The Great Round-Up

PASSING OF THE OLD COW
A LONESOME INTERVIEW

During the past week a very considerable number of old and young cows; thin and thinner cows; cows worn out with the bad times and gone decrepit; cows that have gone dry and refused to milk anymore—in fact cows that have become uneconomic and useless for a whole multitude of reasons, left Dungarvan station for the new factory at Roscrea, where they will be converted into meat meal and canned meat as they suit. And here we wish to say that the Roscrea Factory supplies a long felt want in getting rid of old cows even though the flat rate price of £2 10s. per head does not tend to make the farmers rich.

Their passing needs comment, if for no other reason than that without the cow to supply us with milk very few of us would have been reared at all. From the dawn of history the cow has filled a big place in our economic life. Our pagan ancestors valued her so highly that they made her sacred and at the dawn of Christianity we find her again in the forefront. Mindful of what she has done for us and how well she did it, we pay her the tribute of a passing sigh as she passes on her way in the great round up.

With the fate of the young strong cows who have turned out useless to their owners we are not concerned, but the heart of every farmer's son and daughter, and of all who were reared on pure new milk—tuberculin free though the giver never passed the tuberculin test, and was never asked to—will sorrow for the day when the good old cow instead of spending her last days chewing the cud in peace by her old favourite fence has to be transported to Roscrea for 50/- to help to pay the rates.

A bunch of old cows from the Old Parish way arriving in the town a few days ago met a contingent from Steady direction on the Square. Among the latter was a little battered yellow-red cow with one old horn turned up and the other turned down. She walked feebly and seemed to feel her position keenly. Seeing the other cows approach she gave a long, low lonesome oohone which was most mournful to hear and seemed as if she meant to say—"Oh, whatever is the matter, Oh, whatever is the matter, we are ruined, we are ruined." But an old cow that once was a deep roan but had by time been faded into a shade of mahogany, bawled aloud something like—"What the Dickens— and her hint at leather made her of the yellow-red hide oohone the more. An old stager from Kilbrien way lifted her off-front hoof as if to wipe a tear from her watery eye, when she slipped and had much difficulty in recovering her balance. Going in and out gaps for the last 30 years, she knew nothing about the slippery nature of tarred roads. In due time all the cows arrived at the station and having been inspected by the officials in charge, receipts were given for them to their owners, and they were loaded on the trucks.

Our special representative, who was on the spot, decided to interview the oldest cow he saw there, but when he was about to approach and question her a nanny goat, who had followed the old lady for Heaven knows how many years, ran three times around her ma-a-aing all the time. When the roars died down and the old cow, who looked almost prophetic, got a grip of her senses, she told a story that was sad but true. She was 25 years of age and had never left her home in Sliabh Gúa before. She had twenty calves in her time and gave thousands and thousands of gallons of milk. Though knowing nothing of cow-testing she would fill a can with any champion in the land. She was not a single dairy or a double dairy, but she said she was a whole dairy herself and there was no foreign blood in her. She was a pure-bred Irish cow. Having spoken of the quiet little cemetery at the back of the fence in a sheltered spot where so many of her kith and kin lie buried, she grew sad and gave a bellow, which for lonesomeness was the last word, and railway porters who heard it blessed themselves for they thought it was a voice from the off-side of the grave rather than from the near-side of the platform. Then tears such as angels weep, burst forth and words interwoven with sighs found out their way. She told how her poor mistress milked her for years late and early, and she always filled the pail, never once putting her foot in it. And the poor boss "fed me with care, and though at times I was short of grass, I bitted along as best I could and gave the very best return." Then the hard times came, and some kind of a war was started and my calves were killed for their skins and my master grew poor, and that is why I had to be sold. I had done my best and I knew if I could afford it he would not sell me, but would let me die in peace in my own cabin, bury me with my own in the little cemetery and plant a bunch

DUNGARVAN DISTRICT COURT.

Held on Wednesday before Mr. J. S. Troy, D.J.

Looby, Thomas street. Fined 2/6. Same v. W. Sandford, Youghal Road. Adjourned. Same v. P. Morrissey, Carbery's Lane. Defendant said his son got ill-treated at school and got a lump on his head. Justice—It is easy to say that. Fined 2/6.

Guard Regan v. Bridget Young. Defendant said the child was sick. Adjourned. Same v. D. O'Meara, Coolinagour. Fined 2/6.

LICENSING PROSECUTION

Supt. Walsh, summoned Mrs. B. Condon, Square, Dungarvan, for a breach of the Licensing Act on October 15th.

Mr. T. C. Williams, solr., defended. Guard Deasy, said he was on duty in Dungarvan on 14th October, from 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. the following morning. At 1.27 a.m. he had the defendant's premises under observation and went to the door and rang the bell, but there was no response. A few minutes later he heard two corks extracted and rang again and said—"Open please—Guard on duty," but got no reply. He waited until 1.45 and heard some one come into the bar and trip on something as if moving in the dark and he heard corks drawn from bottles. He rang again, but without response. At 2 a.m. he heard people walking in the house and rang again, but got no reply. Later on the light he previously saw was put out. He saw no one leave the premises.

By Mr. Williams—I saw no one enter or leave the premises. I did not know that one of Mrs. Condon's children was sick.

What reason had you for suspecting there was a breach of the Licensing Laws?—Hearing the pulling of corks and seeing the light in the house.

Mr. Williams asked that the summons be dismissed. He said the Guard had not a reasonable cause to suspect that a breach of the Licensing Act was being committed. He saw no one enter or leave the house. Mrs. Condon had 5 children aged 10 years to 4 years. One of her boys was sick that night and her maid had instructions to attend the patient every three hours. She left the light in the corridor and also a light at the back of the shop when she herself was retiring. She heard no knock at the door and knew nothing about it.

Mrs. Condon, in reply to Mr. Williams said on the 15th October, one of her children was ill and her maid was to polluce the child every three hours. She went to bed about 11.45 p.m., and left a light in the corridor and another in the tap-room for the maid. She heard no knock at the door. She supplied no drink during the night and to her knowledge none was supplied.

By Supt. Walsh—Mr. maid is now in the Old Parish as her father is sick. I could not say if the Guard made up the story of seeing lights and heard corks drawing.

Questioned as to who was on the premises before the bar was closed, witness said she was gone to bed at the time and also her maid.

Subsequently the barmaid and maid appeared in court.

Miss Alice Ahearne, Barmaid, said she went to bed that night at 11.30 or 11.45. She heard no knocking at the door. She did not supply drink to any person after hours that week. There were travellers there earlier. They came on cycles, but she did not know them.

To Mr. Troy—I found no corks drawn in the bar in the morning.

Miss Mahony, Maid, denied hearing any knock at the door that night.

Mr. Williams asked for a dismissal.

Mr. Troy said the Guard was quite right to bring the prosecution. He would, however, dismiss the summons.

OVER A TRACTOR

Supt. Walsh, charged Mr. Liam Hayes, with driving a motor tractor on the road without the orthodox wheels prescribed by law, having no driver's licence, no tax, no insurance, and no lights.

Mr. Farrell, solr., defended.

Guard Kelly, said on the 31st Aug., he found the defendant driving a tractor to which the proper wheels were not fitted with the result that it cut up the tarred surface of the road.

Mr. Farrell said he pleaded guilty to all the charges except that about the wheels.

Witness said defendant explained to him how he could not put on the bands on the wheels.

Defendant, in evidence, said he had made application for the insurance 5 days before Aug. 31st, and until he had that he could not get the other licences. As to a light, it was a hanging light he used on the tractor, and he thought he would not want it that night. He got bands for the wheels, and also rubber tyre wheels, but he could not use them.

Supt.—Was not there an undertaking given in this Court last year that you would not use those wheels again? Witness said he did not remember.

Supt.—It was on that undertaking being given that I did not press the case.

After a legal debate, the Justice said he would let the case stand to the next day. He was satisfied that these vehicles could do a lot of injury to the roads. In the other cases to which defendant pleaded guilty a fine of 10/- was imposed for not having insurance licence and 5/- for no light.

