CO. WATERFORD VOCATIONAL EDUCATION COMMITTEE.

Rev. M. F. Hearne, C.C., presided at the monthly meeting of the above held on Tuesday. Also present—Messrs. Jas. Mansfield and Seamus Hayes.

MANUAL INSTRUCTOR VACANCY

With regard to the vacancy for a Manual Instructor owing to the resignation of Mr. J. A. Norton, the Department wrote approving of the Committee's decision to fill the vacancy, but added some difficulty might be experienced in obtaining the services of a candidate holding the required qualification in Woodwork, with teaching qualifications in Building Trade Subjects, and suggested that in the circumstances that the essential technical qualifications for the post should be confined to Woodwork, but that preference should be given to candidates holding the additional qualifications in building trade subjects.

The following applied for the position—Messrs. E. F. Burke, Co. Clare Vocational Committee; M. Murphy, 44 Hardwick St., Cork; B. O'Doherty, Fadamore, Co. Limerick; J. J. O'Dwyer, Birr, Offaly; Mcc. Moriarty, Castle Gregory, Co. Kerry.

After going through the qualifications, the C.E.O., said that neither applicant had the full technical knowledge required.

The appointment was adjourned for a month to allow the C.E.O. make further inquiries.

CAPPOQUIN TECHNICAL SCHOOL

On the suggestion of Mr. Bowen, the committee decided to expend the sum of £4 to prevent water from the above school getting into the premises of Mr. James Moore, which adjoins the school.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT

The following is a summary of the Inspector's report upon the working of the Scheme of Vocational Education in operation in the County of Waterford, during the academic year 1934/35.

The completion of the new school at Cappoquin and the renting of the new hall at Ring enabled the Committee to extend the scope of its activities in permanent centres.

Dungarvan Technical School—Four day classes were organised, viz.—Junior Domestic Economy Course, enrolment twenty-six; Junior Technical Course, enrolment sixteen; Junior Commercial Course, enrolment twenty-six; and a specialised Commercial engineering and Commerce, and attracted a total enrolment of eighty-one students in these classes was very satisfactory. The Junior Domestic Course was conducted for the first time and it was gratifying to find so many young girls availing of this valuable instruction. They received an intensive training in Domestic Economy and kindred subjects and their regular attendance bore testimony to their zeal and appreciation. The teaching of all the subjects of this Course was efficient.

The efficiency of the instruction in the other subjects was satisfactory. The two Commercial classes followed courses of study organised on sound lines. The teaching and the progress made by the students were satisfactory.

Evening classes were formed in Irish, Domestic Economy, Woodwork, Engineering and Commerce, and attracted a total enrolment of one hundred and sixty-eight students. The instruction imparted was efficient in all cases with the exception of the Engineering classes.

The introduction of Physical Culture for girls and of games for boys and girls was a desirable development, the continuance of which should be of considerable benefit to the students.

The existing premises are unsuitable and the erection of the new Technical School is urgent so that it may be possible for the Committee to offer facilities for suitable training for local needs to the youth of Dungarvan and surrounding districts.

Cappoquin Technical School.—The new building with its spacious well-equipped classrooms was utilised to provide rural courses for boys and girls in both day and evening classes.

The Junior Domestic Economy Course attracted thirty-seven young girls of an average age of sixteen years. The large enrolment necessitated a division into two sections for practical work, thus placing a big strain on the Instructress. In future sessions it would be desirable to restrict the enrolment in this class to twenty, thereby ensuring that each student gets the necessary individual instruction in practical work. The attendance throughout the session was distinctly regular and the girls profited considerably from the very efficient instruction they received, particularly in Domestic Economy subjects.

The Junior Rural Course for boys was designed to meet the requirements of country students and comprised Rural Science, Woodwork, Drawing, Mathematics and Surveying as well as Irish and general subjects.

A demonstration plot was used in connection with the rural science classes and in this way both theory and practice received due attention. The teaching of the various subjects was efficient particularly in Woodwork.

Evening classes were organised in Domestic Economy and Woodwork and attracted fifty-eight adults. The attendance was regular and work of a very high standard was accomplished.

Clashmore.—This centre was again very successful and two classes, one for boys with an enrolment of seventeen and one for girls, with an enrolment of twenty-three were organised. The girls received an intensive training in Domestic Economy subjects and the efficiency of the instruction was distinctly good. The boys' Course was designed for rural students and consisted of Irish, Rural Science, Woodwork, Mathematics and Drawing. By the generosity of the Creamery Manager a suitable demonstration plot was made available and each student took a pride in his own particular patch. The teaching was efficient in all subjects.

The evening classes in Irish, Domestic Economy and Woodwork attracted fifty-two students. The attendance was regular and good progress was made.

Ring.—The first serious attempt to develop Vocational Education in the Fior-Ghaeltacht could scarcely be termed successful. Only seven boys were enrolled in the day class and as these left the district temporarily, the Course had to be discontinued towards the end of November. Fifteen girls were enrolled in the Junior Domestic Economy Course and as some of them left early in the session for employment the effective enrolment was only six in March. It is doubtful whether the classes should be continued next session. If the attendance up to Christmas is not sufficient to justify the whole-time services of the Instructress, the Course should definitely be discontinued and a new centre, preferably in a Gaeltacht area, organised.

The evening classes in Irish, Domestic Economy and Woodwork were much more successful and a total enrolment of fifty-eight was very satisfactory. The attendance was regular and good work was accomplished.

Itinerant Classes.—Short Courses in Domestic Economy and Woodwork were conducted in seven centres and attracted a total enrolment of over one hundred and twenty students. The attendance, the efficiency of the instruction and the progress made by the students were satisfactory.

Irish Classes.—About four hundred and fifty students attended the Irish classes which were held in seventeen centres. The teachers worked conscientiously and spared no efforts to further the Language Movement both inside and outside class hours. The teachers selected to collect Bealoideas during the slack months of June and July did meritorious work and forwarded many valuable manuscripts to the Institute in Dublin.

The Committee took a keen interest in the working of the Scheme and willingly gave of their spare time to further its development.

The Chief Executive Officer discharged his duties efficiently and received the loyal co-operation of his teaching and office staffs.

PRICES OF TURKEYS AND EGGS.—At Messrs. J. O'Connor and Sons, Egg and Poultry Stores the Price of turkeys is 8d. per lb., and eggs 1/3 per dozen.

FEAST OF CHRIST THE KING

The feast of Christ the King was solemnly observed by the faithful of this town and parish amidst scenes of outstanding fervour and devotion on last Sunday.

After last Mass, Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament took place on the High Altar of St. Mary's Church, the altar being profusely decorated with flowers and evergreens, and brilliantly illuminated by a large number of candles.

Throughout the entire afternoon constant vigil was kept in front of the Blessed Sacrament by members of the Sodality of the Children of Mary, in relays of two ladies at the time, while there was a continual stream of worshippers visiting the church during the day and offering up their prayers before the High Altar.

At the evening Devotions at 7 o'clock there was an unusually large congregation from the town and parish when the Rosary and Solmen Benediction brought the beautiful ceremony to a close.

The excellent manner in which the Feast was observed was truly edifying and impressive, and afforded fresh proof of the exemplary and enduring spirit of Catholics which has always animated the good parishioners of Cappoquin, but which can rarely be seen on the surface except on some special occasion like last Sunday's impressive ceremony.

NO COURT LAST WEEK

Owing to Mr. G. P. Farrell, B.L., District Justice, having to do temporary duty last week for Mr. J. S. Toy, D.J., in the latter's area, the ordinary monthly Court, which should have been held on Thursday, 24th, ult., was not held, as there was no other Justice available on that day.

The Guards had a number of cases on the books, principally relating to motor offences, but these and all other cases now stand adjourned until Thursday Nov. 28th when we are promised an unusually heavy and interesting Court.

Despite rumours to the contrary, there was no Licensing prosecution listed for hearing last week, nor will there be such a case before the next Court, unless some unwary publican deviates from the path of rectitude in the meantime.

