Replying to Mr. Moloney ,the B.S., said that there were 252 yards of stone delivered on the roads, that did not include stock quarried but not yet carted from the quarry.

Chairman-The royalty has not been paid on them yet.

B.S.-No. Chairman-That is another £4 4s. Mr. Moloney-The amount of stock caused by the kerbing outside his out is a long way from 550 yards as specified

Mr. Clancy-The unexpended balance is very small. I don't see how Mr. McGrath can finish the three jobs. After some further discussion the B.S. was ordered to start rolling.

Congratulating The President. Mr. Foley proposed, and Mr. Power concled a resolution congrade resolution congratulating President de Valera and his party on their recent success at the

In proposing the resolution, Mr Foley said that no one need be afraid of opening their mouths now without fear of going to jail. The country is more peaceful than ever it was, and all the men who were in prison for loving their country are set free. The last Government were not fit to govern themselves not alone the country. Mr. Clancy-The resolution is of very political nature, and during my time here I have never known a resolution of that kind to be proposed. We should leave politics to the poli ticians. We all agree that we must serve any Government put into power, no matter what our political opinions may be. We are here to administer municipal affairs and he hoped the members will steer clear of politics. Mr. Foley-If Cosgrave got in members here would be falling over one another putting up resolutions. I am proud to be in the position to be able to propose such a resolution.

Mr. O'Donnell-Mr. Foley said 1 Mr. Cosgrave got in we would propose a resolution such as he has preposed. I will ask Mr. Foley if he car state when Mr. Cosgrave did get into power did that Council propose any such resolution? Mr. Foley-I was not here 5 years ago. Half of you were Redmondites then, but you have changed since. The Chairman-There were several resolutions came before me which I could have termed political, but I never refused them. I left he matter in the hands of the Council ,and when the Council did not object I admitted the resolution. I will also let the Coun cil decide in this case. Mr. Foley-I know what the Council will do with this resolution. Mr. McCarthy-I object to Mr. Foley's remark about members changing. I have not changed. I was al ways one hundred per cent! Labour, and am the same to-day. I am not against the resolution, but I think Mr

Foley should let the resolution go with out passing such remarks. Mr. Griffin-As far as I can remember there is a resolution on the books stating that resolutions of a political nature should not be entertained by the Board. Before this resolution is passed that order should be rescinded. I think it was Mr. Keane who got that resolution passed. Mr. Keane-Yes, about 6 or 7 years

Mr. Power-If such an order is on the book it should be rescinded first. Mr. Foley-My resolution doesn't suit Mr. Griffin's politics. Mr. Hackett-When Mr. Cosgrave got in in 1927 there was no resolution. Mr. Foley-All right, but the resolution will have to be put and we will

Mr. Foley-No. I always spoke well of you. The Chairman-I think Mr. Foley, in all fairness, should name the members who passed such remarks. Mr. McEvoy-It isn't fair to let it go without an explanation. Mr. McCarthy-I have nothing against the resolution, but I have everything against the remarks passed by Mr. Foley since he proposed the resolution. The Board should know what members he refers to. Mr. Keane-Mr. Foley ought to name the members or withdraw the Lismore District Court.

THREW AN ORANGE AT CAPTAIN REDMOND, T.D. SMART FINE AT LISMORE

COURT.

INTERESTING EJECTMENT CASES

An echo of the recent General Election campaign in the Co. Waterford, was heard at Lismore District Court, before Mr. G. P. Farrell, B.L., D.J., when a fisherman named Patrick Mc-Grath, residing at Camphire, six miles from Lismore, was charged by Guard Peter Murphy, with having been drunk and disorderly in Lismore on Feb., 10th the Fair Day of Lismore.

Guard Murphy stated that the defendant was drunk at a public meeting which was being addressed by Captain Redmond outside the Courthouse on the day in question, and was guilty of disorderly conduct by throwing an orange at Capt. Redmond while he was speaking at the meeting.

