reading I referred to the which Minister for oraise Local Government Mr Jimmy Tully had for members of Local Authorities when he ning of the Phelan Cup for the spoke un the pre-Christmes Salt of the earth" members John Hennessey and other things the Minister soid Denis Conway on their wonder-"they deave political and they leave political and other views completely out of their considerations

Well if Mr Tully was at the monthly meeting of Waterford County Council in Dungarvan last Monday he would literally have had to eat those words for he, himself, was the source of a discussion which was so blatent ly political that it could not be denied

Members of the Figure Fall Party attacked Mr Tully for cutting back on arouts loons Michael and income levels for houses gate any matters brought to its notice and will have power to the outgoing Mossie Hallahan impose match suspensions on who had set a very high stanthe opposition supporters par ticipating in a real slagging heartedly kept ringing the Order bell amid cries for Order There were references to bully-boys as one side attempted to shout down the other and the position was positively crystallised in the end when one member said that all of what had taken place was politically slanted And that is the "salt of the earth" for you

A simple love-song which once more tells of the emigrant's to seek his fortune over the ocean is Aileen' which is our choice for this week -

Tis not for love of gold I go, "Tis not for the love of fame. The fortune should her smile I may win a name And I may win a name

And yet it is for gold I go, And yet it is for fame That they may deck another

And bless another name go to brave a world I hate And woo it oer and oer And tempt a wave and try Upon a stranger shore Aileen Upon a stranger shore.

Oh ' when the bays are all my own know a heart will care Oh when the gold is wooed and won know a brow shall wear Aileen

I know a brow shall wear And when with both returned again native land to see know a smile will meet me And a hand will welcome me And a hand will welcome me
