FARMERS DEMAND A REDUCTION.

£5,000 CONCEDED.

At the meeting of the Co. Council, on Tuesday, Mr. John Kiersey, T.D., Chairman, presiding. A deputation of farmers attended to request the Council to strike a rate this year in accordance with the capacity of the ratepayers. Amongst the ratepayers present were Messrs. John Flavin, Clashmore, N. Wall, Kilnagrange, R. Shanahan, Ashtown, T. G. Flahavan, Kilmacthomas, J. J. Drohan, Scrahan, M. Cheasty, Ballybrack, B. Power, J. Walsh, etc. 12

Walsh, etc., etc.
The deputation having been intro duced by Mr. C. J. Curran, Mr. N. Wall, who acted as spokesman said, as they were aware they came there in connection with the rate for the financial year 1932/33. They understood that a provisional estimate was prepared in connection with the coming year and that it was on the basis of the estimate for the year closing on the 31st March, 1932. It seems to us incredible that any reasonable body of men in full touch with the farming community would acquiesce in an increase of rates in view of the terrible depression of the agricultural industry. This year is infinitely worse than last year. That is the position all round. In the early part of last year the Government, the members of which are not in as close touch with the farmers as you are introduced a partial de-rating scheme. At that time few people considered partial de-rat-ing adequate. Nevertheless, it was re-lief anyhow. Your action now in increasing the rate for the coming year is tantamount to telling the Govern-ment that they gave relief which was not justified. It neutralises that relief or at least modifies it. Under the cir cumstances the farmers have stood up to their liabilities and they deserve credit. Our idea is that if these excessive burdens are continued on the Agricultural community, there will be a collapse in the near future. The people are over-taxed and are not able to pay and if the collapse occurred the position would not be rectified in their life. time. He appealed to the Council to reconsider their estimate with a view to its being substantially reduced and if for any reason the information or ad vice at their disposal was insufficient they would be justified in getting ex pert advice from outside and paying for it if necessary. He did not think there was any necessity to exaggerate the position. They were all in touch with the farming industry and they appreciated the position as much as he did. It was very difficult to be could be reduced. Mr. McGrath-Would you suggest the scrapping of any of the schemes. Mr. O'Ryan-We have been looking for a reduction in salaries for 6 or 7 years and we did not get them tinued depression. Farmers were working 16 hours a day to try and meet their liabilities and in many cases they are unable to do so. The sooner the members of public bodies get away from the idea that the country is well off, the better for everyone.

This is not an organised deputation, men have come here quite spontaneously and it was not for them to

Mr. Wall-The members of the deputation would not have the information to criticise or advise, and if the Council are unable to do a reasonable thing, we ask them to get expert advice and do the best they can. The Chairman—The estimate for roads last year was £44,275 and the coming year £47,846. The County services this year showed a decrease of £586. Home Assistance last year was £38,027 and in the coming year was £43,842. An increase of £5,826. In the public services, the increase was £194, so they saw the whole increase in the rates was due to Home Assistance and the hospitals. On the Board of Assistance they had done all they could and they had to keep the hospitals going. They could not leave people die on the roadside. They had to give Home Assistance where necessary. may be exceptions, but in the majority of cases it was only widows and aged people who were in receipt of Assistance. The Co. Council or any of the Committees were not wasting or squandering on the public services. Mr. O'Gorman—We are not very liberal in passing money here. They were just as tight about the money as any other county in Ireland. If they put all the roads in repair, the people were asking for, they should raise the rates. The estimates struck this year will only fairly bring us through. To reduce the rates would be false economy and the estimate struck should be adhered to to give the people satisfaction and get the bye-roads in fair

Mr. Heskin-Can we upset the estimate to-day

The County Rates what they require. At the special meeting in January, you dealt with the roads and now you can only touch the coming year be reduced by £5,000. Mr. Butler, seconded, and said it would give some relief to the farmers Property of the coming year be reduced by £5,000. Property of the coming year be reduced by £5,000. The coming year by £ the county services.
Mr. O'Ryan—Two years ago or more

I brought forward a notice to the effect that the land annuities be retained and used for derating land (h.h). If that was backed up by the country at the time the ratepayers would be relieved and there would be no rates to pay. The land annuities will now be held and they will de-rate the land. According to the statement of Lord Bledisloe, the bottom will fall out of the English markets and the Irish farmers will be knocked out of existence Now that the Government was changed, they would hold the annuities, and derate land.

Mr. Cunningham—I cannot see my way to support Mr. Curran's resolution as it would upset the work of the

Mr. C. J. Curran's motion was:-"That any resolution adopted at the Co. Council or Finance meeting, agreeing to a Provisional Estimate for the various services in the county be rescinded, and that an estimate be submitted reduced to within the capacity of the Agricultural ratepayers to pay for the coming year."

The foregoing motion was signed by Messrs. C. J. Curran, G. J. Greene, J O'Donnell, D. Heskin, J. J. Roche.

Mr. Curran-I was asked by very representative men to put in a motion to reduce the rates as at the time I understood the increase would be 10d. in the £. and not 5d. as it stands. The Governments of the world have been asking to economise. The farmers could not pay the rates. If they were compelled to pay an increased rate it would not be collected. It was time they tried to forget the war and the last 17 years. Let them begin with wages and salaries etc., as in 1913 Why were the farmers who were the worst paid men of all to be reduced? They were working 16 hours a day and could not pay their way. They should reduce the estimate by £5,000 even if they had to get a temporary loan for the year. This was a very bad Wages were lower in every year. country in the world than in England and Ireland

Answering Mr. Curran, the Secretary said this year they paid no bank interest as they were able to work with out an overdraft. The only difference between the rate this year and the past year was an increase of 2d., 4d., and 5d., in different areas.

Mr. Wall-We were not aware there would be the same rate this year as last year in view of the prevailing conditions. He asked the Council to make the rate such as the people could bear in reason and bring it within the cap-acity of the people to pay. Last year the rate was excessive in the circumstances and this year it is doubly excessive as the circumstances were all against the farmers. He instanced cases where farmers had to sell their cattle at a sacrifice to pay their bills. Mr. O'Ryan said in 1913 their National Bill was only £10,000,000 and last year it was £25,000,000. Mr. Wall-The Local and National services have been excessive particularise as to the services to be Mr. O'Ryan-Yes, especially for the reduced, but he held that 95 per cent. last 10 years of the National and local services Mr. Cheasty-I propose we come down to the 1914 rate. We cannot pay

Mr. Flavin-In North Tipperary where the rates were already reduced, the farmers went before the Council for another reduction and why not they in Co. Waterford do the same. Mr. Butler-I have the greatest sympathy with the farmers. It is very hard on them to pay their way. This rate is an increase on that of last year. In Tramore it is up by 1/- because the people of Tramore demand extra service and they must pay for it. In Clonmel-the rate is down 9d. All round it is up abut 5d. Mr. Curran had mentioned £5,000. That would reduce the rate to what it was last year. If that was proposed, he would support it, even though it had nothing to do with the Urban Council and the Co Council demand in Dungarvan was 1/5 in the £. more than last year. The people living in the town are as badly hit as the people living in the country.

Mr. O'Ryan ,proposed that the Land Annuities be retained and that relief come at once to the ratepayers by total de-rating.

Chairman-You are going away from the question.

