THE CONSTITUTION AND THE CHURCH

As the dialogue which has been going on between the North and the South has resulted in an apparent agreement by the Government to make a statement on a proposal to amend article 44 of the Constitution, the idea here is to examine the special position of the Catholic Church in the Republic.

The matter was raised at Question Time in the Dail by De La Salle last week. In his speech the Taoiseach stated the Minister for Local Government proposed to make a statement on the holding of a referendum on the votes at 18 issue, on Thursday, 30th November but it would not be possible to include the Constitutional issue in this. However, he indicated that the Government were in favour of it and that as he understood there would be little objection coming from any quarter to the proposal he did not think there would be any difficulty about presenting that issue as soon as a suitable opportunity arose.

We probably all recognise this as a proper move towards a new Ireland which will bring changes in many fields. But why must the move be one-sided? If the Catholic Church is to lose her special position in the 26 counties what about the special position which the Protestant Churches hold in the six Counties and in England? Will they also be prepared to step down there if the Catholic Church is to lose her present position here?

P.S.—Since writing, a Bill dealing with the matter was introduced in the Dail on Wednesday.

THOSE TRAFFIC

Each week morning Radio Eireann transmits its "Morning Airs" programme commencing at 7.30 a.m. and besides the musical interludes and news bulletins which it contains it also includes information about the traffic flow in Dublin and other larger metropolitan centres for the benefit of commuters. I am a fairly regular listener to this programme up to 9 a.m. and invariably I am struck by the regularity of the traffic jams which occur in most of the main thoroughfares bringing the heaviest traffic from the principal suburban areas into the city. Buses, cars, lorries and other vehicles become so strangled at times that all grid to a halt. On Tuesday morning, the announcer from the traffic control centre stated that a bus in the vicinity of Amiens Street had been stuck in the jam for almost half an hour and he appealed to bosses and school-teachers to be lenient if employees or pupils were late in turning up. With these terrible traffic hold-ups occurring morning after morning in the capital it amazes me why the Government and the town planners continue to encourage more and more centralisation there. Dublin has undoubtedly become too big and the road systems certainly are no longer capable of coping with the demands of the traffic volume which flows into and out of it each morning and evening.

The very obvious solution was contained in some remarks which a lady, now residing in Wicklow town, passed during a conversation which I had with her on the problems which the general increase in traffic in all areas have brought about. She mentioned a man who had been living in a Dublin suburb with his wife and family and who came every morning until the overload on the roads became so great that these massive jams built up every morning and evening. No longer willing to put up with the frustration and worry which they caused for him, she told me that he sold his house and with his wife and family he moved down to Wicklow.

Now he leaves by early morning express train which brings him to within easy walking distance of his office in Dublin and morning after morning as his train glides easily along by Dun Laoghaire and Blackrock he can serenely look out and see many of his friends caught in the usual traffic jams on the roads.

I think that it's time our planners learned something about this problem of traffic so that the snags and snarls which now afflict Dublin will not soon turn out other larger built up areas into similar maelstroms of traffic chaos.

THE DUTCH ARE GOING

IRISH—IN A BIG WAY
A contract signed in Amsterdam at the end of last month is aimed at bringing 10,000 Dutch people into Ireland next year, most of them to the south and south west. Mr. Charlie Cullinan, Managing Director of West Cork Travel and Mr. Bob Lighthart, head of Prim-Air, the biggest privately owned tour operating company in Holland announced in the Dutch capital that they will commence their big 1973 airlift of Dutch people into Ireland in January. The contract was signed by Mr. Lighthart and Mr. John Spahn, Aer Lingus tour sales and director and it provides for an all-year-round charter service.

Amongst the hoteliers and other tourist interests from the Dungarvan area who travelled to Amsterdam for the signing of the contract was Mrs. Dottie Flynn, of Lawlor's Hotel and Mr. Frank O'Beirne and Mr. Sev Baumann of the Dungarvan Sea Angling Club and they joined with hundreds of others who were present from this country in celebrating the occasion with a week-end of first-class entertainment.

Incidentally in view of remarks of Waterford County Council concerning hotel prices in Ireland it might be of interest to note that under the new charter service, a Dutchman can have a Art-night's holiday in Ireland for the price of a double room for one night in Holland's top hotel!