AN EXCITING INCIDENT

Some excitement was caused one night early this week when it was learned that one of the two kangaroos brought from Australia by Mr. J. Olden last week had escaped from the cage in which it had been confined with its mate.

Although kangaroos, as a rule, are harmless animals, and will not attack a human being unless first attacked, several of our more timid inhabitants became quite as alarmed and excited as if a man-eating lion or tiger had escaped from a menagerie.

Their groundless fears were soon allayed, however, when Mr. Olden and some friends, after a careful search, found the Australian "visitor" comfortably ensconced in the Glass-House of a garden nearby, quietly regaling itself with a feed of luscious grapes and tomatoes, and it tamely submitted to being led back to captivity again.

"THE LUCK OF THE DRAW"

Cappoquin enjoyed its proverbial luck in the Hospitals Sweepstake for the Cambridgeshire by not having a horse drawn by one of its many subscribers, while not even one of the "despised" £100 prizes came this way either, which is almost sufficient to make some of them despair of having any better luck in future "Sweeps."

On the occasion of the Grand National "Sweep" some years ago great excitement was caused here when a popular sportsman in the town received a "faked" telegram informing him that he had drawn the favourite for the big race.

Without waiting to investigate the genuineness of the telegram, numbers of his friends surrounded him and showered their congratulations on him.

When the official results of the Draw were read on the papers that night, and it was found that our friend was not even mentioned amongst the "Also ran," those who had been so exuberant in their felicitations earlier in the day felt rather ashamed.

RECENT RAILWAY ACCIDENT

Following the railway accident a fortnight ago, when two wagons of a goods train were derailed at Kilbree, about a mile from Cappoquin, and passenger traffic held up for some hours, a joint inquiry was held at the stationhouse here on Monday week.

The members of the Board of Inquiry were Mr. T. A. Leonard, District Permanent Way Engineer, Waterford, Mr. T. W. Brewer, District Traffic Superintendent, do., and Mr. Johnson, Loco Department, do.

The proceedings were private, but

OUR FACTORY CONGRATULATIONS

It is gratifying to record that the subscription lists of the Dickens Leather Company Ltd., which opened on Tuesday 29th inst., were closed down almost immediately, being heavily over-subscribed. That augurs well for the success of the Company and shows the confidence of the country in the Government's Industrial Programme. This result will be good news for our Industrial Association, and particularly for Fr. Walsh, C.C., and the local Directors—Dr. Casey, and Mr. P. J. Moloney, who have borne the brunt of a very strenuous struggle to secure this splendid factory for the town against violent opposition from outstanding groups competing for the industry.

When it is realised that about £10,000 a year will be paid in wages by the concern, it can be seen what an advantage it will be to the town generally—unemployed and shopkeepers.

The farming population, too, will benefit from the increased prosperity, as money will be in circulation locally which would otherwise go to the foreigner.

The new factory will be situated in Dunlea's Stores, Cody's Quay, and now that the financial question has been solved so successfully, the work will be put on hands forthwith. And it is expected manufacturing will begin in 5 or 6 weeks time.

Messrs. E. A. Ryan and Co., are solicitors to the undertaking, and carried out all the onerous legal duties incidental to the formation of the Company with the conspicuous ability characteristic of this well known firm.

O'Neill, Bansa, and Mr. J. J. Halpin, Tipperary. No other part of the County or City drew a horse.

PRICE OF PIGS

The price of best-grade fat pigs remained unchanged at 52/- per cwt., dead weight, at the Cappoquin Bacon Factory this week, and it will be of interest to farmers to know that this price will continue under the rules of the Pigs and Bacon Act until November 15th. It has been announced by advt. that pigs weighing over 1 cwt., 2 qurs. 7lbs. are not required by the factory in future, so we trust that farmers, in their own interests, will make it a point to market their pigs before they have exceeded this weight.

Irish Labour Party MEETING IN DUNGARVAN SPEECHES BY MESSRS. W. O'BRIEN, MR. DUFFY, AND D. FOLEY.

A Public Meeting under the auspices of the Irish Labour Party was held in the Square on Sunday evening. Mr. P. Lynch, presided. There was a large gathering present.

The Chairman (Mr. P. Lynch) said that the meeting to-night was a call to the working people of Dungarvan, not to the colours of Abyssinia, not to the colours of Italy, but to the colours of the Labour Party. It was a call to which they could not afford to turn a deaf ear. Too long has there been dillying and dallying by the wayside; too long had they dillyed; too long had they put up with "take it and be damned to you" attitude. It was high time that the workers did away with it. They were up against the cold stern fact that the fight is won by the man who fights; and not one who goes to the wall and lies down? If so, they were deserving of what they would get. He believed that the workers of Dungarvan were not going to lie down. They wanted a lead; they wanted to walk along the trail blazed by James Connolly by sweat and blood. Mr. Wm. O'Brien, who they had with them to-night, would lead them along that trail, fully equipped, with no halting on the way until their objects were achieved (applause).

Mr. Wm. O'Brien, General Secretary I.L. & G.W.U., and Chairman Administrative Co., I. L. Party, who was loudly cheered, said it was a great pleasure to attend there that evening to address them. In Waterford City they had held a conference to select a candidate for this constituency in the next election. He was glad to inform them that they had a very successful conference. The man they had selected was no stranger to the people of Dungarvan. He was Mr. Dan Foley, I.L. Party, in the General Election of 1922. In Dungarvan, labour was at ways well supported, and he hoped at the next election, Mr. Dan Foley would be their member. Many of them supported labour in the past; many of them supported political parties. The Irish Labour Party had for its programme and objects those of James Connolly. In 1912 at a conference in Clonmel Connolly indicated the objects of the Irish Labour Party. At that time, the name of Connolly was practically unknown. The daily Press at that time was opposed to the Labour Movement and the minds of the people were being poisoned against Connolly and the Labour Movement. But that state of affairs could not be maintained. When Connolly played a leading part in one of the greatest dramas Irish history has ever seen; when he led the Citizen Army in the rebellion of 1916, then was built the Irish Labour Movement and its principles were imbued in those who followed after in his footsteps. Clearly, there was no other Party that stood for the whole body of the doctrines and principles of Connolly than the Irish Labour Party. From the age of 16 when he (speaker) first knew Connolly he had left nothing undone to spread the principles of Connolly. Labour in the early days of Dail Eireann had been criticised for entering that assembly. But they took the view that as long as there was a legislative body in the country, a body that made laws that they had a right to be there to see that these laws were moulded for the benefit of the people. That action was vindicated at the end of 5 years when Mr. de Valera entered that assembly and was 5 years later elected to office. The Labour Party had in the Dail, seven members who represented them; they had the power to decide whether or which, the Government should remain in office. Having regard to the ten years of Mr. Cosgrave in office, the labour party found no difficulty in giving him the right about turn and consequence. Mr. Eamonn de Valera took up the case.

