SWIMMING COACH
Parents in Dungarvan and many parts of West Waterford will be pleased to learn that arrangements for a further visit to Dungarvan this year of the well-known Swimming Coach, Mrs. Mariel O'Garra from Llanabry, England.

Mrs. O'Garra has been coming to Dungarvan for a number of years now and the results she has achieved in teaching young children how to swim and in making the older ones more proficient in the water have been really phenomenal.

There should be no need for me to impress on parents the absolute necessity of having their children taught to swim and the elements of water safety. It is an unfortunate fact that every summer a big number of lives are claimed by the sea and by rivers and lakes from among people young and old, who are either poor or non-swimmers or who do not realise the dangers of going into strange waters.

Being taught early on in life how to swim and of the need at all times, no matter how good a swimmer you become, to be wary of dangerous places or safeguards which can be a great help in reducing the number of drowning fatalities.

Mrs. O'Garra, who will be accompanied by her daughter, who is also an expert coach, is due to arrive in Dungarvan on July 4 and she will organise classes for the various age groups which she will conduct and supervise at the Dungarvan Swimming Pool for the ensuing fortnight.

Parents anxious to have their children enrolled in these classes should contact any of the regular organising group in Dungarvan. As usual there will be a small coaching fee which is calculated to cover the travelling and subsistence expenses of the coaches who make no charges for the time they devote to the many classes they conduct.

AIR POLLUTION
For a long time there was a great deal of agitation to have the old Dungarvan town dump, located at Shandon, closed because of the maddening atmosphere it was causing over large areas of the town. The agitation proved successful and resulted in the purchase by the Urban Council of a new dump site at Ballinamuck.

The closure of the old dump at Shandon should have put an end to the stench which had been emanating from it while it was being used. Residents in O'Connell Street and other areas who for years had to endure the air pollution caused by the dump, were looking forward with a sense of relief to the day the dump would be officially closed in the hope that the stench would be cleared.

But now they find that this is not so. Although the dump has been closed the desperate smell, which at times becomes almost unbearable, remains in the air during their waking hours but also their hours of sleep as uncomfortable as ever. I have had complaints from many people, several of whom are my neighbours, that things are as bad as ever. I understand that all that has happened is that the dump has been closed but the people claim that purifying materials are still being dumped there.

AN ATTEMPT AT INTIMIDATION
Following the publication in this column last week of my references to the annoyance being caused in Dungarvan by young motor cycle riders, a gang of these

THE IRISH EMIGRANT

It still being Maytime a constant reader of great loyalty has suggested that an appropriate feature for our column this week would be "The Irish Emigrant".

I'm sitting on the site, Mary. Where we sat side by side. On a bright May morning long ago. When first you were my bride; The corn was springing fresh and green. And the lark sang loud and high. And the red was on your lip, Mary. And the love light in your eye.

The place is little changed. Mary. The day is bright as then. The lark's loud song is in my ear. And the corn is green again. But I miss the soft close of your hand. And the breath warm on your cheek. And I still keep listening to the words. You never more may speak. You never more may speak.

I'm very lonely now, Mary. For the poor make no new friends. But oh, they love the better still. The few our Father sends. And you were all I had, Mary. My blessing and my pride. There's nothing left to care for now. Since my poor Mary died.

I'm bidding you a long farewell, My Mary kind and true. But I'll never forget you, darlin'. In the land I'm going to. They say there's bread and work for all. And the sun shines always there. We'll never forget old Ireland. Were it fifty times as fair. Were it fifty times as fair.

CLONMEL MAN ON DUB. CHEQUE CHARGES BEFORE DUNGARVAN CIRCUIT COURT
While the offences committed were serious and the minimum sentence would be 2 years imprisonment he would adjourn his case for 12 months in view of the evidence given to see how the defendant would behave in the meantime and how much he would pay back.

This was stated by Judge Fawcett at Dungarvan Circuit Court on Tuesday when William Loneragan, Ballybeg, Lisroagh, Clonmel, appeared before the court having been convicted on charges of larceny and uttering false cheques. The offences were committed during the Bank Strike and covered a period from February 1970 to February 1971.

