This latest move by the post office people has been the subject of a good heal of criticism by business people and traders in the Dungarvan Urban area as it will mean a further restriction in their business activities While a number of concerns in the town and district do operate a 5 day Monday to Friday week many of the business houses still close on Thursday and remain open on Saturday so the mon-delivery of post, including parcels on Saturday will without count, prove a disadvantage to them. It would seem that wher decisions such as this are taken that very little co side ation is given to their effect on the public in go e al' and where such public services as that operated by the Depa tment of Posts and Telegraphs are concerned it would seem that this should be the prime consideration. The good of the majority longer | appears to be the guiding principles when such decisions now come to be

TIDY TOWNS COMPETITION

This year marks a milestone in the history of Bord Failte's Tidy Towns Competition It is 21 years since the first competition was launched and in the intervering years it can be said that no other gromo tion has done as much as this has done to arouse national interest in improving the appearance of the country in general

To mark its coming of age this year's competition will be boosted by a number of sponsors Bord na Mona has indicated its added interest in the competition by offering four provincial prizes of £500 to the town or village with the best presented residential estate This is an aspect of the rompetition which should be taken up by the residents

Increases in Social Welfare Payments for Children whose Parents are Separated

Where parents are separated and social welfare benefit is claimed by the husband it is not possible at present to pay increases in respect of children whom he is supporting if they are living with their mother. This anomaly is being removed from 1 April 1978

If you are receiving a benefit, assistance or pension from the Department which does not include increases in respect of dependent children because of the anomaly mentioned you should apply to have your claim reviewed

Unemployment Assistance for Women

At present single women and widows who claim Unemployment Assistance must, in order to obtain payment, have at least one dependant or have had 26 social insurance contributions paid in respect of them in the four complete contribution years prior to the date of claim. From the beginning of October 1978 these conditions are being abolished.

If, as a result of this change, you feel you would qualify for Unemployment Assistance you should apply for a Qualification Certificate as soon as possible If you are qualified you will then be able to claim payment of Unemployment Assistance without delay from the

The residence conditions applying to certain schemes are being relaxed from April 1978

The condition requiring an applicant for noncontributory Old Age Pension to have resided in the State for at least 5 years after age 50 is abolished

Also abolished is the condition requiring 2 years' residence in the State in order to qualify for a non-contributory Widow's Pension, Deserted Wife's Benefit, Desented Wife's Allowance, Unmarried Mother's Allowance, Prisoner's Wife's Allowance or Single Woman's Allowance

If you have been refused any of these payments because you did not satisfy the residence condition

mentioned, you should now re-apply
Claim forms for Old Age and Widow's Pensions are available at all Post Offices To claim Deserted Wife's or Prisoner's Wife's or Unmarried Mother's Allowance, write to the Department of Social Welfare, Phibsboro Tower, Dublin 7, and to claim Single Woman's Allowance, write to the Department of Social Welfare, 157 164 Townsend Street, Dublin 2.

WELCOME TO IRELAND Far across this dear Island

There's the richest land And the deepest human kind- 6 15-News Wherever you may go

We like to take it easy And its not a bad complaint Why join a losing battle While the answer is restraint

No lublarney Take a glass of Irish brew And a few bob at the races, Than join a passing queue Life moves away so quickly

So we've got to learn to live To join the fun and laughter Have a little more to give So that's why I love old Ireland It's got the answer true

In its nature and its people

With time for me and you had a call from Joe Rior-Kill v dan of Caseyville last week to tell me that while doing work mear the Slipway at the Lookout in Dungarvan recently they came across a stone with markings cut into it

The markings included the letters B G M with a crest in the centre and the stone was more v Portlaw at Dungarvan dated 1727 The peculiathing about it is that as Joe informed me, the markings were on the back of the store and only became visible when possible that it might have been taken from some other place before being used at the waterfront but whatever the letters B G M stand for the date certainly marks the stone

THE LOWLANDS OF HOLLAND

This is our choice for the ballad corner this week and I take it from 'Irish Ballads and Songs of the Sea edited by the well-known Cork man James N known Healy It is a very old song which was widely sung in Ireland and recalls the increasingly hard times of the peasantry rom the time of the Wild Geese" when all sorts of opportunities were availed of to get out of the country

Last night I was a married and on my wedding bed Up came a bold sea captain and stood by my bed-head Saying Arise you married man and come a'ong with

To the Lowlands of Holland to fight your enemy

I held my love in my arms still thinking he might stay But the captain gave another shout, he was forced to go

It's many a blithe young mar ied man this night must go with me To the Lowlands of Holland to fight the enemy

They took my love to a gallant ship a ship of noble fame With four-and twenty seamen bold to steer across the