ALLEGED LARCENY AT SCART
INFORMATIONS REFUSED

Supt. Quinlan, Lismore, charged Wm. Dunne, Garryduff, with breaking into Scart Creamery on June 22nd., and stealing therefrom goods—bread, butter, etc., and a small sum in cash, all value £1 8s.

Mr. E. A. Ryan, State solr., prosecuted, and Mr. O'Gorman, solr., defended.

John O'Keefe said he was temporary manager of Scart Creamery on June 22nd. At 2 o'clock that day he went back to the central Creamery at Ballinacully, and on the 23rd June he returned to Scart and found the window of the porch was broken and the door forced. The cash register was also forced open. The shop was in disorder.

To Mr. O'Gorman—There were footprints in the store. He saw them with the Supt.

Thomas Condon said on the 22nd June, he locked up Scart Creamery, and on the following day after Mass he went there and found the window of the porch broken and the door forced, and the window at the back of the stairs broken. There were missing 15 loaves of bread, value 3/6; 3 lbs. butter value 4/3; 9 packets cigarettes, value 9/-; 4 penknives, value 2/- and 9/7 was taken from the cash register.

Mr. Foley stated that he brought a car to defendant to repair on the previous Saturday. The car was very noisy. Defendant said he would work on the car that night and did.

To Mr. O'Gorman—The car was wrong in the first cylinder and the back axle pinion was broken. It might drive 4 or 5 miles but he (witness) would not go home in it. When he went to defendant's yard on the Sunday morning, he did not notice any second car track there.

Mary Connolly said that on the night of the larceny she heard the noise of a car which she judged to be about half a mile away.

Evidence of the arrest was given by Guard Torney and the Sgt. in charge of the station. A statement given by the defendant was handed in, but the Justice said that a part of the statement where defendant answered a question put to him by the Sgt. was not admissible.

In giving his decision the Justice said that the Guards had treated the defendant with courtesy and kindness. Defendant had said that he did not say certain things which the Guards said he had stated it was disgraceful and perjury. The evidence before him was not sufficient to prove a prime fact case, and he would, therefore, dismiss it.

LARCENY AT DUNGARVAN

Wm. Egan, Junr. Abbeyside, admitted in statements to stealing a purse from a car on the Square on October 12th. The purse contained £4 15s., of which £1 15s. 4d., had since been recovered. A summons for receiving was brought against defendant's sister.

The Justice adjourned the case for 12 days, and said he would decide whether he would send the boy away or order him to be whipped.

The following cottages were let: De Loughtane, Park, Roche, Ballyhenry, Clashmore; Clondonnell—Denis Prendergast, Kilcanavee, Kilmacthomas; Poulboy—Thos. Rossiter, Glengad Road, Glommel.

No application was received for the tenancy of a vacant cottage at Adramonemore.

With regard to the vacant cottages at Ballygagin, Boolakilly and Crobally Upper, a letter was read from the Department stating that before letting of the new cottages was made, a report from the M.O.H. on the condition of the applicants' present house should be submitted to the Board.

TRAMORE BURIAL GROUND

Sixteen applications were received for the position of caretaker for the Tramore Burial Ground.

The appointment was adjourned to enable the Commissioner to go fully into the applications.

PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE

Dr. O'Farrell, Co. M.O.H., wrote on the Tuberculosis Scheme for the County, which is operated efficiently for many years past by Dr. Dennehy. With the appointment of a Co. M.O.H. he believed that closer co-operation between the Co. M.O.H. and the Tuberculosis M.O., of Health is necessary, and that such co-operation will be to the benefit of the Tuberculosis scheme generally. With this end in view, he recommended that Dr. Dennehy be appointed as Assistant Co. M.O.H. seeing that he is qualified to act in all branches of the Department, i.e. School Medical Inspection, Maternity and Child Welfare, etc. He is of opinion that such an appointment would greatly facilitate and consolidate the general Public Health work in the County.

Other counties in An Saorstad where a similar position existed as is here, such an arrangement has taken place. Additional remuneration would be granted to Dr. Dennehy in view of the additional duties which he would have to undertake. Dr. Dennehy is agreeable and willing to lend himself to any line of action which may be considered as advancing Public Health services in the county.

The Commissioner said he would adjourn the matter.

VILLIERSTOWN WATER SUPPLY

James Lucas, Villierstown, wrote asking the Board to reconsider the application from the residents for an extension of the water supply at Villierstown to the "Ferry Slip." The letter stated that Mr. G. Stokes, Plumber, would carry out the work for £147 10s.

The application was refused.

The previous application was refused by the Minister for Local Government and Public Health owing to the expenditure which was estimated to exceed £200.

HOUSING

Dr. O'Farrell, Co. M.O.H., wrote enclosing a survey of the Housing accommodation required for those coming within the extended definition of Agricultural Labourers in the various towns of the county as follows:—Cappoquin 24 houses; Lismore 24; Kilmac 20; Ardmore 20; Passage East 30; Tramore 50; Dunmore East 13; Tallow 24; Portlaoise 40; Cheekpoint 12; Ballyduff 3; Villierstown 3; Aglish 6; Bonmahon 2; Stradbally 3.

The report concluded that in addition to serious cases noted, defective sanitary accommodation, drainage, lighting, ventilation, etc., in varying minor degrees is very noticeable in every town and village, and should in due course receive the necessary attention.

REDUCTION OF RENT

Mr. A. R. Farrell, solr., appeared before the meeting in connection with the case of a cottage tenant named Nicholas Dunphy, who is not an agricultural labourer, and whose rent in consequence was raised to 3/6 some few years ago.

Mr. Farrell said his client's family resided in the cottage for the past 45 years. The original rent was 1/- a week and some time ago it was raised to 3/6. Dunphy met with an accident some time back and as a result is not able to meet the present rent.

Dunphy, called before the meeting said he could not possibly pay any more than 1/- a week. He got on an average 2 months work last year. His brother had a pension of 14/- a week.

Commissioner—You can't have the cottage at 1/- a week. You are better off than the ordinary agricultural worker. Can you pay 2/6 a week?

Dunphy—I could not pay 2/- a week; that's the truth.

The Secretary said Dunphy owed arrears of rent.

The Commissioner fixed the rent at 1/- a week Dunphy to pay 1/6 with that until the arrears are paid off.

Later the Secretary stated that the arrears in the case amounted to £24.

WATER EXTENSION

Mr. John Higgins, Kiltrovan, was granted permission to extend the water supply at Clonca through his land at his own expense.

DEATH OF MR. M. HURLEY, KILLSHAL, CAPPAGH

The death took place on the 3rd inst. at the Cottage Hospital, Dungarvan, of Mr. Maurice Hurley, Killshale, after a brief illness fortified by the rites of the Church.

The deceased was a well-known practical farmer, and an expert on machinery. He was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him. He was for many years a prominent member of the Dungarvan Rural Council and Board of Guardians, and his death in the early sixties is deeply regretted by all who knew him. Sincere sympathy is extended to his family in their loss.—R.I.P.

His remains were removed to Ballinacully Church on the 4th inst., and were followed by an imposing cortege. On the following day after Requiem Masses for the repose of his soul, the interment took place in the adjoining graveyard in the presence of his family, relatives, friends and a large gathering of the general public. PRINCESS LEADS ATTACK ON ITALIAN OUTPOSTS

The beautiful fair-headed Princess Waziro, who is living a nomadic existence at the head of a band of Tigrian warriors, at night time descends from the hills and raids Italian outposts.

Princess Waziro, armed with a rifle with bayonet fixed, personally leads the way. This amazon knows the country intimately, and she has been joined by many other Tigrian married women who have sent their children to Dessie, and have sworn not to return home as long as one Italian remains on Ethiopian soil.

Princess Waziro very seldom sees her husband, who is at headquarters, and must necessarily remain somewhere in the area.

Fierce guerilla warfare is being waged in the area north and north-east of Makale, according to Abyssinian official circles.

