ing He told me he had a few fields cultivated but could get no seed. He had applied to the landlord to help him to get seed, but the answer he received was 'give up the land and go about your business'.

"Such is the case with hundreds of tenants on the mountain lands of Ballysaggartmore and adjoining districts at the present time if the poor farmers could be supplied with seed oats, wheat or rye, were they able to keep a cow, a horse, or some sheep by their industry they would have been able to meet the demand for rent and support their families. The cow, the horse, the wearing apparel, the furniture and even in extreme cases the bedclothes were pawned to support existence.

Fifteen or sixteen once fairly comfortable homes have been levelled and while I am writing, I hear the steward and his bailiffs are, on Monday next, preparing the same fate for all tenants unable to meet the demand for rent.

"As I have been informed the whole tenancy amounting with their families to over 700 persons on the Ballysaggart estate are proscribed. The land which the tenants got when it was not worth taking, when, according to the evidence given before the Land Commission, by the Very Rev Dr Fogarty (Parish Priest of Lismore at the time), though having it rent free, they found it difficult even to produce the common necessities of life—the food that now by hard labour had been brought under production, and which in these three years of scarcity and famine made little return for the labour expended, must revert to the landlord. The producers of that fertility must be cleared off the estate and from their humble but happy homes but to ensure the impossibility of their making a living, the very year of suffering, hunger and sickness, the landlord issued an order taking from his tenants all rights to the turf lands on their holdings. By this decree many of them lost a valuable source of their small incomes as they were prevented from selling turf which was not needed for their own use."

We will return with a further extract from the booklet next week.

NICE TO HEAR
A regular subscriber to this paper is Mr Joseph H Hickey of Los Angeles, California and writes this month when renewing his 'sub' for the coming year, he wrote "Please know that the Dungarvan Leader really brightens my day."

It is nice to hear things like this, especially when said by an exiled reader.

MARY OF TIPPERARY
Our choice for the ballad corner this week is one so typical of many old songs in Ireland describing in profuse terms the beauties of some comely maiden, on this occasion Mary of Tipperary.

From sweet Tipperary see light hearted Mary,
Her step like a fairy scarce ruffles the dew
As she joyously springs and as joyously sings
Disdaining such things as a stocking or shoe
For the goes barefooted, like Venus or Cupid
And who'd be so stupid to put her in silk,
When she sweet foot and ankle the dewdrops bespangle
As she trips o'er the lawn at the bush or the glade
As she with her full pail of milk

For the dance when arranged see this night mountain maid
If her hair she would braid with young beauty's fond lure
Over some clear fountain stooping her dark tresses looping
Dana herself ne'er had mirror more pure
How lewds on the toilet would fashion dare soil it
With paint or with patches when nature bestows
A beauty more gemlike, in which artless dimples,
Heaven's light in her eye the soft blue in the sky
Heaven's light in her eye, and a blush like a rose!

Gnotha on Tuesday night the following Selection Committees were named and will function until the completion of the 1978 senior championships.

Senior — Pat Coffey, Seamus Power, Greg Fives, Jim Quirkie and Dave Leamy De La Salle. This shows one change — Leamy coming on for Joe Coady.

PRESS EXCLUDED

The ongoing controversy about the parking bye-laws in Dungarvan and the application of on-the-spot fines was taken a step further last Monday night when the local Urban Council held a meeting from which certain members of the Press were excluded to discuss the current position with Garda Superintendent M. English. The reasoning behind the exclusion of the Press is something that I cannot say, perhaps the Urban Councilors did not want to let the public know what they were on about or thought that they could prise more concessions from the Garda authorities in a "star chamber" session.

I understand that the meeting lasted for about two hours and that it was agreed, under pressure, to issue a prepared statement to the press as to what occurred later. This had not come to hand at the time of writing so I have to rely on the information which has leaked through to me. In a nutshell this was that the Superintendent, stood firm against any proposal to allow one hour parking on one side of Main Street, a concession which the Main Street traders who had formed part of the deputation which attended the previous "open" meeting of the Council had sought. However I understand that the Council passed a resolution calling on the Minister to initiate moves to make this change. Whether this was carried unanimously or just by a majority vote, I do not know. I also understand that there was a call for the application of the one hour limit on the parking at Chapel Lane and Lower Main Street. If this is so, it looks as if the Council are hell bent in taking every bit of full-time parking from motorists in the town and that they will have to look for a further public car park as the space there will become overtaxed.

There was quite a bit of reaction to the new enforcement of the on-the-spot fines too, by the street traders who took over the Square on the old monthly "fair day" in Dungarvan on Wednesday last week. Those who parked on the Square had dockets placed on the windscreens of their vehicles but they took little notice as they believe that their street trading licences and the old charter designating the Square as a trading area will supersede the traffic laws and they are prepared to test this issue in the courts.

On a point of information I understand that where a vehicle is illegally parked in a one hour area only one docket can be issued for whatever period it remains there provided the vehicle is not moved. I refer to this as it was one of the topics which was mentioned in my presence when the situation, which has been "the talk of the town" since it blew up, was discussed last week.