Under the new contract a two weeks holiday here can be had for £30 (and that includes the hire of a bicycle through in)—the price of a double room (presumably with breakfast) for one night in the Japanese Okura Hotel in Amsterdam. But all hotels there are not that expensive. The first-class Port Van Cleve in central Amsterdam offers a double room for £12.50 with a third bed in the room cost-

Future of Kilmac V.E. school in jeopardy

COMMITTEE TO SEEK MEETING WITH MINISTER

Accused of adopting a "dog-in-the-manger" attitude in regard to proposed expansion works at the new Vocational Education School at Kilmacomas, built a few years ago at a cost of £50,000 the Minister for Education is to be asked by the Co. Waterford Committee of Agriculture to receive a deputation to discuss the matter.

At a specially convened meeting of the Committee in Dungarvan last Tuesday, members highlighted the chronic shortage of space in the school which was opened less than three years ago. It was finally decided to go over the heads of Department officials and seek a meeting with the Minister (Mr. Faulkner) "to lay it on the line" for him the urgency of further expansion of the Kilmacomas school.

Mr. A. Deasy said he had visited the school last week and was appalled at the conditions. There was no assembly hall, no staff room or library, and totally inadequate toilet and cloakroom facilities.

"The most depressing thing of all," said Mr. Deasy, "is that the children and teachers cannot leave the classrooms on a wet day even during the lunch and morning breaks."

When Mr. K. O'Ryan queried if a highlighted had planning in the first instance when the school was about to be built, the Chief Executive Officer, Mr. Donald Kelleher, replied that the school was so designed that a second storey could be provided if the need ever arose. "That need now very clearly exists," he said, "but all our efforts to get the necessary Department sanction have failed."

Mr. L. Comerford said they must now go beyond the officials and seek a meeting with the Minister. "He is himself a teacher and he will surely understand," Mr. Comerford added.

Mr. S. O'Rourke said he felt the Department had already made its mind up that there should be no further development of the Kilmacomas school. "I regard this as a deliberate act by the Department to condemn the school to failure and I support the suggestion that we go over the heads of the Department officials and meet the Minister."

Mr. W. Kenneally, T.D., said the school was designed with a second storey in mind.

Mr. T. Buckley, N.T., said it was also time that the parents of Kilmacomas woke up and made their voices heard on the issue.

Mr. O'Ryan—The very future of the school is in jeopardy because of this dog in the manger attitude of the Department.

When it was finally decided to send a deputation to the Minister, Mr. T. A. Kyne, former Labour T.D., suggested that they should augment it by the inclusion of two or three representatives of the Kilmacomas Parents Association.

ENGLISH GIRL IS "QUEEN OF THE LAND"

Wins Major Macra Award At Tuilmore
Congratulations to Miss Sheila Hallahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hallahan, Tuilmore, Arleigh, who was selected "Queen of the Land" a county wide competition organised by Macra na Feirme at the final of the competition held in Tuilmore. Seventeen finalists representing seventeen different counties gathered in Tuilmore last week-end for what was the sixth annual "Queen of the Land" festival. The week-end embraced a variety of entertainment but the highlight was the crowning of the "Queen" at a dance held in the Central Ballroom.

The adjudicators this year were Mr. Declan Martin, President of Macra na Feirme, Mrs. Peter Murphy and Mr. Frank Murphy of Butler's Engineering Ltd., who were sponsors of the competition. Their choices of Miss Hallahan, judging from the applause which greeted the announcement, was certainly a most popular one. Runner-up was Miss Eireadubh Cahillane, Cork, with Miss Brid Guinan, Kilmacomas, Offaly in third place.

Miss Hallahan who is aged 23 was representing Waterford in the competition. She wins as her major award a cheque of £1,000 in recognition of a continental holiday for two with all expenses paid with other prizes as well. She plans to marry early in the new year.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR. AGAINST COURSING.

The Editor, The Dungarvan Leader. Sir, Another live hare coursing season has started but with a slight official disapproval. The Saboteur, in an attempt to bolster up the current season, shows us some of the current season's hare coursing. Live hare coursing is a crime, at any time, but it appears particularly so to carry it out after attendance at services. It is a hypocrite's game, to pay homage to Him who said "Blessed are the Merciful" and go out to display the Saboteur, to the creatures which He created.

A kite was flown in the previous season when official hare coursing Club fixtures on Sundays were held for open courting, without any responsibility to the Department of Lands which, at the request of State-revised an article in the Irish Press, which was a model for Europe and which has not yet been even glimpsed.

