WHAT IT IS ALL ABOUT

I am amazed at the number of people who still do not understand or appreciate what the real position in the six Counties is. I have heard so many arguments and discussions lately which show this to be true. I was prompted, on reading Andrew Boyd's article in the current issue of "Reality," to reproduce part of it. This extract from that article, "Akeladma in the North," explains in concise terms what the true state of affairs is up in that unfortunate part of our country and it goes as follows:

"Thousands of people are all fleeing from a kind of plague, a political system that threatens their lives and their well-being. "Destruction of the entire system seems the only solution because fifty years of Unionist government and more than 150 years of Orange dominance have created such deep hatred between Catholics and Protestants that civil life is impossible. "Today 12,000 British troops stand between Ulster and civil war, indeed between all Ireland and what we call Stormont. But even with this massive military force, five times the normal garrison, lawlessness has been increasing. "And so civil government in Northern Ireland has become impossible because what passes for an assembly is dominated by men who believe that the bitterness they and their forebears have engendered and lived upon must prevail. This, they think, is the only way in which power can be retained in Protestant hands. And only a Protestant Parliament can protect Ulster from being absorbed in a united Ireland."

Whitehall's special representative.

"Maudling's apparent indifference may mean that Britain has really turned its back on the Ulster problem. "It also seems, at least it seems so to the Catholics of the North, that the people of the Twenty-six Counties have taken a lead from their foolishness, Mr. Jack Lynch, and want to hear nothing more about Northern Ireland. They are certainly thankful they have not been embroiled. "Radio-Teleis Eireann seems to regard the whole Northern tragedy as a peep-show, a menagerie in which the performing bears like Paisley, Smyth, Craig and other Unionist irreconcilables may be displayed to terrify and amuse an RTE audience. Nobody seems to have any sympathy for the ordinary people of the North, Catholics and Protestants, who have to live and rear their children in a state of civil war. "And so Andrew Boyd sums up the dreadful situation in the North. To give you some idea of Boyd's qualifications to write on the Northern question, here is an extract from a political commentary, economist and economic historian. He has in his time written for UNESCO. His book on the origins of sectarian disturbances in the North "Holy War In Belfast" has been one of the best-selling paperbacks in Ireland. The article from which the foregoing extract was taken was written about a month before internment was introduced in the North and I reproduce the only way in which power can be retained in Protestant hands. And only a Protestant Parliament can protect Ulster from being absorbed in a united Ireland."

"The fundamental Unionist viewpoint is expressed by Martin Smyth (Master of the Belfast Grand Orange Lodge), William Craig and Harry West is that they will not be integrated in a united Ireland. They will not concede equal rights to Northern Ireland. They will not accept orders and directions from London. And if the need arises, they will resist, probably by force of arms, any move which would abolish the present Government and Parliament and return the six Counties to the direct jurisdiction of Westminster. "The Unionists would make a unilateral declaration of independence, as Mr. Ian Smith has done in Rhodesia, if they could afford it. But dependent as they are on British subsidies, they can afford little. Yet they believe they are "absolutely right" and not in any way to blame for the present state of the six Counties. Others are to blame—the British Government for interfering, the Irish Republic, the Civil Rights Movement. Jack Lynch is to blame, Harold Wilson, and O'Neill for being "an opener. "It is impossible to negotiate with men who hold such views. James Callaghan when he was Home Secretary, found it very difficult to deal with. He learned that Mr. Reginald Dill, the present Home Secretary, purports to be indifferent, and leaves matters in Northern Ireland to the Army Chiefs and to

VANDALISM AT QUAY

A number of boatmen who have boats moored at Dunganarvan quay have made complaints to me about vandalism which has resulted in damage to their boats. "Because of the serious condition of the quay the local authority council have caused barrels to be placed along the lower end to restrict traffic which might cause a further collapse of the quay wall. "I am informed that in recent months a number of these light barrels have been toppled over the edge of the quay and on to some of the boats moored below which have in several cases been rather badly damaged. This is a great loss to the boat-owners concerned most of whom are responsible for the boats. "The vandals are to be condemned in the strongest possible terms. "Then again these barrels, which are filled with stones, have been left lying where they could be used as a weapon of offence. They are a present a most ugly sight of low water. With the open sewers discharging into the sea which cause a desperate stench there, the whole thing goes to make the quay one of the most unattractive parts of the town. And it would appear that the Urban Council could not care less!

UFO SIGHTING

It is some time now since I last recorded in this column a sighting of an unidentified flying object but last week Mr. Pat Power, 19 Keating Street, Dunganarvan, told me that on Friday night, August 20th in the early a.m. while returning home along the Clonmel road he saw a peculiar light very high in the sky while in the vicinity of the Half-White. He said he was

Provincial Newspapers In Move Against V.A.T.

WOULD BE A Crippling IMPOSITION

Already burdened with a rate of taxation unparalleled for newspapers in the free world and now faced with the crippling imposition of Value Added Tax, the provincial press of Ireland is gearing itself to resist the proposed new taxation with all the power at its disposal.