But whatever about the claims of the street traders as regards their rights to park and trade on the Square they should be called to book for behind them when they leave on Wednesday evening of last week I went to the Square as up to date of them was packing area was covered with litter. Certainly leaving the town centre in this kind of mess after their visits is really rubbishing it in!

SEEKING INFORMATION ABOUT RELATIVES
Dungarvan Town Clerk, Mr. Bernie White, has passed me a letter which has received seeking information about certain family relatives. It comes from Mr. Lawrence Duff, 14 Rolling Green Drive, Milford, Mass (01757, U.S.A.) who states that his grandfather, Michael Foley was born in Dungarvan and emigrated to the U.S. in 1879. He also mentions his grandfather's dental clinic in Dungarvan and that where gas had to be administered the patient had to travel to Waterford because facilities for this were no longer available here. Cllr. Kyne is on record as saying "this is a stupid situation and one not designed to save money." I could not agree more.

When Cllr. Kyne suggested that the Health Board be contacted to see that a dentist be appointed for Dungarvan so that children and others concerned in the town and district could receive the service to which they were entitled he was informed by the Chairman, Cllr. Charles Curran who is also Chairman of the Health Board that the dental service was inadequate due to the lack of equipment and personnel. The latter added that the dentists were not satisfied with their remuneration and negotiations were in progress on this score.

The importance of an adequate dental service, especially where children are concerned, cannot be overstressed and it is a shame that this is being withheld because of a financial squabble between the dentists and the Minister.

DEVELOPMENT AWARD FOR RING GAELTACHT
As briefly announced in the "Leader" last week the Ring Gaeltacht won a prize of £500 in this year's Gaeltacht Community Development Awards Scheme initiated by Gaeltarra Eireann and sponsored for the first time by the Commission of the European Communities. The prize goes to the Development Committee of An Rinn and at the Dublin presentation of the awards by the Minister for the Gaeltacht, Mr. Denis Gallagher, T.D. last week, Mr. Michael Maye, the regional officer for Gaeltarra, received the award on behalf of the Chairman and Secretary of the Ring Development Committee, Seamus Mac Craith and Tomás O'Ceallaigh who are both teachers. A local presentation in An Rinn is to be arranged.

This year the European Commission joined eleven major Irish companies in co-sponsoring a special prize fund Gaeltarra Eireann's aim in initiating this 5-year scheme three years ago was to encourage the establishment of development committees and groups which would undertake worthwhile development projects within and with the co-operation of their own communities, and to provide through the prize-fund financial assistance for the continued development of such projects.

Thirty-eight communities now participate and the activities in which they have become involved relate to every aspect of life—agriculture, fishing, industry, education, health, tourism and the environment. That Ring came out on top in face of all this competition speaks volumes for their effort and efficiency and they are to be congratulated. The Comhairle Pobail in Ring will decide, in due course, how the prize-money will be spent.

SONG OF THE DAWN
Our choice for the ballad corner this week is a patriotic one composed by Brian Banban a pen-name which I think covered the identity of Brian O'Higgins who was the composer of many similar ballads to this one called Song of the Dawn—

The song I sing is a song of home
A song of Ros, a Dubh
Of glade and glen of ford
and fen,
Of lake and mountain blue
Of signs that stand o'er all the land the song I sing
To let of the song I sing
Let your voice ring in the song I sing
Sean Eire na nGael go deo!

Hurrah! the night's ended
We see the dawn red glow
Oh shout it high is a
freeman's cry
Sean Eire na nGael go deo!

I sing of every wood and stream
Of lower and vale and town
Where brave men died where brave men tried
To tear the red rag down
From Carrara's brave to the widespread waves
Where Lagan's waters flow
From Teamhar na Róigh to the winding Laoi.
Sean Eire na nGael go deo!

I raise a rann for the ones who tread
The path to the dawn's day
Who will baid a no more 'til
their native shore
Is free from the Saxon sway
Till from every hill and from every rill
The freedom cry shall go
From old and young in the Gaeltacht tongue
Sean Eire na nGael go deo!

THE PARISH OF LISMORE AND BALLYDUFF
Many readers have been following with great interest our articles on "The Towers" and the Kiely-Ussher estate at Ballysaggartmore and the following extracts from the history of the Parish of Lismore and Ballyduff compiled by a special correspondent who travelled through the area in 1847 and originally published in booklet form in 1946. As I have already pointed out this booklet is no longer in print so it is no longer available and I am quoting from a copy which I have in my files for many years. We continue with a further extract this week.

"The requisition of the turbaries (turf lands) by the landlord, Mr. Kiely-Ussher, was the crowning blow to the tenant's. The portions of their farms on which turf could be cut and dried for fuel with the surplus sold to those who needed it, were included in the original allotments made to the tenants, and now since 25th March last, they were forced to give up these turbaries.

EXTRA BEDS FOR LISMORE HOSPITAL?

Mr. Sean Glarville, Section Officer, South Eastern Health Board, Dungarvan, has informed Mr. Jackie Fahes, T.D., in a letter that the Board has, for some time been looking into the possibility of providing additional beds at Lismore District Hospital.

A proposal approved by the Board in August is to provide 7 additional beds by converting staff quarters and re-arranging the male and female patient accommodation (the latter stated).