EXIT OLD COWS—

On Monday and Tuesday of this week the Department's Inspectors at Dungarvan received and sent on the way to Roscrea Factory 224 uneconomic cows of various types and ages. That number coupled with the 400 sent away from Dungarvan station last week made a total of 624 cows sent from Dungarvan area which should mean a big reduction in cows no longer useful to their owners.

On Wednesday and Thursday the Inspectors operated at Lismore where a big number were also delivered, and next week the round up will be at Kilmacthomas.

One of the Department's Inspectors

CAPPOQUIN NOTES.

A POPULAR APPOINTMENT—Miss Mary Nugent, who had been Senior Assistant in the Cappoquin Post Office for a number of years, was on Monday appointed as Postmistress in succession to Miss M. Arnold, who has resigned after a long and honourable service of 14 years.

Miss Nugent has been connected with the Cappoquin Post Office for the past 14 years, and during that period she has proved herself a courteous and obliging young lady, who displayed the greatest efficiency in this responsible position.

On Miss Arnold's departure from town a few weeks ago, Miss Nugent was appointed Temporary Postmistress, pending the appointment of a permanent official, and her official appointment now as Postmistress has given the greatest pleasure and satisfaction to the general public who know that in her they will find a young lady whose cleverness and efficiency are beyond question, and we join with her hosts of friends in offering her our warmest congratulations on her appointment.

DEPARTURE OF POPULAR SPORTSMAN—Mr. P. J. Mullane, who had been Manager of the Blackwater Valley Co-operative Creamery in Cappoquin for the past five years, left here last week to take up an important appointment with the Kantoher Creamery in Charleville. During his connection with the Cappoquin Creamery he enjoyed the greatest confidence and respect amongst the hundreds of farmers who sent their milk to this concern. He was a prominent player in the Rugby and Cricket Clubs during his time in Cappoquin.

OMITTED—In our report of the funeral of Mr. William Walsh, Proprietor of Walsh's Hotel, last week, the names of Mrs. M. A. Merrin and Miss Stella Merrin, Clashmore, were inadvertently omitted from the list of chief mourners.

LACK OF PARENTAL CONTROL—At the Masses on last Sunday Very Rev. T. Fitzgerald, P.P., and the Rev. T. Dunphy, C.C., spoke strongly about the lack of parental control over the children of to-day, as evidenced by the great number of children who are allowed to roam the streets of the town and the lonely country roads up to a late hour every night, when they should be in their beds, or at least in their homes. There can be no doubt that many of the parents to-day display an utter disregard for the proper upbringing of their children, who are allowed to do just what they like, without the slightest attempt at correction.

POPPY DAY—Poppy Day was faithfully observed here on Monday when Flanders Poppies were worn by all ex-British soldiers and many others in memory of the 50,000 young Irishmen who lost their lives in the Great War which ended on Nov. 11th, 1918.

Those who have survived that holocaust of human lives, and know something of the horrors of war, never wish to see another war, and will bless those who do their best to prevent a repetition of such a catastrophe in the future.

SENIOR FOOTBALL SEMI-FINAL

On Sunday last at the Gaelic Field, Dungarvan, Stradbally and Dungarvan Senior Football combinations met for the final of the West Waterford Division. Mr. M. Donoghue, Lismore, had charge of the whistle, and had the teams in motion to scheduled time. The match, although not reaching the high standard set in former meetings between these rivals, was closely contested, and on the run of play Dungarvan deserved their win, although Stradbally were unlucky in not adding to their score sheet during the second moiety. During this half an ugly incident occurred due to the action of a Stradbally supporter who tried to stop the ball from going out of play near the goal line. This action was resented by some of the Dungarvan players, and the offending spectator was roughly handled. After some blows were exchanged between players and supporters, order was restored and the game restarted.

The final score read—Dungarvan, 2-3; Stradbally—0-1.

The winners meet De la Salle, who have won the Eastern Divisional Championship.

operating the old cow scheme in this county was Mr. J. P. Deering, the well-known International Rugby Footballer and Redivo Ransper Champion forward. He is assured of his place in the Irish team to meet the All Blacks in Dublin in a few weeks.

DUNGARVAN CIRCUIT COURT.

SALE OF SEED WHEAT

Before Mr. Justice Sealy, K.C. Patrick Donovan, Coolishogue, Lismore, brought a civil bill for £25 against M. F. Casey, Merchant, Lismore, for alleged breach of warranty in the sale of seed wheat.

The defence was that no warranty was given, that the seed was purchased at the plaintiff's own risk, and defendant also counter-claimed for £2 4s. being the price of the seed and bags.

Mr. Ryan, solr., for plaintiff; and Mr. Budd, B.L., (instructed by Mr. O'Gorman, solr., Lismore), defended Plaintiff, Mr. Patrick Donovan, Coolishogue, deposed that he farmed about 100 acres, the land was good and yielded good crops. He had a 7-acre field in which he had potatoes and beet last year, and this year in January he sowed two acres of it with wheat seed which he had himself. He then went into Mr. Casey's, who is a seed merchant. Witness was accompanied by a man named Power. They had a look at Casey's and witness asked if he had any seed wheat. Mr. Casey said he did not. Later on Mr. Casey said he thought he had as much as would do witness, and we went out to the store. There were two bags of seed and when it was weighed, Mr. Casey said he would give a warranty that the seed was perfect. The seed was tarred and dried with lime at the time. He bought it at 30/- a barrel. Witness came for the seed the following morning, and it was sown the same day. The crop never came up. His own seed in the same field was a perfectly good crop, which gave a yield of 11 barrels to the acre. Witness went early in April to Mr. Casey, but he did not come out to see the land. After witness had visited him a second time he came out and his attitude was that there was no seed put in there. Witness put in a crop of oats there, and got 23 15s. oats for what he sold of it. The seed cost £2 and the re-ploughing of the land about £3.

To Mr. Budd, B.L.—When he went into Casey's shop he was first told that there was no seed. Mr. Casey came later and said there was some stuff left over from what he had sown himself and it was dressed. Witness went to the store and Mr. Casey opened the bag and witness saw that the seed was dressed. Mr. Casey told him it was tarred, but he did not say that he should take it at his own risk. The ground was not clogged at the time he sowed the seed. It was a little hard in April the time Mr. Casey came out, but it could be hard then without a crop under the weather. He remembered Mr. Casey saying the day he came out that the land was hard. He never said witness took the seed at his own risk.

Witness Power, Coolishogue, said that in January last, he met the last witness in Lismore. They went into Casey's for a drink. Mr. Casey was in the bar, and Mr. Donovan asked him if he had any seed wheat, and Mr. Casey said no. They had a second drink, and while taking it Mr. Casey said he had some left over from his own sowing and he would set it to him if it suited him. Witness knew that Mr. Donovan bought the seed, but did not know at what price. He saw Mr. Donovan sowing two acres of wheat from his own seed. It produced a good crop. He never saw a grain of wheat sown in the other two acres coming up.

To Mr. Budd, B.L.—Mr. Casey stressed the fact that this seed was left over and dressed by him. Witness heard nothing about taking it at his own risk. Mr. Donovan examined the wheat in the sacks.

To his Lordship—It is not usual for farmers to buy dressed wheat.

Mr. Donovan, son of plaintiff, also gave evidence.

Mr. Casey, defendant, said he sold this seed to Donovan on January 24th. It was part of a consignment of Queen Wilhelmina which witness got in November. He sold 23 stone to a Mr. Veale, and 11 stone to Mr. O'Donnell, and sowed five barrels himself. He had two half bags left over and these finally went to Donovan. The bags were in the store since he sowed his own wheat early in December. When Donovan came in January looking for 14 barrels of seed, he showed him this and told him he could have it at his own risk. Power told Donovan that he was lucky to get it dressed. Donovan took the wheat next morning at £2 4s. 6d. When witness went to Donovan's land in April, he found the land all clogged, and it would be impossible for the seed to germinate there. He told Donovan he must have sown the seed in the wet.

