3—The real question that was well and truly reflected in his impressive 3-1 win having expressly approved of the plans by resolution could later change their mind and use turn on the style with Mary their powers under Section 3 of the Act of 1955 to direct that works not be proceeded with The provisions of Section 2 of the Act describe a number of circumstances in which the Manager must inform the members of the Local Authority of bers of the Local Authority of later of the Local Authority of later of the Local Authority of later of the ladies was won by Louise for the selected in his impressive 3-1 win having to We must recall that event whenever possible Shortly after the visit one of our club mem whenever been was asked to put her the ladies was won by Louise fleming and the runner-up was Phil Donnelly 3rd Bernie Two mey 4th Anne Morrissey Best Ist nine, Kathleen Phelan Bers Ist nine, Kathleen Beresford Best 2nd nine Margaret O'Don nell

The result of the Mixed Fourof circumstances in which the Manager must inform the members of the Local Authority of certain proposals. In this case, it seems clear to me that Sub-Section 7 applies and the Manager was obliged as a general matter to inform them because his proposal involved the carrying out of works. This Section must be read in the light of Sub-Section 3 which provides that the members having been informed under Section 2 'may by resolution direct that the works shall not be proceeded with and the Manager shall comply with the resolution" It is quite clear therefore that even in the case of an executive function, as in this, where works are involved the Council may pass a resolution directing the Manager not to carry out the control of the Manager stable.

are involved the Council may pass a resolution directing the Manager not to carry out the works in other words not to perform his executive function 17 such a resolution had been passed in January I think the Manager would have been bound by it

4—The question which arises at present is whether the Council, having first approved of the works may now change their minds and direct the Manager to stop them The Act contains no express machinery on the enabling power for the Council and it is important to bear in mind that it arises only when the Manager has given information which he is bound to the Manager has g the Manager has given information under Section 2 (that is information which he is bound to give) I think therefore, that the reasonable construction to place on the two Sections combined is that the Council make a bined is that the Council make a decision to direct the Manager and their square decision to direct the Manager to stop the works when they are given the information and are given the information and not otherwise In this case they were given the information in January They were not then obliged to pass any resolution approving of the works They merely had a power to disappose to prove of them under Section 3 However, they did pass an ex-press resolution approving of them and that in my view con stituted a decision by the Council not to exercise its powers under Section 3 In other words I do not think that the Council can now validly change their
