The Teachings of the Church

BISHOP OF GALWAY, ON SECRET SOCIETIES.

Preaching at Ennistymon, Co. Clare, on the occasion of his triennial visit Most Rev. Dr. O'Doherty, Bishop of Galway, having warned the people to avoid the occasion of sin proceeded:—
"There was one other case that you all know of. The culprit was not from this parish, but from outside it; and he got three weeks' imprisonment when he should have got five years. If the administration of justice is to be reduced to a farce of the kind, they might as well abolish our Courts altogether. Three weeks' imprisonment for one of the most horrible crimes of the calendar!"

"With regard to the matter of Justice," he continued, "there is no serious complaint to be made except this: that someone with arms in their hand fired at a motor car, and as a matter of retaliation there was an attempt to burn down a house. That is what we must inevitably expect from irregular armies of one kind or another."

"I want to speak to you plainly on this matter. People are inclined to forget the formal and solemn teaching of the Bishops in 1931. I am no politician. I take no part in politics. I may have my own opinions, but they are my own. I do not want to force them upon anyone else. You may set up an Irish chief or an Irish king. You may set up a Dictator. But the selection must be made, not by a minority, but by the Irish people as a whole."

"If you want a Republic make the matter an issue at the next election and let the Irish people decide, and I for one will follow the decision of the Irish people."

"But there is a body in this country," he proceeded, "which want to force its opinions down the throats of the people by a form of intimidation with guns and rifles."

His Lordship proceeded to read from the Pastoral issued by the Bishops in October, 1931, adding: "That Pastoral has not been withdrawn, and it sets forth in plain language the teaching of the Church on this and other matters."

"And let me remind you that the official teachers of the Catholic Church are the successors of the Apostles, the Pope and the Bishops, and not a small clique of irresponsibles in Dublin."

Having completed the reading of the Pastoral, Most Rev. Dr. O'Doherty proceeded: "You know and I know that some of these men referred to have assassinated men up and down the country. You know of two horrible cases (down in Tipperary) in one of which a poor, unfortunate official was shot almost outside his own door without giving him time to make an Act of Contrition."

"It is any wonder that such abominations come under the direct condemnation of the Church? I may add that these men have no authority whatsoever from God or man. There is a certain constituted body of men who arrogate to themselves rights which they do not possess from any source."

"If they interfere with property, they are committing an injustice; if they shoot you down, they are murderers."

His Lordship went on to say that the Pastoral which was published in 1931 was as true to-day. "That," he said "is Christian democracy. That is Catholic democracy, and you cannot get outside it. So long as the Government holds office, it is the only lawful civil authority—a proposition that would be equally true if the Government were to be defeated to-morrow, and if any of the Opposition Parties assumed responsibility."

"From this it follows that no individuals or combination of individuals are free to resist its decrees or its officials by armed force, violence or intimidation," declared the Bishop.

"If such things were lawful, if any body of people were free to set up a rival executive and a rival army, the inevitable result would be anarchy, and the destruction of personal liberty."

"The Government elected by the free votes of the people have their own army and their own civil force—and fine bodies they both are—and if you set up another army, why not have two or three or a dozen armies, and then where shall we be? We shall be plunged into a state of absolute chaos and anarchy. That is the reason why the Church condemns these irregular armies."

"You have an army, a police force, a Government. These are the only bodies that are lawful in the eyes of God. That is the teaching of the Bishops of Ireland as a body, and of your own Bishop as well. As I have told you before, no other body has the right to lay down what it considers to be the moral law."

"The Bishops of the Church are the teachers. It is their privilege and their duty, and nobody else has a right to speak; and when they speak their flocks are bound to obey when there is a question of the moral law."

"Another evil has been creeping into this country, and I want to put you on your guard against it. It was condemned in 1931, and the condemnation is true to-day. There is an organisation in Dublin called Saor Eire. It is frankly Communistic."

"His programme, as published in the Press, is an appeal to farmers and workers in town and country to stand behind the revolutionary movement to set up a Communist State. That is, to impose upon this Catholic Ireland a similar organisation to that which now dominates Russia and threatens to dominate Spain."

"The Bishop read from a proclamation of Saor Eire, and said a number

MUNSTER CHAMPIONSHIPS. TIPPERARY V. WATERFORD DIVIDE HONOURS.

On Sunday last at the Gaelic Field, Waterford, in the first round of the Hurling Championship for 1933, Tipperary and Waterford met in Senior and Minor Hurling, and after two most interesting and enjoyable games in which the finest sporting spirit was shown each resulted in a tie. In Minor Hurling the scores were—Waterford, 3-4 and Tipperary 4-1. In Senior Hurling each County scored 3-3.

