SADDEST NOTICE IN YEARS

Coming from the issue of the Leader of February 19, a notice in the column headed "Saddest Notice in Years" which appeared in the issue as follows: "Forthcoming Important Sale of Dungarvan Station and Buildings 'Therom' and tersely remarks: 'Surely the saddest notice in years!'"

This notice goes on in one of the columns in Dungarvan on Wednesday, March 8, and will finally end on a full page for many, especially those more mature, among us.

Let my correspondent take up the story: "Now only memory—the Rosslare boat—this excitement as it raged along between green water and grey sky—onwards round Ballyville—with Dungarvan bay below and Abbeyside ahead on those misty, summer mornings—over Barrow's bridge—through MacGovern's railway gates—across the Causeway—and finally into DUNGARVAN STATION."

She then sums up the wonderful feelings that crowded her mind as she submitted the following verses, written several years ago following the closing of the station, which she rightly suggests as being very appropriate at this time: "Deserted now the signal box above the rusted track; knee-high the grass and nettles grow where sleepers warp and crack; grey cobwebs drape a waiting room; where last goodbyes were cried; before the boat train pulled away to pass through Abbeyside. The point and posters peel away from once-green, glossy walls; and where a high-pitched whistle blew a lonely seabird calls. No passengers arrive by train; no luggage to unload; no papers, parcels, milk or mail; no hackneys in the road. They closed the station long ago, and even closed the line, but many memories cling round that old DUNGARVAN sign. Familiar faces, voices call for greetings through the years. Those happy meetings full of joy, and partings full of tears. Now only broken windows crack; and dead leaves flurry past; along an empty platform where grey shadows lengthen fast."

SUCCESSFUL APPEAL AGAINST ASSAULT CONVICTION

DISTRICT COURT DECISION REVERSED BY CIRCUIT JUDGE.

Stating that he thought that the District Justice was wrong in his decision, Judge Fawcett at Dungarvan Circuit Court last Tuesday allowed an appeal brought by James Walsh (32), farmer, Ballymullala, Villierstown, against his conviction and sentence at the District Court, Dungarvan, on January 12 last.

On that occasion he and Patrick Cooney (60), farmer, Barranastook, Cappagh, were charged by the Attorney-General with unlawfully assaulting each other at Barranastook on November 26.

Having heard the evidence, District Justice B. J. Carroll, convicted James Walsh and imposed a sentence of 14 days imprisonment, but directed that the warrant be not issued if he was of good behaviour for 12 months and paid £20 compensation to Mr. Cooney. The case against Patrick Cooney was dismissed. Mr. Walsh appealed against this decision.

When the case came up for hearing on Tuesday, Dr. D. R. Coughlan, State Solicitor for the Attorney-General said that it was a typical rural assault case in relation to land and it had already been the subject matter of hearings at previous sittings of the Circuit and other courts. Both parties concerned were large farmers and the trouble was over a gap from which one held that the other removed some bushes. This led to a row during which the assault took place.

Patrick Cooney in evidence stated that he lived at Barranastook with his son-in-law, Emmott Nugent. On Sunday, November 26 at about 1 o'clock he went down to the fields along the right of way which was common to James Walsh. He wanted to see whether bushes which were in a gap leading into one of Walsh's fields had been removed. He stood in his own field and saw James Walsh come along and remove the bushes. He went out to him and asked him to leave the gap closed so that their cattle would not wander in. Witness said that Walsh then pushed him through the gap, knocked him to the ground and struck him twice or three times with his fist. He added that Walsh pulled him by the collar and took it away with him. He admitted that he might have struck Walsh during the scuffle but said that he did so only in self-defence.

PEACE PROPOSALS

Sgt. T. CARRY DUNGARVAN, in evidence stated that he visited both parties after the incident. Mr. Cooney was in bed at home and his left eye was black and bloodshot, there was an abrasion on his forehead, a cut under his left eye and a bruise on the top of his head. Around his face there were also little spots like thorn pricks. He was in a distressed condition. Witness said that he saw Mr. Cooney's waistcoat which was torn at the left shoulder and the front was torn from the back.

When he saw James Walsh he had a slight cut like a prick of a thorn on the top of his head. Witness then said that he went to the gap where the incident occurred with the parties. James Walsh was there with his brother Michael and Patrick Cooney was accompanied by his son-in-law. He cautioned both and then tried to put forward peace proposals so that they could live together as peaceful neighbours. He went on to say that Patrick Cooney was agreeable to the proposals and James Walsh was at first inclined to agree and would agree only for the presence of his brother Michael, who would not allow him to shake hands with Patrick Cooney.

James Walsh in evidence said that with his brothers Michael and Fiddle he farmed about 190 acres over 100 acres of which was on high ground. His father died in 1966 and up to that time relations with Mr. Cooney were friendly. However, soon after his father died the position changed.

