DISTRICT COUNCIL OFFICIALS.
Mr. D. Conway presided. Also present—Messrs. P. Mulcahy, J. O'Donnell, J. G. Duke, J. P. McAuliffe, W. Stack and J. Butler, T.D.
Tramore Burial Ground.
In connection with the purchase of a plot of 2 acres at Tramore for a burial ground, Canon Walsh, P.P., came before the board and explained how necessary it was to get this site. Everything had been done to secure the site by consent. He referred to the popularity of Tramore as a place of residence and to the overcrowding of the present burial ground.
Mr. McAuliffe moved that the necessary steps be taken to acquire the land.
Mr. Butler seconded. Passed.

Filling the Jobs.
The County Council resolution appointing Mr. Kennedy, Waterford, as County Inspector of Rates and Checker of Water and Cottage Rents in Waterford Area at £244 a year was read.
The Secretary said all they had to do was to fix the amount of the salary they would pay. Mr. Kennedy is also to act as Clerk to the burial ground at Ballynashah.

Mr. Stack—No. We have to subscribe the money.
Mr. Mulcahy—You are shutting out other men from taking such positions by that oath.
Mr. Stack—There is no one shut out here. I tell you the Oath of Allegiance is the dollar-money, mind you.
Mr. Mulcahy—That is what is ruining the country.

As to the appointment of a typist in the Secretary's Office.
The Chairman said they had gone far enough with appointments of officials and they should wait and see how things worked out.
Secretary—We have been working three or four hours per day over office hours for months past and it would only be reasonable that my assistant, Miss Christopher, should get something for that work. She often had to work on Sundays.
Chairman—Let Miss Christopher make application here in the ordinary way.
Secretary—The board granted Miss Christopher a bonus of £15 subject to sanction.

It was decided that the office hours for the Board of Health be the same as the County Council.
Currahaha Water Supply.
There was an application from 13 residents of Currahaha for a water supply and they asked that the Kilmachomas supply be extended to them.
Mr. Morrissey said the District Council had a pump there, but it went dry. They have to travel for 300 to 500 yards for water to a well.
As to extending the Kilmachomas water supply, he said the Secretary would not approve of it. The people there were in a bad way for water.

The matter was referred to Mr. Jephson for a report.
Cappoquin Water Supply.
A report was received from the contractor, Walter Conway, stating that the reservoir which supplies Cappoquin with water would need attention immediately, and stated the requirement with the probable cost. The report was certified by M. P. Walsh and J. Conway.
Mr. Stack—Who sent this report?
Secretary—The contractor.
Mr. Stack—Didn't he take a contract?
Secretary—Yes, but this is different.

His Lordship—McGrath, you are a young man, and I am not going to punish you severely for this unpleasant offence. You also came up and committed yourself to giving evidence yourself. I would give you a less punishment but for that. I sentence you to three months' imprisonment with hard labour.
Big Arrival of winter machinery at the County Implement Dept.
ploughs, harrows, corn mills, etc., by Messrs. Harrison McGee, Banford, McCormick, Deering, etc., etc. The above are now on display—Moloney's, Agricultural Engineers, Dungarvan.

Rents of Cottages.

The defaulting rentpayers in Youghal No. 2 District got a specified time to pay before getting the collector to take proceedings against them.
Repairs to Cottages.
Several members thought that the orders should be carried out before the winter.
Mr. Mulcahy—Would not the rent collector see that the repairs were carried out?
Chairman—I believe it is part of the rent collector's duty.
Mr. Mulcahy—It is ridiculous. You had Rural District Councils working in perfect order and they were scrapped by this present Government and the result is chaos. We don't know where we are.

A report was received from the rent collector, Lismore, stating that she had transferred an acre of land to a man.
It was stated that she had no power to make such a letting. The matter was referred to Mr. Duke to inquire into and report.
Stairs Wanted.
John Cunningham, Ballinoge, applied for a stairs in his cottage. He enclosed a letter from Dr. Kiely recommending the work be done, and stating that as applicant was suffering from tuberculosis the stairs would render it easy to isolate the man from his five children.
Mr. McAuliffe—in view of the doctor's report we could make it an exceptional case and it would not be creating a precedent.
Chairman—The cottage is in the hands of a contractor at present.
The matter was referred to Mr. Duke to report on.

