IT'S ALL OVER

The general reaction this week to the community report on the Christmas festival was one of relief that it was not as bad as usual. It was, in fact, a most enjoyable Christmas for most people.

There was no apparent shortage of money as people went to their traditional spending spree and all business houses and more especially the public houses and hotels reported the turn-over.

The weather over Christmas was a mixed bag and while the early part of Christmas Eve was wet and windy, it cleared up as the day moved on. Christmas morning was mild and sunny but the weather took another chance for the worse as the day grew older.

In the days prior to Christmas there was a steady build-up in traffic but it would appear that motorists generally paid heed to the warning to avoid driving if drinking and was good to learn when it was all over that there had been no accidents. As a matter of fact when I queried at the Garda Station in Dungarvan last Saturday morning, I was told that as far as the Garda were concerned it was a quieter than usual Christmas and that while there had been the usual consumption of drink, everything had been very orderly and well controlled.

One of the big attractions in Dungarvan this Christmas was the fine display in which the town streets were lighted with two fine Christmas trees the centre-piece at the Square. The erection of the lights was organised by the Dungarvan Traders Association and the total cost involved, which runs to almost £2,200, will be met through contributions assessed in units of £20 in relation to the size of each trader's premises in the town.

At the same time its own public Christmas tree and crib, erected as usual by the Village Pattern Committee so that the atmosphere of the occasion was well established throughout the entire Urban area.

Before leaving this subject of Christmas, 1980 I would like to go on record in thanking the many kind friends and readers who sent me so many beautiful Christmas cards with seasonal greetings and good wishes.

And to wish Christmas over to face another New Year. The festive is gone and the reality returns. Economic experts are forecasting a grim picture for the year ahead in 1981 but despite the gloom we must continue to have faith that in the end things will come right. It is with this hope uppermost in mind that I now avail of the opportunity to wish all readers of this column a happy New Year.

COLLECTED OVER £4,000 WORTH OF TOYS

Readers may recall that in this column a few weeks before Christmas I asked for support for a Christmas project being mounted by the Senior Patrol of the 4th Waterford (Abbeyside) Troop of Boy Scouts by which they asked the public to give old or broken toys which they would repair and paint before handing them over to a local charity for distribution to children who might not otherwise receive a toy at Christmas.

Well I was pleased to learn from a member of the Patrol who called to the "Leader" Office on Monday last that the appeal had not fall on deaf ears. In fact, anything but!

They were overwhelmed by the public response as a result of which they received toys which, when they had been repaired and freshly repainted were estimated to top the £4,000 mark in value.

Christmas In Dungarvan And Roundabout

Christmas was very busy but quiet in Dungarvan and no serious incidents or accidents were reported. Pubs reported a roaring trade but peculiarly enough there were no great singing sessions as the crowds gathered on the convivial occasions that punctuate the holiday period.

Churches were crowded on Christmas Eve for Midnight Masses but there were reports of a very big crowd and the fine morning favoured the forty or so swimmers, mostly adults, who bravely took the plunge to aid the Lions Club. The number of swimmers would undoubtedly have been greater but for the wide incidence of 'flu' in the area which claimed many victims in the days prior to Christmas.

Later in the day as families gathered at home for the traditional Christmas dinner it was very quiet outdoors with hardly a cricket on the move.

THIEVES ACTIVE

There were, however, a few thieves active in the area that evening when two cars were broken into, one of the cars was stolen from the garage of Mr. Fitzgerald, "Gremona", New Line, Abbeyside, and that has since remained unrecovered. The other car was stolen from outside the residence of Dr. A. Casey, at "Mountain View", Dungarvan, but following an immediate search by members of the family the car was recovered, undamaged, in Ballymacarbery.

The residence of Mr. Paul Quinlan at Abbeyside was broken into in his absence on the evening of Christmas Day and a large sum of undisclosed sum of money stolen.

The Garda in Dungarvan are investigating all three incidents. On the motorway, however, there were also very quiet and no cases of drunk driving or traffic accidents were reported.

