It was indeed heartening to learn that all those clubs which are equally well run came home with the good news that their were accepted by the

The next important news is that the Calendar of Angling Dates will be got under way without delay Sometime early in the new year The Gaff will be available

OUR FISHERMEN

The clubs should support our fishermen in their fight for existence agains the organisation and wanton destruc-tion of their fish stocks by foreigners that are determined to take everything out of the seas This destructive type of fishing off their own coasts and now they want to do likewise in the waters around these Islands. Get your club to get in contact with the Fishermen's Association and the Minister and call for a 50 mile limit Remember our fishing is for sport but the fisherman's ivelihood is threatened

The Waterford Council of Trade Unions has pledged support to the fishermen and has called on the Minister to sup-port the fishermen in their demand, a demand it is and not an appeal to extend the limit to 50 miles His Majesty feels that the fishermen and their families will not lack the support of our Dail and Seanad members as well as our Public Bodies representatives, their cause is a just one Starting from the next issue

"the "dead" man was John Connors, no fixed abode, but etated to be a native of the Baltimacourty area, of Dungar van. The change arose out of an accident in the early hours of April 24th last when he was knocked down by a motor cycle driven by Tony Elstead, Ballin-Eistead also appeared before the count charged with careless Evidence was given by James Commors who told the court he was walking home with his brother John on the night in question when a motor cycle auddenly struck his brother and knocked him down.

"I lost my wits completely when I saw my dead brother on the roadway:" witness said. And tendering subsequent evidende he repeatedly referred to "my dead brother"

However, Mr E. P King, Sor epresenting the motor cyclist asked Connors in cross examination. 'Is your dead brother in count today,' to which Connors replied "yes sir" The witness added that there was no could be as little as five new move whatever from his bro- pence her on the roadway for fifteen minutes after the accident Garda H.
