KILMACTHOMAS NEWS.

DEATH IN EXILE.

Advice was received from Canada last week of the death there of Mr. Francis ("Frankie") Phelan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Phelan, of Furrleign Kilmacthomas, (one of the best-known and most popular families in the Decies). The deceased, who was only in his early twenties, emigrated about five years ago. He was faring finely in his new sphere up to a few months ago when his health became undermined. His condition gradually grew worse, and he was ultimately confined to his bed, where he received the best medical and nursing attention. His good friend and relative, Rev. Father Lynch was in constant attendance on him right up to the end which came calmly and peacefully following his reception of the last rites of the Church. The late Mr. Phelan was a prominent and valued member of the Knights of Columbus organisation. In the land of his adoption as here at home, his jovial nature and unflinching kindness endeared him to a very wide circle that knew him more intimately. His premature demise is a heavy blow for his universally esteemed parents, brothers and sisters, to whom the sincere sympathy of the people on all sides goes out in the fullest measure in their very sad bereavement.

Masses of Requiem for the happy repose of the soul of the deceased were celebrated during the week both in Canada and here in his native County. May He rest in peace.

CONDOLENCES.

At a meeting of the Newtown Hurling and Football Club held on Monday night, Mr. Frank Drohan, P.C., presiding, a vote of condolence with Mr. Richard Wall, President of the Club, in his recent sad bereavement, caused by the demise of his brother, George, was, on the proposition of Mr. James Lenihan, seconded by Mr. Pat Cummins, passed in respectful silence.

TORRENTIAL RAIN.

Starting about 10 p.m., on the 2nd, inst., a deluge of rain, accompanied by a biting north blast, swept over these parts. Not since the June floods of 1926 has such a volume of water fallen in so short a space of time. These unfortunate enough to be caught out and fated to encounter the blinding sheets of rain sweeping over the countryside speak with awe of their experiences. Inky darkness made progression well-nigh impossible, and many way-farers were compelled to seek shelter in some friendly house or other cover till the dawn enabled them proceed to their journeys' end. Even with the coming of daylight there was very little abatement, and it was well after sunset (Thursday) ere any cessation took place. The Mahon overflowed its banks, and beams of timber, trees in fact all the fustian and jelsam that such floods collect, were tossed about in a manner that was awe-inspiring. Ripening corn which the day before swayed and rippled with gentle breezes lay matted and flattened to the ground, just as effectively as if some human agency had in a whimsical moment decided to try its hand at the work. Although conditions climatical have shown an appreciable turn for the better since the 5th, inst., much water still remains in low-lying, marshy or "inchy" lands, to tell the tale of one of the heaviest rainfalls and harvest floods witnessed in mid-Waterford for some years.

"NAT SO JAMMY."

"Read that," said a Kilmacthomas bank clerk to your news-writer, as he handed me a strip from a cross-Channel Sunday paper. "Read that," he repeated, "and take it from me that bank clerks' lives are not so 'jammy' as painted by this party responsible for that their 'brain-wave'."

"LUCKY BANK CLERKS."

"PRINCELY SALARIES, SHORT HOURS, AND INCOME TAX PAID." "There is great competition just now for clerkships in Irish banks, and parents are making strenuous efforts to obtain appointments for their sons. "The hours are very short, usually from 9.30 to 3.30 p.m. There is a weekly half-holiday. "Prospects of promotion are excellent, as regards pay, a clerk is assured of £450 per annum. This is a princely salary in an Irish provincial town. Income tax paid by the banks on all their employees' salaries, and also subscriptions to golf and other clubs."

SHORTS.

The broadcast of last Sunday's Cork-Kilkenny caman classic at Croke Park was clearly received through many wireless sets installed in Kilmacthomas, and Carbery's capital commentary of the "ups and downs" of the set thrilled the local Gaels who listened in to same. Only five or six persons from the town travelled to the National Stadium on the occasion, but big numbers will make the long trip thereto for the replay clash.

The circus of "the real John Duffy," paid its annual visit to our township on Wednesday, and the various items programmed were performed before large and appreciative audiences at both the afternoon and even-end openings. On behalf of the local Gaelic fraternity, we warmly congratulate the Dungarvan and Kilrossanty Senior football players for the splendid exhibition of the code they served up in their meeting in this year's Western Divisional final at the Fraher Field last Sabbath. The victorious Old Boro' bunch next meet De La Salle in the County ultimate.

DUNGARVAN DISTRICT COURT.

Held on Wednesday before Mr. J. S. Troy, D.J.

Abusive Language.
Guard Farrell, prosecuted Ellen O'Brien, Tom Moore street, for using abusive and threatening language on 20th August.

Complainant said in consequence of a report he went to Tom Moore street, and heard the defendant shouting and using abusive language. He brought her to her house, but she came out again immediately. Defendant lived at a junction of three streets and was a source of nuisance to the three streets. Defendant was not drunk on the occasion, but had drink taken.

Defendant said it was all over the man that is in jail. These people are at her.

Justice: If these people are interfering with you, you could summon them. The case was allowed to stand over for three months.

Cruelty To Animals.

Guard McGee, prosecuted Mce. Cowan, Clonea driver and P. Carroll, owner, for working a jennet suffering from a sore.

Mr. Carroll said he knew nothing of the sore, which must have got out that day. He was very careful of the jennet.

The case was withdrawn.

In a case against M. Phelan, for using a donkey while in an unfit condition, Guard McGee, gave evidence, and a fine of 2/6 was imposed.

A similar fine was imposed on Mary Power, Ballinknock, for a like offence, Guard McGee, was the complainant, in this case.

School Attendance Cases.

A number of adjourned school attendance cases in which Guard Regan, was complainant were withdrawn as the attendance of pupils in all cases showed a marked improvement.

DUNGARVAN QUAY.

SURFACING QUESTION.

TAR MACADAM OR CONCRETE.

At the last meeting of the Urban Council, Mr. Butler, Chairman, presiding.

The Chairman reported on an interview he and Mr. Moloney had with the County Surveyor re the surfacing of the Quay road. The County Surveyor did not approve of tar macadam, but favoured concrete. The cost for 1,000 square yards of tar macadam would be roughly £200 and for the same area concrete would cost about £250.

Mr. Griffin-I agree that concrete would be the better job.

Mr. Hackett-I propose that no more stones be put on the quay unless they are rolled. The stones put down this week are useless, horses kick them about and children throw them over the quay.

Mr. Moloney-I agree, but for the present I think we should be satisfied with the filling in of the potholes on the quay. To my mind the quay has never been in a better condition.

Mr. Clancy-I am glad that we have this information from the County Surveyor. I never favoured tar macadam. It is a big problem and we should leave it over to another meeting.

The Borough Surveyor was instructed to give an estimate for the repair of pot holes on the quay. The Council agreeing that a more solid job could be done at a later date.

Witness for the defence: He gets an honest living singing in pubs, sir. He is a fine musician and has got L.M.S. or something like that, at the end of his name.

Abbeyside Annual Sports and Regatta.

TREMENDOUS SUCCESS.

The greatest day's Sport ever held in Abbeyside, took place, on Sunday last. It was the occasion of the Annual Sports and Regatta, which from time out of mind have been held to celebrate the Feast of St. Augustine. The day was gloriously fine, and the attendance was a record—over 2,000 being present. The venue was St. Joseph's Boys Sportsfield—that beautiful enclosure overlooking the sea, which the Very Rev. Fr. Crotty, the genial Pastor of Abbeyside, has in his kindness, provided for the boys of the Parish as a centre wherein they can play their games, far from the maddening crowd, and away from all the dangers and temptations that beset modern youth. It was a genuine afternoon sport in which young and old participated and enjoyed themselves to their heart's content. What a pity we do not have such afternoon's oftener. They would be an antidote to the dullness of everyday life and a source of enjoyment and merriment to young and old—medicine so much needed in an age so troubled and so uneasy as this.

The Sports were held under the auspices of the local Conference of St. Vincent de Paul, of which Very Rev. M. C. Crotty, P.P., is spiritual Director and Mr. M. J. McCarthy, N.T., President, while Messrs. J. Cahill and J. McHugh as Hon. Secs., had the arrangements as perfect as they could be. Not a hitch occurred during the afternoon, and the various items on a varied and extended programme were carried out with faultless precision. The Prizes offered for the several events were very attractive and competition in every event was very keen. To all associated with the Sports and Regatta, the best thanks is due, for the excellent manner in which they carried out the whole proceedings, and the delightful entertainment they provided for the thousands assembled from far and near, who came and saw and were thrilled.

The following composed of the Committee in charge:

Pretty Wedding in Dungarvan.

One of the prettiest weddings of recent times was solemnised in the Parish Church, Dungarvan, on Tuesday morning, when Sergt. Denis Falvey, Inspector of Weights and Measures for the County Waterford, led to the Altar, Miss "Gisela" Crotty, eldest daughter of our esteemed genial and progressive townsmen, Mr. Daniel Crotty, Main Street. Miss Crotty was one of the sweetest and most charming young ladies in the Old Boro' and was a general favourite. Her charm of manner, comeliness and gracefulness of demeanour made her persona grata with all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. To know her was to admire her, for she possessed all the traits which characterise the charming Irish colleen.

The Bridegroom, Sergt. Falvey, is son of Mr. and Mrs. Falvey, Glenbeigh Co. Kerry. He has been Inspector of Weights and Measures in this County for some years and is an officer of superior intelligence and ability. He is immensely popular with all.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. L. Egan, C.C., in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives.

The Bride, who was given away by her father, looked chic, and wore a dress of ivory georgette cut on mediaeval lines and a veil and a tiara of orange blossoms. She wore silver shoes and carried a bunch of lilies. Her sister, Miss Fanny Crotty, who acted as bridesmaid, was attired in a dress of shell pink georgette with Dutch cap and her youngest sister Miss Annie Crotty, also wore a dress of shell pink georgette and a Dutch cap. Sergt. Sheehan, C.G., was the best man.

Subsequent to the ceremony, the party proceeded to the Ocean View Hotel, where a reception was held at which Mr. Dan Crotty, presided. After an excellent repast, short speeches were made at which the warmest expressions of congratulations and good wishes were extended to the happy pair. A few pleasant hours were spent in a musical social, after which the happy couple left on their honeymoon carrying with them the best wishes of their countless friends and admirers for their future happiness and prosperity.

There were at the reception in addition to those already mentioned: Supt. and Mrs. O'Shea, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. O'Hara; Mr. John Crotty; Misses Cummins; Kathleen Falvey, (sister of the bridegroom); Sergt. O'Shea, Guards O'Donovan, O'Regan, Wrenn; Miss Mary Crotty; Miss Kieley; Miss Bridie Daly; Mr. James Keohan; Miss Hannah Power, etc.

The Bride and Bridegroom were the recipients of numerous and costly presents.

MERELY POLITE.

Woman: I only called her wilful names.

The deceased carried on a large and lucrative business in the town for a number of years. She was sister of our popular townsman Mr. Daniel Dempsey and was a lady of refinement and great charm of manner. She was most popular with all. Her winning ways and her amiability and gentleness of disposition endeared her to all who made her acquaintance. She was most charitable to the poor, by whom she will be much missed. Possessed of a very high degree of intelligence, she discoursed on current events with the greatest ease and interest. She was indeed a splendid type of Irish lady, and her death is deeply regretted by all who knew her. To Mr. Dan Dempsey, and all the members of her family sincere sympathy is extended in their bereavement.—R.I.P.

On Saturday the interment took place in the adjoining burial ground in the presence of a large gathering of her family relatives and friends and the general public.

DEATH OF MR. DANIEL CASEY, TALLACOOLE.