John McCarthy, Cappoquin, wrote asking permission to connect with the water main.
Secretary—I understand there is no special charge, only a charge on dispensary district.
Several members thought that should be altered.
The question of appointing a caretaker for Kilmachomas Workhouse was adjourned to the next meeting.

Ballymarket Water Supply.
Mr. McGrath reported in connection with the above that there was no well there, and to supply the residents a deep well should be sunk at a cost of £4 per foot plus piping, etc. The people concerned would pay half the cost by instalments.
The scheme was approved of provided the necessary guarantee be given.

Kilmachomas Lighting.
On the motion of Mr. Butler, seconded by Mr. Mulcahy, it was decided to light Kilmachomas, and the old Lighting Committee were re-appointed.

THREE MONTHS' HARD LABOUR FOR YOUNG CAPPOQUIN MAN.
At the Waterford Circuit Court this week a young man named Thom McGrath, of near Cappoquin, was charged with indecent assault, contrary to the provisions of the Offences Against the Person Act.
Mr. E. A. Ryan, State Solicitor, prosecuted, and prisoner was defended by Mr. Edmund B.L. (instructed by Mr. J. Williams, solr., Dungarvan).
Prisoner pleaded not guilty.
Evidence having been heard from Thom McGrath, a boy of 11 years, and John McGrath, aged 9 years, his brother, Garda Teahy, Cappoquin, and Supt. Civic Guard, Cappoquin.
Mr. Edmund strongly addressed the jury in prisoner's defence.
The jury retired, and on returning announced they had found the prisoner guilty.

His Lordship—McGrath, you are a young man, and I am not going to punish you severely for this unpleasant offence. You also came up and committed yourself to giving evidence yourself. I would give you a less punishment but for that. I sentence you to three months' imprisonment with hard labour.

Death of Mr. James J. Walsh, TOURANEENA.

Deep regret was occasioned not only in his native parish, but also throughout the surrounding districts for a wide radius at the announcement of the death of Mr. James J. Walsh, which sad event occurred at his residence, Touraneena House, on Saturday last. The deceased, who was in the prime of life, was in the enjoyment of excellent health up to a few weeks ago when he was taken ill somewhat suddenly, and despite all that unremitting care and attention and the best medical skill could avail, he grew gradually weaker and passed peacefully away fortified by the rites of Holy Church of which he was ever an ardent and devoted member. During his illness he had the constant ministrations of Very Rev. J. Maher, P.P., and Rev. M. Dowley, C.C., Touraneena.

The late Mr. Walsh was a member of one of the oldest, best-known and most highly-respected families in County Waterford. For a long number of years he had been honourably connected with many phases of public life in the county. As a member of Dungarvan District Council, and Waterford County Council, he took a prominent part in all matters pertaining to those bodies, by the members of which he was held in the highest esteem as a very loyal colleague whose counsel was always wise. As a tribune to his business acumen and rare administrative qualities, he was elected a member of the Waterford Asylum Board.

But highly appreciated as the deceased was as a member of many bodies in the county, it is his own native district of Ballinacorney that he most loved and in which he most dearly loved to live. He was a man of high integrity of character, noble to make the company at once the envy and admiration of similar bodies throughout the county. DAVID NOONAN has been favoured with instructions from Miss Mary O'Donnell, Main street, Lismore, TO SELL BY PUBLIC AUCTION ON THE LANDS, ON THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 19th, At the Hour of 2 p.m.

All that and those part of the Lands of BURGESSANCHOR containing 10a. 2r. or thereabouts, situate in the Electoral Division of Lismore Rural, Barony of Coshmore and Coshbride and Co. of Waterford, held in Fee-simple subject to an annuity of £12 14s. 2d., payable to the Irish Land Commission. P.L.V. 231 43s.

The excellent Holding, well noted for its fattening qualities, is situate convenient to the Bally-anchor road, about 1 mile from the important Market Town of Lismore.

The Lands are of the prime pastures, and being well sheltered from the North, a plentiful supply of grass throughout the year is always assured.