To Mr. Ryan—He told Donovan first that he had no seed, and later about the dressed seed, which he told him was ready for sowing. It is unusual to sell dressed wheat. That was what witness explained so much about. The week Donovan bought the seed was a very wet one. This seed was dressed two months before Donovan got it.

To his Lordship—He sold to Veale and O'Donnell at their own risk also as he could not guarantee with the consignment of wheat.

Mr. Morrissey, an employee of defendant's, gave evidence of dressing the seed. He sowed 54 acres for Mr. Casey and there were two bags left over and put in the store.

Mr. Veale, gave evidence of buying 23 stone of seed wheat from Mr. Casey. It was dressed with tar and lime. He had a very good crop.

To Mr. Ryan—He purchased the seed on 28th November, and it was tarred then.

Jas. O'Donnell, said he bought 11

OBSTRUCTING RIGHT OF WAY

Jeremiah Scanlon, Toorageeha, sued Wm. Walsh, Knockcorragh, with obstructing a right of way at Knockadullane West.

Mr. Budd, B.L., (instructed by Mr. O'Gorman, solr., Lismore) for plaintiff; Mr. Ryan, solr., defended.

Plaintiff in evidence said he had an outfarm about 1/2 of a mile from his home farm and there was a right of way to it by defendant's house. During the past year the defendant narrowed a gate in the right of way to 6 feet. He also erected a stone fence outside the gate making the passage narrower. The water tables in the right of way were also blocked, so that the water flowing down the centre of the passage and making it impossible to get horses to cart over it.

To Mr. Ryan—Witness don't remember threatening to fight defendant, but defendant abused him. Witness has to pass his farmyard and the right of way in through defendant's land. Before the fence was put up witness's cattle might go a few feet into defendant's land. The gate in the right of way is necessary to prevent trespass. Witness repaired the right of way last summer. The defendant is deliberately trying to flood the passage. Witness and his father before him used this right of way for 34 years.

Mr. Foley, C.E., produced a plan of the area, and said the right of way is a very bad mountain road, owing to the water being diverted, it increased the volume going down the right of way.

Patk. Scanlan, an employee of plaintiff's, also gave evidence.

Wm. Walsh, defendant, in reply to Mr. Ryan, said the piers and gate were in the passage 30 years. He only improved the piers by what he did to them. He built a little fence to prevent Scanlon's cattle trespassing on his land. Scanlon did not object to witness building the fence, but one day when Scanlon left the gate witness spoke to him about it and Scanlon said he would leave it open, or would get it taken away as he was a millionaire (laughter).

To Mr. Budd—Witness admitted blocking the gullet as the water was soaking into his bedroom. He admitted putting a row of stones along the bank of the right of way to prevent trespass. At present it would not prevent trespass but he was going to improve it.

Mr. Walsh said he often bought a horse and cart along this passage. It was repaired last year by the men drawing turf.

To Mr. Budd—The overflow water is going down the passage now. It used to flow through two gaps in the ditch. The gaps are now choked with sand and gravel as there is no body to clean it.

His Lordship, summing up, said the plaintiff had satisfied him that for 30 years this right of way was drained through two gaps. Defendant admitted blocking those gaps and he had no right to do that, even though it damages his bedroom, and he must find some other means of preventing that. The piers of the gate on the right of way were 7 feet 6 inches apart, and the defendant is not entitled to put any stones outside that. The row of stones which the defendant admitted he placed along the bank (and to which the plaintiff objected), were placed there to annoy plaintiff. He was also satisfied that the fence built outside the gate was built a foot out in the passage way. He gave plaintiff a decree for 1/- with costs against the defendant.

BOUNTY ON TURKEYS

Copies of the conditions governing the payment of the bounty may be obtained on application to the Secretary, Department of Agriculture (Poultry Bounty Section) Dublin.

WEEKLY OR FORTNIGHTLY WAGES

At Carrick-on-Suir Urban Council, a discussion took place on the question of the payment of scavengers wages, weekly or fortnightly.

JUSTICE'S WARNING

"For a long time I have been saying what I am going to do with people driving uninsured cars, and I am going to start to do it to-day," said District Justice McCabe at Waterford District Court, when he sentenced Andrew P. Martin, Ferrybank, described as a hackney driver, to seven days imprisonment for driving an uninsured car, and on a further count of alleged dangerous driving, fined him £1, with the conviction to be endorsed on his licence.

Martin was prosecuted by Superintendent Killyroy for alleged dangerous driving, uninsured and unlicensed motor car.

Mr. Trainor, solr., who appeared for defendant, admitted the offences, with the exception of that of alleged dangerous driving.

Guard John McCarthy, said that on the night of the 10th October last he was cycling down Newtown in plain clothes. He heard a car coming up Ballinakil Hill after him and the gears of the car were making a lot of noise. Witness was on his own side of the road, five or six feet out from the foot-path, and the car passed within half a foot of him. There were a lot of people on the road and the car drove straight for them. Witness saw a lot of girls jumping out of the way and screaming. Witness was cycling very fast to catch up with the driver and eventually did so at the bridge on the Quay. Martin, who was driving the car, said that he had come from Dungarvan. Witness asked him how was it that he had come down Newtown and defendant answered that after coming from Dungarvan he went out Newtown for a "scout".

Cross-examined—Guard McCarthy said what he complained of was he drove straight for the people on the road. The defendant was travelling at a fairly normal speed of about 30 miles an hour. The only time the defendant sounded his horn was when coming out of Catherine street on to the Mall.

Asked by the Justice, from what he observed, would he think the defendant was trying to pick up a girl on the road, the Guard replied that was the impression he got. Defendant must not have been looking where he was going.

Andrew Martin, the defendant, said that when coming along Newtown there was a crowd of boys and girls on the road. He was travelling in second gear. The people would not get out of the way.

Cross-examined—Defendant said he was to meet a friend at the top of Newtown and he was watching both sides of the road to see if he could find his friend. He did not consider that safe driving.

Mr. Trainor said the defendant was to sell his car and he did not renew his insurance, which expired on the 1st October.

Justice (to defendant)—I want you to understand how serious this is. For a long time I have been saying what I am going to do with people driving uninsured cars, and I am going to start to do it to-day. Did you know that you were driving this car uninsured and against the law?

Defendant—Yes, sir.

The Justice said here was a man who was actually a professional driver who knew the seriousness of not being insured, and who knew that an Act had been passed by An Dail to see that no man is to drive a motor car uninsured. His not being licensed, whilst a serious offence, is not so serious as that of not being insured. He thought from the evidence that what happened with regard to the dangerous driving was that the defendant went out Newtown for the purpose of meeting somebody and when he did not meet that person at the place appointed he was on the look out, and being on the look out in that way he was not keeping the proper look out that a driver must keep. On that charge he would fine the defendant £1, the conviction to be endorsed on his driving licence. As regards the defendant not being insured the minimum penalty according to the Statute, went on the Justice, is £20, which the defendant not being a man in a position to pay a heavy fine, he would mitigate to £1. With regard to the non-insurance he was going to pass a sentence that would show the defendant himself and other motorists that not being insured was a serious matter. He wanted to say, not for the first or tenth time, that if the Court was to accept easily, explanations from non-insured motorists the whole purpose of the Act would be defeated. He had no doubt that the defendant, who was a motorist by profession realised that he was not insured, and that he so to speak took a chance. It was for him (Justice) therefore to administer the law in such a manner as to put a stop to this taking chances. He did not think there was any necessity to send the defendant to jail for long period. He was entitled to fine him and send him to jail for a long period, and he would say seven days hard labour.

Mr. Trainor asked for a stay pending an appeal, and the Justice stated that the warrant would issue on Monday if an appeal had not been lodged, the sureties being himself in £5 and one surety of £5.

Later the Justice reduced the sentence of seven days hard labour to one of seven days, stating that he did not think he was entitled to give hard labour in this case.

ENJOYABLE CONCERT AT LISMORE.

