WAGES

A paysheet for 221 Hs. 3d., was submitted and passed for payment.

THOMPSON'S LANE

Mrs. Josephine Ryan, Thompson's Lane, wrote asking for a house at Loughmore. She complained that sewerage matter was coming through the floor of her present house.

Mr. Byrne—Isn't that area a condemned area? Chairman—It is condemned in a report from the doctor. It is undoubtedly the worst area in the town now.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Letters acknowledging resolutions of sympathy passed to them, were read from Thos. Walsh, S.S.O., and Jas. Dwyer, Church street.

HOUSING LOAN

In connection with the Council's recent request to their Treasurers to extend the loan on the houses at Shear's street, Abbeyside, and Garvan's Terrace, for the purpose of rent reduction.

The Manager Munster & Leinster Bank wrote, stating that the maximum period for repayment of such loans is 10 years, and it is only in exceptional circumstances that it is extended to 15 years as has already been done in connection with the loans mentioned in your letter. They regret therefore, that the bank is not in a position to accede to the request now put forward.

Mr. Quann—Let the Department have a copy of that letter. Mr. M. P. Foley, B.E., Clonea, was granted permission to have a water supply to a new building at Hermitage, Abbeyside.

TAR FOR ROAD SURFACING

In connection with the request of the Council to the County Surveyor that tar required for roads in the western end of the county be brought to Dungarvan Quay, the County Surveyor wrote stating that most of the supplies for the present years are already obtained and that the County Council have very little to say about the route for delivering of this material which is purchased under contract, delivered here. We have always been told by the suppliers that it is much cheaper to send the material by regular sailings to Waterford and thence by rail to Dungarvan than to engage a special steamer, to come direct to Dungarvan.

The Council decided to ask the Co. Surveyor to recommend the route via Dungarvan in future.

OPENINGS IN MAIN ROAD

A letter was read from the Co. Surveyor's Department, enclosing an account for £48 17s. for repairs by the Co. Council to openings made in the main roads in the Urban area by the Urban Council.

The account was made up as follows:—15 square yards of road surface at 10/-=£15; 79 square yards road surface at 5/-=£39 15s.; 288 square yards footpaths at 1/6=£24 12s. Total £48 17s.

On the suggestion of the Chairman, the account was referred to the B.S. to go into all the items.

OVERDRAFT

The Department of Local Government and Public Health wrote regarding the proposal of the Council to obtain overdraft accommodation, and requested that a statement giving particulars of the present financial position of the Council and the certified receipts and expenditure on the 30th proximo, be furnished to the Department. Form 61 showing the state of the rate collection in respect of the financial year 1934-35, should also be submitted.

The letter was referred to the Clerk to supply the required particulars.

DAVIS STREET SEWER

The Department wrote with reference to the report of Dr. Casey, M.O.H., on the proposed Davis street sewer and stating that the Urban Council should take appropriate action on the Medical Officers report.

SHANDON & KING ST. SEWERS The Department also wrote requesting to be furnished with replies to letters addressed to the Council with regard to the above on 30th April last.

The B.S. stated that he was in the Department offices during the week and discussed the matter. He said he was sure sanction for the scheme will come in due course.

ANNUAL MEETING

Arising out of a letter from the Department to the period in which the General Meeting for the election of Chairman should be held.

The Council decided to fix the date

UNTAXED CAR

Guard Deasey, prosecuted Mr. M. J. Keane, Friary street, with using an untaxed car on Monday, April 22nd.

Mr. Williams, solr., for defendant, pleaded guilty to using the car on Sunday April 21st (Easter Sunday), but denied the car was used on Monday 22nd.

Mr. Williams said the case was that on Easter Sunday, a lady called on Mr. Keane for a car to drive her to see a sister who was sick. Mr. Keane asked the lady to wait until 4 o'clock when the other car would be in, but she could not wait so he drove her in this car. This car was licensed up to March, and Mr. Keane had decided to sell it so he did not license it and sold it two weeks later.

Mr. Keane, giving evidence, bore out Mr. Williams statement. It was an old Dodge car and he had decided on selling it. He was positive it was on Easter Sunday the car was out and not on Monday.

To the Justice—The tax was £24 a year or £6 a quarter.

Answering complainant, witness said that at the time he was questioned by the complainant he was not sure of the date until he would see his book. The car went out at 1 p.m. and returned about 5 p.m.

Complainant replying to the Justice said it was at 8 p.m. he met the car. P. Mulcahy, was the driver. He handed his diary to the Justice.

Patrick Mulcahy, driver of the car, deposed that on Easter Sunday he drove the car to Beary's Cross about 2 p.m. and returned about 5 p.m. He did not take the car out on Easter Monday as he was out with the lorry on that date and did not arrive back until 8 p.m. Witness was in the garage until about 8.30 p.m. and the car was there.

Replying to complainant witness said he remembered meeting Guard Deasey on Sunday, but not on Monday.

To the Justice—He was in Aghish, Clashmore, Ardmore, etc., delivering stuff to publicans on the Monday.

Replying to the Justice, Guard Deasey said he was not on duty on the Sunday evening, but was on duty on Monday.

Superintendent Walsh, said if the Justice would adjourn the case for a few minutes he would have the Station Book produced.

Sergt. O'Neill, produced the Station Diary, which showed that Guard Deasey went off duty at 3.30 p.m. on Sunday 21st, and went on duty at 3 p.m. on Monday 22nd.

The Justice said that on the merits of the case it did not make much difference. There was an admission of guilt. The Guard fixed the time at 8 p.m. on Monday. He imposed a fine of £72 mitigated to 20/.

LIGHTS ON VEHICLES

Guard McGee, prosecuted David Connors, Clonea, Patk. Cooney, Balinroad, Jas. Moynihan, Mce. Tobin, Deelish, Ml. McCarthy, and Mce. Cowman, Deelish.

Guard Rafferty, had similar cases against Patk. O'Donnell, Ballycullane, John Walsh, Cappagh, Thos. Dunne, do., Jas. Fitzgerald, do., and Joseph Plunkett, Bohadon. Fines ranging from 2/6 to 7/6 were imposed.

UNTAXED CAR

In the case of Superintendent Walsh against Wm. Connors, Park, for their general meeting at next Friday night's meeting.

BOROUGH SURVEYOR'S REPORT The B.S. reported the probable cost of erecting a gate to Abbeyside Park was £3.

The matter was deferred for a month.

The Council decided to have life lines fixed at the men's bathing place from the end of the breakwater.

Stradbally, for using an untaxed car on April 25th. There was also a second charge for not being insured.

Defendant said he had made several applications for the license at the office, but as he had not got his insurance certificate he had not got the license. He had a letter from the Insurance Company which covered the period while they were making the necessary transfer in the policy. It was a car defendant had bought. Both cases were withdrawn.

CAUSING A NUISANCE

Guard McGee, prosecuted a woman named Bridget O'Shea, no fixed abode with causing a nuisance by begging on the streets.

Guard McGee said that he had received several complaints.

Defendant replying to the Justice said she was born in Waterford. She was travelling for the last 16 years, and was only asking for a copper when the Guard came.

Superintendent Walsh—She was using some very choice language yesterday.

Defendant—Oh no; I did not, that is wrong.

The Justice imposed a term of 14 days.

OLD AGE PENSION CASE

Superintendent Walsh, prosecuted Mary Power, Ballinamertina, Clashmore, with on divers dates between 3rd day of June 1934 and 13th July, 1934, wrongfully obtain from the Minister of Posts and Telegraphs six sums of 10/- each at Dungarvan Post Office, by producing certificates purporting to be signed by Margaret Cooney, mother of the defendant, who died on June 3rd, 1934.

Mr. Ryan, State Solr., prosecuted.

Mr. Farrell, solr., defended. Mr. Ryan said on the face of it, it was a bold attempt to obtain money wrongfully. Defendant went in week after week for six weeks and drew this money.

Mr. Farrell, solr., asked his Worship to deal leniently with the case. Defendant was in a bad state of health at the time, and is very badly off with seven young children. She now undertook to pay back the money and he would ask his Worship to apply the Probation of Offenders Act. Supt. Walsh, answering the Justice said defendant was a poor hard-working woman, with a good character.

The Justice adjourned the case to the second September court, the £3 to be repaid in the meantime.

BOUND TO THE PEACE

John Hayes, King street, Abbeyside, prosecuted Ml. McCarthy, same address, and sought to have him bound to the peace.

Complainant said that defendant came to his door and used terrible language to him and his wife and family. Witness had to shut the door and go for Guard Farrell. He was afraid of this man.

Defendant said he did not wish to question Hayes. He was drunk on the occasion. Plaintiff struck witness some time before.

Plaintiff—Yes; on St. Stephen's night.

Defendant was bound to the peace for 12 months himself in £5 and two sureties of £2 each or in default one month.

ASSAULT CASES

Patk. Morrissey, Shandon, summoned Thomas Duggan, and his son for assault.

Mr. Farrell, solr., for plaintiff. Plaintiff stated that on May 12th he was playing cards at Davis street with others. One of Thomas Duggan's sons was playing also, but did not interfere with witness. Thomas Duggan came down the lane and said: "You are around here again. Duggan took up an aggressive attitude. Witness stood behind a chair, but Duggan followed him up. Witness walked away and Duggan followed and threw stones. Duggan's son James, then rushed at witness and they came to handgrips. Thomas Duggan attempted to kick him and grazed his thigh. The matter was about the condition of Thomas Duggan's daughter. Witness denied that.

To Mr. Farrell—He denied that he was solely responsible for the girl's condition. He had a conversation with Thomas Duggan's wife, and might have mentioned about getting the girl to England. He stood behind a chair, but did not raise it over his head to strike Duggan. Thomas Duggan did not hit or kick witness, but he attempted to do so.

Thomas Duggan, defendant, said that on this day he came down to where his sons were playing cards. When he saw the plaintiff he said: "You dirty cur, are you coming here again. Witness's son asked what was wrong and witness told him to go to the County Home and see his sister there. He did not strike Morrissey. He was an invalid, and would not be able for Morrissey now, but he had a day when he would.

To Mr. Ryan—Witness felt bitter to

Dungarvan Excursion Club

ANNUAL OUTING

Amidst the splendour of a glorious June morning, the members of the Dungarvan Excursion Club started on their first Annual outing last Sunday.

After special Mass celebrated by the Very Rev. Canon O'Brien, P.P., V.F., at the Parish Church, members were in their respective buses in time to start sharply at 8 a.m. when they were seen off by numerous friends who cheered heartily as the travellers took to the road in gaily decorated cars en route for Glengarriff and Killarney.

At Macroom where the party had breakfast, the hotel proprietor and staff received the visitors with genuine hospitality and later the townsfolk turned out to see the representatives of the Decies in an exhibition of Irish Set Dances which the more energetic members produced on the main thoroughfare to the encouraging applause of the onlookers and the strains of sweet music supplied by the leading musician of the party on "the box."

From thence the party proceeded through the Irish-speaking district of Ballygeary on to Gougane Barra. Here delightful settings of lake and mountain were greatly admired and many a fervent prayer was said at the famous and historic ruins of the ancient home of St. Finbar, first Bishop of Cork. Cameras clicked busily as this beauty spot was taken at all angles by the many photographers in wards Morrissey, as any father would. His daughter was 17 years at the time and had a job waiting for her. He did not intend doing Morrissey any injury. He would leave him to God. He would give the Justice an undertaking not to interfere with Morrissey again.

