SLAUGHTERHOUSE LICENSE APPLICATION REFUSED

Mr. M. Morrissey, Chairman, presided at the meeting of the above on Friday. Also present—Messrs. T. McCarthy, P. Byrne, P. O'Dwyer, J. Christopher, M. Connors, Jas. Mansfield, J. Dahill.

PAYSHEET

A paysheet amounting to £28 16s. 5d., on the general account was passed.

CLEANING LOUGHMORE

Mr. McCarthy said that three weeks ago, an order was made by the Council that a man should be sent once a week to clean and sweep up the streets at Loughmore. He would ask Mr. Walsh if that order was carried out.

APPLICATIONS FOR HALL

The Dungarvan Dramatic Class applied for the use of the Hall for a practice dance on September 1st, and the Golf Club for an All-Night Dance on September 25th. The applications were granted.

KILADANGAN WATER SUPPLY

Patk. Wade, caretaker reported that the main to the town is blocked as no water left the reservoir on Wednesday. There is a good supply in the tank.

LONG TERM LOAN

A letter was read from the Managing Director, New Ireland Insurance Co., (replying to the Council's request for terms on a loan for the purpose of reducing the rents of the Loughmore houses) stating that owing to some heavy commitments already entered into, the Directors are not desirous of quoting for the loan which the Council seek.

DEFECTIVE SEWER

Complaints regarding a defective sewer in Mary street, were read from Mrs. Margaret Quinlan and Mr. Patk. Burke. The S.S.O. said he called on Mr. Bowen to have the matter attended to, but he was not in. He would see him next morning.

OPENING ROADS

Mr. Bowen wrote granting permission to the Council to open the road at the Brewery and at the Square to repair stop-cocks and pointed out that the cost of restoration would be 10/- per square yard.

LICENSE FOR SLAUGHTERHOUSE

Mr. J. J. Morrissey, O'Connell St., appeared before the Council in connection with his application for a slaughterhouse license. The Chairman explained that this matter was before them at two different meetings. The M.O.H. in his report would not recommend granting a license on the grounds that pigs were also kept on the premises. We invited Mr. Morrissey here for a discussion on the matter and to try if we could come to some arrangement.

Dr. Casey, in reply to the Chairman said in the interests of Public Health he could not see his way to recommending the license while pigs were being kept on the premises. He saw by a report that Mr. Morrissey was being victimised. He was not victimising Mr. Morrissey. The Council had made a by-law in connection with that matter and others had given an undertaking not to feed pigs on their slaughterhouse premises. Mr. Morrissey is in an impossible position and he could not see from the premises in question how Mr. Morrissey could possibly re-arrange his premises.

There was no separate entrance. He would object to a licence to any butcher who kept pigs on the same premises as the slaughterhouse and he can't see how Mr. Morrissey can alter his premises to carry on the two trades.

Mr. Morrissey said that he did everything he was asked to do and complied with all their rules. Dr. Casey asked me to keep the pigs at the farm, but if he had to do that he should do away with pig-feeding altogether which is a very big industry in the country. Continuing, Mr. Morrissey explained the procedure adopted by him. His killing day is Thursday and all the offal is cleaned. What is bad is carted away and what is good is put into a boiler and boiled at once and fed to the pigs. He held that that tended to cleanliness more than burying the offal in a manure heap. The S.S.O. saw his premises and he could tell them that the piggery was 90 feet from the slaughterhouse, and that his yard was kept as clean as possible.

Chairman—You can see Dr. Casey's point. He is our official and the Council must depend on him for guidance. Another point I think that in the near future pig-feeding in the town will be done away with altogether.

Mr. Morrissey—Then that will be a big loss.

Chairman—The health of the people must be taken into consideration also, and as Dr. Casey remarked if the Council granted you a license all the other butchers would be entitled to keep pigs also.

Mr. Morrissey said the Council had a letter from my solicitor asking what distance the slaughterhouse should be from the piggery. That letter was not answered.

Mr. Dahill—How far away is the piggery from Mary street.

Mr. Morrissey—About 100 feet.

Mr. O'Dwyer said Mr. Morrissey went to great expense to make his premises suitable.

Mr. Morrissey—It cost me £50 to £60.

Mr. Dahill said the people in Mary street could not open their back windows. Dr. Casey only wants Mr. Morrissey to stop fattening pigs there. Mr. Morrissey asked me to come to the meeting and support him for a license.

Mr. Morrissey—I did not. I asked you to come and look at my slaughterhouse and you said get the blue shirts to look at it.

Dr. Casey—It is foolish of Mr. Morrissey to persist in his attitude. Other butchers gave up fattening pigs when asked.

Mr. O'Dwyer said he disagreed.

Mr. Morrissey—What will I do with the offal; take it out in a bag.

Dr. Casey—What are the others doing with it?

Mr. Morrissey—Putting it in a manure heap and leaving it there and having the stench all round the place.

Dr. Casey said that by-laws were adopted unanimously by the Council. Chairman—Would Mr. Morrissey be prepared if we gave him a reasonable time, say 12 months, and granted him a license, to stop fattening pigs.

Mr. Morrissey—I would do anything fair or reasonable. About this report of the doctor's regarding the meat, I would like to explain that immediately the meat is killed on Thursday it all goes into the refrigerator.

Chairman—Will you be prepared to promise?

Mr. Morrissey—It would not be fair to ask me to promise. If I give the promise I would keep it. There may be drastic changes before the 12 months.

Chairman—Well, we have our M.O.'s report, and we don't like going against that.

Abbeyside Regatta

SUCCESSFUL REVIVAL

After a lapse of 5 years the old-time regatta and aquatic events in connection with the feast of St. Augustine (Patron of the village) were revived on Sunday last and proved a great success.

The Committee are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts, especially when it is considered that the idea of a revival was not mooted until the previous Wednesday leaving only 5 days in which to get everything in readiness.

Mr. D. Foley, U.D.C., President, Mr. J. Power, Secretary, and each of the following committee—Messrs. T. Power, B. Mulcahy, M. Organ, T. Murray and J. Donovan, worked with a will to make the venture the success that it was. Owing to the heavy downpour of rain on Sunday morning the first event timed for 12 o'clock had to be called off and it was feared that a postponement to a future date would be necessary, but the afternoon turned out fine and a start was made at 4 p.m. Large crowds lined up at both sides of the Harbour, and watched the boat races with interest, while the efforts of the competitors to secure the prizes in the Greasy Pole and Duck Races caused much merriment.

Capt. Donoghue (s.s. Lady Belle) made a most successful Starter and Judge. Details:—

Four-oar boat race—J. Dwyer (cox), D. Dwyer, G. Duggan, M. Kiely and J. Duggan, 1; E. Power (cox) W. Burke, W. Murray, W. Carey, and S. Griffin, 2; M. Carroll (cox) J. Donnelly, J. Kiely, M. Kiely, W. Kiely, J. J. Connors (cox) A. O'Shea, P. Hurley, D. Sullivan, J. Griffin, 4.

Pair-oar boat race, for boys under 18 years—Joe Kiely (cox) T. Connors and M. O'Brien, 1; P. Kennelly (cox), M. Donnelly and P. Kennelly, 2; T. Murray (cox), P. Elsted and B. Honan, 3.

Four-oar boat race—J. Dwyer, (cox), Dwyer, Duggan, Kiely, and Duggan 1; E. Power (cox), Burke, Murray, Carey and Griffin, 2; J. Connors (cox), O'Shea, Hurley, Sullivan and Griffin, 3; M. Carroll (cox), Donnelly, Kiely, Kiely, 4.

Pig and Greasy Pole—This event was won by T. Leahy, Abbeyside from ten competitors.

Duck race. The duck after leading the six competitors a merry chase was recovered by J. Griffin, Abbeyside.

Mr. Morrissey then withdrew. Dr. Casey, replying to the Chairman said he could not agree to the granting of a license. The Co. M.O.H. will be making an inspection of the town on Monday.

Mr. McCarthy—Mr. Morrissey was fattening pigs there before he opened the butchers shop. That is adjacent to Mary street and O'Connell street. He had pigs there for the past 10 years anyway, and during that time there was no outbreak of sickness in that area. Seeing that he had pigs for the past 10 years another 12 months will not make much difference.

Mr. Connors—Seeing that the Co. M.O.H. is to inspect next week, could we not adjourn the matter for his report.

Mr. O'Dwyer said he was living in an area where half the sewerage of the town come down, and is left there. There is no report about that.

Dr. Casey—I reported on that as far back as 1922.

Chairman—I don't like to put it to a vote, but I am afraid I must. We can not agree. The point is if we ask the Co. M.O.H. to make a report on this or on all the slaughterhouses, and if he is of the same opinion as Dr. Casey, will we still go against it. If we do that it would not be right to ask him to report at all.

Mr. Byrne—What would you do, Mr. Chairman if the Co. M.O.H. said that you granted a license to people that you shouldn't have granted it to.

After some more discussion, the matter was put to a vote and resulted:— For granting a license—Messrs. McCarthy, Dwyer and Christopher—(3). Against—Messrs. Byrne, Dahill, Mansfield and Connors—(4). The Chairman did not vote.

The Chairman declared the license refused.

GOVERNMENT GRANTS

Mr. Byrne, proposed, and Mr. McCarthy seconded, the following resolution which was passed:— "That the Dungarvan U.D.C. ask the Minister for Local Government, the reason he is holding Dungarvan back from their share of grants to which they are really entitled. We read in the Daily Papers where the Government advises all Public Bodies to avail of the opportunity given to them in connection with grants for various schemes, but so far Dungarvan has heard nothing about them, although we have made several applications we have been completely ignored.

Millstreet Horse and Pony Races

Committee—Messrs. M. Kiely, J. Foley, G. Nugent, Michael O'Donnell, Stewards—Messrs. P. Power, R. O'Donnell, E. Walshe, J. McCarthy, J. Looby.

Starter—Mr. T. McGrath. Judges—Messrs. P. Power and T. McGrath. Hon. Secs.—Messrs. P. Power and R. O'Donnell.

For the first time in the history of the district, Horse and Pony Races were held at Millstreet, Modelgrove, on Thursday, 29th ult., and provided a most enjoyable day's sport for the people of the locality and large numbers of the sporting public from many parts of the West Waterford area.

The weather proved ideal for the occasion, and the attendance reached flattering dimensions considering that the fixture was held during the busiest period of the harvesting season. The course for the races was very kindly given by Mr. Walsh, Barnane, a popular and well-known local sportsman, and was situated north of the village of Millstreet amidst the richest and most beautiful sylvan scenery in the district.

The members of the Committee feel deeply grateful to Mr. Walsh for his great kindness, and also to the people of Dungarvan, Cappoquin, Ballinamul and other districts who had subscribed so generously towards the race fund.

The course was very carefully laid out, and not a solitary accident occurred to mar the pleasure of the day, and the various officials carried out their duties in the most efficient and expeditious manner which won the praise of all. Very large entries had been received for the various races from Cork, Waterford, Wexford and Tipperary, but owing to the busy season, many of the animals entered failed to turn up, but there were still nice fields of four or five competitors in each of the five races on the card, so that some very good racing and close finishes were the order of the day.

The Touraneema Fife and Drum Band played a stirring selection of National music during the afternoon which greatly enlivened the proceedings, and the promoters were so satisfied with the success of their initial meeting that they now intend to make those races an annual fixture in future.

Details:— The Millstreet Plate of £4, out of which the second receives 15s. For Ponies 13 hands and under.

Mr. E. Walshe's LEACA BOWRA 1; Mr. Rodger O'Brien's KITTY THE HARE, 2. Also ran—Mr. Colbert's Gunstroke, Mr. J. Henley's Left Incline. Won by three lengths after a grand race.

The Committee Plate of £6, out of which the second receives £1. For Horses of any height.

Mr. Rodger O'Brien's SLEEPING WATER 1; Mr. M. Mulcahy's MAY MORNING, 2. Also ran—Mr. James O'Malley's Tally Ho, Mr. P. Power's Maire Ban.

Sleeping Water made all the running and won comfortably by about three lengths.

The Subscriber's Plate of £4 out of which the second receives 15/- For Ponies 14 hands and under.