It took three Guards to arrest the defendant and when he was searched in the barrack he had four apples and three oranges in his possession. Defendant, who was not professionally represented, now told the Court that he was not drunk on the occasion and also denied that he was the man who threw the orange at Capt. Red-mond. He added that the Guards would never have charged him with that offence only for a certain man from Cappoquin who said "show me your hand" and dragged him out of the crowd and asked him if he had thrown the orange. Three Guards then rushed at him, and dragged him into the barrack, and the apples and oranges which they found on him had been purchased by him earlier in the day to take home to his children. Defendant then cross-examined rack, but the Guard denied this.

Replying to the Justice, defendant said he had brought some cattle into Lismore Fair that morning, but there being a heavy fall of snow he brought the cattle out of the Fair Field unsold about 11 o'clock and put them up in Mr. Coughlan's yard in the Main St.

Defendant-In Mr. Coughlan's publichouse. Justice-How many drinks had you during that time?

Defendant-I couldn't tell you, sir. He added that when he got to the meeting he could not get nearer than the outside of the crowd so that he tould not see Capt. Redmond nor any of the other speakers.

Guard Murphy was recalled at this stage and stated that he distinctly saw McGrath throw the orange.

Guard Martin, Lismore, also gave evidence and said when Guard Murphy, Guard Teahan, Cappoquin, and himself were arresting defendant he resisted, and made a kick at witness. Sergt. Kavanagh, Lismore, was also examined and stated that defendant had to be kept in custody for 4 hours, and while in the cell his conduct was very bad. After he had been in for 2 hours his wife called to the barrack to try and get him out and he told her if she got a motor car to take him home with her he would then release him. As she refused to do this, they had to keep him in custody until he was sufficiently sober to be re-

Defendant-And I was able to ride my bicycle home after that sir, which shows you that I wasn't very drunk,

(laughter). Having heard further evidence, the Justice said he was quite satisfied that the defendant was more blackguardly than drunk on the occasion and only that he had a wife and such a large family he would have no hesitation in sending him to jail for a month without the option of a fine. It was a monstrous thing that Capt. Redmond or any other speaker would not be allowed to address a public meeting without blackguardly conduct of this kind being carried on, and defendant should now pay a fine of 21/-, and was lucky he was not yoing

The Justice said the alternative to the fine was one months' imprisonment.

Defendant-I can pay the fine now, sir, and suiting the action to the word the amount was paid on the spot. A number of interesting ejectment cases were listed at the suit of Dr. Eaton Waters, Conna Weir, Tallow, against several weekly tenants in the due by them. Mr. E. Carroll, solr., Fermoy, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. J. W. O'Gorman, solr., Lismore( (for Mr Wm. R. Hodnett, solr., Youghal), defended in some of the cases.

The old arrears of rent due by the tenants to the Lismore Estate Co. were taken over by the new landlord and a special form was handed around to the tenants for signature which admitted their liability for the amounts due in each case. One of the tenants named Martin McNamara, Convent Street, Tallow , refused to sign this form or document, as he denied liability for any old arrears, but accepted full liability for any arrears which most pronounced success. In reply to Mr. O'Gorman, solr., Mr Hinchcliffe stated that he had been in charge of the rent books for the Lismore Estate Co., since 1928 and the defendant owed the sum of £12 11s. 10d., on the date of the conveyance of the property to Dr. Waters in March,

Repeated attempts had been made to collect this amount ,but without being professionally represented. Plaintiff stated that on the night of January 23rd, he was going home along the Mayfield road when he met Patrick Lynch to whom he said "Hallo." A man named Collins was with Lynch and the latter then struck him on the nose without any reason. He was covered with blood and his two eyes were blackened and he was ashamed to come out of his house for Joe Collins was next examined by Mr. O'Gorman and said as he and Lynch were coming towards Lismore along the Mayfield road on the night in question they saw a man going over the ditch into a field as they approached and Lynch then said he would go back and see who he was and what he was up to. Witness then heard some row behind him and on going back he saw O'Brien bleeding from the nose, but he saw no other wounds and saw no blow struck by Lynch.

Mr. O'Gorman-You didn't see the fight at all, then? Witness-There was no fight at all.

there was only one blow struck and then the fight was over, (laughter). Patrick Lynch defendant, then gave evidence and said that as he and Joe Collins were coming in the Mayfield road he saw a man going over the fence in front of them, and as they were passing a gateway he saw O'Brien inside who used an offensive remark towards him. Witness then said "You'll have to prove those words in time to come," and O'Brien then came out over the ditch and made a blow at him and witness hit him one blow on the nose in self-defence.

