Youghal Notes.

EAST CORK AND WEST WATERFORD.

A very tangible indication of the mutual good feeling that exists between the adjoining counties was displayed in the manner of the reception accorded to the collectors who canvassed for subscriptions locally for the Cornerstone Regatta, and from this to Lismore for the Youghal revival.

A MEAN THEFT.

During the past week a copy of the illustrated paper, "The Sphere," was abstracted to put it mildly, stolen to put it really, from a local reading-room. This is certainly a peculiarly mean, shabby, theft, for it affects not an individual, but a whole society.

BATHING.

That Youghal takes a foremost place amongst bathing places for safety is amply proved by the fact that for a very long period there has been only one fatal accident in the neighbourhood. And in that case—in which two young lady teachers at home on holidays from London lost their lives—it was the result of ignoring the warning notices issued by the council against bathing at the Inner Strand at certain stages of the tide.

CHOIR EXCURSION.

Sunday last was the day appointed for the annual excursion of the Parish Choir, and Tramore was the venue selected for the occasion. The early morning was fine, but just as the party left in a number of motor cars a light drizzle started and lasted until they arrived in Tramore. They proceeded to Kelly's Hotel where dinner was served.

trains. After a most enjoyable day the party left for home at about 9 o'clock, arriving home about 11, tired but very happy after their outing.

Mr. M. J. Firmin, organist, was in charge of the excursion, and assisted by his good lady, left nothing undone to make the occasion the pleasant success it proved to be.

CLEVER WORKMAN.

During last week there was an exhibition in the window of Messrs. T. P. Walsh and Co.'s hardware establishment, South Main street, a skillfully executed piece of fretwork in the shape of an elaborate bird cage. It was turned out by Mr. J. Emmanuel Destoies, Mall lane, and it won unstinted praise from all who saw it.

FOR THE POOR.

Messrs. Parker, Proprietors of the "Fun Fair" on the Strand, handed over all their shows to a committee of local public men on last Monday evening to run for the benefit of the poor of the town. Several members of the Urban Council and others assisted by a number of the visitors took a hand in the good work, with the very satisfactory result that a sum of over £38 was realised.

Dungarvan District Court.

TRANSFER OF SERGT. LARKIN. TRIBUTES FROM BENCH AND BAR.

Before Mr. Troy, D.J. A civil bill court was held on Tuesday last when a number of decrees were granted for non-payment of bills due.

Tributes to Sergeant Larkin. Mr. Troy—I was very sorry to learn that Sergt. Larkin has been transferred from amongst us. We all appreciated his work while he was here, and he was a very excellent officer. I am very glad to hear he has been promoted, and though we are sorry to lose him, it is pleasant to know that the services of a good official are appreciated.

Mr. E. A. Ryan, Solr.—Sergt. Larkin was here from the first arrival of the Guards, and he had a very good name in the district for his impartiality and zeal in the discharge of his several duties. I was very glad to hear of his promotion.

Mr. Spears, solr.; Mr. T. C. Williams, solr., and Mr. O'Keefe, Clerk of the Court, joined in the tribute paid to Sergt. Larkin.

IRISH RAILWAYS. PROPOSALS FOR ALL-ROUND WAGES REDUCTION.

Steps are being taken to call a round table conference of directors, managers, and workers on the Irish railway with a view to reducing running and administration costs. The companies will put forward proposals for an all-round reduction in wages and salaries, including those of the directors.

The decision to call a conference follows the recent agreed reductions on the British railways. The feeling among the directors and shareholders is that a conference similar to that held in Great Britain may bring about substantial relief to the railways, which also are very hard pressed by the extraordinary growth of motor omnibus competition, trade depression, and the falling off of traffic receipts.

SERIOUS CHARGES.

BURGLARY, LARCENY, ASSAULT AND INDECENT ASSAULT.

DENIS O'MEARA RETURNED FOR TRIAL.

At a special court in Dungarvan on Tuesday, before Mr. J. S. Troy, D.J., Denis O'Meara, Garryduff, Dungarvan, was brought forward in custody, charged with having on the 8th July, at Garryduff committed the following offences:—Burglary, larceny, assault and indecent assault.

Supt. O'Shea prosecuted, and Mr. M. J. Spears, solr., defended. A number of depositions in the case were taken the previous week when the accused was remanded in custody until Tuesday last when he travelled from Ballybricken Jail to Dungarvan per the mid-day train.

The case was heard in camera. The first witness called was a young labourer, in the employment of Miss Byrne. On the morning of the 10th July last he came to work at 7 o'clock. He entered the kitchen and saw some furniture and broken delph thrown on the floor. Miss Byrne was at the time sitting at the head of the table crying away. He noticed stains of blood on her face and neck. He saw her feet later. They were cut and bleeding. Witness asked her what happened and she said Denis O'Meara broke into her house that night about 11 o'clock.

He appeared to have drunk taken and forced in the kitchen door and later forced in the door of her bedroom. The witness here detailed the story told him by Miss Byrne, and said when the accused left the house at 4 a.m. he took with him money and foodstuffs.

Guard Regan, re-called, said on the 14th July the accused was brought to Cappagh Barracks in respect of a charge of arson. Witness searched him and found 25s. 11d. on him, made up thus—One pound note, one half-crown, a shilling, three sixpennies and 11 coppers. When witness said he accused—You have a lot of money, he replied that he took it from Margaret Byrne the night before.

By Mr. Spears—I arrested the accused on the present charge on the 10th August. Sergt. Keogh arrested him on the charge of arson on the 14th July.

Supt. O'Shea—That is my case, and I ask you to return him for trial. Mr. Troy—Denis O'Meara, you are charged with having on the 8th July at Garryduff unlawfully and feloniously broken into and entered the dwelling-house of Miss Byrne with intent to commit a felony. You have heard the charge and you have heard the evidence of the witnesses, and I want to caution you that anything you say will be taken down in writing and may be used in evidence against you. Have you anything to say to the accused?

Accused—Yes, sir. She is treating my mother and my sister badly. She is very cross to them and she won't let them live at all. They took my farm off me in spite of me, and it is worth £2,000. She gives nothing to eat to my mother and sister and I have to feed them myself sometimes. She is treating them very bad and they want to have me in the house to get justice for them. If I could get my living in the place they can get the money back any day. By fooling and tricking they took the farm off me. But for my wife has all the money spent I could live with her.

On the charge of assaulting Margaret Byrne with intent to commit a felony accused made no reply.

On the charge of indecent assault on Margaret Byrne accused said—I did not mean to do anything at all to her. If they let down my wife to the house I could live with her.

When charged with stealing 25s. 6d. from Miss Byrne accused made no reply. Mr. Troy then returned the accused for trial to the next Circuit Court, and he was removed in custody to the barracks and later in the day was taken to Ballybricken Jail pending his trial early in November.

FOOTBALL AND HURLING AT ROCKFIELD.

At Rockfield on Sunday, Brickey Rangers minor team and Rockfield met in football, and after an exciting hour a scoreless draw was the result. In hurling Mellieray won from Rockfield by 1 goal 4 points to nil.

On Sunday Lismore and Cappoquin junior football teams met at Cappoquin in a friendly game which was won by the former on a score of 2 goals 1 point to 1 point. Lismore and Cappoquin camogie teams also met in a return match. Lismore led at half time by 4 goals to nil, but in the second half the Cappoquin girls got moving, and though they fought hard they were unable to hold their opponents, who won out on the score of 2 goals to nil.

Kilmacothomas News.

G.A.A.

Kill v. Ballyduff junior footballers met in connection with the county championships at Newtown (on a pitch kindly given for the occasion by Mr. Laurence McGrath), on last Sunday afternoon. A prominent local Gael regulated the bout to the complete satisfaction of all concerned. In the initial stages the game was of a fast and scientific nature, and the merits of the respective sets seemed equally balanced; but Kill's superior experience and training were important factors which told in their ultimate success. Full-time figures on the register read:—

Kill—2 points; Ballyduff—0.

The great interest taken in the contest was manifested in the very large attendance, and the trial was decided in a truly sporting style, worthy of one and all of the players participating. The venue was ideal, and the arrangements absolutely A.1. in every shape and form.

Caman XV's representing Kilmacothomas and Portlaw were listed to line out in friendly rivalry after the football encounter; but this match had to be cried off because of an incessant downpour of heavy rain which began just as the opposing yielders were "logged" for action.

KILMAC PIG MARKET.

Several creel loads of good bacon pigs, together with a number of sows were weighed and paid for at this market on Wednesday, and the prices realised totalled some handsome figures, as instanced in the following quotations:—

HARVESTING.

Harvesting operations are now under way on all sides. Grain crops exhibiting a luxurious growth have been lodged in many districts by the recent heavy rains. The appearance of the land is rapidly changing into autumn shades, and already there is a very noticeable shortening of the days. Nobody needs a calendar to convince them that the "dear old summer time" is gone and the "season of mists and mellow fruitfulness" at hand. Woodland groves are already silent, flowers and shrubs gradually decay, and "sere and yellow leaf" begins to fall, and most telling of all, the sun becomes enfeebled in its power to cheer and warm the earth. The following quotation (from Montgomery) seems aptly applied to these passing autumn days:—

"Sweet Sabbath of the year! while evening lights decay, Thy parting steps methinks I hear steal from the world away; Amid thy silent bowers 'tis said, but sweet to dwell. Where falling leaves and drooping flowers around me breathe farewell. Along thy sunset skies their glories melt in shade, And like the things we fondly prize, seem lovelier as they fade."

R.I.P. The death has occurred at a comparatively early age of Miss Mary Loneragan, of Ballygarry, Kill. She had not enjoyed the best of health lately, and breathed her last peacefully and resignedly and fully fortified by the rites of the Mother Church. By her amiable manner and charitable disposition, the deceased lady had warmly endeared herself to young and old alike in Kill and neighbourhood. The funeral to the Parish Cemetery (Kill) last week was but a fitting tribute to so admirable a character, embracing as it did the more prominent representatives of all walks of life in the community, bearing ample testimony to the high esteem in which the departed one was held.