A total of 70 charges involving £690 were taken into consideration. Detective Garda Griffin stated in evidence that the accused was a bachelor aged 40 years who was employed as a casual labourer and lived with his parents in a County Council cottage at Ballybeg, Lisroagh, Clonmel.

SEQUEL TO COLLISION BETWEEN MOTOR CAR AND MECHANICAL DIGGER
The plaintiff had not satisfied him that he was entitled to succeed stated Judge Fawcett when at Dungarvan Circuit Court last Tuesday he dismissed an action in which Patrick Power, Cusum, Dungarvan, sought damages, agreed at £163, from Messrs. E. O'Brien & Sons Ltd., Builders and Contractors, Dungarvan, arising from a collision between a motor car driven by the plaintiff and a mechanical digger, the property of the defendants, which occurred at Mitchell Street, Dungarvan, on January 8, 1971.

Mr. E. Conroy, B.L. (instructed by J. P. Williams & Co., Solic.) was for the plaintiff and Mr. M. Feehan, B.L. (instructed by L. F. Langan, Solic.) was for the defendants. Plaintiff in evidence said that on January 8 he was driving his car along Mitchell Street and saw the digger approaching him from the opposite direction. There was a van double-parked on his right hand side. He stopped his car as the digger came on and pulled out to pass the van but as it swung back the back of the digger caught the front of his car and swung it into the footpath.

Questioned by Mr. Feehan, plaintiff denied that when he came through the turn from Mary Street on to Mitchell Street the digger was in the act of passing out the double-parked van. He admitted that there was a car parked on his left hand side which he had to pass but he denied that he just kept on going and took a chance of getting through the gap but found, to his regret, that he could not do so.

NO TRAFFIC
James Power the driver of the mechanical digger in evidence stated that on January 8 he was driving the digger from Springmount to Abbeyside. He came along Mitchell Street and outside O'Donnell's shop there was a van double-parked and there were cars parked on the right hand side opposite the shop. The street was 35 ft. wide and the width of the digger was 8 ft. There was no traffic on the street as he approached the van and he pulled out over the broken white line to pass it. As he was abreast of the van a car came round the turn from Mary Street and kept coming towards him. The car just kept coming and the driver tried to get through between the digger and the car parked on the other side.

Witness said that the car had pulled into the digger when he heard an impact when it struck the stabiliser at the back of the digger. He added that plaintiff did not stop his car before the accident. John O'Brien in evidence said that he was a member of the defendant firm. On the day in question he was told that an accident had occurred and he went to Mitchell Street. When he got there the would be snugly fitted into the landscape on the 13 acre site. In due course the County Council granted outline planning permission, subject to certain conditions which, apparently, were quite agreeable to the company.

They fear that sewage outflow from the 105-bedroom hotel would be detrimental to the fishing industry in the locality. The plans for the hotel provide specifically for sewage treatment by oxidation ditch, as supplied by a specialist firm to meet with local authority requirements.

As things stand the objection will certainly hold up the company's proposal. The Board's objection will have to be heard by way of appeal and ultimately, following an inquiry, the Minister will have to decide the matter.

Not Enough Gardai To Enforce Traffic Regulations In Dungarvan

PROPOSED BY-PASS ROAD WILL COST £2 MILLION

That there were not enough Gardai in Dungarvan to present to enforce existing traffic regulations; a proposal to construct a by-pass road to clear heavy traffic from the town centre at an estimated cost of £2 million and the need for more off-street parking spaces were points raised during a discussion on the new Traffic Management Report for the town which was discussed at a meeting of Dungarvan Urban Council last Monday night.

Present at the meeting were Supt. M. English and Mr. J. D. Hally, Co. Engineer. The Town Clerk, Mr. J. P. Robinson submitted the following report to the meeting:

"Preliminary proposals for traffic management in Dungarvan were submitted by the County Engineer to this Council in January, 1970, and his proposals were approved in principle at that time. Further studies have been carried out since then, and a very detailed report has now been prepared, incorporating recommendations for construction of additional roads, car parks and parking regulations. Maps showing the principal proposals outlined by the Co. Engineer are being placed on display in the Council Chamber for inspection by members.