Cross-examined by Mr. O'Gorman, He denied that he was a 'bully' or that he was looking for fight on that Having heard further evidence, the

Mr. W. St. Clar Rice, solr., Midleton, for applicant said the Hall was a splendid one. It had been inspected by the Guards and also by the Inspector of the Board of Health. The only suggestion made was that there should be a better exit and the applicant was prepared to convert one of cant was prepared to convert one of the 6 windows into an additional exit.

Mr. O'Sullivan of the Board of Health, stated the building was twostorey and the Hall was on the upper floor. At present there was only one exit and that was not sufficient in the case of fire. A second exit could be made out of some of the windows with a stairs down from it.

To the Court-It was a fine Hall otherwise and safe.

The applicant said he was prepared to comply with the requirements of the Board of Health as regards the additional exit. It could be done in a couple of hours. He was also applying for an extension of hours on St. Patrick's Night for a Fianna Fail Victory Dance, at which two T.D.'s, would attend.

Replying to the Court, Supt. Dennehy said his information was that the application was for only three or four days in the year.
Mr. Rice said his notice was for a general license. Guard O'Donnell said he had seen the premises. It was a fine hall, but an extra exit was required.

After a protracted hearing, the application was granted for Patrick's Night from 9 p.m. to 6 a.m., on the condition that the extra exit would be provided, that no person under 18 years would be admitted and that anyone with signs of having intoxicating liquor be excluded.

The further application was adjourned to Middleton. ed to Middleton.

NITRO CHALK.

Farmers have much cause to congratulate themselves on the low price at which fertilizers generally can be purchased this season. With the exception of Potash, all types of fertilizers are selling at less money than last season. This is chiefly due to the ehormous reduction in the world price of Nitrogen, which in the case of Sulphate of Ammonia is less than half the price ruling in pre-war days.

Another cheap fertilizer, which has

Mr. Kiersey- Mr. Downey made a very satisfactory job of the first portion of this scheme, so he knows what he is tendering for.

Mr. Fox thought that the balance of the money should be diverted and used for extending the wall for the protection of the new sewerage scheme.

Mr. Kiersey—I believe we can take it that before the job is complete it will cost the £3,000. We may take it that extra work will have to be done, in the line of excavation etc. Mr. Fox was speaking about building a wall, my point is, these plans were sanctioned by the Department and they are giving £1,000 grant out of the £3,000 you have to carry out this work, and my opinion is that you cannot divert one penny from that work.

Mr. Curran-But would you not agree the rent is abnormal. Mr. Butler referred to the fact that this woman buried her husband lately and therefore he would ask that an exception be made of this case. He proposed that it be reduced to £4.

Mr. Stack-I will second that. Secretary-You may be sure you will have further applications next meeting, if that is passed.

Mr. Kiersey referred to the people who were not fortunate enough to have a water scheme near their pre mises. They will have to sink pumps on their own which may cost over £200 and lose a few pounds every year wards the payment of the loan £200 and lose a few pounds every year keeping them in repair.

FLANNEL AND FREEDOM.
A local lady with early Victorian ideas attributes her great age—she is almost a centenarian-to the fact that she has worn red flannel underclothing all her life. The "flappers" of to-day look forward to the future in a more elastic mood. One of them, when interviewed on the subject, simply remarked, "Flannel and free-dom are incongrutus."

A LOCAL WILL.

The late Mr. Charles Langley, of Tay Lodge, Kilmacthomas, who died on the 23rd June, 1930, left personal died on the Light Free State valued at County learned with regret of the de-£1,932, in addition to trust property, only in England. Probate has been granted to his son, Mr. Charles Langley, farmer, of the above address. He left his farms at Gortnalaght, Knockand his son, Arthur, and the residue of his property to his son, Charles.

Widespread sympathy is felt with the relatives of the late Mr. Richard Lenihan, formerly of Ballynabanogue, Kilmacthomas, who died in Dublin last week, and whose remains were interred at Ballylaneen cemetery.—

OFFER OF LOCAL TRADER.