With regret we chronicle the death of Mr. Daniel Casey, Tallacool, which occurred at his residence on Wednesday, after a brief illness, fortified by the rites of Holy Church.

The late Mr. Casey, was one of the largest most successful and most practical farmers in these parts. He was a good and kind neighbour and a generous friend who was ever doing good turns to those who needed his assistance. He also played his part in the past in the various movements which had for their object the benefit of his country. He was prominently identified with the national movement led by Mr. John Redmond, and was a pillar of strength to the cause in the county. A sound and practical representative of the people he was for many years a member of the Dungarvan Board of Guardians and Rural Council, and always brought to the discharge of his duties a sound judgment and a clear understanding which won him the esteem of his fellow members. Viewed from every point of view he was a splendid type of Irishman and his loss will be much felt. In private life he was of a genial and social disposition and possessed of a lovable nature, he was always held in the highest esteem. He was father of Mrs. Stephenson, the popular proprietress of the Ocean View Hotel, Clonea, and the numerous visitors to that pleasant abode will miss his kindly presence and his pleasant smile.

To his bereaved widow, his son (Mr. Eddie Casey), and his daughter (Mrs. Stephenson), the deepest sympathy is extended in the great loss they have sustained by his death.—R.I.P.

On Thursday evening at 4 o'clock, the remains were removed from Tallacool, to the Parish Church, Garrybane, and were followed by one of the largest and most imposing corteges seen for many years. Every part of the county and outside it was fully represented and it was a splendid tribute to the memory of the deceased and the esteem entertained for him and the members of his family. On this (Friday) morning at 11 o'clock, there will be solemn Requiem Office and High Mass for the repose of his soul, after which the interment will take place in the family burial ground adjoining.

DEATH OF MRS. KELLY, MAIN STREET, DUNGARVAN.

The death took place on Wednesday last, of Mrs. Kelly, Lower Main St., relict of the late Mr. Kelly, whose demise we chronicled a short time ago. She had been ailing only a short time, and passed peacefully away fortified by the rites of Holy Church.

The late Mrs. Kelly, belonged to a well-known local family—the Lynchs of Clonea—and was very highly respected by all who knew her. In their bereavement her family have the deepest sympathy of the public.—R.I.P.

PATIENT "DOING NICELY."

Wife: My husband receives three different pensions. He is on the "dole," and now he has gone into hospital, so he also gets sick pay, but he refuses to pay me a penny. A summons was issued against him.

Dungarvan Hurling and Football Clubs.

At a specially convened meeting of the above held in the Pavilion, Gaelic Field, on last Saturday, Mr. T. McCarthy, U.D.C., presided. There was a large attendance of delegates including Mr. J. Wyse, Treasurer, and S. Hayes, Hon. Sec.

The Chairman, moved a vote of sympathy to the relatives of the late Pat McGrath, Sec. of the Munster Council and referred to his great work at a Gael and an Irishman. His passing removed one of the outstanding figures of the Association and one of the best friends and supports of the Club.

Mr. M. Connors, seconded, and referred to the late Mr. McGrath's interest and connection with all local matches. They all felt his loss very keenly.

The team to meet Kilrossanty in Senior Football Divisional final was announced and considered satisfactory. The Chairman expressed the hope that they would have a good hard game.

It was decided that all members of the hurling team who were to take part in the All-Ireland Junior semi-final should be facilitated in every way in their preparation for the match.

Mr. Dwyer said they should congratulate the Juniors in winning the Munster Hurling Championship, it was gratifying to note that the members of the club who played in the final had acquitted themselves so creditably.

The Chairman agreed with the remarks of the previous speaker, and appealed to the members of the Club who were on the inter-county team to keep as fit as possible.

The Treasurer drew attention of the meeting to the poor response of the people of Dungarvan Area, to the appeal for funds for the training of the County Hurling teams. As far as he could learn only about twenty people in Dungarvan subscribed.

The Secretary said that this was only in keeping with the local people's general apathy towards our games. As far as he could see they would have to withdraw from the game altogether on account of the lack of support.

The Chairman said it would be a very bad thing for Dungarvan if the Club were to reduce its activities. He had heard a good deal of complaints from traders about not having any big matches this year.

Mr. Connors said that the people of the town could not expect big games when they will not support the small ones, particularly those organised by the local club.

The Secretary gave a list of matches organised this year. The best teams from Tipperary, Cork, and Limerick, were brought here at big expense to play our football team and in each case there was a big loss, all due to lack of local support.

The Treasurer asked if the collection in aid of the Club that is made every year would be made very soon as funds were badly needed.

Mr. Connors objected to making any collection. He had been on collections for the past twenty years and the response was so small that it wouldn't be worth the time wasted. Shopkeepers who took in money at every match, big and small, handed you a shilling or sixpence.

Mr. Murphy said that the training fund for the Waterford teams two years ago, when they played in Dungarvan and brought twenty thousand people to the town was supported to the extent of about £10, while Waterford city subscribed five times that amount.

The Chairman said the whole thing was an eloquent tribute to the lack of sporting and Gaelic spirit in the local people and he would suggest that the whole matter of the future of the club be left over until the present programme is completed. He appealed to the members present to do all possible to bring the Football Championship once more to the town. It would be the sixth year in succession that they were in the final, a record held by no other club in the County.

LIVE STOCK BREEDING ACT.

BULLS REJECTED FOR LICENSING.

The Department of Agriculture desire to bring to the special notice of cattle dealers and exporters that they have been informed by the British Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries that, under the Improvement of Live Stock (Licensing of Bulls) Act recently passed in Great Britain, no bull brought to Great Britain from any part of Ireland shall be moved alive out of the wharf at which it is landed, if the bull has been marked with a mark prescribed under the Laws of the Irish Free State or Northern Ireland for the purpose of signifying that an application has been made under those Laws for a licence in respect of the bull, and has been refused.

YOUGHAL DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Mr. G. P. Farrell, B.L.)

Regatta Day Larceny.

Having disposed of a number of un-defended Civil Bills in which Mr. T. K. Keane, solicitor, appeared for plaintiffs, Mary Kavanagh, was brought up in custody, on remand, charged with the larceny of a purse containing 12/6, the property of Miss Mary Kelligar, East Ferry. Her husband, John, was also charged in connection with the offence. Inspector Ryan, Middleton, prosecuted.

The Justice—What is the charge against John Kavanagh? The Inspector said he was charged with unlawfully aiding and abetting Mary Kavanagh in the larceny, but they were not proceeding with the charge against him.

The Justice—I think you are acting wisely. Mary Kelligar, East Ferry, deposed that on the 26th August, she attended the Regatta at Youghal, arriving about 1 o'clock. She first went to her sisters in the North Main street. She left her sisters between 2.30 and 3 o'clock for the Quay near the Mall, where the Regatta was held. There were a number of people standing around. She didn't know any of them. She had 12/6 in a small purse in her outside coat pocket. It was made up of 4 half-crowns a two shilling piece and sixpence. She had it about 3 o'clock. She missed it soon after. She told her sister she didn't see anybody take it. Her sister and herself who accompanied her, were both dressed in black.

Accused—Did you see me taking the purse?—No. To the Court—I have never seen the purse since.

Thos. Higgins, Ballyrobin, Cloyne, farmer, deposed that on the 26th Aug., he was there at the Regatta. About 2.45, he was on one of the Quays viewing the boat racing. There was a big crowd on the Quay. He noticed two young ladies dressed in black standing in front of him. The last witness was one of the ladies. There was a woman came towards him from his right hand side. She passed between him and the two ladies, when she came where the two ladies were she stopped and stood behind him for a while. It was at the start of a race and they were all facing the sea and he thought he noticed her interfering with the ladies clothes in that manner (the witness rubbed his pockets with his hands). He didn't see her actually putting her hand into the pocket. She then walked away quickly. In the meantime the young lady turned round and said to him my purse is stolen or words to that effect. The lady turned round and he said follow up a woman with a faded shawl.

The Justice—That is not evidence. Witness (resuming), said he didn't identify the accused as being the woman. She wore a faded shawl with a big tear and badly sewn in the middle of the back. It was a faded or bluish colour. About a half an hour after in the barrack at Youghal, he saw a shawl like it. A short while after he saw the woman interfering with the two ladies. A Guard came up to him. He told the Guard what he saw about the tear in the shawl. The young ladies went away. Meantime, he had lost sight of the woman for a time. Witness went with the Guard to the barrack immediately. As they were going to the barrack he saw ahead of him on the way a woman under arrest with another Guard. In the barrack the Guards were about to search her, as far as he could see. That woman he saw in the barrack was like the accused. He was about fifteen yards behind her on the way to the barrack and he thought that the shawl she wore corresponded with the shawl he saw on the woman that stood between the ladies and him. The ladies were in the barrack when he got there. The Guard took the shawl from the prisoner wearing and asked was that like the shawl and he said "yes."

Accused was here asked to hand up the shawl she was wearing and witness said that that shawl was like the shawl worn by the woman he noticed on Regatta Day—he was judging it by the sewing in the middle of the shawl. The clour was faded.

Cross-examined by accused—He did not say in the barrack that it was by a three cornered tear that he knew the shawl.

Guard P. J. O'Connor, deposed that on August 26th, in consequence of a complaint received from Miss Walsh, North Main street, sister of Miss Kelligar, about 2.45 near the Quay, he proceeded to where Miss Kelligar was standing on the Quay. She told him that her purse had been stolen. He got a description of the purse. The last witness was near both ladies at the time. He got a description of a woman from Thos. Higgins with a shawl of that description in a public-house at the Mall. That woman was the accused. She gave the name of Mary Kavanagh. The husband and herself were drinking pints of porter. He told her he was inquiring into a case of larceny and asked her to stand up as he wanted to look at the shawl. She stood up and he saw a tear in the shawl similar to that described by Higgins. The tear was in the middle of the back. He identified the shawl as that now worn by the accused. He brought her out into the street and her husband came also. He then called Guard Healy to his assistance and told him to take her to the barrack and he went to look for Thos. Higgins, and found him on the Quay. He was speaking to the two ladies. Witness asked him to come to the barrack. As they proceeded to the barrack Guard Healy and the accused were before them. It was about 15 or 20 minutes after receiving the complaint. In the day-room Thos. Higgins saw the shawl which accused was wearing. He said that was the shawl worn by the woman that interfered with the ladies on the Quay. That was in the hearing of accused. He said he could swear to the tear anywhere. On the 27th, he arrested and charged accused and she said 'I didn't take it.' The accused was searched in the barrack by another woman, but there was nothing found on her, but previously she threw out two six penny bits and ninepence in coppers. Accused asked no questions. On being asked if she had anything to say accused said—I plead guilty I am your worship. I throw myself on your mercy, and whatever money she lost, I'll pay back the 12/6.

The Justice—I was going to send you for trial to the Circuit Court, but as there is a plea of guilty in the case, I will accept it.

Accused—I will lie to the loss of the 12/6 for the sake of my little waggon, my only shelter for the winter.

The Justice—What do the Guards know about this woman? The Inspector produced a record showing a number of previous convictions for larceny.

Accused—I was as innocent as you are, but I plead guilty. I was before you before and you gave me justice. I don't know any more about that purse no more than you.

The Justice—I won't accept this. I return you in custody for trial before the Circuit Court Judge.

Accused—I plead guilty I stole it. The District Justice left the bench and the accused was removed to the dock crying loudly.

WOMEN IN MODERN LIFE.

The Court—I have never seen the purse since.

GATHOLIC ACTION CALL.

Woman's position in modern life, and the great work which Catholic women can do for the cause of Catholic Action, were dealt with by the Hon. Frances French in an address at Lime-ric.

