This pressure has arisen from the mistaken idea that agriculture takes up over 70 per cent of the budget The true position is that when account is taken of the preferential import agreements undertaken by the EEC the true cost of the CAP is less than 45 per cent of the total bered that agriculture is the only sector where EEC Governmants have agreed to finance a Common Policy from Community resources rather than national resources and consequently it should be no surprise that agriculture accounts for a substantial part of the EEC the Christmas festivities Assessing prospects for the Christmas sides turkey trade Mr Michael Dillon | Waterford were on top from turkey trade Mr Michael Dillon Charman of IFAs Turkey Committee said in a statement last weel that numbers of fresh turkys for Christmas would be down by about 47 000 There had been a substantial increase in production of turkeys in the January to June period but these were for the processing trade and were packed as frozen these were for the processing trade and were packed as frozen oven ready birds or went for further processing Overall there was a nincrease of 39 per cent in turkey numbers from January to September but there was a reduction of 47 000 in the number blaced in June July and August when the Christmas tureys are started

Referring to consumption and mark ting changes, Mr Dillon sa d that consumption of turkey meat was now permanently established on a successful all-vear-round basis. This was described by the second half the winners had to wait 26 minutes before registering their only score in the half a Noel Conway goal. The most remarkable thing about the second half was its low scoring. Kilkenny getting their lone second half point per Mick Fitzgerald 2 minutes after Waterford had their goal.