At a meeting of the Clonmel Corporation, regarding the vacant site in O'Connell-St., adjacent to the Oisin Theatre, which was advertised by the Corporation, it was stated that two offers had been received, one from a man in Kilmacthomas and the other from a Clonmel man.

Ald. Burke, said before they let the place, they should know what the purchaser was going to do with it.

Councillor Lovett—Were we given to understand that one man, who guaranteed to spend £1,200 on the place was going to erect a confectionery business there, and the other was going to have a Garage there.

Town Clerk—Yes.

Councillor Stapleton-We have enough garages in the town already. The Town Clerk said one man had offered £200 for the site.

Councillor O'Meara—That is the offer we should accept.

It was decided to give the Kilmacthomas man the option of 30 days in regard to the proposed purchase of the site.

(We undersand that Mr. Pat Kiersey, Main Street, is the Kilmacthomas man referred to in the fore-

DEATH OF MR. JOSEPH KIRWAN. A gentleman whose strongly marked integrity in all things was only se-cond to the beauty and perfection of the religious side of his character, has passed to the reward that is promised to all who faithfully obey God's Holy Will. The late Mr. Joseph Kirwan, of Kilcanavee, Kilmacthomas, was one of those pious souls, who was truly good without ostentation. Living in the fear and love of his Creator, he countered all the cares of life with a deep religious fervour, and accented all his pains as part of his duty. Courteous to everybody, sympathetic to all who were overtaken by trouble. he was to those who knew him intimately the ideal friend. The funeral to Kilrossanty Church on the 12th inst. was both large and representative and indicative of the respect in which the deceased gentleman was held by the people of these parts. After the late Mass on Sunday, the interment took place in the adjoining cemetery. Very Rev. W. J. Kehoe, P.P., officiated at the graveside.—R.I.P.

County learned with regret of the demise of Mrs. Catherine Hennebery, beloved wife of Mr. John Hennebery, Kilrossanty. Deceased, who was highly esteemed and respected in the district, had been ill for some short time, and passed peacefully and renacullen and Briska Upper, and all farm stock implements, etc., to his son, Charles: £100 each and his household and personal effects, as they may select, to his daughter, Eileen, companied the remains to Kilrossanty parish church on Monday evening, where they were received by Very Rev W. J. Kehoe. P.P., who recited the prayers for the dead Requiem High Mass for her soul was offered up on Tuesday morning. The burial subsequently took place in Stradbally graveyard in the presence of a huge concourse of relatives, friends and sympathisers. The late Mrs. Henebery was a daughter of Mrs. Bridget Keane and the late Mr. Keane, Fahafeelagh, Kilmacthomas. The deepest sympathy is felt for her grief-stricken husband, mother, brothers and sisters in their heavy blow.—R.I.P.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

NEWTOWN CROSS AGAIN. A MOTOR COLLISION.

What might have been a motor accident with serious results occurred at Newtown Cross on the main Dungarvan-Waterford road, on Tuesday morning, at 8.30 o'clock. At the time a car driven by Mr. Cogan, B.Sc., Agriculture Instructor, and in which were Messrs. J. O'Dwyer, Secretary, Co. Committee Agriculture; J. A. Lynch, B. Healy, Grange, and T. Smith, Burgery, was proceeding to Waterford Bull Show. As every one knows Newtown Cross is very deceptive owing to vision being cut off by the houses at the cross-roads. Just as the motor came to the cross a motor the motor came to the cross a motor cycle ridden by Rev. Fr. Condon, C.C., Kilmacthomas, came on to the main road from Kill direction. A collision with unknown results was inevitable, but Mr. Cogan dexterously swerved to the left with the result that the motor cycle struck the car in the side. The impact diverted the motor directly towards the gable end of Mr.
Dunphy's publichouse at the corner of the road only a few yards away, but with such accuracy did Mr Cogan

He had only referred to the irregular way in which the path was constructed, and he held that he was justified in doing so. As regards the trees he did not hold any one responsible but it was a criminal act to cut down these trees. That letter was a tissue of falsehoods. The Council asked Mrs. Griffin for a reply to a statement she made that members of the Board had got favours for being members and for an answer they got a letter of abuse. FACTS REVEALED BY EXPERIMENTS.