Mr. O'Ryan-It is a most important Mr. O'Gorman said if there was an increase it was due to the people themselves. At the Board of Health they had areas coming in for water and sewerage schemes and if they don's get them, they say we are tyrannical. At this stage Mr. C. J. Curran, mov ed his motion, but the Chairman point ed out that the motion required six signatures and as it had only five it was out of order. Mr. Curran-Regardless of that, this meeting is called to deal with the estimate for the coming year. You have £5,000 in the credit balance and by trying to economise in every pub-Secretary—You must give the Board lic service you could get along with-of Health and the Board of Assistance out it. I propose that the estimate for this year. It did not affect the Urban Area. The reduction of the estimate by £5,000 would not interfere with the services as it was a sum set aside as the basis of a credit balance. Mr. O'Gorman-You may as well adopt the estimate as go borrowing in P or 10 months.

Mr. O'Ryan- You will have de-rating then Mr. O'Gorman--Will the estimate less £5,000 carry us through Chairman-It will. Mr. Walsh—What is your overdraft?

Secretary—At the moment we have none, but we have £5,000 to credit. If they had not a credit balance they should have an overdraft. Mr. Butler—How much interest did we pay to the bank in the past year?

Secretary—Nothing. Mr. Butler—Why then should you pay it next year?

Chairman-Prior to the creation of the credit balance we were paying £1,500 a year interest to the bank.

Mr. Wall-Would it be feasible in the extraordinary circumstances prevailing to borrow money from the bank to relieve the rates. I think the position is as serious as that. If that were feasible and the Government agreed, it would give the farmers breathing time.

The resolution to reduce the estimate by £5,000 was then carried. Mr. O'Ryan, proposed they call on the Government to withhold the Annuities and give immediate relief to the ratepayers by complete de-rating The Chairman refused to accept the proposition .

Mr. Stack—Sure you have De Valera in power new. He will give it to you

A Shelter on the (EDITOR "THE DUNGARVAN OBSERVER.") Youghal, 23rd Feb., 1932. Sir,-In the "Observer" (See 6th June, 1931). I made out an unanswerable case for a shelter on the end of the Ferry-point. I was surprised to find how flat my 'case " felt. No letters appeared in the "Observer" endorsing it, whilst our City Fathers appeared quite unmoved.

I now see the reason. Of late years I have not been to the Ferry-point; but some weeks ago, 1 beached by yacht there, and so have recently paid several visits to the salubrious spot. On one of these occasions, a bitter sleeting day, I sought shelter at Hydes house, and found the tea-room there already full of a motley crowd of perished fishermen, farmers and tramps. Not only did Mrs. Hyde allow us to enter, but she made the women who were taking shelter, come in to her own fire. It is not right such kindliness and consideration should be abused-yet apparently this is happening, for there can be little doubt, but that only for such kindness, there would be such a public outcry for a shelter, the Urban Council would be forced to act. Even if the tea-room was barred, it is not fair to the Hydes, or the public, they should be driven in inclement weather to get what shelter they can by "hanging round" the corners of the (Perhaps I should mention the tearoom is open as such only during the summer months, so it was not Mrs. Hyde's advantage to admit the crowd I saw there on the contrary, lounging about with our muddy boots, we were doing the place no good).-Yours truly,

L. RONAYNE.

Fianna Fail.

(The Editor, "Dungarvan Observer.") Dungarvan, 24 th Feb., 1932. A Chara,-Kindly allow us space to give expression to our sincere appreciation of the work done on behalf of Fianna Fail during the recent strenuous election.

The Cumann na nGaedheal organisation had at its disposal ample funds with which to forward its propaganda and to provide the enormous transport in use on Polling Day. Fianna Fail on the other hand, with but little money, had to depend as always on throughout the county, these "pro-tagonists of lost causes" as they are sometimes sneeringly styled, came forward willingly, and did without fee or reward the work that resulted so well on Polling Day, and on behalf of the Fianna Fail Organisation, and, on our own behalf, as Candidates, we beg to return our sincere thanks to the workers, to those who lent cars and finally to the voters who responded so well to our appeals.

Signed, SEAN GOULDING, P. J. LITTLE. MICHAEL MANSFIELD.

Progress.

BIG HOUSING SCHEMES. AND MORE TO COME.

In the past few years the general appearance of Dungarvan Town, and Abbeyside, has been changed and a stranger coming amongst us to-day would scarcely believe it was the same Boro as 10 years ago. The laying down of the streets in Tar macadam has effected a wonderful improvement converting heretofore pot-holed roads into boulevards, reflecting taste and charm. Nicely laid out footpaths, neat kerbs, good scavenging and a general tightening up of the Urban machine have tended to make the town attractive to all comers and show them the Urban Authority are very much alive to modern progress. In the matter of Housing the greatest progress has been made. The want of good houses at a reasonable rent has been the crying need of the past. The eleaning out of slums and their substitution by clean, neat, well-ventliated houses has agitated the minds of the Ilrban Council for years past, but despite all the efforts made it was only in the last 5 years that definite progress has been made and to-day no Urban Area can hoast of having more practical work date in that direction than Dungarvan.

It is very many years since the Mitchel Street, St. Thomas' Street, and St. Bridget Street, houses were erected and a new scheme was long overdue, when in 1927 Mr. John Butler, the present able Chairman of the Urban Council, moved that a scheme of artisans dwellings be erected on the erection of houses in Shear's Street Abbeyside, and at the New Line. In all it was agreed to build 28 houses and for that purpose a 15 years loan was secured. The houses were duly completed and occupied and the tenant one and all are loud in their praises of the excellence of their homes.

MR. JOHN BUTLER. CHAIRMAN, U.D.C. Last year the Council decided to continue the good work and have just completed 19 houses-13 in Sarsfield Street, Abbeyside, and 6 in Mitchel St. The houses in Sarsfield Street are fourroomed, and those in Mitchel Street five-roomed. They are excellently finished in every way and the plan is ideal, making for every comfort, convenience and enjoyment. These new houses were built by direct labour under the Boro' Surveyor (Mr. McGrath), the money being borrowed on a 35 years loan. The rent of the five-roomed houses is 7/6 per week and for the four-roomed houses 5/8 per week. The tenants pay the rates. As the rents are based on the all in cost of the houses, there is no loss to the rates whatever. Yet while all that good work to provide for the housing of the artisans was being done, the rates have been brought down is. 9d. in the £. notwithstanding, that in the meantime a special rate of 3d. has been struck to provide meals for necessitous children. That shows how careful has been the administration of the Council's affairs and how efficiently the public business is being done by the Council and its officials. But great as has been the work done in the matter of housing, much more remains to be done to provide for the numbers in need of suitable houses Interviewed on 'the matter by our the unselfish work of the few and no special representative, Mr. Butler, money could buy the work they did Chairman, says, that a big grant could so well. In practically every parish he thinks, be secured to erect houses and have slum areas cleared away, and towards that end he proposes to ask the Urban Council to formulate a Scheme which will eventually make a new street in the town. Beginning in the centre of Fair Lane, he proposes to clear out the area to St. Thomas' Street, and then via Scrammins Lane to clear right across to Western Terrace ,and have a complete street of new houses from Fair Lane to St. Thomas' Street, and from thence to Western Terrace. That would allow for Scrammins Lane and St. Patrick Street to be two main thorough test is fares and would certainly be a huge pocket.

TRIBUTE TO LATE MR. WM MORRISSEY.

(BY AN OLD TIMER). Death has been busy recently amongst us and has, with tragic suddeness, removed from our midst, one of the most striking personalities in the district, in the person of Mr. Wm.