WAKE UP, KILMAC! All the country towns and villages are able to get up some sort of sports meetings or other except our own! Why cannot something be done to help to brighten the dreary, unvarying, ding-dong existence of the inhabitants if this sleepy hollow? If we intend to wait until perfection will be attained in matters pertaining to public welfare and amusement, then we will be like Dickens' Mr. Micawber, always waiting for something to turn up.

FASHIONABLE WEDDING AT LISMORE.

On last Wednesday at the Cathedral, Lismore, a very pretty and fashionable wedding was solemnised, the contracting parties being Miss Laura Mary Power and Mr. Evelyn Cooper Penrose, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Penrose, M.V.O., late agent at Lismore Castle. The bride's father had been agent at Lismore Castle for very many years, where he had been most popular, while the bride herself is a prepossessing and charming young lady, who interested herself in all classes of sport in the locality, and rendered laudable services to the Society of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in the district, of which Society she was the local secretary. The bridegroom spent his childhood days at Lismore Castle until the retirement of his father from the agency there. During the Great War he served as Captain S.I.H. with the great Forces, and for the past 12 months or so is engaged at Lismore Castle as sub-agent. With all classes—the general public and the employees of Lismore Estate Co.—he is popular, and large numbers attend the church to wish both himself and his bride good luck and prosperity. The Rev. Dean Becher, Rosscarbery (Co. Cork), assisted by the Dean of Lismore, performed the ceremony.

The bride was given away by her mother and looked radiant dressed in a gold lamé dress veiled in gold lace embroidered with gold thread, a long veil of gold net forming the train as well as well in place by a narrow wreath of orange blossom. She carried a sheaf of lilies. The bride was attended by Miss Kathleen Gethin, Miss Barbara Penrose and Miss Barbara Solly Flood. They wore peach-coloured frocks and green wreaths and pink and crystal necklaces, the gift of the bridegroom, and carried bouquets of carnations. Mr. Cecil Hodson acted as best man. The small page, Master David England, was dressed in a peach-coloured suit. The bride's travelling costume was of a blue Chinese beanie with a blue Chinese jacket, a blue Chinese hat with blue shoes, stockings and handbag to match.

The church was magnificently decorated, and from the entrance door to the gates outside a huge carpet was strewn as the happy pair entered and left the church. The ladies of the church congregation were responsible for the decoration. Mr. J. Scott Allen, F.S.A., F.R.S.A., Organist, presided at the organ with his usual ability, and played a number of hymns. Outside the church gates on either side was a long range of motors and pedestrians who had gathered to shower confetti and wish the happy pair good wishes. Employees of the Lismore Estate Co. were prominent in this gathering. Subsequently at Lismore Castle a reception took place at which numerous guests from all parts attended, after which the bride and bridegroom left by motor on their honeymoon for Scotland amid showers of confetti and rice.

Miss Kegan, South Mall, and Messrs. McCarthy Bros., Wine Vaults, Lismore, had charge of the catering arrangements, which were carried out in admirable style.

AGLISH POST OFFICE.

Mrs. A. M. O'Brien has been appointed post-mistress of Aghlish in succession to Mr. M. Trahey, deceased. Mrs. O'Brien is a young lady of superior education and refinement, admirably qualified for the position.

COUNTY TECHNICAL COMMITTEE.

There was an meeting of the County Joint Technical Committee on Tuesday last owing to the absence of a quorum. Rev. L. Egan, C.C. (chairman) and Mr. M. Curran were the only members in attendance.

Abbeyside Regatta & Sports

The annual regatta and sports in connection with the Patron of St. Augustine came off on Sunday afternoon in glorious weather and before a large assembly. The several events were closely contested, and altogether a feast of amusement was provided for the thousands who graced the scene with their presence. An energetic committee was in charge of the arrangements and had the whole programme carried out in the most satisfactory manner. The Dungarvan Brass and Reed Band was specially engaged for the occasion and discoursed a choice selection of appropriate airs, which were heartily applauded. Taken all round, it was one of the most enjoyable evenings for a long time.

Cappoquin District Court.

Before Mr. G. P. Farrell, B.L. Guard Mahony summoned Daniel Landers, Bow street, Youghal, who did not appear, with being drunk and disorderly at Cappoquin on August 1st. To the Justice, the witness said it was after the regatta. Fined 5s.

Mr. M. J. Spears, solr., Dungarvan, on behalf of James S. Whitaker, Cork, applied for a transfer of a licence of Harrington's Hotel, Cappoquin, which had been lately held by Richard Fraher. Mr. Spears quoted the law on which his application was based, and referred the Justice to the case of Browne v. Watson.

The application was granted. The same solicitor (for Mr. Williams, Dungarvan, on behalf of Mr. Wm. Power, Kereen, Aghlish, was granted an ad interim transfer of a licence lately held by Thomas Wall, which premises were purchased by Mr. Power.

Assault. Hannah Roche, an old woman of 72 years, of Barrack street, Cappoquin, was complainant in a charge of assault against Margaret Gallagher, her second next door neighbour, also of Barrack street.

Mr. O'Gorman, solr., for the defendant, and Mrs. Roche conducted her own case.

Complainant stated that on the 28th July between 7 and 8 in the evening defendant hit witness three clouts of a closed fist and knocked her down on the street. Her husband came out and took her up, and asked why she did it, and she said she would give him the very same thing, and hit him with her closed fist in the eye.

The Justice said he would fine defendant 1s. for the assault, and she would be bound to the peace for 12 months, herself in the sum of £5, and he would also bind complainant to the peace for 12 months in a like sum of £5.

Tallow District Court.

Before Mr. G. P. Farrell, B.L. The North Cork Board of Health summoned Hannah Fleming, Garryduff, Ballynoe, for possession of a labourer's cottage.

Mr. M. Dudley, solr., Mallow, appeared for plaintiffs.

Mr. D. J. Barry, collector, proved that there was £3 14s. arrears due on a weekly rent of 1s.

Justice—Did you ever get rent from her? Yes; the last time in June, 1927. She made no effort to pay since.

A decree for possession was granted. John Murphy, West street, Tallow charged James Fitzgerald, same address, with assault.

Timothy McCarthy charged the same defendant with abusive and threatening language.

Both cases were stated to have been settled.

Guard Brophy, Ballynoe charged John Mulcahy, Kilkronat, with selling butter containing an excess of water.

Complainant handed in certificate of analysis, stating that the sample taken contained 25.3 per cent. added water, being 9.3 cent. over the legal standard.

Defendant said the weather was very hot at the time. They did their best to take the water out of the butter, but it was impossible. They did not sell to the public, but to buyers, who made it up again and sent it to Cork.

Justice—You can give evidence. Unless I have evidence to displace the conclusions of the certificate I am bound to presume that there had been adulteration.

Defendant, who was then sworn, said they had made 92lbs. of butter in two churns on that occasion. It was made on Thursday and sold in the Ballynoe market on Friday. It was washed in spring water and treated in the usual manner for extraction.

Justice—How were you paid for it? Defendant—We got 4s. 2d. per lb. that day. Unless left rest for a few days in the hot weather it was impossible to get the moisture out. Since then we make it twice a week and the butter is quite hard.

The case was dismissed.

The same complainant had a similar charge against Robert England, Ballynoe, in which the percentage of added water was given as 24 or 8 per cent. in excess.

Defendant, sworn, said he had about 100lbs. of butter on the day in question. The weather was very warm. It was impossible to knock the water out of it. They did all they could with it.

Justice—How do you treat the butter to knock the water out of it? With the hand. How long was the butter made? The day before the market. Did you sell to a dealer? Yes, to Mr. Paxman. Are there different prices for the butter? Yes, according to the quality.

Justice (to complainant)—Do you agree that the weather was warm at the time—the 20th July? Yes, sir; the weather was warm then all right.

Justice (to defendant)—I will give you the benefit of the same ruling. The case was therefore dismissed.

Robert Riversdale Smyth, Headboro', summoned Martin McSweeney for the possession of a cottage.

Mr. E. Carrill, solr., Fermoy, for complainant. John Fahy, farm steward, deposed that he employed the defendant on Mr. Smyth's behalf on the 28th, the terms being so much per week cash and a house free as part of the perquisites.

Defendant left the employment of his own accord on 14th and his wife on 12th. Witness asked for possession of the cottage on the 25th. He said he would not leave till witness found another job and a house for him. They wanted the house for a man and his wife to look after the cows and milk. Witness hired them on, but on the 4th the man said he could not wait any longer as he had no house.

Defendant said he only wanted fair play and honesty. He was wronged in that case.

Justice—How? We were brought under expense to Headboro', myself and wife and family. We worked 10 weeks, but the steward found fault with everything. We were brought from Tallow.

Justice—That is not such an awful distance. Did you leave the employment? Defendant—He gave me four days' notice. Did you leave? With the abuse and all I had to leave. Did your wife leave? No, she kept on. Why did she cease to be on? Because he turned against her, too. He got jealous of me. You will have to leave the house now as you are not in the employment? I want compensation for eviction.

A decree for possession was granted. Guard Walsh charged Jas. Fitzgerald, West street, Tallow, with wilfully obstructing him in the execution of his duty.

Defendant did not appear. Justice—This looks like an indictable offence—what was the obstruction alleged?

Guard—Abusive language. Justice—Did he do anything but abuse you? Guard—He took off his coat and wanted to fight.

The Guard said that defendant was outside the other man's door shouting and arguing at 11.30 p.m. Witness approached and tried to get him to go home quietly, but he went out, took off his coat and wanted to fight. Justice—Was he drunk? He had drunk taken.

The Justice said he didn't think that was a case in which he could issue a warrant for the arrest of defendant. He therefore suggested that the Guard should withdraw the summons and issue others.

This was agreed to.

Rescue from Pound. Maurice O'Brien, Ballyhamlet, farmer, was charged with that he did unlawfully rescue 23 head of cattle from Tallow Pound where the said cattle were lawfully impounded under Writ of F. R. A. on 6/7/23 in satisfaction for a debt due to the Irish Land Commission.

James Griffin, labourer, Ballyhamlet, was charged similarly.

Supt. O'Connor, Cappoquin, prosecuted, and Mr. W. J. Magnier, solr., Fermoy, defended.