The Justice said he would take that undertaking and adjourn the case for three months. Under the circumstances he thought Duggan did not do anything very serious.

HAVENS V. WRIGHT

Mrs. Catherine Havens, Strand street, prosecuted Patk. and Joseph Wright for assault on March 9th.

There was a cross summons by Wright against Wm. Havens, for assault on the same occasion.

Mr. L. Lanigan, solr., for plaintiff.

Mr. Farrell, solr., for defendants. Mrs. Havens, replying to Mr. Lanigan, said she was always friendly with the Wrights until the January Court, when she refused to come to Court as a witness. On the day in question she sent her son down to Wright's for a shovel which she had loaned them. Her son came back with a piece of a shovel which was not hers and she sent him back with it. Young Wright threw the shovel up the lane after her son. She asked Wright about the shovel and he used filthy language. She hit him with her left hand in the mouth and then threw the shovel into the sand heap. That night Patrick Wright, assaulted her and she went to the barracks and reported the matter to Guard O'Leary.

To Mr. Farrell—Her husband was not drunk that day. He had some drink taken. He always had. She did not hit Joseph Wright with the shovel, but with the back of her hand.

William Havens, husband of the last witness deposed he was down the town at the market all day. He met his wife coming from the barracks about 9 p.m. They went home and went into the house, and he went to the backyard. Wright was walking up and down. When he came into the house he saw a crowd at the door. He got a long stick to barricade the door to keep Wright out.

To Mr. Farrell—He was not drunk. He was 42 years in the place and never before had a row with a neighbour. He did not hit Wright on the nose with an iron bar, if he did Wright would not be able to come to Court. Witness did not stand at the door when he went in and call Wright names. The shovel the Wrights had belonging to them was nearly new.

Guard Begley, in reply to Mr. Lanigan, deposed that when Mrs. Havens came to the barracks she was bleeding from the nose. Witness went to Wright's and Wright at first said there was no trouble, he eventually admitted that there was trouble. There was no mark on Wright's nose.

Patk. Wright, defendant, denied assaulting Mrs. Havens. Havens was drunk all day around the town. Witness was working all day and went to the railway in the evening. When he came back from the Railway he went home.

The witness was cross-examined by Mr. Lanigan.

Joseph Wright and Miss Maggie Meehan, also gave evidence for the defence.

The Justice fined Wright 20/- and 20/- costs in the first case, or in default one month. He dismissed the cross case with 10/- costs.

ARDMORE DISTRICT COURT.

LARCENY CHARGES

NEW WAY TO COLLECT DEBTS

(Before Mr. G. P. Farrell, D.J.)

OBSTRUCTING WATER BAILIFFS

David Ellis, water bailiff, charged James Cooney, fisherman, with obstructing the bailiffs in the discharge of their duty.

Mr. J. L. Keane, solr., for the complainant, said he understood that the defendant was adopting a course, which rendered the taking of evidence unnecessary. He had come forward and expressed regret.

Defendant pleaded guilty and said he made a mistake. He was fined 10/- with 30/- costs and expenses.

No Lights

Guard Ryan, charged Ed. Cooney, Carrick-on-Suir, with having no red light on his motor and with not having the identification plate illuminated.

Guard Grace, charged a number of young men with using unlighted bicycles, and the usual fines were imposed.

Sergt. Fitzgerald, Ring, charged Patk. McGrath, with using an unlighted cycle.

Complainant said that defendant tried to get away, but he caught him up at 200 yards. He had no reflector.

Fined 1/6 in each case.

Larceny of Calf Skin

A young man named Wm. Cannon, was charged with the larceny of a calf skin.

Supt. Walsh, Dungarvan, said that the accused was charged with killing a calf on the premises of Ina Power, Ardsallagh, and with stealing the skin. He had made a statement pleading guilty.

The Justice said he didn't know if he could regard cattle stealing as a minor offence.

The Supt. said under the Court of Jurisdiction Act his Worship had power to deal with cases up to £20.

Mrs. Power, Ardsallagh, farmer deposed he had outoffices at Tinnahona, where he had fed 10 or 11 calves on the 3rd May, about noon. He missed one on the following day. It was between 5 and 6 weeks old, red in colour. It might be worth about 10/-.

On 5th May he found the carcass in a swamp 100 yards away. The skin and shanks were missing. The accused was at his place a few days before. Some days before that he gave him an old cow, which he killed with his permission. Accused then took the hide away and buried the carcass. A few weeks before accused came inquiring for dropped calves. He called again on Friday 3rd May, and inquired for dropped calves. He remained around the farm yard for a considerable time. Before leaving witness gave him some potatoes to take away in a sack, and he left. It was on the following day he missed the calf.

The remaining witnesses being from Youghal, the case was adjourned to next Youghal Court.

Larceny of Cheque & Money John Griffin, Kilmore, Clashmore, labourer, was charged with the larceny of a cheque value £3 15s. 0d., and £2 10s. 0d., in notes, the property of Hugh McGrath.

Supt. Walsh, prosecuted. Hugh McGrath, Ballyheeny, farmer deposed that on 15th May, Dungarvan Fair Day, he received a cheque from Mr. O'Flynn, Secretary, Waterford Board of Health, value £3 15s. 0d., in payment for milk supplied under contract. He put the cheque in an envelope and into his pocket. A few days after he put it into another envelope with three single notes and a 10/- note. On Saturday 18th May, he put another 10/- note into the envelope. On 22nd May, he was coming from Youghal, met the parish priest and gave him a £1 note, leaving the cheque and £2 10s. 0d., in the envelope. That same evening accused came to the house. About 5 o'clock to kill a pig. After killing the pig he got his tea. A child of 4 years was in the kitchen at the time. His wife and the workmen were out milking the cows. The coat with the envelope and money was hanging on a crook in the kitchen. Witness left the house about 7 o'clock going to Clashmore. He put on the coat in question. The accused left at the same time—he had a bicycle. He said he was going to Carey's of Glendine. About 7 o'clock next morning witness missed the money. The fragments produced were those of the cheque referred to.

Cross-examined—He didn't owe accused 4 weeks' wages at the time of the larceny. He didn't owe him anything.

To the Court—Accused worked for him 2 years ago and why was it he didn't ask for any wages since then. He was then about 1 1/2 years in his employment. When accused left witness owed him nothing and often since did him a good turn, getting him a horse at Clashmore.

Kate Mescall, Garryduff, deposed that about the end of May a young man came into the shop for cigarettes and tendered her a 10/- note. She gave him the cigarettes and 9/- change. She didn't know the man. She didn't recognise him.

Guard Hannan, Ardmore, deposed that on Thursday 23rd May, he accompanied Supt. Walsh, to Ballyheeny, and then to Glendine, meeting the accused about a mile from his cousin's house. Accused was told they were investigating that larceny and he produced from his pocket all the money in his possession—£2 12s. 3d., including 2 £1 notes. He said he got one from Mr. R. Power, Youghal, in exchange for silver and the other from Thos. Veale, Ardmore. He denied all knowledge of the cheque. They all went towards his cousin's house, and on being cautioned and further questioned he made a statement to the effect that he took the envelope with the money and cheque from a pocket of Hugh McGrath's coat. They then went to a field at Ballinacash, where they picked up the fragments of the cheque produced. Accused was then brought to Ardmore where he was formally arrested and charged. When questioned he said "No, sir."

The Justice said the cheque was proved and asked how the accused pleaded.

Accused—I admit taking it, but I took it against what he owed me.

The Supt. said in his statement to the Guards the accused never said a word about wages being due to him.

Accused sworn said that Mr. McGrath owed him 4 weeks' wages £2 8s. 0d., since two years ago. During those two years he claimed the wages once and Mr. McGrath gave him 5/- and said he would give him the rest. He didn't know what the cheque was, he thought it was some receipt. He didn't tell the Guards that the money was owed to him.

The Justice said there was something very crooked about the matter. To go into a man's house and take money out of his pocket wasn't the way to collect a debt. He didn't believe the man's story.

You had more money than you stole—how is that?

Accused—I had some money in my pocket.

Guard Ryan said he knew nothing against him as long as he knew him.

Accused—I was never in Court before.

The Justice said in the circumstances he would give him a chance under the P.O.A., notwithstanding the story told which he didn't believe a word of.

The Supt. said that 30/- expenses had been incurred. Only for the shameful defence set up he would not press the case.

The Justice—Some people are never paid. He was discharged on his own recognisances of £25, expenses not being allowed.

Distinguished Nun Passes Away.

A NOTED WATERFORD FAMILY.

The death, which occurred last week at the Ursuline Convent, Waterford, of Rev. Mother Mary Joseph Berchams of the Sacred Passion, will be learned of with deep regret, not only in Waterford city, but throughout this and other countries wherever a former student of Mother Berchams is to be found. Aged 92 years, the venerable member of the Ursuline Community was a jubilarian having been in the 60th year of her religious profession. During a long religious life she devoted her exceptional gifts of ability and character to the benefit of the many thousands of pupils who came under her care. Her life's work was teaching, and she brought to bear on her task talents of an outstanding order, not the least of which were her advanced cultural and artistic accomplishments, allied with a kindly considerate nature, a keen motherly interest in the welfare and progress of her students, and a deeply devotional outlook. She will be remembered by all who had the pleasure and advantage of her assistance and her friendship with feelings of deep and sincere affection, and many a fervent prayer will be offered for the repose of her soul. The last surviving member of her generation of the family of Mr. Thomas Paul Sherlock, the late Mother Berchams was a brilliant artist, and several of her beautiful pictures are at present hung at the Ursuline Convent.

The Sherlocks of Waterford, of whom Mother Berchams was such a distinguished member, was one of the oldest and most prominent of the old Catholic families of the city—prominent in the religious social and public life of Waterford for a long period dating back to the fifteenth century. The genealogy of this remarkable family is now lost in the midst of years, but many references to its members are made in Histories of the city and county of Waterford. Sir Thomas Sherlock, an ancestor of Mother Berchams, who was at one time the head of the family in the city, suffered severe hardships at the hands of the Cromwellian Government for his Catholic principles. Mother Berchams' father, Mr. Thomas Paul Sherlock, resided for many years at Carigmorna, Kilrossanty, his wife being a sister of Capt. Coghlan of Dromina. In later years he moved into the city and resided at Beresford street, where he died at an advanced age, after having married a second time, his widow being formerly a Miss Mansfield. He occupied the office of High Sheriff, and was collector of the county cess in the Barony of Decies without Drum. At one time Butlerstown was the property of the Sherlocks and they resided at Butlerstown Castle. Mother

Berchams was a sister of Messrs. Alexander and Patk. Sherlock, Miss Annie Sherlock, Mrs. Stephenson, Framore, Mrs. P. D. Walsh, Waterford, Mrs. D. F. Slatery, Dungarvan, all of whom have long since passed away. The only surviving member of the family on the maternal side is at present residing in America. The Sherlocks of Waterford are buried at Butlerstown.