Mr. E. Walshe's LEACA BOWRA, 1; Mr. Jack Quinn's Tipperary Tim and Mr. Mce. Condon's SQUIB, 2. Also ran—Mr. Wm. White's Sweet Afton.

This was a great race. Squib held the lead for most of the journey, but within the last few hundred yards Leaca Bowra forged ahead, and although hotly pressed by Squib, a close and exciting finish saw the former win by a short head.

The Ballinamul Plate of £5, out of which the second receives 15/- For Cobs 15 hands and under.

Mr. Mill's ALL YOUR OWN, 1; Mr. J. Henley's LEFT INCLINE, 2. Also ran—Mr. P. O'Keefe's Orwell and Mrs. Ahearne's Old Faithful. Won by a length.

Consolation Race for beaten horses at the meeting.

Mr. Jack Quinn's SQUIB, 1; Mr. R. O'Brien's KITTY THE HARE, 2. Five ran. Won easily by six lengths.

CLONMEL CORPORATION AND THE BAKERY TRADE

Following protests made as regards injury done to local bakeries by vans from other towns selling bread in the town, Clonmel Corporation adopted a resolution prohibiting the sale in the town of any bread not baked within the Borough. If every loaf followed that example we would soon have a network of self-contained republics all over the place. Let us hope that attitude to enterprising and go ahead bakery firms will not be developed or the last stage will be worse than the first.

LISMORE NOTES.

G.A.A.—

For the purpose of making the Senior Hurling Championship of the County more keen, the different junior hurling teams of the County were divided into three groups, a team picked from each group to take part in the Senior Hurling Championship. The Avonmore team (group No. 1) are to meet Dungarvan on Sunday next at Lismore in the first round of the Championship and a great game is sure to be witnessed as both teams are fully determined to bring the laurels to their respective sides. The Avonmore Team consists of a selection from Lismore, Ballyin, Cappoquin, Ballyduff, and Four-Mile-Water Junior teams.

The Lismore Hurling Club have laid out the field in a perfect manner, and Mr. V. O'Donoghue, B.E., Lismore has seen to the general arrangements so that nothing more is wanting except to be favoured with a fine day.

AVONMORE TEAM—

O'Brien, (Lismore); E. Daly, W. Barry, V. O'Donoghue; C. Barry, C. Murray (Ballyin) T. Halpin, (Four-Mile-Water).

STRANCALLY CASTLE—

Strancally Castle stands upon a beautiful sylvan slope overhanging the river Blackwater, near the junction of the river Bride, and three miles from Tallow. It is built in the Gothic style, with high embattled towers from the summit of which may be obtained a view unrivalled for its beauty and magnificence. The tourist who takes a voyage up the Blackwater in a motor boat from Youghal, will be well repaid for a visit to this neighbourhood. After lingering amidst the lovely scenery that surrounds the new Castle he will not fail to visit the old stronghold of Strancally formerly called "The Castle of Monea."

The old castle was built by one of the Earls of Desmond, and was one of their principal fortresses in this part of the county.

It seems, from the ruins that still remain, to have been a fortress of great strength.

Like many of the old Norman castles of a similar construction, it has many dark dungeons, where many a luckless prisoner lingered out his life in misery; and also its secret passage to the river near by, by means of which the garrison could escape when hard pressed in time of siege. The ruins of both dungeons and passage still remain. The latter was cut through the solid rock down to the water's edge, and must have cost an immense amount of labour in those wild days, when mechanical appliances were not brought to the perfection that they have attained at present. Another hole also cut through the solid crag, communicates with the water from one of the dungeons. It is called by the peasantry the "Murdering Hole" and through it, it is said, the bodies of those who were executed in the castle, or died in prison, were thrown into the river.

In a siege, some centuries ago, Strancally was undermined and blown up by the soldiers of the government. It seems to have been rent by that terrible explosion from its roof to its foundation, but as if the vengeful hand of man was not enough for its destruction, it was struck by lightning afterwards, which brought down immense masses of solid masonry into the river beneath.

Strancally, with the lands pertaining to it, was forfeited during the Desmond wars, and fell into the hands of Sir Walter Raleigh, from whom it passed ultimately to the Earl of Cork.

WHAT IS A HUSBAND?

He is, said a married lady, a snarling, crusty, sullen, festy, forward, cross, gruff, moody, crabbed, snapped, tart, splentick, surly, brutish, fierce, dry, morose, waspish, currish, boorish, trefful, peevish, huffish, sulky touchy, fractious, rugged, blustering, captious, ill-natured rusty, churlish, growling, maundering, uppish, stern, grating, frumpish, humorsome, envious dog in a manger, who neither eats himself, nor lets others eat.

MARRIAGE—

The marriage was celebrated at Mt. Melleray, this week, of Miss Alice Condon, daughter of Mr. Thomas Condon, ex-Mayor of Clonmel and Mr. Patk. Foley, Ballinamul. Miss Elysic Condon, (sister of the bride) was bridesmaid and Mr. Declan Foley (brother of the bridegroom) was best man. The ceremony was performed with Nuptial Mass by Rev. Fr. Dominic, O.Cist.

HURLING FINAL

Before a record attendance of 46,000 and in a downpour of rain Kilkenny beat Limerick in the Final Hurling Championship 1935 on the score of 2 goals 5 points to 2 goals 4 points. In the Minor Hurling Championship Kilkenny defeated Tipperary by 4-2 to 3-3.

THE GAME

The ball having been thrown in by Archbishop Harty, Limerick, per Clohessy and Ryan, forced an entry into Kilkenny's lines but Larkin and Blanchfield figured strongly in opposition, and a clearance was made after some tough duels, in which Kilkenny appeared to have the better of the challenge, but failed to finish the movement with a wide. A shot from M. Mackey marked the opening of the next encounter. It was supported by Roche and Close, who pressed firmly against a wonderfully fine defence by P. Byrne and T. Leahy. Keeping up the attack, O'Connell saved his net in fine fashion. From a series of duels in the centre field Limerick got a free taken by P. Clohessy, who centred well to his forwards, but the ball passed over the line after a great tussle.

The next movement saw Limerick again in possession, but Whelan could not be passed, his reply being most effective. Attractive passages by Cross, Clohessy, and Howard were countered by "Lowry" Meagher and E. Byrne, and Limerick, though the more speedy side, set up a further challenge and were rather unlucky with a wide. Breaking from a big duel, in which Walsh, White and Dunne figured, the Limerick lines were in immediate danger. Kennedy, Howard and Cregan responded to the demands gamely, and the tussle ended in an over to Kilkenny, who renewed the offensive very soon for another wide. Kilkenny were now giving very clever displays and taking possession rather well.

The first score went to the black and amber. It was a point for which M. Mackey was responsible. Dunne (Kilkenny) met with an accident soon after, and on the game being resumed Limerick were all but through for a score had it not been for Larkin. Limerick, however, maintaining the pressure with the aid of M. Mackey and Roche, there seemed every prospect of a score had not O'Connell stood in the way. His saving was very sound, and it needed to be such to ward off the champions' visits, which were becoming frequent and dangerous. A seventy to Limerick, taken by Clohessy, was looked for a score, but to the disappointment of the champions' followers, the ball travelled wide of its mark.

With their respective resources now fairly well sized up, the teams were given enthralling displays in all departments of the game, and the plaudits of the big crowd echoed and re-echoed. A free to Limerick was followed by a seventy. It was handled by Clohessy and cleared by T. Leahy. Again challenging, Limerick were away for a point (M. Mackey).

The scoring was slow up to this period, so keen and well matched were the rivals. Giving their opponents little or no quarter in the next challenge, McMahon from Roche, wound up a nice movement with a goal to the champions. This success set the Limerick following cheering for all they were worth. Kilkenny replied with a wide. A penalty free to Kilkenny at centre field having been spoiled, Limerick had a free stopped by Whelan, and M. Mackey Power had a try for a score at the Limerick end, to fail by inches. M. Mackey having given Limerick a point, Kilkenny shot wide. The score was now Limerick 1-2 to 0-1. Walsh added a point for Kilkenny, and White followed with a goal. Leahy led up to the score, which now stood at 1-2 each. On the close of the half-hour M. Mackey Power gave Kilkenny the lead of a point, 1-3 to 1-2.

The game was resumed with undiminished vigour and determination notwithstanding the continuance of the rain. The match had taken so firm a hold on the spectators that they braved the elements defiantly. Umbrellas and mackintoshes were strongly in evidence, but there were quite a large number of people who remained entirely unprotected from the drenching downpour.

Limerick were soon seen to extend their rivals, M. Mackey sending in a ball that gave the Kilkenny backs a lot of trouble. Whelan brought about a change of territory, but a free to Limerick eased the pressure on their stronghold. Clohessy was again unlucky with his shot, and after a strenuous tussle, the ball went over the line.

Kilkenny then set up an attack. Scanlan was tested but replied with an admirable clearance, which was followed up smartly for Close to point. On level terms, the excitement knew no limits. Cheers being raised for the contestants, who, though rain soaked, continued to battle on for the coveted prize. Clohessy having broken a Kilkenny rush, M. Mackey dispossessed Meagher, and a free came to the champions, which was made the most of by J. Mackey, but no score ensued. Another free to the same side having been held up by O'Connell, the Kilkenny custodian, Kilkenny covered ground for "Lowry" Meagher to point from far out the field.

Kilkenny thus assumed the lead again. Fine displays were being given by Blanchfield, Meagher, E. Byrne, L. Byrne, T. Leahy, Dunne—who was injured but resumed his place—and White (Kilkenny).

Garrett Howard, Cross, the Mackeys, Close, Roche, T. and M. Ryan, O'Connell, McMahon, and Clohessy were giving good service to Limerick. There ought to have been scores off some of the frees given to Limerick. Continuing the game, a free to Limerick was lost by a narrow margin. A free to Kilkenny, taken by Walsh, saw a point up. Scanlan (Limerick) did some useful saving before this flag had gone up. With the score at Kilkenny 1-5, Limerick 1-3 the game continued to be marked by wonderfully clever fencing, in which Kilkenny shone.

FREE SAVES KILKENNY GOAL. Having been rattling away at the Kilkenny back line for at least three minutes with every prospect of a goal, a foul was given against Limerick, which was destructive to their winning chances. Following the clearance, Kilkenny were awarded a free for Walsh to get away with a goal, taking the score to 2-5 to 1-3. The champions' title yet looked safe when M. Mackey took the Kilkenny net, making the score Kilkenny 2-5, Limerick 2-3.

M. Mackey having pointed from a free, their only remained one point behind the rivals, 2-5 to 2-4. Limerick tried hard for the winning points, but without avail, and a memorable match finished on the score above-mentioned.

It must be added that Kilkenny deserved their win. The trophy was presented by the Most Rev. Dr. Harty, who congratulated the teams on their brilliant display under the very trying conditions.

DEATH OF MISS JOSEPHINE KIELY, DERRA, MODELIGO

Regret has been caused by the death of Miss Josephine Kiely, which occurred after a brief illness at her residence on Sunday week to the great grief of her loving parents, relatives and a large circle of sorrowing friends.

The deceased was daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Kiely, Derra, Modeligo, and was niece of Mrs. Declan Foley, Cappoquin, and was a young lady who was a great favourite amongst all who knew her.

About a week previously she had contracted a heavy cold, and meningitis having set in, she gradually sank, despite the best efforts of Dr. White, Cappoquin, and the devoted attention of her parents to have her.

She was a most devout Catholic and a good living and exemplary young lady and during the latter stages of her illness she was regularly attended by the Rev. Father Quinlan, C.C., C.C., Modeligo, and died a most peaceful and happy death after having received the last Sacraments of the Catholic Church, of which she had been such a faithful member.

Her death at such an early age, while still on the threshold of young womanhood, has cast a great gloom over the district, and the deepest sympathy is now felt for her respected parents and relatives in their sad bereavement.

On Monday evening her remains were removed to Modeligo Catholic Church when the funeral proved by its size and representative character a great tribute of respect to the memory of the deceased.

The coffin was received at the Church by the Rev. Father Quinlan, C.C., and the Rev. Father O'Donovan, and after two Requiem Masses for the repose of her soul on Tuesday morning, the interment took place in the adjoining cemetery in the presence of another large gathering of relatives and the general public.

The final prayers at the graveside were recited by the above named clergymen.