Lismore Dramatic Society scored a huge success on Sunday night when they staged "Lady Audley's Secret" that famous tragedy taken from "Miss Braddon's novel. The artists in every case acquitted themselves with distinction, and a most enjoyable night was spent by a most critical audience representing Lismore, Cappoquin, Talloow and the surrounding towns. All tastes were catered for in a carefully drawn up programme including vocal solos and a Farical Sketch which compensated for the more austere play which ended the first part of the programme.

The mystery train from Cork arrived just before the matinee in the afternoon and some of the visitors that attended proclaimed it the best entertainment they had ever seen by local artists.

John Singleton, as Sir Michael Audley revealed in a perfect manner that English gentleman of the last century, a broadminded and forgiving husband, and won the admiration of all present with the sincerity he infused into his acting.

Miss Sheila Daly, as Sir Michael's wife rather suggested the professional than the amateur in the way she played a most difficult part of a cunning wife, planning and scheming to conquer her opposing forces in order to gain the pleasure of luxury and ease. It would be hardly fair for me to praise one artist more than another, but giving an honest opinion I think that this part was acted in a manner which opens a bright future for this young artist on the stage.

Edward Stapleton as George Talboys, former husband of Lady Audley, and her chief opposing force held the audience in vital suspense with the impersonation he put into his acting.

Teddy O'Connell, as Robert Audley, Sir Michael's nephew, acting a most difficult part as detective, his presence being felt everywhere, displayed his part to perfection. Miss Peggy Whelan, as Robert Audley's co-adjutrix, and Lady Audley's step-daughter, displayed the part of a precocious child in a manner which won for her the admiration of all. Michael O'Brien, as Luke Marks, supplied unlimited laughter and revealed a genius of talent in his acting of a labourer fond of "boose" and of a man who relied on himself to keep a secret. Miss Kitty Keyes, as Luke Marks' wife and Lady Audley's maid, revealed to the full that type of girl who would sacrifice anything to save her mistress from shame. Her acting of this part showed plenty of latent genius.

The next part of the programme took the form of a Sketch entitled "The Barber's Shop" and the audience were forced to bring their handkerchiefs to work to wipe the tears from their eyes—not from crying, but laughter.

The third part of the programme opened with a song from Miss Maggie Stapleton, entitled "He wooed Her" to which her soft and flexible voice did the fullest justice, and she was very warmly applauded for her delightful contribution. Michael O'Brien supplied "Smilin' Thru" in his own inimitable way, and he received such an insistent encore and such a rapturous applause that he had to respond.

A charming musical sketch was next supplied headed by Mr. J. Barnes and his clever "turn" proved truly delightful and the young performers received a great ovation at its close.

Mr. J. Wolloughby, and Mr. J. O'Grady, deserved the greatest credit in the way they managed the stage department; also the accompanist, who was the principal asset in making the performance such a success.

Mr. J. Barnes, on behalf of the Dramatic Society, suitably thanked both audience and the willing helpers who came to their aid and the proceedings were brought to a close with the playing of the National Anthem.

FREE MILK SUPPLIES TO BE TESTED

Carrick-on-Suir Urban Council has agreed to a suggestion from Dr. Naughton, M.O.H., to provide apparatus for testing the free milk supply.

Members expressed the view that it was due to the poor that the milk supply should be thoroughly tested.

3 YEARS FOR HOUSEBREAKING

RECENT ROBBERIES AT KILLISHAL AND SCART

At the Waterford Circuit Court on Monday before Mr. Justice Sealy, K.C., charges of housebreaking and robbery at Killishal and Scart, Cappagh, were dealt with. The evidence in these cases was published in full in these columns when heard at the District Court.

JAMES KILLISHAL CHARGE James Morris, of no fixed abode, pleaded guilty to housebreaking and larceny, between the 12th and 20th July last, at Clonsilla, Dublin, when he entered the house of the Rev. Thos. O'Neill and took therefrom a bottle of whiskey, a bottle of wine and a suit of underclothing. On a second count, he pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the house of Mr. John Connery, Killishal, Cappagh, between the 20th and 21st August, and stealing therefrom several articles, including electroplated goods, silver salt cellars, razors, brushes, scissors, socks and small brushes, to the value of £8.

The accused, who was not legally represented, handed in a lengthy statement, and his Lordship, after having read it, observed: "I see you are a poet and compose little verses yourself."

Accused—Yes, my lord. Replying to the Judge, the accused said he could not do much work now. If he got over to the "other side" he expected to get back his pension.

ROBBERY AT SCART Pleading guilty to breaking and entering the house of Anne Purcell at Scart, Cappagh, on the 21st July last, and stealing therefrom a sum of money amounting to £35, a purse and a cash box containing a number of documents, Luke Ahearn, whose address was given as Dungarvan, was sentenced to three months with hard labour from the 24th July, which meant that since he was in custody since that date he would now be discharged. The accused was represented by Mr. O'Gorman, solr., Lismore, and Mr. Mangan, B.L., (instructed by Mr. E. A. Ryan, State Solicitor), appeared for the State. A youth named Wm. Deedy, Waterford, pleaded guilty to the larceny of £25 from the house of his employer, Mr. Keane, Tycor, between the 1st January and the 7th September last. Mr. Hally appeared for the accused, who was sentenced to six months' imprisonment, the sentence not to be imposed if accused behaved himself in the future.

POPULAR YOUNG MAN'S DEATH

The death occurred last week at the early age of 23 years of Mr. John Carrigan, Beechwood, Carrick-on-Suir. Deceased was the only son of Mr. Jas. Carrigan, and the late Mrs. Carrigan, N.T., Newtown, Carrick-on-Suir. He was the grand-nephew of the late Very Rev. Canon Carrigan, P.P., D.D., Durrrow and Very Rev. Canon Carrigan, P.P., Callan and nephew of Mother Columicille, Good Shepherd Convent, Waterford, and brother of Nurse K. Carrigan, Nursing Home, Mallow, Co. Cork, and Miss N. Carrigan, London. Deep sympathy is felt for his bereaved fathers and other relatives.

KEEPING PIGS IN TOWN

At Carrick-on-Suir Urban Council a discussion took place re numerous complaints sent to the Council about the stench caused and dangerous to health from keeping of pigs in houses in the town adjoining crowded areas. Some members advocated the complete prohibition of pig-keeping in the Urban district. Others advocated limiting the number of pigs to 12 in any one place. It was decided to get a detailed report on all the piggeries in town for next meeting.

SYMPATHY

Sympathy goes out to the wife of Mr. Michael Harney, farmer, Ballydurn, Kilmacthomas, in her bereavement occasioned by the death of her mother, Mrs. O'Donnell, Boherwilling, Cappagh, which occurred on the 2nd inst. The deceased lady, who was widely known and respected as highly, was relict of the late Mr. Edmond O'Donnell, Boherwilling (brother of the late Very Rev. John O'Donnell, P.P., Newtown and Kill)—R.I.P.

INCREASE OF WAGES

SITE FOR NEW DISPENSARY

Mr. M. Morrissey, Chairman, presided at the weekly meeting of the above on Friday. Also present Messrs. T. McCarthy, Vice-Chairman; S. Hayes, P. Byrne, P. O'Dwyer, J. Da Hill, P. Quann, J. Christopher, M. Clancy, M. Connors, J. Mansfield, D. Foley, J. F. Foley, J. Crotty.

SITE FOR CINEMA

Arising out of the minutes of the previous meeting, the Chairman said that in reference to the application of Mr. Ballot for a site for a Cinema in the Clearance Area he met Mr. Ballot during the week and he wanted to know if it would make any difference to the Council if he would forego his application for the site as he had now secured a very suitable site. He (Chairman) told him that it would not make any difference to the Council, and Mr. Ballot also asked him to convey to the Council his grateful thanks for the assistance given to him on the question of the site.

NEW DISPENSARY SITE

The Chairman said he was speaking to the Commissioner regarding a site for a new dispensary in the town. The Commissioner is very anxious that the Council would facilitate the Board of Assistance by granting them a site.