MR. MacENTEE AND ECONOMIC WAR

Speaking at Skerries, the Minister for Finance, Mr. MacEntee, said he noticed Mr. Lavery and the Fine Gael Party were clamouring for a settlement of the economic war. Everybody was anxious for a settlement—the Government no less than other parties—but a settlement and a surrender were two different things, both in themselves, and in the consequences which would flow from them. A fair settlement, a just settlement, of this dispute could not but bring the British and Irish peoples closer together in friendship; an enforced settlement, a surrender, could not but leave their relations more embittered than ever.

He did not deny, continued Mr. MacEntee, that this economic warfare was impeding and dislocating their export trade, and that in consequence some sections of their people were suffering, and suffering grievously.

But the Government's policy was to mitigate that suffering and, as far as the national resources permitted, everything possible had been done to relieve it.

If there was an economic war and suffering, said Mr. MacEntee, the cause of it was the secret agreement of 1923. Mr. Cosgrave plumed himself on being a shrewd negotiator, a keen business man, a good judge of a bargain. In the past, when he made what he thought was a "damned good bargain," he was not slow to tell the people about it. Why had the people heard nothing about the agreement of 1923? Did even the legal advisers of the Cumann na nGaedheal Government know anything about it?

On behalf of the electorate, said Mr. MacEntee, he put the question to Mr. Lavery now: When he was advising the Cumann na nGaedheal Government on the question of the land annuities in 1931-32, was he aware of the existence of this secret agreement of 1923?

Speaking at Lusk, Mr. MacEntee said that horse breeding and bloodstock was an important factor in Co. Dublin agriculture. He was in a position to say that the whole position in regard to it was receiving the close attention of the Minister for Agriculture, who was considering the advisability of setting up a Commission to inquire into the best means of fostering and helping the industry.

That was something that ought to have been done by Mr. Lavery's party years ago when they were in power for the horse-breeding industry had great potentialities as a source of wealth and employment.

THE VICTOR OF CLONTARF

Brian Boru was one of the famous Dalcassian Tribe—"those animated, high-minded ones who never brooked injustice or tyranny from any king of the kings of Erin." At the beginning of the 11th century the Northmen dominated Ireland, but Brian unlike most of the Munster princes, refused to submit to their control. The ambition of his life was to effect the overthrow of the enemies of his people. Through his valour he became king of Munster, establishing his throne at Kincora. He joined with the Ard-Ri Malachy, his personal rival, defeating the Danes in the battle of Glen Mama (1000 A.D.), afterwards capturing the city of Dublin then a Danish city. Aspiring also to the supremacy of Ireland, Brian marched on Tara. Malachy was obliged to submit, and in 1002 A.D. acknowledged Brian as his sovereign. Brian was an able administrator. He built roads, bridges, and other public works; interested himself in the fostering of religion and education. He sent "professors and masters to teach wisdom and knowledge; and to buy books beyond the sea." It was not to be expected that the Danes would acquiesce to his rule. Thus they banded together in a final bid for power. Brian's army, including most of the great Irish chieftains, amongst whom was the magnanimous Malachy, met the Danes at Clontarf on Good Friday, April 23rd, 1014. This battle was the last and most terrible struggle of Dane and Gael, of pagan and christian, on Irish soil. It brought victory to christian Ireland, and destroyed the power of the Danes in Europe. But it also resulted in the death of one of the greatest figures of NATIONAL PRIDE.

ANOTHER DISTINCT SUCCESS—

In the previous number we told you of the visit of the Straumity Amateur Dramatic and Choral Classes to Ocean View Hall, Clonea, Dungarvan, on the 2nd inst. (in aid of the Stradball Parish Church Renovation Fund), and of the brilliant performances which gained them (both individually and collectively) the bouquets of a pumper house. And we told you of the lovable leader of these bright and cheery artists—the straightforward son of South Tipperary, who spoke their gratefulness to the estimable proprietress of Ocean View Hotel, Mrs. S. Monahan, for her kindness in placing the hall at their disposal, gratis, and helping in every way she could to make their visit of the occasion to come and invigorating Clonea as entertaining as possible. Repeating their grand variety programme at Ballylamban Schoolhouse on Sunday night last, for the same laudable object, the deservedly popular classes again captivated a capacity house. The 3-act comedy, "The Able Dealer" (by J. Bernard McCarthy), and the Nigger and "dumb" sketches were voted excellent both from the point of view of acting and staging. Concertual contributions were exceptionally fine also. Miss A. Flynn, accompanied the vocalists on the piano with her wonted ability. The sumptuous feast of amusement—favoured throughout by frequent flashes of wit and humour and enlivened at all points by rounds of applause, and roars of laughter—was a veritable tonic to the hearts of young and old in attendance. When, at the conclusion, the genial gentleman in charge of the Classes arose to address the audience, he was greeted with cheering which continued for several minutes. On behalf of his performers and himself personally he expressed his deep thanks and appreciation for the splendid support received that night, and voiced his gratitude to those who had willingly given seats, etc., and helped otherwise in making the schoolroom comfortable for all patrons.

A WIDELY REGRETTED DEATH—

The death of Mr. David Whelan, farmer, Ballydurn, Kilmachthomas, which occurred (after a brief illness and at a comparatively young age) at Dr. Coffey's Nursing Home, Waterford, on the morning of the 8th inst., came as a painful shock to not only his relations, but also to the general public. The late Mr. Whelan was a very cultured gentleman of a high intellectual calibre, and though one of the most unostentatious of men, was possessed of a kindly sympathetic manner, and many sterling traits of character, and indeed, it may be truly said of him, "he served his country and loved his kind." An extensive and progressive agriculturist, he was respected and esteemed as a man of consistent principles, and a sound Nationalist. His opinions were respected, even by those who differed from him, because of his sincerity of purpose and honourable actions at all times. The deceased was one of the outstanding players on the famous Clonea-Power hurling team of over twenty-five years ago, which included the renowned brothers Messrs. James, Eddy and Percy Kirwan, Kilcanavee, Kilmachthomas, the first-named of whom captained the team—These and several other clubmates of the late Mr. Whelan were amongst the many who accompanied the remains to Clonea-Power Parish Church on Saturday evening. Interment was made in the adjoining cemetery after the late Mass on Sunday. Next morning Solemn Requiem Office and High Mass was offered up for the happy repose of his soul in the presence of a crowded congregation. The Rev. J. O'Donnell, C.C., Carrickbeg (cousin of the deceased) was celebrated; assisted by nine other priests. The deepest sympathy is extended to Miss Margaret Whelan, Ballydurn (sister), and the other immediate relatives in their sad bereavement. The late Mr. Whelan was a worthy member of an old native family with numerous connections throughout the Decies and South Tipperary.

If kindness and refinement joined With candour fair, can honour call, Then Dathi O'Faolain will find Remembrance in the hearts of all.—Peace to his soul.

CONDOLENCE.

The Gaels of Mid-Waterford will be with us in extending condolence to solid sportsman Pat Whelan, N.T., (retired), Waterford, in his bereavement occasioned by the death of a first cousin of his at Portlaur on a recent date. Dominic Padraig filled the Principalship of Clonea-Power Boys' National School for more than forty years, and in all that time he did more than one true man's part in fostering the national games and pastimes, and was in his heyday a reputedly versatile athlete. All of the present Clonea-Power caman representation (which is served by six doughty wielders with the surname Whelan) were pupils of our revered veteran friend.

OTHER RECENT DEATHS—

All that was mortal of the late Mr. Patrick Fraher, farmer, Kilbrien, was laid to rest in Kilrossanty Churchyard in the presence of innumerable mourners and sympathisers. Very Rev. W. Kehoe, P.P., officiated at the graveside.—R.I.P. After a lengthy illness, borne with true Christian fortitude and resignation, Miss Kathleen Power, Leamybrien, passed hence to the inexpressible grief of all who knew her. Burial took place in the family plot in Kilrossanty Churchyard, amid many manifestations of sorrow. Fr. Kehoe, P.P., officiated, assisted by Rev. Fr. Harty, C.C.—May she rest in peace.

SUCCESSFUL YOUNG LADIES—

A pleasure to note that estimable Miss Alice O'Connell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Connell, Ballydurn, Kilmachthomas, and niece of the Very Rev. W. J. O'Connell, P.P., Dunmore, has just received her final certificate ranking her a fully qualified nurse, she having brilliantly passed at the State Examination held recently in Dublin, after a training of four years at the County and City Infirmary, Waterford. Miss Joan Thompson, daughter of Mr. T. Thompson, undertaker, Barrack street, Waterford, who was trained with Miss O'Connell, has also passed her final certificate of qualification; while another colleague of theirs, Miss Nora Power, who hails from Ballyvoile, Stradbally, has passed her preliminary nursing examination. In warmly congratulating the charming trio, we truly wish them continued success in the noble profession of their choice.

FEIS PORTLAIRGE—

A Mahon Valley Gael writes:—"All shades of political opinion in the Deise patronised Feis Portlaurge, which was a most successful function from every view-point. The various competitions were keenly contested, the competitors with a few exceptions, being drawn from Waterford schools. Amongst the adjudicators I noticed many old friends—genuine Gaels who were giving active support to the Irish-Ireland movement upwards of twenty years ago. The dancing was true to the best traditional style. The singing struck me as being somewhat below the standard of the previous year. I thought Mr. R. Cantwell, Mooncoin, had a rather easy passage in winning through the violin competition. An Fear Mhor: Tomas Breathnach, B.A., P. O'Milleada; Muiris de Leis, B.A., M. Kenneally; Sean Curran, B.A.; Tomas O'Caibain; Siobain Rairdain; M. O'Connachair and Sean Dowdny, were well to the fore. Why not a Feis in the Deise centre, the home of Dan Fraher, of fifty years fame? Are the Gaels all departed from the West, where the tradition of Padraig Denn and Tadg Gaolach still smoulders? I fancy that an Irish-Ireland day in the Old Borough would have a wonderful effect on the old Gaels of Kilrossanty and district—why it would make them young again!"

BY THE WAY—

It seems to your simple scribbler that shaving does not receive the prominence it deserves as one of the major irritations of life—in and out of Kilmachthomas. From the day we self-consciously scrape off the first downs we are fighting a losing battle. At first we shave, perhaps, once a month; then once a week, and so on until the time comes when we shave in the morning, and meeting the girl friend at night, she says we don't think much of her, not bothering to shave! Those of us who have been blessed with fair hair are looked upon with envy by brethren whose chins bear the blue of the hue of the Cappoquin Rowing Club colours! As for razors, when we cut the first stales, or stalks, of the future plantation we use father's old not-so-sharp cut throat with success. But as time passes and the interval between each weeding operation grows less and less, the undergrowth is also becoming tougher and tougher. Where at first we used cold water, any old soap and a minimum of time, we now use hot water, the best shaving soap, a super-sharp razor, and after lathering for ten minutes, scraping for five and cursing for an appreciable amount of the time, we succeed in looking from five to seven per cent less blue than before!!! I have heard of Negroes, Eskimos, Red Indians, or Chinese shaving. Yet with all this choice of race "mise bocht fein" was born a white he-man!!!! I have often wondered at the phrase, "The white man's burden," but now the meaning is too painfully clear!!!!