The chief mourners included—David and Mrs. Kiely (parents); Alice and Nora Kiely, (sisters); Dick, Paddy and Thomas Kiely (brothers); Mrs. D. Foley, Cappoquin, and Mrs.

PROSECUTION AT DUNGARVAN

At Dungarvan District Court on Wednesday week.

The Ministry for Industry and Commerce, prosecuted Patk. Whelan, Bohadon, with attempting to draw Unemployment Assistance while employed.

Mr. Ryan, State solr., prosecuted. Mr. A. R. Farrell, solr., defended.

Mr. Ryan said it was a case of attempted fraud, brought under the Unemployment Assistance Act and his instructions were to ask for a heavy penalty if the case was proved. He referred to the practice of men actually employed coming along and representing themselves as unemployed as a reprehensible one, and cases of the kind are really very hard to trace.

Miss Dalton, an official in the Labour Exchange, said that defendant signed a form representing that from 15th to the 19th November he was unemployed. Witness could not say if he was paid in respect of that period.

Patk. Connors, Bohadon, said that defendant was with him in November 1934, but he could not say what dates. He gave a statement some days later to the Guards. The statement was true. Mr. Ryan read the statement which showed that Whelan worked with Connors from 15th to 19th Nov., erecting an outhouse. He paid him 10/- on one occasion and 4/- on another.

To Mr. Farrell—Witness and defendant were very friendly always and helped one another. There was no question of payment. Defendant would help me and I would help him.

The money witness gave Whelan was in the nature of a present. That was 10/- and later 4/-, that would not be a fair wage for a labourer. He was not employed by witness as a labourer. If witness employed a man to do the work he should give him about 5/- a day.

Mr. Daniel Dunford, Bohadon, said defendant worked for him two days in November last. He gave him 3/-.

To Mr. Farrell—He gave him 3/- the work was done voluntarily and there was no mention of payment. A labourer would earn much more. Witness gave him some litter in May and he promised to do some little jobs. Witness only gave the 3/- for a bit of tobacco.

Mr. Farrell said his case was that the work was voluntary. No payment was asked and under the Act he held his client was unemployed.

Defendant in reply to Mr. Farrell, said that last May he got some litter from Mr. Dunford and promised to give him a day or two instead. He did not expect any wages for the work. In the case of Connors, he did the work as they always helped each other out. Witness could not ask for money as he had got on the double from both men.

By Mr. Ryan—He drew this money when he could not get work. He never refused to work for farmers in that district.

Mr. Ryan—Did this bit of litter so play on your mind that you had to work it back.

Witness—Mr. Dunford forced the 3/- on me.

Mr. Ryan—I wish someone would force money on me (laughter).

The Justice said he was satisfied defendant was employed. He found it very hard to know what to do in these cases. The last court day we had another case of this kind.

Mr. Farrell—That was an Old Age Pension Case. My client got no money from the Unemployment Exchange.

Justice—I will have to put a stop to this and start with somebody. He would enforce a fine of 20/- with 20/- costs or in default one month hard labour. It is really a fraud on his fellow-workers.

DANCE HALLS.

IRISH BISHOP'S DIRECTION TO CLERGY

Most Rev. Dr. Finigan, Bishop of Kilmore, in a letter to the priests of the diocese, draws attention to the Public Dance Halls Act. It is clear that the law gives people who object to the setting up of a public dance hall in their locality considerable facility to voice their objections.

Safeguards which the clergy should endeavour to get inserted in the licences were—

- 1.—Public dances should not be held for the personal profit of the licensee or licensees.
- 2.—Licensees should be trustworthy persons, capable of supervising the conduct of dancers in the hall.
- 3.—Public dances should close at 11 p.m.
- 4.—A determined effort must be made to deal with the "stranger" who comes to a dance. If it were a condition of the granting of a licence that no stranger would be admitted unless introduced by a trustworthy person, the evils associated with the presence of strangers would be considerably lessened.

Walsh, Dungarvan (aunt); John Foley, Cappoquin; Mrs. Foley and Miss Mulcahy, Dungarvan; Thos. Cullinan, do.; and Michael Cullinane, Bleanis (uncles); Thos. Walsh, Millstreet; Mrs. E. Murray, Mountain Castle; Michael Foley, Knockalara, etc., (cousins and relatives).

Several beautiful wreaths and a large number of Mass Cards were laid on the grave.—R.I.P.

GEALIC NOTES.

By Western Gael

A meeting of the West Divisional Board was held on Thursday 29th ult. at Cappoquin. The agenda consisted mainly of second and third rate fixtures. An objection by one of the minor Clubs was also heard.

When will our hurlers learn the lesson that to get rid of the ball at once is the best practice in a match. If our players "pulled" on the ball instead of fancy "lifting" on Sunday last Limerick would not have such a big lead. The Western men on the team were among the worst offenders with one exception.

I would like to pay a special tribute to the pluck of C. Moylan of Dungarvan Club in fielding out against Limerick on Sunday week although he was suffering from an injured hand. His fine display was wonderful considering.

The senior hurling ties now long overdue should be played off as soon as possible. We should have a number of clear dates with all teams "out of the running" in inter-County fixtures.

Lismore Club are on the lookout for an open Sunday to play their "Cup" Final. This should be made as clear a date as possible by the Divisional Board as Lismore has done great work by causing a great rally in hurling in their area. They are now depending on the gate at the "final" to clear expenses. Great credit is due to J. F. O'Donnell, J. O'Neill and J. Ross, and the other officials of the Club for the satisfactory way all the fixtures were carried out. I would like to see some more clubs with as interested officials as Lismore.

C. Curran of Clashmore Club is another hard-working Secretary. With his Committee behind him he will make Clashmore Club a force to be reckoned with before very long.

Eire Oge will have a rough haul in Lismore fifteen. Judging from the matches I have seen Lismore play this year, I would say they will go far in the Championships. Still Eire Oge can do a lot by training hard.

Dungarvan v. Avonmore is an important S.H. fixture to be played soon. The winners meet Tallow in West final.

Another match in which Dungarvan meet Avonmore is the S.F. fixture. This match is fixed for Dungarvan venue.

The result of the fixtures made on Thursday week will give us an idea of the clubs in the running for the Divisional Championship.

REFEREE ATTACKED

WRESTLING INCIDENT AT TRAMORE

Many thrills were provided at an all-in wrestling tournament at the Atlantic Dance Hall, Tramore, but the greatest thrill of all was when one of the wrestlers attacked the referee and manhandled him.

The climax was reached towards the closing stages when in a bout between Harold Angus, claimed to be the British and European champion, and Tiger Bob Norman, the referee, Mr. W. C. Butterworth, was obliged to disqualify Norman for an alleged infringement of the rules. Norman, after being warned, was seen to attack the referee, and in an electrical atmosphere determined exchanges took place between both. It was some time before the referee managed to extricate himself from the enraged wrestler just as some officials and members of the crowd present were about to interfere. Butterworth was observed to be bleeding freely from the face.

DEATH OF MRS. M. HICKEY

The death which took place at her residence, Curraheen, Lismore, of Mrs. Mary Hickey, has occasioned feelings of widespread sorrow and deep regret throughout the entire district.

Sincerely deplored by the legion of friends of the family the bereavement was most poignantly felt amongst the wide circle of family connections in practically every part of the county.

Deceased was a lady whose benevolent instincts were amply revealed by her charitable zeal and great human sympathy and understanding. Of a kindly disposition and generous nature, she never failed to extend the hand of help to assuage the sorrows and sufferings of others when the chance came her way. The personality of the old lady enshrined a charm of manner that won her the respect and esteem of all who knew her.

During her long residence at Curraheen she lived on the most cordial terms with all her neighbours of all stations in life, her unaffected courtesy and kindness earned for her those sincere respect, and her death, though it has come in the fulness of years is much regretted, and widespread sympathy has been extended to her bereaved sons.

The remains were conveyed from Curraheen to St. Carthage's Cathedral, Lismore, on Monday week, and on the following morning Requiem Office and High Mass were celebrated for the repose of her soul. The celebrant of the Mass was Rev. T. O'Gorman, C.C., Lismore. In the choir were: Rev. R. Power, C.C., Lismore; Rev. Fr. Kavanagh, do.; Rev. Fr. Dunphy, C.C., Cappoquin; Rev. Fr. Corbett, C.C., Tallow.

The funeral took place immediately after to the adjoining cemetery and displayed in a most striking manner the universal sympathy which her demise evoked.

The chief mourners were—Joseph and Philip Hickey (sons); Robert McGrath (brother); Mr. and Mrs. B. Meagher, Ballyinrann; William and Michael Coleman, Waterpark, Waterford; Mrs. Lane, Kilmore, Mr. O'Connor, Tallow; Mrs. Murphy, Kilmacow, cousins.

Amongst the general public were: Dr. D. Heskin, Ballyduff; Mr. Feeney, do.; Mrs. O'Connor, do.; Mr. Murphy, do.; Mr. and Mrs. Prior, do.; Misses May and Teresa O'Farrell, Ashbourne; Lismore; Mr. Luke O'Farrell, Ballyanchor; Mr. and Mrs. J. F. O'Donnell, Lismore; Mr. Daniel and Michael McCarthy, do.; D. Noonan, do.; Sean Goulding, T.D. do.; T. Crotty, do.; E. A. Murphy, P.C., do.; H. Madden, do.; Miss Condon, do.; Dr. Healy, do.; J. W. O'Gorman, do.; J. Foley, do.; Mr. Spillane, Ballyanchor, do.; Mr. and Mrs. Kelleher, Bishopstowen, Lismore; A. Hickey, P.C., do.; D. L. Lawton, do.; Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien, Tallow; Mr. McCarthy, Tallow; M. J. Sargent, P.C., Cappoquin; Mr. Barron, do., etc., etc.

KILMATHOMAS NEWS.

FELICITATIONS

Cordial felicitations are extended to Mr. Willie Hassett, Scart, Kilmathomas, and Miss Katie Whelan, Ballyvaden, Kill, on their marriage on Wednesday of last week at Kilgobinet Parish Church, by Rev. J. Hally, C.C., Kilmathomas; and also to Miss Bridie Keating, Briskey, Kilrossanty, and Mr. Patrick Flaherty, Main street, Rushen, Roverstown, Co. Sligo, on their marriage at Riverstown Parish Church on a recent date.

BAD WORK

Within the past fortnight much destruction has been done to orchards in mid-Deise. Not only were apples stolen in large quantities, but valuable fruit trees were broken down and rendered useless by evilly-disposed persons.

"MOINN SLEIGH"

The other evening a "moinn sleigh" or "mountain rush" swept down the Mahon river, from Coum Mahon on the Comeraghs, taking all before it. Some years ago a man of the district lost his life in a similar sudden flood on this river.

COMHAIRLE CEANNTAIR

At a meeting of the mid-Waterford Comhairle Ceanntair, Fianna Fail, held at the Hall, Kilmathomas, Mr. T. J. Power, P.C., (Chairman) presiding, resolutions were passed urging the necessity for a housing scheme at Kilmathomas; pressing for the planting of parts of the Comeragh Mountains, and draining the turf bogs in the area with a view to more extensive peat cutting, and for the immediate reinstatement of local evicted tenants, and the division of ranches to landless men. The attendance included Mr. Patrick Tobin (Rathgormack), Secretary.

A RINGED BIRD

Apparently having struck a telegraph wire in its flight, a bird, seemingly of the cannet species, lay dead on the railway bank at Scrahan (near Kilmathomas) this week. To the surprise of a passer-by who examined it the bird was rined, the wording on the metal ring reading—"Inform Witherby, High Holborn, London, 129K05." The information has been passed on.

"OLD FAITHFUL"

A man was looking at a photograph and he said "Sisters and Brothers have I none, but that man's father was my father's son." Whose photograph was he looking at? For the nine hundred and ninety-ninth time we are asked to supply the answer to the foregoing hoary poser. We are asked so frequently that lately we have taken to replying by letter. Let the whole wide community cut out the answer and stick it in their reference books. The person gazing at the photograph was looking at the likeness of his own son. We are asked in this case to give the reason for our answer. Perhaps we had best dispose of it in this way. If the man were looking at his own photograph that would land him into the ridiculous position of saying that his own father was his father's son! Study it out, and you will find it works out satisfactorily on the basis of the photo being that of the son. Now we hope no one will trouble us with this father and son business for the next seventy-seven Septembers.