The day was gloriously fine with a strong sun and no breeze, and the attendance was in the neighbourhood of 9,000. The arrangements were perfect and the spectators thoroughly enjoyed the bill of fare provided for them.

MINOR HURLING.

Waterford got going from the opening, and narrowly missed a score. From the delivery Tipperary had possession, and a well-judged movement saw Dwyer shatter the Waterford net for an impressive major. From the next challenge Waterford had a free, and lost a good opening for a goal. Tipperary again looked dangerous, but Gallagher, in centre field, proved a tough obstacle. At this stage Gallagher was temporarily put out of action. The game was resumed with Tipperary pressing against a splendid defence, in which Keane prominently figured. After a series of strenuous encounters Waterford got up for Bryan Doyle to prove his scoring ability with a smart equaliser. The game was being played at top speed, and the interest taken in it was pronounced. Both teams were in magnificent fighting trim. Following a couple of hard exchanges, Waterford forced their second goal from a fine performance of Joe Shea. A well-coordinated centre movement by Waterford led up to a tussle at Tipperary's net. It culminated in Coleman giving his side (Waterford) a lead of two goals.

Waterford's play was undoubtedly impressive, and won the admiration of their numerous admirers. Waterford having shot two wides, Tipperary entered their territory, but found the defence too much, and Waterford clearing smartly reached the other end, where the minor flag was raised. So far the play was distinctly in Waterford's favour. A fine piece of play gave Tipperary an opening for a goal (Cawley). The score was a trifle on the "soft" side. Waterford replied with a wide, an inch off the mark. A penalty free to Waterford was made the best use of, Dowling painting. Tipperary now forced a great attack, in which Cawley put up the major flag. The lead held by Waterford was wiped out after exciting play. At the short whistle Tipperary showed the way with a point lead. Score:—
TIPPERARY—4 goals.
WATERFORD—3 goals 2 points.

SECOND HALF.

Waterford turned over with the sun at their backs, and immediately invaded. They got a seventy, well placed by Dowling, and Coleman rushed a point, bringing the sides level amidst renewed excitement. Duggan was dangerous on the Tipperary side in the following movement, but his shot just missed the objective, and a free to their rivals went over the line. Tipperary were now severely testing the Waterford backs, whose defences were sound, especially the work of M. Parle. Three seventies went to Tipperary, from the last of which a point resulted. The lead changed hands twice in this half, and in the course of the terrific struggles the game was drawn on the following score:—
WATERFORD—3 goals 4 points (13 points).
TIPPERARY—4 goals 1 pt (13 pts).

The teams were:—
Waterford—K. Moloney, J. Keane, C. Moylan, J. Kiely, C. Murray, M. Galvin, M. Gallagher, M. Coleman, E. Dowling, J. O'Shea, B. Doyle, J. Walsh, E. Daly, J. Phelan, M. Parle.
Tipperary—J. Moloney, P. Purcell, T. O'Keefe, M. Ryan, C. Maher, J. Fitcher, J. J. Dwyer, J. A. Brennan, J. Farrell, T. Cowley, M. Everard, M. Moeckler, P. Holloway, P. Duggan, T. Brophy.

SENIOR HURLING.

The match was started to the strains of the National Anthem, played by the Waterford Brass and Reed Band. Waterford faced the sun, and soon gave the Tipperary backs plenty to do. The defence withstood the pressure and cleared to the other end, where an over occurred. A seventy followed from the next stage to Waterford, but it was not improved upon. From an intensive duel, Waterford got a seventy, taken by Ware. The shot was accurately judged, and a possible score lost by inches. Tipperary were next to challenge, but discovered some tough material amongst the defenders, for whom Panning and Ware were conspicuous. Tipperary then took up the offensive, but were firmly held at centre field, from which point Waterford forced the game, and O'Meara saved, at the expense of a seventy. Waterford closed in from the free, for Condon to account for a goal. Tipperary retaliated strongly, but Waterford held them well for their second goal (Byrne) Tipperary, having had hard luck for a register, Waterford set up a raid on their quarters, for Wyse to put over the bar. Tipperary responded gamely with a major, for which Cronin was responsible. Butler having supplemented for Waterford with a minor, the game continued on exceptionally lively lines, the various passages being marked by much determination and resourcefulness, while the defences were superb. It was evident from the speedy work of the respective sides that each had undergone the essential course of training. The ball was kept moving at a rapid rate from post to post, and the spectators were worked up to a high pitch of excitement. Tipperary having pointed, the next feature of the game was a free to Waterford, which very materially eased the pressure on the back division, and their forwards getting into action, the ball was sent out at their opponents' end. Tipperary gained the advantage in the following challenge, and Cronin wound up with a slashing goal, and in face of no small opposition. A stirring half time closed with level scores.

TIPPERARY—2 goals 2 points.