The Holding is divided into three conveniently-sized fields, and a large stone-built and slated house capable of accommodating a great number of live stock further enhances its value. Furthermore, the Owbeg river furnishes the lands with an abundant and never-failing supply of good water.

Youghal Urban Council.

Present—Messrs. M. Whelan, chairman; J. Bennett, vice-chairman; J. R. Smyth, P.C.; T. Harrington, T. Curran, P. Kenneally, P. J. McMahon, P.C.; J. Troy, M. J. Fleming, A. W. D. Murphy, A. J. Fowkes, M. D. Broderick.

Waterworks.

A telegram was received from Mr. B. O'Flynn, B.E., Cork, stating that the water would be turned on to the town reservoir through the new pipes on Monday (hear, hear).

Several members expressed their satisfaction with the news.

It was decided to have the new pipes well secured before regular use, the Clerk of Works to be notified.

Notice Board Again Destroyed.

The Town Surveyor reported that the second notice board which had been erected on the Strand had been torn down soon afterwards.

Mr. Murphy said that a man had been seen deliberately taking it down and smashing it.

It was decided to report the matter to the Civic Guards.

"Combined Purchasing."

The Town Clerk stated he had received a further communication from the L.G. regarding their scheme of combined purchasing. On a former occasion the council decided that if anybody was entitled to the council's custom it was the local rate-payers. The Department had forwarded another circular on the subject.

He was proceeding to read it when several councillors said they did not want to hear it.

Mr. Broderick said he would like to say a few words on the matter. He for one was thoroughly opposed to the new fangled system which tended to centralise the patronage of the whole Free State in the City of Dublin as against the traders who had to pay the local rates all over the Free State. He would give them one little incident. Before the union closed the guardians were called on by mandamus from Dublin to get certain articles from there, but as some local traders tendered at a lower price the board purchased from them, thereby saving the cost of carriage in addition. When the board had no right whatever to accept the local tenders—the goods should have been got from Dublin (laughter). The powers that be were seeking to allow no say in such matters to the local bodies.

The Town Clerk said that council had never anything to do with their combined purchase system.

Mr. McMahon—Let them write again.

Mr. Kenneally—We will keep the money in the town (hear, hear).

Chairman—Let us hope that they will see the error of their ways. They are making blunders enough without adding to them, and this would be a supreme blunder. Fancy having to send all the way to Dublin for a few spades and brushes, while the traders of Youghal who were compelled to pay heavy rates were to get no chance of supplying the goods.

Mr. Kenneally—It is simply ridiculous. We will do no such thing.

Chairman—In the interest of fair play and good Government they ought to drop the silly project.

Mr. Smyth said he believed the project was going to be such another success as the amalgamation of the unions (hear, hear, and laughter), which had the effect of increasing their rates and inflicting great hardships on the poor. The amalgamation of the unions was a typical example of official inefficiency (hear, hear).

Mr. McMahon—The President while in France said that the country was booming (laughter).

Mr. Broderick—The people who are talking about the country booming were never so prosperous as they are now.

Mr. McMahon—Never. That is the exact truth.

The council unanimously decided to have nothing to do with the matter.

The Foreshore.

A letter was handed in from Messrs. Slatery and Harris, Summerfield, asking for permission to appear before the council with a view to having the execution of the writs against them stayed for a fortnight and to arrive at a settlement of the question in dispute.

The council decided to suggest to their solicitors, Messrs. Hodnett and Son, to put a fortnight's stay on the proposed execution.

Weekly Wages.

On the proposition of Mr. Harrington, seconded by Mr. Bennett, a cheque for £33 is. was passed for the weekly wages.

Monthly Account.

Paying orders amounting to £3,459 were passed for the monthly accounts.

Some members expressed surprise at the total, but the Town

Clerk explained that £2,000 was for the waterworks improvement scheme; £550 for the Technical Committee, and £405 for the lodgment to the subsidiary account, which had been already paid.

Pig Keeping.

An application was received from one of the tenants of the council's houses at Cork Hill to keep pigs.

It being stated that there was a clause in the letting agreement against the keeping of pigs, the council were unable to grant the application.

Stonebreaking.