There will be four times as many cars within the urban area as there are at present. In view of this, it is essential that the proposals contained in the report be implemented in order to avoid the complete choking of the central areas of the town.

MOST URGENT PROBLEM
Mr. P. Whelan said that as far as he was concerned the most urgent problem to be dealt with at the moment was that of street parking which was becoming steadily worse.

Mr. T. Kyne, Chairman said that several suggestions had been made about this but he thought the idea of one way streets was the best. The worst street in the town at present was O'Connell Street where he said that there was a snarl of traffic everyday. If this was made a one-way street he thought it would ease the position. Outgoing traffic could go up Mary Street and incoming traffic could come down through O'Connell Street.

Mr. Whelan said that on the last occasion on which they had discussed this problem with the Superintendent he had stated that he did not have enough men to enforce the parking regulations. He asked whether the position had improved in the meantime.

Superintendent English said that the position was that since the recommendations for improved conditions for members of the force as contained in the County Report had been implemented it had been equivalent to cutting the work force at its disposal by one-quarter. He had 12 Gardai in Dungarvan but to comply with the new conditions and having to do other things he could hardly find a man to go on the street at all at any time. He asserted that there was a complete lack of strength in the force in town.

The Superintendent said he hoped that eventually there would be extra Gardai but until then he would have to say that the parking regulations would be enforced as this would not be so.

Mr. A. Deasy asked whether the fact that there were no alternative parking spaces added to the problem and made the enforcement of the parking by-laws difficult and the Superintendent agreed that was so.

COST OF ACQUIRING SCARLETT'S YARD
Questioned about the position in regard to Scarlett's Yard, the Co. Manager, Mr. C. A. O'Connor said that all objections had now been withdrawn and the Compulsory Purchase Order only required the Minister's signature to enforce it.

Mr. Hally said that as soon as the Order was made he could start work as money for the job was available. It was unlikely however, he said, that any part of it would be ready for the peak period this summer.

Mr. Deasy asked whether it was intended to let this park open all night and all day when completed or whether it would be restricted

HERE AND THERE

By ASDAL

Every place in the world may be wonderful, if it's your cup of tea at the time. Social justice, needful employment, wanderlust have all their niche in the pattern of the human stream from nation to nation.

There are fewer corners of the globe, than one would imagine, where the true justice of law and equity can be seen in a country that is at least within lawful in its actions, and honest in its motives.

The bursting energy and optimism of youth can surround the temporary lack of any better of civilization. But the later details of any celebration of enthusiasm may eventually squeeze one into the quietest, most peaceful corner of this earth he can find.

When one's had the excitement, the razz-ma-tazz, and all the fun of this country, he can dish up some other time for rest.

No matter how perfect the nation, how satisfying the job, how high the living, we soon search for the peace we are sure is elsewhere. Though there is of our fathers never failer, we seek what the Eden of our ancestors.

Sometimes we find it! Occasionally a friend will ask, "Why come to this country, this town?" Perhaps the answer says it all as well—"HERE"

I came to live, love, laugh and rest, seeking people who give life an honest zest.

I found this place, tired heart deflected, by a smiling face, sure as fate directed.

I am here in peace, leaving a mad world, by a world in haste, on its bitter race.

I do not mourn the lack of lights that blind the night with a city's scorn.

Would you ask the man, leaving a mad world, why he'd not grope his chance to leave?

GOVERNMENT UNABLE TO MAKE FIRM DECISIONS

Criticisms At A.G.M. Of Lismore District Executive Fine Gael

The annual general meeting of the Lismore District Executive of Fine Gael was held on Saturday, 14th May, 1971. Mr. James Wall chaired the meeting and the attendance included: Surgeon Hogan, T.D., Senator Butler, Mr. Michael Smyth, Chairman, Constituency Executive, Mr. Brendan Griffin, Secretary, Mr. Michael Smith, Chairman, Constituency Executive, Mr. John Deasy, M.C.C., and Mr. John Deasy, M.C.C., and Mr. John Deasy, Delegate to National Council.

