Maurice Kenneally will make them a force to be reckoned 42, Midleton 2-2 — This final the cause of much sorrow to with was played in Castlemartyr on conditions

Both sides made several attacks before Youghal scored their first goal from Johnny Morgan Previously Youghal had failed to convert a penalty when Richard McCarthy was grounded in front of goal

Youghal maintained constant pressure on the Midleton goal dering of several good scoring opportunities kept the issue

However Derek McCarthy landed a Youghal point and this was followed by a similar score from John Flaherty, and just side Church Choir hefore half time Eammon Walsh Requiem Mass was also offer length and a length scored a great goal

After the resumption Midleton had a penalty which was saved by Pearse Hennessy However shortly afterwards Midleton scored a goal by Michael stand the Midleton pressure John Healy conceded a goal when he deflected a high ball into his own net Midleton then landed a point and it seemed

But the Youghal team made a brave effort to score and were rewarded with a goal from Tom Hurton This was followed by a similar score from John Moran

PETER CROWLEY

A ballad of the Fenian Rising of 1867 which has close associations with the Ring Gaeltacht through the landing of the Erms Hope at Ballinagoul in that year is our choice for this It is Peter Crowley and goes like this

As I raved out one evening all in the month of June I strayed into an old churchyard to view a new built tomb

I overheard an old man say, as tears rolled from his eyes Its underneath that cold green sod brave Peter Crow ley lies

Then tell me Peter Crowley, come tell me, tell me true Who stepped into Kilclooney Wood that day along with Who stood behind that broad oak tree and fired that signal gun Who fought and died for Ireland, twas you my darling

The man who fired the signal went to his lone abode For many a mile he shouldered it a dark and dreary road Stiff and cold it's there you lay astoreen geal mo chroi Because you were a Fenian bold and fought for liberty

And now to conclude and finish as I have no more to May the Almighty and Eternal God soon raise you from your clay With a thousand men at your command and they both loyal and true, To conquer English, Dutch and Dane, as Irishmen

could do
