Roads, in order to reduce traffic hazards, maintain as high traffic capacities as possible and facilitate road improvements.' This policy has been operated by the Planning Staff in the interim period.

"2. In August, 1969, I reported on 'Planning Policy on Arterial Road T.12—Waterford-Youghal Road.' This report was subsequently considered by the Council at its meeting on 11th October, 1969, and after considering it the following resolution was passed by the Council:

"That we adopt the County Engineer's Report of August, 1969, in regard to Planning Policy on Arterial Road T.12 subject to (1) allowing for a minimum of 100' on either side of the carriageway on the Waterford/Youghal Arterial Road except in the immediate environment of Waterford City and the town of Dungarvan.

"(2) That we approve of the control of development and the creation of access points leading to Arterial Roads."

"3. Since the Local Government (Planning and Development) Act, 1963, came into operation on 1st October, 1964, 1,929 applications have been dealt with in the County. Of these, 53 were refused for various reasons, and 23 of the 53 were the subject of Appeal to the Minister. Of the appeals which have been determined the Council has been upheld in 10 of 12 cases and one of the other two has been allowed with conditions attached.

"4. It seems to me that it is a fair inference from these figures that the Planning Policy as operated by the County Council is generally acceptable to the public and that the decisions are also in line with National Policy in view of the result of the appeals. In regard to applications and refusals this shows that in County Waterford the percentage of refusals is quite low.

"5. The major factor involved in the greatest number of refusals was considerations of traffic and road safety. It is a well established brakes to 100% efficiency and also to guard against the type of mistake accident which can so easily happen on a heavily trafficked road due to the braking of the first car in a group travelling on the road at speed. The entrances would be also subject to the situation that there should be a clear sight distance in both directions from the access point of not less than 300 yards for the same reason.

"11. On the Arterial Road it is more than desirable, in fact it is almost essential, that no new access points be allowed on to this road in so far as this is at all possible. The growth in traffic on this road and the volume of heavy commercial traffic render it at best a dangerous road and every new access point on to it increases the hazard. Accordingly I would strongly recommend to the Council that they should retain the present prohibition on this road, incidentally it may be desirable to be informed that the public accepts that this type of restriction is in existence and must be continued on this road.

"12. All the remarks above refer to private building. I would even more strongly recommend to the Council that they should under no circumstances allow on either of these two heavily trafficked roads the construction of any type of operation which would in itself generate a large number of turning movements into or out of the main road. Such operations as the construction of Hotels, etc."

"13. In the case of the bigger towns, i.e. Waterford, Dungarvan, and Tramore, we have not applied the limitations on buildings in the immediate environs of the towns which in the case of Waterford we have taken to be about the Holy Cross area, i.e. the general area of the take-off point of the new road to the proposed new bridge, and in the case of Dungarvan as extending from Tarr's Bridge on the Waterford side to approximately Father Twomey's Road on the Youghal side, and, in the case of Tramore, from Ballinacross into the town. This arrangement would be continued if the Council are agreeable.

"14. Needless to say considerations of amenity and other matters related to the proper planning and development of the area will be taken into account in each individual case and the limitation of 600 yards referred to for instance on the Waterford/Tramore Road is in addition to the other factors.

"15. Planning by its very nature involves restriction on the operation of free choice. We must therefore accept that if the Planning Act is to operate for the greatest good of the greatest number then it must be accepted that individual cases will have to be rejected or amended.

"16. In regard to the question of the rights of people to gain access to the heavily trafficked roads in the County, e.g. the Arterial Road, the Waterford/Tramore Road, while the Council may appear restrictive in their decisions nevertheless the over-riding consideration of public safety must take precedence and there is also the not unimportant factor that the people concerned are thereby putting their lives in jeopardy by going out on to such a heavily trafficked road and the restriction is as much for their good as for that of anybody else. Furthermore it is in the public interest also to build up the towns and villages throughout the County and to enable the full services of water, sewage disposal, etc. to be provided to the community, which is not a practical proposition in the case of scattered houses.

"17. While most of the contents of this report relate to the two most heavily trafficked roads in the County the principle most obtain generally, and in view of the growth of the built up area all over the County and indeed all over the country, it must be accepted that in a relatively few years roads which are at present lightly trafficked will be carrying very substantial volumes of traffic. For this reason, while the same rigid limitations need not at this stage be applied, it is certainly necessary to apply limitations and these must vary with the anticipated development of the roads in question. Accordingly the Council should be asked to accept as a matter of policy that in any

WEST WATERFORD DARTS LEAGUE

The Tavern Favourites To Take Trophy

Following two impressive victories over Droichead (Mick Morrissey's and Conway's) the Tavern has emerged as the favourite to become the second holders of the West Waterford Darts League Trophy.

The Tavern's two games were played before the half-way stage is reached they are already two points clear of their nearest rivals, Tobin's (Ballyduff), who in turn are a point clear of Conway's—with last season's champions, Mahony's still struggling to recapture their former six points behind the leader.