Burgeon Hogan in his address said that inflation had a vicious hold on the country at present. It was running at a higher rate in Ireland than in any other country in Europe and the present budget will not help. We have a deficit trade balance for the fourth consecutive year and our competitive position with Britain had deteriorated. The Government, he said, was stumbling from step to step unable to make a firm decision on anything.

Referring to the housing position, Surgeon Hogan said that in 1970 he built the lowest number of houses per 1,000 population than any of the other thirty-one countries in the O.E.C.D. with the exception of Portugal. Of the houses we did build only 25 per cent were available for rent to lower paid workers.

Surgeon Hogan said that we have 70,000 unemployed. Last year we provided only 5,000 new jobs in industry although 12,000 people leave the land annually. Our production in agriculture in 1970 was static. This was one field, he said, where there should be hope and opportunity.

WANT GENERAL ELECTION

Senator Butler said he was delighted to see such an enthusiastic meeting. Fine Gael wanted a general election, he said, and the sooner the better for the welfare of the country. Senator Butler, a Waterford man himself, pledged his full support to the organisation in West Waterford.

A vote of sympathy was extended to the family of the late Martin Whelan, Coolshohal, Ballinacorney who death at an early age was not only a great loss to his family but also to Fine Gael.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The following officers were elected: Chairman—Thomas Murphy, T.C. 16, New Street; Vice-Chairman—John Muir, Main Street; Secretary—Babs Cunningham, Chapel Street; Joint Treasurers—Denis Whelan, Campbell and Paddy Barry, Chapel Street; Delegates to Executive—John Muir, Mrs. Maureen Dooney, Dearpark, Denis Whelan, Paddy Barry and Thomas Whelan, 15 Parks Road.

PROPOSALS TO ESTABLISH AUTONOMOUS NATIONAL AGRICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT SERVICE

Radical Overhaul Of Structure Recommended

The establishment of an autonomous National Agricultural Development Service in order to provide the most effective and efficient service to the farming community is recommended in a policy document issued yesterday (Wednesday) by the Irish Agricultural Advisers' Organisation.

The 14 page document makes a clear statement that the proposals now put forward should be regarded as the official policy of the Organisation—the professional representative body of Chief Agricultural Officers, Deputy Chief Agricultural Officers, and Instructors in Agriculture, Horticulture, Poultry-keeping and Farm Home Management, employed by County Committees of Agriculture.

The proposals have already been submitted to the Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Gibbons and he has promised to meet the Organisation to discuss re-organisation of the advisory services.

The principal proposals are:

• The new National Agricultural Development Service would incorporate the three agencies (1) agricultural advisory and education service; (2) agricultural research and (3) farm improvements service.

• It would be governed by a Council to be called the National Agricultural Development Service to be made up as follows, four members nominated by the Government including the Chairman, five members from Regional Committees (one from each region); four members to be nominated by the farming organisations and one member from the Universities.

• The National Director would be appointed by the Government on the recommendation of a selection board set up for the purpose by the National Council.

• There would be a Director in charge of each main service—Advisory and Education, Research and Farm Improvements. These three directors would be accommodated in the same headquarters and would meet regularly so that regular contact would be maintained between the three at top level.

• The setting up of a Supporting Committee for each of the main services is recommended. Their function would be consultative and advisory and they would be elected by the National Council.

• It is suggested that the National Agricultural Development Service would have its operational finances provided in the main by an annual grant from the Exchequer. The balance should be made up by way of local contribution from the farming community, thus giving them a commitment to the financing of the Service. This commitment, it is

HOW WOULD IT FINCTION?

How would the new National Agricultural Development Service function? It is recommended that the country be divided approximately according to the farming patterns and the requirements of the region. There would be an advisory committee for each region consisting of 10 to 12 members drawn from County Committees at two representatives per county. This regional committee would be purely advisory but would have an important bridging function between the County Committee and the National Council for a two-way flow of information. The Regional Director would act as Secretary to the Regional Committee.

Specialists in the required categories would be provided according to the requirements of the region concerned. It is recommended that where practicable regional specialists should be based at appropriate research centres.