Questioned by Judge Fawcett witness denied that he ever moved any bushes from the gap in question and said that there were also 4 strands wire across it. He had 40 or 50 cattle in that field all the summer and they never wandered on to the passage.

On the Sunday evening in question he was coming down from the upper part of his farm where he had been counting cattle. As he approached the gap he heard a voice behind him saying "I have you now" and he then got two blows on the head. He fell in through the gap over the bushes and was gunned. Cooney went in after him and witness said he caught Cooney's coat and held on to it. He admitted striking Cooney during the fracas but said he had done so only in self-defence.

THE BATTLE EYE OF THE BRIGADE

Choice for our ballad corner this week is a great old song about the Irish Brigade which fought in the service of the King of France:

The mess-tent is full, and the glasses are set,
And the gallant Count Thomond is president yet.
The veteran arose like an up-lifted lance,
Crying—"Comrades, a health to the monarch of France!"
With bumpers and cheers they have done as he bade,
For King James is loved by the Irish Brigade.

"A health to King James," and they bent as they quaffed,
"Here's to George the Elector," and here they laughed,
"Good luck to the girls we wooed long ago,
Where Shannon and Barrow and Blackwater flow,"
"God prosper old Ireland!" you'd think them afraid,
So pale grew the chiefs of the Irish Brigade.

"But, surely, that light cannot come from our lamp?
And that noise—are they all getting drunk in the camp?"
"Hurrah! boys, the morning of battle has come,
And the general's beating on many a drum."
So they rush from the revel to join the parade;
For the van is the right of the Irish Brigade.

They fought as they revelled, fast, fiery and true,
And though victors, they left on the field not a few;
And they, who survived, fought and drank as of yore,
But the land of their heart's hope they never saw more;
For in far foreign fields, from Dunkirk to Belgrade,
Lie the soldiers and chiefs of the Irish Brigade.

They fought as they revelled, fast, fiery and true, and though victors, they left on the field not a few; and they, who survived, fought and drank as of yore, but the land of their heart's hope they never saw more; for in far foreign fields, from Dunkirk to Belgrade, lie the soldiers and chiefs of the Irish Brigade.

THE AUGUSTINIANS IN DUNGARVAN: 1295 - 1972

INTRODUCTION... The Augustinians in Dungarvan... This was through the Normans that the Augustinians came to Ireland. The name of St. Augustine was not unknown, however, to the pre-Norman Celtic Church.

CANONS REGULAR... This was through the Normans that the Augustinians came to Ireland. The name of St. Augustine was not unknown, however, to the pre-Norman Celtic Church.

THE NORMANS... Many students of history to-day are aware of the Norman invasion of Ireland as one of the greatest disasters to befall our country. More discerning historians, however, who have weighed the pros and cons of the case, are of the opinion that it was a blessing in disguise.

FOUNDATION... Dungarvan was to be the site of the second foundation in Ireland of the Augustinians. According to authentic sources (3), the families of MacGrath and O'Brien were the founders and benefactors, respectively, of the Abbey.

ABBEYSIDE... The site of the new Abbey was on a promontory of land separated from the town by the sea. This was later to become known in official documents as "The Abbey-side" of Dungarvan.

ITINERANT SCRAP DEALER CUT TELEPHONE WIRES

A 23 year old married itinerant scrap dealer who stole copper wiring valued £235 by cutting telephone lines between Dungarvan and Ballinacorney and left the area without telephone services for several hours pleaded guilty to the charge when he appeared before Judge Sean Mac D. Fawcitt at Waterford Circuit Court in Dungarvan.

FOREST FIRE DANGER... The early Spring is a time of grave danger for forest lands. During the Spring, dry dead vegetation which has not been covered by new green growth is highly inflammable and can carry fire with great speed over long distances.

DUNGARVAN MAN FINED AND DISQUALIFIED... His list of previous convictions indicates his attitude. Commented Supt. M. Sills at Kilmacthomas Court, when prosecuting in a case against Patrick Hekey, Luskendarrin, Dungarvan.

TOWN CLERK PROMOTED... Mr. John P. Robinson who has been Town Clerk to Dungarvan Urban Council for a number of years has left town to take up his new position as County Accountant to Limerick County Council.

JAIL SENTENCES FOR DUNGARVAN MEN ON LARCENY CHARGES

Three Dungarvan men appeared at Oshin Court, and two of them were jailed for three and five months respectively. The third defendant got the benefit of the Probation Act. The charges involved the taking of a safe containing £124 from a Dungarvan bookmakers' office and the larceny of four bottles of wine from a shopkeeper.

Joseph Sullivan, 33 years, 21 Fitzgerald Terrace, Dungarvan, and his brother Terence Sullivan, 41 years, 23 Boreenarra, do., were charged with breaking and entering Richard Power's bookmakers' office at Mary Street, Dungarvan, at 3 a.m. on February 16th and with stealing the safe and its contents. Both defendants pleaded guilty.