GRACE—

There is a story now current in Comeragh Valley to the effect that within the month a 80-years-young Old Borough business man was asked to say grace, and, being unaccustomed to the ceremony, made this effort:—"Dear Lord, We are in receipt of your kind favours of recent date, and beg to thank you. We hope to merit your continued courtesy."

WE PUT IT TO YOU—

That the Weatherman is wafting too much water our way lately.— That the Grove Road, Kilmachthomas has been re-surfaced and tar-sprayed by a competent company of Co. Council workmen, under Mr. Martin Walsh.— That no married son of Stradbally knows the actual duration of the minute his wife says she will be when dressing.— That Sliabh gCua gentewomen should only be called ladies when there are two or more of them.— That the winsome wives of the non-bachelors of Bohadon will not allow sombrero hats to hang on their husband's heads any more.— That old-fashioned scents are again in favour in Fenor.— That lavender water is now more popular than exotic French perfumes in the "Lost City" of Portlaur.— AND.— That Ancestress Anne The Metal Man, And Maud Moryah are three

Good people who The Muse off' too With feelings of high glee; And find their themes In wisps of dreams, And lift as hours pass by, Of lovely things, Like angel wings, And tiny strips of sky; Of slumbrous spells In grassy dells, Of flashing fountains cool; Snow-lathered hills, And daffodils, And lilies in a pool; Of fields of stars, And lattice bars Half-hiding glowing eyes; of spices fine, And mellow wine, And silken tapestries; Of rigadoon, And jewelled shoon, And flaunting gontalons; Of gentle breeze, Pelucid seas, And gilded galleons; Of languid noons And pearly moons In many an olden shore; The jaunting car To Ferry Bar, Comeragh, Curraghmore And little care How ill they fare, But sings the Beautiful To stony hearts And folks of parts, Who're heedless as a rule.

WE LEARN—

That the West Waterford Divisional Board has fixed the Eire Og (Dungarvan) v. Kilmachthomas junior hurling replay for Kilmachthomas on the 30th inst. When these teams clashed at Dungarvan a fortnight ago, the result was a draw—2-1 to 2-1. The approaching mix promises to be a dinger in our midst.

MISSION—

The Very Rev. Fathers Nolan and Quinn, of the Redemptorist Order, Limerick, will conduct a fortnight's mission in Kilrossanty and Fews parish, beginning in St. Bridg's Parish Church, on to-morrow (Sunday).

WONDERS WILL NEVER CEASE—

A Kill-born lady, living in Budapest, writes stating that a child nine weeks old has surprised the family by "talking clearly and intelligibly." What an old-fashioned baby it must be? Babes of Banba who say "da-da" and "ma-ma" after months of maternal coaxing are looked on as normally advanced, but any ordinary mother would get the fright of her life if her infant of nine weeks (without any schooling or special home tuition) began "spouting" about domestic affairs or current politics. We wonder the benedict about Budapest are excited over this prodigy in their midst, and it will be interesting to follow the career of such an unusual child, and to see if he will become a street hawker or a Prime Minister.

A LAND ANNUITY AGREEMENT

Speaking at a Co. Dublin by-election meeting during the week, Mr. Cosgrave, T.D., asserted that the President's statement on the annuities was "neither a complete story nor, in consequence, a true history of the events which began in February, 1922, when General Collins signed a whole series of agreements with the British Government.

Pending a definite scheme of capitalisation, the Irish Government undertook to collect the land annuities and transfer them to the British Government in discharge of the interest and sinking fund of the Land Stock, said Mr. Cosgrave. That document was published and appeared in volumes which were open to the President to see and read.

The following year the responsibility to deal with that question devolved on him (Mr. Cosgrave). It so happened at the time of the passing of the Wyndham Act the undertaking to the landlords was that they should get cash, and to get that Land Stock had to be issued at a discount.

So large was that task that at the beginning £125 worth of stock had to be issued to get £100 cash. He (Mr. Cosgrave) was confronted with the fact that interest and sinking fund on land annuities totalled £4,000,000, and the revenue was only £3,000,000.

The agreement he signed at that time put the responsibility on the State to provide the deficit.

That story was told in the Dail within three months, and in the Appropriation accounts of that year there appeared a sum of £3,000,000 voted to the British Government for annuity debts in respect of the collection that had been made by the Irish Government.

That situation was not disclosed by the President in his speech, and he was not unaware of it, because he (Mr. Cosgrave) had told him of it more than once.

Nine times, he went on, the documents in respect of the agreement of 1923 came before the Oireachtas—five times in the Dail and four times in the Seanad and not a member of the President's party or a man who subsequently joined that party, was in the Dail at the time.

In a speech reminding the Parliament of this State that the agreement of 1923 had wiped out the responsibility of this country for any share of the public debt of Britain, he (Mr. Cosgrave) mentioned that this country had to pay the Land Commission annuities, and he told the British that during the period that that agreement was being made, wiping out that liability, Mr. de Valera was going around the country telling the people that they were going to be saddled with a sum of £19,000,000 a year. Dealing with the financial policy of the Government, he said that when they came into office they proposed to collect £27,250,000, and in order to collect that they imposed £24,000,000 extra taxation. The figure this year was £29,250,000—a £2,000,000 increase since they came into power. And the excuse for imposing taxation on the necessities of life was that there had been a reduction in receipts from Customs and they had to get revenue from other sources. This year there was £1,200,000 more revenue from Customs, and £1,000,000 more extra taxation; therefore, the Customs case went by the board and the increased taxation arose from increased expenditure. One would expect that with this extra increased expenditure to see more people in employment. Notwithstanding the figures of people in employment, however, the unemployment figures rose. It was the bounden duty of the Executive Council to see that the imposition of extra taxation did not fall too heavily on the people least able to bear it but instead they found taxation on the necessities of life.

DECREE AGAINST P.P. AND EX-TEACHER.
PUPIL'S FALL FROM WALL.

A decree for £60, with costs and expenses, was given at Clonmel Circuit Court in a case in which Bridget Butler, (7), Glasha, Co. Waterford, suing by her father, Cornelius Butler, sued Very Rev. L. Egan, P.P., Newcastle, as manager of Newtown National School, Ballymacarbery, and James Donovan, former principal teacher at the school, for £300 damages for injuries received by the child through falling from a wall near the school during play hour.

The plaintiffs alleged that the defendants did not exercise proper supervision and care. The defendants contended that all possible care was taken in the circumstances.

AGED UNCLE DECREEED—WOMAN'S SLANDER ACTION.

Judge Scaly, at Clonmel, gave a decree for £75 when Mrs. Mary Frances Mulcahy, Glasha, Co. Waterford, claimed £1,000 damages in an action for slander against her uncle, James Mulcahy (87), Slievenamon Hotel, Clonmel.

Mr. J. J. Walsh, B.L., for plaintiff, described the slander as a most vicious one.

AMATEUR DRAMATICS.

In the Town Hall, Dungarvan, on Tuesday and Wednesday night last, the Dungarvan Amateur Dramatic Club produced that delightful 4-act Drama "Not Guilty," in aid of the Funds of the Children's Health Committee. The Drama was perfectly staged and the lighting effects were perfect. The Dungarvan orchestra, under Mr. McHugh, B.M., supplied excellent music. The various members of the caste performed their parts in such a high-class manner and with such dramatic effect as to win the unstinted applause of the large audience who patronised the performance each night.

WRETCHED BANK HOLIDAY.

The Whitsuntide holiday was one of the most miserable experienced for a number of years and the cold and rain of last Monday were enough to make anyone sigh for a ray of sunshine. So unfavourable was the weather that most people had to remain indoors and those who went travelling had by no means the pleasant time they anticipated. The various dances on Monday night at Tramore, Ocean View Hotel, and Strand Palace, Young-hal, were largely patronised and thoroughly enjoyed.

RABBIT BOUNTY.

According to an order of the Government, 3d. bounty will be paid on each rabbit exported to Britain or Northern Ireland as from this week. Now as rabbits are as plenty as blades of grass this year and as they are doing terrible damage to crops it is hoped that with the bounty in force they will be caught by the thousand and sent away. Ferrets will have to do some overtime to trip up the surplus rabbits while several other improvised methods will be availed of to knock them on the head.

COAL! COAL!

We have recently discharged a cargo of the finest South Wales Red Ash House Coal. This is an exceptionally high-class coal. It is only procurable for a few months during the summer. We would impress on our customers to give it a trial. We are sure they will be pleased with the results, and we would strongly advise them to stock as much as possible of this coal for the coming winter. We ourselves intend doing it as far as our space will allow. Finally, we say we have never imported a better coal of this class in the past 60 years. A. Moloney & Sons., Ltd., Dungarvan.

CAPPOQUIN NOTES.

HOME AGAIN.

The Right Rev. Dom Celsus O'Connell, Lord Abbot of Mount Mellerey, who had been absent in America for a considerable time, arrived at Cove on the Cunard-White Star vessel Britannic, on Saturday and returned to Mount Mellerey the same evening, looking a picture of health.

His Lordship's visit to the United States was for the purpose of attending the important religious ceremony of the consecration of the Lord Abbot of New Mellerey, Iowa, a branch of the Parent House of the Cistercian Order at Mount Mellerey, Cappoquin, which has also important branches of the Order in Roscrea and Coalville, Leicestershire.

Some years ago a Community of Cistercian Nuns was established at Glencairn, Lismore, by the Mount Mellerey Community where a splendid convent has been erected in the imposing building on the southern bank of the Blackwater, formerly known as "Glencairn Abbey," which is situated amidst the most picturesque sylvan scenery in Ireland.

"Prize Day" at Mount Mellerey Seminary, which in recent years had been usually held in the month of May had to be postponed this year owing to the absence of the Lord Abbot, but now that he has returned, no time has been lost in fixing this interesting function for next Sunday and Monday, the 16th, and 17th inst.

"Prize Day" at Mount Mellerey includes a splendid vocal and instrumental entertainment of the students of the Seminary, as well as a wonderful display of gymnastics by the pupils of Mr. Frazer, Gynnasium Instructor, and the programme for next Sunday and Monday promises to be fully up to the same high standard of excellence which has characterised all similar celebrations for many years past.

The annual Athletic Sports by the Students will be held in the fine Sportsfield attached to the Seminary on next Saturday.

THE MISSION.

The fortnight's Mission which was opened here on last Sunday week by Rev. Fathers Leo and O'Connor, of the Redemptorist Order has been proving a remarkable success.

The large congregations attending the morning Masses and lectures, and the evening devotions and sermons, as well as the large numbers crowding around the confessionals daily, have brought much gratification and joy to the hearts of the saintly Fathers conducting the Mission, and on Monday night Rev. Father O'Connor, in the course of his sermon, warmly thanked the people of the town and parish for the splendid manner in which they were attending the Mission, despite unfavourable weather, and said their action was most heartening and edifying, and was bound to bring the greatest blessings and graces on the town and parish. During the present week all the sick persons in the town and country were visited in their homes by the good Fathers, who heard their confessions and gave them Holy Communion, and they have been working early and late in the most zealous and untiring manner to ensure that every person in this extensive parish should be afforded every opportunity of enjoying all the advantages of the Mission.