John English, Sheriff's Officer, Waterford, deposed that on the 6th July Mr. Colbert, County Sheriff, detailed him to execute a decree for the Irish Land Commission against O'Brien for £499 4s. with costs. Accompanied by Lynden, court messenger, he proceeded to Tallow, and there met Guards, who came with them for protection. They then went to O'Brien's farm where they saw Mrs. O'Brien and they seized 23 head of cattle. O'Brien came on the scene, but left to see Mr. Magnier, but did not turn up again. He admitted the cattle were his property. They impounded the cattle at Tallow.

Justice—What cattle did you seize? 15 cows and 8 from yearlings to 3-year-olds.

To the Superintendent—I have since seen 5 head of cattle on Monday, 9/7. They were five of the 23 I seized on the 6th.

Cross-examined by Mr. Magnier—How did you identify them? I watched them fairly closely. They were milch cows—the best of 14 or 15. We left two cows after us. Mrs. O'Brien said she wanted milk for the calves. Was there any obstruction when you made the seizure? No. Was it pointed out that some of them belonged to graziers? No, there was no mention of graziers.

John Gray, pound keeper, deposed that the last witness brought in 23 head of cattle on the 6/7 and impounded them. Witness locked the Pound. They were there all right at 12.30 on Sunday night. He missed them about 6 o'clock on the following morning. He then went to the barrack and reported the matter.

Justice—Were they all gone? They were all gone, sir.

Witness, continuing, deposed that on the evening of the Guard Walsh handed him over five head of cattle. He had previously seen them. He could not swear to them, but to the best of his knowledge they were the same. They were the five he handed over to English on the following evening.

Cross-examined by Mr. Magnier—You could not identify them? I could not take my oath, but to the best of my knowledge they were the same. How did they get out of the Pound? I will tell you—the Pound was locked right enough, but it was taken off the hinges.

Justice—You don't mean the Pound? (Laughter.) Witness—the gate, the gate I mean. It was ruz up and then you could put your foot in and slip it off.

Justice—The gate was locked, but shifted. Can you say was there any damage done? No damage.

Cross-examined by Mr. Magnier—Were the 23 cattle crushed? No, there was room for 23 more. Would it be possible for the cattle to knock the gate off the hinges? No; it would take a strong man to take it off. But a cow is stronger than a man—could she not get it off if she got her horns in? She could not do it with her horns. You have no idea as to who took the gate off? I don't know.

Justice—That is the only way they could get out? Yes. Was there anything to show that the gate had been removed and put back—was there any tampering? Only to take it off and shift it.

Justice—I call that tampering. Witness said it was lifted up off the hinges and put against the wall at the locked side. It was not a very secure gate? Not over-secure.

Replying to further questions, witness said it would take the strongest man in Tallow to take the gate off.

Mr. Magnier—He is not as strong as a milch cow (laughter).

Guard Walsh deposed that he received a complaint from Gray at 7.30 a.m. on the 9th July that the Pound had been broken into and the cattle rescued. He went and saw the gate as it had been described. It had been taken out of the stone and was leaning against the lock side. It was still locked. He found cattle tracks outside the gate and up the Youghal road and he proceeded along the road. After going two miles he found five cattle of O'Brien near Kilmore. He was in the Act of driving them into the field. Witness asked him why he took the cattle out of the Pound and he replied nobody had a better right to them than himself. Witness asked where were the remainder of the cattle and he said they were where witness would not find them. Witness said he would take the five cattle back to the Pound. James Griffin then came out of the field on horseback. They were going to take the five cattle from witness and he advised them to take things quietly. Griffin didn't interfere any further. O'Brien went before the cattle to sto-them and he advised him to be quiet. O'Brien then asked for his authority and witness said he would be responsible for them.

Justice—What is Griffin? He is a labourer in O'Brien's employment. Cross-examined by Mr. Magnier—Witness said he didn't see anybody breaking into the Pound. He saw O'Brien with the cattle 300 yards off. He was driving them. He was in possession of the field. He could identify one of the cows as having been in the Pound previously. There was no attempt to rescue the five cattle from him.

Mr. Magnier said there was absolutely no proof that O'Brien or Griffin unlawfully rescued the 23 head of cattle from Tallow Pound.

Justice—I think there is. Mr. Magrier said the Pound was found with the gate off the hinges. Nobody knew who did it, and beyond the fact that five cattle were found on the road with O'Brien he submitted there was no case against his clients.

The Justice said there was. Mr. Magnier said after the seizure of the 23 cattle to meet a demand for £500 they had written to the Land Commission stating they would put up the farm for sale after which the arrears would be paid. On the strength of that the Commission had written Mr. Colbert to go no further, and that morning he had a letter from Mr. Colbert asking whether the sale had taken place. There was no bid for the farm.

Justice—All that happened after the offence. Is there anything in that to justify defendant's action? Mr. Magnier said he was not trying to justify it, but showing that there was some reason for releasing the cattle whoever did it. Some of them belonged to graziers and it might be that they released them. They found the cattle on the road.

Mr. O'Brien deposed that some of the cattle belonged to graziers. They found eight of them in charge of Guard Walsh on the road. Those were the only ones they got that day.

Cross-examined by Supt. O'Connor—How many of the cattle were yours? I won't answer that question at all.

Mr. Magnier—You will have to answer it. Superintendent—21.

Superintendent—And whom did the other two belong to? I won't answer that question. Were the five the Guard found your property? Yes, sir, you admit the Guard found them in your possession? No.

James Griffin having given evidence, Justice—When was the first time you saw the cattle? Just as I came out of O'Brien's field.

Superintendent—When did you see O'Brien? He was with me. How long? At the time we started from the house.

Justice—What were you doing? I will answer no question.

Mr. Magnier—What were you doing that morning? No answer.

Justice—Are you still in O'Brien's employment? Yes.

Justice—I have a certain amount of compassion for the witness. After further hearing the Justice said there were grounds for conviction in both cases, but he wanted to draw a distinction between O'Brien and his man, Griffin, who was in a very difficult position. But for certain reasons he would deal very seriously with that offence, and if he thought fit he could send the case forward for trial. However, it was the first case of the kind that came before him and the only result of O'Brien's act was that he had to pay all the costs incurred. The debt remained due with the land as security for it. And there were other powers for enforcing payment. It was mere silliness on the part of people to adopt such a course, and O'Brien's attitude was one of defiance, with which he had no sympathy. So far as he could see the Guard who had given evidence acted very reasonably in the circumstances. He was a very reasonable, well-balanced man and had done his work well in a very difficult situation. It was not the first time he noticed that Guard Walsh was an excellent peace officer. Only that defendant had to deal with a Guard of that type, cool and level-headed, he might have made more trouble for himself. The defendant resented the seizure made for the debt due to the Land Commission, but he (the Justice) could not understand his action for he could not hope to evade payment of the debt. Pound breaking was a very serious offence that might be sent on for trial to a Higher Court for a heavier penalty than he could impose, but in all the circumstances he thought it would be sufficient to find defendant £40, the maximum. In the case against the employee, Griffin, he thought it might be withdrawn.

Mr. Magnier asked the court to reduce the penalty. Defendant was a very poor man.

The Justice said he wanted to impress on other people the fact that that was a very serious offence, and he didn't like the defendant's attitude.

Ultimately the court reduced the fine to £7 without costs.

The Superintendent thanked the Justice for his complimentary remarks of Guard Walsh's action.

Justice—He deserved them. The case against Griffin was withdrawn.

Tenant—The council have a closing order for our house. May I have a little longer? Magistrate—They appear to have forgotten about you, so let sleeping dogs lie.

Waterford Co. Committee of Agriculture.

At the monthly meeting of the above held on Saturday at the Courthouse, Dungarvan, Mr. C. J. Curran occupied the chair. Also present were—Messrs. Michael McGrath, Michael Brennock, J. Curran, F. C. Dennehy, D. Heskiu, Patk. Mulcahy, M. F. Walsh, Michl. Curran and T. Hartly. Mr. P. O'Keefe, Agricultural Instructor; Mr. O'Shea, Horticultural Instructor, and Mr. O'Dwyer, secretary, were also in attendance.

Lowland Sheep Breeding Scheme. A letter was read from the Department re the above in connection with lowland sheep.

Mr. Brennock said this committee approved of that scheme, and sent it on to the Department, but it was turned down in favour of the mountain area. Now the mountain area is too well done. He was of opinion that a resolution should again be sent up on this matter.

Mr. Heskin—We are satisfied that the mountain areas are very well done.

Mr. Brennock then proposed, and Mr. Heskin seconded, a resolution, which was passed—That the scheme for the improvement of lowland sheep which was adopted by this committee in September, 1922, be put into effect.

Horticultural Instructor's Report. The following report, which was considered very satisfactory, was read:—

I have to report that I visited Dungarvan Agricultural Show on the 19th July and met Mr. O'Shea, Horticultural Instructor, who was engaged as steward in the Horticultural Section. Judging from the number of queries from exhibitors and other interested persons he was usefully employed giving advice and instruction on the cultivation of horticultural produce, and he compared the good and bad points of the various exhibits staged.

On the following day I accompanied Mr. O'Shea on his visit to Mr. P. Scanlan, Glencairn, Lismore, and was present while he gave instruction on and demonstrated the transferring of bees from fixed comb into standard C.D.B. hive. The supering of other stock in fixed comb hive was also demonstrated. Mrs. Scanlan took part in the work and appeared anxious to improve her knowledge with regard to beekeeping. The instruction was imparted in a simple, practical way and useful information was given.

A grant towards the purchase of this bar frame hive and fittings had been made by the County Committee, and although Mr. Scanlan, as an old demonstration plotholder, had been keeping bees for some time, he had had no experience of the working of an up-to-date hive. Under these circumstances this grant should serve the purpose for which it is intended.

When in the county I inspected horticultural and special fruit demonstration plots held by the following:—Mr. J. O'Keefe, Klossera, Dungarvan (rhubarb plot); Mr. J. O'Sullivan, Afane, Cappoquin (black currant plot). Both gardens were in good order considering the late start in sowing and planting and the adverse season experienced.

Plotholders and families seem to be interested in the care of plots, and with the experience gained, good results should follow future cultivation.