Mr. Dahill—A Dispensary is very badly needed. It is cruel to see people standing out in the street in all weathers outside the present dispensary.

Mr. Clancy agreed, but asked would the Council not want something in writing before them.

Chairman—Yes. We will probably have it in writing after the next meeting of the Board of Assistance. From the conversation he gathered that the Commissioner was inclined to put up a decent building.

Mr. Clancy—We are all very anxious to see a good dispensary in the town. The Council were unanimous in granting the site.

MEAT INSPECTION

A letter was read from Dr. O'Farrell, Co. Medical Officer of Health, regarding the decision of the Council at a recent meeting to adjourn until the next estimates meeting the question of adopting the bye-law relating to Meat Inspection in the Urban Area, owing to the cost for which no provision had been made.

Chairman—We had this matter before us recently, and the Council decided to defer it to the end of the financial year as they were of opinion that the enforcement of the bye-law would be too expensive.

Dr. O'Farrell, who attended, said that it was needless for him to impress on the members the necessity for having a Meat Inspection in the Urban Area. Perhaps there are no diseased animals slaughtered in Dungarvan, but there is no question of the danger to human beings from diseased meat. Considering that there are 80 beasts (cattle and sheep) killed every week in the Urban Area of Dungarvan, he thought it showed the necessity for inspection, and in his opinion the advisability of having a bye-law to ensure a wholesome meat supply.

Mr. Quann, suggested adhering to the decision of three weeks ago. He understood there was a Meat Bill going through the Dail at present, and he was sure it would be made compulsory for them to enforce it. Then the responsibility would be taken from them and the ratepayers can have no grievance against the Council.

Chairman—Will local bodies have to finance the scheme going through at present?

Mr. Quann said he could not say. It is not fair to Local Authorities to be asking them to find the money for all these schemes.

Mr. Dahill—The saving of one life would be worth it all.

Chairman—Undoubtedly it is a good bye-law, but we are not in a position to finance it at present.

Mr. Hayes—It would be well in the interest of those receiving free meat that the bye-law was adopted. They are being given any kind of meat.

Mr. J. F. Foley said he disagreed with Mr. Hayes.

Mr. Quann—Regarding Mr. Hayes's suggestion, is it a fact that if an animal is diseased, the good part as well as the bad part is affected?

Dr. O'Farrell—There are over 40 diseases that can be transmitted from an animal to a human. It is my duty as Co. M.O.H. to advise, and I think it is the correct thing for the Council to adopt this bye-law. He was prepared to take the risk of unpopularity by raising the rate 1d. or 2d. in order to give the people a clean meat supply.

Mr. Clancy said he agreed there should be an inspection, but the Council had taken a decision on the matter, and until that was rescinded nothing could be done.

Mr. O'Dwyer—Is not there a Meat Inspector from the Department to inspect the free beef?

Chairman—I'm not quite sure, but I think that inspection is before the cattle are slaughtered.

Mr. Quann—Doctor, is it definitely established that bovine tuberculosis is transmittable to humans?

Dr. O'Farrell—Yes.

Mr. Clancy—The Council went into this before. What would the scheme cost?

Mr. O'Dwyer—The cost would be under 2d. in the 6. The doctor will appreciate the difficulty of the Council in having no funds to meet the scheme.

Dr. O'Farrell said that even if the bye-law was adopted now it would have to be enforced.

Chairman—The present position is that the bye-law cannot be adopted without a notice of motion to rescind the order made. Except some member handed in notice of motion the adoption of the bye-law would be left over to the next estimates meeting.

WEEK'S WAGES

A paysheet for 221 10s. 6d. week's wages, etc., was passed.

THE WIGAM BUOY

A letter was read from Mr. L. Lanigan, solr., on behalf of Messrs. E. Power, and Wm. Carey, Abbeyside, claiming £15 salvage money on the Wigam Buoy.

Mr. Curran, Harbour Master, said at about 10.30 p.m. on Sunday night last he noticed by the light on the Wigam Buoy that it had shifted from its position. He took a mark on the wall and watched it, and the buoy had apparently grounded. Next morning he saw that the buoy had not shifted from the position. He went out to the buoy about 11 a.m. on Monday, and saw that the cable had parted and that the buoy was grounded.

Mr. O'Dwyer—What time did the buoy break away?

Harbour Master—I do not know.

Mr. O'Dwyer—Where did you see it from?

Harbour Master—From my own place.

Mr. O'Dwyer—If the buoy was left adrift it would be broken up.

Harbour Master—It grounded with the South-East wind.

Mr. O'Dwyer—How did you judge the buoy was aground at high water?

Harbour Master—I watched it, and knew it would go to a certain place if it did not ground nobody could save it.

Mr. O'Dwyer—These men brought the buoy in about 400 yards and moored it and they should be paid. In 1917 there was a payment of £8 made for salvage of the same buoy and before that £30 was paid to a Helvick man as salvage.

Mr. McCarthy—Was the buoy afloat when the men found it?

Harbour Master—No.

Mr. O'Dwyer—What would be the position if the buoy drifted out to sea again. Why did not Mr. Curran go to the nearest boatmen when he saw the buoy drifting instead of leaving it until next day.

Harbour Master—When the letter from Mr. Lanigan came I saw Mr. Williams, solr., and he advised that the matter should not be discussed.

Mr. Hayes said he was taken out to see the buoy, and saw it in about 8 feet of water. Mr. Curran did not go out until about noon.

Harbour Master—I saw that no good could be done.

Mr. O'Dwyer—When were the moorings attended to?

Harbour Master—In 1930.

Mr. Byrne—This is not the first time that buoy went adrift.

Harbour Master—It went adrift once in my time and also before that.

Mr. Crotty—The payment of £15 for a couple of hours work is absurd.

Messrs. Power and Carey then came before the meeting, and Mr. Power said that he sighted the light drifting about 6.40 a.m. on Monday. He waited until daylight and called Mr. Carey. They got a small boat and went out. The weather was very bad, and when they got to the buoy the boat was half filled. He boarded the buoy and put out the light. Anyone would know that if the buoy grounded the light would go out. They got ropes on to the buoy and worked her in off the tide-way where they moored her with two anchors. They then came ashore about 11 a.m. meaning to bring the buoy to the quay with the next tide. They went to report it and heard the Harbour Master had gone out to the buoy. They went out and met him on the road, but they did not get time to report it. Mr. Curran gave them abuse. They, therefore, had nothing else to do but put the matter in the hands of a solicitor. The Harbour Master told us he had the buoy under observation, as if he was trying to tell us he could direct the buoy to safely with binoculars.

Mr. J. Foley—When ye found the buoy was it embedded?

Mr. Power—No. It was afloat. We took a big risk in going around it.

Mr. Crotty—£15 for a few hours work is too much.

Mr. Power—We are not looking at it from the point of time, but at the risk. Any of you men know that if the buoy touched ground the light would go out.

Mr. Carey said they moored the buoy in 10 feet of water. That evening their moorings were cut off and others put on.

Mr. D. Foley—Mr. Curran saw the buoy adrift at 10.30 p.m. on Sunday, it took him a long time to look after it. It is a very fishy story.

Harbour Master said the solicitor said the matter should not be discussed.

Mr. O'Dwyer asked if it was the Council or the Harbour Master should look for the solicitor's advice.

Sad News of 19 HARVESTERS DROWNED

At least 19 people were drowned when a rowing boat carrying returning harvesters from Scotland and welcoming relatives from Barton Port Co. Donegal, to the rock-bound island of Arranmore, capsized in a rocky channel half a mile from the island last Saturday night.

It is impossible to tell the full extent of the death-roll.

The names of 19 dead and of one man who was rescued have been confirmed.

The only communication with the island is by boat and radio, and no one knows how many persons actually embarked in the rowing boat. All the people from the island are accounted for, but it is not known how many men were returning from Scotland.