We remarked after watching their first game of the year that the Tavern's selected thrower seemed far less temperamental than his partner and at every game so far they have fully indicated that opinion. Their refusal to panic was never more apparent than in their recent victory against Morrissey's who had equalised through a record-breaking first round 54 (60, 64, 20) by Mick Troy, after having lost the first two games.

On other days the Tavern might have thrown in the sponge but their present team faced up to the challenge and inspired by a magnificent Mick Cahill they outstayed their rivals in the 500-1 record a memorable 2-2 victory.

Against Conway's the issue was never in doubt with Eddy Finbar the current King Of The Arrows in Cappoquin, putting on another superb show against his former team mate. Conway's are something of an enigma, against Cummins's the previous week they looked a team of weak talents with Jolt Henry, Pat Murray and Richard Quinlan in unbeatable form. Against the Tavern they looked a team of no hopes and must have sorely disappointed their rivals.

"THE DECIDER?" Tobin's (Ballyduff) who at this stage last year were still unbeaten this season, and must be eagerly looking forward to a new week's competition. BALLYSGAGGART TO WIN FIRST TITLE

COUNTY HURLING FINAL
With a trip to the U.S.A. being planned for the Ballysgaggart county club was founded just 21 years ago—last month the club won its first title in the county hurling final in which they defeated Clonea, at Dungarvan. Ballysgaggart will certainly become the "highlight" team of the year and certainly the luckiest if they finish in front next Sunday.

Their patron and benefactor, Mr. Anthony Prendergast, a wealthy Ballysgaggart businessman now residing in the U.S.A. has such a keen interest in his old club that he has offered them this reward if they bring the honour to the village.

This is certainly a wonderful offer by a very loyal citizen, but personally I thought that it might have been wiser to wait until after the game, as the promise of such a bonanza might have a dangerous effect on their approach to the game. Knowing Ballysgaggart, I am convinced that nothing in this world could sharpen their eagerness and desire to win this title for the first time. I believe that they could not try any harder than they are going to anyway.

FOUR EACH
Eight of the ten divisional championships are now decided and the Junior hurling, which was to be played on the 21st Sunday in January, 1971, will be decided next Sunday and the Junior football which will be played on the 21st Sunday in January, 1971, will be decided on the 21st Sunday in January, 1971.

WELL-KNOWN REFEREE BEREAVED
We join with his very many friends in the county in offering our sincere sympathy to the well-known referee Mick White, Ballymacarbery, whose father, Mr. M. White, was killed in an accident in Roscommon during last week. The tragedy made Mick unavailable to referee last Sunday's under-21 football final at Walsh Park, a game that he had been appointed to handle.

WATERFORD WIN POINTS
Five of our six forwards shared in the nine points which gave us a deserved victory over our neighbours, Clonmel, in the hearing feature of Sunday's Ballymacarbery game, which will put us back in the running for a place in the final shake-up when the six group games are completed in March. It will have the effect, too, of giving us a boost from the bottom end of the section. Our next game will be against Carlow, and on last Sunday's form we can look forward to winning this.

BALLINACOURTY ARE OFF
At Walsh Park on Sunday last, a very large crowd of Western supporters saw Ballymacarbery defeat Clonmel, county champions John Mitchell in a thrilling and very exciting game. The six group games on the score 3-9 to 2-4. This indeed was a very sweet revenge for the Western champions, who lost the previous county title by the narrow margin of one point to Clonmel in opposition, just twelve months ago.

This battle between Ballymacarbery and the Middlesex was of special interest to many of the people who had been speculating about the destiny of the "Club of the Year" award which according to fairly well-informed rumour, had resolved itself into a tie between the two clubs concerned. As a result of their victory, there is now the likelihood that the Western club will win that title, although one still cannot rule out the possibility of clubs like Ballysgaggart—yet unbeaten in the hurling and football championships of this year, as well as the claims of other clubs.

SERTO CHAIRMAN CLAIMS 1970 TOURIST SEASON GOT "BAD PRESS"

Reference To High Prices Of Drink And Petrol

The following are quotes from the address by the Chairman of the South Eastern Regional Tourist Organisation Ltd., Mr. P. J. Ryan, at the seventh annual general meeting held in New Ross last Thursday night:

The 1970 Tourist Season has suffered what might be termed "bad press." Undoubtedly, the month of June was beset with many difficulties. While final figures are not yet available, it is widely felt that the latter months, and particularly the extension of the season were satisfactory. Despite this latter good performance, the year all year is depicted as one of depressingly poor returns leading to public unrest at "the collapse of the Tourist Industry."

Any falling off in the annual rate of GROWTH is now seen as a national catastrophe, leading to many wild and largely unrespected accusations of the industry "pricing itself out of the market."

There are two items, however, where there is a significant adverse differential between Irish prices and those obtaining in our major tourist market, Great Britain. These are in respect of petrol and drink.

In the price structure of these items, on which tourist expenditure is concentrated, there is a very high taxation and excise charge. These amount to in the case of beer 9/3d. in the pound and petrol 13/6 in the pound.