A GREAT GREYHOUND.

A remarkable record has been established on the Greyhound Racing Tracks at Clonmel and Cork this season by the Brindle dog, "Headley's Fancy," the property of that popular sportsman, Mr. George Armstrong, N.T., Ballysaggart.

This dog was bred and reared by Mr. O'Sullivan, Tournafulla, Co. Limerick, and was trained this season by Mr. Jack Keating, Cappoquin, one of the most experienced and successful trainers of greyhounds in the County.

Sired by "Glenquin Cutler" out of "Brosna Gypsy," this promising dog has completed seven times since early in May this year, and has now no less than six wins and one second to his credit out of his seven races.

He first won a 525 yards race in Cork early in May in 34.85; his second victory was scored in Clonmel over the same distance in 33.30; he won again in Clonmel in a similar race in 32.80; his fourth victory was scored in Cork in a 600 yards race in 36.72; in a 550 yards race he next won in Clonmel in 34.0, while on last Monday night at Clonmel in a 525 yards race he scored his sixth victory in 31.90, so that it can be seen he has been covering the distance in faster time at each successive competition.

The only race in which he got second place was over the Cork Track several weeks ago, but his six victories since have more than atoned for this solitary defeat, and both Mr. Armstrong, the owner, and Mr. Keating, the Trainer, deserve to be heartily congratulated on this splendid record.

At Clonmel on Monday night a young dog, "Neidan's Victor," also owned by Mr. Armstrong, and trained by Mr. Keating, competed for the first time over the track, and was beaten for first place by only a short head, so that this dog also gives every promise of proving another profitable investment for Mr. Armstrong.

Another valuable dog on Mr. Keating's "string" at present is a bitch named "Ballyhussa," owned by Mr. John Kiersey, Kilmacthomas, which has already won three races at Clonmel this season, and was only beaten by a neck for second place in Shelbourne Park, Dublin, on Monday night, so it looks as if Mr. Keating, as a successful trainer, is out to make history for himself this season.

ANOTHER LOCAL WINNER.

At the Tramore Races on Whit Monday the Strand Plate of 40 sovs. was won in convincing style by a length by "Herod's Fancy," owned by Mr. Paddy Walsh, Cappoquin, one of the most popular sportsmen in Munster. This speedy mare had already several wins over hurdles to her credit, but it was her first time competing in a steeplechase and she beat the red-hot favourite "Ballygreen," in her first attempt over fences.

BUS EXCURSIONS TO YOUGHAL.

The first of the bus excursions from Cappoquin to Youghal was run on last Sunday, but owing to the unfavourable weather which prevailed, the opening trip was only poorly patronised. Apart from the atmospheric conditions altogether, there are two factors in connection with this service which we fear will not make those excursions popular with the people of Cappoquin.

The first is that the bus starts direct from Clonmel, and picks up passengers en route to Cappoquin, so that if a large party from this town had intended to go to Youghal, and found the bus already full on its arrival here they were left at home for the evening, as it would be then too late to arrange for an outing to some other venue. The second factor is, perhaps, still more fatal to the popularity of the service, this being the fare of 3/- each charged, which most people consider excessive under the circumstances. It is pointed out that any party of five persons can get a private car to take them to Youghal at 3/- each, when they could enjoy the advantages of being able to stop where they pleased and return home at any hour they wished, instead of having to leave Youghal at 9 o'clock on a fine Summer evening, according to the bus time-table. In the good old days when we had a pleasure steamer plying between Cappoquin and Youghal the return fare on Sunday was only 1/6 each, and oh, what glorious scenery one could then enjoy during this charming trip of 18 miles over the enchanting "Irish Rhine."

We would strongly suggest to the promoters of the bus service the necessity of reducing the present fare considerably, as money is not as plentiful in Cappoquin now as it once was, and if a lower fare than 3/- per head be charged we have no doubt that the increased patronage which the bus would receive each Sunday would quickly recoup the owners for any

GRANTS IN RELIEF OF RATES AGRICULTURAL LAND.
 £100,000 LESS THAN LAST YEAR

The Government have embodied in the text of the Rates on Agricultural Land (Relief) Bill a decision arrived at last March to reduce this year the Agricultural Grant in relief of rates by £100,000. The amount of the grant this year will be £1,870,000, as against £1,970,000 last year.

The reduced grant will operate only in respect of valuations over £20. Farmers will, therefore, receive the full grant by way of relief also at the full rate in respect of adult male labour employed on the farm. For each male worker relief at the full rate will apply to £12 10s. of the valuation.

In case of a farmer, say, of £50 valuation he would receive full relief on the first £20—the sum would vary in respect of each county—and should he have one male worker he would get relief on a further £12 10s., making full relief on £32 10s. On the balance of £17 10s. the relief known as the "supplementary allowance" would operate. It is about 2/2 in the £ less than the rate applicable to the first £20, and the reduction of the grant by £100,000 in relation to the "supplementary allowance" would, therefore mean a reduction of the 2/2 allowance by about 6d. or 6 1/2d. or, roughly, 9/- per annum.

Co. Waterford share of the grant is £22,852, which is a reduction of £3,303, which the farmers must pay.

YOUGHAL NOTES.

WHITSUN—Whitsuntide—it might be well called "Wetsuntide," with "sun" deleted—was the worst washout with wind and wet probably ever experienced. The Sunday was not too bad. All day long a bitter breeze blew from about S.S.W., but fortunately for the many visitors who came from all parts, the rain held off pretty well. Trippers from the city brought the news that it had been raining heavily there since the early morning and this kept many from coming down, but large numbers arrived by train and bus, lorry and motor, from Clonmel, Skibbereen, Dunmanway, Drinagh, etc. Barring the absence of Old Sol's rays, they had a fairly good day and imbibed among other things a plentiful dose of the briny ozone from the Atlantic. Owing to the weather conditions the outdoor amusements on the Strand were poorly patronised, but the Strand Palace had overflowing houses for its several dance Sessions, furnishing a perfect end to an imperfect day. Monday was the limit with wind and rain. As a consequence very few arrived by the earlier trains, but a heavily laden one arrived in the afternoon and didn't the trippers catch it. However, many of them enjoyed themselves to their heart's content in the Strand Palace. As will be seen by our advertising columns, visitors after regaling themselves along the splendid beach, can turn in and wind up their day by the sea, in a most pleasant manner.

LEAGUE OF THE CROSS

By kind permission of the Urban Council, the Youghal League of the Cross Brass and Reed Band gave a recital in the Green Park on Sunday evening. Unfortunately owing to the inclemency of the weather they had to abandon their programme when only halfway through. The various items were warmly approved by those present. Every credit is due to the members for their part, and to their able Bandmaster, Mr. E. Bush, for the able manner in which he trained and conducted them. The townspeople and visitors will have the pleasure of hearing them again on Sunday evenings during the season. They have purchased several new instruments recently and are intent on having a complete new set in the early future.

The Spiritual Director of the League, Rev. E. J. Fox, C.C., is leaving nothing undone to make both the Band and the Society in general a great success. The fine hall has been renovated at considerable expense. Electric light and wireless have been installed. During the winter, Whist Drives and other entertainments were held in the spacious concert room. Two splendid billiard tables furnish additional amusement. A Dramatic and Choral Class was started under the able conductorship of Mr. E. Clancy, and they gave several successful dramas and concerts during the past winter. While an energetic caretaker living on the premises has all the rooms and arrangements in perfect condition.

Now that this admirable institution which was established half a century ago, has again been placed on a sounder footing than ever, it deserves the practical support of the whole community and the capable Hon. Sec., Mr. M. Brown, will supply any information required by intending new members.

GALLANT RESCUE

A very gallant rescue from drowning took place at Youghal on Monday evening, when Robert O'Connor, O'Neill Crowley street, aged 17, risked his own life to save Christopher Hennessy, aged 6. It appears that the little fellow while playing at the Double Slips, Upper Quay, fell into the water. The accident was witnessed by some fishermen at a distance and their shouts reached O'Connor, who immediately rushed to the scene, threw off his coat, plunged in and swam towards the struggling lad. In the nick of time he took hold of him and brought him to the quayside, where he was caught by an onlooker and landed safely on the quay. Young O'Connor's prompt and plucky act deserves the warmest commendation.

POPULAR CLERGYMAN

PRESENTATION TO A TALLOW RECTOR

On Ascension Day, after service held in St. Catherine's Church, Tallow, the members of the congregation gathered together at the door of the church to make a presentation to the Rev. J. W. Camier, who has been transferred to the parish of Dunobilly, in the Diocese of Cashel. Amongst those present were several Catholic friends who had subscribed to the presentation, which took the form of a wallet of notes. The presentation was made by Capt. Carew on behalf of the subscribers, who expressed the regret of the parishioners and others at his departure after ten years' residence in their midst, where he had worked so long and harmoniously as Rector of the parish. Mr. Camier replied, thanking the donors for their kind thoughts and generous gift.

TRADING WITH ENGLAND

Cork Co. Committee of Agriculture, on the motion of Mr. O'Leary, seconded by Mr. O'Driscoll, resolved to request the Government to put into practice the recent utterances of the President re trading with England, as it would be a great benefit to our cattle trade and agricultural industries.

Land Annuities.

MR. DE VALERA'S VIEW

The refusal of the Government to hand over the Land Annuities to Great Britain was defended by President de Valera at a meeting in Dublin last week.

Considering, said the President, the magnitude of the sum of money at stake, and the consequence of this dispute to their people, there was probably no subject of public discussion upon which there appears to be such an amazing amount of ignorance—misinformation and misunderstanding. This subject had now been a matter of public debate for almost a period of ten years. For over eight years it had been a matter of hot political controversy. Yet there were many who had not yet any clear appreciation of the facts on which the merits of this dispute must be judged. The first of the prevalent misconceptions was (a) that the monies with which the Irish tenant farmers purchased their holdings were lent to them by certain members of the community here and in Britain. The second misconception was (b) that it was the Government of Great Britain which advanced the monies to the Irish farmers that it is accordingly to the Government of Great Britain that the land annuities are naturally due, that our Government therefore in collecting these annuities and withholding them from Britain is misappropriating money which belongs to another State.

It was absolute nonsense to pretend that the land stock holders lent their money to the Irish farmers. The land stock holders would not have advanced a shilling to the Irish farmers. The land stock holders subscribed their money to a loan issued by the Government of the then United Kingdom and Great Britain and Ireland. He wanted the people constantly to bear in mind the importance of the word "Ireland" in the title. On the credit of Ireland as well as on that of Great Britain those loans were obtained, and they were ultimately secured on the revenues from Ireland no less than on those from Great Britain. It was not to the Irish farmers then that the land stock holders lent their money, nor had they any right to look to them for repayment or for dividends. The Irish farmer owed no debt to the stock holders. If a housewife got her tea on credit from her grocer she owed a debt to her grocer, not to the tea planter. The Irish farmer had no contractual or moral obligation of any kind to the stock holders. The Irish farmer's obligation lay originally to the State that advanced him the money, and that State, he said, was the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland. If they were clear on that point they would surely see the humbug of talking about the retention of the land annuities by our State as "defrauding the land stock holders." The land annuities were due from the farmers to the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland if it existed; or if that State had gone out of existence and the partnership was dissolved, then to whatever State had succeeded to the right and title to receive them.