The dead are:—Edward Gallagher, of Toris, Arranmore, and his four sons Michael (died later), Ned, John, and Charles; his two daughters, Madge and Hannah; Anthony and Edward Gallagher, of Athport; Manus, Dan, and Hannah Gallagher, of Athport; Patk. O'Donnell and his sister Kitty O'Donnell, of Lertbarrow; John Rodgers, of Toris; John O'Donnell, of Athport; Ned Ward, of Toris; Patrick Leonard, of Ballintrae; John Gallagher, of Toris.

Michael and Patrick Gallagher, of Toris, clung to the upturned boat for 15 hours. The two men suffered terribly through the bitterly cold night. Michael died a few hours after being rescued. His brother Patrick was too ill to give any details of how the disaster happened.

Every summer men from Arranmore cross to Ennals and Scotland and work in the harvests. Their return is always made a triumphal ceremony.

When the party was due to arrive at Purton Port last Saturday 10 or 12 of their nearest relatives set off to meet them in a large rowing boat owned by Mr. Edward Gallagher, of Toris.

The boat, it is believed, to avoid a long detour took a course through a dangerous narrow, rocky channel half a mile from the island. Either the wind freshened or the boatmen lost their way, but somehow the heavily-laden craft ran on the rocks and overturned.

Wigan Buoy to the solicitor, seeing that the Harbour Master don't approve of the payment.

£3 REWARD

On the advice of the Harbour Master the Council decided to offer £3 to the person locating and buoying the moorings of the shifted buoy.

INCREASE OF WAGES

The letter from the I.T. & G.W.U., asking that the wages of Mr. Veale Hall Porter, be raised from 35/- to 45/- per week was brought up.

Mr. Dahill—I suggest that we give £2 per week the same as the other employees.

Mr. Crotty—Mr. Lynch (Sec. I.T. & G.W.U. must have a very accurate account of Veale's work, he must be watching him. It is only a woman's job, and he is well paid.

Mr. D. Foley—Mr. Veale does not know the length of his day at all.

Chairman—I think he is deserving of some consideration.

Mr. Crotty—He is well paid.

Mr. McCarthy—Is 35/- a week enough for a married man?

Mr. Crotty—There are labourers doing much harder work for 25/-.

Mr. D. Foley—And some people get £500 for doing less.

Mr. Crotty—He has his chances. I never had a meeting without giving him 2/6. We have the ratepayers to consider.

Mr. McCarthy—When a working man asks for an increase there is always the ratepayer to be considered; when it is others there is not a word.

Mr. Crotty—Next year we will have a rate of 23/- in the £.

Mr. Dahill—When I came here I said I would not be for increases. There was one other and I was for it because it was a genuine case and this is also a genuine case.

Mr. Byrne—The cost of living it gone up.

Mr. Crotty—Whose fault is that?

Mr. Byrne—It is all the same whose fault it is. The poor man has to meet increased cost.

Mr. Connors—We have this discussed enough, every member has his mind made up.

Mr. Byrne proposed, and Mr. McCarthy, seconded, that Mr. Veale get 42/6 per week.

Mr. O'Dwyer—I think it is only fair owing to his long hours.

Mr. Crotty—It is only a woman's job. A proposal that £2 a week be given was not agreed to, and a vote resulted: For £2—Messrs. Mansfield, Connors, Quann, Crotty, Clancy, J. Foley and the Chairman (7).

For £2 2s. 6d.—Messrs. McCarthy, Hayes, O'Dwyer, Dahill, Byrne, D. Foley (6).

Mr. Christopher did not vote.

Mr. Byrne—When we came here I thought that Fianna Fail were going to be 100 per cent. with us, but it is well to know who is with us.

ROBERT A. MERRY & CO., LTD. DUNGARVAN AND WATERFORD.

TOWN AND REGIONAL PLANNING ACT, 1934.

Our readers have no doubt gathered from advertisements which have appeared in the Press that the Waterford Co. Council recently passed a resolution deciding to make a Planning Scheme under the above Act. This decision on the part of the Co. Council has many far reaching effects which we think should be brought particularly to the notice of the public.

The real objects of the Act, as stated in the preamble to the Statute itself, are to make provision for the orderly and progressive development of cities, towns and other areas whether Urban or Rural and to preserve and improve their amenities.

The Planning Scheme will have for its purpose the fulfilment of these objects, and will be formulated by the County Council in due course on expert advice and on the consideration of such views or opinions as may be offered on the matter by private individuals.

The preparation of this Scheme will, of course, take a very considerable time—in fact it may be some years before the Scheme will become a reality. Anticipating that such a time would of necessity elapse before the Scheme would become law, the legislature took the precaution of vesting in the Co. Council from the date on which it took the decision to make the Planning Scheme, the control of all constructive and other works of the kind. No new structures or buildings can, therefore, be constructed without the permission of the Council being first obtained; nor can any old structures be demolished, altered, repaired, or renewed without the like permission. This permission will be granted in suitable cases by the Co. Council, the advice and opinion of the Co. Surveyor having been taken where necessary.

All building contractors and promoters of private building enterprise should, therefore, take the necessary precaution of submitting their respective schemes to the Co. Council before any steps are taken; otherwise they may find when the work has progressed to a considerable degree and much expense incurred, that the work which has been undertaken does not conform to the contemplated provisions of the Scheme.

Every consideration will be given to applications that may be made to the Co. Council, but anyone submitting an application should take care when formulating their plans that they shall be made with careful discrimination and with a view to fostering the spirit of the Act.

It is quite unnecessary for us to comment on the necessity for the steps taken by the Co. Council. In this County and particularly at the various seaside resorts within its bounds sporadic development of the worst kind has taken place within the past few years. Huts, hovels, and encampments of every kind and description, which in themselves are ugly, have been set up on the most prominent sites which interfere with and detract from the value of artistic and desirable property in the environment.

Such matters as these the Council will now control, and regulate, and development will only be allowed along lines which are calculated to be for the social betterment and industrial progress of the County at large.

STORING OF CROPS—The lifting of the mangold crop has been in progress during the past fortnight, although heavy rain fell frequently impeding storage. The crop is secured from frost, and generally is of a very good yield. Beet root may be regarded as an all-round heavy cropper, the long spell of heat in midsummer tending to stimulate its growth. The first consignments have been forwarded on rail to the Mallow Factory from Kilmead, Carroll's Cross, KilmacThomas and Durrow stations.

IN MEMORIAM.

BRAZIL - (First Anniversary) - In loving memory of our dear mother Mary Egan, Graigue, who died on November, 17th, 1934. On her soul Sweet Jesus have mercy. - R.I.P.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

The family of the late Mr. Maurice Hurley, Killah, beg to return thanks to all who sent them messages and letters of sympathy in their recent bereavement, and beg them to accept this acknowledgment of same.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

PARISH CHURCH BAZAAR - The Bazaar in aid of the Funds of the Mortuary Chapel to be held in the Town Hall, on 26th and 27th inst., promises to be a great success and an enormous number of valuable prizes in connection therewith will be drawn.

HOW TO END UNEMPLOYMENT - SCHEME FOR COMERAGHS - As all good citizens desire to see our country prosperous and as there can be no genuine prosperity while thousands of young men, willing and able to work are idle by compulsion...

DEATH OF MRS. A. O'DONNELL, BOHERAWILLING, CAPPAGH. We regret to announce the death of Mrs. Anastasia O'Donnell (nee Walsh) relict of the late Mr. E. O'Donnell, Boherawilling, Cappagh, which occurred at her residence on the 1st Nov. after a brief illness fortified by the rites of the Church.

BOXING TOURNAMENT - Dungarvan Town Hall was the scene of the boxing tournament in the County. It will be the occasion of a very interesting and profitable evening. The rules of the I.A.B.A. and with several fistic experts coming to try conclusions with local budding champions, the public are certain to have a good time.

There will be cruiser-weight; catch-weight; welter-weight; middle-weight; and feather-weight contests, in which the leading lights of the Clonmel, Kilmacthomas, Dungarvan and Ballymacarby Clubs will take part. The contest between "Boy" Murphy, cruiser-weight Irish Champion, 1932, and M. Walsh, winner Irish cruiser-weight trial 1934, should not be missed, while the meeting of J. Healy Munster Champion catch-weight, 1934 and 1935, and P. Scanlan, Club Champion, 1935, and Irish representative against Holland, should lead to a rare duel.