The object of the Labour Movement is that the Thirty-two Counties of Ireland should be an Independent Republic, and not only that but a Workers Republic. That was the essential difference between the Irish Labour Party and other organisations. They did not stand for the independence of other countries such as France and America where the worker was ground down under the heel of the capitalist. The Labour Movement was not satisfied with National Independence; they wanted freedom for the classes; freedom and emancipation for the people. The Labour Party in the Dail presented the Conditions of Employment Bill. There were 4 or 5 others of similar character dealing with the working classes and setting up new codes of labour conditions. The eyes of the workers were being opened; they were being led up. They were realising that they were something better than hewers of wood and drawers of water. No longer were they sweating from 55 to 60 hours a week for a mere pittance. Trade Unions and the Labour Party had altered that. Labour was never behind in the National movement. In 1918 when the menace of conscription faced the country, the Labour Party repelled the attack by downing tools. Later during the black and tan days and in the Mounjoey strike of 1920, the railway workers and dockers refused to handle

MR. COSGRAVE'S VIEWS

Addressing a meeting in Dublin on Sunday, Mr. Cosgrave, I.L.P. said there were reasons why Clare might have departed during the last twelve or fifteen years from the really true Irish national flag, and responded to the claims that were made on it by certain people. The people had been portrayed before them a very attractive programme, with great material advantages, and it might be that the people of Clare thought there was some sincerity behind it. There was now no general election or by-election, so that the position could be examined with calmness and to assemble the results that had ensued from giving the Fianna Fail Government the power it sought. They could now measure the value of the statement made to the people that five million pounds were going to be retained here and employed in reducing taxation and in enabling the Government to derate agricultural land throughout the State. Had they, he asked, kept that five millions in the country? They had not. Not alone had the money been collected by the British, but, according to the leader of the Government himself, it had been collected from the people of the country with greater hardship and occasioning greater dislocation than if it were being voluntarily paid. Were the people of Clare satisfied that the Government had fulfilled its undertaking with regard to that five millions? He quite understood that the farmers generally had suffered in the great economic disturbance, but he was not prepared to admit that they had all suffered. Some had managed to keep themselves well off and increase their resources, and be richer than they were before that disturbance took place. Those people who had made money during the last two or three years were in a position to exercise enormous political influence, both to-day and in the future. In the printed statistical records in the newspapers it was shown that exports had diminished almost by 50 per cent. All classes, not excepting the professional sections of the community were not indifferent to the fluctuations in prices of agricultural produce. Economic conditions in this country had been such during the last three or four years that there was no country in the world who would not have hunted from office those responsible for bringing such a catastrophe on the people (applause). That strange economic upheaval had been occasioned right under the eyes of people who went round the country for years pointing out the troubles that affected farmers, labourers, artisans, craftsmen, tradesmen, etc.

Was there anybody to-day who denied that, taking the country as a whole during the last three or four years, they had undergone a change far worse than any other country in the world? For ten years the farmers of this country paid, not only their annuities, but something like £100,000 off the arrears, and there was no bank in the whole world could show in respect of such a huge sum of money such a splendid record. There were no bad debts over that whole period, and these were the same farmers who to-day were unable to meet half their obligations of four or five years ago. Farmers who bought their land anything from fifty to ten years ago, or even yesterday, underlook to pay only once for it; they were now being asked by this Government, posturing as an honest Government, to pay that debt twice—once to the British and once here. Even though the sum total of the two was not exactly twice the total of the debt, it was not the sum they undertook to pay. When this dispute took place between this Government and Great Britain, any farm in the country which had upon it agricultural stock, could write down its value by half. In all seriousness, he asked them, if it was possible that an honest man would allow a situation of that sort to arise as a result of his policy. Did they think that a man who came before the people telling them that their status and nationality were dear to him, and that he was going to secure their prestige, nationality and independence, and at the same time put his hands in their pockets and took half their money. Was he an honest man? The Fianna Fail Government at the second general election asked to be returned for two reasons—one, to negotiate a settlement, or, alternatively to win the war, and within 12 months the British Government has just returned one simple blow at the agricultural industry of this country, and said: "In future we will only take half the fat stock you have for sale." That situation was allowed to continue for twelve months, when it could have been ended in amonth if the same steps were taken in January, 1924, as had been taken in December, 1923, when the Coal-Cattle Pact was actually forced upon this country. A few weeks ago the leader of the Government complained that he had been criticised for not making a bargain. He had said that other people had made bargains that were "Damn good bargains."

The ex-President proceeded to recall his negotiations with the British in respect of liabilities under Article 5 of the Treaty, and went on to say that it was the job of a President not to go around expressing his difficulties, troubles and obstacles, but to clear them away to recover for the country the opportunities for trade and commerce which existed before he had blasted them.

180,000 MORE CATTLE EXPORTED

The benefit derived by the Free State agricultural industry from the coal-cattle pact with Britain is shown by the latest trade returns by the Department of Industry and Commerce. Exports of cattle amounted to nearly 500,000 head for the first nine months of this year—180,000 more than for the corresponding period of last year. The returns reveal that in the last four years the value of the Free State's total trade, 98 per cent. of which is with the United Kingdom, has dwindled by £20,000,000.

The greatest drop has been on the export side. In 1922 exports amounted to nearly £30,000,000, as compared with only £19,000,000 for the year ended September last.

AND THE FARMERS' POSITION

Concluding, Mr. O'Brien, exhorted them to support the Labour Party and not only would they have National Independence, but would have the fullest measure of social advancement. Mr. Duffy, General Secretary, I.L.P. said that as Mr. O'Brien had stated the Irish Labour Party stood for a free and Independent Ireland unfettered and unchained from outside or inside. Freedom from outside did not necessarily mean complete independence. Inside there must be freedom. In the country to-day there was a certain type of man that professes to be a patriot, who was sweating the workers in his shop, or factory or farm. Patriotism of that type consisted of waving a Republican flag. They must know that all classes should have an opportunity of living a full, free and happy life in their own land. They stood for a free and Independent Ireland based on the principles of Connolly. The Labour Party in the Dail was directed towards that end to raise up the conditions of life for the masses of the people. In response to the pressure of the Labour Party, the present Government was providing £400,000 as pensions for Widows and Orphans, but when it came to action they found the Government cut their provision by £150,000 reducing the amount to £250,000. What is the result? The result is that those poor widows and poor children who were asked to apply for pensions have made very little response. The amount of pensions to be paid would be much smaller than what they would get from the Board of Health or Board of Assistant Unemployment Assistance and Relief Works. When a working man wanted to get a job on a relief work he found that men of independent means got the work. These were the acid tests for the Fianna Fail policy. Apply the test and see if it is pro-labour or not. It was the same way with the I.R.A. pensions. They heard a lot about these pensions at the beginning. Now they knew a few men who held high rank in the I.R.A. were called before the selection Board and given substantial pensions and the rest, the real men who fought must go to the workhouse.

The speaker then referred to the Blue Shirt Movement, the setting up of a military dictatorship and how labour helped to smash it. In conclusion, he asked the gathering to vote for Mr. Foley at the next election and if they did that they would never regret it. Mr. D. Foley, N.T., said that Labour stood for happiness in the home. A country was to be judged by its happy homes not by its bank rate, not by its settling up of native industries, not by profit-making. If they wanted to see proper conditions for the working classes they should join the Labour Party. Reference had been made to his selection at the convention. He would do his best, but he must have their full co-operation and help. They must change the conditions at present of ill-nourished children and care-worn mothers and of having their people exploited. In Dungarvan he always got a greater amount of support than in any other part of the county. He knew that the people of Dungarvan were imbued with the spirit of Connolly and that that spirit would always remain in Dungarvan.

Mr. T. Ryan, said he was speaking on behalf of the candidature of Mr. Foley. Mr. Foley had the support of all the labour in the City and County, and he hoped that the workers would co-operate and ensure his election. They could ensure his election by organising now and becoming members of the Irish Labour Party. Dungarvan had always supported labour in the past, and he hoped that in the future it would excel what it had done in the past.

Mr. P. J. O'Brien, Organiser I. L. & G.W.U., said that he believed that there wasn't a better man than Mr. Foley to urge on the cause of the workers. He knew that the tradition of the workers of Dungarvan was the tradition of Connolly. The labour party intended to root up and change the present system of affairs in this country.

The Chairman, returned thanks to the gathering, and to the speakers, and concluded with the following lines of Connolly:— Then fling it aloft on the breeze, boys, This watchword, the grandest we've known; That Labour must rise from its knees, boys, And claim the broad earth as its own.

Those present on the platform included Messrs. P. Byrne, U.D.C., T. McCarthy, U.D.C., S. Hayes, U.D.C., and Secretary Dungarvan Branch, etc.