Morrissey, Pike, Dungarvan. It can be safely asserted that the name Willie Morrissey has been heard of and respected throughout the length and breadth of Ireland. Such was his charm of manner, that all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance idolised him. He possessed the keenest powers of observation which he used to the best advantage in his daily intercourse with people. Everything interested him, and his special delight was to master detail, no matter how difficult. He had an almost uncanny power of intuition in mastering his subject. His knowledge was sound, varied and interesting and it was amusing to hear him upset the views of men not so well informed, but more assertive than himself. He was able to convince himself to his company. Children would get out of bed at night to sit on his knee and converse with him. He was never happier than when con addition to the amenities of the town It is certainly an ambitious scheme, and in its carrying out, Mr. Butler will have the whole-hearted support of the Council and the citizens. It would mean the abolition of very many houses unfit for human habitation and their replacement by say three-roomed houses with every modern convenience. We wish Mr. Butler, good speed in his good work and hope he wont rest content until Boreenatra area is wiped out its denzins provided for in new houses elsewhere and the place converted into a neatly laid out Park, as an adjunct to the present Park.

An enormous amount of solid work has been done and at the same time, the rates have been reduced which shows that careful administration is really what we require and the acid test is the effect on John Citizen's versing in Irish with the workmen or in discussing place names and words with a Gaelic Scholar. He was equally at home when conversing with all classes of men. An authority on mechanical construction from early youth, his drawings when a boy at St. Augustine's Seminary, here, were may terpieces for which he won the certificates of the South Kensington authorities. Amongst his fellow-students at St. Augustine's Seminary, were Most Rev. Dr. Hackett; Mr. Joe Hackett, the late Dr. Hackett; Mr. J. F. Williams, Solicitor; Dr. E. E. Williams; Dr. John Williams, and a host of others whose friendship and a host of others. whose friendship he retained to the

He had pronounced political views and was in the thick of the fight in the days of the Land War. He was "shadowed" wherever he went by a policeman. Once when tightly pressed he dodged his "shadower" by slipping under a waggon of wild animals which was part of a travelling circus that was on the Square, Dungarvan, and while there had the pleasure of hearing the unfortunate policeman being rated by his officer for allowing his quarry to get away. When all was quite he left his hiding place. At that period he was associated with the late Monsignor Power and a close friendship was formed which death only severed. To the end he was a Republican. No project in the district was carried out until Mr. Morrissey was first consulted. He felt the greatest pleasure in being of service to anyon. who needed him.

With his friend, the late R. E Brennan, Mr. Morrissey was one of the first cyclists in these parts. When some Yankees came to tour Ireland with safety bicycles they were met on the road by Mr. Brennan, and Mr. Mcr. rissey on their high bicycles and escorted them into town. The contrast was striking. A recognised authority on a cycle, the Rudge Whitworth Co. asked Mr. Morrissey to take charge of their Dublin depot, through which passed their Irish trade. He declined the offer though it was kept open for him for 6 months. On one occasion when the late Dr. Holland had a difficult operation to perform which defeated Dublin surgeons, Mr. Morrissey constructed a special instrument which enabled the operator to success. Nothing in the mechanical line came amiss to him. Once a machine put on the market was a failure when tried, but Mr. Morrissey, having suggested a slight alteration it worked perfectly He had travelled widely and knew most of the countries of Europe and the U.S.A. intimately. A raconteur of merit, his accounts of his travels were most interesting. He was an authority on the Fiords of Norway and saw Mount Hecla in eruption, of which he used t ospeak with gusto. The soul of humility and gentleness, he was ever doing a good turn and his friends were legion. He is gone and the county is the poorer by his loss. He lies amongs his forefathers in the ancient graveya: I of Kilgobinet and with the mother ! adored. The Justice said that Mr. Rice, for the defence raised a subtle point, but there was nothing in it. The comptainant had taken a sample of milk from defendant, who had it distributed in vessels ready for customers, she being a retailer and having procured the milk from other sources. It was not proved that the milk was as it had come from the cow. The sample was 15.3 per cent. deficient in solids other than milk fat. It was argued for the defence that there might have been moisture in some of the customers vessels and that was all the milk was put back into the original gallon for the purpose of taking the sample, it was not a fair method. Mr. Rice said that the milk was not for sale, but he held that it was. That wasn't the type of case specially provided for in the Act in regard to the delivery of goods. It was peculiar that the milk-fat was very good being 5.6. The defendant wasn't very much to blame as the milk was bought indirectly from a person with whom she had trouble before. The offence was only nominal, and he would fine her in the nominal sum of 1/- He would like to repeat that, in cases of that kind, it might be advisable sometimes for the Co. Council who were responsible for those prosecutions ,to employ a solicitor, as certain legal points might arise for argument. They had the power under the Act to take that course and it might well be in the interest of all concerned that they should make use of it on occasions.

THE ELECTIONS.

Now that the Elections are over and donewith, or very nearly so, perhaps, we can say to ourselves "revenons nous a nos moutns," a free translation of which has been suggested as "Let us get back to the milk in the cocoanut.' Having duly returned the men of their choice, the people at large are at liberty for the time being to return to their ordinary everyday routine of looking after their bread and butterand jam, if they can manage it. It is now up to the new Government, be it what it may, to make the best possible use of the tremendous responsibility and power placed on their hands There's a trite couplet "Popish," if not Pontifical—having been indited by Alexander Pope-and there may be more in it than would appear at first sight,

For forms of Government, let fools contest. That which is best administered is best.' Just at the moment things are not looking too bright for the Free State any more than for any other nation or country on the face of the civilised globe. Let us hope that our new rulers we may take it that they mean well will not land us in any Fools Paradise, but will do their level best to realise as many as possible of the promises they made when seeking election

For the first time in its history, as far as we know, the town of Youghal has the coveted distinction of having one of its own citizens a member of the National Parliament—the Dail, in the person of Mr. William Broderick, The application was ultimately gran- U.D.C., Chairman of the Cork County Council. Council in the country, that of Cork. Our new T.D., has had Mr. Lynch proposed its adoption.

Mr. O'Gorman said they had no both Urban and County administration, and in his discharge of both, he has won the well-deserved approval and admiration of all who have had dealings, public or private, with him For years he has sacrificed his own private business in attending to his public duties, and in recognition of position and the Clerk was directed to this, he was returned first on the list to the old. With all our hearts we con write to Cobh for some information of successful candidates in the Dail gratulate them. Election for East Cork. The news of his return was received here with widespread and genuine rejoicing, the event being celebrated on the night of the event, with blazing tar barrels all over the town. It may be safely conjectured that not a few even amongst those, opposed to him in politics gave him a "No.1." on the day of the poll.

> FISHING. The salmon fishing season which opened so badly on Feb., 1st continued so for the first three weeks, only an occasional odd fish or two being taken by an occasional one of the local boats. To make matters worse, the price was so small that even the poor men who were lucky enough to catch a fish got very little for their labours. It would have been bad enough in fine weather, but who has not had reason to know the bitterness of the cold east wind that has prevailed since the start. It was tough enough on those sheltered on shore, what then must it have been for the poor men plying their fruitless avocation out on the waters of the harbour and bay? Discontented with the very low prices obtaining, and protesting that higher figures were obtained in places around, the men struck on the day of the Poll. However, thanks to the timely and effectual intervention of a well-known local business man an arrangement was come to between the men and the buyers on the same night, and the boats resumed operations without delay. T.G., an improvement in the fishing set in on Monday, notwithstanding the continued prevalence of the unfavourable easterly wind, and several boats made satisfactory captures on that day. Reports from the adjoining costal fishing centres-Knockadoon, Ardmore, Ballycotton, Helvick, state that very good captures have been made in those places, a few boats making record captures.