GAELIC GARNERINGS

Luck forsook Tipperary and Limerick at Croke Park on last Sabbath evening! Few will begrudge Kilkenny their double. Now the Premier, Rebel and Marble counties have each eleven All-Ireland Senior Hurling triumphs to their credit since the formation of the G.A.A. in Thurles fifty-one years ago. We have a hunch that Tipp. will be the first of the trio to take Camandom's Blue Ribbon for the twelfth time. Roll on next year!

Although the day was one of the wettest of the year the number of people gathered around the Headquarters arena on Sunday was far in excess of any previously experienced. Truly the thrills of the major mix fully compensated the mighty multitude for the "spills" of the weatherman they endured in that hour of unforgettable action.

Beside your simple scribbler, on a sideline seat, sat a Kill-born belle, who is considered one of the ablest hair-dressers in Dublin. Chatting with her before the big bout, she informed me that many ladies now instead of asking for a cup of tea in the middle of the lengthy, permanent wave process, make requests for a cigarette. And yet any Nire Valley virgin will tell you that ladies only smoke for "the look of the thing."

Towards the heel of the hectic clash a chance came Mick Mackey's way to notch a white favour, which would make the match a draw, but he shot for a goal and it didn't "come off."

The best team won, and both units merit warmest congratulations for the great battle they made of it.

The train which left Dublin at 9.30 p.m. for Dungarvan, arrived at Kilmathomas at 4.20 next morning. Needless to state the passengers then looked and felt as "fed up" as could be.

Seemingly the Railway Company is satisfied that "any old service is good enough for Waterford," as one of the locals voiced it.

The man who "manned" the flag-pole on Hill 16 in the teeth of wind and rain richly deserves a token of some sort by way of appreciation of his wonderful endurance. It is thought he was a supporter of the

Black and Ambers

Another ding-dong, ashen-blade bout with force, speed, skill, style and stamina in store for you: Limerick v. Kilkenny All-Ireland Junior Hurling Semi-Final, at Waterford Sportsfield on to-morrow (Sunday).

WE PUT IT TO YOU (SERIOUS AND NOT)

That the influx of visitors from all parts of the world during the tourist season, now well advanced, is regarded as the largest for many years past.

That, as on all previous occasions, the tourists, shuifers, and hikers, who included the Barones of Decies in their itinerary, have one and all expressed themselves charmed at the unsurpassable scenery many of them focussed their orbs on for the first time this season.

That a company of Canadian school teachers, who have concluded a tour of the South of Ireland, spoke in high terms of praise of all they had witnessed.

That they were unanimous in describing the scenery of Portlairge as "the most varied and most beautiful they had ever looked upon."

That they will carry back with them many pleasant recollections of their tour, and be bent on paying a return visit at some future time, bringing a bigger party with them.

That the hotels in Waterford City and County were well patronised during the season, the influx being particularly large over the past month.

That it was gratifying to learn from some cross-Channel visitors that they not only enjoyed the Waterford scenery, but the splendid fishing afforded there, and were well pleased with the hotels' catering.

That the two popular seaside resorts of Bonmahon and Stradbally were well patronised since the opening of the bathing season.

That Clonea (Dungarvan) continues to be the favourite rendezvous for large numbers of people on Sundays and half-holidays.

That Tramore, too, continues to hold its grip on "gabrics" from parts near and far.

That the Deise Gaeltacht district of Ring has also experienced a monster invasion of students since July.

That although the agency of the co-operative movement has brought unity amongst farmers in many lands, it has failed to do so in the Saorstát.

That one of the chief causes which conspired to bring this about was the effort made to drive a wedge between the farmer and the local traders.

That etiquette is a noise no Kilmac' Miss of consequence can swallow her tea with when there's company.

That the graceful Sliabh cGua girl who has the most infectious laugh in West Waterford is now using a complexion cream which was taken from an old Old Parish recipe, and which removes all wrinkles and leaves the skin smooth as a Bohadon bairn's.

That the comely Kilbrien colleen who is noted for her most engaging smile, is allowing no grass to grow under her big toes.

That, according to the spirit of gentle gossip functioning amongst the feminine fraternity of Fenor, Annes-town Anne is the only daughter of the Deise as yet using "vanishing" muslin for tacking to light materials.

AND— That at a minute to midday on Monday, a woman visitor of colossal stature gave utterance to language of a most outrageous description, expressive of her detestation of the young lady photographer whom she caught in the act of "snapping" her husband wearing sandals on the sands at Stradbally.

That knitting still survives in most parts of Portlairge.

That if the occupiers of labourers' cottages, and plots and small farmers also, could be induced to cultivate more vegetables and fruit, for sale in the town markets, they would find it a beneficial, as well as a paving proposition.

That labourers who have their own help would be well advised to go in for growing more of the type of vegetables in demand in the towns the whole year round.

That the average An Saorstát housewife knows to her cost how severely she has been hit in recent years in the increased household bill she has to meet now, as compared with former years.

That, in and out of the Nire Valley, the newest pyjamas have short legs, and the newest nightgowns are made of linen bound with satin.

That (according to Ancestown Anne) an enormous, glossy, purple aubergine stuffed with either rice, cheese, tomato, chopped ham, herbs, or mushrooms, would feed the largest family within the confines of Fenor.

That the Metal Man of Tramore has not as yet written to the Emperor of Abyssinia offering to raise a Portlairge legion to fight against the Italians.

That the banshee wailed a "word of warning" within earshot of "Siabh cGua" ere last night.

That in the territory dubbed Bohadon the percentage of gentlemen under forty who have acquired the snuff habit is 26.2 per cent.

That there seems to be no end of shuifers seen trekking through Kilmac' these days.

That the rightly-respected rate-paying residents of the Rathgormack region are now taking an optimistic long-term view of things as a whole.

That Kilbrien is not perturbed at the thought of a few more months of currency restrictions and chaos, particularly if it means that the exchange uncertainties of the last century will be removed.

That there are still 62.7 of the adult population of Touranees who are not users of cigarettes—AND— That the biggest-bearded gentleman goat from here to where you are was resting on his haunches on Crotty's Rocks at a minute to seven last night.

BREVITIES

A Bonmahon motorist suggests that roads in future should be laid in some green material. He points out that at present when the sun strikes our chalk white tar mac thoroughfares the glare makes it almost impossible to see ahead. His green idea is rather picturesque, but we're afraid not too practical. Does he not have cause to bless the friendly white roads when driving at the dead of night?

The nights are "creeping in," and the weather is on the "juicy" and breezy side this week.

For the first time in history beggars will have "to pass examinations" before becoming eligible for the profession.

This is the decision of a Beggars' Association formed in Warsaw and Vilno. Only those who can prove that they are "real beggars" and knew "how to beg" will be admitted. Amongst other rules the articles of the Association stipulates that each candidate for the profession will have to submit a "special application" signed by "two members" who will "guarantee the moral standard of the applicant." The examinations are to take place "before a special Examination Board," selected by the Beggars' Association.

DAIL COURT OFFICIALS' ASSOCIATION

To the Editor "Dungarvan Observer."

Dear Sir.—We have at the moment in the Irish Free State an organisation known as the Dail Court Officials' Association. The heads of the Association embrace men and women eminent in legal and other circles, including Mr. P. J. Barry, Cork, (President); Miss M. E. Duggan, B.L., Dublin (Hon Sec.); Mr. M. J. Lennon, B.L., Mrs. Heron, Dublin; Mr. W. F. Naughton, Mayo and a host of others equally prominent in the public life of the State.

The Association was formed for the purpose of securing for the Dail Court Officials who acted in 1920-21-22 the recognition of the important services they rendered the nation at that period by securing their inclusion in the provisions of the Bill now before the Dail, for pensionable status; and to assist all members who acted as Dail-Court Clerks and are still without official employment, to such positions in the services of the State as their merits and ability entitle them.

The term "Dail Court Officials" include all who acted under the Dail in the 1920-22 period as District Justices, Parish Justices, Magistrates and Court Clerks.

Preparations are being made to hold a representative convention in Dublin early in October, from which delegates will be selected to meet the Minister for Justice, to place their claim before him, and press for the amendment of the Bill in the manner specified.

Another of the aims of the Association is the reform of the present Court system. The members maintain, and justly so, that the country is not satisfied with the present system—that the people are desirous that one or two independent laymen should occupy the bench at each District Court in addition to the legal Justice.

Meantime, previous to the big convention in October, it is necessary that the names of all eligible members should be registered with the heads of the Association, and in this connection I am asked to do the needful in the case of my own county. Hence, I pray you to grant me the hospitality of your columns to request all Court Officials in their respective areas in the city and county to forward me their names, addresses, and the position they occupied in the old Dail Courts, whether as Justices or Clerks; and I shall have pleasure in arranging and classifying them to order and forwarding them to headquarters.

Doubtless it will be necessary to hold a conference of county and city officials by October. Meantime, members can meet in their respective districts and appoint one of their number to forward me the lists.

I am glad to say that the people are behind the movement. They claim that it is unjust and wrong that men who risked their liberty and life in the days of Hamar Greenwood's Black and Tans and Murder Gangs, should be brushed aside without reward or recognition, while others, of whom I shall not refer to in harsh terms, are reaping the fruits of their labours in the shape of pensions and fat salaries. Sincerely yours,

M. F. SHEEHAN, Peace Commissioner, Ballyhussa, Kilmathomas, Co. Waterford.

FREIGHT ON BEET

Hereunder we give the reply of the G.S. Railway Co., to the representation made by the Beet Growers' Association to have the freight on beet and Pulp reduced.

Dear Sir.—With reference to meeting held at this Office on the 9th inst., with members of the Beet Growers' Association, the following matters have been reviewed:—

(1) Beetroot in bulk by rail. It is regretted that as the present exceptional scale figures represent a very considerable reduction on the standard rates, it is not possible to make any further concession.

(2) Beet Pulp (Dry) in sacks by Rail. Having regard to the very strong representations made by the deputation in respect of the rates for distances over 20 miles, the Company are prepared to operate a modified scale as under for 3 ton lots, experimentally for the season 1935/36:— Beet Pulp (dry) in sacks, for feeding live stock—minimum 3 tons per truck—owner's risk, owner to load and unload—Siding to station.

Not exceeding 10 miles 3s. 6d. per ton. Exceeding 10 miles but not exceeding 20 miles 5s. per ton. Exceeding 20 miles but not exceeding 30 miles 6s. Exceeding 30 miles but not exceeding 40 miles 7s. 6d. Exceeding 40 miles but not exceeding 60 miles 9s. Exceeding 60 miles but not exceeding 100 miles 11s. Exceeding 100 miles but not exceeding 150 miles 12s. 9d. Fractions of one mile to be reckoned as one mile.

In the case of narrow gauge section stations 1s. per ton additional transfer.

(3) Beetroot in bulk and Beet Pulp (dry) in sacks by Road Services. This matter has been reviewed sympathetically, and I am sorry I cannot make any modification in the existing scale at present. It must not, of course, be overlooked that the Railway Company have already granted a very considerable concession by agreeing to extend the Beet Pulp (dry) in sacks by Road Services the same rates as agreed for Beetroot in bulk by Road.

(4) Beetroot in bulk—Rathpeacon Siding to Mallow Beet Factory Siding. All concerned have been advised of modified rate of 2s. 9d. per ton for season 1935/36—minimum 6 tons per wagon Owner's risk. Owner to load and unload siding to siding.

(5) Light loading of wagons of Beet. Where wagons to suit the Company's convenience are not loaded to their full capacity the Company will be prepared to consider sympathetically the charging of such lots at actual weight at the 6 ton rate.

(6) Final lots of Beetroot in bulk by Rail.

The Company are prepared to continue last season's arrangements, viz:— (a) Consignment Note or Loading Note to be endorsed by the Loading Agent—"Final Delivery." (b) Concession to be confirmed to one consignment only from each individual grower. (c) Consignments as refined in (a) and (b) to be charged at the 6 ton rate per ton for actual weight.

The above mentioned Pulp Rates show reductions as follows when compared with Rates in operation last season.