Hon Frances French read a paper on Catholic Action, in which she said there was a great deal Catholic women could do for the cause of Catholic Action by linking with other unions. For instance, the watching for the sale of questionable publications and picture postcards.

In that respect it might be feasible to have an All-Ireland Conference, in Dublin, of representatives of other unions, when views could be exchanged and means adopted to further the cause of Catholic Action, which meant in effect, to stand together in defence of the home.

The movement to steal woman's heart from God took organised and threatening shape at the beginning of the century and began outside the Church. It was described as a progressive movement, but thoughtful women realised that progress led upward and to an exalted Catholic life, and that any movement downwards, no matter how rapid, could not be labelled progressive, as it tended towards degradation of womankind.

Home life, matrimony, virtue and reverence were now sometimes the object of laughter—they had become the butt of the comic papers, the postcard and cinema.

The self-denying woman was becoming rare, because Hedonism had created false appetites for the present-day woman into waging a senseless rivalry with man in the work-a-day sphere.

The uncontrolled influx of women into the labour market was very largely the cause of the prevailing unemployment.

In Ireland Labour was out of touch with Catholic tradition, and remained uninspired by the teachings of the Church. Irish Labour stood aside when Catholic economies expressed in Encyclicals were challenged or ignored and appeared to be more interested in the Fabianism of Russia than in the Papal Encyclicals.

It was for them to interpret this call to Catholic Action, and to use their creative genius in planning for the happiness of the home and public life in a manner that would give joy to the Holy Father.

She then proposed that a telegram be sent to the Holy Father, congratulating him on the settlement reached with Italy on the question of Catholic Action.

Rev. Fr. Dolan, in thanking the Hon Miss French for her paper, and the fact of that Union being the first to respond to the Pope's appeal for Catholic Action was the proof of lofty principles instilled by its teachings.

G. A. A. HURLING FINAL.

CORK AND KILKENNY PLAY A DRAWN GAME.

Croke Park was on Sunday the scene of wonderful enthusiasm and wild excitement, when, after a thrilling hour's play, Cork and Kilkenny finished with level scoring (1-0 each) in the final of the All-Ireland Hurling Championship. Never, perhaps, in the history of the G.A.A. was a hurling final more closely contested.

Cork threatened once or twice to draw away, but Kilkenny fought back in gallant fashion, and were the more aggressive towards the end. Although the result came by way of a mild surprise, as Cork had been the more strongly fancied, there was plenty of confidence in the Kilkenny camp, and to judge by the cheering the Leinster champions had the bigger backing amongst the crowd.

Despite the recent heavy rains, the sod was in capital order. A fast pace was set from the start, and with the play throughout touching a high standard there was not a dull moment to the last whistle. After Kilkenny had drawn first blood the figures ran level, but nearing the interval Cork passed out and had a rather easily-scored goal to lead by 1-3 to 0-2 at the change sides.

Shortly after resuming the margin was widened by two points, but the rising hopes of the Cork supporters received a rude shock when Kilkenny completed a great rally by putting through a well-won goal. Hereabouts the Cork defence was fully extended, and for upwards of a quarter of an hour Kilkenny forced the play, and, after equalising went ahead by a point. Cork did not waver, and in a terrific struggle they secured the balancing score.

A remarkable feature at the finish was the fact that the result was generally accepted as a fair reflection of the run of the play, and a fitting tribute to the worth of the teams. Either sides might have won by a stroke of luck, but then the other would have been unlucky. Cork were the more favoured by the weather, since after the interval they had not to face the strong sun that was calculated to have hampered Kilkenny in the first half hour.

Cork played the more vigorous hurling, but Kilkenny showed a rare turn of speed and were not wanting in dash. Against a Cork selection that has been stealed in experience, Kilkenny rose to great heights and their display was heartening to the many who had begun to fear for the future of hurling in Leinster.

In a really splendid game the players all round lived true to the tradition of their predecessors who brought the highest hurling honours to Cork and Kilkenny in the past. The backs on both sides were very good, and as between Hurley and M. O'Connell for Cork and Meagher and E. Byrne for Kilkenny, there were exhilarating duels at midfield. A few scoring chances were lost at either end, but in a tense encounter and against sound defence little complaint can be laid to the forwards, who certainly were not sparing in their efforts.

From the spectators' viewpoint the hurling left nothing to be desired, and the match was admittedly the most exciting played in the championship since Kilkenny defeated Tipperary for the 1922 title.

Hurling in Kilkenny has made commendable headway this season. Early in the year there was little hope that the Leinster champions would count in the final reckoning but, not for the first time, Kilkenny rose to the occasion and restored the prestige of their county as a leading hurling centre.

Nine of the Kilkenny team were playing their first final, while Cork had nine who assisted in the defeat of Kilkenny in the 1926 final. Cork had only one player (Clancy) who has yet to win an All-Ireland championship, while Kilkenny had two (Power and Carroll), who have won a championship. It is a high tribute indeed to the younger members of the Kilkenny team that they fared so well against the experienced Corkmen.

A word of praise is due to those in charge of the field and other arrangements which, entrusted to a willing band of workers, headed by the General Secretary (Padraig O Caoimh) had everything in apple-pie order. Their task, however, was rendered comparatively light by the demeanour of the crowd which, despite the excitement of the day, was easily disciplined, and having once filed to their places gave no cause for trouble. The players, too, showed good spirit, and the accident to the Kilkenny left wing, R. Morrissey who had to be removed to hospital was the only regrettable incident.

According to the records the last drawn game in an All-Ireland hurling final was between Tipperary and Dublin for the 1908 title. Tipperary won on the replay. Kerry and Wexford played an extra half hour in the 1891 final, when Kerry won their first and last hurling championship by a point. 26,460 were present and the receipts were £2,256. This is the second largest crowd for a hurling final, being beaten only by the attendance at the 1922 final between Kilkenny and Tipperary, which was played in September, 1923.

BALLYDUFF COLONIST DIES IN NATAL.

The death occurred on August 5th, at Kloof, Natal, South Africa, of Mr. David Livingstone Patrick, husband of Dolly Patrick, and second son of the late Canon Patrick of Ballyduff, Co. Waterford, Ireland. He was 55 years of age, and one of the best known figures in the Natal sugar industry.

Mr. Patrick, who was formerly an engineer on the Crown Mines and a Government Inspector of Machinery on the Rand, came to Natal about 11 years ago and took up sugar farming at Empangeni. In a very short time he became one of the leading and one of the most progressive farmers in the district, and held the office of President of the Empangeni Farmers Association. He acted as a member of the Agricultural Advisory Board to the Government and was prominently identified with the Natal Agricultural Union and similar bodies. Later he acquired the Waldene Estates at Chaka's Kraal, where he pursued his farming operations on a large scale. Subsequently he undertook experiments in sisal growing and the cultivation of cane under irrigation at Tugela, Natal.

He leaves a widow and three daughters. The funeral took place at Pine-town, Natal, and was largely attended.

Kilbarry Drainage Scheme

IF IT COST THAT MUCH BE GUARANTEED.

Mr. Kiersey gave them a guarantee that if the scheme cost more than the public bodies concerned would foot the bill. We put it before them again said the Mayor, and I never met a more silent body of men in my life.

You could not get them to speak, never mind make an offer. Continuing, the Mayor said he was sorry to say that the Kilbarry bogs would remain a long time undrained. Engineering experts said that the lands would, when drained, be worth 19s. 6d. per acre more than they were to-day. The farmers were offered 15s. per acre, but they would not accept that. The figure was brought down to 8s. and they would not accept that either. One man said at a meeting of the landowners, which was held the same day that some of them were inspired to make an offer of 5s., but only four or five of them would agree to that, but all the rest were against it. It was not necessary said the Mayor, to say anymore. The whole responsibility for the matter rested upon the farmers, and not upon the Corporation or County Council.

Councillor Dohbyn said the scheme was a wild cat one from the beginning. It was ridiculous to drain large tracts of land on ratepayers' money for the benefit of a few farmers.

The matter was again referred back.

FORGED SWEEP TICKETS.

The mystery of the forged sweep-stake tickets which have been sold in many parts of America has been partly solved by the organisers of the Irish Hospitals Trust.

They have discovered the names and addresses of the principal distributors, and have warned the public through the American Press how to detect the forgeries.

The forgery of the tickets has been closely investigated by the police of the United States.

THAT'S—! THAT WAS!! Witness, describing a road collision I saw the impact before it happened.

The Mayor said when he first tackled this question he thought he was dealing with a different class of men altogether than what the landowners were. He found they were very hard to move in any way. They raised obstacle after obstacle. They wanted to know if the money estimated—£8,000—was not sufficient, would £10,000,

Yachting and Racing Rules.

Well, well, how thoughtless and even inconsiderate we are liable to be!

I expected to find my fellow-competitors in the yacht race not only keen yachtsmen, but also well-up in racing rules.

Keen yachtsmen they are—but after all, surely it is unreasonable to expect them to be well versed in the rules.

Even in the palmy days of yacht-racing, I'm afraid poor old Youghal would never have quite ranked as a "yachting centre."

As I said, it was the morning of the race my thoughtlessness was brought home to me.

I intended to enter for the recent Ocean Race—but on making inquiries I found there was no other entrant!

GOODS TRAIN COLLIDE.

CATTLE ROASTED IN BURNING WAGGONS.

A collision occurred outside Monasterevan, early on Wednesday, when a goods train and a cattle train were involved.

The worst smash to occur on an Irish railway line for years took place at Monasterevan, when two goods' train collided and were set on fire.

One of them was coming from Dublin to Clare, and the other was carrying cattle from Limerick to Dublin.

Owing to the Limerick train overshooting the platform, the trains crashed into each other with such violence that one engine was hurled into a field on the side of the track.

It was amazing that no lives were lost, but some cases of injuries occurred, the fireman of the Limerick train receiving bad injuries to his arm.

One man was injured when he jumped out of a carriage, seeing that a smash was inevitable. The trains were set on fire, and a number of cattle perished in the flames, despite frantic efforts by railway men and Civic Guards to rescue them.

The mail train from Kingsbridge to Cork, due at the city at 10.55 a.m., did not reach the Glanmire terminus till 3 p.m., having had to divert its route via Kildare, Carlow and Kilkenny, to Maryborough, where it joined the main line.

A special postal delivery was arranged in the afternoon, and as soon as the mail train arrived the bags were very expeditiously handled.

Frantic work was done by hastily summoned rescue parties, every available Guard from the town being rushed to the station to help the railway men and many willing volunteers in the attempt to save the trapped animals.

The military station at the Curraish was quickly communicated with, and the Army authorities despatched a fire engine and firemen to the scene.

Despite all these steps, however, one wagon, full of cattle was burnt to cinders. When the fire engine had poured streams of water over the burning trains, the flames were gradually conquered, but several waggons were totally destroyed, and others were smouldering for several hours.

It is stated, too, that only one man was injured, and he, escaped with a broken finger.

The Southern train had 35 waggons, and was travelling at a fair speed when it crashed into the three last waggons of the other train.

Several of the waggons were telescoped and others were hurled down a high embankment, on which the line runs at this point.

The fire broke out immediately amidst the pile of wreckage, and the glare could be seen for some miles around. There were cattle in seven of the waggons on the top train, most of which were saved from the wreckage.

Four or five, however, were embedded in it and had to be killed as removal was impossible.

The Use of Bracken for Litter.

ITS MANURIAL VALUE CONTRASTED WITH STRAW.

There is a fairly general opinion amongst farmers that bracken is nearly as useful as straw so far as the animals are concerned, although a competent observer has noted that the animals' coats are not so good, indicating that they do not do quite so well on bracken as on straw.

Litter, however, fulfills another important function besides ministering to the comfort of the animals; it has a great effect on the composition, and particularly on the value, of the dung.