CHILDREN AND THE CINEMA It is really high time that something tangible and stern should be done as regards the attendance of children and young persons at pictures shows Some of the films, even though 'passed by the Censor," are "tough" enough for seasoned adults in certain features —apart from the frequently implicated apotheosis of murder, robbery, and other questionable products of modern civilization. Goodness knows the effect on the young mind is bad enough without keeping youngsters out of their homes till late at night, even on days when there are matinees How those children can attend to their home lessons and get up in time the following morning to go to school is enough to puzzle the wisest amongst us. If the great powers that be don't see to it, then those on the spot ought take the matter in hands.

MUNSTER CONVENTION.

THE CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS.

In reviewing the games played dur-ing the past year, Mr. McCarthy, B.A., Chairman, who presided over the Munster Convention at Limerick,

To-day, as for the past decade, hurling here in the South stands out as the greatest attraction in field sports. No doubt it is the most distinctive of national pastimes ,unique in style, enthralling in its daring and skill. It is a proud heritage. But Gaelic football, not so ancient perhaps, yet equally the product of Irish physique and initiative, when scientifically played, is al-most as spectacular and in some areas can interest and muster bigger crowds. It is our bounden duty to use every effort to develop it to a higher level in all the counties of this pro-vince—it once flourished in many of them-so that Kerry may not domi nate the position, for the more they are pressed here the higher will be the all-round standard in consequence. Judging from present conditions this achievement will take time, but we will get nowhere by being faint-heart ed. Team-building of high merit is a tedious and difficult task, but where there is the will there generally can be found the way. Confidence is the first essential. Proper attention to minor and junior teams, organisation and practice will do the rest. Matches by county selections against the best individual teams from Kerry and Kildare, as suits convenience, seems to me the most effective line of action. At any rate it is obvious that the other counties must bestir themselves more keenly if football in Munster is not to be swamped by the all-conquering might of the indomitable men from the Kingdom

To the men of Kerry, however, all honour is due. They have annexed the three Munster Championships in foot ball after a great tussle with Cork in the Junior grade. They have upheld the prestige of this province against all opposition at home and beyond the seas. We all watched for and gloried in their successes. In future times they can look back with just pride on their splendid records, ever cementing new friendships and adding fresh laurels

Cork, too has added to our crown of victory. The cheer of mighty throngs is even yet ringing in our ears. What glorious games with Kilkenny. What a spectacle Croke Park is on such occasions, so excited, but so dignified and orderly. Can any man doubt as to where he stands, or belie there the deep-rooted sentiments of the race, or the patriotic fervour of the people. "I always thought," stated Dr. Douglas Hyde, "that one of the influences that actuated Michael Cusack was the feeling that when he was promoting Irish games, he was promoting the spirit of Irish nationality." While referring to Cork and Kilkenny let me quote a few lines from Father J. B Dollard, regarding a match played by these counties in Dungarvan on 21st June, 1908. "I had not visited Ireland for fourteen years before that day, and the swiftness and science of Ireland's national games enthralled and astonished me. And there was no roughness or foul play. It was a battle of giants, and clean and clever striking was the rule. I would like to see and speak to all the boys of that Cork and Kilkenny team that had enthralled us that June day by their unsurpassable exhibition." We can apply his prayer then not only to the great players of the past but also to the men of to-day— "May God bless them all wherever they are." But in the glamour of those three great games for the All-Ireland final let us not forget to recall the suberb trials for the provincial championships. Limerick showed promise again in their test with Tipperary. Clare were sterling opponents for Cork, who won in the closing stages of a splendid contest, and Waterford added to their name by their fine achievement in running the magnificent Cork team to a replay in the Munster final at Clonmel. It was a year that brought out the very best features of the hurling Waterford won the junior hurling championship, and worthily crowned their efforts by bringing back to the banks of the Suir the gold medals for the All-Ireland final. Every Gael in Munster is glad of their progress and proud of their success. In minor hurling Tipperary are to be congratulated on winning the provincial honours. Taken all round, it was a year of big victories for Munster, and a season of great credit for the best of all for Ireland's future is the players. Not a solitary player came under notice of a referee in all the strenuous clashes. Cork have now won nineteen senior Munster hurling championships, Tipperary 16, Limerick 6, the rest being and with his words I will conclude: shared about equally by Clare, Waterford, and Kerry.

In football Kerry have been success ful in 21 provincial championships Cork come next with 11, Tipperary 9, while Limerick. Clare and Waterford have a smaller number of successes. The counties that are low in the lists of senior winners have had encouraging triumphs in the junior and minor ranks, but the G.A.A. stands for higher and more enduring ideals than the winning of important competitions The counties of Munster have ever been in the forefront of the fighting line for Ireland's games and distinctive nationality. They have often been beaten, but conquered—never.

Let us now offer some words of criticism in the hope that my words may find a ready response. It is deplorable the providing of a county sanatorium.

The effect of the deepening of the water due to washing away of the foreshore is that the foundations are apt to be undermined, and the force of the waves is increased enormously Toes of concrete have been put down from time to time to protect the foundation, but these in turn are found not to be deep enough. Now a good deal of work of that nature would be

The waves now come over the top of the outer wall and tear up the roadway between the walls. This wave action would be impossible to prevent but a new wall of different design would reduce it considerably. Concreting the surface of the road would protect it from serious injury. The waves also attack the inner wall, which is mostly in a shakey condition and several breaches have been made in it. It would be difficult to prevent this without an entirely new wall. The culvert and other works near it need some repair.

Owing to the fact that the walls are composed of a series of patches, some of them being of very poor or old work, it is quite impossible to foretell that any part will withstand the sea for any definite time. Any work done here, failinga very heavy and expensive job, will be in constant danger of being undermined by the sea in the course of a few storms. The cost of works now necessary, inin the absence of very bad storms—or rather storms from the south or southwest coinciding with high water of spring tides—may carry on for several years. At the west end the wall is now was in charge of the Engineering of the bridge.

The cost of making a new road fur-ther inland would be £830, assuming that the land could be secured at a fair price. This road would have the advantage of being away from the attacks of the sea for a very long time.

The old road will be a source of continuous and increasing expense, as it will become continuously more exposed, and the water will be deeper.

You have also requested my opinion as to whether an order under the Har-Kenna's premises for a length of 60 bours Act of 1814 should be obtained. vards. The cost would be about £20. Owing to theformation of the adjoining coast line, and of the bottom of the sea opposite the wall, I believe that there would be no appreciable advantage to be gained from such an or-der. The removal of the material from the foreshore, provided that excavations are not made close to the wall, will have little effect on the stability of the Council's works. I do not recommend that an order be sought.

In connection with the matter a deputation came before the Council, of which Mr. P. Fitzgerald, Listigue, acted as spokesman.

Mr. Halloran-I have nothing to add to what I said the last day on this matter. The livelihood of the people of the district depends on that road to draw sand and seaweel, and if anything happens the road their means of living is gone

Mr. Fitzegerald said the road was very necessary. It was a tillage district and the people were depending on the road. Without this road they could not get to the strand. There were a lot of small holdings round with high valuations. Unless this road is preserved they cannot get sand or seaweed .

Mr. Keane said he would ask the Council to do a temporary job to the road. The ratepeyers were heavily taxed already and if it could be done fairly well it would do. The breach was not too wide and if the road were road to get sand and seaweed.

Chairman-If the breach were repaired so that people could travel over it, would not it be an improvement? Mr. Bowen-It is all a matter of Mr. O'Ryan said that class of work should be a National charge.