Tracing the succession of that title, and at the same time the succession to any obligation that might be supposed to run concurrently with the title, the President said that the United Kingdom was involved in a dual transaction. That State incurred on the one hand an obligation which it had to meet, no matter how or whence it got the wherewithal. On the other hand it was entitled to receive payment of a debt which it could remit, or dispose of as the Parliament of the State might choose to determine.

That was the position when the Government of Ireland Act was passed on the 23rd December, 1920. Under that Act Treasurers or Exchequers separate from that of Great Britain were to be set up in Northern and Southern Ireland. To those Treasurers of those two States of Ireland, North and South, the Parliament of the United Kingdom, the supreme governing body of the State to which the debt was due, transferred its right to receive payment of the annuities. Each of those Irish States was to collect from the farmers in its own area the annuities due to the old United Kingdom, and each of those States was given the right to retain the monies so collected for its own purposes. On the other hand, continued the President, with equal definiteness the Parliament of the United Kingdom transferred to the third of the three States into which the partnership of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland was separated and placed on that State's shoulder the responsibility of providing for meeting the old United Kingdom's obligation to the land stock holders. Thus the obligation was transferred to Great Britain. When the Act of 1920 became law that became the position and it was the position they contended on the day when the Treaty of 1921 was signed. The Act "gifted" the land annuities to Ireland, and transferred the burden of the obligation to the land stock holders to Great Britain alone. Anyone who desired to verify the statement might refer to the relevant section of the Act—section 26. Some people argued as if the Act of 1920 was never law in this part of Ireland. From the time of the signing of the Treaty the people had been looking forward with some anxiety to the settlement which would result from article 5 of that Treaty. Now that settlement had come, and Mr. Cosgrave had announced it triumphantly in the phrase we had got off with a big flourish.

On coming into office they made it clear that they election pledges were promises they meant to carry out. The heads of the ultimate financial settlement had been held back from the people for some nine months. Neither of these agreements had been ratified by the Dail, and it could not be considered as binding upon their people. In June, 1932, arbitration was suggested. The Free State accepted it in principle, but objected to any restriction on the choice of personnel. The British Government insisted as a point of principle that the members of the tribunal should be drawn from within the British Commonwealth. It was no less a point of principle with them once the matter was raised in that form, that they should not. As evidence of their good faith, whilst there was any hope of getting arbitration agreed upon they put the monies collected in the annuities to a separate suspense account. The British penal tariffs were next put on. Negotiation was tried, but the British continued to take their stand on the supposed inalienability of the documents of 1923. If they were to accept these documents as binding, there might be some mitigation of the amount of the burden which they imposed. At the beginning of the next financial year, 1933-34, they decided that there was no point in retaining the annuities in a separate account, and decided to use them to finance normal Exchequer requirements. Thus the economic war was initiated and had gone on. It was being waged to enforce as binding documents long kept secret, documents which had never been before the Parliament for ratification, and which would impose upon their people for decades to come burdens which no Government which saw the case as they see it could take the responsibility for agreeing that they should bear.

WILL NOT LISTEN TO PROMISES CONNEMARA INCIDENT

While speaking at an election meeting at Tully, in the heart of the Connemara Gaeltacht, Mr. Derrig (Minister for Education) was interrupted in Irish by members of Muintir na Gaedhealtachta, two of whom were stated to be national teachers. Many of the interruptions concerned the new Gaelic colony in Meath, with suggestions that Tully area had been neglected. The Minister replied that the scheme had only begun. Other parts, he said, were just as poor and had to be attended to. The Government were doing the best they could. He hoped further families would be soon transferred to Meath.

At the conclusion Seamus O Conghaile, a young local man, ascended the platform and declared in Irish that in no other part of Connemara had Fianna Fail been better supported than in Tully. Promises given to the people there had not been fulfilled, and they would not listen to further promises. The people there wanted a means of livelihood, and the matter should not be reduced to a struggle between two political parties.

UNUSED FERTILISERS.

Farmers recognise that it is always a bad policy to overbuy supplies of artificial manures for the reason that when the surplus quantity is kept in store condition it generally loses in quality. The suggestion if often made that in order to meet successfully the present low range of prices and the high cost of labour and general expenses, farmers should use large quantities of fertilisers, so that the greater yield may more than balance the increased cost. This would be logical advice if farmers could control the seasons, but, unfortunately, the weather is sometimes contrary during the growing time and at harvest, so that the outlay on the extra quantity of fertilisers may be wasted.

The season for the use of fertilisers is now drawing to a close, and it may happen that a farmer finds he has a balance of fertiliser material left over which will have to be kept in store for the next season. How far will it decline in value during the storage? Nitrate of soda can be kept for a considerable time without loss of value if stored in a good shed with dry flooring. When again required for use it may be found to have set, and in that case will have to be emptied out of the bags and broken up.

Sulphate of ammonia can also be held in store over the dear season, if stored in a dry shed, free from damp; if it cakes, it must be broken before use.

Superphosphate can be kept without any substantial loss in a dry shed; it is liable to set to a certain extent, and a portion of the phosphate soluble in water may retrograde.

Potash salts do not lose quality during storage, but becomes lumpy and hard in condition. The remedy is to break up the fertiliser before use.

Basic slag can be kept in store without loss of quality, but its condition will suffer, and the trouble of breaking it up will have to be incurred.

ELECTRICITY CHARGES IN WATERFORD

Waterford Corporation passed a resolution calling for a further reduction in electricity charges. Mr. Cosgrave said the reductions recently made

Silk Stockings from Peat AND GRAMOPHONES RECORDS FROM SAND

Silk stockings may be made from Saorstát peat. This is foreshadowed in the first annual report of the Industrial Research Council, laid before the Dail by the Minister for Industry and Commerce.

The production of gramophone records from certain sand found at Cloyne, Co. Cork, is also envisaged by the Council.

The utilisation of peat for the production of industrial alcohol is also being considered.

Research is in progress at University College, Cork, to discover whether wax for industrial purposes can be obtained from peat.

The Council is investigating the possible scientific treatment and use of a number of mineral products. Peat is one of those minerals. Its possible use for the production of artificial silk, which, if successful, would provide for the manufacture of stockings, is being considered, but has not yet been made the subject of research.

The possibility of obtaining oil from coal is also being considered. The collapse of the iodine industry, which used to furnish a market for some 400,000 tons of air-dried seaweed on the Western sea-board, has says the report, raised in a most pressing form the problem of finding some other commercial use for seaweed.

After close consideration, the Council formed the opinion that an investigation as to the possibility of utilising the cellulose and other organic matter in seaweed was amply justified, and a research on these lines is in progress at University College, Galway.

The Council, in co-operation with the Turf Development Board, the Office of Public Works, and the Department of Defence, have set up a Committee who are investigating the design of domestic stoves, cooking ranges, open ranges, and industrial boilers with a view to ascertaining which are best suited for using turf as fuel.

In the Agricultural Produce (Cereals) Act, 1934, the Minister for Agriculture has taken power to prescribe an admixture of milk powder in flour for bread-making. An investigation has been undertaken to ascertain the type of milk powder most suitable for the purpose. Tests are also being made to determine what percentage of milk powder can be used without adversely affecting the quality of the bread.

A detailed investigation into the properties of the extensive deposits of silica and clay at Portlaoighy, Co. Mayo, has been carried out by the Council.

The results indicate that the clay is quite suitable for use in the manufacture of pottery. Considerable quantities of silica sand are by-products in the winning and refining of the Portlaoighy clay, and investigations are being made into the possibilities of using this sand for glass manufacture and for other industrial purposes.

A large deposit of colloidal clay at Cloyne, Co. Cork, is being worked commercially, mainly for use as one of the constituents of synthetic foundry sand. An investigation of the possibilities of the commercial uses that could be made of this deposit and of a neighbouring deposit of silica, not only for foundry purposes, but also for other industrial applications, such as paper fillers, gramophone records and rubber manufacture is being made.

The Council hopes to make progress in further researches into the uses of clay deposits of the Free State as raw material for manufacturing purposes, and a survey will be commenced of the various possibilities of the utilisation of peat and of other native materials and products.

Researches into the obtaining of waxes from peat are being carried out by Prof. J. Reilly, assisted by Mr. E. Boyle, M.Sc., Prof. T. Dillon, assisted by Mr. V. Barry, M.Sc., is carrying out the investigations concerning the uses of sea-weed; and bonding sands are being investigated at University College, Dublin, under the supervision of Professors T. J. Nolan and J. Taylor, assisted by Dr. T. Glover, M.Sc. Tests on turf-burning apparatus are being carried out at University College, Dublin, under the supervision of Prof. J. Taylor.

PRICE OF FLOUR

The matter of the price of flour in Free State was raised by Mr. Dillon in the Dail.

Replying to the Donegal Deputy, Mr. Lemass, said that according to the information at his disposal the most recent quotation by Saorstát millers for straight-run flour was 37/6 per sack ex mill, not 39/- per sack as stated by the Deputy.

He referred the Deputy to the report of the Prices Commission on an investigation into the prices charged for wheat flour. The Commission expressed an opinion as to the extent of a justifiable margin between Saorstát and British market prices.

Since the Commission's Report was published an import duty had been imposed on wheat; that also was a factor which affected the price of flour. A further point to be borne in mind was that the price of 37/6 quoted by Saorstát millers included sacks.

Mr. Dillon asked how the Minister could reconcile that reply to the fact that in the last month he (Deputy Dillon) had paid 39/- per sack ex mill, basic rate, for bakers flour. To what quantities did the price of 37/6 per sack apply? Was 39/- a sack a true figure for quantities less than 6 tons? Was not the basic rate 39/- per sack, ex mill in this country?

The Minister replied that it was not.

Mr. Dillon asked were the comparative prices in the Free State area and in Liverpool at the present time not 39/- and 24/- respectively.

Mr. Lemass said it was not possible to get a proper comparison, but the prices for top grade flour in Liverpool was 28/- and the corresponding price here was 37/6.

Mr. Dillon said that in this country there was no top grade flour manufactured. All the baker's flour in this country at present was straight-run flour, and if the Minister made inquiry he would find that for the relative quality the prices were 39/- in the Saorstát and 24/6 in Great Britain.

CANKER IN APPLES

A well-known fruit grower once wrote that he used to consider that summer was the best time for cutting out canker on apples, but that now he thinks that the best time is whenever it is seen. By this he meant that that would be treated in the earliest possible stage so as to prevent them from growing any bigger.

Canker wounds should be pared out with a knife so as to leave healthy bark and cambium all round the margin of the wound. Whether it is necessary to get out all the discoloured wood in the middle of the wound is a moot point. The grower in question believes that he has had better results since he took trouble to carry this out as far as possible; and he considers that a quarter-inch gouge is the best tool for the purpose.

There is always a desire to dress the wound with something, but the difficulty is to find any preparation which protects the exposed wound without delaying healing. After trying many dressings, a writer in the "Estate Magazine" says he has come to the conclusion that there is nothing to be gained from any of them, and that it is best to leave the wound undressed so that it may heal over as quickly as possible.

