FOOTPATHS.
Mr. Keane—You will all agree that the footpath at Emmett Street is in a bad state, and I now propose that provision be made in this year's estimate for the making of a new footpath there.
Mr. Curran—There is a footpath at Abbeyside which has preference to that. I was assured that the Abbeyside footpath would be done when money was available.
Mr. Keane—Abbeyside has enough in the new roadway.

FOOTPATH.
Mr. Curran—You only decided to come to Abbeyside when you failed to find a place in Dungarvan.
Mr. O'Donnell—I am in favour of Mr. Keane's proposal. The footpath is badly needed.
Mr. Curran—I brought the Abbeyside footpath forward at the last estimates, but I was defeated on a vote.
Chairman—The only thing I say is bring all the proposals along at the estimates. If they are all carried you will find that you are defeating yourselves.
Mr. Butler—I suggest that the Borough Surveyor take a stock of the town and bring everything required to be done up at the estimates. It will then be our duty to accept or reject. It would be no matter if the estimate went into thousands of pounds; we are at liberty to cut it down.

CHURCH.
Chairman—You cannot do all permanent new works out of one year's revenue.
Mr. Keane—Mr. Butler's suggestion is only helping, and I ask you to pass my proposition.
Chairman—When were we in a worse position to do new work? We can all suggest improvements, but where is the money?
Mr. Clancy—I hope we will have a better year this year than last. The foot-

COMMAN NA nGaodheal.

MEETING IN DUNGARVAN. WHAT THE GOVERNMENT HAS DONE. ADDRESS BY MR. PURCELL.

At the Town Hall, Dungarvan, on Sunday last a largely attended public meeting was held under the auspices of Comman na nGaodheal.

The Chairman said during the past week the Hon. Sec. directed the attention of the Minister of Fisheries to the fact that foreign trawlers were fishing within a mile of Helvíck, and the fact of their fishing inside the limit destroyed the chances of the local fishermen making a living.

WHAT THE GOVERNMENT HAS DONE.

Mr. Purcell, Chief Organizer of the Comman na nGaodheal, who was introduced to the meeting by the Chairman, said he was glad to be there to see the progress that Comman na nGaodheal was making there as in West Waterford generally.

While other parties were telling the people what they would do when they got into power, the Government was getting it done every day. They would be told all they wanted was opposition, but all these things were carried out with the help of the Comman na nGaodheal.

At the Convention in St. Mary's Hall, Bellfast, Messrs. Redmond and Devlin agreed to the inclusion of the Six Counties from the Home Rule Bill.

MEMORIES.

In early spring I'd surely find The robin's nest by the barn wall.

When March would come with breezes shrill, I'd watch the sun at early morn peeping over the distant hill.

I loved each bird, I loved each flower, Their ways I knew, their span of life.

For I was very happy then, Oh, I was very happy then, But that was very long ago!

I had no rival in those days, The friends I loved they loved me, too.

Yet, would I were a boy again, Seeking flowers by the old hedge-row.

For I was very happy then, But that was very long ago! M. F. SHEEHAN, P.O.

He was informed that the city was up and doing and that the organisation is going ahead there. He hoped the organisers would find the people in the various parts of the county would be as energetic as they were in Waterford and Dungarvan.

Before Mr. F. J. McCabe, D.J.

Justice Congratulated. Mr. P. Verrington, solr., Carrick-on-Suir, who was appearing for the prosecutor in the fishery cases listed for hearing...

Fishery Prosecutions. T. F. Rigney, Fishery Inspector, prosecuted, on behalf of the Waterford No. 3 Fishery Board of Conservators...

District Justice—I wish to welcome Mr. Williams. I believe this is his first visit to this court...

Mr. Williams suitably acknowledged this tribute to his late father and himself.

Guard Hughes, Leamybrien, sworn, stated in reply to Mr. Verrington, that he remembered the 30th January. He was on duty on the river Tay...

Evidence was given by Guards Hughes and Park to the effect that both men were poking the river-bed in a deliberate manner...

Cross-examined by Mr. Spears, Guard Hughes said the particular point of the river where accused was found...

To the District Justice—We were in plain clothes. Mr. Spears (to witness)—You say there was a stick. Wouldn't it be the proper thing to bring that stick here to-day?

Witness—The stick was on the opposite side of the river and when the party ran we followed and the stick was left behind.

Mr. Williams—The offence occurred about 3.30 in the evening. The nearest point witness got to Kiely was between 20 and 25 yards.

Witness—I sank in the bog and he got the opportunity and ran away. He got a glimpse of defendant's side face...

District Justice—Did you make any further inquiries that would help you to identify the man?

Witness—From information received Sergt. Scott and I visited Ballingown and on seeing Kiely I said to Sergt. Scott: "That is the man."

Witness (looking at Kiely)—Slightly. Guard Park, Leamybrien, examined by Mr. Verrington, stated he was with Guard Hughes on the occasion.

he said. They had the three men under observation for about ten minutes. He (witness) went off after the other two men. He didn't know any of the parties as he was not long stationed in the district.

Mr. Williams—Why did the name of Kiely enter into your head at all? Witness—We received information that he was a suspect, and to all appearances thought that was him.

Defendant, sworn, answering Mr. Williams, said he was a farmer and lived at Ballingown. He remembered the 30th January. He was around the farm all through that day.

To Mr. Verrington—He knew nobody in the district who could be mistaken for him.

James Kiely and Lena Kiely were also put up in support of defendant.

The Justice held in favour of Kiely and dismissed the case on the merits.

District Justice (to Mr. Spears)—Have you any question to ask this witness Mr. Spears—No.

Defendants were sworn and their evidence was to the effect that they were at the river-bank on the occasion.

Michl. Walsh, replying to Mr. Spears, stated he managed a farm of about 100 or over acres for his mother at Ballingown.

Witness told Power to tell Kiely about it and have the place fenced. He (witness) saw bushes in the gap on the following day...

To Mr. Verrington—He didn't know the exact spot where the Guards met the accused by the river. It could be a field away.

The case continued at great length until next court, the Justice remarked that the fishing industry was a most valuable asset to the country.

Two of these cases were called and in the absence of the respondents were adjourned to next court.

Gardia Cases. Guard O'Halloran, Stradbally, prosecuted Denis Flynn, Garrurton, for having an unlicensed dog in his possession on the 28th ult.

Defendant said he thought he needed the dog for his animal until the present month as was the custom heretofore.

The case was marked "with-drawn."

Sergt. Mullins, Kill, charged Michael Brennan with having no light on a recent date. Defendant was using a pony and trap.

Accused held it was not after lighting-up time when he was accosted.

Dismissed with a caution.

As the dairy season opens there are numerous and indications of a vast creamery scheme which will involve many changes and an elaborate extension of the industry.

One part of the programme relative to proprietary creameries has already been put in motion, and negotiations have been in progress with a view to acquiring them.

That and various aspects of the scheme when unfolded are certain to arouse much divergence of opinion.

At the same time the supplier will ask will the scheme bring him an increased sum for his produce, or will he be afraid that it may be more expensive than the present system which, rightly or wrongly, is said to cost him threepence for every pound of butter the milk produced.

In the meantime creameries are about to consider the combined marketing proposal, the particulars of which have been forwarded to them following the recent meeting in Dublin relative to it.

It is further believed that in addition to the creamery scheme a sum of £2,000,000 will be forthcoming to aid agriculture.