It is the Government waiting for the hare, other badger, deer and our other wildlife to follow that other recent victim of man's cruelty and greed—the rabbit—into virtual extinction and so save it the trouble of attempting to placate vested interests if controls were introduced.

Speaking in 1970 the Minister for Lands stated "the concept of conservation and, in particular the restoration of man's responsibilities and obligations to all animal species, domestic and feral, was rapidly gaining support in Ireland." When is the Government itself going to heed those words and give the animal species proper protection from cruelty by introducing the long-awaited Wild Life Bill? When is it going to remove the special clause in the 1962 Protection of Animals (Amendment) Act which permits the infliction of pain and suffering for pleasure on wild animals by excluding them, outside captivity, from the protection of the Act designed allegedly, to prevent cruelty? Actions which were then cruel if carried out to a domestic animal became not illegal when carried out to a wild one.

Let the Government translate those words into action now. Yours faithfully, SEAN ALLAN, Chairman, Irish Council Against Blood Sports, Blackrock, Co. Dublin, October 19, 1972.

WARBLE FLY SCHEME GOING WELL. Despite a slow start in some areas, mainly to the good harvesting weather, the Warble Fly Eradication Scheme has been going very well and about 2 1/2 million cattle were dressed by mid-October. The indications are that, given full co-operation by herd owners, all eligible animals will have been dealt with when the official dressing season ends on 15th November.

Reports reaching the Department indicate that while the vast majority of farmers are co-operating fully, there have been some cases of herd-owners refusing to co-operate or not presenting all their cattle for treatment. The Minister for Agriculture and Fisheries wishes it to be clearly understood that, as from 10th November, anyone having cattle in his possession must have a valid certificate in treatment for every eligible animal in his possession to co-operate fully in the Scheme. Ballysaggart to capture title IF THEY PLAY TO FORM Says Commentator

ALL activity in the West on Sunday next will be centred on the Cappoquin venue which will stage a three-tiered programme, including the County finals in junior hurling between Western champions, Ballysaggart and Mount Sion and the under 16 hurling County final between Tallow and Erin's Own. The final will be preceded by the National hurling semi-final in which Tallow will play Dungarvan. On the inter-county front, Waterford will play next Sunday at Stack Park, Tralee, to play Kerry in round three of the National hurling League.

Senior clubs whose players are not involved in any of the above matches will be involved in Pheasant Cup matches at several venues throughout the County.

JUNIOR FINAL. Mount Sion's wonderful record and reputation in senior hurling has been known to inspire many of their younger grade teams to defeat better quality opposition in the past and this together with the fact that Brian Shanahan will not be available to play with them, may elicit Ballysaggart's effort to win next Sunday's junior hurling County final. I believe that if the Western champions ignore this opportunity and go out and play their regular brand of hurling as they did in the Western final that they will win their first title in the grade.

Mount Sion's team which defeated Dunhill's second side in the Eastern final certainly did not look wonderful and several who saw the match are agreed that Ballysaggart can take this title.

Mount Sion, in fact, are by no means well off in the matter of good material in this grade and while they normally spare a few good seniors for this team, they are only seen on paper in the limited season, they did not seem to manage this year. In fact, the only senior players who have any worthwhile senior experience are Dicky Roche and Michael O'Connell. Michael O'Connell, who has played in the Eastern matches to hold his own, is a very popular Ballysaggart side.

I feel confident that if Ballysaggart go out and hurl as they did in the Eastern final, they will win the title. They will win the title. They will win the title.

JUVENILE FINAL. I am sure that our Tallow correspondent will fully cover the juvenile hurling County final in which Tallow take on Erin's Own in a certain raise to the top. By all accounts, Tallow are really up against it in the juvenile final. This year, they are going to take a man-of-war to sea. They are going to take a man-of-war to sea. They are going to take a man-of-war to sea.

APFANE FANGLED. The Tallow-Cappoquin alliance are really riding the crest of a wave just now and it will take some really good opposition to stop them in any of the three grades of the championships in which they still remain in contention. On next Sunday they have everything to commend their chances of getting to the final of the under 16 football championship when they take on Dungarvan in the final. Their display against Cappoquin three weeks ago, was enough to win any side of the club senior side in the county. Frank McCarthy, Danny Ryan, Pat Meehan, Jim Denn, Pat Meehan, Liam Scannion, Pat Ryan, Vince Tobin, etc., etc. On the field as well as on paper, this side looks a championship team. Dungarvan who scored Ballyduff at the end of the season, will go to Tallow on Sunday. They are going to take a man-of-war to sea. They are going to take a man-of-war to sea. They are going to take a man-of-war to sea.