In some districts certain varieties canker very badly. Where this happens it is not worth while to attempt their culture unless they are valuable varieties. Cox's Orange Pippin is, of course, a bad offender in some places; and this is worth trying to cure. It will be found that, if the trees are kept somewhat low in nitrogen, so that growth is hard and not luxuriant, there will be less tendency to canker.

Grassing down the land under the trees is probably the nearest thing to a remedy that can be found. After the ground has been grassed for two or three years, much less canker will usually be found.

WAR DEBT DEFAULTERS

Italy and Czechoslovakia have notified the United States that they are defaulting on their war debt instalments due for payment on June 15.

YOUGHAL URBAN COUNCIL

TOWN SURVEYOR

NEW HOUSING SCHEME

Present—Messrs. R. C. Farrell, Vice-Chairman, presiding, M. Ahern, T. Beausang, E. P. Lynch, J. Daly, D. McCarthy, R. Savage, J. R. Smyth, P.C., M. Cashman, W. O'Sullivan, J. N. R. Macnamara, solr., R. Power, M. D. Broderick, E. D. Condon.

A Bungalow

Mr. T. Flynn, Paul street, Cork, submitted plans of a bungalow, to be erected on the Main Road, at Seafeld.

A report was read from the Acting Town Surveyor, Mr. J. Murray, B.E., stating that it didn't comply with the bye-laws in several particulars.

Mr. Lynch, proposed, and Mr. Broderick, seconded, that they approve of the proposed structure provided it complied with the bye-laws.

The Clerk said that every shack on Claycastle was a breach of the bye-laws. Mr. Savage said they had to apply for permission every year. They should be very conservative in allowing the erection of any permanent structure that didn't comply with the bye-laws. If they permitted a lot of wooden structures, it would be a proper "muck-up."

The proposition was passed unanimously.

Town Surveyorship

The Clerk read correspondence from the Department in connection with the vacant post of Town Surveyor. The Council should first fix the salary and then advertise for applicants. That evening he had received another letter from the Department as follows:—"Re the correspondence relative to the vacant position of Town Surveyor, we have been informed that Mr. James Murray, who is acting temporarily, is connected with the firm of Messrs. Murray and Son, the contractors for the present Housing Scheme. If that is so, his appointment can't be sanctioned."

Mr. Ahern—That letter shows very bad taste and form on the part of the person who "informed" the Minister. Mr. Broderick—We don't know what connection there is between him and Messrs. Murray and Son.

Mr. Power said his only connection was that he was an employee of the firm. Send him a copy of the letter. It was most unfair to send any information of the kind.

The Chairman—We have first to get sanction to the salary to be paid.

On the proposition of Mr. Lynch, seconded by Mr. Power, the salary was fixed at the same figure as their late Surveyor, viz., £265 5s. 0d. per annum, with the usual percentage on new works.

Application For The Position

A letter was read from Mr. T. O'Donovan, applying for the position of temporary Engineer. He was fully qualified and had 12 years' experience. No action was taken.

Clearance Orders

On the proposition of Mr. Power, seconded by Mr. Savage, it was decided to apply to the Ministry for confirmation of the recent Clearance Orders.

New Housing Scheme

Mr. Broderick said he believed that drastic action would have to be taken against some of the tenants of their latest scheme to get the rents due on the houses. They were now about starting another scheme and they might have to face the contingency that the tenants for whom the houses were intended unable to meet a weekly rent of 3/6, would refuse to go into those houses and seek accommodation elsewhere, especially if they saw some of the present tenants put out. A very serious situation would arise and they would probably lose some of the grants.

Mr. Lynch—Did you lose grants on those houses?

The Clerk—No.

Mr. Power said Mr. Broderick was only assuming what might not arise. The Council had decided unanimously to go on with a new scheme of 28 houses.

Mr. Macnamara said that Mr. Broderick's point was very important. If the tenants for whom the houses were intended found cheaper accommodation elsewhere they might refuse to go into them.

Mr. Savage suggested that there should be an additional room in the new scheme. They were a prolific people (laughter) and a 3-roomed house was hardly sufficient.

The Chairman—That matter was decided at last meeting.

Some discussion took place as to whether they could let the houses to others, if those for whom they were intended refused to go into them.

The Clerk said they were not free in the matter, but he understood that legislation was about being framed dealing with the point. He had submitted the question to the Department.

Acknowledgment

A letter was read from Mrs. Spreadborough, widow of their late Town Surveyor, thanking the Council for their kind vote of sympathy and for their invaried appreciation of his services.

Water For The Troops

Correspondence was received from the Military Authorities in connection with a water supply for the proposed Training Camp, from July 1st to September 12th, and it was decided to provide a supply for the period for £5.

The Recent Fire

Letters were read from a number of young men who assisted at the recent outbreak of fire in the North Main St., asking for compensation for the damage done to their clothes on the occasion.

The Head of the Fire Brigade also sent in a report, submitting the names of those who had rendered valuable help.

Mr. Power said some of those men did herculean work. The usual weekly report of the Town Superintendent having been read.

Mr. Savage said that Mr. Troy deserved a warm compliment on the manner in which he superintended operations at the fire. He created order in the midst of confusion (hear, hear).

The Chairman—I thoroughly agree. Mr. Power associated himself with the remarks regarding Mr. Troy.

The Clerk was instructed to forward the correspondence to the Insurance Company with a recommendation that some compensation be granted to the men concerned.

Tralee Resolution

Copy of a resolution was received from the Tralee Urban Council requesting the Government to examine without further delay the position of the various lease-holders throughout the country whose grievance it was sought to remedy, as the matter was one of immediate national and economic importance.

Mr. Daly, proposed its adoption. Mr. Power, seconding, suggested that the Council should urge on the townspeople to form a branch of the Town Tenants' League and a Leaseholders Association was very necessary for many in the town.

The Chairman—It is a matter for the people themselves. It would not be prudent for the Council to interfere.

The resolution was adopted unanimously.

River Trips

The Hon. Secretary C.Y.M.S. forwarded a letter from the Skibbereen C.M.Y.S. inquiring what facilities were available for trips on the river and harbour on Sunday 16th.

The Clerk said that probably both their boats would be required that day, but they might be able to give a few short trips during the afternoon. It was decided to give the visitors every possible facility.

Seafeld Road

Mr. J. Murray, B.E., Acting Town Surveyor, submitted an estimate for the extension of the water main along Seafeld Road, 320 yards 3 inch pipe, £133.

The Clerk said the Council would have to be careful regarding works not budgeted for.

The meeting decided that they would not be justified in incurring an expenditure at present.

SEIZED STOCK

CATTLE, SHEEP AND MOTOR VEHICLES

FERMOY SALE

At a sale of seized livestock and vehicles at Fermoy pointed a buyer giving the name of "Owens" who was accompanied by detectives, bought 29 sheep, 25 lambs and 39 cattle for a total of £79. "Owens" also participated in the bidding for two motor cars and a lorry but those were bought back for the owner after some brisk bidding.

The first lot put up for sale consisted of 29 sheep and 25 lambs seized from Mr. Sean Verling of Buttevant, on foot of a warrant for £27 5s. 6d., and bidding for these beasts progressed from £20—"Owens" original bid—up to £34 in a bout or bidding between "Owens" and a farmer. At this figure "Owens" was declared the buyer. The second lot of 20 head of cattle seized from James Roynane, Middleton on foot of a warrant for £69 18s. were also sold to "Owens," whilst a third set of 19 cattle were sold for £25. These had been seized on foot of a warrant for £37 5s. 10d., from David Fohy, Kiltcor, North Castlelyons.

The bidding in the latter case started at "Owens" offer of £15 and was increased later, up to £20 5s. by a farmer. There was a short burst of hand-clapping, at which the auctioneer called out "order, please!" but again at the conclusion of the sale there was another burst of clapping.

A Ford saloon car seized from Cornelius Hugh O'Connor, Annagh, Buttevant, on foot of a warrant for £53 10s., was bought back for the owner by a man named O'Brien, who entered into competition with "Owens" and had the car knocked down to him for £10 5s. A Rover motor car (saloon) seized from Daniel A. O'Brien, Lisarda, on foot of a warrant for £50 16s. 4d., was bought by a man named Lynch, at £20 5s. This was also bought for the owner as was a Dodge motor lorry seized from Cornelius Cronin, Rathonaman, Coachford, on foot of a warrant for £34 4s. 8d.

The bidding started at £10 from "Owens" and a man named Lynch entered into the bidding until the lorry was knocked down to Lynch on behalf of the owner at £30 5s.

YOUGHAL DISTRICT

CRUELTY TO A CAT

PUBLIC MISCHIEF CASE

(Before Mr. G. P. Farrell, D.J.)

LARCENY OF CALF SKIN

In the case against Wm. Cannon, remanded from Ardmore, on the charge of larceny of a calf skin, the defendant pleaded guilty, and the Justice decided to hear the case summarily.

Replying to the Court, Superintendent Walsh, Dungarvan, prosecuting, said that Mr. Power, the owner of the calf had already given evidence, the additional facts were that defendant brought the skin to Youghal, where he sold it for 10/-.

At first he denied the charge but afterwards admitted it. A number of references as to character were handed in.

Sergeant O'Beirne, said the defendant was some time ago on a charge under the Unemployment Act, but he made good the amount involved. He had a young family and was in bad health.

The Justice said that was a serious offence, but in all the circumstances he would let him out once more under the P.O.A.

He was then discharged in his own recognisances of £25 and ordered to pay 10/- expenses.

Cruelty To Cat

Superintendent Kelly, charged Jas. Ledingham, Green Park Hotel, with cruelty to a cat.

Mr. Wm. R. Hodnett, solr., defended. Ed. P. Lynch, U.D.C., stated that at 10.15 a.m. on Sunday 26th May, he heard a shot. After inquiry he went to the garden and saw the cat wounded. The bullet went through the right ribs and out the left flank. He then went to the Green Park, where he saw the defendant. Witness asked him why he shot the cat and he replied the cat was after killing some chickens. The cat was rearing two kittens at the time and they had to be destroyed.

The Justice—What about the cat?—It was destroyed by the Guards. It was alive when I found it. I am not looking at the value of the cat, but defendant should not fire at random.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hodnett—He didn't believe the cat was chasing the chickens. Two years ago defendant killed another cat, but he never showed witness chickens or even feathers.

Out of pure devilment he killed those cats without any excuse?—Yes. You would resent a cat killing your chickens—I would try to find out the owner. Didn't defendant's mother offer you compensation—10/-?—I don't want it. I want the gun put away; firing like that might hurt the children.

Guard Stalk, stated the defendant admitted shooting the cat. Witness saw the bullet wounds. The cat seemed to be in pain. They destroyed it. Along with Mr. Lynch he interviewed defendant, who didn't show them any feathers.

Mr. Hodnett said that Mrs. Ledingham suffered great annoyance and loss from cats attacking her chickens. Two years ago a cat belonging to the same man was shot at and killed. She lost 20 chickens that time. His client saw the cat in the act of capturing a chicken and he fired at and wounded it. It might be said that some suffering was caused, but there was some justification.

The Justice—We will see that. Defendant stated he held a licence for a 22 rifle. Seeing the cat attack the chicken on his own side of the wall he fired at it. Two years ago they lost 20 chickens and he shot a cat that time.