It is apparent, therefore that Government policy largely determines the price which suppliers must charge. I would like to sug-

INDIRECT MARKETING

The term, indirect marketing, is one which you may have noticed recently in press comment. While it would be foolish to view this new procedure, as a cure-all for the ills, real or imagined in the Irish Tourist Industry make-up, it does seek to formulate a method of marketing which prior to this time was at best a vague and little understood concept. What it will mean, in simple terms, is that increasingly we will be seeking to quote one price for travel, accommodation and the activity involved.

A practise which is causing concern to your Directors and to which I have been asked to direct your attention is the often inexplicable difference in the price demanded for the same goods in different shops or public houses. There is no commercial justification for a myriad of different prices obtaining for the same product. It is the view of the Regional Company that local Chambers of Commerce, or similar groups should make more strenuous efforts to ensure price conformity among traders. This practise (and the more serious practise, happily not so prevalent of varying prices during the course of an evening in the same establishment) contributes to the uneasy and damaging feeling among visitors that they have been "had." This is a feeling, even if without justification, which does serious disservice to the Tourist Industry and mitigates against its growth. We must all, particularly those of us with seasonal staff, be vigilant to ensure that they are careful and precise at all times in the computation of customers bills and handling of customers money.

In the same vein several warnings have been published about the dangers of contravening what is generally known as the Misrepresentation Act in Britain. It has become clear, however, that some operators have not heeded these warnings and continue to advertise in their brochures services and facilities which they do not provide. This puts the agent who handles your literature at the risk of a substantial fine—and he cannot be blamed if he will not take the risk. The trouble does not end there: agents who find one operator at fault are chary of handing the literature of others and therefore the damage to business is greater.

VISITOR ENTERTAINMENT

At our last two annual meetings I have referred to the necessity for more imaginative evening entertainment for our visitors. I asked Hoteliers to provide entertainment and to think in terms of a professional presentation with an Irish flavour.

Whilst some improvement is noticeable in both availability and standards more requires to be effected for the coming season.

There is a need to co-ordinate the many entertainment talents that exist in this Region with the requirements of Hotels, Lounge Bars and others. Providing there is reasonable support for the proposal we intend to establish an Entertainments Society within our Organisation. Its function would be to recruit, audition and grade available artists. Providers of evening entertainment would have a central and comprehensive source from which to secure their requirements be it for one night or the entire season.

MEMBERSHIP

Last year after much soul searching, your Directors announced that they had found it necessary to raise the minimum Member Subscription level to £5. Considerable reservations were expressed both by Members of the Board and subsequently at our General Meeting. The Directors undertook as a result to keep this matter under particular review and report their findings to you this year.

In point of fact, it is now my pleasure to announce that Membership has grown to an all time high of 794 members. In addition to this sizeable total we have 99 National Members contributing to our resources. While we readily appreciate that hardship may have been caused to some members because of our decision, we honestly feel that the correctness of it has now been vindicated.

WATERFORD PROVE FAR SUPERIOR

Derisive Win Over Kilkenny

Waterford 0-9; Kilkenny 1-4.

Waterford scorers: footballers showed improved form at Nolan Park, Kilkenny, on Sunday when they proved superior to the home side beating them by 0-9 to 1-4 in a rather drab National Football League Division 2A tie.

Waterford were on top for long periods due to an unbroken concerted pairing of Tom Gough and Eamonn Dunphy and their lively forwards kept the Kilkenny defence on their toes for most of the hour.

Waterford scored first, a point after only one minute and were in front for the remainder of the game. They held a three point lead at the interval (0-5 to 0-2) and seemed to have consolidated their position when they led by double scores (0-8 to 0-4) after 45 minutes. Indeed Waterford looked poised for an easy win at this stage after dominating the exchanges in a lustrous first three quarters. But then a great Kilkenny goal by Fan Larkin left the home side very much in the reckoning and for the following ten minutes Waterford were under severe pressure. However, some great work by a stalwart defence coupled with poor finishing on the part of the losers denied Kilkenny vital scores and Waterford reasserted themselves again in the closing stages with Tom Casey swimming to leave them deserved winners by a brace of points at the finish.

Waterford were best served by Jim Wall and Wally Connors in defence, Tom Gough at midfield and Tom Casey and Pa Walsh in attack.

Best for Kilkenny were Tom Bennett, Eamonn Morrissey, Nick Morrissey and Fan Larkin.

Scorers—Waterford—T. Casey (0-4); P. Walsh (0-2); M. Power, M. Guiry and V. Kirwan (0-1 each); Kilkenny—F. Larkin (1-3); S. Kennedy (0-1).

Waterford—J. Colgan; M. Connolly; W. Wall; P. Clancy; J. Murphy; W. Connors; N. Walsh; T. Gough; E. Dunphy; T. Casey; P. Walsh; M. Power; V. Kirwan; M. Guiry; L. O'Rourke.

Kilkenny—P. Dempsey; K. Mealy; N. Morrissey; T. Bennett; E. Morrissey; M. Kelly; M. Brennan; J. Buckley; M. Mealy; S. J. Doherty; J. Larkin; M. Leahy; J. Doherty. Subs.—J. Coogan for P. Walsh; W. Brennan for Neil Morrissey.

Referee—J. Murphy (Laois).