Our Intermediate hurlers will be meeting Cappoquin in the Western final on 12th of November. It is a very tough contest and our hurlers are in a tight tussle with a good turn out of players each night.

SCOR 73. Arrangements are now completed for the coming "Scor" and the going well. The first round will be completed by early December. With a losers group in the club championship this season, the number of competitions will be greatly increased. This will compel the Committee to stick to a very tight schedule. There will be three for draws and two for losses.

BOARD MEETING. The Board will meet on Monday night next to make final arrangements to complete the championship and to arrange a date for their Annual Convention. The next Convention is due to be held in Dungarvan.

LAST SUNDAY'S RESULTS. N.F.L.—Limerick 3-7, Waterford 0-7. I.F.L.—Cappoquin 2-11, Ballysaggart 1-11. M.H.F.—Tallow 4-4, Dungarvan 0-4. Nire 2-5, Ballynacorney 0-4. Ardmore 2-5, Portlaoise 0-2. Strathmore 1-3, Ballymore 1-3. An Ríocht 2-6, Mitchels 2-3.

TALLOW RETAIN WESTERN MINOR HURLING CROWN

Reigning minor hurling champions, Tallow, held on to their Western crown at Cappoquin on Sunday last. But few can deny that they were lucky to survive against a Dungarvan side, who in the closing stages looked certain to win against the odds, only to see victory snatched away by one of those "lucky" goals direct from side line puck.

But whatever their affiliations, all in the attendance at this rain-lashed and windswept venue could but salute two gallant teams, who overcame atrocious conditions to serve up one of the best finals in this grade for many a long day.

Tallow, the near invincible, got off to a flying start with a tonic goal after only three minutes. The "lucky" bidding for their first Western title in eight years, struck back with Pat Meehan and Paddy Flynn absolutely juggling it at midfield, equalised after ten minutes and were 3-1 to 1-0 ahead coming up to the break.

Then in the final minutes of this first half, Tallow, whose spirit is seldom conquered before the final whistle, struck with two goals to leave Dungarvan holding a slender 3-1 to 3-0 lead at the interval.

Three minutes into the second half tragedy struck Dungarvan when two of their top forwards, Paddy Flynn and Paddy Sullivan collided. Flynn had to be replaced as Sullivan was left a virtual passenger in the full forward line.

Despite these setbacks, Dungarvan still led by a point ten minutes from time, and with Tallow reduced to fourteen players after midfielder P. Fitzgerald was sent off a few minutes earlier, the Old Boys' looked all set to take the title.

But then fate took a hand and Tallow watched the softest of goals when a 35 yards side line cut by Seamus Treacy went direct to the Dungarvan net.

The champions now sensed victory and finished in great style to lead by 3 points after an excellent hour's hurling.

Tallow's Seamus Treacy was one of the outstanding men on the field.

Good excellent assistance from Pat Flynn, Liam Ahearn, Kieran Ryan, Tom McCarthy, Bernard Pratt and Francis Shannon.

On a Dungarvan side which surprised most, Liam Dwyer, Jimmy Sullivan and Declan Quinlan were the stars in defence.

Pat Meehan and Paddy Flynn were superb in defence while in attack in which the absent Liam Foley was sadly missed, Paddy Flynn, Paddy Sullivan (until their injuries) and R. Treacy were the main scorers.

Ref.—J. O'Gorman (Tourin).

Tallow 4-1; Dungarvan 4-1. Repeating minor hurling champions, Tallow, held on to their Western crown at Cappoquin on Sunday last.

WATERFORD FAIL TO LIMERICK Dismal Opening In N.F.L.

Limerick 3-7; Waterford 0-7. Waterford, seeking promotion to the top grade, failed miserably to Limerick in their opening game of the National Football League, played at Walsh Park, Waterford, on Sunday last.

Despite the home ground advantage, Waterford never managed to overcome the atrocious conditions and with most of their big men subdued could never match a lively Limerick side.

Although the visitors faced the gale force wind in the first half they never once faltered under the strong Waterford pressure.

In fact Limerick looked the more impressive side with their defence harassing the Waterford attack to such an extent that Waterford, having shot 12 wides, were holding a 0-4 to 1-2 lead at the interval.