In an unprecedented move in the newspaper industry on Monday, members of the Provincial Newspapers Association, the National Union of Journalists and the National Graphical Association from ten papers in the south-east came together in Newpark Hotel, Kilkenny, to plan a united campaign to have the new service exempted from Value Added Tax.

At other centres throughout the country similar meetings were held involving the entire provincial press—journalists, printers and managers.

In Kilkenny, grave concern was expressed about the uncertain future of many provincial newspapers and magazines under the new tax system.

There was bitter criticism of the proposals which were described as a very serious threat indeed to the freedom and scope of the press.

The tax, as it must inevitably be passed on to the public, amounted to a tax on information, on the fundamental right of people to know, to be informed.

As the chairman of the meeting, Mr. L. D. Bergin (Newspaper Nationalist), who represented the president of the PNA put it:

"Such knowledge is the basic ingredient of a democratic state. It is in principle as well as in practice, a most retrograde step to tax the source of information, to tax the knowledge of the people."

"Ultimately, wholesale and turnover taxes have to be collected from every citizen, but it is more expensive for people to buy a newspaper."

"But the new Added Value Tax has even further effects. It will cripple the newspapers far beyond the bounds of what they have to expect today."

"Again, it is a tax on the newspaper as a source of information, increasing, as time goes on, which seems to me a most dangerous aspect of it."

"It could be the thin end of a wedge by which government could inhibit and even control sales of newspapers and this is another reason why we object to it."

THE CROPPY BOY

A reader who has been holidaying amongst us from Liverpool recently has sent me a request for the full version of "The Croppy Boy." She says that while down in Kerry she heard the ballad sung by a young man and was greatly impressed by the dramatic rendering of the song. Here it is then as I have it from my collection:

"Good men and true in this house who dwell, To a young man, buachaill I pray you tell, I'm the priest at home or may he be seen? I would speak a word with Father Green."

"The priest's at home, boy, and may be seen, The easy speaking with Father Green, But you must wait till I go and see if the holy father alone may be."

The youth has entered the silent hall, What a lonely sound has his light footfall, And the gloomy chamber's chill and bare, With a wasted priest in a lonely chair.

"The youth has knelt to tell his tale, 'In nomine Dei,' the youth begins, 'I'm the culprit,' he boasts his breast, And in broken murmurs he speaks the rest."

"At the siege of Ross did my father fall, And at Gorey my loving brothers all, I alone am left of my name and race, I will go to Westford and take their place."

"I cursed three times since last Easter day, At Mass-time once I went to play, I passed the churchyard one day in haste, And forgot to pray for my mother's rest."

"I bear no hate against living thing, But I love my country above the King, Now, Father, bless me and let me go, To die if God has ordained it so."

The priest said naught but a rustling noise, Made the youth look up in wild surprise, The robes were off and in a scarlet glare, Sat a Yeoman captain with fiery glare and with fiery hoarse, Instead of a blessing he breathed a curse: "There's good brought, boy, to come here and shrive, For an hour's time is your time to live."

"Upon your river three tenders float, The priest in one—if he isn't shot."

LABOUR COURT RECOMMENDS WAGE INCREASE FOR WEST WATERFORD CREAMERY WORKERS

If a Labour Court recommendation put on Tuesday last is accepted, storm and general workers' employees of Knocknagoshel Co-operative Creamery Limited, of Ballinacorney, Cappoquin, will receive a 12.70 increase per week for 12 months dating from April.

The union representing the men, the Amalgamated Transport and General Workers Union, sought an increase of 63 per cent as part of the second phase of the 12th round agreement, and the company had offered 22 per cent.

For many provincial papers the imposition of VAT amounting to almost 6% on advertising would be disastrous.

An immediate and substantial jump in the cost of advertising in the large media—radio, TV, daily and Sunday newspapers—would make it enormously more difficult for provincial newspapers to retain even their present share of national advertising.

"At the same time the cost of local advertising would rise considerably and a reduction in employment and news coverage.

Referring to the role of the press, Mr. Bergin said that because newspapers were so long established they were taken for granted.

"If we were switched suddenly today to a country where newspapers are just part and parcel of the government apparatus, we would undergo a traumatic experience, a sense of tremendous loss and isolation," he added.

"It is difficult enough for a newspaper publisher today to maintain economic viability. Once economic pressures bear down on the press with greater momentum, as is now the case, that liberty of which we speak to keep the public fully informed is gravely endangered."

"And if on top of the other economic pressures, we have to face now a new and involved direct tax on our newspapers which does not exist in any free country, then the situation becomes intolerable. This is why we have no hesitation in asking again for a full remission of all taxes on information."

"We shall not cease to protest and to campaign to have the existing tax reduced and to enjoy exclusion from the coming blanket value added tax which the British Government has granted to its newspapers."

MONEY NEEDED TO EXPAND DAIRY PRODUCTION

We are now being presented with a magnificent opportunity to expand our dairy production and the only thing holding that expansion back, as far as farmers are concerned, is the shortage of capital to undertake the job.