20 miles to 30 miles 1s. per ton. 30 miles to 40 miles 1s. 6d. per ton. 40 miles to 60 miles 1s. 6d. per ton. 60 miles to 100 miles 1s. 6d. per ton.

TO GENEVA

President De Valera arrived in London from Dublin on his way to Geneva for the Assembly of the League of Nations next Monday, in connection with the Italo-Abyssinian dispute. He will be absent about two weeks.

The President was loudly cheered as he went on board at Dun Laoghaire, accompanied by Mr. F. H. Boland, head of the League of Nations Section of the Department of External Affairs; Mr. J. J. Hearne, Legal Adviser to the Department, and Mr. Denis Devlin, also of the Department, who travelled with him.

CHEERS AT EUSTON.

The President was received at Euston by Mr. Dulanty, Saorstát High Commissioner.

A small crowd of Irish people, including a number of priests, cheered the President as he alighted from the Irish mail. Two or three people pressed his hand as he was escorted to a waiting motor car. Uniformed and plain-clothes police kept the way clear for the President.

He consented to pose for a photograph beside the car, and as he drove away with Mr. Dulanty there was another cheer.

Youghal Notes

NEWS—This week, of the local variety at least, is practically dead or absent. With no Council and no Court tit-bits, the trouble is to find any thing to write about. For the first time in many years the usual weekly meeting of the local administrative Municipal body, failed to materialise, a quorum not putting in an appearance. They were just "within a brick of it." The legal number for a quorum is six, five attended. In any case it would appear that the business on the agenda was anything but interesting or exciting. Hence no harm was done and the members well deserved the evening off. In like manner there was little or nothing to be adjudicated upon at the usual weekly Court. If rumour and report speak truly, we'll have a bumper day at the next sitting. This with a fortnight's work at the Council will make up in some way for the present week's default.

THE WEATHER—After a glorious time of it from the whole of July and the greater part of August, the last week or the latter month went out in a rather tearful manner on the part of the Clerk of the Weather. But Sunday last, easily capped the climax. During all the forenoon and well into the afternoon it poured and poured like a long drawn out waterspout. Two interesting events were billed for the afternoon—the Semi-Final of the Junior Football Championships and two Handball matches in the fine Alley at the Garda Barracks—but all idea of holding them had to be abandoned. Despite the wretched meteorological conditions prevailing, a number of excursionists arrived from Lahinch (Co. Clare), Clonmel, a Lecture Tour of the Y.C.Y.M.S. from the City, etc. However, their long journeys were not all in vain for it cleared up in the afternoon. Out came the sun and a stiff easterly breeze enlivened the proceedings. The result was that the inland visitors were afforded an interesting sight on the strand, where an usually high rollers reigned in the Bay breaking on the beach with a thundering roar. A further welcome variety was furnished by an enjoyable picture "Chu Chin Chow" in Messrs. Horgan's Picture Theatre, and a series of dances in the famous Strand Palace, both buildings being patronised to their utmost capacity. Many of the visitors remained over for the "hops," so that they must have arrived at their homes in the extreme West just in time to have a wash and breakfast before taking up the usual daily grind. This time indeed the weather prophets were completely confounded for they had held out a most promising forecast.

THE CHRISTIAN BROTHERS—The good brothers of the local Christian Schools are to be cordially congratulated on the extraordinary success of their pupils who sat at the recent examinations. Cent. per cent were successful and all with honours. This speaks well for the care and skill devoted to the exercise of their admirable calling by the good Brothers, to whom the people of the town and the surrounding countryside—and have been since their first coming amongst us—under a deep debt of gratitude.

THE TECHNICAL SCHOOL—The work in the local Technical School began this week, with the re-opening of the Day Vocational Classes. There was fine gathering of pupils boys and girls on the very first morning and the attendance holds out a sure prospect of a very successful Winter Session. The night classes will start work the week after next, and it strongly behoves all those who have finished their ordinary schooling and who wish to prepare themselves for the future battle of life by the acquisition of the various practical subjects taught to join up at the very start. Last Sessions capable staff will be in charge, but it is rumoured there will be an important change in the second half of the Session.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE—The danger attaching to the very common practice amongst cyclists of placing coats loosely on the handlebars was practically illustrated a few evenings ago. A local lady was cycling down

When the Bus Broke Down

DUNGARVAN GIRLS MAROONED IN CAPPOQUIN

The usually quiet town of Cappoquin was considerably enlivened about mid-day on Thursday, 22nd ult., when there was a welcome invasion by about 30 or 40 extremely droll and vivacious young ladies from Dungarvan. They arrived in town in a number of Cappoquin motor cars, each of which was packed full, and as they drove up through Castle street, en route for "The Cornerstone," where the cars disgorged their precious cargoes, much speculation was indulged in by those waiting around the Courthouse as to the cause of so many members of the fair sex arriving in Cappoquin at practically the same moment.

It was suggested by some that the visitors represented a "Wedding Party," but as no wedding can be held without at least one man (and possibly two) figuring in the picture, and as there was not a solitary "male" seen amongst the girls, the wedding idea was quickly scouted, and our Special Correspondent, who happened to be on the spot, immediately set about finding an explanation for the unexpected presence of so much youth and beauty in the heart of Cappoquin.

It was then learned from some of the ladies whose loquacity was not in the slightest degree curtailed by the unlooked-for circumstances which had landed them in the town, that at 10 o'clock on that morning a special G.S. Railway Bus had left Dungarvan with a large party of Children of Mary with the intention of proceeding to Cork, via Cappoquin, for the annual excursion. All the members of the party were in high spirits leaving the "Old Borough" and joyfully looking forward to their arrival in Cork about 12 o'clock, and for a time all went merrily as the proverbial "Marriage Bell" until the bus had a serious breakdown about two miles outside Cappoquin when all the passengers had to alight and found themselves "stranded" in the heart of a lonely and uninviting countryside. There was no way out of the difficulty but to send a Phone message from Cappoquin to Waterford for a fresh bus, and rather than wait in the meantime in the country, some of the more resourceful of the ladies sent word into Cappoquin to have motor cars sent out to take them into town, pending the arrival of "bus No. 2."

Although most people would feel greatly dispirited and disappointed over such a tedious delay, it was not so with the Dungarvan ladies, who were in exceedingly high spirits when they arrived in Cappoquin, and the sound of whose gay and silvery laughter re-echoed like sweet music through the streets of the town. Many of them met old friends and cherished acquaintances after a short time, and handshakes and seductive smiles became the order of the day, the Lylian touch of their velvety hands sending a thrill of pleasure through the hearts of those who were thus honoured by them.

They made the most of their time during their period of waiting and lent a lively and animated appearance to the town until the Relief Bus arrived about 2 o'clock after two or three of the best hours of their excursion period had been lost.

The arrival of the bus although belated, was greeted with loud cheers by all and just after 2 o'clock the merry party continued on their interrupted journey to Cork in more jubilant spirits than ever.

the hill from the Railway Bridge towards Summerfield Strand, when her coat so placed fouled in the front wheel and she was thrown off on her face to the road. She was rendered unconscious and she sustained nasty facial injuries. Bad as it was, the lady certainly had a wonderful escape. She was found by a passer-by who did what he could till a good Samaritan of a motorist came along and brought her to a doctor. She was subsequently removed to hospital.

MOTOR ACCIDENT AT KILLISHAL

On Thursday 29th ult., a motor accident occurred near Killishal school on the Cappoquin road. A lorry belonging to Mr. Murphy, Merchant, Youghal, was coming towards Dungarvan and was followed by a private car driven by Mr. Gaule, Engineer, Waterford. Near the school the lorry proceeded to turn down a bye-road and the car collided with it damaging the steering gear. The motor car spun round and capsized, but the passengers escaped unhurt.

CARNIVAL DANCE

With that efficiency that we now expect from the Carnival Committee all details have been arranged for Sunday night's Cinderella dance in the Town Hall. The Committee certainly have left nothing to chance so that the large number of dancing fans who are expected should have a really enjoyable night. It has been decided to strictly limit the number of dances. This will make the dance more sociable. The Committee and Carnival workers, who number over fifty, will be there in full strength so that it should be "Ladies Night." At the special request of one of the larger Irish manufacturers a new dance floor powder is being tried. This has proved successful in Dublin and is claimed to have a 50% more "gliding elastic." Thus, a perfect floor; a splendid band, plus that "Come to the Carnival" spirit, well, if you haven't an enjoyable night, see a doctor.

MUSIC TUITION

Miss Fanny O'Keefe, A.L.C.M., will resume Pianoforte lessons next week. Junior and Advanced pupils taken. Special attention to backward pupils. ABBEYSIDE SPORTS

Arrangements in connection with next Sunday's Sports are now completed. Competitors for the Children's Comical Fancy Dress Parade will assemble on the Square at 2 p.m. and will march to Abbeyside Schools where the judging will take place. The decision of the judges shall be final. A Silver Cup (Perpetual) will be awarded to the best all-round competitor in the adult events. Competitors for the sack races must provide themselves with 20st. meal sacks. Entrance to the Sportsfield by 3d. ticket which entitles the holder to take part in Draw for £6 in Prizes. Those who have purchased tickets beforehand are requested to retain the counterfoils and produce same on entering the field. As the Committee decided not to make a public collection to finance the Sports they must insist that every one entering the Sportsfield will have a ticket. The number of the winning tickets in the Draw will be published in the Press on Friday 13th September. The decision of the Committee on all matters shall be final. The prizes for the events are on show in Mr. Condon's window, Sexton street, Abbeyside.

CAPPOQUIN SPORTS

Mr. W. J. Nolan, writes that our correspondent was misinformed in stating that "the Cappoquin Sports have been discontinued owing to the lack of support" and says that up to 1935 three sports meetings were held at that venue in the same season. All meetings of the Co. Board N.A. & C.A. were held there and Co. Waterford delegate travelled to the most remote parts of Munster at their own expense when the interests of Cappoquin Sportsfield were at stake. When Alec Nelson, the famous Athletic Coach visited this County he stayed in Cappoquin and all his lectures and demonstrations were given there. The traders of Dungarvan were most generous in subscribing to Cappoquin so there has been no lack of support. He also complains that the prizes won at the Munster Inter-County Championships last year have not been awarded.

WAR COMING

The threatened war between Italy and Abyssinia has not yet become a reality, but may start at any moment. The League of Nations are trying to stop it. Italy says she can no longer tolerate Abyssinia's conduct and will take over the country. The Abyssinians are not agreeable to give up their land and so there must be a fight. As the Abyssinians claim to be sprung from Ham, the son of Noah, their pedigree is fairly long. Meantime all the other nations are doing the best they can for themselves in the matter.

LOCAL ROWS

One of the charges made at Geneva against the Abyssinians by Italy was that they were fighting amongst each other and could make no progress. Would not that cap suit some people nearer-home also? Anyhow corn and oil and wine and how to get them are the cause of trouble for Ethiopia.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION

Now that the summer is drawing to a close we would draw the attention of boys and girls to the great urgency there is for them to attend the Technical classes in their areas and so fit themselves for the battle of life. The Day Vocational Schools at Dungarvan, Cappoquin and Clashmore, re-opened this week, as also evening classes at Ballyduff, Ring and Coolnamear. In view of the large and varied programme, every student can find full scope to develop his or her latent genius. The Vocational Education Committee have appointed a large number of high-class teachers, and we hope the boys and girls of the County will avail of their services to the full. Now is the time to perfect their technical training when there is every advantage of doing so at the minimum of inconvenience. Mr. Lanigan, the highly capable and untiring Chief Executive Officer, will be happy to give intending students all particulars re classes at the Technical School, Dungarvan, on any day, while the Headmasters at Cappoquin and Clashmore Schools, will also be at the disposal of all who seek their advice. Parents should see that their children take full advantage of the Technical Education provided for them.

A QUEEN KILLED

The young Queen of the Belgians, who was 29 years of age, was killed instantly in a motor accident in Switzerland last week. Her husband, the King, who was driving, was seriously injured at the same time.

GOLF CLUB DANCE

The Dungarvan Golf Club will hold their Annual Dance in the Town Hall, Dungarvan, on Wednesday September 25th. Music by Miss Vic Clarke-Barry and her Band. This promises to be a great dance and the committee are making arrangements for a rare night's enjoyment.

