Last Bid To Save Cappoquin Factory

The 150 jobs threatened by the apparently imminent closure of the Cappoquin Bacon Factory may yet be saved Behind the scenes activity is going on in an effort to save the factory which has been the very industrial life line of Cappoquin and Lismore for several years

County Council agreed that deputation on Tuesday next the four TDs would seek a meeting with the Minister for Agriculture Mr Ray McSharry of Dail Deputies, Councillors to try and mount a rescue operation that would at least keep the factory open until a suitable alternative industry could be found to absorb the 165-strong workforce

poquin and Lismore for several years
Throughout West Waterford opposition to the closure plans has steadily gained momentum over the past fortnight
Now the four Dail Deputies for the Waterford Constituency including Minister of State Mr Jackie Fahey, have joined in the last gasp bid to save the reant.

Tourism Plan For Blackwater

A draft tourism development plan drawn up by Cork County Council for the Blackwater Valley could be a real money spinner a meeting of Fermoy Urban Council was told Cllr Michael O Dwyer a Cork Kerry Tourism director expressed optimism about the document which is being studied by a number of local authorities

Now the Fermoy Council has accepted his suggestion to in Mallow Urban Councils Lismore Town Commissioners Cork and Waterford County Councils to a joint meeting in the town to discuss the proposals

Cork-Kerry Tourism will also consider the document at a board meeting shortly The Dungarvan-Fermoy-Mal moted under the plan as a major inland tourist attraction linking Rosslare ferry port to

Another Fermoy UDC mem ber Clir Jack O Sullivan, who is also a Cork-Kerry Tourism director said the route has a lot to offer tourists including attractions which can be developed without big expenditure

Clir Tadgh O Donovan also urged support for the proposals which he hoped would bring ex tra revenue to towns along the

Blackwater Valley
Mr Wm F Harvey Acting
Assistant Co Manager told the meeting that the project pre-pared by the County Council's planning department is a very worthwhile one to lx completed