Don't throw out one glass of water until you are sure of getting another—(applause)—and it would have been possible to re-organise the agricultural industry of the country without paralyzing the majority of the people." The country was now taxed more than fifty per cent more than five years ago. Actually the amount was six millions with hidden taxation amounting to four millions extra, making a total of ten millions, while the administrative costs of the State had increased by another two millions. Even assuming the increase was only ten millions that would represent a sum of 1s. 3d. per head on every single person in the community. Was value being secured for that?

Fine Gael, he continued, had a sound constructive policy, which was to take into account the circumstances now confronting them. In this connection he referred to the proposition obtaining with regard to the Government schemes for wheat, beet and tobacco, and pointed out that the total acreage involved in these schemes represented only half an acre for each Land Commission land annuitant. "We," he said, are "not wedded to a wheat policy, but we are wedded to this, that the people who have bought machinery and who have made attempts to reorganise the agricultural economy, who have invested money under a tillage policy—I say that we will not follow the example of our predecessors and blast those men out of existence, as the Government blasted the people out of their livestock. We will give them a guaranteed price. Enormous losses have been sustained by the people in connection with the change-over and the best contribution we can think of in connection with the rehabilitation of these people is to ensure that the whole of the agricultural land of this country will be derated. Similarly in the case of industries, where employment has been given and money has been sunk in good faith, no Government has the right by a single electoral change to wipe out the livelihood of the people, and the investments made by the people."

Mr. Cosgrave strongly criticised the policy of the Government in respect of legislation by decrees of the Executive Council and the imposition of tariffs overnight. This, he said, was making a mockery of Parliamentary institutions (applause). The Constitution, which is the foundation law of this State, sets forth our national and international status," he continued. "The Constitution is founded upon the Treaty between Great Britain and Saorstát Eireann. We are one of the members of the British Commonwealth of Nations since 6th December, 1922, and for ten years we enjoyed the full rights and accepted the full responsibilities of that membership. On that status we entered the League of Nations as a State member. Prior to the Imperial Conference of 1926 there had been many expressions of opinion on the part of British statesmen affirming and recognising the independence and autonomy of the members of the British Commonwealth of Nations. Constitutional usage and practice had gradually evolved that independence and autonomy. To consolidate and clarify that position the Imperial Conference were formulated, and to bring these agreements into harmony with statute law and make them binding on the people of Great Britain, the Statute of Westminster was enacted in 1931, giving full legal effect to the development which had been brought about by constitutional usage and practice. That usage and practice automatically became law here by virtue of the Treaty. It may, however, be affirmed that had the Government of to-day accepted in 1922 what they sought the full potentialities of the Treaty would have been achieved. That there has been an advancement and development of the Treaty and of the status of this State during the first decade is undeniable; it is along that road of development and improvement that any hope lies for the solution of the important political problem yet remaining to be solved—namely, the unity of the country. Our national economy is dependent upon the full fruits of our Treaty of accommodation with Great Britain. Our national status is in no way limited by that instrument. Our security and independence are enhanced rather than restricted by it and the association of which we are a member affords the fullest and most ample opportunity for the full realisation of our national aspirations. We are prepared to subscribe to further development of our Treaty relations, but we are not and never have been dependent upon a single legislative Act of the British Parliament for the status which this Government appears to enjoy and boasted of at Geneva quite recently. "A reference," concluded Mr. Cosgrave "was made here by the leader of the Government regarding the ports of this country, which are at present in occupation of the armed forces of Great Britain. Exactly the same terms and situation were included in Document No. 2, which was Mr. de Valera's alternative to the Treaty, with the difference that the Treaty was signed by both parties, and Document No. 2 had not been negotiated for or signed by any person in this country. These ports are put up as being obstacles towards a settlement of the dispute. These ports are put up as being obstacles towards a settlement of the dispute. "Occasionally one sees a reference to an expansion in industrial occupations but that expansion came out of the line of policy in operation for ten years prior to the Government taking office, and pursued since. Similarly in connection with that natural development and the evolution of the Treaty to which I have referred, and to which the present Government paid lip service, there was a gradual improvement in the operation of the instrument signed in 1921 and so-called the Treaty. Mind you, I say so-called in this phrase, because my honest opinion then and now was that that was an instrument of wonderful potentialities to this country if public representatives in possession of the powers under it, worked it as Collins and Griffith intended it should be worked. If the leader of the Government knew his business he has in connection with these ports something which he could offer to Great Britain rather than to receive from them. Having referred to the history of Great Britain in relation to the various Dominions, and how she had occupied their ports, Mr. Cosgrave asked, "What is Britain's object in connection with these ports of ours? It is twofold. The President of the Executive removed one of these objects by giving an undertaking that Ireland would not be made the base of an attack on England by any other country. Don't you think it would have been as well for him if when first he met the British, he would not have given them an indication that that would have been his line of policy in this matter? His second line was the maintenance of the ports. I don't want the Irish people to get the responsibility and duty of marshalling these ports with Irish troops and guns without having to pay the cost, and the cost is considerable. My recollection of the cost was that it was somewhere around £350,000, and the President of the Executive Council might not be so very concerned with this port's problem and using it as an objection to the negotiating of a treaty of accommodation between the two countries. "But, the men who could not see the value of the statesmanship of Griffith and Collins thirteen years ago, and were themselves unable to make any agreements except the coal-cattle pact after fifteen years, are not responsible men to represent this country, either at Geneva or at home. And so it is that we of Fine Gael came down here. The people of Clare who ought to have Irish blood and should be able to realise the importance of having dignity and force behind their representatives, should not again return to power men not fit to represent the Irish people, but should support those who stand for a sound and constructive policy, and will make the name of Irishmen and their nation not alone honoured but respected amongst the nations of the world."

Cork Aero Club FASHIONABLE BALL AT DROMANA, CAPPOQUIN.

Through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Ion Villiers Stuart, Dromana, Cappoquin, the Second Annual Ball of the Cork Aero Club was held in the spacious Ballroom of Dromana House on Friday night, 25th ult., where the first Ball of the same Club was held about a year ago. The first event was a brilliant success, as it was attended by close on 100 couples, representing all the most prominent and fashionable supporters of aviation in various parts of Munster, but on this occasion the attendance proved far short of expectations through some unaccountable cause. The lack of numbers was, however, atoned for by the brilliance and representative character of those present on Friday night, and the Ball proved an event of rare enjoyment and a great social success from the dancing point of view. Mrs. Villiers Stuart was, unfortunately, unable to be present, being away in London, and the absence of this charming and hospitable hostess was greatly regretted by all present, but in her absence, Mr. Ion Villiers Stuart proved an ideal host in every respect, and between him and Mr. C. M. Ryan, the popular and efficient Hon. Sec. of the Cork Aero Club, all the arrangements were carried out in admirable style which ensured the maximum of comfort and enjoyment for all the guests. Mr. A. Dawson, Dromana, also rendered invaluable service in generally supervising all the arrangements, and his close personal attention to every detail was deeply appreciated by all.

The splendid Ballroom, overlooking the lovely valley of the Blackwater, had been specially prepared for the occasion, the floor being in capital dancing condition, and a gay and brilliant scene was witnessed when the Ball was properly at its height about midnight. A very high-class programme of music was rendered by Miss "Billie" Foley's famous orchestra, Cork, and to its haunting and melodious strains dancing was kept up with great vigour and enjoyment until 4.30 in the morning. A sumptuous supper was provided after midnight by the Household staff of Dromana House, under the supervision of a representative Ladies' Committee, and this added greatly to the success and enjoyment of the happy event. Amongst those present were—Mr. Ion Villiers Stuart, M.F.H., Dromana; Sir Ernest Goff, Bart., Waterford; Mr. Gerald Villiers Stuart, Kiltree; Mr. M. Villiers Stuart, The Hall, Lismore; Mr. W. A DEATH SENTENCE AND ITS SEQUEL

The passing of the death sentence on a Free State soldier by a Free State court martial and his subsequent reprieve following threatening notice issued by the local I.R.A. leaders, was the subject of sensational evidence in a case at Clonmel Circuit Court, before Judge Sealy, in which Messrs. O'Keefe Brothers, garage proprietors, Nelson Street, Clonmel, sought £1,003 14s. 3d. compensation for goods taken by the I.R.A. between 19th February, 1922, and 14th July, 1922. They also claimed £1,001 7s. 6d., in respect of supplies to Free State forces in August 1922.