It absorbs and retains a number of valuable substances including ammonia, that would otherwise escape as gas, and the easily soluble nitrogen compounds of the urine.

The importance of this is evident when it is remembered that the nitrogen compounds most easily lost are those most "available" for the plant and therefore of most value.

Litter also absorbs potassium compounds which occur dissolved in the urine and are liable to be lost in the drainage water.

When it decomposes it restores to the soil those food constituents which obviously have been and may again become "available" as plant food and also, during the decomposition process, the stems and leaves—the "long" materials in fact—are converted into black sticky humus possessing properties of great value for improving the soil.

All substances containing cellulose have the power of absorbing water, ammonia, etc., and consequently all dead plants, leaves, stems, sawdust, peat moss and similar materials possess this property.

They are not all equally good, however, and naturally those which can most readily take up and retain ammonia and soluble bodies are of most value as litter.

Bracken, and especially the leafy part, is better than straw, while the hard stems have about the same value; both are, however, much below peat moss.

It is evident that the superiority of the bracken is due to the leaves, which, being small, expose a large surface to the ammonia and facilitate the process of absorption.

The power of retaining water and soluble substances varies in the same way; peat moss is best, bracken next, and straw third, and again bracken owes its power largely to its small leaves.

These deductions apply with equal weights of material; if, however, an equal bulk be taken, bracken is inferior to straw as an absorbent because it is so much lighter.

Although bracken has long been used in agricultural practice very few analyses are recorded, and these show as would be expected, certain amount of variation because the composition of bracken depends to some extent on the soil on which it grows and also on the time of cutting.

The young plant is richest in nitrogen and potash; before the leaf and stem die there is probably a transference of some of the food material to the root just as takes place in certain other parts, but a good deal is left behind and the whole of this is secured if the bracken is cut in autumn as usual and kept sheltered from excessive rain.

Of course if it is left out during the winter and not cut till after a great amount of washing has taken place a loss of substance is likely to result.

An important point about the composition of bracken is the large amount of nitrogen present; usually about 1.3 per cent. is found and even higher figures are recorded.

Straw, on the other hand, only contains about one-third of this, viz., 5 per cent. The amount of potash shows considerable variation, doubtless following the rather large variations in the small amounts present in the light gravelly or sandy soils where bracken commonly grows.

The potash content of straw is also liable to variation, but the average is probably somewhere between .6 and 1 per cent so that straw is much richer than bracken in this constituent.

The extent to which the litter contributes to the composition of dung depends very largely on the management. If the dung is made with large quantities of litter in open yards and exposed to rain so that the urine and soluble matters generally get washed away, a large proportion of its fertilising constituents comes from the litter.

When dung is made in stalls with less litter and less liability to loss the proportion of fertilising material contributed by the animals' excretions is greatly increased and the litter plays less part except as an absorbent.

Dung made for bracken may for two reasons be expected to contain more nitrogen than straw, and it has also a larger power of soaking up urine.

The amount of potash present might be either higher or lower; bracken is poorer in potash than straw, but this deficiency is counteracted by its greater power of absorbing urine which contains the greater part of the potash voided by the animal, so that one would not expect much difference either way.

The rate at which dung will decay in the soil is a very important factor in cases where comparison is being made between two lots of dung made from different littering materials.

The course, fibrous matter of which the litter is composed has properties altogether different from those possessed by the black structureless humus into which it changes on decay.

Fibrous materials opens up a soil and prevents settling or panning down, it has no binding tendency on a light soil but rather the reverse. It has no particular power of increasing the amount of water retained by the soil, on the contrary by opening the soil and allowing air to enter and water vapour to escape it tends to bring about a loss of water.

QUEEN OF SHEBA'S TREASURE. BIG GAME HUNTER'S ROMANTIC FIND. The claim that he has located one of the ancient treasure mines of the Queen of Sheba is made by Mr. Frank Hayler, a big-game hunter from Central Africa. From a cavern hidden in unexplored country 320 miles due west of Addis Ababa, Mr. Hayler has brought back uncut rubies, diamonds, platinum, and gold.

The expedition was started in 1930, when an English mining engineer obtained possession of an old map from an Arab. The engineer, believing that the map was a clue to Sheba's gold, approached Mr. Hayler, who was in Addis Ababa, and they decided to investigate. "I am sure it is one of the caverns from which the Queen of Sheba drew her great wealth," said Mr. Hayler yesterday. "I am going off to Abyssinia again in a few months to try to find the reef from which was washed the alluvial gold I discovered in the cave."

Care of the Horse.

GROOMING AS AN AID TO HEALTH.

Grooming appears to be regarded in many quarters as a necessary evil, to be hurried over and completed with the expenditure of a minimum amount of time and labour, while some horsekeepers even go so far as to deem it an unnecessary evil.

Nature, undoubtedly, intended the horse to be somewhat of a rover, and a strict vegetarian into the bargain, and to that end she modelled the animal's body, digestive organs, glands, and tissues upon certain very definite lines. Following out the natural life, the horse would gather its own food, all more or less of a laxative nature, and the stomach being small in proportion to the size of the body, grazing would be more or less continuous. It is interesting to contrast this state of affairs with that of the ox or cow, where the stomach arrangements are capacious and where cudging or rumination takes place at regular intervals between feedings. In the course of gathering its own food the horse would, naturally, take regular steady exercise, and the formation of the skin, tissues, and glands proves that in a state of nature the waste excrement of the body would be largely eliminated through the dung and urine.

Our treatment of the horse has, therefore, altered the whole scheme of things planned out by nature; for not only do we put our animals to hard, fast, and strenuous work, but feed them highly upon concentrated food-stuffs and provide shelter and warmth to the bargain. There are many results arising out of this revolution, but what chiefly concerns us is that our methods of feeding and work produce by products or waste (in the shape of sweat, etc.), in such volume and to so great an extent that the natural structures of the skin would not possibly cope with them, and unless removed by human agency, the pores of the skin would soon become hopelessly blocked up, to the serious detriment of the animal.

It is, therefore, important to practice grooming, not for appearance, but for actual health, strength, and general well-being of the horse; and while plenty of hard grooming naturally reacts upon the coat, making it soft and pleasing to the eye, the result is due far more to the healthy condition of the skin and glands (occasioned by the grooming) than to the actual friction of brush and rubber. The degree of grooming must, naturally, depend to a very great extent upon the individual class of horse, and the work he is called upon to do; because the harder and faster the work, and the more generous the allowance of oats and concentrated rations, the greater the need for human intervention for reasons already mentioned.

It is a great mistake to allow horses of any kind to come into the stable hot and tired from work and then leave them to "dry off," as it is at this time

LISMORE NOTES.

CHRISTIAN BROTHERS COLLEGIATE SCHOOLS.

The Rev. Brother Mullah, who had been Superior of the Christian Brothers Collegiate Schools for the past two years, was recently transferred to Waterpark College, Waterford, and his place as Superior has now been filled by the Rev. Brother Mullan, who has been connected with the famous Christian Brothers Schools in Sygne Street, Dublin, for the past 15 years.

Rev. Brother Mullan, has come to Lismore with a brilliant record as a teacher in the Sygne Street Schools, as he had charge of the principal classes there for several years past.

Being an Honours Graduate of University College, Dublin, an accomplished musician, talented pianist and experienced choir-master, his appointment as Superior of the Lismore Collegiate Schools should now mean a valuable acquisition to the Teaching Staff and should ensure a continuation of the proud record which this celebrated College has so worthily maintained in educational matters for so many years past.

Brother Mullan is also a keen and enthusiastic supporter of all classes of Gaelic Sport, so that under his wise and able tuition the physical as well as the mental development of the Students committed to his care should be safely assured.

The local Collegiate Schools have, as usual, achieved some remarkably brilliant results in this year's Intermediate Examinations, as seven out of the eight students put forward in the Senior Leaving Certificate Class have been successful, five of them having passed with honours.

Three out of the above have won University Scholarships, while two have been called to training as National Teachers. It may be added that three members of this class who had previously held Scholarships have also been called for training, making a total of five Students of the Christian Brothers Schools who have been called for training as National Teachers this year.

Eight Students have passed the Intermediate Certificate examination after 4 years in the Collegiate Schools, four of them obtaining honours which makes a grand total of 12 Students passing the Intermediate with honours this year, in addition to eight Matriculated Students, which is a wonderful record of brilliant work on behalf of the Teaching Staff of the Lismore Christian Brothers Schools.

that they are more calculated to take a chill than at any other. The reduction or lowering of body temperature caused by this evaporation being rapid and intense. Naturally, the time occupied in grooming a horse cannot be stated definitely, for a great variety of reasons, but it is safe to assert that horses kept well and regularly cared for in this direction are the quickest and most easy to handle.—H.G. in "Farmers Gazette."

CAPPOQUIN NOTES.

GONE TO FRANCE.

The Rev. Father Stanislaus Hickey, O.Cist., who was elected Lord Abbot of the Cistercian Community of Mount Mellerau on August 17th, has now gone on an important visit to the parent house of the Cistercian Order in Mellerau France, in connection with certain religious ceremonies there and is expected to be detained there on matters connected with the Cistercian Order until about the middle of October.

The solemn ceremony of the Blessing of the new Lord Abbot will take place in Mount Mellerau on Sunday, October 18th, the Feast of St. Luke, and will be performed by the Most Rev. Dr. Hackett, Bishop of Waterford and Lismore.

This ceremony promises to be a most impressive function and will probably be attended by the Lord Abbots of Mellerau, France; Coalville; Leicestershire; and Roscrea, as well as by all the leading Catholic Clergymen in the diocese.

A GREAT VICTORY.

The Cappoquin Junior Football team scored a notable victory over a strong Ballyduff team in Lismore on last Sunday in their tie for the final of "B" Grade for the County Championship of the West Waterford for 1931.

The weather proved gloriously fine and there was an unusually large attendance of spectators who were treated to one of the fastest and most scientific games of football seen for a long time in Lismore.

Ballyduff started the game in whirlwind fashion by scoring two points in rather quick succession, but Cappoquin then got going in vigorous style and responded with three points which gave them the lead at half time of three points against two points for Ballyduff.

The second moiety of the game provided even a more thrilling display in the course of which some splendid play was witnessed on both sides. Ballyduff added one goal and one point to their half-time score, but Cappoquin, responding with one goal and two points proved the victors of a splendid game by the narrow margin of one point, the final scores being—Cappoquin—1 goal 5 points; Ballyduff—1 goal 4 points.

The Cappoquin team was as follows: P. English, (Capt); Joe Mason, Jas. Crotty, J. Glasse, John Phelan, John Curran, R. O'Donoghue, J. McCabe, J. Glavin, W. Glavin, P. Fitzgerald, W. O'Brien, and Martin Daly.

For the winning side English, Crotty, Glasse, O'Brien, O'Donoghue, the Glavin Bros., and P. Fitzgerald (goal) played a brilliant game, while J. Feeney, O'Neill, Pierce Bros., and Kenneally, were most prominent on the Ballyduff team.

Mr. John F. O'Donnell, Lismore, acted as referee.

On the same date and venue, St. Mary's Hurling team, Dungarvan, defeated Knockanore in Minor Hurling by 4 goals 2 points to 2 goals 1 point.

Knockanore had the best of the play during the 1st half and led at the short whistle by 2 goals to 1 goal 1 point for St. Mary's, but in the second half the Dungarvan players proved too fast and displayed far better science than their opponents, and fully deserved their victory on the above-named score of two to one.

Mr. M. V. O'Donoghue, B.E., Lismore, refereed this match in his usually capable and impartial manner.