To the Court—He had the gun in Macroom for killing vermin and he brought it to Youghal.

Mr. Hodnett—I suppose you realise that there is some danger using the rifle in closed premises?—There was no fear when I fired.

The Justice said he thought what had been proved amounted to cruelty. It was a wrong use of the gun. Some other means should have been taken to save the chickens from the cat, even that the cat was trespassing (laughter). The cat was generally a domestic animal by day, though not, maybe at night (laughter). Guns, even the licensed, were too much in evidence those days. Many people seemed to enjoy going around with one in their hands. The defendant was getting off lightly with a fine of 10/-.

Mr. T. K. Keane, solr., applied on behalf of Mr. D. McCarthy, North Main street, for a canteen license in connection with the proposed training camp.

Replying to the Court, Superintendent Kelly said there was no objection.

The license was granted for three months.

The Justice—It is only for beer and tobacco.

Mr. Keane—That is all, sir. No spirits (laughter).

Public Mischief Case

Edward Kenny, Spittal street, Cloyne, was charged on remand from Middleton, with making certain false statements thereby causing officers of the Garda Siochana to devote their time and service to the investigation of the false allegations, depriving the public of the service of the State, causing the arrest of 8 citizens, rendering others liable to suspicion, accusation and arrest, when in truth and fact, the defendant himself illegally committed the malicious injuries and by reason of the said false statements did affect a public mischief.

Supt. Kelly, Middleton, prosecuted, and Mr. W. St. Clair Rice, solr., Middleton, appeared for defendant.

At the request of the Court, the Supt. read his deposition made before District Justice McCarthy at Middleton, and to which was attached a statement made by the defendant to which Mr. Rice had objected, the objection being overruled. As a result of the allegations made by the defendant eight persons had been arrested and detained for a time. The Guards and witness were engaged investigating the case for several days.

Sergt. M. O'Donoghue, Cloyne, deposed that on 14th February, at 10.50 p.m. defendant called to the Station. He said that the garage had been broken into and the glass of witness's car broken. He produced a padlock which he said he found near the door. The garage was the property of Robert Walsh, Cloyne, employer of accused. Witness went at once to the garage and examined the car with the aid of a torch. Defendant was present and he pointed out the parts of the car broken—the glass of the clock, oil gauge and speedometer. The clock had stopped at 1.53. Kenny pointed out that the gate at the back of the yard was open and said that whoever broke the car came in over the galvanized fencing, and must have gone out by the back gate which he bolted that night. He said he went outside the gate but saw no one and then went into the garage and flashed his light on the car. Witness had put the clock five minutes fast by his watch. Following that report witness arrested two men that night. He examined the scene next morning, and found no tracks except one of Kenny's just outside the gate. He examined the galvanized fence around the yard and found no trace of anyone getting over. It was 8 feet or 9 feet high. On the 15th February, he said to Kenny that nobody could get over it, but he said he saw Kitty Walsh, aged 9, getting over it once. Later on the same day he found the piece of iron piping produced under a shed in the yard where the garage was. It appeared to have been freshly used. He questioned defendant about it and he said he didn't see it before. On the evening of 15th February, witness met defendant at Cloyne Cross, and he said, "whoever broke the car must have some spite for you." Witness said that was obvious. On the night of 19th February, he was present in the Superintendent's office Middleton, when accused was questioned. The Supt. told Kenny that there were no tracks or footprints of anyone entering the yard where the garage was, and no footprints at the gateway, which he (Kenny) had said he had found open except the track of a heel print which Kenny admitted was his— Mr. Rice, for accused, objected—As already stated in previous deposition. That no one could get in over the corrugated paling, although he (Kenny) had stated he had seen Kitty Walsh, coming over it. Accused said that he had taken the child off the wall from the inside. The Superintendent then told Kenny that the clock in the car was stopped at 10.53, and that the day by his watch, so that the clock had stopped at 10.48, that he (Kenny) reported it at the station and that no one could be in the yard at the time the car was broken, but himself (Kenny). Kenny made a remark in reply to that and after it witness gave him the usual legal caution and he made and signed a statement. Mr. Rice said he objected before and still objected. He thought he ought ask for a ruling. The man was arrested under the Constitution Act. As he was not cautioned the reply was inadmissible. The Justice—The Sergt. says that he gave him the usual legal caution. Mr. Rice—I submit that the replies were obtained under duress. The Justice—He was told he need not say anything. Mr. Rice—He was arrested under the Constitution Act and he was bound to answer those questions. The objection was overruled. The statement concluded to the effect that he had done the damage himself. The statements he had previously made were not truthful. He was sorry now for putting the Guards to trouble. He didn't know what drove him to it. He supposed what was for a man he must go through it. Witness, continuing, deposed that on 20th February, he handed his car to John Kenneally, Middleton, for repairs. He had not touched the broken glass meantime. Cross-examined by Mr. Rice—It was not he who arrested the accused. To the Court—The cost of damage to the car was 3/-. Guard Flanagan, Middleton, deposed that on the 14th February, he was stationed at Cloyne, and was Station Orderly that date. Defendant called at 10.50 p.m. Sergt O'Donoghue was present at the time. Defendant who had a padlock in his hand said to the Sergt. that the garage had been broken into and his (Sergeant's) car damaged. On 15th February he was making inquiries into the case and he took a statement (produced) made by the accused, who agreed to make it. He was present on the night of the 19th February, at Middleton, Garda Station when Sergt. O'Donoghue cautioned the accused and questioned him and took the statement handed in. Witness was 8 1/2 hours engaged on that case. The statement to which Mr. Rice objected purported to give him movements on the night in question. The further hearing of the case was adjourned to next Court.

Mining Rights in Bannahan
COMPENSATION QUESTION

The Mining Board inquiry was resumed at the offices of the Department of Industry and Commerce, Lord Edward St., Dublin, on Thursday week, to determine the compensation payable for the mineral rights in certain areas in the townlands of Ballynagigla, Ballynasissa, Ballyristeen and Kildaune, Co. Waterford, where the applicants propose to prospect for copper.

Mr. Phelps, on behalf of the applicants said they had made the application because under the terms of the Act, they could do nothing in respect of mining until compensation was assessed. What the Board had to do was to assess what was a reasonable sum to be paid to Lord Armstrong, who had in 1906 paid £2,200 in acquiring the mineral rights. They had got an actual agreement with Lord Armstrong, prior to the application to the Minister for a mining grant, for the purchase of his interests in these rights for £500. This would include the costs of Mr. Thornton, solicitor, Waterford.

Mr. B. Broughton Edge, one of the applicants, said he could not say in what quantities copper existed in the area or whether there was any there at all. In order to make an area of this kind profitable the price of copper would have to go up to £40 per ton. The present price is £31 12/-.

To the Chairman Mr. Edge said he could not say why Lord Armstrong was prepared to accept £500 for rights he had acquired for £2,200 on a guarantee of £10,000 for their acquisition. Mr. Ryan, solicitor, said that up to 60 or 70 years ago the mines had been an active copper mining camp, employing between 2,000 and 3,000 persons.

MODERN APPLIANCES
Owing to economic reasons and the fall in the price of copper, the industry failed. With modern appliances, which were absent then, the industry had brighter prospects for the future. Richard Queally and his mother were interested parties. He thought it would be unjust that compensation should be fixed at a week's notice.

The Chairman said that he could not adjourn the case but would consider Mr. Ryan's application later.

Mr. Russell, for Mr. E. J. Thornton, solicitor, Waterford, said the only interest he had in the matter was to secure £440 legal costs due to his client in connection with old agreements in connection with the lands. The further hearing was adjourned to Friday, 21st inst.

Mr. E. Phelps, K.C., (instructed by Messrs. Whitney, Moore and Keller) for the applicants; Mr. J. H. Russell (instructed by Mr. H. F. Chidley) for E. J. Thornton, Waterford, who claims legal expenses. Mr. E. A. Ryan, solicitor, Dungarvan, for Mr. B. Queally, Ballynasissa, and Miss Annie Ryan (do.). Mr. T. A. Rooney, Land Commission, watched the proceedings on behalf of the Department.

CONFIRMATION AT TALLOW

His Lordship, Most Rev. Dr. Kinane, Bishop of Waterford and Lismore, paid his usual visitation to Tallow on Wednesday, when he administered the Sacrament of Confirmation to some 100 children from the local and neighbouring schools. The day was observed as a general holiday in the town, all shops and business premises being closed for the duration of the solemn ceremonies in the Parish Church, with the result that the spacious building was fully occupied by a large congregation.

At 10 o'clock (old time) his Lordship entered the Church and proceeded up the aisle to the throne under a canopy borne by Messrs. Keniry, O'Hanrahan, Hancock and McCarthy. The Choir singing the appropriate hymn. The children for Confirmation all neatly attired, occupied the front seats in the aisle.

His Lordship was, assisted at the throne by Very Rev. Canon Prendergast, P.P., Tallow, and Rev. M. Morrissey, P.P., Knockanore.

Amongst the other clergymen present were Rev. Fr. Dooley, P.P., Ballyduff; Rev. Fr. O'Gorman, C.C., Lismore, Rev. Fr. Cahill, C.C., Knockanore.

Mass was celebrated by the Rev. J. Corbett, C.C., who at the conclusion preached an eloquent sermon befitting the occasion, taking for his text the words: "They were filled with the Holy Ghost, and they began to speak in divers tongues." During his remarks, he warned the children in their future life to avoid all associations and organisations whose teachings were contrary to the doctrines of the Catholic Faith, and also to obey the voice of those appointed by Almighty God to rule the Church in His name.

A fine programme was rendered by the Parish Choir, under the conductorship of Miss C. Carey, Organist, with a solo "Pans Angelicus" by the well-known tenor, Mr. Frank Ryan. The children also sang the "Veni Creator" and other beautiful hymns. His Lordship subsequently ascended the pulpit and addressed the congregation. On his last visitation to that parish he had formed a very creditable impression of it and that impression had been confirmed by the present visitation. It was a source of joy and happiness to him to come to such a parish, where everything from the ecclesiastical point of view was so satisfactory. He knew that many of them were suffering from trials and worries incidental to the times they lived in. He need hardly say how sincerely he sympathised with them and prayed constantly for a cessation. He complimented all, priests, parents, and teachers on the splendid answering of the children at their examination for Confirmation. In that connection he stressed the absolute necessity of the strict exercise of parental control from the very beginning, not leaving it till they grew up and out of hands. He was pleased to be able to congratulate them and their zealous Parish Priest on the condition of their Church and also on the great improvement in the Cemetery. Having addressed the children at length, he concluded by wishing them and theirs every blessing from God.

His Lordship then proceeded to confirm the children, the sponsors being, Miss K. Brennock, N.T., for the girls and Mr. F. O'Leary, N.T., for the boys.

LISMORE NOTES.

Very Rev. Canon Burke, P.P., V.F., Lismore, with his usual zeal for the welfare of his parishioners has arranged a fortnight's mission at Lismore commencing on Sunday next after the late Mass. The Sacrament of Confirmation will also be administered by Most Rev. Dr. Kinane, Bishop of Waterford and Lismore to more than two hundred children of the Parish.