However, it pointed out that the additional beds would involve an increase of staff, both nursing and non-nursing for which the Board would have to have the approval of the Department of Health. To date this approval had not been received.

G.A.A. NOTES

FOURMILEWATER GOOD ENOUGH TO WIN PROMOTION

TOURIN TO WIN THIRD HURLING TITLE
Says Commentator
 Opportunity will be knocking for a good many clubs on Sunday next as everyone of the four games listed has a final tag attached. Two are finals and two will be semi-finals. For the intermediate hurlers of Fourmilewater and the junior hurlers of Tourin it is county final day at Walsh Park, when the Western sides take on Clonca and Rathgormack respectively. As the Fraher Field Dungarvan and Bruckey Rangers renew first round rivalry when they clash in the intermediate football semi-final and at Cappoquin, Stradbally will play a place in a second football final this season if they beat Shamrocks in the junior semi. This is the kind of programme that could prove how easily one can be wrong four times out of four. It is a programme that has a certain uncertain look about it. In other words it is a day on which anything can happen.

FOURMILEWATER V CLONEA
 When Clonca defeated Passage in the Eastern final some weeks ago, most of the hurling people in the Eastern Division tipped them to win the county intermediate hurling final this year. Passage lost to Cappoquin in last year's county final and led by Nicky Conners they were rated as hot favourites to win out in the East and then take the county title this year. Passage were beaten by Clonca and they were rated as favourites to beat Fourmilewater in the final. In the West Fourmilewater took the title without having to be wonderful as in the early rounds neither Ballysaggart or Gealdanes were great and in the Western final Dungarvan struck an off day to allow them to win easily. So on Sunday they face their steepest task to date and they will need to hit top form to withstand this challenge. With Liam McCarthy, Phil Harte, Mick Connolly, Willie Paddy Joe Jim and Michael Ryan, Jim Wall, John Morgan, the Moores, etc they have a very useful selection. A selection good enough — if playing to form — to win promotion to senior ranks.

TOURIN RATHGORMACK
 Tourin first achieved fame as a hurling centre when they won the senior hurling county championship in 1950 by defeating Mount, Stion. Now their only remaining link with that achievement is Tom Ryan, who played a leading part in that win and who is now helping with the training and coaching of the team for Sunday's final. When Tourin won the county hurling championship in 1963 two of the men who played a big part were Ollie Wilkinson and Frank McGrath, who are still with the team and John Joe Scanlon and Tom Sullivan 1963 team and are still on the selection. Another interesting link with the 1963 affair is that Tucker Power who played in goal for Butlersdown against Tourin in that final is the referee for next Sunday's final. Four's opponents, Rathgormack are a rather tough unit compromising team who are reported to be "loaded" with experience and "knowhow". They have got nothing on Tourin there.

All these characteristics were seen to good effect in Tourin's midweek agonies against Clonca and Clonca. Says the Society's Dungarvan representative, Donal Spratt: "I was indeed surprised to hear the judges had awarded all four Lee children prizes. The children are doing there were twenty three entries in the competition. But several independent judges like we considered Diarmuid Lee's two pictures as the winner, and runner-up respectively. AREA SUPERVISOR, DUNGARVAN Officer Board meeting will be the referees report of the Tourin v St. Mary's junior hurling final. These who were at the game saw some of St. Mary's supporters misconduct themselves immediately after the final whistle. The outburst of very poor sportsmanship was completely uncalled for and it will be interesting to see how the Disciplinary Committee deal with the matter. Of course it is always difficult to deal with people who don't hold positions of responsibility. Warning fines or suspensions are never effective. We had experience of this during this and other seasons — the most recent being the Kinsale case. Anyway it is good to think that such people are not given positions of responsibility. This morning will consider the feasibility of a winter league and they will discuss the proposed coaching course. On Saturday night the County Handball Board will meet to discuss arrangements for the forthcoming junior and novice county championships, which are due to be held at Kilgobnet Alley within the next couple of weeks.

RECOVERING
 Readers will be glad to learn that the County Chairman, Padraig O'Fainin, who is hospitalised at the moment is making a speedy recovery and should, please God be back in action within a couple of weeks.

BEATEN AGAIN
 The original panel not available. Waterford fielded a much changed team from the published line-out for the second round game against Wexford on Sunday last. In spite of this their effort was described as their best display for this year — it was encouraging to hear at least that they all tried — as was not the case against Wicklow two weeks earlier.

It now seems certain that we will remain in Div 2 (B) South for another term. Our two remaining matches are against Carlow at Dungarvan on next Sunday week and against Kilkenny at Noian Park on November 20th.

It was a rotten day at the Fraher field and the weather played havoc with both matches and Vincent, Mulligan, who represented the Board at the Cappoquin venue had a similar story to tell.

The Bruckeys and Ballyduff had another close game with the Bruckeys winning by a narrow margin in the end.

In the under 21 hurling final Tallow and St. Mary's were level with three points each at the interval. Tallow did every thing right in the second half and were deserving winners on the score 2-10 to 0-4 at the end. In the last year John Lyons presented the trophy to the winners.