Mr. T. J. Maher, President of the N.F.A. when he spoke at an N.F.A. Munster dairy farmers convention in Limerick.

Mr. Maher said: "Now is the time to make this extra money available for the time for capitalising on this expansion is quickly running out. I must point out that even if this capital is now invested in dairying it will take two years before we can reap the rich benefit it will provide."

"There is a great urgency about this whole problem. If the borrowing of capital has to be done then it should be done immediately for we could be borrowing for a better cause."

He pointed out that we are heavily dependent for our meat and livestock exports on dairy producers. The greater the buoyancy of our exports of meat and livestock the greater will be the buoyancy of our economy.

Calling for the immediate abolition of the differential price system of payment for creamery milk, Mr. Maher stated that the N.F.A. also wanted an immediate price increase on all quality milk of 3 new pence per gallon.

This would be a once-and-for-all payment which would cost around £13 million but this cost to the Government would be for one season only.

Within 18 months this country would be entering the E.E.C. transitional period and then this cost would be the responsibility of the Community rather than the national Government.

Mr. Maher said dairy farmers were well aware of the extent of cost increases in recent years for it is not so long ago that an increase of 10 per cent in fertilizer prices was announced. This in itself was a heavy blow to the progressive farmer, who must rely heavily on fertilizer applications to boost grass production.

Increases in grass production were absolutely necessary if milk output is to be increased.

For prices too had been increased. During the year 1970 alone, there was an average increase of 8 per cent in compound feed prices; and these already had been further increased this year. BORD BAINNE CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS TO CONVENTION Mr. John O'Neill Chairman of Bord Baine and General Manager of Killesnohra Co-Operative Society stated at the convention: "We are now only 16 months away from the likely entry to E.E.C. and Dairy farmers may at last be able to plan ahead and to expect a reasonable reward for the long hours they have to work. We have the land and the climate to doubt our present milk output in 5 years, but this will take a huge capital injection, especially on our farms. "Half a million extra cows would be worth anything up to £10m. Even our present butter and cheese making capacity in the factories is capable of handling at least 50% extra. If we get to that stage we will still be far behind where Denmark and Holland are to-day. "Would it not be better to cut our grants and instead give capital to farmers at a very low rate of interest and repayable over a fairly long period. I think if the farmer has a suitable size holding, sufficient capital, and a fair price, he will not want grants or handouts from anybody. Land will become far more valuable and it may very well pay the farmer to reclaim land that is now producing very little."

"When we get into E.E.C. we will have many problems to face - I expect there will be problems that we cannot even guess at at present time, but at least we should leave no stone unturned to be ready. We have the foundation of a great marketing organisation in Bord Baine and it will be up to the producers to build on that. "If we go into E.E.C. with everybody fighting for his own selfish interest, then we will only have ourselves to blame and we will not even have the satisfaction of blaming the Government."

NEW DAIRYING BOARDS MUST BE FARMER CONTROLLED MR. BUTTIMER

Any new Dairy Marketing Board which would be established if Ireland joins E.E.C. would have to be controlled by the farmers' co-operatives which at present produce 75% of Ireland's dairy products. This was stated at the Convention by Mr. Jerome Buttimer, President of the I.A.O.S.

The I.A.O.S. which for the past six years has been attempting to prepare creamery co-operatives for future competition, will continue to press for more efficient units in the future and at the same time seek to co-ordinate the marketing of the production of these plants, Mr. Buttimer said.

The I.A.O.S. President warned that apart from strong competition from non-dairy products like margarine, the Irish Dairy Industry would face strong competition from EEC countries. "It is vital for us to face up to this situation now," he said, "and we must immediately prepare for it by forming a close-knit dairy industry which will enable farmers to obtain maximum return for dairy products on home and export markets."

Mr. Buttimer stressed that only through joint action could Irish co-operatives hope to hold the home market against competition and continue to expand the world markets which Bord Baine have established.

N.F.A. SAYS PIG PRICE INCREASES ARE INADEQUATE

The N.F.A. has said that the increases in the guaranteed prices for pigs were not sufficient to cover increased costs of production.

For example, the increase of 70p per cwt in the guaranteed price for the 'A Special' grade was less than half of what the N.F.A. regards as being necessary to cover costs and to stimulate production. This was particularly serious, the Association said, since pigs of this grade are higher quality pigs, producing a carcass of the kind which makes the best return from the market.

Officials of the Department of Agriculture had recently agreed with an N.F.A. delegation that it was imperative to maintain confidence within the industry. These inadequate increases in guaranteed prices will not achieve this.

The Department has also decided in spite of the N.F.A.'s representations to modify certain grade limits. The N.F.A. believe that there is no proof that this measure is necessary. Irish bacon is presently selling as well or better than other bacon of similar quality on export markets. This indicates that the quality of Irish bacon is well up to the standards required by consumers in these markets.

The Department has said that the higher price now introduced for the 'A Special' grade takes account of the change in the grading standards. The N.F.A. does not see how this is possible, since the increase in the guaranteed price does not even cover cost increases arising from increases in feedstuff prices and wage rates.