Mr. J. J. Walsh, who (instructed by Messrs. J. J. O'Shea, Murphy and Co.) appeared for applicants, said applicants had pursued a certain political course in the country when it was not popular to do so. In 1922 they took sides with the I.R.A. and applicants' premises were the base for supply of mechanical transport to the I.R.A. As regards the second claim, Free State forces took the articles from applicants' premises. Mr. Walsh added "If anybody is to ever recover a penny from these claims under this Act it certainly behoves the Government to pay what your Lordship reports for in this case."

John O'Connell, accountant, Dublin, gave evidence as regards auditing the accounts in connection with the claim.

Cross-examined at great length by Mr. M. J. Connolly, S.C., who with Mr. M. J. Lennon (instructed by Mr. F. J. O'Connor, solr.) appeared for the State. He agreed that the writing in applicants' books was in some instances in ink and in others in pencil, but he found no traces of alteration or erasures having been made.

Mr. Dan Breen, T.D., said that in 1922 he was engaged with the Republican forces in Clonmel and he was O.C. of portions of Kilkenny, Waterford and Tipperary.

Judge Sealy—You seemed to have been every place at the time judging from cases that have come before the court.

Witness—I was a good mark to blame for a lot of it.

Mr. Connolly—He was like the Scarlet Pimpernel, I think.

In reply to Mr. Walsh witness said he knew the O'Keefe's for 15 or 16 years.

Mr. Walsh—The suggestion made here is that they have falsified and fabricated accounts for the purpose of bolstering up a claim. Can you offer any opinion as to their integrity?

Mr. Breen—I would say that the two O'Keefe brothers are two of the most honourable men I have ever met, and I take it very ill of the State to make such accusations. I pledge my oath that they are as honourable men as I have met in this country.

And from what you know of them would they be capable of fabricating these accounts? No, I don't think they would ever dream of it.

Michael O'Keefe bore out his Counsel's statement as to having supplied goods to the I.R.A. and as to goods having been taken by Free State forces. In course of a lengthy cross-examination by Mr. Connolly—Witness said one of two Sunbeam Rover motor cars for which he was claiming was bought by him for the late Commandant Dalton of the I.R.A., in 1919 for £250. The I.R.A. at the time wanted funds and the car, being theirs was sold to raise funds.

Mr. Connolly—Do you remember when General Lucas was taken by the I.R.A.?

Witness—Yes.

Mr. Connolly—Wasn't there a Sunbeam Rover car taken then? There was.

Mr. Connolly—Are you aware that a claim was made in respect of a car with a corresponding number by the British Army as having been seized?—Not to my knowledge.

Witness added that in 1925 the Free State authorities admitted that the car was his. Further cross-examined witness denied that any alterations or erasures had been made in his books for the purpose of bolstering up the claim.

In further evidence it was stated that witness was on the run with the I.R.A., and after being captured by Free State troops was sentenced to be executed by general court martial. Following his sentence the following notice appeared in the local Press:—

"The Chairman of the County Council and representatives of other bodies have received threatening notices, signed by the irregular leaders, Denis Lacey, and William Quirke, as follows:—Should any officer or man of the Third Tipperary Brigade be executed in or outside the Brigade area, you and certain members of your Board will be deemed participants in the crime, and will be dealt with accordingly. War, Truce, or peace."

Mr. Walsh—I want to show that owing to what this man went through it would be almost a physical impossibility to be deadly accurate. This, however, apart from the hard times it would be very hard.

Mr. Walsh—An attack has been made on this man that he is dishonest and that the whole case is a bogus one.

Mr. Connolly—It doesn't follow that because the State investigates a case and points out discrepancies that any attack is made on this man as regards his services in the republican forces or otherwise.

Senator William Quirke, said he knew Michael O'Keefe intimately for

WAGES

A cheque for 210 1s. 11d. for week's wages was passed.

RATE COLLECTION

The Clerk stated that the state of the rate collection at present stood. First moiety collected and lodged 68 per cent. Second moiety collected and lodged 7 per cent.

INCREASE OF WAGES

The following letter was read from Mr. Patk. Lynch, Secretary, Dungarvan Branch I.T. & G.W.U.:—I am instructed by the committee of the above Union to propose that the weekly increase for Jas. Veale, who is in the employment of the Urban Council as Hall Porter. We make the demand on the following grounds:—(1) Jas. Veale is not getting Union wage; (2) His regular wage should be 22 per week; (3) He is not allowed any wages for overtime; (4) His work has considerably increased, and if he was allowed overtime with regular wages of £2 per week his pay would be over 60 per week. Taking the period April 1st to October 1st 1935, he worked 292 hours overtime, and again for the period April 1st 1935 to October 1st 1935 his overtime was 410 hours. He has been engaged in the Town Hall 21 Sundays out of the last 29. For the reasons stated we now demand that he be given an increase of 10 per week.

Mr. Dahill—What is his present wage? Clerk—35 per week.

Mr. Dahill—I thought he had the same wage as all the Council employees—£2.

Mr. Hayes—He has to be in the hall every night.

Chairman—There is no doubt about it, he has a lot of work to do, and is giving satisfaction.

Mr. Dahill—He has not even Sunday off.

Mr. Byrne—He is a fool then. After some further discussion it was decided to discuss the matter at next meeting.

DEMAND FOR HALL

PROFANING OF SUNDAY

A Denunciation of the profanation of Sunday, was made by the Pope in an address to the Council General of the Catholic Action Organisation.

Probably for the first time in Italian history, Sunday was treated as a weekday, shops and banks remaining open, and closing on Monday instead.

The Pope, in his address, praised the work done by Catholic Action in upholding the sanctity of Sunday, remarking: "An apostolate, alas, only too necessary to be considered not only as a Christian duty, but also as a means of the sanctification of the Sunday."

His Holiness continued: "It is noteworthy, but not sufficiently known that the profanation of the Sacred Day is regarded in Holy Scriptures as a great crime."

"While at one time he who profaned the Sacred Day would have been considered as a man who denied God, now this denial is made openly and it might also be said that it is a proclamation of public atheism, which denies God and suppresses the day consecrated to Him."

"The profanation of the Sacred Day is one of the sins which most draws upon us the wrath of God."

Under the organisation of Catholic Action meetings have been held in several towns in Northern Italy in favour of Sunday Observance.

At Monza a "Sunday Observance Week" has been in progress in one parish since last Thursday with daily addresses on different aspects of the subject.

LADY CHARLES CAVENTISH BEREAVED

Lord Charles Cavendish and his wife it is announced, have lost twin sons. Early on Saturday morning at the Duke of Devonshire's London house, Lady Charles gave birth to two boys, who lived only for an hour.

On Sunday a member of the household said: "Lady Charles is now better and doing very well. The doctors are very pleased with her. The boys were born prematurely."

Lady Charles' first baby, a girl, died when only three hours old.

She, too, was born prematurely when Lady Charles was staying at their home, Lismore Castle, Co. Waterford, in October, 1933.

Lady Charles and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Fred Astaire, 6,000 miles away in California, were hoping to be able to exchange telegrams of congratulations on the birth of their children about the same time.

SPORTS CLUB DANCE

A most enjoyable practice dance under the auspices of the above was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday last. Patrons are requested to note that there will be no dance on next Tuesday night owing to the hall being engaged. The committee hope, with the kind permission of the U.D.C., to hold their next dance on Tuesday week November 12th.

OVER-SUBSCRIBED

It is not very usual to find the shares of a new Irish Company over-subscribed as soon as the issue is announced, yet that is what happened in the case of the Dickens Leather Company Ltd., the new Company formed to manufacture Lining Leathers and various semi-chrome and vegetable tanned Upper Leathers for the boot, shoe and slipper trades and clothing and for the fancy leather goods trade.