Cappoquin Junior Football team, although belonging to "B" Grade, will next have to meet Kilgobinet "A" team for the final of the West Waterford Championship, and this should provide one of the best Junior football matches of the season.

THE CRICKET CLUB.

Cappoquin Cricket Club, although not yet three months in existence, took on a rather ambitious task on last Saturday, when their team travelled at short notice to play the old-established Curraghmore Club on the picturesque grounds of the Marquis of Waterford at Curraghmore. Although the game proved a most enjoyable and interesting one, the inevitable happened in the end, and the less-experienced visitors were eventually beaten by the small margin of 15 runs, Curraghmore having scored 80 runs against 65 for Cappoquin. On next Saturday, 12th inst., Hearne's XI, Waterford, will travel to Cappoquin to play another match with Cappoquin on the latter's ground, this being the third meeting between these teams this season.

The first match between them was played in Cappoquin on Saturday August 8th, when the visitors won by 18 runs, the final innings each being Waterford 74 and Cappoquin 56. In a return match played in Waterford, on Saturday, August 29th Cappoquin won by the substantial margin of two wickets and 40 runs, so that the third meeting between the teams should provide a great game on next Saturday.

Cappoquin, however, will have a comparatively weak team on this occasion as Captain T. O. Jameson, Mr. Ion Villiers-Stuart and other prominent players will be absent, but even so, they may be expected to put up a good fight, and although the visitors may win, nobody will begrudge them their victory, as each member of Hearne's XI is a thorough sportsman to his fingertips.

WHAT WILL THE FARMERS DO?

The price of fat pigs all over the Free State is now down to zero, and the Cappoquin Bacon Factory cannot be blamed if their highest price this week was only 4/- per cwt., what the ordinary farmer would have paid for a

Death of Mrs. Ellen Brennan.

CAPPOQUIN.

Much regret has been caused in Cappoquin by the death of Mrs. Ellen Brennan, one of its oldest and most respected inhabitants, which has occurred at the ripe age of 84 years.

Deceased was mother of the late Mr. J. P. Brennan, a well-known athlete and oarsman, who died at an early age eight years ago, and she was sister of a brilliant and distinguished member of the Cistercian Order, Mount Mellerau, Cappoquin, the late Rev. Father Louis Carew, who was Superior of the Cistercian Monastery in Dubuque, U.S.A., for many years, being afterwards appointed Superior of Mount St. Bernard Cistercian Monastery, in Coalville, Leicestershire, a position which he had ably filled until his regretted death in May, 1927.

The late Mrs. Brennan conducted a prosperous licensed and grocery business in Cappoquin for a long number of years, and was always noted for her great business ability, and honesty while her charming and cheery disposition endeared her to all classes of the general public. Since retiring from the licensed trade several years ago she had resided with her daughter-in-law Mrs. Julia Brennan, in Upper Main Street, and despite her great age she was remarkably active and intelligent and retained all her faculties almost to the last.

She was ill for only a short period during which she was attended by the Rev. J. Crotty, C.C., who administered the last rites of the Catholic Church of which she had always been a most devout and exemplary member, and her death came peacefully on Saturday morning after a long and honourable connection with the business life of Cappoquin.

The remains were removed to St. Mary's Catholic Church on Sunday evening and were followed by a large number of the leading people in Cappoquin, and after Requiem masses for the repose of her soul on Monday the funeral took place at the old churchyard, Lismore, and every manifestation of sympathy and regret on behalf of the townspeople.

The Cistercian Community at Mount Mellerau was represented at the funeral by the Rev. Father Paul, O.Cist., whilst a touching letter of sympathy was sent to Mrs. J. Brennan by the Rev. Father Ganice, Prior, on behalf of the Lord Abbot-Elect and the other members of the Cistercian Order of which the late Father Louis had been such a valued member for so many years.

The funeral cortege was headed by the Very Rev. D. Canon Whelan, D.D., P.P., Cappoquin, and the Rev. J. Crotty, C.C., do.; the final prayers at the graveside being read by Father Crotty.

The Chief mourners included—Mrs. Julia Brennan (daughter-in-law); Stephen, Pauline and Louise Brennan, (grand-children); Mrs. Hely and G. P. Hely, Cappoquin; Richard and Mrs. Queally, Tourin; John Sweeney and family, do.; Maurice and Miss Sweeney, Ballycoe, Cappoquin; John and Wm. Walsh, Tourin; Wm. and Mrs. Wall, Kilbree House; Miss Mary Cosserley, Coolane; Mrs. K. McGrath, do.; Michael O'Brien, Bewley, etc.

Mass Cards or wreaths were sent by Mrs. M. Flavin, Cappoquin; Miss J. Lawless, do.; Mrs. Hely, do.; Miss M. English, do.; Mrs. Phelan, and family, do.; etc.

However, so long as Irish farmers will persist in purchasing foreign bacon for their own use instead of the home-produced article, they must be prepared to face lower prices for Irish pigs owing to the consequent decrease in demand for Irish bacon, and if they still prefer to support the products of the Chinaman the Russian and the Pole they can blame nobody but themselves if they eventually find themselves "up the Pole."

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

LOCAL PRIZE WINNER AT LONDON BREAD EXHIBITION.
At the Bakers and Confectioners Exhibition held at the Agricultural Hall, Islington, London, this week at which there were 400 entries from all over the world, the standard of the bread on exhibition was stated by the judges to be uncommonly high. And despite the seriousness of the competition it is gratifying to find that the well-known Dungarvan firm of A. Mooney and Sons Ltd., was awarded third prize in the Bakers' Pan Loaf class and were only beaten by a very narrow margin in other classes. That is a tribute to the excellence of the product of the Dungarvan firm and we hope that in the near future they will not only win far more prizes, but will also collar the Championship as well. We congratulate this up-to-date firm and their bakers in putting Dungarvan to the fore at the biggest Bread Exhibition in the world.

"WHAT'S IN A NAME?"
A Chara.—Passing through KilmacThomas on a couple of occasions recently I saw by the two chief identification points of the village that the Irish name of the place was "Cill Mhic Thomaisin," which signifies the "Church of the son of little Thomas." I don't think this is correct I always understood the name was "Cill Mhic Thomaisin" which means the "Wood of the son of Little Thomas," and is very different from the title now given on the Post Office and Railway Station.—Miss P.O.F.

ABBEYSIDE SPORTS.
The St. Vincent de Paul Conference, Abbeyside, beg to thank the public for the support extended to them on Sunday last and so making the Sports a pronounced success. The proceeds will be devoted to the Scouts Den: St. Joseph's Field for Boys and the deserving poor. The balance sheet will be duly displayed at the Church door later on.

KILMAC RURAL GAME PRESERVATION SOCIETY.
As will be seen in our advertising Columns, the above Society have several townlands in the district listed for the protection of game. The Society which is one of the first of its kind to receive the recognition of the Minister for Justice, is to be congratulated on its praiseworthy efforts towards making Mid-Waterford the true sportsman's pleasurable game ground it once was. In order to bring clearly home to would-be poachers the penalties likely to accrue from breaches of the Game Act, 1930, we propose in another issue to publish some of the sections of the Act, dealing with same. Full list of lands preserved will be available at each Gardaí Station in Mid-Waterford.

FARM SALE.
On Friday, 4th. inst., Mr. M. F. Walsh, M.I.A.A., Cappoquin, held an important Auction of the farm belonging to Miss Conihnan at Tourin, Ballymacarby, containing 110 acres, held at the yearly rent of £13 13s 4d., P.L.V., £18 10s. 0d. There was brisk bidding between two local gentlemen, Messrs. J. Wall and J. Flynn, and the property was eventually knocked down to Mr. Wall, for the sum of £300 and the usual auction fees. The farm stock of cattle and sheep was afterwards disposed of, mixed cows realising from £9 to £13 15s. each, while a number of mountain wethers and ewes found ready purchasers at prices varying from 15/- to £1 each. All the farm implements and other property were also sold at highly remunerative prices, and the sale on the whole proved a most successful one and was highly satisfactory from the vendor's point of view.

NEW TAXES.

To meet the deficit of 74 millions in the Budget, the House of Commons increased beer 3/4 per barrel; tobacco; petrol; entertainments tax; income tax and everything else likely to make money.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION.
In these days when Vocational Education is so much talked about it is good to note that some Committees are providing for the musical education of the rising generation and are engaging musical teachers. In the Co. Waterford, no provision has so far been made for music; but we hope it will not be lost sight of. The cultural education of our people is part of the Vocational Scheme, and nothing conduces more to develop a taste in all that is noble and good than music and the fine arts. We are a music loving people and if the facilities were offered they would be certainly availed of. No premises would be required as we think the Managers of the Schools would be delighted to give them for such classes. Music and Drama are two items which our Committee should deal with.

DON'T GAMBLE.
With substitutes, but buy the best. Bergin's Irish poplin ties in all the latest designs at Walsh's, Outfitters, Square, Dungarvan.

EAST V. WEST.
Waterford's impressive victory in the Junior Hurling Provincial Final, against a much fancied Tipperary team, leads one to believe that, with judicious handling, our chances of winning this year's All-Ireland Final, look very bright, indeed. Though our lads surpassed all expectations by the manner in which they disposed of Tipp., still it was apparent to all that 3 or 4 of our players were not quite up to the standard required in an All-Ireland clash. The Committee responsible for selecting our standard-bearers are anxious to explore every avenue, to ensure that the best possible fifteen will enter the fray to uphold the honour of the county, hence next Sunday's fixture, East v. West, at Dungarvan.

A GENUINE TEST.
Make no mistake about it, but this trial, at the Fraher Arena, is going to be a dour struggle, personally, I will not be surprised should it prove to be the best exhibition of hurling ever witnessed in the West, between Waterford teams. Trial games, as a rule, are rather tame affairs, but I know this one will be an exception to the rule. Reputations are at stake and with three or four places awaiting new recruits, one can fancy the vim which aspirants will put into the issue in their efforts to play themselves into a place on the County fifteen.

EAST SELECTION.
At the moment I am not in a position to name the team selected to do duty for West Waterford, but with ample material from Tallow, Lismore, Dungarvan and KilmacThomas a formidable combination should be forthcoming, and indeed, it will need to be if the easterner's colours are to be lowered. The following will do duty for the eastern division—goal P. Nolan (O'Rourke's); full-backs D. Healy (Clonea); J. O'Donnell, (Ballytruckle); J. Carroll, (O'Rourke's); half-backs G. Keogh, (Ballytruckle); M. Skehan, (Dunhill); R. Breen, (O'Rourke's); centre-field M. Fitzgerald, (Ballyduff); P. Hannigan, (Erin's Own); forwards T. Lyons, (Dunhill); J. Hunt, (Ballyduff); R. Morrissey, (Portlaw); D. Mahony, (Erin's Own); M. Hunt, (Ballyduff); P. Gough, (Dunhill). Subs.—E. Power, J. Power, J. Kennedy, J. Buggy, J. Barry.

Patrons of Gaeldom in the County, will readily agree that the fifteen players mentioned form a powerful and well-balanced team; each man is an expert caman wielder and adapted to the position in which he is placed. With an equally strong side representing West Waterford, a thrilling and well-contested game is assured. Come therefore, in your thousands and see, in action, the boys who are, I am hopeful, going to bring another All-Ireland to Waterford.—L.B.

Correspondence.

(To the Editor of the "Observer.")
A Chara.—In a recent County Down (up beyond the Border) case a cottier who was prosecuted for not complying with a sanitary order, and having his house in a filthy condition, was recommended by the medical officer of health and the chairman of the Bench to get married. The doctor said he did not think defendant got very much assistance from his sisters in trying to clean up, and suggested that "he should marry someone who would clean the place." And the chairman, in adjourning the case, advised the man to "get a woman of his own."