Supt. M. English, Dungarvan, said Terence O'Sullivan came up to the Sergeant and freely admitted his part in the incident. He was a married man with nine in family and had never been in trouble of any kind before. The safe and its contents had been recovered.

Joseph Sullivan told the Justice "it was all my fault" and was fined £100 and ordered to pay £100 for costs. In the second case, Joseph Sullivan and Patrick Cosigan (30), 15 Cathal Brugha Place, Dungarvan, were charged with breaking and entering the premises of Robert Meany & Co. at Parnell Street, Dungarvan, stealing 4 bottles of wine, and maliciously breaking a plate glass window to the extent of £40.

Tallow and Round About Notes

Buy Irish And See Ireland—The urgent movement presently being put forward in relation to buying Irish manufactured goods and holidaying in Ireland concerns everyone of us. There is little doubt that the Northern trouble is going to effect tourism this year, especially from England.

The late Mrs. M. Collins—A timely report in the past week's issue of the death of Mrs. Mary Collins, formerly of Chapel Street, Tallow, who died at Whitty's Cross Hospital, London recently.

Member of the family—A highly respected family, she was a quiet and inoffensive nature. In her young days during the 1840's War, she was on the outdoor staff of Tallow Post Office on postal deliveries in the Pike, Lymacarriga and Kilwaterney areas.

Other guests present were Mr. Jackie Fahy, T.D., Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister for Agriculture and Fisheries and Mrs. Fahy; Mr. John Kennedy, T.D., Minister of State for the Department of Agriculture and Fisheries; Mr. Noel Davern, Minister of State for the Department of Agriculture and Fisheries; Mr. Willie Ryan, Killeicks, Co. Tipperary.

G.A.A. NOTES FROM TALLOW

The Late Noel Curley—His full name was Cornelius Curley and he lived in West Street, but he was never known as anything else except Neil Curley. Nobody knew Cornelius Curley but Neil Curley.

Old Youngful Metal Bridge Goes At Last—The remains of the old Youngful Metal Bridge, spanning the Blackwater, is being taken down at present. The firm of P. O'Sullivan, Galway, are engaged in dismantling it and the bridge is being dismantled in sections.

Each Community Centre Opened—The new Community Centre at Inch, Killeagh, was officially opened on Sunday night, February 26th and it proved a real gala occasion. There was a very large attendance present for the first performance of the 1972 Inch Community Centre.

Local T.T. Bits—It's a pity T.T. did not take the tip. He would have avoided a rather nasty fall. All T.T.'s travels got him nowhere after all. But at least he had the pleasure of being made a come-back with T.T.

Things We Heard—That there seems to be a lot of interest for the lady from In- in of the B-11 chap.

Waterford Crash to Dublin Division—Dublin 3-1. Waterford 8-6. After only one season in the premier division of the National Football League, Waterford now find themselves back in the second division. Waterford's relegation was a bitter blow to their vital tie at Croke Park.

FOR YOUR There is a copy of New Postal S Send us particu PENSMAN BEH IN OR OUT It is a great pity th terrible tragedy of th is having the effect of from the forthcoming re turn on the question Common Market and it posed. Constitutional d really deserves. I know is almost impossible for who are becoming horrified every day the dreadful happeni the six countries to their minds with any of concentration to pro and cons of joint EEC. But within a few mon will be asked to vote a issue and for that every citizen in the c should try to become interested in the matte There are those who that the only future h country is to join and the people of Ireland whose behalf, and on of the people of Ireland Foreign Affairs have a signed. There is also the EEC Movement and this is as equally adamant claiming that the only for the worker on out of EEC. Without doubt there great deal of confusion a people as to what they s do. There are, of course, those who will accept a question the protecon government and the me opposition party in the both of whom favour and who will vote blind joined. But that is not enough. The promise made by the protecon the EEC appear to be swif fulsome to be swif prices for farming produc unfettered market, a f standard of living to before with little or no len. In fact much sounds like the end o rainbow and the eventc crock of gold. At last, Maudy's me of the County Commit Agriculture in Dungarvan member from Stradbally, Tom Foley, asked for a st to be held to be to the members in some what it is all going to especially for the farmers. Chief Agricultural O. George Frost who has re toured some of the co Market of which he is convinced that there g choice for us but to g However, he agreed the present, 28 per cent of population of this co depended on agricultur a livelihood as compared from 5 to 10 per cent in of the Common Market c. When someone asked v the 18 to 20 per cent at leave the land in Ireto bring the percentage EEC farms were to go n could give a convic answer. Someone menti their absorption into ind until it was pointed out the number of unempl and redundant of pres the country is running bet 10,000 and 80,000 and ri while Clr. Foley interie and they have a total million unemployed in EEC.
