In the service of the Nation

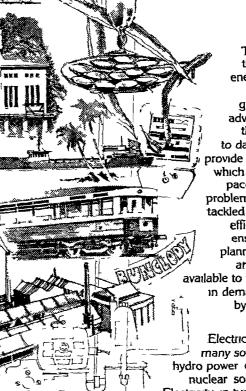

Fifty years ago The Electricity Supply Board was established and given the tasks to bring electricity to the maximum number of people at the lowest possible cost and to pay its way fully

Today 99% of all homes in Ireland have electricity Its cost compares favourably with those of any other energy source and also with prices in other parts of the world Throughout its fifty years the ESB has met all financial com mitments without recourse to the taxpayer

It has been an exciting fifty years in which the ESB has played a vital role in helping industry and agriculture to develop in contributing to laising living standards and in using to the fullest possible extent the national resources of this coun for the benefit of people As the ESB in co operation with Bordina Monal developed the peat resources prosperity was brought back to areas which had been threatened with emigration and decline As electricity was made available to every corner of the country it became possible to set up new industries and to provide new jobs

Thousands of other jobs were created too as the ESB developed its own expertise and technology jobs for young people in every walk of life jobs which provided well paid and satisfying employment

There are great challenges to be met in the future New nergy sources will have to be utilised to meet the evergrowing demand. The rapid advances in technology mean that the ESB must keep upto date with such advances and rovide the training and expertise which will be necessary to keep pace with developments The oblems of rising costs must be tackled by achieving ever greater efficiency and the ESB must ensure by adequate forward planning that generating plant and networks will always be available to meet the constant growth in demand for electricity created by our economic and social Electricity can be produced from many sources of primary energyhydro power oil, coal peat, natural gas nuclear solar, wind and wave power Electricity in turn is the universal refined energy which can be used to carry out all the tasks in the factory farm home, office and shop In the future, as in the past, the

ESB will continue to maintain the service to its customers which is one of its proudest traditions

TOURIN G.A.A. NOTES

Tourin are in the umor hurning final and deservedly so after one of the most dramatic comebacks Cappoguin Gaelic Fied ANNUAL DRAW— with less than 15 minutes left in last Sunday's game Tallow were six points ahead and seemingly in control of the match But they reckoned without Patrick Mulifian Cappeding Tourin's remowned sey Ballyhussa Kilmacthomas Spirit An S Barry goal started the fight-back and the vital scores duly followed

This was essentially a team effort and if the same spirit can be main ained for the final we will be bringing the cup back this spirit from the start We we'e lucky to be in a position to come back" last Sunday, we might not get the same chance in the final

There is a lot of training to be done for the final and every member of the panel must train We still have the odd few who think that they don't need training but a better effort will be expected from these over the next few weeks Training sessions will continue as before I will publish exact details in next weeks notes