Presuming the cottier concerned takes the hint, what will the dear lady say when she discovers that she has been married "to keep the place clean" if this idea of promoting marriages on utilitarian grounds is copied by other Northern Ireland Magisterial courts and by the Southern Ireland district courts, we shall probably grow accustomed to seeing advertisements in the papers such as the following:—
UNDER ORDER OF THE COURT.
GOOD HOUSE CLEANER WANTED IMMEDIATELY—Permanent engagement. Must be prepared to marry advertiser. And I shouldn't be surprised, with the present state of the matrimonial market, but there will be plenty of applicants.

Anyway, it strikes me that the said idea reads "one better" than our own County Board of Public Health's notorious "get wed or get out" order to their unmarried male and female cottage tenants—get met

FOR THREE NIGHTS ONLY. RAMON NOVARRO IN: The Singer of Seville

The glorious all-singing musical romance in which Novarro sings a variety of popular songs, and also for the first time gives audiences the treat of hearing him in operatic selections. "JUST FOR TO-DAY," THE SOLO FROM THE FRENCH OPERA "MANON," and the "AGNUS DEI," in which he is supported by a beautifully harmonised chorus, are unforgettable. The story tells of the rise of a young Spanish singer to the heights of operatic fame. He becomes the idol of the opera in Seville, and incidentally, the subject of unwelcome attentions from Lola, the dancer. When he meets and falls in love with Marie, a beautiful young girl, the jealous dancer loses no time in parting them. Marie enters a convent, and the broken-hearted singer returns to sing again in the opera. His singing on that particular night rouses the audience to wild enthusiasm, and Lola, who is present repents of her act and confesses everything to the Mother Superior at the convent. Marie, who has not yet taken her final vows, is reunited with her lover. Remarkable acting and singing in a lavish production. The outstanding attraction throughout is Ramon Novarro's splendid singing which will add enormously to his reputation. A film to see and hear many times. "Sunday Referee."

The Last Hour

A really thrilling story with an all-star cast, including Stewart, Rome, Kathleen Vaughan and Richard Cooper. The amazing battle between an unscrupulous gang led by a Russian prince, and detectives of Scotland Yard, for the possession of an invisible "Death Ray," which if sprayed from the air in times of war, is capable of wiping out the population of an entire country. The detectives are helped by a young Secret Service agent named Lister, who while trailing the Russian, pretends to be an escaped convict, and takes shelter in a lonely inn near Dartmoor prison, and is helped to hide, by the innkeeper's daughter. The Russian prince arrives in his airship and the two men have a desperate struggle for control of the machine. Suddenly the Death Ray is released, and the ship falls into the sea, in flames. Lister swims ashore, but the prince is drowned and the secret of the Death Ray dies with him. There is a thrill in every minute of the picture. Surprise. Mystery. Suspense. WATERFORD FOOTBALL FINAL.

The final of the West Waterford Senior Football Championship was played at the Gaelic Field, Dungarvan, on Sunday last, in glorious weather, and before a good attendance. The issue lay between Dungarvan and Killorossanty—old rivals in the football field—and they gave a splendid account of themselves. But the steady consistent team work of the Dungarvan fifteen decided the issue and they won by a margin of 4 points.

Mr. R. Redmond, Clonmel, was referee, and his decisions were most impartial.

Dungarvan were first to attack, but they were whistled for holding. Killorossanty visited the other end without reward. After ten minutes Dungarvan opened the scoring with a goal. For some time play was kept in the centre, Dungarvan eventually breaking away to raise the white flag. Killorossanty attacked from the delivery, but drove wide. A free against Dungarvan saw Killorossanty get away for their first score, a major. Dungarvan brought play to their opponents' area, and a well-directed shot for a point barely went wide. Dungarvan came on again, and succeeded in scoring a minor. Both ends were visited in turn without effect, and at half-time the scores were:—

DUNGARVAN—1 goal 2 points.
KILROSSANTY—1 goal.

On resuming, Dungarvan showed some of their old team work, and in a short time had two minors to their credit. Killorossanty fought hard for a score, but the Dungarvan backs succeeded in frustrating their efforts. A free to Dungarvan was sent between the sticks for a further point. Killorossanty again were dangerous and made several onslaughts on the local's goal, but drove wide. Dungarvan received the delivery, and a good shot went inches wide. About five minutes from the end Killorossanty scored a point, and the long whistle saw Dungarvan deserving winners on the score:—

DUNGARVAN—1 goal 5 points.
KILROSSANTY—1 goal 1 point.

Mr. R. Redmond, Clonmel, was referee.

YOUGHAL URBAN COUNCIL.

Present Messrs. P. J. O'Gorman, P.C., moved to the chair, P. J. McMahon, P.C., A. J. Fowkes, J. Whelan, T. Beausang, Capt. P. Dunne, T. Murphy, Mrs. S. Hurley, P.C., E. Clancy.

On the proposition of Mr. Linehan, seconded by Mr. Fowkes, a cheque for £78 12s. 3d. wages etc., for week was passed.

The monthly accounts were also passed.

A letter was read from Mrs. Hanley, Montmorenci, stating that there was a large gap in the old Town Walls surrounding her place, when she came there there was a slight breach, but it was made wider and deeper by the Council's men. She remonstrated and was informed that the necessary repairs would be carried out, but nothing had since been done. She had suffered considerable loss and annoyance from trespassers into her garden. She had fenced it in, but the wire was removed. It was a pity that the fine old Wall should be so neglected and the longer it was left undone the worse it would become. She asked the Council to have it repaired.

The Chairman said it was in a very bad way and it seemed a pity to allow such a historic old landmark fall into delapidation. An Inspector of the Board of Works accompanied by a Committee of the Council visited and examined it some years ago and they had hoped that some steps might be taken to preserve it.

The Clerk said it was 6 to 8 feet thick in some parts and would mean a big job, which should be done out of the rates.

Mr. Clancy said fencing was no good. To do it properly it should be put back into its original condition. A portion of the Wall at St. Molana's Abbey had fallen down and it was rebuilt. Why not the Town Wall?

The Clerk said that the work at the Abbey had been done by Capt. Holroyd Smyth of Ballynatray.

After further discussion, the Clerk was directed to make inquiries in likely quarters as to whether some assistance could not be got to enable them carry out the necessary repairs.

The L. G. D. forwarded a return from the M.O.H., showing that there were 30 children over the age not yet vaccinated.

It was decided to serve the usual notices.

The L.G. wrote asking if the Council had received any applications for the renting of the Market House.

The Clerk said they had received no such applications.

Capt. Dunne, suggested that they should advertise inviting applications. It was a white elephant at present.

The Chairman didn't think they were in a position to advertise. The matter might be put on the agenda for the next meeting.

Capt. Dunne asked why should the ratepayers be called on to keep it up, when they could get rent for it.

Mr. McMahon—There's a resolution on the books in connection with the matter.

The Clerk said a notice of motion should be given and a resolution on the books rescinded before they could do anything.

The Chairman ruled that in view of the resolution on the books the matter could only be dealt with by due notice being given.

The Clerk added that a local authority had no power to let the Market House.

Mr. Murphy said one town had actually sold their Market House.

The Clerk said he had invited tenders for the extension of the 6 inch drain to the new lavatory on the Strand but had received none.

It was decided to advertise again.

Mrs. Hurley said she had been informed on reliable authority that several of the Station premises were drained into cess pits. That should not be permitted seeing that there was a fine sewer available. The men's houses were not drained at all. It was a shocking state of affairs.

A report was read from the Town Surveyor, bearing out Mrs. Hurley's complaint.

The Clerk was directed to write to the Company on the matter.

The Town Superintendent reported on the surface of William street and suggested laying a coating of breeze there.

The last time it was done it rained forty days after and our houses were ruined.

A Councillor—it must have been done on St. Swithin's Day, (laughter).

I was decided to carry out the suggestion.

On the suggestion of Mr. Murphy, a similar course was ordered to be carried out on the Market Square.

SENATOR P. J. HOOPER DEAD.

The death occurred in Dublin, of Senator P. J. Hooper, deputy chairman of the Free State Senate.

He was a well-known journalist and correspondent for American papers. His brother John, who was head of the statistical department of the Free State Ministry for Industry and Commerce, died nine months ago, and another brother, Richard, also a popular journalist and member of the Dail Hansard staff, died two months ago.

Senator Hooper was elected deputy chairman last year. He was about 57 years of age and extremely popular in Dublin.

Bonhams off their Feet.

Bonhams are apt to go off their feed very quickly. Such a state of affairs may, of course, mean nothing more than temporary stomach derangement of no great importance, and it may be that the bonham which has no appetite for his breakfast will be quite prepared to do justice to the next meal that is offered him. On the other hand abstinence from food is usually the first indication of some trouble that may be far more serious than a passing attack of biliousness or something similar. A pig which refuses its food just once, or which appears to feed without taking any particular interest in the operation ought to be watched carefully and if it appears dull and lifeless, or anxious to get away from its companions it is advisable to isolate it at once.

It sometimes happens that bonhams go off their feed temporarily owing to some error in feeding. A sudden change from one food to another may occasionally bring about this result, especially when a food of undue richness is compared with that which has previously been used is given. Changes should always be made gradually, and it is never wise to alter the whole of the ingredients of the ration at the same time. In the same way quantities should be increased by degrees and not jumped up suddenly. It is much better to increase the amount by half or even quarter of a pound at intervals of a few days than to add on a whole pound at the end of a month although the latter process may entail rather less trouble.

There is no surer way, in fact, of putting bonhams off their food than to give them too much at a time—more, that is, than they are prepared to clear up quickly on each occasion. That is why the common method of tipping the food into the trough and going away without waiting to see what happens is a bad one. It always pays to stay a little to see how the pigs deal with their food, and when habit is practised it is at once noticed when there is anything wrong with any of the pigs. If, say, bonhams are being fed twice a day, and too much is given to them at their first meal, some of this will be left lying about for the greater part of the day, and all of it may not be cleared up even when the next meal is given. This means that the food left over will become sour, especially in warm weather, and if more be tipped on top of it the whole will be spoiled.

"Little and often" is a good motto where the feeding of bonhams is concerned, and care should be taken that the food does not go sour. When any food is found left in the trough when the next feeding time come round all of it should be removed before any fresh food is given. That which is taken away need not be wasted for it may be given to older pigs without doing them any harm.—P.S.

That it costs more to keep a good pig than a bad one is a truism to which everyone will subscribe. Therefore, if a good pig cannot be made to pay its way, it is certain that a bad pig will lose money for its owner to an even greater extent; and yet there are still plenty of bad pigs to be seen. The idea that a pig is a pig and that any sort of pig will do is by no means dead, although it must be admitted that in recent years the general quality of our pigs has greatly improved. But there are still too many pig keepers, and even pig breeders, who, as one may put it, take the line of least resistance and are ready to accept anything that comes along. It is these people who are so often heard to complain that "pigs don't pay," but few of them perhaps, stop to think why it is that they have no success while others prosper. Of course there are times when even the best of pigs fail to show anything of a profit, but those times do not last for ever, and the man who goes steadily on and takes care to have at all times the best pigs that money can buy or that can be bred is the man who on the average comes out on the right side.

SAVE EVERY CALF

Don't let Card and score take its toll of your stock. You can treat every calf. Just give them a few doses of Curex weekly for the first three months after birth. This has never been known to fail. Prevention is better than cure. Symptoms of Card in the stomach are—head drooping—and head staggered, grinding teeth and stretching neck and body, sometimes scour with an offensive odour. Read what users say:—

- "I tried a hundred remedies, but Curex was the only cure. It never failed when used in time."—Charles M. C. Egan, Corvish, Co. Donegal.
- "I have used Curex for over four years. It is the best remedy for scour I have ever known."—J. Buttiner, Rathfriland.
- "Your Curex was excellent, and we have fine calves."—A. Mulcahy, Ballyglass House, Tipperary.
- "Every time I use Curex it seems to act like a charm."—T. Conner, Kilmalee, Yeasdale.