At county level, it is recommended that each county should have a committee elected by the rural people on the lines at present followed in the election of the County Committees of Agriculture to discuss and consider the development programme submitted annually by the Chief Agricultural Officer. County Committees would be responsible for recommending to the requirements of the region and for decisions on county methods to be employed to achieve county objectives. They would send proposals to the Regional Council and to the National Council on matters of regional or national interest, and furthermore, would have the task of operating local schemes for livestock improvement, horticultural and poultry schemes, scholarships, show subsidies, amenity development etc. The Chief Agricultural Officer would be responsible for the organisation and control of the advisory and education services within the county and also for overall development of the agricultural resources in his area. It is envisaged that grants from the Farm Improvements Service would be part of an overall development plan as now operates in the Pilot Areas.

In summing up the thinking behind the recommendation that an autonomous National Agricultural Development Service be set up, Mr. Jim Ryan, President of the Irish Agricultural Advisers' Organisation says: "The primary function of the advisory service is to assist farmers and farm families to make the best use of their resources by helping them through improved practices and better management, to increase output and income and improve their standard of living. We believe that the roles of the advisory and education services, agricultural research and farm improvement services are all complementary and should operate within a single organisation. Progress means change and I feel that the time has come for a radical overhaul of the structure of the advisory services on the lines we are now recommending. For example, with An Foras Taluntais and the advisory service in the one organisation, we would ensure a streamlined process of getting research findings to the farmer quickly and of getting problems from the field back to the laboratory. And by bringing the farm improvement service under the one wing also, we would ensure that the correct priorities would be followed in the development of the farms, thereby ensuring proper use of farmers' resources and the best return to the State from the specialists devoted to improvement projects. At present grants can be paid for improvement works without regard to the correct use of resources in the development of the farm."

FARMER PARTICIPATION

Mr. Ryan emphasised the importance of farmer participation in decision making at all levels in the new structure, thus ensuring their involvement in policy-making and its implementation. "The rural electorate will have representatives on the county, regional and national committees and rural organisations will have direct representation on the National Council," he added. "Thus the Service would command the confidence of the farming community, and the respect of other bodies within the State. It would be clearly identified as the body responsible for providing the managerial, technical and organisational expertise for the development of the agricultural industry. Liaison with other bodies—such as lending agencies, I.A.O.S., marketing and market promotion organisations—would be greatly facilitated."

FERMOY MAN MAKES SUCCESSFUL APPEAL AT DUNGARVAN CIRCUIT COURT Thomas Crofty, 50 Patrick Street, Fermoy, who was convicted and fined £5 and disqualified from driving under Section 49 of the Road Traffic Act by District Justice Carroll at Lismore District Court on April 7 successfully appealed against the conviction at Dungarvan Circuit Court last Tuesday.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR Lunatic Driving Dear Sir: How much longer have we to wait for a speed limit to be introduced on New Line to the Golf Club? This road, one of the most dangerous in the country for speeding, has been the scene of three crashes during the past year. In the early hours of Sunday morning, the 10th inst., the car occupants of a car narrowly escaped death when practising demolishing part of its wall wall roughly half way down this road. The factory traffic is quite back enough, but now residents have to endure the roar of speeding cars every Saturday night from 11 p.m. onwards and the noise is unbearable. We are doing our best to get the road closed but we are being told to return from a date at the Golf Club. If these reckless drivers wish to finish up in Police Court Hospital or Mortuary, let them be. If they are to be let off, should other people have to suffer? Do they not realize that there is a limit on this road for the elderly people and children who have retired for the night? Before long, there will be a major tragedy on this road as high speeds seem to be the norm for the 30 m.p.h. limit of these people, and then perhaps the authorities will step up. A 30 m.p.h. maximum limit should be stamped on immediately with heavy penalties for drivers exceeding it. Perhaps a Garda Patrol Car on Saturday nights from 11 p.m. to 1 a.m. would be a good idea. Is that asking too much? Yours etc. A. E. ROUGH. "Astola", Ballycourt, Dungarvan, 17-5-71.