GOOD HUNTING

St. Stephen's Day was not favoured by good weather but still it did not stop the racing and coursing enthusiasts from attending their annual meet at the Curragh. The Dungarvan Harriers met at Tournacina was the main attraction and of those who braved the elements there was a fine hunt. It is reported that all returned to base safely with the exception of one new ear which "foundered" on the course.

Trains and planes were well supported everywhere on Stephen's Night and also over the week-end.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

On Monday evening members of Dungarvan Lions Club acted as hosts at a Christmas Party for the girls of Curragh Special School held at the Devonshire Arms Hotel. Music was supplied by Jim Duggan and his group and a great evening's dancing and singing rounded off with a buffet meal of sandwiches, cocktail sausages and dessert with plenty of "fizz" and "pop" was enjoyed by all. A big number of members of the Lions Club led by their President, C. Brown, were present and danced with the girls and helped generally to make the occasion a very happy one for all concerned.

Freight Wagons Jump Rails

A freight train which had earlier delivered a consignment of heavy duty oil fuel to the Quilley Mountain Plant at Ballymacarbery, Dungarvan on Monday last was involved in a mishap on its return journey to Waterford that night.

Just as the train had passed through the level crossing at Curragh, about 17 miles from Waterford, the five empty wagons on the tail-end jumped the rails and entered along before causing. The train driver and guard were uninjured.

The wagons were extensively damaged and a section of the track was badly torn up. A CIE break-down crew commenced clearing the track on Tuesday and an investigation into the cause of the derailment is being carried out.

THE BOYS OF BARR NA SRAIDE

Several months ago I received a request for the ballad from Co. Kerry called "The Boys of Barr Na Sraide" several years ago we published it in this column but the words got mislaid until recently when I came across them again. So in my pleasure now to make "The Boys of Barr Na Sraide" (which translated simply means "the boys from the top of the signal, in Cahirciveen") I undertake our choice for the ballad corner in this the first week of 1981.

The town it inhabits the mountain and looks upon the sea. And walking there or sleeping, 'tis there I long to be. To walk again the kindly streets in the place my life began.

With the Boys of Barr Na Sraide who hunted for the wran.

With eagles stout we roamed to hunt the wran droolin. We searched for birds in every tuze from Leitir to Swinnin.

We jumped for joy beneath the sky, life held no print or plan. And we boys in Barr Na Sraide a-hunting for the wran.

And when the hills were blending and the rifles were a-flame, boys in Barr Na Sraide to the rebel home of Kerry the Saxon stranger came. But the men who beat the "kinkies" and fought the "Black-and-Tan".

Were once boys in Barr Na Sraide and a-hunting for the wran.

So, here's a health to them to-night, the lads who hunted with me in this column. In the groves around Callan river and the slopes of Seanallin.

Con Daly and Bat Andy and the Meehans, Con and Dan. Who were boys in Barr Na Sraide and hunted for the wran.

But now they toil on foreign soil where they have gone their way. Deep in the heart of London town or over on Broadway. And I am left to sing their deeds and praise them while I can.

More Safeguards For Consumers In New Act

The Sale of Goods & Supply of Services Act 1980 came into force on Tuesday last, December 30th, 1980. While consumers and buyers generally have certain rights under the 1898 Sale of Goods Act it has become desirable that new legislation be introduced which takes account of the circumstances prevailing in the 1980's. For instance, some consumers' "small print" and in other ways, this undesirable situation changed as from Tuesday with the coming into operation of the Sale of Goods and Supply of Services Act, 1980.

There are many other provisions in the Act, dealing with such matters as business-directory, unauthorised goods, giving powers to the Minister to regulate certain contracts or to give a "cooling off" period in some contracts (e.g. door-step sales).

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor, Dungarvan Leader.

Dear Sir, This letter I write you in the name of a group of young Dúngharaighs, a part of their free time by helping other people.

These rights cannot be taken away from consumers and can be taken away from other buyers. It is "fair and reasonable" to do so.

Countdown To Postal Autonomy Commences

The importance of the legislation which will establish the postal service as a state-sponsored body—and the necessity that the bill give the new board commercial freedom—are emphasised by the Chairman of the Interim Postal Board, Mr. Tom Quinn, in a Christmas news-let which was sent to each member of the postal staff.