The issue at par was £12,000 Cumulative Preference Shares of £1 each and 12,000 ordinary shares of £1 each, making a total of £24,000. The subscription lists were to open on Tuesday morning 29th October, at 10 a.m., and close on Friday November 1st.

Now to get in £24,000 in 3 days would certainly be a bit of a record, but the result was a greater record still.

No sooner had the Lists been opened on Tuesday morning than the amount of applications and deposits received for shares in the concern far exceeded the total amount of the issue with the natural consequence that the lists were closed directly at 11 a.m. on Tuesday, an hour after being opened.

Since then applications have been received by every post by the Directors, solicitors and auditors of the Company asking for Shares, but of course the would be subscribers could not be accommodated. Evidently there is nothing like Leather, and as the Irish people unlike the Abyssinians always wear boots there is bound to be demand for leather of all sorts. Needless to say all concerned are delighted with the result, and no wonder. In these hard days when money is scarce, it is a grand thing to see the confidence of our people manifested in so thorough a manner and one can easily visualise how high honours would be set if only our agricultural industry which is the mainstay of all sections could be again restored to its natural position as a paying proposition.

But as great as has been the success of the flotation of the Dickens Leather Company, it is only the prelude of many such industrial concerns which we hope to see springing up in our midst in the near future.

Coming to the Dungarvan Cinema on Nov., 18th Fred Astaire, and Ginger Rogers in "The Gay Divorce."

DEATH

WALSH—October 31st at his residence William Walsh, Hotel Proprietor, Cappoquin. Deeply regretted by his sorrowing wife, children, brothers and sisters. Funeral from St. Mary's Catholic Church, Cappoquin, at 2 o'clock Saturday, for St. Declan's Cemetery, Dromore, Cappoquin.—R.I.P.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

CHRIST THE KING—The great Feast of Christ the King, was fittingly observed in Dungarvan on Sunday. There was High Mass at the Parish Church at which the celebrant was Very Rev. Canon O'Brien, P.P., V.V., Rev. M. F. Hearne, C.C., deacon and Rev. T. B. Walsh, C.C., sub-deacon. There was a very big congregation. Afterwards there was Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament. In the afternoon the Holy Hour devotions were conducted by Very Rev. Canon O'Brien, P.P.

At St. Augustine's Church, there was also Solemn High Mass in honour of the great Feast.

THE SWEEP—DUNGARVAN'S LUCK—In the Sweep on the Cambridge-shire Handicap, Dungarvan had again its due share of luck drawing two horses. No other part of the county or city drew a horse.

The lucky Dungarvan tickets were: This Time Lucky, Bansha, Dungarvan—DX77345, drew Caymanas. "Hail Salvia"—1 Main street, Dungarvan, K.P.78612—Whataday.

The Caymanas Ticket was held by Mr. John O'Dwyer, Secretary, Co. Committee Agriculture, Miss Mullins, Poultry Instructress, for Co. Waterford; Mr. Thos. O'Neill, Curran, Bansha, and Mr. J. J. Halpin, Tipperary.

The Whataday ticket was held by Mr. James Hayes, Main street, Dungarvan. The winners were very heartily congratulated by their numerous friends and well-wishers.

Each person who drew a horse in the race was entitled to £372 6s. 9d., except those who won 1st, 2nd or 3rd place, when the prizes were £30,000, £15,000 and £10,000 respectively.

Whataday was scratched, but Caymanas, who was considered a likely successful runner, was very popular in the betting and there was keen demand to purchase a share in the tickets held on him. Mr. O'Dwyer negotiated the sale of a half share in his ticket with a London firm of Bookmakers at a long price. The race on Wednesday, was won by Commander III, with Man's Pal 2nd and Finalist 3rd.

The Free State won £60,000 on the race. Two tickets on the winner—one held in Dundalk and one in Dublin—won £30,000 each. No ticket for the 2nd or 3rd horse was held in this country.

The ticket for Caymanas was sold by Miss K. O'Neill, Domestic Economy Instructress, Clashmore, and that for Whataday, was sold to Mr. Hayes by Mrs. O'Flynn, Square, Dungarvan.

ST. MARY'S, DUNGARVAN. A Grand Bazaar and Fancy Fair will be held in the Town Hall, Dungarvan, on November 26th and 27th, 1935 beginning at 7.30 p.m. each evening in aid of the Funds of the new Mortuary Chapel. An energetic committee is in charge, and all arrangements are being made for a really big time.

There will be good prizes and the last word in mirth and fun. All the newest games will be on show. The event will certainly be out of the common, and we know it will be supported in a thorough and whole-hearted manner by the general public, who are anxious to have this much-needed convenience supplied in the religious life of the Parish, and who will be only too happy to help in every way our esteemed Pastor and his worthy curates.

DEATH OF MR. JOHN BARRY, DROMORE, AGLISH—We regret to announce the death of Mr. John Barry, Dromore, which occurred at his residence on Sunday last after a brief illness fortified by the rites of the church. The deceased, who was a large and successful farmer, was held in the highest esteem by his neighbours and by all who knew him. He was a kind, charitable, and big-hearted man, a good neighbour, and friend. From every point of view he was a man whose loss will be much felt, and the deepest sympathy is extended to his bereaved wife and family and relatives in their great loss.—R.I.P.

ALLEGED EVASION OF CUSTOMS

McGinnis and Mrs. McGivern, Dungarvan, were summoned on bail at £500 each at Rosslare Harbour, on a charge of attempting to evade payment of Customs duty on wearing apparel brought in on the mail boat.

NOV. 5th.—THE BIG DANCE.

The Fourth Annual Dance under the auspices of the Co. Waterford Branch of the Irish Dairy Short-horn Breeders' Society, will be held in the Dungarvan Town Hall, on Wednesday night, Nov. 5th. Clarke-Barry, and her Dublin Band will discourse the following programme:—

YOUGHAL URBAN

Present—Messrs. R. C. Farrell, Vice-Chairman; M. D. Broderick, M. Ahern, W. O'Sullivan, T. Beausang, E. P. Lynch, J. Daly, B.E., R. Savage, J. Whehan, R. Power.

Mr. Broderick, proposed a vote of sympathy with their worthy colleague, Mr. T. Murphy, and his family in their very sad and untimely bereavement, caused by the death of his wife in the prime of her life, and that as a mark of respect they adjourn all business. The funeral furnished ample proof of the deep feelings of the public at large.

Mr. Whehan, seconding said that Mr. Murphy and his young family had the heartiest sympathy of the whole community in their great loss. The deceased lady was deservedly popular as was eloquently proved by the attendance at her funeral.

Messrs. Power, Savage, Beausang, Lynch, and the Clerk asked to be associated with the proposition.

The Chairman said that no words of his could adequately convey to their esteemed colleague their feelings at the appalling tragedy which had taken place. The whole town was deeply shocked and it might afford the bereaved family some slight consolation to know that they had the deep and heartfelt sympathy, not alone of Mr. Murphy's colleagues on the Council, but of every individual in the town.

The proposition was then passed in silence, and the meeting was about to adjourn, when Mr. Power asked leave to propose the following:—

"That we tender through the medium of the Press our deepest sympathy and regret to the relatives of the late Fr. Dominick, and to the Irish people who will now feel his loss."

Every Irishman will appreciate the heroic deeds and patriotism of Fr. Dominick during the dark days of the Black and Tan regime and later he was devoted to his Church with an unswerving loyalty to his country. May he rest in peace.

Mr. Daly, seconding, said that Frs. Dominick and Albert had given comfort and encouragement to the comrades in arms during the troubles. Both had to leave their native land, but their good deeds would live long in the memory of the Irish people.

Messrs. Lynch, Beausang, the Clerk, etc., having expressed their association with the proposition, it was duly passed.