(By Fred Archer in "Express.") It is safe to say that the amount of money lost by farmers through deaths among calves is enormous. In certain parts they amount to 100 per cent.

This unpleasant fact was revealed in the course of experiments carried Animal Nuitrition, University College among dealers' bought-in calves than in the case of those dropped on the farm and fed on their mother's milk.

In the case of a number of boughtin calves it was noticed that, though the feeding pails were sarupulously clean and the milk fed was freshly drawn, a number of the calves at various stages of growth up to three weeks old, went off their food and developed scour.

ONLY 17 SURVIVORS.

Despite all kinds of treatment, only seventeen out of twenty-three surviv ed at the end of the third week, and some of these were suffering from

A further batch of calves, on arrival at the farm, received milk from a group of cows, following a dose comprising an ounce of castor oil. Some 50 per cent. of the calves developed disordered symptoms to a greater or

A post-momtem examination showed that it was due to stomach trouble, probably due to the excessive use of undiluted milk.

Complete relief was afforded by altering the food from whole milk to 50 per cent. milk and 50 per cent. water, while a rapid cure was effect ed by the entire replacement of the milk by water, two pints of which fed three times daily for one day, after which the same quantity of equal parts of milk and water was fed three times

The improvement in the calves which received only water was more rapid than the others.

From this onward the food of all the calves in the group consisted of diluted rather than undiluted milk, and little trouble appeared among em afterwards.

FURTHER TEST.

A further test of this method of treatment also proved satisfactory. The calves were given a dose of castor oil after at least three hours' fast, followed by a diet of water only, fed three times a day (two pints at each feed) for one day, and a like proportion of milk and water for the next couple

A suitable dose is one ounce for a week-old calf; one and a half ounces for a two-weeks-old calf; and two ounces by the end of the third week This simple mode of treatment can be adopted on any farm.

When abortion appears, a veterinary surgeon should be called in to take a sample of the animals' blood and get it tested at the Veterinary Research Station, Dublin.

Infected cows can then be inoculated with an anti-abortion vaccine, which will give them immunity from the disease.

Under the Fisheries (Revision of Loans) Act, 1931, all or portion of these arrears may be remitted, and statements have now been prepared for presentation to the Oireachtas showing the nature and extent of the remissions made. The expenditure, charged to rural industries, amounted to £23,721. The receipts, credited to appropriations in aid, were £3,694 exclusive of £94 received as repayment of industrial loans. Included in the expenditure is a sum of £2,245 expenses of the Central Depot established during the year, as well as £6,155 in respect of Donegal tweeds manufactured. The Central Depot received and retained sums amounting to £933 portion of which is payable to the Depot received and retained sums amounting to £938 portion of which is payable to the Depot respect to the payable to the payab partment for the cost of materials and overhead charges. I am at present in communication with the accounting officer with reference to the value of the finished goods and materials on hands at the close of the financial year. During the year a large quantity of stock which had accumulated over several years was disposed of at a price approved by the Department of Finance

Owing to the curtailment of the telephone development programme in the year under review, the stores pur chased were again found to be in excess of requirements. As the additional expenditure was not provided for under the engineering vote, the charge to telephone capital—stores suspense account—was increased from £40,000 to £50,000, with the sanction of the Department of Finance. The latter figure is approximately £11,000 in excess of the amount which would be normally chargeable if the charge was limited in accordance with the authorised priviso.

The stocks held by the Department of Posts and Telegraphs for other Government departments on the 31st March, 1931, were valued at £29,357 as compared with £44,541 at the end of the previous financial year, but no most part of coniferous trees. Our change has so far been made in the method of financing these purchases. Steps were taken by the invitation of tenders to dispose of the surplus overcoating held on behalf of the Department of Defence. The best price obtainable was not considered satisfactory, however, and it was decided, with the concurrence of the Department of the D with the concurrence of the Department of Finance to retain the material for Post-Office use, the Department of Defence to receive credit at a reduced price per yard, and to bear the resulting loss.

PLANTING WASTE LANDS.