An application was received from a man with three young children for a regular job at stonebreaking.

The Chairman said there were a good many these times looking for constant jobs, which unfortunately they were unable to provide.

Mr. Harrington—Some of the men are under the impression that there had been a grant for the stonebreaking.

It was stated that the applicant was getting his share of the work and his letter was referred to the Town Superintendent.

Gravel.

An application was received from a resident on the Strand for some of the gravel which had been washed over by the recent storm.

Mr. Broderick said it was not in their power to grant the application. If the resident had kept his front door open during the last gale he would have got more than he wanted put in free of cost (laughter).

The council regretted they could not grant the application.

Bungalow Site.

Mr. T. Forrest, West View, Cork, wrote applying for a site for the erection of a bungalow on the Strand.

The Clerk was directed to reply that the council had no sites for the purpose.

Compensation Claim.

Notice was received that the claim of Mr. P. Kenneally for compensation for malicious injury to property would come before the Circuit Court at Cork on the 16th inst.

The matter was referred to the council's solicitors, Messrs. Hodnett and Sons.

Gilkins.

In accordance with notice of motion, the Vice-Chairman proposed that the resolution on the books to the effect that the staff get Gilkins once every two years be rescinded and that they get them yearly instead.

After some discussion a poll was taken with the result that the proposition was defeated by 6 votes to 5, one not voting.

"THE PEACE OF CHRIST IN THE HOME."

By Most Rev. Joseph MacRory, D.D., Lord Bishop of Down and Connors.

At the Catholic Truth Society Conference recently, Most Rev. Dr. MacRory read a paper entitled: "The Peace of Christ in the Home." He said—Some of you may be inclined to smile at the idea of a man from Belfast addressing you on peace of any sort, but I am happy to inform you that we are just at present a peace-loving people, and in any case one who has been through war may be trusted to be keenly alive to the advantages of peace. You don't expect, on an occasion like this, a philosophical inquiry into the nature and attributes of peace, nor do you expect or desire a sermon. I shall endeavour not to inflict either upon you, but it may be that I shall give you a little of both.

Let us begin by getting some idea of what is meant by peace. Peace implies freedom from disturbance, whether the disturbance come from persons or from things. It is not the same thing as concord, for concord is agreement with others; it implies a sort of union of hearts. Peace, indeed, implies concord, but it also implies much more. To have peace we must not only be at agreement with others, but also with ourselves. Peace, whether natural or supernatural, is opposed to unsatisfied desires, for a man or woman cannot be said to enjoy peace while they desire what they cannot have. It is opposed also to all conflict of desires within us, and the more perfect it is, the more does it exclude all such conflict. Hence that which has the fullest agreement with one's neighbours and the whole outside world, and yet be an utter stranger to peace, because of the conflict of desires or the storm of passion within one's own breast.

Nothing that concerns home and peace can be devoid of interest. Who does not agree with the sentiment of the old song: "Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home?" And peace has a still wider interest; it makes its appeal to all hearts without exception. Even to those that are hopeless. Like happiness, peace is desired by all mankind. There is not a sane man or woman living who does not desire to enjoy it, if only they can have it on their own terms or even on terms that appear to them to be reasonable. If they bicker or fight or go to law, it is not because they dislike peace, but because they think their peace is attacked, or because they consider the peace they enjoyed to be unjust or less favourable than that to which they are entitled.

It is the same with nations. No nation, certainly no civilised nation, loves war for war's sake. A nation goes to war to repel what it regards as an unjust attack or to acquire territory or to increase its trade and commerce or perhaps to weaken a rival. Whatever be the reasons or pretexts for war, nations look through the smoke of battle to the peace that lies behind; the aggressor to a peace more favourable and improved conditions, the nation attacked to at least a renewal of the peace it enjoyed.