Limerick's best were Pat Harrigan, P. Fitzgerald, Ryan, M. Ahearn, J. Cahaly, C. Shanahan, P. Aberpe, P. Graham and M. Ryan.

Waterford's best were Pat Clancy, Tom Moore, Michael Power, Noel Walsh and Tom Power.

Scorers—Limerick—C. Cregan (2-1), Cahaly (0-2), P. Fitzgerald (0-4), M. Ryan and S. Burke (0-1) each. Waterford—P. Harrigan (0-1), T. Power (0-2), P. Walsh (0-1).

NEW PROPOSALS FOR ANCIENT VILLIERSTOWN CHURCH

Seven years ago the 200 Catholic inhabitants of the picturesque West Waterford village of Villierstown lauded the spirit of ecumenism shown by the Villiers-Stuart family of nearby Dromana in providing, as a gift, to the Catholic Church, a Protestant edifice, built by their predecessors in 1752.

But now His Lordship, Most Rev. Dr. Michael Russell, Bishop of Waterford and Lismore, has decided that the church should be handed back to the Villiers-Stuart family rather than have it become a total ruin.

A visit to Villierstown by a reporter revealed the very obvious disappointment that the Catholic Church authorities had not seen fit to retain the church and have it renovated. Disappointed though they are, the residents have now banded together and set up the Villierstown Church Appeal Trust by which it is hoped to raise sufficient funds not only to complete renovation of the church but to provide a community centre there as well.

What is planned in fact is an ecumenical church where Catholic and Protestant services can be held. It would then become the first church of its kind in the diocese of Waterford and Lismore, and indeed more probably in the entire country. Half the very large building will be partitioned off for the ecumenical church services and the other half will be devoted to a small community centre with library and amenity facilities.

Mr. Gerard Browne, Secretary of the Villierstown Church Renovation Fund which was formed in 1965 after the Protestant Dean of Lismore, Rev. Gilbert Mayes, had formally presented the church to the Catholic authorities, estimated that the total cost of their planned project would be £20,000. The funds collected at the time by the Renovation Fund Committee would now be handed over to the Church Appeal Trust, he said, while the fund-raising campaign would be continued with the support of the entire village and surrounding districts.

Mr. Browne said work on the church had already commenced, and it was hoped that church services could be held there in about six months time. "Our village," he said, "has vainly sought its own church for many years now, but the Catholic church authorities simply did not want to know. But now nothing will stop us from realising our ambitious plans and very soon we will have set a headline for the whole country by the establishment of an ecumenical church."

Mr. Patrick Villiers-Stuart, Dromana House, himself a Catholic, is now leading the concerted campaign to raise the necessary funds so that these ambitious plans can be brought to fulfil and successful fruition. £2,000 is immediately required, he said, so that essential repairs can be carried out to the roof, windows and floors of the church.

He is very positive that if their objective is achieved Villierstown will then have Ireland's only ecumenical church "where people may hold and attend services whatever their religion," he says. "It will further provide an opportunity to offer to the young people of the area facilities for spare time study and recreation, a focal point in fact for constructive activity and will end a situation in which people have nowhere to go other than to pubs or on the streets," he added.

Abolish Factory Farming Dear Sir, The Continental 7 day early weaning system has been introduced commercially into this country. When the piglets are seven days old and weigh five pounds they are put into cages, nine to a cage and the temperature is kept at 80 degrees Fahrenheit. They are kept in complete darkness except during the feeding period, twice a day. After three weeks they weigh fifteen pounds due to continual sleep and lack of exercise. Then they are transferred to flat deck cages, six to a cage, where they stay for another five weeks, again in complete darkness. At the end of the eight weeks they weigh fifty pounds and are ready for slaughter. When the lights are turned on the piglets go berserk, biting, squealing and rushing about as far as they are able in their restricted quarters. What an existence! It is a disgrace to a civilised country to treat animals in this abominable fashion. Many of the big breeders are now rearing pigs in this way and it contravenes the "Codes and Practices" which specifically lay down that no animal shall be kept in complete darkness during the hours of daylight.

We should protest strongly against this exploitation by pig breeders merely for a financial gain. The sow may be relieved of the stress of lactation but under the system she is in pig again immediately after farrowing and so produces many more piglets during the year. There is also a saving in the sow's feed.

Yours faithfully, LUCY NEWMAN, Hon. National Organiser N.S.A.F.F., 42, Mount Pleasant Road, London, S.E.13, 23rd October, 1972.