FIGHT FOR LIFE WITH KANGAROO

MAN TRAPPED BY WIRE FENCE.

Mitchell walked out into snow a foot deep to inspect lambing ewes, when he heard the excited barking of his sheep dog and of a smaller dog.

Leaping over the dogs, the kangaroo attacked him. He dived for cover behind an outcrop of rock.

Chasing the man round the rocks, the kangaroo ripped open the back of his oilskin coat with a vicious downward sweep of a powerful hind leg.

Dodging under the animal's outstretched forepaws, Mitchell grabbed its tail. The kangaroo swung round and seized Mitchell with its fore-paws.

It was about to rend him with the sharp toe-nails of its hind feet, when he whipped out his sheath-knife and cut its throat.

GENERAL DISTRICT COURT.

(Supt. Kelly, D.J.)

CIVIL BILLS

A number of civil bills in which Messrs. Wm. R. Hodnett, and J. U. R. Macnamara, solrs., appeared, were first disposed of, decrees or adjournments being granted.

Game Dealers License.

Mr. Wm. R. Hodnett, solr., applied on behalf of Wm. Baldwin, Lismore, for a Game Dealers License.

Mr. Hodnett said he recognised that that wasn't the proper court in which to make the application but circumstances prevented it being done at Lismore.

The Justice—Is there any power to hear it outside Lismore?

Mr. Hodnett referred the Justice to the 30th Section of the Game Preservation Act of 1930.

Superintendent Kelly said he had a letter from Supt. Quinlan, Lismore, stating that he had no objection to the application being granted.

The Justice, in granting the application, said he would not hear any similar one outside the proper district.

Daly v. McCarthy

This was a process for overholding, Mr. J. N. R. Macnamara, solr., for defendant.

Plaintiff stated that there was 8/- rent due at 2/- weekly.

The Justice—How long is he in the house?—About 12 months and never pays without getting a notice or summons.

Cross-examined by Mr. Macnamara This house is condemned?—No.

It is not included in the latest Clearance Order?—It is not condemned.

When you served him with notice 'o quit he owed only 4/-?—Yes, but he is tough (laughter).

Mr. Macnamara said the man was unemployed at present. He had a wife and two children. If he were evicted it would endanger his prospect of getting one of the new houses. He would pay up if he got a month's time.

Plaintiff strongly objected. He wanted the house for his own use.

Motor Offences.

In the adjourned case of Guard O'Neill, against Terence O'Brien, Kilmallock, for using an expired road tax and parking his car without lights, complainant stated that the tax had since been paid.

He was fined 5/- in all.

False Pretences.

Thos. Fleming, 3 Southern Road, Cork, was again brought up in custody charged with obtaining money under false pretences.

Supt. Kelly, prosecuting, said that on last day the accused was charged on two counts, involving 2/6 each. On that date he was charged with several, amounting to £9.

The Justice—Where were the offences committed?

The Supt.—All over the country, but under the summary Jurisdiction Act you have power to hear them here.

The Justice said the Clerk of the Court had received a communication from a city solicitor in connection with the case. Was he here?

Accused—I expect him.

The Justice retired for a time and meantime Mr. J. L. Keane, solr., arrived, and said he had been instructed by Mr. W. F. O'Connor, solr., Cork, to appear in the case. They had decided to shorten it.

Mr. Keane said that the defendant was a man of hitherto respectable character, married with no family. He had been an advertising agent, but yielded to the temptation of representing certain agencies which did not exist. He regretted his fall very much and promised if he got a chance, that nothing of the kind would happen again. There were a number of small charges against him amounting in all to £9 and he (Mr. Keane) asked the Court to deal leniently with him, if possible under the P.O.A.

Replying to the Court, accused elected to be tried summarily.

The Justice said there was an enormous list of charges—33 in all, in sums ranging from 2/6 up to one of £1, and all over the country—he seemed to have covered a wide territory. How did he plead?

Accused—Guilty.

The Superintendent said they had made inquiries and found nothing against him—nothing on record. The sums involved were small, going back to 1931, but principally in 1934-35.

The Justice—There is no hope of this money being restored?

The Supt.—Not at the moment. It is too bad, the State should be put to all the cost of prosecution. I ask for £1 expenses.

Mr. Keane—Having regard to his previous character, perhaps your Worship would give him a chance.

Mr. Keane—There being nothing found against him, you must assume him to be of good character.

The Justice—How did you find out about him—was he being looked for long?

The Supt. said he came to Youghal in May and September. The Guards heard about him and started inquiries. The name of the printers—O'Leary's was on the receipt and the place was watched. It was ascertained that the accused had ordered the printing. Later his home was searched and the various documents found there.

The Justice—Were there any inquiries from Waterford?

Supt.—No.

The Justice—Then Waterford submitted to being searched.

The Supt. said they had communicated with Waterford and got particulars of the various charges there and in other places. Having been assisted by Mr. Keane, he made the following statement:—"I am 45 years of age, was born at Bantree, Co. Cavan. I am residing in Cork for the past 8 years, with my wife, and living at 3 Southern Road for 2 years. I have been working as an advertising agent for 40 years. Up to 2 months ago I was working for the Irish Annual Press and Trinity Press, and as a side line, I took orders for church calendars and blotters. I visited Youghal last April and got an order for a church blotter from the Protestant clergyman, but the matter fell through as I got no orders in the town for same. On 3rd September, I visited Youghal again looking for orders for the Irish Mercantile and Business Guide. I got an order from Mrs. Fitzgerald, Claycastle, and received 2/6 from her. I gave her the receipt produced signed J. Rice. I was aware at the time that there was no such guide as the Irish Mercantile and Business Guide, and also that there were no such publishers as J. H. Martin and Co., 46 Dale street, Dublin. When I started looking for orders for this Guide I was unemployed and heavily in debt, and it was a case of getting money to avoid starvation. I am not sure if I got other money in Youghal. I collected money for this Guide in the towns enumerated in the receipts as follows:—Ardmore, Cappoquin, Lismore, Tramore, Dungarvan, Macroom, Waterford City, Cork City, Fermoy, Malinbeg, Mitchelstown, Kilworth, Charleville, Banteer, Kanturk, Castletownroche, Watergrasshill, Dunmanway, Glengarriff, Courtmacsherry, Drimoleague, Timoleague, Newmarket, Croom, Co. Limerick; Macroom, Coachford, Cogh, Bantry, and Kildorrey, Co. Cork. The money I received in all these towns I utilised for my own purpose. There is no such Guide in existence, or to be issued, as the Irish Mercantile and Business Guide. All the orders for that Guide were procured in 1935, even though some of the forms are dated back to 1931. There is no such Guide as Irish Business and Professional Guide. I see the receipt produced issued to K. O'Sullivan and signed J. O'Brien. That receipt was issued by me. I did not sign my own name to any receipt issued. I signed names. I also ordered the same supply of receipts and forms on last Monday which I got but did not use. This is a true and voluntary statement and it is correct.—Signed Thomas Fleming, 17th October, 1935.

The Justice—Did this man recognise that he had committed very serious offences when making that statement?

The Supt. said it was after the documents being found in his home that he made the statement.

The Justice said offences of that kind ought to be punished severely and at first he had fully intended sending accused to jail. It was a very serious class of offence, of which he had another before him recently. If any others came along he would impose very severe penalties. Offenders should remember that they were liable up to 5 years imprisonment for false pretences. In the present case, taking all the circumstances into consideration he was inclined to adopt Mr. Keane's suggestion, the man having been already a fortnight in jail.

He was let out in his own recognisance of £25, the Justice expressing his admiration for the skilful manner in which Sergeants O'Beirne and Lupton and the Guards under them had succeeded in bringing the culprit to justice, and he asked the Superintendent to bring their action under the attention of the proper quarter.

Supt. Kelly, thanked his Worship for his remarks, and said he would have much pleasure in complying with his suggestion.