So far as visited, rhubarb stools, fruit trees and bushes supplied to the plots were of good type and variety, and all vegetable seeds had germinated well.

Register of Non-Pedigree Dairy Shorthorn Cattle. The following letter was read and an order was made to purchase two copies of the volume, one for the Instructor and one for the office.

I have to state for the information of your committee that copies of Volume II of the Department's Register of Non-Pedigree Dairy Shorthorn Cattle, which contains particulars of cows and bulls registered during the period from 1st January, 1923, to 31st December, 1922, with an appendix giving additional entries relating to that period for cows included in Volume I are now available, and may be obtained through any bookseller or directly from Messrs. Eason and Son, Ltd., 40-41 Lower O'Connell street, Dublin, C.S. (price 6s., postage 7d. extra).

The publication affords information of great importance to members of Cow-Testing Associations and Agricultural Shows Societies, owners of registered cows, and all others concerned in the breeding and keeping of dairy cattle.

As it is desirable that copies of each volume of the register should, according as it is published, be secured for the County Agricultural Instructors and for office use in the case of each County Committee of Agriculture, the Department are prepared to sanction any necessary expenditure from the Joint Fund in the event of your committee's making an order for the purchase of copies of the volume immediately in question.

The Department will be obliged by your advising them, in due course, as to the action taken by the committee in this matter.

Annual Holidays. A letter was read from Mr. O'Keefe, Agricultural Instructor, applying for three weeks' holidays at the first of September.

The application was unanimously granted.

Premium Boar. An application was read from Mr. M. Kennedy, Dromina, for a premium boar, which was granted unanimously.

Revision of Agricultural and Live Stock Scheme, 1920-30. The following letter and memorandum was read:—

The Department have had under review the Agricultural and Live Stock Schemes for the coming year, and, after giving careful consideration to the suggestions submitted by County Committees of Agriculture, they have decided to introduce modifications in the various schemes as set forth in the accompanying memorandum.

It may be mentioned that (with the exception of the reduction of the value of the premium for goose stations) no change will be made in the values of premiums for bulls, boars or poultry stations, or in the values of nominations for mares.

A copy of each scheme as revised will be sent you when printed and supplies should then be requisitioned on the usual form. It is requested that you will not ask for more copies than can be profitably used during the year.

Kindly submit this communication to your committee in due course and notify the Instructors concerned regarding any of the modifications which may affect their work. For this purpose a few copies of the above-mentioned memorandum are sent herewith.

FAKED RAIL SMASH. TRAIN SOLD FOR FILM REALISM. People motoring on the road between Alton and Basingstoke were horrified to see a level crossing smash between a train travelling at fifty miles an hour and a steam lorry, loaded with sand. Both were wrecked, but there was no loss of life, because neither the train nor the lorry had a living soul upon it. The explanation was that the big scene in a film called "The Wreckers," in preparation by a British Company, was being enacted.

The Southern Railway Company had given permission to the producers to use this local line, over which there is no Sunday traffic, and had sold them an old corridor train and a large engine, whilst a length of rail had been removed to give an added touch of realism to the "disaster."

A large body of police from all parts of Hampshire were present to keep the public out of danger, and elaborate precautions were taken to ensure the safety of those connected with the film. Behind a protective barrier of sandbags, operators "shot" the scene from five batteries of cameras, four being concealed behind boughs of trees, and the other in a dummy haystack.

After the smash, breakdown gangs removed the wreckage and restored the line to its normal appearance.

Waterford Electricity Supply Scheme.

THE FIRST LONG DISTANCE TRANSMISSION OF ELECTRIC CURRENT.

The following interesting article by "Portlairge" appeared in last week's issue of the Dublin "Freeman":—

The first test of long distance transmission of electric current in the United Kingdom will take place in October next, when the electricity supply will be sent from the Pigeon House Power Station, Dublin, to Waterford—a distance of one hundred miles. It will be a kind of test in advance of the working of the Shannon Scheme.

The erecting of the masts or towers at Newrath and Bilberry and the connecting of the 40 K.V. double circuit transmission lines between the Government transformer station at Mount Misery (north bank of the river Suir) and the Waterford Corporation Receiving Station at Graciedieu Road (south side of the Suir) marked the completion of the line from Dublin to Waterford.

The line from Dublin to Waterford is part and parcel of the plan and specification of the Shannon Development Scheme. The re-casting of the plans for the Waterford Corporation electricity scheme necessitated the making of the line from Dublin to Waterford two years earlier than was originally intended.

The Waterford Corporation electricity supply scheme is estimated to cost £30,000. When the scheme was mooted in November, 1925, £10,000 out of £30,000 was ear-marked for the erection of a Central Power Station which would generate the supply of electric current until such time as the turbines at Ardnacrusha were set in motion and the Shannon Scheme became a reality. Experts advised on the scrapping of the Central Power Station and the dove-tailing of the Waterford Electricity Supply Scheme into the Shannon Development Scheme. The erection of the Receiving Station and other incidentals have, however, swallowed up the £10,000 that, it was contemplated, would be saved by dispensing with the Central Power Station.

Consumers of electric current in Waterford City will receive their supply from the Pigeon House Power Station, Dublin, as from October, 1928, up to the time that the Shannon Scheme will be in operation. Hundreds of householders who have wired their houses and business people who have scrapped their gas plants and small electric plants are anxiously looking forward to the function which may be a State one) of switching the current on to Portlairge eight weeks hence.

It might be remarked that the Waterford Corporation had an installation of public electric lights forty years ago—it was a pioneer amongst Irish municipalities in the introduction of electricity for public lighting purposes. About the year 1890 the electric light was extinguished as the company that supplied the current were unable to comply with the request of the Corporation to lay underground mains. The electric light (metaphorically) went under! And for a period of thirty years the Waterford County Borough "enjoyed" a monopoly of gas light. In the last year that the streets were lighted by gas (1919) the cost to the Corporation was £4,000! In the current financial year the sum allocated for the public lighting of the city (under the £300,000 scheme) is less than nine hundred pounds!

The towers supporting the transmission lines are a very imposing sight over the river Suir, standing, as they do, some 300 feet above the river. They are remarkable looking landmarks that catch the eyes of visitors approaching Waterford by rail or river. The span between the towers is 1,500 feet in length. These towers are 160 feet high, erected on rock foundations; they are 150 feet above ground level. The weight of each tower is approximately 29 tons; and each has a base area of 24 square feet. The height of the towers supporting the river span gives a clearance between the lowest conductor and high water spring tides of 150 feet. The work of erecting these towers and transmission lines is the largest of its kind yet undertaken by the contractors in the Free State and has been carried out with a thoroughness characteristic of the German contractors, Siemens-Schucker. A good deal of local labour under German foremen was employed. An interesting feature, and one that shows the intelligence and capabilities of Irish workmen in responding to the instructions of the German engineers, was the manner in which hitherto unskilled workers were able (after a little tuition) to ascend the towers and assist in the hazardous and intricate task of fixing cross-arms, etc. The height of the towers did not produce any high nervous tension amongst those hardy sons of toil, who were as cool and self-possessed at the top of these aerials as if they were on terra firma.

The span across the Blackwater will not be as long as that across the Suir nor will the masts be as big.

Cork is one of the two centres (Dublin being the other) that will have the primary distribution line of 110 K.V. (110,000 volts) 3 conductors straight from Ardnacrusha. The lines passing through Waterford are 3 conductor lines of 38 K.V. (38,000 volts) and form the Loop. The Government lowers, as they are called, support those three lines across the Suir. The Loop is known as Loop 4—Ardacrusha—Waterford—Cork—Mallow—Tralee—Killarney—Ardacrusha.

The lines 38 K.V. will go right into the main Transformer Station at Cork—so that the station at Mount Misery can be fed back from Cork.

The number of lines coming into Waterford is four, all of which are connected with the Mount Misery Transformer Station (38/40 K.V. Transformer Station) i.e., steps down the voltage from 38,000 to 10,000. One line comes from Dublin via Maryborough-Kilkenny; one from Dublin via Wexford; one from Ardnacrusha, and one from Cork. All those lines are 38 K.V. I do not think that any other city or town in the Saorstát will have this advantage of being able to tap four sources of supply.

The Corporation towers carry what is known as a six-conductor line—six cables that will transmit the current from the Mount Misery Transformer Station to the Waterford Corporation Receiving Station at Grace View Road—the latter will be the Power House to supply electricity to the city. The cables spanning the river Suir have a breaking stress of 100,000 lbs. per square inch. The wires are put up to stand the force of wind blowing at 50 miles per hour at right angles to the lines; and the lines are also assumed to have a half-inch coating of ice. The prevailing winds here blow strongest from the North-West so that there would be only a glancing pressure on the 1,500 feet span.

Cork, as I have stated, will have one 110 K.V. line from Waterford. In addition a 38 K.V. line will go out from Cork to Bandon and Dunmanway. The 110 K.V. and 38 K.V. lines are built on lattice work masts in the southern area. Wooden poles will be used on the 38 K.V. lines in the northern area of the Saorstát.

A somewhat unique feature in connection with the work is the fact that men who it might be said were engaged in co-operating to bridge the Suir. Two of the German engineers served in the German High Sea Fleet, while Lieut-Commander John Dunphy, R.N. (ret.), A.M.I.E.E., was on active service in the British Navy. The thoroughness of the German engineers has been only equalled by the careful, efficient and energetic way that Mr. Dunphy (representing the Waterford Corporation) has supervised all the details in the carrying out of the contract for the local electricity supply scheme. In addition to Mr. Dunphy two other young Dungarvan engineers were engaged on the work—Mr. Morrissey, Square, and Mr. G. Stokes, do.

BOHERANNA.

I pine for Boheranna where I wandered long ago,
When the magic power of childhood lent the world a radiant glow;
Where we roamed the fields together till the gloaming gathered gray,
Ere I left sweet Boheranna in the Desies far away.

'Tis there the grass is greenest and the birds are singing sweet,
'Tis there the lads and lasses dance on never-tiring feet;
'Tis there the summer's earliest buds will open in the May,
My flowery Boheranna in the Desies far away.