Mr. Halloran stid that a considerable number of farmers and labourers depended for their livelihood on that road. People from Clashmore, Piltown, Grange, and the Old washed away road at Whiting Bay and | Parish, come there for gravel and use the road. The people wanted this road Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen,-In and if their means of living was gone accordance with your directions, I they were gone too. A small sum have carefully considered the position would, if expended on it, keep it going

Mr. Fitzgerald-The Co. Surveyor is always up against this, and the breach

Chairman-At a small expense this breach could be repaired in such a way as to last a good while

Mr. O'Gorman-What would it cost to keep it in repair for a few years? Mr. Bowen-About £70 or£80.

In reply to Mr. O'Ryan, Mr. Bowen said the wall was built for centuries. Mr. O'Ryan said it was very unfair that other parts of the county should have to pay for coast erosion at Ard-That should be a National

Mr. Halloran said to do a substan tial job £100 would not be wasted and you would have something solid done. Mr. Walsh-Leave it in the hands of Mr. Bowen

Eventually, Mr. O'Gorman, proposed, and Mr. Halloran, seconded, that ed by Mr. Harty, the sum of £50 was £100 be expended on repairing the allocated to the Dungaryan Show to breach.

This was approved of Travelling Expenses. In connection with the travelling expenses of the Co. Surveyor, and Assistant Surveyors, the Secretary said last year the rate was 6d. per mile.

Mr. Halloran-Petrol has gone up. It was agreed to again pay a rate of 6d. per mile together with the Co. Surveyor's road tax. Mr. Butler, dissented.

Youghal Bridge.

In regard to the necessity of new cluding a certain amount of toe at the Dolphins for Youghal Bridge, Mr base of the outer wall, repairs of breaches, concreting roadway, repairs to culvert and other minor works, I estimate at £1,037. This would cover the first would cover the first work of the first work of the first work of the first work of the first way. The cost would be £2,000; £1,000 payable by Co. Waterford and £1,000 by Co. Cork. He (Mr. Bowen) was in charge of the Engineering of the E which needed attention. Mr. Bowen-We intend to do something with it, but the place must be scavenged regularly as it is very level

Road Contracts. In connection with road contracts taken at the recent meetings of the Roads Committee, Mr. Bowen said the Council should exercise every supervision on the question of sureties. It was impossible for him to say if people were solvent or not and it was not desirable that one or two sureties should act for a dozen contractors.

On the recommendation of the Co. Surveyor, the Council approved spending £400 on a wall at Annestown to protect the road. He said there was considerable danger there at he mo-

MONUMENT WHERE SAINT PATRICK LANDED

With the warmest approval and en-couragement of Most Rev. Dr. Mageean, Bishop of Down and Connor, the St. Patrick's Fifteenth Centenary Memorial Committee, propose build-Mr. R. Sweeney, Tramore, applied for permission to make an opening in the railings at the Promenade. Tramore and to get sand and seawood to get sand a wall recently erected. According to at that historic spot. The project the Engineer's report the work was which is estimated to cost £50,000 was publicly launched when journilists from all parts of Ireland, and many from England and Scotland, were guests of the Executive Committee of the memorial at a luncheon in the Royal Avenue Hotel, Belfast, and were afterwards driven to Slievegullia, where the monument is to be raised.

Even apart from its hallowed associations, the site is ideal. Situated four hundred feet above sea level, it commands a view of the Irish Sea on the east side, the Mourne Mountains with memories of Slieve Donnard on the south, and Strangford Lough and far-away Slemish in the adjoining county of Antrim, where the Saint worked as a slave in his youth in the north. Two hundred feet below is the road like a huge weal raised by a whip on the side of the mountain, and higher up a high altar, at which holy Mass can be celebrated in the presence of a great open-air congregation, is to be erected. Above this will be an impressive statute of St. Patrick, visible for miles by land and sea. Within a mile of the site is the estuary of Slaney river, where it mingles with the waters of Strangford Lough, the spot where St. Patrick first landed and planted the Cross on the fields of Ulster. And on the adjoining hill, nearer Downpatrick, is the spot where the Saint built his first church, and made his first convert in the person of Dichu, the chieftain. On another hill, a little to the east, is reconstructed the Church of Roholp (Rath Colpdi) founded, according to tradition, by the National Apostie as the Episcopal See of St. Tassach, his fellow disciple and ecclesticial metal worker, and who administered to him when he was dying. At Saul the Saint also died, and his remains were removed for interment to Downpartick, two miles away, where tradition says Saints Brigid and Columcilie are buried in the same

"In Down, one grave three saints do

Patrick, Brigid and Columcille." Thus the memorial, besides marking the spot as the cradle of the faith in the land, may well serve as the radiating centre for pilgrimages in this storied district. The memory of no saint is so precious to the Irish people as St. Patrick; he is the spiritual chief of the sea divided Gael, and the erection of the memorial at the place of his first landing in the country is of deep interest to all Irishmen.

NEW CATTLE DISEASE MYSTERY.

It was stated that four members of the Committee viz., Messrs. M. F. in Herefordshire 500 cattle, including Walsh, D. Heskin, L. Hallahan, and many valuable pedigree animals, have recently died

This revelation was made on Saturday by Ald. Cooke, Chairman of the Diseases of Animals Committee, at a meeting of Herefordshire Co. Council. The trouble, he said, appeared to attack the cattle immediately after calving, when they were striken with a kind of paralysis and died in a very short time.

Dungarvan Cow-Testing Association.

The Annual General Meeting of the above was held in the Courthouse, Dungarvan. The following were present:—Messrs. Daniel Dempsey, (President); Rev. Bro. Gibson, Michael Fitzgerald, Patrick Morrissey, John Hickey, James Murphy, and T. Smyth, (Supervisor).

The minutes of the previous meet-ing having been read, and signed, it was proposed by Mr. Morrissey, se-conded by Mr. Fitzgerald, and passed unanimounsly that Mr. Daniel Demp-sey, be re-elected as President for 1932. The following members of the Association were elected as members of the Association's Committee. Rev. Bro. Gibson, M. Fitzegrald, P. Hickey, J. Hennessy, Patk. Flynn, T.

Phelan, and Jas. Power.

On the motion of Mr. Dempsey, seconded by Mr. Morrissey, Mr. T. Smyth, was unanimously appointed as Supervisor for 12 months.

It was decided to collect the Entry Frees at the rate of 2/- per cow for the year 1932, in two instalments of 1/each, the first instalment immediately on entry and the second instalment not

It was proposed by Mr. Dempsey, and seconded by Rev. Bro. Gibson, and passed unanimously "That the Secretary be directed to convey to Mr. D. J. O'Sullivan, Cow-Testing Instructor, the sincere approach of the sincere approach." tor, the sincere sympathy of the Association on the death of his mother."

The Supervisor submitted his Annual Report as follows:— During the year 1931, 183 cows have been under test in your Association, and of this number, complete records are available for 150. The average yield per cow was 6,242 lbs. of milk and 237.23 lbs. of Butter-fat, with an average Butter-fat Test of 3.82 per cent. an increase of 153 lbs. of milk and 10.49 lbs. of Butter-fat per cow over the 1930 season. Calculating Butterfat at 1/- per lb., and seperated milk at

1d. per gallon, the average earning capacity of each cow was £13 18s. 9d. The average yield for the ten best cows in the Association was 10.526 lbs. of milk and 403.42 lbs. of Butterfat, with an average Butter-fat test of

3.84 per cent. The ten worst cows averaged 2.761 lbs. of milk, 100.20 lbs. of Butter-fat, with an average Butter-fat test of 3.67 per cent.