Up-to-Date Farming.

CO. WATERFORD FARMERS AND POULTRY KEEPERS VISIT MUNSTER INSTITUTE, CORK.

INTERESTING AND EDUCATIVE EXCURSION.

One of the most interesting and educational excursions ever organised in the County Waterford, took place on Friday last, to the Munster Institute, Cork—that great training Centre of the Department of Agriculture. The Munster Institute stands for all that is modern and up-to-date in Poultry keeping, butter-making, fowl-fattening etc., and to visit it is a treat never to be forgotten. No matter how much you think you know about your business as an Agriculturist, it is only when you visit a centre like the Munster Institute that you find how modern methods and appliances coupled with scientific teaching can aid you in carrying on your work to the best advantage. In this present age when farming under any heading is so difficult a problem for our people it is only by doing the best in the best way that the most tangible results can be achieved. Hence it is that scarcely a week goes by, but numbers of practical farmers—men and women—visit the Munster Institute, and take full advantage of all the education it can give by personal inspection. It is a splendidly equipped institution and is of great practical utility to all who avail of its lessons.

The Party from the County Waterford on Friday last, was organised by Miss Margaret M. Mullins, the able practical and popular Poultry Instructor of the County. Knowing that such a visit must needs be of great interest to the County in general, she determined on organising a body of Poultry keepers who would be willing and anxious to take advantage of the lessons to be learned at the Munster Institute. And no sooner had she started on her good work, than she found that the scheme had taken on like fire. In addition to the visit to the Munster Institute, Mr. John O'Dwyer, the efficient Secretary of the County Committee of Agriculture, had made all arrangements for the gentlemen of the party to visit the University College Farm, at Bishopstown, where they inspected the Dairy Herd, Calves, Pigs, Farm Produce etc. Mr. Cogan, Co. Instructor in Agriculture was in charge of this part of the tour.

A special "Nomad" Bus, had been engaged for the trip, as also a number of motor cars, while some of the visitors drove their own automobiles. The Party concentrated at Dungarvan Square, at 10.30 a.m., and soon after left for Cork. The following were present:—Miss Mullins, Poultry Instructor; Messrs. J. O'Dwyer, Secretary Co. Committee of Agriculture; John Kiersey, Chairman, County Council; C. Cogan, Agricultural Instructor; J. H. O'Sullivan, Secretary, Co. Council; N. Fitzgerald, Chairman, Co. Committee of Agriculture; J. J. Drohan, Kilmac-thomas and Mrs. Drohan, Ballynevin; W. Dowley, Ballyknock, Carrick-on-Suir; Misses Fan and L. Fitzgerald, Ballinacilla; Mrs. J. A. Lynch, Killineen, Dungarvan; Miss B. Wall, Ballinavouga; Pat. Morrissey, Ballycoo; Misses L. and M. O'Donovan, Dro-more; J. O'Donovan, B. Agl. Sc., do.; M. Maddock, Gracedieu, Waterford; Thomas Fitzgerald, do.; H. V. Earle and Mrs. Earle, Grantstown House, Waterford; Misses Margaret and Agnes Mulcahy, Abbeyview, Clonmel; Miss P. Power, Killowen, Porlraw; Miss K. Curran, Glenmore, Dungarvan; Mrs. M. Gee, Ballintaylor; Mrs. Cunningham, Foxhall, Ardmore; Mrs. Spratt, Knockaun, Grange; Miss O'Brien, Grallagh; Miss B. Power, Siveverue; Miss E. Walsh, Ballylemon; Miss M. Fitzgibbon, Waterford; Miss E. Flannagan, do.; Miss Margaret Hartrey, do.; Mrs. B. Colbert, Ardmore; Mrs. Crowley, do.; Mr. and Mrs. P. Lynch, Passage East.

On arrival at the Munster Institute, the Party were welcomed by Mr. McCall, Manager, Miss Doyle, Lady's Superintendent, Miss Moonan, and the heads of the various Departments. Having inspected the interior of the main buildings, and the conditions under which students are educated in the most up-to-date methods of Dairy-ing, Housekeeping, Poultry keeping, etc., they were shown over the out-door section. A series of lectures was delivered by the ladies in charge, and most interesting information was gleaned as regards the rearing, breeding and fattening of fowl; Calf-rearing, butter-making etc. Questions were asked by the visitors, and all queries were fully and lucidly explained by the ladies in charge. Meantime the Gentlemen of the Party had been on a visit to the University farm where they were welcomed by Mr. Cleeson, Manager, who took them all over the place and explained the whole concern. Short lectures on farm management and diseases of animals were also delivered and when the visitors left they were delighted with all they saw and heard.

All the Party were then entertained in a most hospitable manner by the Institute. This over, Mr. John Kiersey, Chairman, of the County Council, on behalf of Miss Mullins, expressed the grateful thanks of the visitors to Mr. McCall, and the members of the staff for the regal manner in which they had been entertained, and the courtesy and kindness extended to them by all associated with the Institute. He said the whole Party highly appreciated their visit and had got a vast store of useful and practical knowledge in farming matters. They were deeply indebted to Mr. McCall, Miss Doyle, and the whole staff for the grand, en-

(Before Mr. G. P. Farrell, B.L.) Unlighted Bicycles. Guard Deasy charged John Broderick, Crossford, labourer, with using an unlighted bicycle on August, 18th., and 19th.

Complainant said on the first occasion the defendant said he thought he wouldn't be out so late. On the other he gave no excuse at all.

He was fined 2/- on each summons. The same Complainant charged Wm Linnane, Ballybrusa, with a like offence, and he was fined in the same amount.

Imposing a like fine on Jas. Treacy, Ballycurrane, for the same offence, the Justice said he thought those penalties were too low in those cases.

Cruelty To Donkey. The same Complainant charged Matthew Fitzgerald, Ballybrusa, with allowing a cow, and donkey wander on the public road; and also with cruelty to the donkey.

Replying to the Court, the Complainant said that there was a nasty wound on the donkey's left leg, which was bleeding as a result of tar being applied to it. The animal was suffering great pain as the sore was very hot.

The Justice—What was the tar applied for? The Complainant said he couldn't say, but it might be to cure some "stroke" or "blast."

The Justice—It that treatment for it? Complainant—I never heard of it.

Superintendent O'Shea, Dungarvan, said it was probably crude creosote that the man had been applying.

The Justice—If the thing was applied as medical treatment, it wouldn't be so bad. You say that in consequence of being covered with tar and exposed to the sun, it caused cruelty?—Yes, because it penetrated more.

The Justice—What signs of distress did the animal show?—It wasn't able to put the leg on the ground at all.

The Justice—Your point is that he should have been kept in?—Yes, he shouldn't have been allowed wander in that condition. He appeared to be very thin and suffering in consequence of the wound. The defendant said he applied the stuff as a neighbour told him to put it on.

Defendant was fined 2/6 on the charge of cruelty and 1/- for wandering.

Alleged Larceny. A young man named Hogan, was charged with the larceny of a quantity of barbed wire.

Supt. O'Shea, prosecuted. The accused not answering, the Justice asked where was he.

A Guard said that the man said he would not attend the Court.

The Justice—Why?—Because he was not prepared to swear that it was his own property.

The Supt. asked would his worship adjourn the case.

The Justice—If it is a summary case I can proceed in his absence—otherwise I can't. In any case I don't see why he should not have been brought here the same as anybody else. So he wants the case to go by default.

The Supt.—Yes. The Justice—That is all very fine, but I don't know that it should be allowed. I will hear some evidence.

Thos. Kiely stated that he took the land in question at Pollen, on the 11 months system, 5 years ago and fenced it all round with barbed wire. On the 8th., August he found that a large quantity of the wire and some stakes had been taken off the fence and on the 10th., in company with Sergt. Galvin, he identified the wire and stakes on Hogan's fence.

The Justice said the point would arise as to what time the offence had happened, and he would request that man's presence before he proceeded with the case. He would issue a warrant for his attendance, to be executed on the morning of the Court, as he didn't want the man to be in custody meanwhile.

Larceny Of Parts. Albert Miller, a travelling mechanic, was brought up in custody charged to the larceny of parts of a sewing machine the property of Mrs. Mary Rooney, Convent St., Tallow.

Supt. Quinlan, Lismore, prosecuted. The Supt. said the case had been originally before the Tallow Court, the defendant had been arrested and remanded to that Court, but on the day previously he left the area and didn't turn up.

The Justice said it was a minor case, and he would hear it summarily, the accused agreeing.

Guard J. O'Leary, Dungarvan, stated that in consequence of a complaint made by Mrs. Rooney, he brought the accused to the Station at Tallow and questioned him. After cautioning him he made a statement to the effect that he was a repairer of clocks, watches, etc. He called to Mrs. Rooney's. There was nobody there at the time. Having repaired a clock he saw a sewing machine in the kitchen on the table and he opened it and took out the bobbin and shuttle. He then went straight to Glencairn and put them into a machine belonging to Peter McLoughlin. He admitted taking the bobbin and shuttle. Witness asked defendant to accompany him to Mr. McLoughlin's where he removed the bobbin and shuttle from McLoughlin's machine and handed them to witness, who now produced them. He said they were the articles he removed from Mrs. Rooney's machine. Witness brought accused back to Tallow, where Mrs. Rooney identified the articles as hers. The accused was then brought before a P.C. who remanded him on bail in his own

SEA FISHERIES.

MEETING AT PASSAGE. ASSOCIATION FORMED.

On Friday a meeting of the Fishermen of Passage East and District was held with the object of forming a centre of the Sea Fisheries Association of Saorstad Eireann.

Mr. J. C. O'Donnell, organiser, said the Association was formed to organise and develop the fishing industry; to improve conditions of transport, handling, grading, and marketing of fish and to enable competent fishermen to obtain loans for boats on more convenient terms of repayment.

Dr. Vincent White, T.D., said when they were dealing with fish as a food commodity, no article, with the exception of milk required more careful handling. It must be stored in suitable receptacles and delivered fresh. Railways should provide refrigerators and ice wagons for proper storage and fresh delivery. From the first day he entered the Dail he recognised the first pressing need of fishermen was adequate protection. Since they had obtained independence the cruisers of foreign countries, which used patrol their home fishing waters, did so no longer, so that at the present time they had only the Muirchui to patrol the whole coast to keep off fishing poachers. The patrol boat was showing adequate results, and must be added to. They were now to have that adequate fishing protection they needed. Next to agriculture marine fisheries of Ireland could be made the greatest asset to Saorstad. With the exception of the Shannon Scheme, the Government had not undertaken any work on behalf of the nation bigger, more onerous or more advantageous than marine fisheries. As a practical fisherman himself, Dr. White said he came there to back up the organisation, and tell them that the question of protection and development of the fisheries of the nation was at long last coming to a head; they were going to stop talking and make the fishing industry as great as the science of agriculture in the country. He appealed to all to join. They had in Mr. Finian Lynch a very able and practical man at the head of the Fisheries Department.

Mr. P. J. Little, T.D., said the formation of the Association was an experiment, and he was not going to say anything discouraging about it. On the other hand he held out no great hopes, but they would have an opportunity of testing the experiment. For success a good deal would depend on themselves and on the Government in power. Much had been said with truth against centralisation, but here was an Association which would have its branches everywhere, and much would depend on how they were worked.