Mr. Quinn is hopeful that the new Board will take over the postal service early in 1982.

Addressing the Board of Management of Waterford Co-op, the County Cavan President of the 10,000 strong I.C.M.S.A. said that the massive farmer demonstration in Limerick was only a first step and would not in itself necessarily achieve farmer targets or an adequate response to farmer demands.

He added that he could see the new year as being one of farmer protest, and he called for a uniform approach from farmers, their organisations and the Government.

He renewed his Limerick declaration that the Minister for Agriculture is not sending a package on behalf of Irish farmers to the E.C.C. Commission without consulting first with the farm organisations as to the contents of the package.

"It is our livelihoods and those of future farmers that are at stake. We have a right to know what Mr. McCarthy is negotiating in Brussels. What other sector would tolerate such 'behind-the-backs' behaviour."

It is shown to them in no uncertain terms in Limerick that the farmers of Ireland have had enough of the Government's policy of "expanding" said the I.C.M.S.A. press officer.

First Priority. The Government has increased prices were the first priority and the abolition of all discriminatory taxes, including farm rates, agricultural levies and the resource tax.

Referring to the ICMSA demand for the devaluation of the Irish Pound to give parity with the MCA's, he said the Government had offered no alternative.

The Waterford meeting was part of the ICMSA programme to prepare farmers for a possible campaign of action if there was not an adequate response to ICMSA demands.

DUNGARVAN LIONS CLUB

CHRISTMAS SWIM On Christmas Day over 40 hardy swimmers took to the water at Clonca Strand. While the 7th took its toll of some of our regulars, we were joined with the large turn-out of adults. John Hurley was on hand with hot soup when the swimmers emerged from the freezing waters.

A large group of spectators gathered on the promenade to encourage the swimmers. It now looks as if our Christmas Swim will become a gathering place to build up an appetite for the turkey.

We now ask the swimmers to return their cards/money to the person who gave them their cards. The revenue will be mainly used for the blind and we thank all the swimmers and their sponsors.

R.T.E. 2 FOOD BASKET In cooperation with R.T.E. 2 food baskets were placed in local supermarkets and the contents of these baskets were distributed to the very needy and we thank sincerely all who helped fill the boxes.

CARRIGLEA TRAINING CENTRE OUTING On Saturday 27th December it was our pleasure to host the students of Carriglea Training Centre to a "Christmas get-together" on Monday 29th December at the Devonshire Arms Hotel. Among the many attractions we had Perky Bear by courtesy of Perky Bear and a number of musical numbers gave their gifts free to entertain the girls.

DUNGARVAN GOLF CLUB

Well, Christmas has come and gone for another year. For the golfers it was a wonderful Christmas, starting with the presentation of some fifty bottles of whiskey on Tuesday, December 23rd.

On St. Stephen's night the club again hosted a superb disco which turned out to be another Christmas outing for the children. Later that night the club again hosted a superb disco which turned out to be another Christmas outing for the children.

On Saturday night, December 27th, we had a very successful quiz for members and friends. After some hilarious encounters the winners were S. Taylor, N. D. O'Keefe, B. O'Keefe, T. Reilly-Nagle.

Programme Changes On RTE 1 From Next Monday

Marking the end of RTE sponsored programmes on Saturday nights, a special documentary on Leo Maguire will be broadcast at 9.15 a.m. on Radio 1. One of the final sponsored programmes will appropriately be the long running Walton's programme presented by Leo Maguire himself.

In conjunction with the end of sponsored programmes some important changes in programme times and personnel will also take place from Monday, January 5.

Because of his heavy work load on television and radio, Mike Murphy is moving from the early morning slot, "Morning Call". His new programme "The Mike Murphy Show" will be broadcast from 4.30 to 5.55 p.m. Lorraine O'Meara who has successfully presented "Stan Abshire" for the past eighteen months is unable to continue owing to pressure of work.