At the figures given above for Butter-fat and seperated milk, the average earning capacity of the ten best cows was £23 13s. 6d., while the ten worst averaged £5 18s. 6d. A difference of £17 15s. 0d., between the earhings of the good and bad cow. From the average Butter-fat tests given, it can be seen that the poor milker was deficient both in the quality as well as the quantity of milk given. Taking a summary of all cows on test during the year—73 cows gave less than 6,000 lbs. of milk; 34 cows gave between 6,000 and 7,000 lbs., 19 be tween 7,000 and 8,000 lbs.; 5 between 8,000 and 9,000 lbs., 8 between 9,000 and 10,000 lbs., and 11 went over the 10,000 mark.

The best cow in the Association for the year was the 8-year-old Registered Dairy Shorthorn Cow "Power II" the property of Mr. Michael Ryan, The Buttery, Dungarvan. This cow yielded 10,850 lbs. of milk and 434.00 lbs of Butter-fat, with an average Butterfat test of 4.0 per cent., 4 other cown in Mr. Ryan's herd also yielded over 10,000 lbs., while a number of other cows in the same herd, who have not yet completed their lactation periods have already passed over 10,000 lbs.

The Christian Brothers herd held the highest average yield in the Association being 9,740 lbs. of milk, with 386.77 lbs. of Butter-fat per cow. The best heifer in the Association is "Rosey" the property of Mr. Thomas Phelan, Ballyneety, on her first milk ing, this heifer yielded 9,751 lbs. of milk and 339.33 lbs. of Butter-fat, with an everage Butter-fat test of 3.48 per 13 cows were submitted for inspection in 1931, and of these 10 were accepted and placed on the Department's Registar of Dairy Cattle. 863 samples of milk were taken and tested during the year and 24 calves were tartooed.

While afair number of cows have been sold as unprofitable, it is feared that some members are not carrying out the objects of the scheme in so far as the disposing of the poor milker is concerned. The standard of their herds can never be raised while these unprofitable cows are retained.

Taking it on the whole—the Association has had a satisfactory year's working, and, notwithstanding a decline in the number of cows on test, is in & sound condition.

In conclusion, I would wish to thank the President, and members for the co-operation and courtesy extended tome in the course of my duties.

The Supervisor's Report was unanimously approved of.

The Dail meets on March 9th. With the Fianna Fail. Party in power, we hope to have heard the last of the abolution of our County and Urban Councils and that they will be left function for the good of the people. We also hope the new Government will repeal the combined purchasing act by which not a farthing can be spent in the Counties where the money is raised, but all must be bought in Dublin. Even a saucepan for the Co. Home must come from Dublin. We also hope the parcels tax, 2d. postage increased telegram rates, and all the other charges on business will be wiped out.

If the country is to progress people must get a chance and all the small iritating revenue charges and taxes should be abolished and those who mean to work allowed to work freely

RUGBY VICTORIES.

At Dungarvan on Saturday St. Augustine's Seminary defeated Newtown School, Waterford, by a goal and 5 tries to nil in a Rugby contest and on Sunday at Cappoquin, the same hefty students defeated Cappoquin Juniors by a penalty goal and a try to nil. St. Augustine's are a really good welltrained combination and are going

A man giving the name of B. Leary, photographer, was, we understand, arrested at Dundee (Scotland), for the alleged obtaining of about £22 from residents of Dungarvan. He will be brought back here at an early date.

RAILWAY STAFF'S PROTECTION ASSOCIATION

A meeting of the local railway staff, attended by 3 delegates from Waterford, was held at Dungarvan station, on Saturday. Mr. Hartnett, Station Master, presided and explained the object of the Association, which was to situate adjacent to the town of Capporoad transport the inevitable consequences of continued support to such road services and to convince them that it is to their best interests to help the Railways. Mr. Hartford, Waterford, detailed the amount of money paid in wages to railway men locally (£13,100) per annum all of which is spent in the town. The same point was also stressed by Messrs. P. J. Lee and Jas. Neale, of the Waterford Station. The following Committee was formed-Messrs. R. J. Hartnett (Chairman): A. Lawlor, P. Dooley P. Mc-Govern, T. Power, J. Murphy, M. Hurley, and J. Griffin (Secretary).

DEATH OF MRS. CURRAN, MONAGOUSH, OLD PARISH.

It is with feelings of deep regret that we record the death of Mrs. Curran, Monagoush, in the fullness of years. She has been called home to enjoy the eternal reward of her long years of faithful service and self-sacrifice so freely offered at the Altar of the Master, who never forgets to reward even the drop of cold water given for His sake. Happy then is the lot of such faithful servants as she has been. Her life-work was ever directed towards the greater honour and glory of God. Her kind and charitable disposition was well known to the numerous friends and relatives who surrounded her, and who mourn her loss. Her remains were removed to Old Parish Church, on Saturday 20th inst , and a fine tribute was paid to her in the long procession that followed the cortege. The burial took place on Sunday in Old Parish, in the midst of her kith and kin and there was a large concourse to partake in the last rites for all that was mortal of a good and typical Irishwoman.-R.I.P.

Some of the fittings in Mr. Foley's are half inch iron, and must be badly corroded and this accounts for the fact that he has no water in the kit.

Sympathy. Votes of sympathy was passed to the relatives of the late Mrs. Power,

In the past quarter the work done on your roads was almost entirely limited to side work, and surface re-pairs. The weather continued to be most unfavourable for the greater part, and very serious floods took place towards the end of November. On contract roads generally a fair amount of work has been done. Most contractors are recommended for payment. Several of the more important roads heretofore in contract have now been transferred to the direct labour

The work on most of the direct labour sections was practically completed last quarter. More work would have been desirable, but in view of the reduction of nearly 20% in my estimates, without any corresponding reduction in costs, it was not possible of do all that was required. Rolling, tarring, and heavy work as provided for in the estimates and under grants have been completed. Good work has been done, and the costs have been reasonable and within our estimates. The street in Ardmore has been rolled and grouted with cold emulsion of bitumen. A good deal of hedge cutting has been carried out, but we have had to obtain Court Orders in a number of cases, with costs against defaulters.

The Council's machinery is nearly all idle at present, and is being systemof the light steam tractors into a light Mr. Griffin-How it it that it is to roller for special work at a cost of about £180. Mr. McCarthy—I hope so, but I don't believe it.

A few small patching boilers, a paddle mixer, and possibly a granulator for making chippings. These would be purchased through the machinery A/c. and the money would be recouped by the daily charge levied for the actual use of each article. This does not involve any addition to your estimate.

There are a few special works, not roads to come up for your consideration. In the case of the wall at Annestown, the Council's interest arises indirectly, in as much as there is privately owned land between the main road and the sea wall, but if the wall fails, the sea would come right up to and over the main road, and it would be much more economical to deal with the existing wall than to undertake the erection of a new wall on the road-side. I would like to discuss this matter with you, and also to have the benefit of the advice of your solicitor. The Dolphins at Youghal Bridge have become very much decayed, and are now quite unfit for their purpose. The wooden portion needs immediate renewal. The work will be both troublesome and expensive, as suitable plant for handling the heavy piles is not readily available.

Mr. McCarthy drawing attention to Tenders for road contracts will come this matter, said that he had occasion up for your consideration. In a few to visit the street last Tuesday and had cases the contractors and sureties do

NEW REGULATIONS PROPOSED

INSPECTORS TO BE APPOINTED

At a meeting of the above Committee on Saturday last, Mr. Thomas Flynn ,V.C., presided. There were also present Messrs. C. J. Curran, J.