Mr. Sean Goulding, T.D., agreed with Dr. White in the necessity for protection of the fishing industry. With only one patrol boat in the Free State waters foreign fishermen only made a joke of it, and yet it had been costing the State £7,000 a year for the last eight years, which money was practically thrown away. The fishermen must help themselves, and not be expecting the State to do all for them. By joining the Association they got a chance of putting the Irish fishing industry on a proper paying basis; but that could not be done without adequate protection.

Practically all the fishermen present handed in their names for membership.

WE HAVE AGAIN AND AGAIN warned our customers on the absolute necessity of Potato Spraying. It has been conclusively proved during the past few years that not only has spraying prevented potato blight, but it has almost doubled the crops in every instance. It also improves the quality of the potato by extending the period of growth, thereby allowing the crops to come to maturity.

The necessity for spraying this season may be more urgent than usual. The present weather is proving favourable for the spread of the disease which has already made its appearance in the South of Ireland. We stock the latest types in horse and knapsack sprayers and we also keep large stocks of sulphate of copper and washing soda. We shall be very pleased to answer any enquiries regarding quantity to be used per acre, and will quote special low prices for cash for sprayers or spraying materials.

Youghal Cow-Testing Association.

At a meeting held at the Carnegie Free Library, Mr. Pat Kirk, President, took the chair.

The Supervisor's report as follows was read:—
Gentlemen,—In submitting to you my tenth Annual Report, I beg to lay before you a few particulars respecting the working of your Association for the past year, 1930.

We started the year with a membership of fifteen, who owned 234 cows. Of this number 198 cows completed the lactation periods as follows:—
4 cows yielded under 3,000 lbs. of milk. 15 cows yielded over 3,000 lbs. of milk. 37 cows yielded over 4,000 lbs. of milk. 39 cows yielded over 5,000 lbs. of milk. 31 cows yielded over 6,000 lbs. of milk. 22 cows yielded over 7,000 lbs. of milk. 10 cows yielded 9,000 lbs. of milk. 1 cow yielded over 10,000 lbs. of milk.

The average yield per cow for all the above cows was 6,185 lbs. (600) gallons of milk, and 223.13 lbs. of butter-fat, with a test of 3.67 per cent.

The 10 best cows gave an average of 9,786 lbs. of milk, test 3.73 per cent., and 364.33 butter-fat calculated at 14 per lb for butter-fat and 1d. per gallon for separated milk, earned the sum of £21 10s. 0d. per cow. The best cow of the above gave 1,201.9 lbs. of milk test 3.58 per cent., and 430.28 lbs. butter-fat and earned £25 10s. 2d. The owner of this cow is Mr. T. J. O'Hanlon, Department Farm.

The ten worst cows gave an average of 3,890 lbs. of milk test, 3.65 per cent., and 142.17 lbs. of butter-fat and earned £8 8s. 0d. per cow. The worst cow of this lot gave 3283 lbs. milk test 3.36 per cent., and 110.30 butter-fat and earned the sum of £6 11s. 0d. The difference between the best and worst cow in the Association was 418 18s. 5d.

The Annual Inspection of cows took place on the 29th of May last by Mr. P. O'Keefe, Department Inspector, when 22 cows were inspected and 13 passed for entry in the Department's Register.

The following are the yields for comparison for the years 1928 5766 lbs. of milk, 203.00 lbs. butter-fat test 3.55 per cent. 1929, 5066 lbs. of milk 208.41 lbs. butter-fat test 3.40 per cent. 1930, 6185 lbs. of milk, 223.13 lbs. butter-fat test, 3.67 per cent.

I am happy to tell you that Mr. P. Kirk our worthy Chairman, purchased from the Department a Pure Bred Dairy Bull an animal I am quite confident will produce good progeny which will be a very great benefit to your Association.

Mr. Mee, Smiddy, Ballymadog, has also got a new Premium Bull, having disposed of the old bull "Melloray Mariner" as he was getting too big and heavy.

The County Committee's award for the best cow presented for examination, £1 prize was given to Mr. Wm. McCarthy, Seafield, for his cow Car-rasboy, which yielded 8466 lbs. of milk test 3.45 per cent. butter-fat in 45 weeks against Mr. Jas. Hurley's cow Purty, yielding 7238 lbs. of milk test 4.01 in 45 weeks.

The Committee's award for heifers was Mr. Pat Kirk, 1st £1; second Mr. J. Hurley, 10/-.

Mr. Monks, Department Inspector, who was in attendance expressed himself highly pleased with the manner in which the Supervisor has conducted the whole business of the Association during the year.

The Supervisor's Report was unanimously adopted.

On the motion of Mr. W. McCarthy, seconded by Mr. Cunningham, a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Monk's for his attendance and useful information on all matters pertaining to the proper carrying out of the scheme.

Many leading Irish and cross-Channel buyers attended, and there was a good demand for troopers at from £30 to £45 a head. A few hunters, 5 to 6 years-old made £100 to £120; and farm horses £25 to £35.

Poseidon Hero.

INTERESTING FUNCTION AT YOUGHAL.

CIVIC TRIBUTE.

A very pleasing and interesting function, took place in the Board Room, Town Hall, Youghal, on Thursday week, when Leading Seaman Vincent Nagle, and his wife, were the recipients of presentations from his fellow townspeople, in practical recognition of his great bravery, at the loss of the submarine Poseidon last June. His father Capt. P. Nagle, The Mall, and his sister were also present.

In the unavoidable absence of Mr. J. R. Smyth, P.C., (Chairman of the Urban Council), Mr. P. O'Gorman, P.C. was moved to the chair, and amongst the others present were:—Mrs. S. Hurley, P.C., U.D.C.; Messrs. P. J. McMahon, P.C., U.D.C.; A. J. Fowkes, U.D.C.; J. Whelan, U.D.C.; T. Beausang, U.D.C.; E. Clancy U.D.C.; M. H. Walsh, P.C., Town Clerk, etc.

The Chairman said they all, as representing the town, were delighted to have the opportunity of giving a hearty welcome to their young townsman, Vincent Nagle, on his visit to his native place, after his recent experience in the distant Chinese Sea. If he did make a slight reference to the awful calamity, in which so many of his brave comrades risked and lost their lives; it was only with the object of enabling them to form a truer appreciation of the magnificent act of heroism their young friend had done on the occasion (hear, hear). Vincent Nagle required no introduction to them—he was the worthy son of an old and esteemed friend of them all (hear, hear). He came of a good old family tree, his father before him having been a toiler of the deep, through storm and wreck, now spending his declining years in his old home amongst them. His son, Vincent, followed in his footsteps, by joining the Royal Navy at the early age of 16, doing his duty like a man in various branches till he displayed the heroic stuff that was in him last June, when he performed a deed of gallantry that would live in the history of the sea all the world over (hear, hear). He was there that night to receive a small presentation from his fellow townspeople, who had contributed most generously for the purpose. They were delighted to have him amongst them and they would follow his career for the future with keen interest, confident that he would be ever true to the best traditions of his race (hear, hear). Concluding he on behalf of his fellow townspeople wished him and his good lady the best that life could give them. In the words of a poet: "He acted well his part, there all the honour lies" (hear, hear).

Mr. McMahon said, as an old Youghal man, he took a deep pleasure and pride in being present at the function and he cordially endorsed the Chairman's remarks. His father before him was highly and deservedly esteemed by all who knew him—his name was a household word in the town (hear, hear). It must be a source of deep satisfaction to him to see his youngest son follow so faithfully in his footsteps, and rising to the call of humanity in such a noble fashion for a poor little Chinese boy. His brave deed won the applause and praise, not alone of his fellow countrymen, but of the world at large. He (Mr. McMahon) tendered his sincere congratulations to their young friend, to his good wife and his father, mother and sister, and all belonging to him.

Mr. Whelan, as an old schoolmate of the young hero, said he had great pleasure in endorsing everything so well said by the Chairman, and Mr. McMahon. He extended a hearty welcome and deep congratulations to his old friend and "pal," and to all his people, and he could assure them the people of Youghal felt justly proud of him.

Mr. Lincan, asked to be associated with the remarks of his colleagues. Captain Dunne, as one who knew Vincent's father and family for many years, said he was glad to see the son was a great credit to his father as his father was to his grand-father before him.

Mr. Beausang also associated himself with the compliment.

Mr. Clancy said it would be only painting the lily to try to add anything to what had been said.

Mr. Fowkes, as an ex-service man himself, and on behalf of all the ex-service men, Army and Navy, of the town and district heartily endorsed all that had been said of their young friend and hero. It would, indeed be difficult to excel the act of gallantry performed by him on the trying occasion. He forgot his own self in his laudable desire to help another in distress.

The Clerk said he very cordially endorsed everything said concerning the wonderful pluck and self-sacrifice show by Vincent Nagle in the Poseidon disaster. It was impossible for them, land lubbers, to realise what it meant to be locked in what appeared a tomb with 120 feet of water above, and then to act as he had done. They could not pay adequate tribute to his noble deed.

The Chairman then, amid applause presented young Nagle with a silver cigarette case, suitably inscribed and handed a cheque to Mrs. Nagle as light tokens of the esteem and admiration of all his Youghal friends.

Vincent Nagle, on behalf of his wife and himself, thanked the Council and the people of Youghal for the great honour they had done him that night, and also for their valuable presentations to his wife and himself, which they highly appreciated. If he had done anything to bring credit to the old town they all loved so well, it was a source of real pleasure to him. He had spent happy days in Youghal, and he Rents of Labourers' Cottages.

THE RIGHT TO INCREASE.

The recent circular of the L.G.D., pointing out the legal definition of "agricultural labourer," and the right of Boards of Health to increase rents in the case of tenants of cottages who are not within the definition, was sharply criticised at a meeting of Cottage tenants at County Limerick.

Mr. E. Mansfield said the number of occupiers of cottages not within the Acts was negligible. The recent circular, ostensibly fair, would if rigidly interpreted, cause grave hardship and injustice. It would lead either to eviction or increased rents in the case of widows or dependents of genuine agricultural labourers; old age pensioners after a life of toil; of the direct descendants or workers who, through thrift and industry, had improved their position; of men, who for upwards of 45 years have lived in cottages, the loans for which have long since been redeemed and during their period of tenancy.

What should be thought, he asked, if, after the payment for 40 or 50 years of the annuity on this holding, and just when the loan was fully or nearly redeemed, a farmer was to be faced with either an eviction notice or a demand for a higher annuity, or if his son in succession were to be so treated because either had, by his industry become a more profitable bird to pluck?

The Cottages Tenants' Association strongly object to increased rents on lettings made prior to the Act of 1919, under which, with the extended definition of "agricultural labourer," provisions for such increases come or where the tenancy is continuous in the same family; or where a new tenancy is established by a genuine agricultural worker according to the earlier definition of the Acts. A small increase, however, would not be unreasonable in the case of fresh lettings to those who came within the extended provisions of the Act of 1919. Unoccupied cottages deteriorate rapidly; while so many rural workers are homeless, it should not be allowed. In fresh lettings, genuine agricultural workers with families should of course, get preference. But those who suggest the eviction of certain classes may find themselves establishing dangerous precedents which future legislators may not confine to mere workers.

TEEMING WITH FISH.

County Waterford harbours are at present teeming with fish—sprat and mackerel—and reports from the river Blackwater tell of a similar state of things. Shoals of mackerel chasing the small fish shorewards and up the river turn the calm surface into a seething cauldron. Only a few fishermen, however, are going after them for there is little or no market. The mackerel are on the small side, but the sprats are said to be of good quality though somewhat mixed. In former years the mackerel were taken in large numbers and salted and cured, but unfortunately that is a thing of the past. One Co. Waterford boat came into Youghal laden with sprats, but the crew found it impossible to dispose of them to any extent.