"Morning Call" new presenter will be Valerie McGovern. The programme will be broadcast at 5.30 to 6 a.m. Monday to Friday. Valerie has already worked on the series and will provide the usual mixture of music, news-items and traffic information.

Because of the phasing out of sponsored programmes, Donncha O'Donnell's "Highways and Byways" will be broadcast at the earlier hour of 2.30 p.m. and will now be an hour long series. Tommy O'Brien's popular "Your Choice And Mine" will be broadcast on Sunday afternoons at 5.30 p.m. on medium wave. The programme will be repeated on Friday night at 9.30 on medium wave and VHF.

EARLIER START

On Saturday afternoons "Airs And Races" will now begin at the earlier time of 1.45 p.m. during the winter months, providing coverage of the earlier races.

"Aidan Sam Linnon", a new Irish language and music series, will be broadcast from 4.01 to 4.30 p.m. Monday to Thursday. This programme will be presented by Aidan O'Hara and will provide an additional opportunity to hear the best of traditional music and song.

"Club 91", a programme about young people active in clubs, groups and organisations, presented by Jimmy Greedy, will move from Wednesday to Saturday afternoons at 4.30 p.m.

"Hospital Requests" on Saturday 12.01 p.m. moves from 12.30 and replaces News. Hearings, Monday to Saturday.

DEATH OF PERCY ARLAND USSHER

Percival Arland Ussher, who has died in Dublin aged 81, was a writer, essayist, philosopher, an Irish scholar who published the first translation of Brian Merriman's "Midnight Court". He wrote extensively on philosophy, was an eminent and self-taught Gaelic scholar, and in his most popular book "Euse and Mind of Ireland" dealt with the Irish character.

Percy Arland Ussher was born in Battersea in London in 1899, but spent his youth in the family home at Cappagh, Co. Waterford. He was educated in Abbotskille school in Derbyshire, Trinity College, Dublin, and St. John's College, Cambridge, although he took no degree of any kind.

Describing himself as "a member of no Church," he came from a family that included two famous clerics — Archbishop James Ussher, who was christened in Saint Audoen's in Dublin and who attended Charles Ussher who got permission from Queen Elizabeth I to build Trinity College, Dublin. Many of his ancestors served as provosts or vice-provosts of T.O.D.

He turned his back on his family's traditions to become a self-taught Gaelic scholar, publishing in 1942 two classic books recording the way of life and customs of the Deise Gaeltach — "Caint an Sean Shaghaill" and "Caint an tSean Shaghaill". He literally followed a ploughman friend up and down fields with his notebook, recording his speech and anecdotes and spent many seasons in Ring where he attended the local Irish College as a student.

His translation of Brian Merriman's "The Midnight Court" was its first commercial publication in London in 1926, with a preface by William Butler Yeats. The only earlier translation was a literal translation privately printed in Boston in 1887.

In the 1930s Ussher began reading and writing extensively at his home in Waterford, and subsequently gave up farming — he said it bored him — and moved to Dublin, where he befriended writers, artists and intellectuals. He acted as Percy Ussher, in a few early Gate Theatre productions.

He wrote extensively on philosophy, and his works included "A Journey Through Dread," a study of the prevalent giving his views on Kierkegaard, Heidegger and Sartre, he also published "The Twenty-Two Keys of the Tao," a study not just of philosophical thoughts they stood for and "Sages and Sages," a textbook history of Greek schools of philosophy. He dismissed "Face and Mind of Ireland" published in 1961, along with much of his philosophical writing, as "naive." His own favourite book was "The Magic People."

In 1952 a study of the Jewish character from the Old Testament, it was intended to be done by many friends, he applied to the Irish Government in 1932 for the job of public hangman, and he will be claimed to be descended from Neil Gwynn, and said by rights he should be King of England. He wrote a travel book "Spanish Money."

For almost 30 years Ussher kept a daily journal of which only a few short extracts have ever been published, and listed his recreations as "keeping cats and a journal."

He served as president of the Royal Irish Academy of Letters from the mid-sixties for 12 years. After his retirement, he continued writing the 19th Century Medal. Only 20 of these have been struck, and they are awarded for outstanding contributions to Irish literature and learning.