Greene, P. R. Power, and T. Harty.

Mr. White, Vety. Inspector, of the Department of Agriculture was pre sent as also Messrs. C. P. Hynes, V.S., T. R. Mulcahy, V.S.; R. P. Byrne. V.S.; J. J. Walsh, V.S.; and W. J. O'Donoghue, V.S.

In connection with the question of sheep dipping in the County, Mr. White, V.S., said the Department were In order to be a successful angler it is necessary to pay attention to the selection of your Fishing Tackle. We ford. Although the dipping had been have hundreds of Rods, Baskets, Reels, carried out in the Mountain Area in der every dipping must be done under Trout Lines, Sea Lines, Hooks, Casts and Baits of very description in stock. legal lines to go upon, as there is no ing under the supervision of the Vety. Chairman—Is not it compulsory when they must make a declaration to he Guards.

Mr. White—It is in a way. Chairman—What regulation would we make?

Mr. White-I have a draft regulation here that was made in Kerry and | tion and it was passed. other Counties. He then read the Draft proposing that all sheep in the County Waterford be required to be dipped under the Sheep Dipping Order of 1915 at such times and centres as may be perscribed under the supervision of our Inspector.

their sheep oftener than anyone else here 12 years ago and put into force. supervisors do their work.

mittee was working and is working vision.

Mr. White-The Order is not now in

Mr. Curran-Who revoked it? Mr. White-It was only in force for one year and was revoked.

Mr. Hynes V.S., suggested the appointment of Inspectors to issue the Dipping Certificates under the Vety. Inspectors. That was what Mr. White meant. He (Mr. Hynes) explained how years ago there was scab in the sheep in the Comeragh Mountains and the the mountain area be dipped under Veterinary Supervisors and that was how the mountain area dipping started. In the winter time, they found more scab than in the summer. In the Mountain areas they dip in the winter ,but in the lowland areas they did not. The Veterinary Inspector considered that they should change the Dipping periods. At present they the Dipping periods. At present they dipped in the summer and twice in the Autumn within 14 days. That was rather close and they suggested to take the second autumn dipping away and have it between the 1st Dec., and 31st January. By doing so the dipping would be much more effective. That was the considered opinion of the Veterinary Inspectors. One dipping in the summer, one in the autumn and a third dipping between 4st Dec. third dipping between 1st Dec., and 31st January would do away with sheep scab and would mean the destruction of all parasites.

The Chairman said he feared the people would not bring all their sheep to the Tank.

Mr. White—I don't think you have any power to alter the Dipping period but it might be put forward as a suggestion to the Department. It would be well to make the regulations so that they would have something to go

Mr. Curran—The dipping is carried out fairly well for some considerable

Mr. White—The Department are finding no fault with this county, but on the contrary, we are quite pleased.

Mr. Curran—The Committee have done everything they could. We have even adopted the order read many years ago

Mr. White—Yes, for one year.
Mr. Curran—Why was it revoked?
Mr. White—I cannot tell you.
Mr. Curran—I am here since the start and I never remember any revocation. Chairman—What do the Vety. Inspectors think about it.

Mr. Hynes—We thought the order was always in force. No one objected and everything was done very well. The Vety. Surgeons are in favour of adopting it. I don't think there could be any improvement in the way the Dipping is carried out. The only suggestion I have to make would be to suggest the alteration of the dates of the dipping.

Mr. Walsh, V.S., said there were too many loop-holes in the Dipping of sheep and instanced the case of men who send only half their sheep to the Tank and do not send the other half He said such defaulters should be compulsory they could not get rid of the scab. They leased a very good tank, and appointed a Mountain ran-ger. All the farmers brought their sheep there except one or two people who refused and he gave their names to the Committee. Hitherto, the people dipped their sheep in a hole and corner way, but now they were all de-lighted with the results and they were quite willing to come and dip them.

Chairman—We are getting on all right as we are.

Mr. White, V.S., said they were working illegally.

Mr. Hynes said if the Vety. Inspectors had to supervise each dipping, even by working every day in the year they would not get finished. The Department's idea is plain. Mr. White-It is hardly fair to expect the Vety. Inspectors to go round and spend a whole day while men are dipping sheep. FIANNA FAIL MEETING AT WATERFORD.

The message of peace and goodwil! was the keynote struck by all speakers at a big Fianna Fail meeting in Waterford to celebrate the return of the two sitting members at the recent election Three bands participated in a torchlight procession through the streets, contingents being present from several areas around Waterford.

The Mayor (Alderman Jones), who presided, stated that Fianna Fail had not only retained their two seats in Waterford, but had increased their poll by four thousand. The majority was now going to rule, he said, and as Mayor he appealed to them to forget the heat and discussions of the elections, forget bitterness and differences shake hands, and be friends with their opponents. Mr. Sean Goulding, T.D. re-echoed the appeal made by the Mayor "There is no use in bitterness," he said "We have said hard things about Free masons, but they deserved it, though there are good men who are not of the Catholic Faith in Ireland." But the reason they spoke so hard about Free masons was that they had never been part of Ireland nor of the Irish nation and when the day comes that they are willing to fall into line with the Irisb nation then the nation will welcome them. All must now co-operate to start the great work before them. The start the great work before them. The young people of Ireland are again resurgent, and he advised them to keep the old spirit there.

Mr. P. J. Little, T.D., said they had not at their disposal the friends or money of their opponents; but they had done good work in Waterford "The fires of nationality are blazing up again, and the younger generation is going to help those going forward to make Ireland a nation." He emphs sised the references made as to the ne cessity for healing up any bitterness caused during the election.

The original route of the procession fixed included Barrack street and Ballybricken, two Redmonite strong holds, but at the request of Venerable Archdeacon Byrne, P.P., Ballybricken this portion of the city was elminated from the processional route.

THE OLD BOY. Mr. Hynes V.S., said owing to scab in the Knockmealdowns last year he suggested making a mountain area of Melleray and unless the order was it says "Fit to attend school."

Prisoner, aged thirty-seven, at Police Court: What a lot of roads at llford end in "ville."

Chairman: Yes, and on the back of Melleray and unless the order was it says "Fit to attend school."

In the course of an interview which the special correspondent of the London "Sunday Express" had with Mr. De Valera. The Irish President elect

"There is no enmity between the people of Ireland and the people of England," he said. "We desire to live with the English people as peaceful neighbours."

Protesting in an interview by a "Daily Telegraph" correspondent against the partition of Ireland, Mr. de Valera said:—"To cut up our country is the greatest crime committed against the Nation, but at the moment we can only protest against the injustice. We shall avail ourselves of whatever opportunities may come peace-tion would lead to difficulties with England. "The oath," he said, "is not made obligatory by the Treaty, but only by the constitution, which we can change. It would be absurd to talk of freedom if we were to be denied the right to take steps which are so essential to internal peace here. The alternative to removing the oath of allegiance is coercion.

"We propose the experiment of government by ordinary law based upon the willing obedience of the people. We can only get that willing obedi-ence if the political test is removed. and all sections of the people are free to send their representatives to Parliament without having first to foreswear their principles." Mr. de Valera was asked if he pro-posed to withhold payment to England in respect of land annuities. "Yes," he answered. "These moneys are the property of the Free State Treasury. The annuities collected from the farmers in the North are retained in the Northern Treasury. Our title to those collected in our territory is equally well founded. There is no justification whatever for forwarding these annuities to Britain.