TALLOW HORSE FAIR

Tallow Horse Fair was held on Tuesday last and was largely attended. There was a big attendance of buyers and horses—colts, fillies and hunters—were present from all parts. Buying was brisk and some very good prices were obtained for likely animals. A big number changed hands. The fair arrangements were excellent and the Fair Committee with Mr. T. J. Keniry, Hon. Sec., deserve the heartiest congratulations.

LABOUR RALLY

The Labour meeting advertised to be held in Dungarvan on September 15th is postponed to a later date of which due notice will be given.

CARRICK-ON-SUIR URBAN COUNCIL

Mr. D. J. O'Driscoll, Chairman, presided at the monthly meeting of the Carrick-on-Suir Urban Council on Tuesday. The Council decided to recommend to the local District Justice that in granting of dance hall licences in the town the provision should be inserted that half the dances must be Irish dances.

Arising out of a report from the collector of Cottage rents it was decided to warn the number of tenants who are in arrears that decrees for possession will be applied for if the arrears are not paid.

It was decided to ask for the Government grant to help to provide a water supply and sewerage for the new Carrick-on-Suir Tannery.

It was decided to appoint a collector of water rents and to see that all persons who use the Council's water supply for other than domestic purposes shall pay the special water rate for such use.

The Engineer reported that the Council's housing scheme is making good progress.

WEST WATERFORD DIVISIONAL BOARD

At a meeting of the above in Cappoquin on Thursday 29th ult., Mr. P. Ryan, Tallow, Chairman, presided and delegates were present from the following Hurling and Football Clubs: Cappoquin, Lismore, St. Carthage's, do.; Ballyin, do.; Tallow, Villierstown, Eire Oge (Dungarvan), Clashmore, Dungarvan, Modelgou, etc.

AN OBJECTION

Mr. P. Whelan, Secretary, read the report of the referee, Mr. P. English, Cappoquin, on the recent Minor Hurling match played in Cappoquin between "Blackwater Rovers," Cappoquin and St. Carthage's, Lismore, in which it was stated that the latter team won on the score of 7-3 against 6-3 for Cappoquin, and the report was adopted.

In connection with this match, an objection was read from Mr. P. Dineen, Hon. Sec., of the "Blackwater Rovers" under Rule 12 of the G.A.A., who claimed that one of the goal umpires on the occasion was illegal, as he had played a foreign game, Cricket, and the match should be therefore declared null and void. The Chairman said he considered the objection a frivolous one, and advised the meeting not to entertain it. Mr. P. Dineen denied that it was frivolous as the official in question, Mr. F. Crowe, had recently played Cricket in Cappoquin, and was disqualified from acting as a goal umpire at any G.A.A. match.

The Chairman said it was the Cappoquin Club was responsible for the selection of the officials at the match in question, and they should not have allowed Mr. Crowe, to act as goal umpire when they knew he had disqualified himself by playing a foreign game.

Mr. Dineen said he did not know that he was acting as goal umpire until the first half of the match had been played, as he had been appointed by the referee without his knowledge, and there was no use in the G.A.A. making rules about foreign games if they were not going to abide by them here.

Mr. P. Whelan, Sec., Suppose Cappoquin had won this match, Paddy, would you have lodged any objection?

Mr. Dineen—Yes, I would have lodged the same objection, even if we won (laughter).

After a rather lively discussion, in the course of which Mr. Dineen pressed his point with great vehemence, the Chairman, without putting the matter to a poll, refused to entertain the objection, and called for the next business.

Mr. Dineen (heatedly)—According to Frank Ryan's ruling, so, we can call in Cricketers, Hockey and Rugby players, and players of all other foreign games to act at G.A.A. matches in future (laughter).

The Secretary said it was open to Mr. Dineen to appeal to the Co. Board from the decision of the Divisional Board, and Mr. Dineen then gave notice that he would do so, and the discussion ended.

FIXTURES

Dungarvan v. Stradbally, in Minor Football, was fixed for Dungarvan at 3 o'clock on Sunday, September 8th, and Stradbally v. Villierstown in S.F. was fixed for the same venue and date at 4.15 p.m., with Mr. Pax Whelan, as referee.

A long discussion took place over the fixing of a suitable date for the match, Lismore v. Eire Oge in Junior Hurling, and after two polls, as regards Lismore, Cappoquin or Dungarvan for the venue, Lismore was selected by 7 votes against 6 for Dungarvan, the match to be played on Sunday, September 22nd with Mr. D. Goode, Dungarvan, as referee.

Dungarvan v. Avonmore in Senior Football was fixed for Lismore at 3.30 on Sunday, September 8th., with Mr. J. Cunningham, Tallow, as referee. Several other fixtures having been made, Mr. M. V. O'Donoghue, delegate from Ballyin, Lismore, said he wished to refer to a very painful subject now, and this was the action of the Tallow Club in putting forward an illegal man to play with Waterford in the Junior Hurling Munster Championship match which was played against Cork in Dungarvan a few Sundays ago and which had resulted in a drawn game.

The player he referred to was M. Twomey, who had already played in the Cork Co. Championship earlier this year and who was, therefore, disqualified from playing with Waterford on the occasion in question.

It was a good job that the first match between Waterford and Cork had resulted in a draw, because if Waterford had won that day, Cork would have objected to the constitution of the Waterford team, but, fortunately, Twomey was not allowed to play in the second match when Waterford won, and he now proposed that the player in question be suspended for 12 months.

A delegate asked what club in Cork had Twomey previously played with this year, and the Secretary said he had played for Clonakilly in this year's Cork Co. Championship.

Mr. Cunningham, Tallow, said that the Club which Mr. O'Donoghue represented, Ballyin, had fielded an illegal team against Four-Mile-Water this year, but Mr. O'Donoghue replied that as the match in question had been played months ago it was too late for Mr. Cunningham to question the legality of the Ballyin team now, as any objection to the constitution of a

Call to German Catholics

An urgent appeal to German Catholics to "defend their faith" against the "growing number of their enemies" was read in all Catholic churches in Germany on Sunday.

It is contained in an episcopal letter signed by all bishops at the annual conference of German Bishops in Fulda, on August 20.

"In this serious and decisive hour," says the appeal, "the German Catholic Bishops appeal to German Catholics to be firm in their faith. Enemies of the Catholic faith and the Catholic Church have grown into a legion. Those who never learned their catechism and the doctrines of faith, or if they have done so only perfunctorily feel themselves entitled to sit in judgment on all that is Catholic and to make propaganda against the Church."

"Christ is no longer to be the bearer of truth. While the enemies of the Christian faith are divided among themselves they are united in the fight against the principles of Christianity. Their fight in the first line is directed against Rome and the Roman faith. The Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testament are for all honest seekers for truth the only light."

The appeal refers to the exerts of these "enemies" to gather from all corners of the two-thousand-year-old history of the Church all the errors and sins of Christians, but in spite of this it declares the Church of Rome "remains the greatest miracle of the world's history."

Finally, the pastoral letter forbids Catholics to read books and newspapers or to visit meetings in which the Catholic faith and the Catholic Church are vilified.

"Unfortunately, meetings outside the Church are forbidden. The freedom of the Press to our regret has been restricted to such an extent that former Catholic newspapers are no longer allowed to publish articles and are even forced to print anti-religious articles. That makes it urgent for the Catholic reader to read at home the Four Gospels and to go to church every Sunday, because we must arm ourselves to be ready to stand up for our faith."

"Pagan philosophy" continues the letter, "without belief in God is no moral support for a united people. We see at present in other countries into what abyss a people steers which does not believe in God. Plans for the degeneration of the German people will be successful only if they are not solely based on the mere sand of human philosophy, but on the Rock of Divine Religion."

With regard to matrimonial and intellectual life, the episcopal letter points out that the Church has done much to support the State.

"If the laws of the State conflict with the laws of nature and the Commandments of God, then the word stands that we must obey God rather than men. We condemn all violations of valid State laws but also that pharisaical contemptuousness, which does not see the beam in its own eye."

The episcopal letter severely criticises the Nazi marriage laws and the law granting to illegitimate children the same rights as legitimate children. The gradual decay of a people, it says, can be brought to a standstill by the moral strength of a philosophy but not by police measures. It will prove to be impossible to promote moral health and national culture without the saving grace of Christian philosophy.

The contention of the State that religion has nothing to do with politics is also contested by the bishops, who declare "One cannot be Christian at home and pagan in the street. The Nazi slogan denouncing 'Political Catholicism' is a great danger, says the letter, 'for it might open the door wide to all kinds of arbitrariness and encourage violent acts against the Church.'"

The letter appeals to mothers of school children to read with their children the Old Testament if this has been struck off the school curriculum. "It is the duty of parents to see that their children are being given religious instruction in the spirit of the Church," says the letter, which adds that a memorandum has been handed to Herr Hitler pointing out the dangers which might arise from the misuse of State authority in interfering with church life and appressing the Christian conscience.

With regard to the Catholic Youth organisation, the episcopal letter declares that "it is the duty of Christian parents to send their children only to such organisations as respect their religious convictions and which do not endanger their moral purity."

In conclusion, the letter declares: "We do not fear for our Church, but we are very uneasy about our fatherland. Our Church has conquered the old paganism and will not be crushed by the new paganism."

team should be made not later than seven days after the match, according to the Rules, which Mr. O'Donoghue now quoted.

The Chairman upheld Mr. O'Donoghue's point, and ruled Mr. Cunningham's objection to Ballyin out of order and after some heated exchanges between Messrs. Cunningham and O'Donoghue, the latter repeated his proposal that Twomey be suspended for 12 months.

Secret of Abyssinian Mines

AGES OLD TREASURE HUNT.

It is always difficult to define where legend ends and history begins, because much of legend is real history and much of history has no more than a legendary value. Therefore when the Ethiopians or Abyssinians claim to be the oldest race in the world, unbelief finds little satisfaction in argument. The claim is as well supported as any other that depends for its accuracy on the elusive records of tradition.

From the Ancestral Ham, the son of Noah, the Ethiopians claim their descent, and thereafter their royal household was anointed by Solomon and the Queen of Sheba.

If it is to be assumed that the Queen of Sheba reigned in the land that is now called Abyssinia, there is Biblical foundation for the stores of gold and precious stones that lie in the secret places of that country. For when visiting Jerusalem she brought as gifts to Solomon immense treasures of gold and gems. The King was no less generous in returning the compliment, and when the Queen left for her own country she brought home great treasure, of which Ethiopian traditions and legends speak even down to this day. The treasure of the Queen of Sheba has become so woven into the natural life that upon it depends the fate of Abyssinia. According to the native faiths in the three thousand years' old story, so colossal was the amount of treasure in gold, silver and precious stones which she brought back from Jerusalem that the Queen, fearful of the cupidity which it must arouse in those about her, decided to have it in a secret cave in the mountains. The Queen alone knew of the location of the treasure chamber, for all those who had assisted in placing the treasure there were put to death. For years it remained undisturbed, and, according to some authorities, was increased. It was the Queen's intention when near her end to reveal to her son, Menelik, the hiding place of the treasure, but delayed too long for when she was on her death bed, and the son was called to hear the secret, she collapsed and died without being able to reveal it.

Naturally, the new ruler was anxious to discover the treasure, and worried about its whereabouts. One night he had a dream in which he saw a great mountain, which opened and revealed the treasure within. He reached out his hand towards the heaped riches, but there intruded between him and the hoard the figure of his mother, who, addressing him, said: "Do not touch it. If you ever take it away our country will lose its freedom. Abyssinia will become enslaved when the mountain gives up its treasure."

So impressed was Menelik by the dream that he promptly abandoned all effort to recover the Queen's treasure, and also forbade all his subjects to seek it, under threat of heavy punishment. Thus the treasure hoarded on the beautiful Queen of Sheba by Solomon remains concealed somewhere in the mountainous regions of Abyssinia—at least it remains there for those who put faith in the national legend.

A more practical interpretation of the story is that there exists in Abyssinia from the most ancient times a tradition of gold, silver, and probably precious stones worked by secret mines. The location of these mines was likely to be the secret of a limited few, and that they were worked by slaves is to be assumed. The story of mysterious gold mines in remote valleys in the mountainous regions of Abyssinia has long persisted, and recent travellers profess to have sighted these mines, but were unable to approach them. At any rate, the existence of gold and silver and precious stones in Abyssinia would be a simple explanation of the story of Sheba's lost treasure, which, as told by the Abyssinians, fails to carry conviction.