In 1928 Ussher married Emily Aikhen, who died in 1974. He is survived by his only child, a daughter, Henrietta, who lives in England, and by his second wife, Peggy, whom he married in 1975.

CROSS COUNTRY FIXTURE
Dear Sir,
St. Paul's Athletic Club are holding their annual cross-country fixture at Killybeg, Waterford, on Sunday, January 11. There will be races starting at 1.30 p.m. for boys and girls in the following age groups: under 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16, and there are prizes for the first six in each race.

As the costs of holding this meeting are huge we are looking for support from all juvenile clubs in your area and hereby invite all those clubs to participate.

The County Championships are being held on January 18, and our meeting is the only opportunity to have a competitive race before then. So it will be particularly beneficial in that respect. If any club secretaries would be so kind to provide details they can contact me at the address given below.

Yours sincerely,

Now His Majesty sends out his Annual S.O.M. to all the clubs that support and read his angling notes. The Conger King does not set out for any of the notes but never did he expect payment as he does it to keep the angling to the forefront. NEWS FROM CAPPOQUIN

Rayway Athletic Soccer Notes The club's under 19's made their debut against a very capable Altane side and were unable to finish on the winning side of a 3-1 scoreline. They began impressively and in the last twenty minutes only the crossbar and upright denied them a goal. Then decisive blunders by Altane through for two quick goals from Declan Morrissey and Brian McCarthy.

Altane were much more in the game in the second half but the consistency of Michael Dowd denied them an accurate shot. Martin McGrath hit the post for Altane only for Altane to break at the other end and score number three. Michael Dowd had had luck in missing a goal but he had not missed a goal in the closing minutes.

Team: B. Berrin, M. Lacey, M. O'Leary, P. Casey, Frank, M. McCarthy, A. Power, P. Berrin, L. Morrissey, M. Power, S. Mason, C. O'Leary.

League Leaders - Altane led on 133 as undisputed league leaders, the Marple League clubs had 23 points from eleven games played. They are two points ahead of Tallow and three ahead of Lismore and Piltown. They will seldom encounter some adverse circumstances but in their 19-18 win over Lismore they were at Altane.

The game went on at Altane from a late decision ruled the club about 100 yards from the club of the R.N.L.I.

TALLOW AND ROUNDABOUT NOTES

The Late Mr. Patrick Ryan - It is with deep regret that we record the passing of Mr. Patrick (Paddy) Ryan, which sad event took place at his home in New Street on the evening of December 2nd.

The late Mr. Ryan was one of Tallow's most senior citizens and had been a member of the club since 1932 when he worked as an overseer for Waterford Co. Council from which position he retired in 1937 to be replaced by his son James.

He was a staunch supporter of the club and played football with his three brothers for his native Kiltrossanty from which area he hailed in the early part of this century. He also followed closely the fortunes of Tallow and attended practically all their games up to this season.

He was always a great sportsman and was the first chairman of Tallow G.A. Club and had a personal interest in the local duck and pheasant sanctuaries. Since his retirement he devoted his spare time to a wonderful conversationalist and had a word for everyone and spoke in it of one.

He will be missed by all particularly his widow, Catherine, family and relatives to whom we extend our sympathy.

A large and representative cortege accompanied the remains to the Church of the Immaculate Conception, the club was draped in the Kiltrossanty colours and a guard of honour drawn from the local G.A.A. club was also present.

Very Rev. Fr. Walsh, P.P., officiated at the funeral and the internment, which took place after 2.30 Mass in the cemetery attached to the Church of the Immaculate Conception in the presence of another large and representative attendance.

Chief mourners - Catherine (wife); Roger and James (sons); Mrs. Alice Tobin and Mrs. Helen Ryan (daughters); Roger, junior, Rock, Reilly Ann, Mrs. Catherine McGinty, Mrs. Eileen Treacy, Mrs. Margaret Barry, Mary Tobin, Patricia, Elizabeth, Michael and John (grandchildren); Linda, Eileen, Maria and Catherine Treacy, Stuart, and James Barry, Malou (great-grandchildren).
