ST MOLLERANS Our hurlers won their way to the semi-final of the senior hurling championship when they defeated St Mollerans in at Dungarvan on Sunday last Never have I seen a team to play with such courage and deter mination At times it looked as if their whole lives depended After an un-goal in the fortunate own first 7 minutes telling effect on the team, they quickly settled in again and mination of the team They hurled with great fire and were awarded with great points from Johnny Foley and Liam Ahearne Then came the goal Ahearne from Ahearne one from Gerald McGrath and and intend-revival of ome within manding lead at half-time 3—6

THE LABOUR BORUE

It is ironic that a ballad written during "the hungry thirties" when unemployment was rife in the "Black North" should once again be topical. The ballad tells in a cynical fashion of the man who dreamt that when he went to sign on at the Labour Exchange or Bureau (Borne) in those times he was accorded VIP treatment

Last night I had a dream bad cess to my dreaming I thought I was standing the 'Labour Borue,' But when I got inside the clerk said he was sorry
For keeping me standing so long in the queue Just take a seat for I'm sure Sit down and rest and I'll sign up for you And if you're feeling hungry just call the attendant,' I shouted 'Good heavens' is this the Borue';

Then the Manager says Will you have a small brandy We've got whiskey, rum, we've porter and gin.
And if you're feel thirsty I'll bring you a shandy, Sit down by the fire while your drink's coming in'
He then brought me cigars
cigarettes and fobacco,
'Just have a smoke and I'll light up for you,'
He then asked the attendant

There were no forms to fill in and I got quite excited. No supervisors, just do as you please.

When they told me they had ask for more He then shook my hand and he bid me good morn Says he 'there's a taxl for you at the door

But when I arrived home sure the wife she embraced me A thing she hasn't done for the past twenty years, Says I 'here's your money! I know you don't need it,
'Just keep it yourself' as she smiled through her tears.
But oh! in the morning I heard the wife calling
'Have you had a nightness.

'Have you had a nightmare' I just heard you scream, For all you are good for i eating and drinking,'
I shouted 'Too bad it wa only a dream!