I am weary of the city with its endless noise and glare,
And I sigh for calm seclusion and my native Irish air;
For the wild romantic legends oft I heard at close of day
Round the hearths at Boheranna in the Desies far away.

We may win the gold we sought for, but the heart is throbbing sore,
And the olden recollections haunt us ever more and more;
The hills and glens and valleys, ever calling, seem to say:
"Come back to Boheranna in the Desies far away."

The old familiar faces I may never see again,
And my sad heart may always feel the exile's yearning pain;
But there are blissful moments when in fancy I can stray
To fragrant Boheranna in the Desies far away.

Irish Ireland News

Perhaps the most inspiring sight seen at Aonach Tailteann was the scene on Tuesday night, 21st August, at Croke Park at the Pipes Bands Competition. Such a gathering of pipers, we are sure, has seldom been seen before even in Scotland. When all the bands were formed into a battalion column and marched across the fields playing the "Kinnegad Slashers," three times, "a hundred pipers an' an' an' in their picturesque costumes, every man spick and span from the tip of the feathers in his bonnet to the heels of his brogue goidie. It's no easy matter to please a Scottish piper, and a Highland Pipe Major at that, but Pipe Major Taylor, the judge, was frankly delighted as he stepped out proudly in front of the marching column. Such a sight was never seen in Dublin before, and possibly will not be seen until Aonach Tailteann comes round again in 1931.

We had a conversation with Pipe Major Taylor after the contest. Pipe Major Taylor has all the virtues that go to make a piper. He is a native of the Raey county, Caethness, and a descendant of generations of pipers. He enjoyed his short visit to Ireland very much, and was delighted to see the Dublin street names up in "Gaedh-hilg."

The turn-out of the pipe bands surprised him very much; he did not expect anything like it in Ireland. The piping generally was good, but, he cautiously admitted, was not quite up to the Highland standard, but the tuning up was almost perfect. He suggests keeping to the traditional Scottish pipe tunes—many of which are also well-known Irish airs—until such times as the popular Irish tunes are arranged for the pipes by some competent piper.

Drumming was not as good as the piping, too overdone in many cases. The tenor drums he does not consider suitable for a pipe band at all. Tenor drums, he admits, look well, but tenor drummers should be encouraged to swing their sticks in the air, but never to touch the vellum. He recommends the "Guards" or deep-side drums, not the "cneec" drums.

One need not be so very old to remember the revival of piping in Ireland, and the progress made in pipe music within the last few years. An Phib Mhor, bag pipes or war pipes, as the instrument is variously called, is, of course, of Irish origin, but it is more closely associated with Scotland. The present day Scottish pipes and Highland dress, kilt, plaid and colgoidie are the modern development of the ancient Irish instrument and dress. The Gaelic dress died out completely in Ireland and the bagpipe barely lingered on until the Gaelic restoration movement was started.

The first pipers' band of the Gaelic movement was started in County Armagh, others followed quickly in other countries, and for a time there was quite a large number of bands in the country, but the troubled times in the country since 1916 was not conducive to the encouragement of music, more especially the encouragement of pipe bands. Pipes had perforce to be dumped, and the members of the bands got scattered, for although an Phib Mhor is also called the war pipes, it seems to flourish better in a peaceful atmosphere, and with the return of the dove the skirl of the pipes was heard again. Bands sprung up in all parts, and now the ancient pipes seem likely to regain their ancient prestige in Irish life.

Owing to Scottish influence in Belfast and Antrim, Pipe Bands have always been popular in the North East, but although the personnel of these bands is purely Irish, the dress is purely Scottish, that is the various bands wear Scottish Clan Tartans to which they have no right whatever.

There is a slight difference between the Irish and Scottish styles of piping. The Irish style would not please the average Scot, who contends that it takes seven generations to make a piper, an idea which the Irishman scoffs. Whichever is better, the fact remains that the Scots can claim to have the traditional style.

What strikes one who has heard the Irish and Scottish pipers is the great absence of "gracing" in Irish piping, in contrast to the very "flowery" style of the Scotsman.

Eudach Spicheadtais is the complete costume or full dress from bonnet to brog, including badges. In the early days of the piping revival in Ireland costumes made on the ancient pattern were much favoured in Armagh. Pipers were all dressed in different colours, no two alike; loose-fitting tunics, a large belt, wide sleeved, and full kilt pleated all round. But later the modern Scottish style came into favour and is now generally worn. The modern Scottish dress is the development of the ancient dress in almost every detail. A French traveller named Le Gonz who visited Ireland in 1644 has left us a description of the Irish dress at the time. He describes a little blue bonnet, raised two finger breadths in front and behind, covering the head and ears. We see one of these in the pictures of Aodh Ruadh O'Donnahill. It is known now as the "Balmoral." The Frenchman says also "their doublet has a long body and four skirts." This is doubtless the ancestor of the modern Scottish cota goidie with the four flaps. The fiddlehead beag (kilt) had evidently gone out in 1644 for the Frenchman describes their "breaches" as a pantaloons of white frieze which they call trousers." Triubhas as trousers, are just as Gaelic and as ancient, however, as the fiddlehead beag.

The very ugly sparan mullach or horses tail sparan is a purely British Army invention, and is not favoured by Scottish Gaels, who prefer the small leather or fox head sparans.

What we call the brat (shawl) the Scot calls a plaid. The modern made up brat is very tidy and dressy on bandsmen, but for civilian wear the belted plaid is more suitable and lighter to carry.

DREDGING AT PASSAGE

At Waterford Co. Council meeting, Mr. O'Gorman presiding.

In connection with a payment of £300 for the dredging of Passage Harbour, Mr. Bowen said, the Fisheries Department gave a grant of £300 and the County Council were to contribute £300. The work was carried out by the Board of Works and the money expended, but at the time it was pointed out that £600 would not do the work. There was not nearly enough done, as at the end of where they dredged there was a bank 4ft. high which was dangerous to shipping.

As to the cost of completing the work on it, Mr. Bowen, in answer to Mr. Walsh said, it would be hard to say as the work was tidal.

Mr. O'Donnell—Dunmore and Passage have sent no representative here, and yet they want us to do the work. The question was left in Mr. Bowen's hands.

Mr. O'Halloran—Was provision made for this in the estimate? Chairman—No.

Mr. O'Halloran—Where is the money to come from? Chairman—From the Grant you asked for.

Mr. Heskin—The poor of the county are faced with great difficulty in year, and how are we to find £300 for Passage Harbour?

BRICKY DRAINAGE.
Mr. Bowen applied for remuneration for reporting about Bricky drainage.

This work was carried out, by the Board of Works and was then handed over to the County Council to maintain. One of your duties is to have an annual report on it from the County Surveyor, and Mr. Bowen wants to know what he is going to be paid before he makes a report.

Mr. Bowen—In view of what has happened, it is safer to arrange this in advance.

Mr. Coughlan—When this scheme was brought on it was said the scheme would cost nothing to the County.

Mr. Bowen—This might be regarded as an administrative cost, but I do not know if you can put the cost on the occupiers.

Mr. Curran—I thought when the Grant was made it would have nothing to do with the ratepayers except those who benefited.

In reply to the Chairman, Mr. Bowen said £3 3s. would be the cost of the report. There was no fee charged for anything in connection with the business of the Council.

Chairman—It was outside your duty to make this report.

Mr. Bowen—There is a day's work on it.

The Council decided to pay Mr. Bowen £3 3s. for the report subject to sanction.

As to the complaint that the lands of Mr. Tuomey and Mr. Curran did not benefit by the Drainage Scheme, a committee composed of Messrs. M. Curran, M. McGrath, J. McGrath, W. Stack and M. Brennock was appointed to inspect the work with Mr. Bowen

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

CHRISTIAN SCHOOLS, DUNGARVAN.—REMARKABLE SUCCESSSES.

The successes obtained by our Christian Schools this year total 73 and constitute a record in local educational annals. In previous years we drew attention to the steady growth of these great schools in the matter of top-notch achievements, and we are happy to state that the same progress is being maintained, and along the soundest of lines, too. The students this year have succeeded in securing four valuable Easter Scholarships, which entitle them to pass on to the Training College for Teachers. They were obtained in the teeth of the keenest competition from every corner of the Free State. Another student secured a valuable Agricultural Scholarship, tenable at one of the Department's Farming Institutes while in the Intermediate Examinations a further record was broken, 17 students being successful out of the 18 presented. In an age when education is the be-all and end-all of everybody, such successes in open competitive examinations are positive proof of the brilliancy of the teaching staff and the steady and close application to work of the students. Dungarvan is justly proud of her Christian Schools. They have stood the test of time and the changes in the educational system, and have emerged more and more successful with each succeeding year. Their brilliant achievements are due to organization, efficiency and perfect co-operation between teachers and pupils, and the physical training of the boys is as well catered for as their mental training, for the Brothers rigidly believe in the efficacy of "Mens sana in corpore sano." Hence it was no surprise to find the C.B.S. team this year winning the Most Rev. Dr. Hackett's Cup in the Schools and Colleges Hurling Competition.

MESSAGE FROM THE SEA.

A few evenings ago an Abbeyside resident found a bottle floating in the water and on taking it up and removing the cork a slip of paper was found inside on which the following words were legibly written:—"Going down three hundred miles off Irish coast. Engine trouble—McKay. Good-bye." That would seem to refer to the loss of Miss Elsie McKay (Lord Inchcape's daughter) and Capt. Hinchcliffe on their flight to America last March, but if the slip of paper we saw was inscribed as the plane was going down—then it was written with a very steady hand.

PRESENTATION CONVENT, DUNGARVAN. EXCELLENT EXAMINATION RESULTS.

Today we have great pleasure in referring to the excellent results obtained by the pupils of the Presentation Convent at the Summer Examinations. They reflect the highest credit on the ability of the teaching staff and the application of the pupils. Honours and Passes were secured over a broad field of subjects of practical utility, while several valuable scholarships were also won. At the examinations held by the Leinster School of Music all the pupils presented created a record by winning First Class Honours. That was something of which the Presentation Convent should feel proud. A perusal of the results which appear elsewhere in these columns, will prove how excellent is the teaching of the educational curriculum in the convent, given in their pupils by the brilliant staff of the Presentation Schools. The results speak for themselves and are a credit to teachers and pupils alike.