Why a Queen who was possessed of such treasure of her own that she was able to present Solomon with "one hundred and twenty talents of gold, and of spices a very great store, and of precious stones" (iii. Kings) should feel it necessary to hide for safety the gifts received from the King, does not appear clear enough to be reasonable. The Queen of Sheba was wealthy enough to have great treasure chambers under efficient guards, and was not likely to steal away into the hills to hide the lesser riches she brought from Jerusalem. And if we consider the consequences to countries rich in gold and precious metals and the inevitable conquest by more powerful nations, the dream warning becomes practical counsel. If we take the story as representing no more than a warning by the Queen of Sheba to her son not to let it be known that there were precious metals and precious stones to be found in Abyssinia, lest some more powerful people seek to own them, the legend assumes reasonable form.

The origin of the story of Sheba's treasure dates back three thousand years, but the message of it has a compelling significance to-day. For the natural riches of Abyssinia are frankly responsible for the imminence of the war of conquest by Italy. "Abyssinia will be enslaved when the mountain gives up its treasure!" Is a three thousand years' old prophecy about to be realised?

For, at any rate, three thousand years the Abyssinian dynasty has continued, and that in spite of many civil religious, tribal and foreign conflicts. For three thousand years the country and its people have been free and independent, owing to no allegiance, but that due to their own kings. The territory has expanded and contracted from time to time, but its essential integrity has been maintained, and the customs, language and general outlook of the people have remained unchanged.

No. 245.— INTUITION OF DOGS HAVE THEY SECOND SIGHT? By "PHILOKON."

THROUGHOUT all ages dogs have been supposed to have powers of foresight that are denied to human beings, though I have never been able to believe that we, with our superior intelligence and greater opportunities, can be their inferiors in this respect. Men have always thought that they had a perception of the supernatural, in plain language, it has been said time and again that they can see ghosts. While admitting that at times their behaviour has been so strange as not to offer a simple explanation, I have never yet been convinced that immaterial objects are visible to these friends of ours or capable of making their presence felt.

Frequently when we come to examine actions that seem to be extraordinarily strange we find a matter of fact solution of the apparent mystery. We have to remember that certain faculties are more acute, more highly developed in dogs than in men and women. Their senses of smell, hearing and sight are much keener than ours. Sight is at night, at least, but I am not sure that most of them see as well as we do in the day. If they do, it is curious that they should often bark at approaching friends until they are near enough to get their scent. I have noticed this peculiarity on many occasions.

They are equipped with an apparatus in the eye that enables them to see in the dark. It is this coloured layer or "tapetum lucidum" that is luminous when a ray of light falls on it. That is why the eyes of wolves may be seen by men sitting round a camp fire as points of light when their bodies are invisible. Now, little effort of imagination is needed for us to realise that on a dark night objects, unseen or unsmelt by us, may cause apprehension in a dog, make him restless or even impel him to run away. My own dog, town reared, displayed a timidity one dark night on a country walk that might have induced me to believe, had I been in the frame of mind to do so, that a ghost was in his path. Calling him to me, I encouraged him to draw close to whatever it was that excited his fear. It was nothing worse than a hedge-hog, the scent of which was unfamiliar to him.

In some ways, no doubt, natural phenomena have a greater influence upon animals than upon us when they are about to happen. Our dog senses the approach of a thunderstorm long before we have heard any distant rumblings. Sometime before the storm comes he begins to wander about uneasily, and seeks cover under couch or bed, telling us plainly what is to be expected. It may be, of course that he has heard the thunder before it has become apparent to our ears, but probably his nerves are sensitive to the state of the atmosphere. In the current issue of "The Tail-Wagger" Magazine a letter is reprinted which states that on the night of the Quetta earthquake no dogs would go into the houses. In fact, one man was saved by his dog barking and refusing to go in. His master went outside to get him in just as the house collapsed. I am unable to suggest the nature of the premonition that made dogs behave in this manner, though it is evident that they were aware of something sinister approaching.

DANISH CATTLE FOR GERMANY

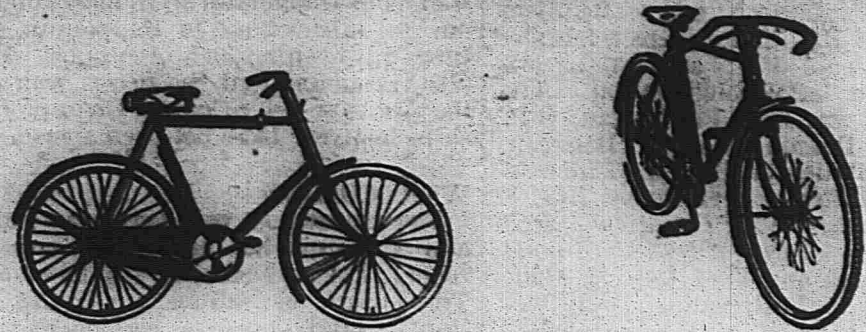

It is stated that Germany, with a big harvest of rye, is to sell to Denmark 2,000,000 bushels of second quality for fodder purposes, and in return Denmark is to supply Germany with 4,000 head of cattle and between 8,000 and 9,000 casks of butter.

that due to their own kings. The territory has expanded and contracted from time to time, but its essential integrity has been maintained, and the customs, language and general outlook of the people have remained unchanged.

Workers employed by the Co. Council making the road from Tuam to the new beet factory have given notice that they will strike work to-day for trades union wages. About 90 men are involved. A serious aspect of such a strike is that this concrete road must be finished before the sugar campaign begins.

YOUGHAL NOTES.

THE SEASON—At the end of August and practically the wind-up of the summer season, it is an unexpected pleasure to be in a position to record the fact that Youghal hasn't had such a successful tourist and tripper influx for very many years. With the advent of the fine weather at the beginning of July—June was a complete washout from every point of view—matters began to brighten up and visitors trooped in until at August week-end it was almost impossible to get a place. It is stated on good authority that six young ladies were glad to put up for the week-end in a bathroom! On the first Sunday in August, 15 fully packed trains arrived, in addition to hundreds of motor cars, buses, lorries, etc., from all quarters, some coming from as far off as Kilkenny, Limerick, etc. It only proves however, great the natural and other attraction of a place, the chief factor in the making up of a good season is the weather and it would be hard to beat that experienced locally for the past two months, there being only 2 or 3 broken days for the whole time. It was ideal for bathing and the visitors made the fullest use of it, both by the sea and sun. One of the Council's motor boats provided a series of most enjoyable trips, that were largely availed of by the sea to Capel Island, Ardmore, Ballycotton and up the glorious Blackwater to Stranally, Villierstown and Cappoquin. Every evening there was a variety of amusements on the strand, the Strand Palace giving a regular series of dances, including Irish nights, which attracted crowded houses. Indeed the strand with out the Strand Palace would have been pretty monotonous. A very welcome novelty this season was the musical programmes given by the League of the Cross Band, the North Abbey Fife and Drum and Pipers Band, in the Green Park and on the Strand. They deserve public thanks and it is understood that the Urban Council intends to give practical expression of their appreciation.

CRITICISMS—Where there were five crowds, often running well into five figures, it is only human nature to expect that there should be some not quite up to the mark set by Perfectionists. Some anonymous scribe, in a certain weekly Journal turned on a meticulously keen microscope fitted to a "muckrake" and, while not mentioning a place by name gave it as being the limit of everything worse than another. What says the poet?

"All seems infected that th' infected spy, As all looks yellow to the jaundiced eye."

What flock hasn't its own black sheep and why should poor Youghal be singled out for special attention? There are many other places where mixed bathing, and in all probability sun-bathing, are indulged in, yet there is very little heard about them. If some of those critics look around them in their own immediate neighbourhood, they may find something to set them thinking about. The advisability of setting their own house in order, before winking the other eye, and travelling further afield. Carping reference was made to "carousals" of an occasional "drunk," but what can be expected when thousands crush in on an evening, on holiday bent! Some of our critics display a lamentable want of appreciation of perspective and proportion. It is now well recognised that Ireland has long since lost all title to the title of "Island of Saints and Scholars." That being so there are found to be some few sinners here there and everywhere, and like a bad book, the more their faults are blazoned to the four winds of heaven, the more harm is done by way of cheap advertising.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION.—The winter session at the local Technical Schools begins at the beginning of September. A number of last year's pupils got placed in various positions, so that there is room for some new students. In justice to themselves—if they wish to make good use of the admirable facilities held out to the classes—which are hampered by those turning up in the middle of the Session—and to the teachers—who have to begin over again—intending students should join up at the very start. In the Day Vocational Classes boys are taught—Irish, English, Mathematics, Manual Drawing, Freehand Drawing, Woodwork and Metal Work and girls—Irish, English, Arithmetic, Mechanical Drawing and Design, Cookery, Needlework, Dress cutting and Home Crafts and Business Methods. In the afternoon and evening classes, the following is the programme—Irish, Art, Motor Car Engineering, Practical Metal Work, Woodwork, Cookery and Domestic Science. As will be seen this is a very comprehensive programme including subjects of great practical utility not alone in the fight for a livelihood in the open world, but also in the very important world of the "Home." With the long and often dreary winter nights approaching what better way of spending a couple of hours could be had than by carrying on the good work of self-improvement in comfortable well-lit rooms? It seems rather strange that many of the pupils travel 8 or 9 miles night after night, to those classes, while the youths of the town don't deem it worth the trouble to attend. In those days of intensive competition for positions, any one who has his or her future at heart must arm him or herself with every possible weapon to fight the hard battle of life.

At the Circus.

Messrs. John Duffy & Sons' circus visited Kilmac last week. Truly, the circus belongs to the land of the ever young. It awakes a Tom Sawyer or a Huckleberry Finn within even the old staid, and we abandon ourselves to a real time of boyish glee. And to the children it is a red-letter day, a feast of wonders, a breath-holding thrill! The men who run circuses are masters in psychology. The tent allures the old Nomad instinct in us; the piebald horses make us one with the wild spaces of the earth—the pampas and the prairies. The music of the band is full of a confident blare that speaks of men conquering, and to conquer. In the sultry heat of the August afternoon we look our seats on the upholstered planks and waited with pleasurable anticipation the performance that the bills so eloquently boosted. In an old book of scientific recreations we remember an experiment of mesmerising a cock by placing its eye to a chalk line. Some such mesmeric effect overcame us as we watched the stripes of the tent roof and the spot of sky to which they converged took the place of the polished disc of the hypnotiser. The orchestra, consisting of cornet, clarinet, piano-accordion, drums and fiddle, struck up music that breathed of the great, open, far away spaces. The rhythm was perfect, and yet there was a wistful sadness about it all. Even the circus folk know that our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest thought.