THE LATE MRS. T. MURPHY, YOUGHAL

The funeral of the late Mrs. Murphy, Youghal, wife of Mr. T. Murphy, U.D.C., was made the occasion of a striking display of regret and sympathy with the bereaved husband and young family on their very sad and untimely bereavement. The deceased lady was of an extremely kind and charitable disposition and many a poor family were aided over the dull winter months intervening between the fishing seasons by her good offices.

The cortege was headed by an imposing muster of her fellow-members of the Women's Confraternity of the Holy Family.

The officiating clergymen were Very Rev. D. Canon Dinneen, D.D., P.P., and Rev. E. J. Fox, C.C.

Amongst the chief mourners were: Thos. Murphy (husband); Emmie, Pauline and Jennie, (daughters); Tom, Jimmie and Alec (sons); Nellie and Janie O'Brien (nieces); Dan and Paik. Murphy (brothers-in-law); James Quain and Brendan Quain (cousins).

On the coffin were a number of beautiful wreaths and Mass Cards.

A number of outside friends were present including Mrs. and Miss Fawcett, Sea View Hotel, Ballincotton, M. Moore, Cork, M. Halpin (Newsomes, Cork); Mr. C. Falvey (Cork Milling Co.); Mr. M. J. McSweeney, Cork, and several other representatives of City Firms. The general public included the members of the Urban Council and a large gathering of professional and public men from the town and the surrounding countryside.

The remains were interred in the historic old cemetery of North Abbey.

THE RABBIT PEST: A LONG-DESIRED REMEDY.

SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENT IN NORTH CORK

The County Cork Committee or Agriculture have been seeking for some months a practical remedy for the successful extermination of rabbits. Farmers, not only in County Cork, but throughout the country generally, will be glad to learn that the Committee's efforts have been rewarded with success. Being fully aware of the seriousness of the ravages of these pests, a sub-committee of the Co. Committee of Agriculture was appointed recently to explore every avenue to provide a means to safeguarding the farmers against the growing pestilence which multitudes of rabbits had created.

The first attempt to find a solution was not a success. On that occasion several consignments of dead rabbits were exported at different periods under the supervision of Messrs. E. J. Cussen, Secretary, Farmers' Union Abattoir, Cork, and Dan J. Walsh, M.C.C., Kilmuney, but even though the full bounty of 3d. per head was available, the business was not a financial success owing to the high percentage of carcasses rejected in the cross-channel markets.

The sub-committee then got into touch with Mr. M. V. Buckley, Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., Dublin, with a view to testing the effect of suffocating the rabbits in the burrows with the company's product called "Cymag". In due course Mr. Buckley visited the farm of Mr. Patrick Crowley, M.C.C., Banteer, a prominent member of the Co. Committee of Agriculture, and carried out a number of experiments, assisted by Messrs. E. J. Cussen, Cork; P. J. Halliden, Banteer (members of the sub-committee); P. O'Loan, Agriculture Instructor, Kanturk, and Mr. Crowley and his farm staff. By means of a "blower," which Mr. Buckley provided, a number of rabbit burrows were saturated with the "Cymag" (a powdery substance which emits a suffocating gas when it comes in contact with the earth in the burrows). The burrows were then sealed and the rabbits left to their fate.

For some reason or other—whether it was in the manipulation of the "blower" or in the defective sealing of the burrows—the trials carried out on the first two days were not a real success. Not discouraged, however, Mr. Crowley and his staff continued on subsequent days to utilize the "blower" and the "Cymag" with most satisfactory results. On several occasions within the past week he and Mr. P. J. Halliden, in the presence of a number of local farmers, had dug out of the burrows which had been treated with the "Cymag" scores of dead rabbits. There is no doubt whatever but that at long last an effective remedy has been found for the extermination of a pest which had threaten-

The Question of a Republic
MOTION IN THE DAIL

In the Dail on Wednesday the debate was resumed on the following motion standing in the name of Mr. Frank MacDermot and Mr. Sean MacEoin, "That in the opinion of the Dail the Government ought either to abandon the profession of Republicanism or to seek authority from the electorate for the immediate establishment of a Republic."

Mr. MacEoin said that if the majority of the people of the Irish Free State should decide to set up a 25-county Republic they would be acting unwisely and unpatriotically. If they should so decide he had no intention of standing in their way. It ought to be clear that nothing but heavy sacrifices and loss of dignity could follow from the present position of remaining in the Commonwealth and carrying on an insincere flirtation with formal Republicanism in this country.

"I am sick and tired," said Mr. MacEoin, "of hearing people talking about Republicanism and not meaning one little bit of it. If this country ever requires the services of people such as myself, we will not need conscription to put us in the field. I stand where I stood for the past 15 or 20 years serving this country, and doing what I think is best for it. I am satisfied that much can be done in its interest, but I do not want to see an end to the position of one leg in, another leg out, in one place and sorrow in Ennis."

Mr. P. Belton, said he was against the motion. Republicanism did not necessarily mean patriotism. A decision on this matter should be postponed until the people of the whole of Ireland could fully and clearly appreciate Republicanism as against other forms of government.

Mr. Frank MacDermot, said the resolution was merely an attempt to lead the President quite gently and kindly from a world of phrases into a world of realities. The question was a perfectly fair one, and one to which the Irish people had a perfect right to an answer. The motion deserved the support of every deputy in the House. He was not accusing the Government of anything's insincerity, but he was accusing them of having an insincere policy, whether from mental laziness or other causes. He believed that the action of the Government on the whole national issue was cowardly and confused, and that the time had more than come for clarifying it and elucidating it. If there was any truth in the rumours going about that the Government were contemplating a new treaty with Great Britain on the basis of what was called external association, it was even more important that it otherwise would be that they should be clear about their aims and distinguish between what was superficial and what was fundamental. He had perused very carefully the President's speech to see what evidence the President could bring forward of the twenty-six counties not being free. Any evidence the President produced would lead down to the Treaty position being a forced position, and that they had not from the British Government any acknowledgment of their right to decide for themselves at all times whether to be members of the British Commonwealth or not. If there were to be a Republic either for twenty-six or thirty-two counties, he personally would prefer it to be a genuine one, not concealed or modified or disguised by something called external association. His personal view about the ports, which had been mentioned by the President, was that the strategic importance of the maintenance parties was greatly overrated.

Bring home the best of the most in the market at the most important political principles. The people had as much authority to declare for the Commonwealth today as they had to declare for the Republic in 1918, and as they were certainly a thousand miles from having achieved the Thirty-Two County Republic that was then desired, it was the part of a statesman not to profess himself their hand and foot by an obsolete electoral decision, but to give the people the benefit of an unaffected judgment. His belief was that the President had no intention of declaring a Republic. He would favour a 25-County Republic rather than the Government's policy.

A purely Gaelic Ireland even if attainable would be a non-Irish Ireland. It is because the policy, or lack of policy of the Government—the stale claptrap and weary fallacies—keeps us grovelling in a slough of despondency when we might be treading the upward path, that I ask the House to accept this motion.

MR. DE VALERA AND CARSON.
Mr. MacDermot concluded his speech by drawing an analogy between Lord Carson and the President of the Executive Council. He described Lord Carson as "not only the chief architect of partition but father of modern Irish Republicans," and continued, "I believe that he loved Ireland and also loved the British Empire, but the effect of his whole career was to inflict immense damage to both—he could not bring himself to admit even to himself that the interests of his country required him to do anything which would deprive him of even a little bit of the halo which fanatical admirers had set around his head. That tenacity must conquer in the end was his guiding principle, but he forgot that such a conquest as he might thereby achieve could be worse than a defeat, and that his desperate fidelity in a changing and growing world to one narrow idea might commit him to larger disloyalties. Just as their is great similarity in character and mental equipment between the late Lord Carson and the President of the Executive Council, so there is a similarity between the moral dangers to which each is exposed. The President may succeed in retaining his halo intact, he may also be ensuring that his career will be one of almost unrivalled disaster to Ireland. The motion was defeated by a big majority.