G.A.A.

At Dungarvan on Sunday last in spite of the bad weather two very interesting football matches were played. In junior football Kilgobnet, who are a really good and plucky young team, went down before the greater skill and experience of Dungarvan. In that Kilgobnet should not be disappointed as considering this is their first season, they have done remarkably well, and it was no reflection on them to go under before such a combination as Dungarvan. Next year they should do big things if they keep together and practice in the meantime. In the minor championships Villierstown defeated Newtown after a very nice and well-fought contest.

HURLING FINAL.

On to-morrow (Sunday) at Dungarvan one of the greatest contests of the year will take place when the home team will meet Tallon in the hurling final of the West. The Bride hurlers hold a very high reputation and will certainly give a finished account of themselves, while the local team is composed of as good a bunch as ever wielded a hurley. Lovers of high-class hurling will witness a treat in this game, which starts at 4.30 o'clock.

COUNTY BOARD G.A.A.

A meeting of the County Board G.A.A. will be held in the Pavilion, Gaelic Field, on Sunday at 2 p.m.

BIG EVENT COMING.

In the near future two great championship matches will be played at the Gaelic Field, Dungarvan, as this venue has been selected for the junior finals in hurling and football between Tipperary and Waterford and Kerry and Waterford, respectively. Only the date remains to be fixed and that will be apparently towards the end of September. There is no need to elaborate on the merits of the teams, as Tipperary and Kerry speak for themselves, while the prowess of Waterford in their progress to the finals in hurling and football is proof that the visitors will have to fight for the laurels of victory right to a finish this time.

A DOUBLE WELCOME.

There is always welcome for you when you come home, especially by the young, but when you come home from the CAKE SHOP with some of the latest confections you will be doubly welcome to the young and the old. Owing to the unprecedented success of the CAKE SHOP since its opening last year, Messrs. A. Moloney and Sons, Ltd., have now enlarged their staff. As a result they are in a position to give earlier deliveries daily to town and country as well as a bigger variety. They wish particularly to draw attention to the new "morning rolls," which can be had for breakfast. Having tried them once you cannot do without them. Try them and be really happy.—THE CAKE SHOP, DUNGARVAN.

45 DRIVE.

A Monster 45 Drive in aid of the funds of the Dungarvan Brass and Reed Band will take place in a few weeks, particulars of which will appear in next issue. Big prizes will be given.

HURLING SEMI-FINAL.
CORK GIVES DUBLIN A BAD BEATING.

At Kilkenny on Sunday last the semi-final of the Hurling Championship was played between Cork, champions of Munster, and Dublin, champions of Leinster, and resulted in an easy victory for Cork by 5 goals and 3 points to 2 points.

Judged from any standpoint, the match was most disappointing, and except for the first fifteen minutes, the standard of play fell far short of what one would expect in a match of such importance.

Those responsible for the accommodation arrangements cannot be complimented on their foresight. Anything so primitive in the matter of stabling it would be difficult to imagine, and but for the good-humoured manner in which the huge crowd accepted the situation the match might have ended before it had well begun. To begin with, the ground in its present stage of construction is not capable of accommodating a crowd such as that which was present on Sunday. The gates leading to the playing pitch were closed fully one hour before the time of starting, with the result that holders of touchline seats arriving after that time were refused admission.

Even members of the opposing teams had to climb over barb-wire fences to enter the playing pitch, and the members of one of the bands were forced to adopt the same method of entrance. Once inside the ground there was no shelter of any sort, and as the rain poured down in torrents those present were drenched through.

As to the match, the standard of play was lowered by frequent displays of high feeling. There was some splendid hurling for the first fifteen minutes, but from that on there were several periods of uninteresting play. The better team won without any question of doubt, and as a matter of fact the final score hardly did the winners full justice.

As a team Cork were much more impressive, and throughout they showed a marked contrast to the individual efforts of the Dublin team. The Cork backs were even better than in the match against Clare, and they showed exceptional skill and judgment in their fielding of a greasy ball. At no stage of the proceedings did the Dublin forwards break clean through the defence. At times Sean Oge Murphy and his men were hard pressed, but good marking and a sound backing up in the goal mouth relieved a number of critical situations.

From a territorial standpoint Cork had always more of the game, and their fast-moving forwards were a continual source of danger to the Dublin defence. The pressure was so sustained at times that almost the entire Dublin back division had to fall back to effect a clearance. On a dry ground, Cork would if anything have won more easily, for their short passing game was hampered by the prevailing conditions. There was no excuse to offer for the defeat of Dublin. They were up against as fine a side as Cork has put in the field in recent years, while Dublin have by no means as good a team as that which won the 1927 championship.

Of the winning side, Sean Oge Murphy played his usual sound game, and he was well supported by Madden and Regan. O'Grady was the outstanding forward for Cork, and he never neglected an opportunity to give his inside men plenty of the ball. P. Ahearne, too, was at the top of his form; while M. Leahy and later Dr. Kearney at full forward were seen to advantage.

Of the Dublin side, McInerney and Gill of the backs, and Barry and Quinn forwards, were the only ones to live up to their reputations. Details: Cork set a lightning pace and inside two minutes from the start the game was being waged in Dublin territory. McInerney brought off a couple of brilliant saves, only to find the Cork forwards returning to the attack with renewed vigour. Cork were first to find the net, but the score was disallowed, and then Coghlan whipped the ball up from a free to put the Munster champions ahead. Almost immediately the scene of action was changed, and Griffin intercepting a fast-travelling ball, shot over the crossbar to put the sides level.

Even at this stage of the game Cork were masters of the situation, and only the brilliant defence of McInerney, O'Meara and Daly eased a number of critical situations. There was a short stoppage as Ryan, the Dublin left full back, had to be treated for minor injuries.

In spite of the fact that the pitch was rapidly becoming sodden as a result of the heavy rain, there was no slowing down of the game. Attack followed attack by the Cork forwards, and on a couple of occasions the Dublin goal was simply besieged by the wearers of the red jersey.

At the end of ten minutes play Cork were deprived of the services of their full forward, M. Leahy, who had to retire owing to injuries. His place was taken by Dr. Kearney. Immediately on resuming, Coghlan, the Cork right wing forward, was left unmarked and he picked up a low pass to register a point from half-way.

Up to this point the standard of play was in keeping with the highest traditions of the game, but once Cork had taken the lead, high feeling between some members of the opposing sides became strikingly apparent.

Cork continued on the offensive, and eventually O'Grady dashed away on the left. He sent across a beautiful centre and Dr. Kearney, with an acute sense of position, dashed up to bang the ball into the net. Dublin rallied, and during the next five minutes the Cork goal was in danger. Eventually Sean Oge effected a brilliant clearance from the goal-mouth, and O'Regan then initiated a movement which brought play inside Dublin territory.

A "70" to Cork, taken by Hurley, left play close to the Dublin goal, and Delea, coming up in support, intercepted cleverly to score a major with a rising shot. Cork held a commanding lead at this stage of the proceedings, and as the game progressed it became evident that the Southern champions had the measure of their opponents. There was another stoppage before halftime owing to O'Connell having received an injury in a melee.

Cork led by 22 to 4 point at the interval, and on the run of the play the score by no means flattered them.

Within three minutes of the resumption Cork had increased their lead. From a touch near midfield P. Ahearne gained possession, and lifted the ball over the bar for a minor. Cork were on top now, and the forwards literally walked through the Dublin defence. The Dublin backs were unable to cope with the fast moving Cork attack, and though fully forty minutes had elapsed since the start, the pace of the game had in no way lessened.

Midway through the concluding period O'Grady banged down a low ball and Kearney deflected it into the net. Five minutes later P. Ahearne added another goal from close in, and the issue was as good as settled. At this stage the tension was beginning to tell with a resultant loss of tempers on both sides, and eventually the referee had no option but to order E. O'Connell, the Cork left full back, off the field.

Play had only been resumed when Dr. Kearney was forced to retire as a result of injuries, and M. Leahy resumed his original position. The next incident of note was a splendid save by Bourke, the Cork custodian, and then Gill scored a minor from a free for Dublin. Towards the end Cork put in a couple of strong attacks, and from one of these P. Ahearne scored the fifth goal of the match.

In the last few minutes Dublin made desperate efforts to reduce the lead, but the veteran Sean Oge held his citadel intact.

Cork—J. Bourke, M. Madden, Sean Oge—Murphy, E. O'Connell, B. Murphy, J. O'Regan, T. Barry, J. Hurley, M. O'Connell, E. Coghlan, P. O'Grady, M. Delea, P. Ahearne, M. Ahearne, M. Leahy.

Dublin—Dr. Daly, T. O'Meara, P. McInerney, T. Ryan, M. Murphy, M. Haver, J. Walsh, M. Gill, M. Finn, G. Howarth, J. Leeson, T. Barry, T. Quinn, M. Power, C. Griffin.

Referee—Mr. P. Walshe (Kilkenny).

SCHOLARSHIP EXTENSION REFUSED.

At the County Council meeting on Tuesday week, Mr. O'Gorman presiding.

Mr. Edward Keane, Garrahan, applied for an extension of his University Scholarship to enable him to pursue a post graduate course.

Mr. Brennock—For the credit he has already brought to the Council no one should have any hesitation in granting him the extension. His work speaks for itself. Mr. Curran seconded.

Chairman—Are not his three years up?

Mr. Brennock—Yes.

Chairman—The Council treated him very well.

Mr. Brennock—This is one of the most brilliant young men sent up from the Co. Waterford. It is a question of whether you finish him now and have him a credit to the county or let him down.

Mr. McGrath—Where will he go when he is finished?

Mr. Curran—I don't think we should refuse him. He has a future before him.

Mr. O'Shea—The County Council are after doing well for this young man. He has got his University Degree. A while ago you asked the Department for a grant to relieve unemployment during the coming winter, so that you cannot afford the money. This young man was very well treated. Most of the brilliant young men we gave a chance have left the county. The £70 we are asked to give now would keep a family from starving for six months. There is no use spurring a free horse.

Chairman—What is he going for?

