the very necessaries of life. He would suggest that for the future all the second and third class roads be done by direct labour, and that the amount of material be reduced on them by one clearly £1,000 to the good.

Chairman—How do we stand? Secretary—Much the same as last year except there is a letter here that I may have to increase the Board of Health estimate.

Mr. Goulding—Really then we all on them. They had a milliston of £22,000 round them in the shape of an overdraft, and if they had to pay that along with their own estimates they would be for a day of the last council they were to good enough this year though we reduced the estimate of the total demonstrates and that the amount of material be reduced on them by one fourth, and that cleaning, very interest that I may have to increase the Board of Health estimate.

Mr. Goulding—Really then we should get from the Secretary—My rough estimate of the total demonstrates they would have no roads with a drastic cut like that suggested was out of the question, and in 12 months they would have no roads with a drastic cut like that suggested was out of the question, and in 12 months they would have no roads with a drastic cut like that suggested was out of the coming year.

Secretary—My rough estimate of the total demonstrates the money to maintain them. If the men employed by the County Surveyor was given, the money to maintain them. If the men employed by the County Council were out of employment they would be for £25,000. Last year.

Mr. Goulding said in the early day of the last council they were too denough this year though would be for £25,000. Last year.

Secretary—I have made a rough time as it is, the rate in the £ would be extracted the backs of the ratepayers. The only way to reduce the rates was to reduce the County Surveyor's estimate.

Mr. Goulding—We are asked to strike a very heavy rate for the maintenance of the roads, mainly due to the increase of motor traffic. A less perfect road would not be the country who were comoles. That has been disapproved in in into it. He referred to the stimate as a true estimate as a true the backs of the ratepayers. The own estimates they would break the backs of the ratepayers. The that Act would be of no use to them. They would gain nothing by them.

Mr. O'Shea proposed that the reduction be £20,000.

Mr. Delaney said if they were of road to £190 poor law valuation. In that respect we are the would it keep the rates in the County Waterford in anything like the same figure as the rates of the maintenance of the roads, mainly due to the increase of motor traffic. DEATH OF MR. JAMES CLANCY. MITCHEL STREET, DUNGARYAN.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Jas. Clancy, Mitchel street, which occurred at his residence on Friday last at the fine age of 84 years, and fortified by the rites of Holy Church of which he was in life so devoted a son. The late Mr. Clancy was an honest, upright and industrious citizen, who took a man's part in every movement for the upliftment of his town and country. A keen student of the stirring incidents of the past half century, he possessed a vast store of information on current topics, and brought to bear on all questions a clear mind and a sound udgment. He reared a most respected family, two of whom-Mr. Michl. Clancy, U.D.C., and Mr. James Clancy-are leading lights in Dungarvan Band. He has died in the fullness of years, and in their sorrow his family have the sincere sympathy of the public. R.I.P.

On Saturday evening the remains were removed to the Parish Church, and on Sunday the funeral took place to the family burial ground at Ring. The cortege on both occasions was large and representative and in keeping with the esteem in which the deceased and family are held on all sides.
