At another place this chapter in the book states "Low lor's Hotel in Dungarvan will be found very comfortable and the charges moderate Capt Curran has also a fine hotel

Other hotels listed in the book (it was published about 901) for Dungarvan at that time were the Hibernian, the Devonshire Arms and the Eagle The charges referred to above as "moderate" were given as follows for most of these hotels (the prices are of course, given in "old" money) Bed and attendance 2 shillings, Plain breakfast, I shilling, Breakfast with meet and preserves, 2 shillings, Lunch, from 1 shilling to 2 shillings, Table d'hote dinner, 3 shillings and 2/6d, Ordin ary dinner, such as chops, steak, etc. 2 shillings and 3 shillings, tea, 1 shilling

Surely the old £ went a long way in those days!

I hope to refer to further extracts from this very inter esting and informative book

Our ballad choice this week is one which tells the old, of story of the heartache of a woman whose loved one died in one of those many battles ought in days of long ago

There's a tree in the green-wood I love best of all, It stands by the side of Easmore's haunted fall, For beside it while sunset shone bright far away, I met for the last time my

"Twas to have but one fare well, then speed to the fray 'Twas a farewell forever by Johnny Dunlea

For the red Saxon soldies lay hid in the dell,
And burst on our meeting with loud savage yell, But their leaders red life-blood I saw that sad day And it stained the good sword of my Johnny Dun-

My curse on the traitors my curse on the ball
That stretched my true love by Easmore's haunted fail
The blood of his brave hear ebbed quickly away, And he died in my arms there—my Johnny Dunles.

As our little contribution to the Bicentennial we will re-place our usual Irish ballad in "Marching Through Georgia"-

Bring the good old bugle, boys, we'll sing another song Sing it with a spirit that will start the world along,
Sing it as we used to sing it, fifty thousand strong,
While we were marching through Georgia

Hurrah! hurrah! we bring Hurrah! hurrah! we bring the jubilee!
Hurrah! hurrah! the flag
that makes you free!
So we sang the chorus from Atlanta to the sea
While we were marching through Georgia

How the darkies shouted when they heard the joy-found

How the sweet potatoes even started from the ground,
While we were marching through Georgia

Yes, and there were Union men who wept with joyful tears, When they saw the honour'd flag they had not seen for Hardly could they be re-strained from breaking forth in cheers, marching through Georgia.

industry or the services There was a lengthy discussion on the National Pay Agree-ment at the meeting and there was general disquiet in relation to the clause which allows employers to claim inability to pay It was also felt that the workers in the high income bracket have benefitted more from all previous national pay agreements and will benefit more from this one than the lower paid worker This is due to the fact that all increases are on a percentage basis and the higher the existing pay the greater the increase It was fes that it would be much better if there was a flat rate increase all round as appertains in Eng land. This would not erode the differential in incomes but it would keep the gap from widening Preparations were made for the annual flag day which is on Saturday, July 3 and Sunday July 4. The public are asked to support this as it is the only source of revenue available to the Trades Council There was a resolution passed in support of the need for a Casualty Service in Dungarvan. o the Editor UNGARVAN LEADEI

RTE or BBC Dear Editor—At the risk of being unpopular I would like your recent eader, on the campaign to coadcast BBC on the second channel I must gree though that there is ood reason for complaint conerning the present Quantity and Quality of programmes on R.T.E. I would never agree hat you get good value for noney compared to us here in England I must however, ask, by B.BC in particular-why not Russian or Chinese Teleision—as far as I am able to judge the present Quantity of Programmes on RTE are mostly BBC or American now The only Irish programme I I have been coming home on holiday are the All-Ireland finals otherwise its just like living in England The proiving in England most everything is NON IRISE you lo. want to immerse yourselves even more in all British Programmes anyone so interested in British Programmes should pull up stakes ind move over here and mayie shove a Union Jack out hi front window for good mea-

The introduction of British Programmes on the national network at home will achieve for Great Britian what thou sands of British Soldiers could not do over many hundreds of years Its a big laugh really-can you see the American Public campaigning to have Russian TV broadcast over their national network—yet here we have a Bunch of Prized Twits in Ireland campaigning to have British TV programmes broadcast all over Ireland. That be the case thank God for the IRA Yours truly S O'MATHUNA