Mr. Brennock—Commerce.

Mr. O'Shea—He has got his degree.

Mr. Brennock—He wants a Post-Graduate Course.

Mr. O'Shea—I always supported those scholarships, but the economic pressure on the ratepayers now is too great and the time for this is not opportune.

Mr. Brennock—If there is one horse we are riding to death it is the economic one.

Chairman—No. It is better leave it to the poor.

Mr. Brennock—But this is the son of a working man.

Chairman—We carried out our obligations to him and paid for him for three years. On a show of hands the application was refused.

Cross-Channel Visitors Sentenced at Tramore.

A clever capture of suspicious visitors to Tramore from across Channel during race week was dealt with by Mr. McCabe, D.J., at the District Court.

The following were in custody—John Green, John Murphy, John Ferguson, John Stephenson and James Reade, and they were charged by Supt. Keenan with loitering at Tramore on the 16th August with intent to commit a felony.

Mr. R. J. Farrell, solr., appeared for all the accused.

Sergt. McNamara, Tramore, deposed he was on duty at the racecourse on the 15th August, the first day of the Tramore races, and saw the defendants there during the races. He saw four of the defendants and two others, who were not in custody mixing about in the crowd in a suspicious manner, and moving about the crowd as the people left the racecourse. They separated through the crowd and got together again. One of the accused now in the dock (John Murphy) was not with them then, but there were two others, who were not apprehended. After the crowd had left the racecourse the accused moved on towards Tramore, and he did not see them again until the following evening, 16th inst., when his attention was drawn to them at the railway square. He followed them across to the station; they purchased tickets and went into the station, and witness followed them. They were both in uniform. He saw them separate among the big crowd at the station and come together again. He got at one end hoping to get the lot together, but instead of going back to Waterford by train they left and boarded a bus for the city outside the station. He telephoned to Manor St. Station asking the Guards there to apprehend them, but two got away.

Inspector Keenan—After arrest certain articles were found on them?

Witness—Yes. James Reade had £11 in notes, small money, and a railway guide. John Murphy had £10 11s. 8d. and a gold watch. Stephenson had £2 19s. 6d., Ferguson 10s. and a watch and chain. Breen had £12. Each had a skeleton key in his possession in addition.

By Mr. Farrell—Their movements attracted your attention? Yes, they were moving about, coming together and separating again.

Mr. Farrell—But you did not see them do anything in the crowd? No. All that attracted my attention was the suspicious way they were moving about. They bought tickets to travel back by the train, and they did not go that way.

Mr. Farrell—But they did nothing an ordinary person would not do, except you suspected them of loitering? No.

Mr. Farrell—You had certain suspicions, and I suggest to you that on their walking about you put a certain construction you would not apply to any ordinary person? That is quite possible. I had a lot of complaints about them from people in Tramore.

Mr. Farrell—As regards the money, £10 is not too much to have on one at a race?

District Justice—Not half enough, I would say (laughter).

Inspector Keenan said he had received the previous records of the men which he would put before his Worship.

Mr. Farrell objected. Their records, he submitted, should not be put in evidence until they were convicted.

The Justice decided he would put the previous convictions to each of the defendants, and he could deny the record if he liked.

James Reade, it appeared, had a number of convictions against him, including theft at Glasgow in 1900, for which he received a sentence of 30 days. In 1901, again at Glasgow, he was sentenced to two months, and also in the next year, 1902, at Maryhill, Scotland.

Defendant—I admit the record fair.

District Justice—You need read no more.

John Murphy's record showed that in November, 1913, he was fined 21s. at Belfast. In the year 1919, for larceny at Glasgow, he was convicted and sentenced. In 1920, at Glasgow, for attempting to steal, he got 30 days' hard labour. In 1915 he was convicted, and also in 1927, John Stephenson was convicted in Glasgow.

Defendant—I give in to them all, your worship.

John Ferguson also admitted all the records on the street.

In regard to the records, Superintendent Keenan said his worship would notice some of them went back in one case to 30 years ago. There was no conviction as far as they knew against Green, but it was sufficient, he submitted, to show that he associated with the other men.

Mr. Farrell said the charge was not one of association, and the whole evidence, he submitted, was very flimsy.

The accused, Green, denied he was with the others. He came to Tramore, he said, for a holiday.

Superintendent—What attracted you to Tramore?

Justice—I suppose he considered it one of the beauty spots of Ireland (laughter).

Inspector Keenan asked his worship to inflict the maximum penalty, three months, on the defendants, and further, to bind them under a penalty of

CAPPOQUIN NOTES.

NEW SOCIAL CLUB.
Owing to the Great enterprise of a few prominent gentlemen residing in the district, a new Social and Sports Club has recently been established in Cappagh, which is bound to supply a long-felt want in that thickly populated district. The fine building which had been formerly used as a creamery by Mr. Dunne, has now been acquired on favourable terms by the promoters, for the purpose of a suitable social and recreation hall. The Club gratefully acknowledge the generous manner in which they were treated by Mr. Dunne when negotiating with him for possession of the building, as that gentleman showed himself most anxious to oblige and facilitate them in every way while they also wish to thank Mr. Jas. Daly, Shandon Dairy Co., and Mr. M. O'Connor, Cappagh, for the valuable assistance they both gave in the matter. The Rev. J. Dwan, the popular C.C. of Modeligo parish, also took an active and kindly interest in establishing the Club on a solid foundation. It is intended to start football and hurling clubs in connection with the hall in the near future. That well-known sportsman, Mr. N. Morrissey, has very kindly placed a suitable field at the disposal of the Committee.

TWO VALUABLE TROPHIES.
What is known as "A Knockout Lawn Tennis Tournament," was held in Clogheen, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week, for which two valuable silver cups were offered to the lady and gentleman winning the mixed doubles handicap. Teams from Cahir, Cappoquin and Clogheen Tennis Clubs competed, and after a series of interesting sets the two cups were won outright by Miss Ita Widger, Waterford, and Mr. L. D. Dunne, Cappoquin, representing the Cappoquin Club. The best contested games were witnessed on Thursday when the semi-final games were played, Miss Widger and Mr. Dunne being opposed by Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, Dublin. Although the latter won the first of three sets by six games to four, Miss Widger and Mr. Dunne won the remaining two by 6-4 and 6-0.

Miss Widger and Mr. Dunne therefore qualified for the final on Friday when they met another skillful pair of opponents in Mr. Murphy and Miss Sutcliffe, Clogheen, but once again Miss Widger's wonderful play, ably assisted by Mr. Dunne, never left the issue in doubt, and they were eventually declared the winners of the two silver cups, which were then presented by the Rev. Mr. Nicholson, Clogheen amid a scene of great enthusiasm. Miss Widger is a daughter of the late Mr. Dick Widger, Waterford, her mother being formerly Miss Bridget McGrath, a well-known Miss Cappoquin lady, and sister of Mrs. Cranley, Cappoquin, and Mr. Michael McGrath, Lismore.

three months to keep the peace. Mr. Farrell said if there was any doubt as to their intentions, apart from their records, they were entitled to the Probation of Offenders Act. Green in particular, had given a reasonable explanation of his presence at Tramore. Against the whole five there really was nothing except their previous characters, and he suggested they should not be tried again on their records, else they could go on being imprisoned again and again.

District Justice—Do you mean to suggest that these scoundrels came to Tramore for the purpose of turning over a new leaf?

Mr. Farrell—I suggest the prosecution has not proved felonious intent. Ferguson, Mr. Farrell said, was over 70 years of age, and he asked his worship to show him leniency.

Supt. Keenan—It is over 33 years since he was first convicted.

District—I have no doubt they are rogues and scoundrels, and any leniency I can show them would be no use. The only thing I can do is sentence them to three months, with hard labour. I do that, not with regard to themselves, but with regard to the public; but I would like them and their confederates to realise Tramore is an unhealthy place for the like of them.

The Piltown Affair.

ACCUSED AGAIN REMANDED.

TOUCHING APPEAL.

Michael Hartly, Monaree, farmer, was brought up in custody on remand before Mr. G. P. Farrell, B.L., at Youghal Cottage Hospital, charged with causing actual bodily harm to Declan Lynch, fisherman, and naval pensioner, on 15th August after Piltown regatta.

Supt. O'Shea, Dungarvan, prosecuted, and Mr. T. K. Keane, solr., Youghal, appeared for accused.

The deposition made on last day by the injured man (who was in bed paralysed and dangerously ill) having been read over, he said it was all true, and he had nothing to add to it.

Cross-examined by Mr. Keane—Had you many drinks at the time of the assault? I had about 8 or 9 bottles of stout. There would have been no assault only for the drink. When you take drink, as a rule, does it not leave you in a weak condition? Yes, I am suffering from rheumatic pains, and I used be helpless one time more or less.

To the Court—Do you say you used take a lot of drink? No, I didn't say a lot of drink.

To Mr. Keane—What condition do you think Hartly was in that day? I'd say Hartly was sober. You were in the Great War? Yes. Didn't you suffer injuries in that war? I was invalided out for rheumatic pains; that is what I am getting the disabled pension for. A small blow or push would have knocked you down in your weak condition? It may have knocked me down—it was the way I came down—that is the thing. You have always been friends with Hartly? Ever. You know he is a bit hot-tempered? He was hot-tempered.

To Supt. O'Shea—What distance is it from where the regatta was held to where the assault occurred? Hardly a mile. Were you walking home without assistance? I was. In spite of the nine bottles of stout? I would not be sure I had so many. You were walking without help? I was. Were you walking straight or staggering? I was not staggering. During what period did you take the drink? Was it at one sitting or off and on? I took the drink between 4.30 and 12 o'clock that night, not at one sitting. I was in Youghal before I went to Piltown and I took some drink there.

To the Court—Had you any food from 4 o'clock? I had none since 12 o'clock or 12.50. Are you counting by new time? I'd count that by new time because I was at Youghal Mass. What Mass? At 12 o'clock Mass. Was it before or after you went to Mass you had some food? After coming from Mass. Where did you get the food? At Mrs. Hyde's at the Ferry Point. That would be a little after 12 o'clock? It would. What did you have? Tea and bread and butter.