Talking about the coming Imperial Conference. Mr. de Valera said that Ireland was quite prepared to nego-tiate agreements with England. "We are each," he said, "the other's best customer." Last year there was between us a trade balance in your fav-our of four and a half million. Our trade with the Dominions however, is practically negligible.

Coalition with the other big party is out of the question," he said.

Asked whether if he was dependent upon the Labour vote he would ask Labour to join the Government or seek simply an understanding, Mr. de Valera said: "I do not know what the Labour attitude will be in a case like this. From statements made during the election it would appear that Labour desires to keep an independent position. They will, naturally, cooperate with us in working out our programme, which is in many respects-closely allied to theirs."

Asked how he view future relations with England, Mr. de Valera said: "I trust that they will be more friendly than in the past," he replied. "The only sound basis for peace between neighbours is mutual respect—each recognising the rights and liberties of the other. The failure of British statesmen to act on this principle has always been the distrubing factor."

A telephonic interview with Mr. de Valera with a Danish evening newspaper, "Extraladet." Mr. de Valera, asked if he would be able to carry through many points of his pro-gramme in the Dail in collaboration with the Labour Party, replied: "Yes, we hold the same conceptions on many points of the programme.

"I think definitely our Party can go a long way forward in collaboration with the Labour Patry. I expect much from the situation in the form in which it is presenting itself to us.' Continuing ,he said he hoped ultimately to succeed in obtaining full liberty for Ireland. When he was asked whether he would refuse to be present at the Ottawa Conference, he said: "We (Fianna Fail) are always willing to confer with England, whoever the representatives of the English Govern-ment may be; but why should it be in Ottawa? I cannot agree that it is necessary for me to go across the Atlantic to confer with Englishmen"

In conclusion, he said he was very pleased with the result of the election. Even if it did not give the Fianna Party an absolute majority this time, even if they could not wholly follow their own path, they would be able to take many steps forward towards the complete independence of Ireland.

Mr. Sean McEntee told the "Sunday Express":—"We do not wish a quarrel with anyone, least of all with our neighbours across the Irish sea. We wish, indeed, to establish a real and lasting league with them, based on common interest and the mutual regard and respect of two free peoples."

Mr. Sean Lemass said: "Fianna Fail has no desire to go trailing its coat to Britain, as has been so frequently asserted. It does not intend to move on the road to complete freedom any faster than the majority of the people wish to go.

"The policy of the Fianna Fail is not anti-British even in economic matters. We realise that our trade with Britain must always be immensely more important to us than our trade with the rest of the world."

The Annual Meeting of the above Association was held in the Schoolhouse, on Wednesday, February 10th. Mr. J. H. Curran, presided, owing to the Chairman ,Mr. John Flavin, not being able to attend. average yield per cow has increased by 118 gallons of milk and 56.13 lbs. Butter-fat in the course of eight years, which shows that the Association is making steady progress in increasing the average milk and butter-fat yields of each cow in the Association. The best cow in the Association was an best cow in the Association was an 8-year-old Shorthorn, which calved on the 25th January 1931, and yielded 10,108 lbs. milk (or 977 gallons) containing 368.94 lbs. Butter-fat, with an average test of 3.65 in 44 weeks, earning on the above basis £21 14s. 0d., and is the property of Mr. John Flavin. Two of his age yield of 3.968 lbs. of milk an l 143.67 lbs. butter-fat, with an everage test of 3.62, which shows a difference of 4.751 lbs. of milk and 178.58 lbs. butter-fat per cow in favour of the 10 best cows in the Association, these figures show clearly the great advantages to be derived from the keeping of milk and butter-fat records of our herds. Taking a summary of the 212 cows with complete records 18 cows yielded between 300 and 400 gallons of milk; 29 yielded between 400 and 500 gallons; 63 between 500 and 600 gallons; 61 between 600 and 700 gallons. 26 between 700 and 800 gallons, 12 between 800 and 900 gallons, 2 between 900 and 1,000 gallons, and 1 cow

During the year we had some good young heifers under test, we had one a 4-year-old recognised progeny the property of Mr. John Flavin, which yielded 7,938 lbs. of milk, 349.27 lbs. butter-fat, with the high average test of 4.40. This heifer got registered at the last inspection of cows...

We also have a good three-year-old the property of Mr. John Foley, which yielded 7,791 lbs. of milk, 302.29 lbs. of butter-fat, with an average test of 3.88, also some good 2-year-old heifers with an average of close on 600 gallons of

During the year 124 double visits were paid to members herds for the purpose of weighing and samp'ing of milk, and 1,136 samples of milk were tested and 16 calves tattooed.

During the year we had about 90 bull calves dishorned by the Caustic Potash method, and I would strongly advise you to continue dishorning all your calves not intended for breeding purposes, because in doing so, you will increase the market value of your store cattle by from £1 to £2 per head. I wish to suggest that each member would fix an average of about 600 gallons for his herd, and this would be gradually improved from year to year by continuing to weed out the lowyielding cows, feeding the good cows better and mating them with Registered Bulls in the Association, and retaining their progeny for breeding pur-poses. In conclusion, I wish to thank all the members for their kindness to me on the occasion of amy visits to their herds, and for their co-operation and assistance in the working of the Association Election Of Officers. It was then proposed by John H. Curran, and seconded by John Troy, and carried unanimously that Mr. Jn. Mr. Cogan, Agricultural Instructor, gave a very interesting lecture on the breeding and feeding of cattle, after which the meeting came to a close.

> KILMACTHOMAS FEBRUARY. COURT. The most interesting one of a big > batch of caese disposed of by Mr. F.

> J. McCabe, D.J., at the February
> Court, was that in which Maurice Long, labourer. Mount Bolton, Portlaw, and William Faulkner, mason, Portlaw, were defendants. The charge against the first-named read: "On the 16th Feb., 1932, at Clonagan polling booth, you did commit the affence of personation by unlawfully applying for a ballot paper in the name of Jas. Long ,at the General Election for the constituency of Waterford.

Faulkner was charged with unlawfully counselling and abetting in committing the offence of personation on the same date and place. The Justice remarked at the outset that these were very serious charges, the penalties being very heavy in proven cases of the kind.

Defendants, who were not professionally represented, pleaded not

Guard Morgan, replying to Mr. E A. Ryan, S.S., for the prosecution, stated that he was on duty at Clonagam polling station on Election day. He knew Maurice Long. Witness saw him at 8.15 in the booth. He (Long) produced a slip of paper which he handed to the presiding officer. The paper purported to give Long's voting number on the register—865. Witness had a copy of the register and he found that opposite the number stated appeared the name of James Long. One of the personating agents present in the booth, a Mr. Smith, challenged Maurice Long on the matter. The presiding officer then asked Maurice Long was he prepared to swear that his was the name opposite No. 865 on the register, and defendant replied that he wasn't prepared to do so. Defendant told the P.O., that the "James" was a mis-print in the book, and that it was his (defendant's) own name should be on it. Witness went on to say that there was a James Long formerly employed by Mr. St. John, but he had left the district about 3 years ago. Witness couldn't say if James Long and the defendant were related. After being refused the ballot paper, defendant crossed over to the table where the other defendant Faulkner, was amongst a crowd. The latter was urging Maurice Long to secure the ballot paper. When witness arrested Long, and charged him, all he said when cautioned was: "Twasn't my fault." Questioned by his Worship, Guard Morgan said that if the register had been properly prepared the defen-dant's name should have been on it-and James Long's name should have