Any article on the planting of waste lands would not be complete without a passing reference to what has been done in this respect in other countries "In no case has the provision made | The State forests in Germany amount by Dail Eireann been exceeded, nor is in round figures to some 10,000,000 an excess vote necessary," says the Free State Comptroller and Auditor-General in his comments on some of the most part of mountainous land > from as low as 7s. in Prussia to as timber consuming industries in the three man days work per year is pro 300 man working days per year or work all the year round for one man. Supposing then, that we had in Ireland 1,000,000 acres under timber, an area which we should regard as the minimum to meet our timber needs, a permanent industry, giving direct employment to 10,000 men would have been created. The financial results, even at a conservative estimate of 10s. per acre per annum ,would provide assistance to the taxpayer at the rate of £500,000 yearly.

DIFFERENT ECONOMIC CONDITIONS.

No rational comparisons can, how-ever, be drawn at the moment because economic conditions are so totally different between woodlands on the Continent and in the British Isles. In main article of fuel used for domestic sprung up which are dependent for their raw material on woodlands in With regard to the purchase of the immediate vincinity; and the renot only for timber but also for fuel, stuff cut from woods and plantations in the shape of early thinnings. So much so is this the case that it some-those established more for sport and The arrears of fishery and industrial ornament, has been seriously diminloans due, but unpaid, at 31st March ished by over-thinning, and the danger they have thus sustained can only be rectified when the present crops are cleared and their place has been taken by new plantations.

Even under the best possible man agement, however, any great increase in the present woodland area of Ire-land must go hand in hand with the encouragement and improvement of existing wood consuming industries, and the creation and fostering of new ones, before it is possible that any large investment of national capital in this direction is likely to have any fair chance of showing a profit. Even if substantial inducements could be offered by the Government to private landowners to form plantations it would not follow that these would be any better managed than the present ones. The State is the only possible landowner that can be expected to create large compact blocks of woodlands, to be managed on sylvicultural principles and the two-fold object of providing supplies of timber in the future and of fostering and encouraging rural and wood-consuming in-

If this be a duty at all, it is the duty of the State, and not of the private landowner. The State is the only landowner that never dies nor is called upon to pay estate and succession duty and it is the only landowner that can be sure of remaining free from the temptation to thin timber crops at an early age and to a great extent-or, in short, that can afford to grow the best classes of timber upon rational prin-

Considering the present condition and the future prospects of the timber market, crops of coniferous trees are those most likely to be planted on any scale for profit. The yields from the hardwood trees are generally so slow that these latter would not be a profitable investment with the possible exception of ash when grown on suitable situations for it. But as regards forestry on business principles, there can be very littledoubt that in general the main crops will be formed for the though their wood fetches a less sum per cubic foot than is given for hardwoods, yet coniferous crops may, on the whole, be regarded as more pro fitable than hardwoods on any large Congratulating Pres. de Valera. The Vice-Chairman, proposed a vote of congratulation to President de Valera, and also to the new Government on taking in hands the future destiny of the Irish Nation. The President was the man who held the reins during the critical years from 1916 to 1921, and now the Irish people had to fall back on him again after 9 years of rule by Mr. Cosgrave and his Government. After nine years under that Government the Irish people from experience found out that the man who guided them in their fight against the British Government to the freedom they had achieved in the Free State. He had great pleasure in moving that proposition.

Mr. Beausang, seconded. There being no remark,

The Chairman said there was no lissentient voice.

Mr. Dennehy-Certainly not. We all hope that there are better times in store for the country.

Congratulating Mr. W. J. Broderick. Capt. Dunne, proposed a vote of congratulation to their colleague, Mr. Wm. J. Mr. Broderick was an able business man, a sincere Catholic and a thorough-going Irish man. He had made a name for himself as a public administrator by the the affairs of the Cork Co. Council, steering that body through many and serious difficulties into the harbour of safety. He was one of a well-known Catholic family, who had given members to the Divine Service, having a brother a P.P., in England, and a sister a nun in South Africa. His father and brother took an active part in the '67 rising, when the Coastguard Station at Knockadoon was taken by the Fenians. As a result he (Capt. Dunne) saw Mr. Broderick's grandfather's place broken into by British soldiers looking for them. He also

Mr. Linehan said he thought there was one matter overlooked in connection with the self-sacrifice and bravery of James Duggan. It should have been brought under the attention of the Carnegie Hero Fund and the Royal