The question of the injured man signing the deposition having arisen, and he being unable, the Justice said he would make a note of the fact.

As the party were about leaving the hospital ward, the injured man turned his head and said: "I have one thing to ask—let you leave Hartly home to-day."

Justice—Very well. I will see about that.

All the parties concerned then returned to the Youghal Courthouse.

Sergt. O'Shea, Ardmore, applied for a further remand for a week, as the injured man's life was still in danger.

Mr. Keane applied to have accused let out on bail.

The Justice said he would consider that when he had heard the rest of the evidence.

The accused was then remanded in custody for one week.

Youghal District Court.

Before Mr. G. P. Farrell, B.L.
Mr. T. K. Keane, solr., appeared for Mr. D. Casey, State Solicitor, Mitchelstown, in Irish Land Commission cases against annuitants.

Decrees were granted.

Mr. Keane applied on behalf of Mr. James Keever, Ardmore, for an occasional license from 12 to 5 a.m. on Saturday. The Civic Guards had been served with notice and they had no objection.

Sergt. O'Shea, Ardmore, agreed, the hours to be 12 to 4 new time.

The application was granted.

Several cases having been adjourned owing to the absence of the solicitors engaged.

The case of the Attorney-General against Michael Hartly, Monaree, for causing actual bodily harm to Declan Lynch was called.

Supt. O'Shea, Dungarvan, prosecuted, and Mr. T. K. Keane, Youghal, defended.

The Superintendent said he would ask to have the accused remanded for another week as the injured man was still in danger.

The Justice said he would adjourn the remainder of the business to next court and proceed to the hospital in connection with the depositions.

The court then adjourned.

The End of War.

PEACE PACT SIGNED IN PARIS.

PRESIDENT COSGRAVE SIGNS FOR IRISH FREE STATE.

The Kellogg Peace Pact to put an end to war for all time between all Nations was signed in Paris on Monday by the representatives of 15 Nations, including the Free State, and now all the other countries on the map are to be asked to do the same. The scene of the signing was the famous Clock Tower of the French Foreign Office, and enthusiastic scenes were witnessed at the performance.

M. Briand, the French Foreign Minister, was the central figure in the solemn ceremony when, standing with his back to the huge decorated fireplace with its great clock, which gives its name to the room where the signatures were to be appended to the pact, he welcomed the delegates and explained the inner meaning and purport of the Treaty.

M. Poincaré, the French Premier, and a host of Ministers and diplomats, had earlier taken their places in the seats reserved for them, and then there came the hush, only broken by the spluttering of the monster arc lights as, preceded by a 6ft. tall usher in scarlet plush knee-breeches and white silk stockings, with a gorgeous coat of blue laced with gold, M. Briand headed the procession of delegates into the room.

When all had taken their seats the French Foreign Minister, who looked rather worn and tired, stood up with the copy of his speech in his hand. Photographers took snapshot after snapshot as the full blaze of the arc lights shone on his heavily lined face, his drooping moustache, and his well-known stooping figure, with its characteristic crown of iron-grey hair. And then the lights faded out, with the exception of a single "spot light," which shone down on M. Briand's face as he read his lengthy speech.

It was a passionate appeal for peace and understanding among the nations of the world, with particular reference to the great roles played by the United States and the British Empire.

There was a murmur of sympathy when M. Briand referred to Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British Foreign Minister, and his unceasing efforts on behalf of peace, and sent him the best wishes of the conference for a speedy recovery of health.

And then the French Foreign Minister (M. Briand) turned towards Dr. Stresemann (the German Foreign Minister), who, with a mask-like face, was evidently struggling to conceal the nervous emotion which was betrayed by his constant fidgeting of his eye-glasses or handkerchief, and voiced the pleasure he felt at having as the guest of France a German Foreign Minister who had come with the solemn idea of joining in the great work which was to banish war.

M. Pierre de Fouché, as master of the ceremonies, called upon Dr. Stresemann to step forward and sign first.

The German Foreign Minister flushed as he rose and made the round of the purple, velvet-coloured horseshoe table to the centre, where M. de Fouché and two secretaries were awaiting him at the small, crystal-covered table where lay the vellum sheets of the pact in a green morocco leather binding.

The golden pen presented to Mr. Kellogg by the city of Havre and bearing the inscription "Si vis pacem, para pacem" ("If you wish for peace prepare for peace") was dipped by one of the secretaries in the well of the historic inkstand and handed to him. As he leaned over the table and in a somewhat trembling hand recorded his signature the great arch lights again spluttered so that the scene could be filmed and photographed.

The clerks had hardly "died down" when Mr. Kellogg was at the table signing on behalf of the United States. He was quickly followed by the dapper, smiling figure of M. Hymans, for Belgium, and then M. Briand, who signed for France.

Lord Cushendun moved forward then and signed on behalf of Great Britain and of the Empire of India, to be followed by Mr. Mackenzie King, Sir C. J. Parr, Senator McLachlan, Mr. J. S. Smith, for the British Dominions, and Mr. Cosgrave, for the Irish Free State, Count Uchida for Japan, M. Zaleski for Poland, and finally Dr. Benes for Czecho-Slovakia, then affixed their signatures.

M. Briand next rose and, with a smile, invited the delegates and his guests to follow him into the adjacent salons and garden, where tea and light refreshments were being offered.

Elaborate preparations had been made for the recording of the historic scene of the signing of the pact. The anterooms adjoining the Clock Hall looked like a Hollywood studio. There were powerful sun lights arranged at every point of vantage so as to permit the eight cinema operators and the numerous Press photographers to record the scene for posterity. The sun lights were alternately turned on and faded out as the plenipotentiaries of the signatory Powers filed into the room and took their seats around the hollow square, at one side of which lay the small table upon which rested the Treaty with the seals of the signatory Powers affixed to it.

M. Briand's introductory speech lasted exactly 20 minutes. Another 20 minutes were needed for M. Camerlynck, who was the official interpreter at the Peace Conference discussions, to read in English a translation of M. Briand's fervent address. Then M. Briand rose once more and announced that he was about to read the preamble and articles of the pact, and invited the representatives of the signatory nations to affix their signatures.

The Treaty was read again in English by M. Camerlynck, and all the while the microphones on the table in front of M. Briand were picking up the spoken words and the Eiffel Tower was broadcasting them to the world in French and then in English.

There was a regrettable incident shortly after the plenipotentiaries had taken their seats. A group of German newspaper correspondents, who had arrived somewhat tardily for the ceremony, unable to make their way to the front rank of the spectators owing to the presence of the cinema operators and photographers, broke into loud shouts of "Sit down," "Sit down," as all present rose in greeting to the representatives of the Powers, and M. Briand was obliged to interrupt the proceedings and call for order. Officials of the Foreign Office remonstrated with the interrupters, and quiet was restored.

Dr. Stresemann, who sat on M. Briand's right, was obviously feeling the effects of his recent illness, and the rather stifling heat of the day plainly proved somewhat trying to order. Mr. Kellogg sat on M. Briand's left, imperceptible. On Mr. Kellogg's left was Lord Cushendun, and on his right sat Mr. Mackenzie King, the Canadian Prime Minister, who, like his London colleague, listened intently but unmoved to every one of M. Briand's words.

Mr. Cosgrave, fair-haired and pink-complected, sat on the extreme left, and Count Uchida (Japan) and M. Zaleski (Poland) and Dr. Benes (Czecho-Slovakia) on the extreme right. Facing the plenipotentiaries in the front row of the spectators sat in the centre M. Poincaré, whose entrance was received with deep marks of deference everyone rising when he arrived; and to the right of him Mr. Myron T. Herrick, the United States Ambassador; Sir William Tyrrell, the British Ambassador; M. Painlevé, M. Herriot, M. Bokandowski, and prominent members of the diplomatic services and the nations represented and their wives and guests.

There was much curiosity as the guests filed out to inspect the signatures and massive seals of the nations affixed to the pact, which afterwards was filed carefully away in the historic archives of the French Foreign Office.

During the ceremony the flags of all the nations flew gaily from the roof of the Quai d'Orsay, adding a gay note to the beautiful gardens of the Foreign Office, where the plenipotentiaries and those invited to the ceremony strolled chatting in little groups after the session was over.

M. Briand's speech was much appreciated by the delegates and diplomats present. Its principal points are as follows:—

"If the choice of Paris for the signature of the Pact was intended as a moral tribute to France's persistence on behalf of peace, I willingly accept such a homage in the name of the French Government.

"Seated with us to-day in the same hall where his illustrious forerunner, President Wilson, already associated his high conception of the role of his country with the cause of peace, Mr. Kellogg can measure with just pride the ground covered in so little time since the date when we both examined the possibilities of realising this vast diplomatic enterprise.

"What more honourable lesson could be offered to the civilised world than the spectacle of this reunion when for the signature of a pact against war Germany of her own free will, in perfect equality, takes her place among all the other signatories, her ex-adversaries?"

"I am particularly happy at being able to render homage to the intelligence and courage of that eminent statesman, Dr. Stresemann, who for more than three years has not hesitated to engage his entire responsibility in the work of co-operating for the maintenance of European peace.

"For the first time a real Treaty has been entirely consecrated to the institution of peace.

"The Pact of Paris, inspired by a free conception of law, can and ought to be considered as a pact of concord. The League of Nations, the vast enterprise for the maintenance of peace, cannot but be gratified at the signature of this new international act from which it will benefit.

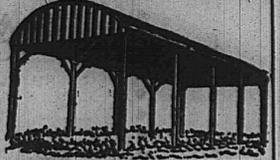

"For the first time in the history of the world a solemn act engaging the honour of great nations, all of whom have a heavy past of strife, repudiates solemnly and without reserve war as an instrument of national policy.

"This means not a defensive act, but an offensive one against the evil of war at its very root.

"There are no penalties in the Pact. But the state which would affront the reprobation of all its fellows would see grow up against it such a general solidarity as would speedily make its effects felt.

"The proclamation of peace is good, but it has to be organised. Juridical solutions have to take the place of solution by force. That is the work of the morrow. There is not one nation represented here which did not spill its blood on the battlefields of the last war. I propose to dedicate to all the dead of the Great War the event which we are about to consecrate by our signatures."