"Dancing with my shadow," was, perhaps, the most soothing tune the band played. Here on a little ring of grass that was erstwhile just an unobserved part of a grazing field were now to be enacted scenes that speak to the elemental nature of our hearts. Death is to be hob-nobbed with; the human body is to be made subservient to the will of its masters; here is to be put to the proof the dictum of Emerson, the great philosopher, that "Man alone performs the impossible." A whip cracked; a whistle blew; and hey- presto; a couple of midget ponies entered and performed many antics to the strains of the music. Who are these men who tame animals and perform magic feats? Mild-mannered heroes are they, but in their faces is the tough expression of men who live the wandering life—the Romany of Ring. We wondered where they had been brought up and how they maintained such gentility of demeanour, although their lives are circumscribed by many antagonisms. The audience of children was a happy and a jolly one. Life is more colourful than it used to be. Little girls had frocks of yellow, blue and green. Boys had open shirt necks that bespoke comfort. The programme was now developing rapidly. A man in gorgeous yellow silk, with red facings and tall hat entered. He fooled with a clown in the William Tell apple-trick, which proved an intentional fiasco. Tumblers, clad in white, took the grass, and glided and still our wonder grew that the human body could be bent and thrown about with such admirable elasticity. Flash is a marvelous thing. We wonder the poet said: "The hair on the back of my hand is miracle enough to stagger sextillions of infidels." A mock horse amused the children with his antics. Then a lady in salmon pink delighted us all with her balancing feats. How artfully conceived the music in all these turns! When the trick held us in suspense the orchestra kept up a confused sound like the humming of bees, but when it was brought to a successful conclusion the music flowed on in a stream of harmony. We felt suffocated at seen a girl being packed in a small box like a trussed turkey. The clowns gave us laughs between the events. The inimitable Charlie Chaplain had his imitator. He told the ring-master how to spell potatoes with the letter "O." He said, "Put down the seven 'O's'—now 'put eight 'O's' There you are! The man on the flying trapeze performed his acrobatics to the famous air of that name. His best trick was falling off the trapeze and just catching on by his heels on the way down. A party of four jugglers gave a star turn. The ladies were clad (partly) in black waltzes, green silk and tights. Most marvellous of all was balancing on a board on the top of a rolling log, and, in that position, spinning hoops, turning basins on the tops of poles, ringing handbells, playing the accordion and finally on a table, balanced on a board set on a movable log, one artiste undressed his outer garments. A fine turn was by a clown clad in vermilion, who with a halfpenny (or a penny at most) whistle imitated a troop of scouts arriving in camp. This clown made an improvised ditty on the company present which showed great adaptability of wit. A man balanced on glass tumblers, on movable bricks; dainty girls danced sailors' hornpipes; the wire-walking lady made her task well-nigh impossible by manipulating hoops, lifting hankies, and using her parasol as an aid to balancing feats. All these performers retire with such a sweeping and inclusive bow that the audience take unto themselves a quasi-pride in being so acknowledged. There were the old-time feats of horsemanship, which, alas! are gradually being ousted by miracles of cycling control. The "one-wheel traffic" on which two men—one on the shoulders of the other—balanced and played accordions was a defiance of gravitation that should make Sir Isaac Newton turn in his grave. A very graceful black and white horse danced to "Weel may the keel row" and lay down to the strains of "Poor Old Joe." The clown whose

Eliminating Bovine Tuberculosis from Dairy

In a paper read at the Congress of the Veterinary Association, held recently at Belfast, Mr. Dolan, Chief Veterinary Inspector of the Dublin Corporation, stressed the necessity of completely eliminating bovine tuberculosis from dairy herds. In the abstract this is a view with which no one will disagree. If, as Mr. Dolan asserts, there has been for years much opposition to the eradication of this disease it is, one would imagine, a good deal due to the fact that those who advocate getting rid of it are unable to put forward any practicable scheme which would commend itself to the dairymen and taxpayer. It is all very well for Mr. Dolan to say that it was not the part or duty of the veterinary profession to pay much attention to the finance of the matter, and that pseudo financiers would always oppose schemes irrespective of their merits unless they were forced to give way by public opinion. But neither can any experts be allowed to force their own opinions on the country without making their case complete from every point of view, including above all, its financial aspect. Unfortunately, very little of any consequence can be done without money, otherwise many long delayed reforms would have been brought about before now and we would be living in an Utopia.

The agricultural community has never objected to any reforms necessary for improvement of the health of the people generally, though as taxpayers they have to bear the major share of the burden, nor will they in this case demur to any reasonable plan for the eradication of tuberculous cattle. But they will certainly object to individual dairymen bearing too great a share of the heavy expenditure which may be involved. After all, if it is for the public good the public should pay for it. The dairy farmer should not be asked to lose more than a sum equivalent to whatever benefit he may derive from the elimination of affected animals from his herd.

EFFECT ON MILK SUPPLY

There is, however, the question as to what extent tuberculous cows affects the milk supply. On this point we have no reliable figures, but it is the opinion of many that while a good many animals may be slightly affected in comparatively few does the disease extend to the udder and, therefore, the danger to milk is not at all to the extent represented by some medical men and veterinarians. Diseases are of course the occasional epidemics caused by distribution from premises where diphtheria or other contagious diseases are present, but that is not the fault of the cow. Besides, in the ordinary course milk coming bacteriologically pure from the cow is subject to contamination in various ways before it is actually consumed. And even where the milk does contain the germs of disease it is rarely that these do harm unless there are contributing factors on the side of the consumer, such as insanitary or overcrowded dwellings, keeping the milk in unclean vessels, or where children fed with it have already debilitated constitutions more often than not caused by the fact that owing to the ignorance or poverty of the parents, they are not supplied with half enough milk to drink. Without in any way impugning the good faith of the able professional men who have from time to time spoken of the dangers of disease-infected milk, even laymen must have their doubts as to whether a clear case has been made against the cow kept on a farm. One could not, of course, speak with confidence of cows—probably a very limited number—continuously housed in Dublin city area which get little or no exercise and never see a blade of grass.

In Great Britain this problem is being dealt with by paying an extra price for the milk of "accredited" or "attested" herds. It is also being dealt with there as well in Northern Ireland as part of the general question of greater hygienic purity in the milk supply including the burning question whether or not milk should be compulsory pasteurised. Our own Government will, no doubt, tackle the whole question of a cleaner milk supply when the recently passed Clean Milk Act will be put into operation. Meanwhile producers of "liquid" milk should organise themselves so that they may be in a position to put their views before the proper authorities and do whatever may be necessary to protect their interests. Apparently some such organisation is, in any case, badly wanted, for according to recent reports liquid milk is being sold on the Dublin market as low as from 4d. to 6d. per gallon by dairy men in Wicklow and Meath. As was anticipated in recent notes on this page the poll of the British milk producers has resulted in a large majority in favour of the continuance of the Milk Board. Nearly 80,000 producers (81 per cent.) voted in favour of continuing the scheme, while only 19,000 or 19 per cent. voted against. In addition to the individual voting a poll was taken according to the number of cows owned by each producer. This gave an even more decisive verdict, for 86 1/2 per cent. of the cows—80 to speak—voted for keeping on the scheme and only 13 1/2 per cent. voted for ending it. It is a tribute to the commonsense of British farmers that, despite all the grumbling—some of it perhaps justified—and all the agitation antagonistic to the Board—much of which received a share of support in the popular Press—when the crisis came they decided they would not wreck a huge organisation built up and controlled by themselves, realising, as they did, that such would mean immediate chaos. It would, however, appear that many who voted for keeping the Board in existence were not in agreement with the whole of its policy, but as the Board is elected by the producers, they realised that it was better—as it was possible—to mend it than to end it. As one prominent producer remarked, while it is a good sign that the mass of the farmers are in favour of organisation, on the other hand there is a section of the farming community opposed to all organisations and if after a second period of trial the defects in the scheme are not remedied, these will increase in numbers. The Board themselves appear to admit that the scheme requires improvement in several ways. One complaint is that, instead of being reduced, the distributors' (middlemen's) margin has been increased since the advent of the Board. While the producer's price was falling, owing to the glut of supplies, retail prices were maintained at their old level, with detrimental results on consumption. It may, however, be surmised that this was a problem which the Board felt themselves unable to tackle in the early stages of the scheme, when they had to devote all their energies to getting the huge and complicated machine to run smoothly. The distributors occupied a strong and influential position among the producers, and to antagonise them before the organisation was well under way might result in smashing the whole enterprise. If such was the view of the Board, naturally it was one in which they could not "take the producers into their confidence," as some would suggest. Now that the Board know where they stand, they will be in a position to deal with this and other grievances, though it is not improbable that it will take some years to remedy all of them, for, where so many different interests are involved, the removal of the grievances of one section of producers more often than not creates fresh grievances for another section. In such a scheme it will never be possible to please all parties. The result of the poll was in no small measure due to the fact that the National Farmers' Union conducted an energetic campaign in favour of continuing the scheme. Herein lies a lesson for the farmers of the Saorstát. We have in this column time and again advocated the formation of a non-political organisation for the advancement of agricultural interests. Surely it should not be impossible for farmers to associate with one another for the discussion of their economic interests without bringing in politics which have wrecked farmers' organisations in the past. This is not to say they should take part in politics, for that would be absurd. But they should keep their politics and their business carefully apart, for they mix badly. Many may consider this not easy of accomplishment, but, after all, it has been done in the creamery movement for the past forty years. Creameries, like other industries and businesses, have occasionally failed, but it was only very rarely if at all, through the introduction of politics into the discussions of the co-operative societies or their committees.

CAPPOQUIN NOTES.

MINOR FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIPS

On Monday evening at 8.30, the Semi-final of the West Waterford Divisional Minor Football Championship was played in the Cappoquin Sportsfield between Blackwater Rovers, Cappoquin and St. Carthages, Lismore, and resulted in an easy win for the home team by the substantial score of 4 goals 5 points to nil for Lismore.

The Blackwater Rovers won the Championship of the entire County Waterford last year after displaying brilliant form against all the minor teams in the Western Division, and as the team is practically the same this year, the young players seem to be fully maintaining their winning form to a remarkable extent.

From the throw-in of the ball on Monday evening the Rovers seemed to dominate the game in every phase of the play, and kept the visitors almost entirely on the defensive, so much so that the Cappoquin goal-keeper, P. C. did not get a solitary kick of the ball in the first half, and the home team turned over at half-time with a score of 2 goals 3 points to nil.

The second half was almost a repetition of the first, for although the Lismore youngsters put up a plucky fight and made a few determined attempts to score, they could never pierce the Cappoquin defence, the goal-keeper being asked to save only once, and the full-time whistle found the Rovers easy winners of a rather one-sided game on the score—

BLACKWATER ROVERS 4-5 ST. CARTHAGES Nil
Cappoquin will next meet the winners of the Dungarvan-Stradbally match for the final of the Western Division, and if they are successful in this game, they should go a long way towards defeating the East Waterford champions, and thus winning the Championship of the Co. Waterford for the second year in succession for Cappoquin.

Mr. Paddy Dineen, the founder and Hon. Sec. of the Blackwater Rovers Club, has good reason to be proud of the performances of his players so far, and if they again win this year's Co. Championship, Paddy should be the hero of the day in Cappoquin.

THE VOCATIONAL SCHOOL—
The various Vocational Classes are in full swing in the above School since last Monday, and the number of students now attending proves the great faith they have in the solid and practical course of instruction given here by the various able and experienced teachers.

Mr. T. Halpin, Headmaster, Miss Flynn, Domestic Science Instructress, and Mr. Maher, B.A., Horticultural Instructor, have full classes now in their respective subjects, and the pupils who have entrusted their vocational education to such brilliant and practical teachers will have no cause to regret their choice at the end of the present term.

"OUR LADY'S WELL," CAPPOQUIN—
On September 8th the Feast of the Nativity of the B.V.M., the Patron Day of the Parish, crowds of the Parishioners regularly visited this well and piously made their "rounds," but for many years past this Holy Pilgrimage has ceased, and the rising generation has forgotten even the existence of the well in Cappoquin.

The well is situated a few yards outside the North boundary wall of Sir John Keane's demesne and close beside the holar nua.
Michael Cavanagh, (Cloc-a-Cuinne), the famous Cappoquin Poet, wrote the following lines after a visit to the well—
"July's red sun had tinged with fire, the walls and turrets hoar, The woods—whose warblers never tire—
The noble stream and stately spire that mark thy site—Lismore. When tired with rambling o'er the breast of heath-clad Knockmeal-down.
I paused to watch the glowing West, Behind the ridge whose rath-crowned crest once sentinelled our town. The robin's song my thoughts beguiled,
(A requiem meet for day) On mossy hedge the primrose smiled The Woodbine sweet and dog-rose wild.
Twined o'er the Lusmor gay. The dainty fern with bending plume, Swayed gently in the breeze, The green and gold-hued turze and broom.
Embalmed the air with rich perfume. And charmed the summer bees. In peace, secluded here I found A Well and knelt to pray:
I felt at once on hallowed ground A being smooth flax stones strewn around.
All flecked with lichens grey. Could stones but speak, what tales they'd tell of Pilgrim's throngs, whose knees
In circling round the "Blessed Well," Wore on their face—whose voices swelled Chimed in their Rosaries. They'd tell how chief and clansman wild
Swarth gallowglass and kern, Knelt here imploring "Mary Mild" In faith confiding as a child That played among the fern:
How gentle maids in spotless dress, Prayed Her, "unstained by sin," Their peerless Virgin Patroness Throughout all time to guard and bless
Their native Cappoquin."