If such is the desirability of peace generally, what shall we say of domestic peace, peace in the home? Surely there is any place where peace should abide as in a sanctuary, it is the home, the sacred circle of the family. In this the irrational animals, not man, is a striking example. Nature has implanted in the breasts of even the most savage birds and beasts the love of domestic peace. It is maintained by the eagle and the vulture, the lion and the tiger. The tiger, for instance, is devoted to the tigress, and both are attentive and affectionate towards their offspring; while these in turn imitate and, if I may say so, respect their parents. Not is it otherwise in the human family, as long as passion has not interposed to stiffen or weaken natural feeling. Where is the same husband or wife, son or daughter, who does not desire peace at home, who does not grieve at its absence? If there is discord and quarrelling in the home, it is not through any hatred of peace, but because the natural desire for it has for the time been extinguished or weakened by human passion. Take the most inconsiderate, the most cruel husband, the most cantankerous wife, and ask them if they would not desire peace at home. They will at once reply that they would give the world for it, that it would be cheap at any price. They will probably add that it is all the fault of "himself" or "herself," that peace is impossible with such a partner, but at any rate the natural aversion from discord and quarrelling in the home, the natural love of domestic peace, will come out evident and strong. Thus, whether we take individuals or nations or families, peace is an object of universal desire, this desire being specially natural and eager where there is question of peace in the home. But it is not of peace generally, but of the peace of Christ in particular that I wish to speak to you. That there is such a thing as the peace of Christ we all know. He Himself referred to it explicitly the night before He died. In the beautiful discourse to His Apostles after the Last Supper, He said to them: "Peace I leave with you, My peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth do I give unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, nor let it be afraid." (John xiv, 27). In that solemn hour He was taking farewell of His chosen Twelve. He knew their hearts were saddened, torn with grief because of the reference He had just made that night to His departure by one of their number and to His departure from them after "a little while," and He desired to console and comfort them by this blessed legacy of His peace. He calls it His own. "My peace I give unto you." He tells them that He gives it, not as it is given by the world, which so often promises peace, only to disappoint. "Not as the world giveth do I give unto you," and finally He implies that this divine gift shall arm them against anxieties within and dangers from without, for He adds: "Let not your heart be troubled, nor let it be afraid." Doubtless the Apostles had already enjoyed such a peace to some extent, but from that night they were assured of it, and were to enjoy it in a fuller measure.

Let us now inquire what is included in this peace of Christ. We shall find that it implies peace with God, with our neighbour, and with ourselves. In the first place, it implies that we are in the friendship of God by sanctifying grace. Without this peace of Christ or indeed any true peace is impossible. God has made us for Himself, and as long as we are His enemies by mortal sin, it is impossible for us to be completely happy and at peace. "The fear of the Lord," says Ecclesiastes, "is honour and glory and gladness and a crown of joy." But a wicked heart shall be laden with sorrows" (1:11; 1:14-20). The sinner may seem to be at peace; he may laugh and jest and overflow with high spirits and when he has become sufficiently hardened, even appear to rejoice in his iniquity; but deep down in his heart there is doubt and anxiety and restlessness, and a vague fear of death and the world to come. It is the voice of conscience, placed there by the Creator, making true peace impossible without God.

The peace of Christ implies also peace with our neighbour. It excludes all bickering and quarrelling and fighting, as far as in lies, and it includes love of the neighbour and even of our enemies for God's sake. Most of all, it includes love of those of our own household, of the members of the family. How could the peace of Christ be expected to dwell in the home where husband and wife are nagging and quarrelling, where parents are cruel, where children are wilfully and gravely disobedient, where in fact even natural quiet is a stranger?

Lastly, the peace of Christ implies peace within ourselves. This means much. Man has been called a microcosm—a little world that epitomises the universe—and even in the spiritual part of each of us what a world there is of thoughts and desires, of doubts and suspicions, of hopes and fears! Now, the peace of Christ controls this world within us, influencing all the movements of the soul, subjecting our passions and appetites to reason, and our reason to God. To have perfect peace there must be no desire unattained, no passion unsubdued, no fear unalloyed, no craving, no yearning that is not satisfied. But you may say, if such is peace, then it is a thing impossible in this world of struggle and temptation and anxiety and disappointment. You are right; perfect peace is impossible in this world. It is only in Heaven with the God of Peace that mankind can hope to enjoy it, when in the beautiful words of St. John: "God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes, and death shall be no more. Nor mourning nor crying nor sorrow shall be any more, for the former things are passed away." (Apoc. xx:4).