COUNTY COUNCIL - A Quarterly meeting of the Co. Council will be held in the Courthouse, Dungarvan, on Tuesday next 19th inst., by Mr. Moynihan, Commissioner at which all the business incidental to a Quarterly meeting of the Council will be transacted.

BRITISH GENERAL ELECTION - Polling in the British General Election took place on Thursday. The result is anticipated to be a big majority for the National Government or Tory Government with a 5 years lease of the Premiership for Mr. Baldwin.

DEATH OF MRS. A. O'DONNELL, BOHERAWILLING, CAPPAGH. We regret to announce the death of Mrs. Anastasia O'Donnell (nee Walsh) relict of the late Mr. E. O'Donnell, Boherawilling, Cappagh, which occurred at her residence on the 1st Nov. after a brief illness fortified by the rites of the Church.

The late Mrs. O'Donnell possessed a charm of manner and amiability of disposition which endeared her to all who knew her and who now regret her death. She was a member of a most respected local family and was sister of the Very Rev. Canon Walsh, P.P., St. Mary's, Clonmel. To her bereaved family, relatives and friends sincere sympathy is extended in their loss.

On Saturday evening (2nd inst), the remains were removed to the Parish Church Modelgo, and were followed by an imposing cortege representative of all classes in the surrounding districts and outside areas, and on the following morning the interment took place in the adjoining cemetery in the presence of her family, relatives, friends and a large gathering of the general public, who came to pay a last tribute of respect to the memory of the deceased.

KILMATHOMAS NEWS

A STERLING SPORTSMAN

The many friends and well-wishers of Mr. Patrick Walsh, farmer, Barnakill, Kilrossanty, will be glad to know that he is making favourable progress towards complete recovery at the Galtee Hospital, Dungarvan, where he has been under treatment over the past fortnight for a severe leg fracture, which he sustained when he accidentally slipped and fell on a concrete path in his farmyard. Mr. Walsh is a well-known figure in Irish greyhound coursing circles, being owner-brooder of a big string of highly successful performers (in the wake of both the electric and the "blood" propelled hares). His kennels at Barnakill now harbour some thirteen or fourteen very promising puppy dogs and bitches. It is anticipated that Mr. Walsh will be fit to return to his home in the near future.

ANENT BOOKS

In the matter of good books to read the Mid-Deise public are well catered for at the different local distributing centres established under the aegis of the County Public Libraries Committee. But, of course, no home is complete without its bookshelf, where the youngsters should always be able to put their hands on classic works of philosophy, history, poetry and fiction. Among a score of others of the favourites of boyhood gems for the home shelf one readily remembers "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "The Swiss Family Robinson," etc., at popular prices. One so seldom now meets a youth conversant with Scott, Win. Black, Thackeray, Jules Verne, Harrison Ainsworth, or Mayne Reid—to schedule only a few of that familiar host of foreign authors, who are peerless in their craft. How different from the namby, namby "new thought" stuff of to-day! There charming old books imparted a glamorous tinge to the skies of early life that happily lingers on unto the gloaming. And, thank goodness, these great old authors are coming back into favour, and must continue to hold their forefront place "even to the world's end!"

GAELIC GARNERINGS

The meeting of Clonea-Power and Erin's Own junior hurling sets in the opening round of the Kilmathomas Medal Tournament, billed for the Kilmathomas venue on Sunday last, did not come off. The match was scheduled to start at 2.30 p.m., by which time the Clonea-Power team were on the arena, all ready and eager for the fray, and a good gathering of lovers of the code fringed the playing pitch. Then came a messenger from the local Garda station informing Mr. David Power, Secretary to the Tournay Committee, that a representative of the Erin's Own club had just telephoned there that the team were not travelling. The referee, Mr. Sean Ormond, N.T., was immediately informed, and he afterwards awarded the match to Clonea-Power. Mr. Frank Drohan, P.C., Chairman, and the other members of the Tournay Committee were deeply disappointed as on the previous Thursday, Mr. Purcell, Secretary to the Erin's Own club, had written Mr. Power, giving the names of his team and stating they were travelling without fail.

The set of gold-centre medals (Irish design and workmanship) on offer for the ultimate winners of the competition were on view on Sunday at Mr. Morrissey's establishment, the Square, and were much admired by the many who saw them.

This year's minor football championship of the county will be decided at Kilmathomas Gaelic Sportsfield on to-morrow (Sunday), the contestants being Stradbally and Mountain Rovers (Rathgormack and Clonea-Power). Both bunches have some smart victories to their credit; they are equally well versed in the finer points of the game, and are equally confident of success. No doubt but the match will be a "needlestitch" one, and, granted conditions climatical prove propitious, there should be an attendance worthy of such gallant young exponents of the code. Mr. Sean Ormond, N.T., will have charge of the whistle.

LUCKY MEN

Mr. John Stack, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stack, Riverside Terrace, Kilmathomas, returned to his parental home this week from London, where he has occupied an important and lucrative position for some years past. He won a prize of something over £400 in the Irish Hospitals Sweepstake in the Cambridgeshire. Mr. Stack purchased his ticket from Mr. Daniel Kirwan, (son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Kirwan) Kilmathomas. We join with his countless friends in warmly congratulating him on his luck.

This week a life was saved by a time-piece. It was on the Italian front, somewhere in Abyssinia. The bullet ricocheted off the watch of an Italian soldier, otherwise it might have penetrated the heart. This incident recalls a Boer War episode where a combatant attributed his safety all through the campaign to a small Bible which he carried in his breast pocket. The Bible had the impress of many long-range bullets, but, strange to relate, they never penetrated further. This is no mere romance. It is a true story vouched for by its author and published on the termination of hostilities. It is believed that there was a similar incident in some of the previous wars; in fact, poetry has been written about it.

IN MEMORIAM

On Friday morning of this week, the annual High Mass of Requiem for the happy repose of the souls of the deceased relatives and friends of the people of Ballylanceen parish, was celebrated at St. Anne's Church, Ballylanceen. The Rev. T. O'Shea, C.C., Ballylanceen, was celebrant, and the assisting officiating ministers were Very Rev. P. Murphy, P.P. Stradbally; Very Rev. W. Kehoe, P.P. Kilrossanty; Rev. J. Hart, C.C., do.; and Rev. P. O'Farrell, C.C. Stradbally. There was a very large congregation present.

WE PUT IT TO YOU (SERIOUS AND NOT)

That last Monday evenings and night's rainfall was the heaviest of the year so far in these parts. That Kilmac is readying a boxer or two for the forthcoming fistic art exhibition in Dungarvan. That the chaparrone rules affecting Nire Valley virgins are about to be slightly reduced with the approval of Mrs. Grundy.

That all cinemas in Waterford city and county will have "chummy" seats in due course.

That the most popular methods employed by seasoned anglers for catching pike at the mouth of the Mahon are spinning and paternostering.

That, for the moment, the only "bogey" so far as the Kilmac markets are concerned is the shadow which has been cast by the League of Nations decision to impose sanctions against Italy.

That the recent strengthening of the price of base metals has brought joy to all interested in the resumption of mining operations in Bonmahon.

That Annesstown Anne is suffering from a shiny nose since her birthday of last week-end.

That the new berets at present sported by the comely colleens of Kilibrien and Bohadon have a little bit of stiffening like the peak of an Old Parish man's cap, inside, which keeps this form of headgear from flopping about in a wind.

AND— That the skinniest cow in the Dunhill district chewed a six-and-seventeen penny nightshirt from off a privet hedge inside of the past half-hour.

NOVEMBER SHADES

All through all November nights, The ghosts of dear departed ties Wander 'neath the starry heights Like clouds adrift in summer skies.

And the while a-roaming thus Adown the mellow moonlight-streams They draw gently over us The net of sigh-evoking dreams! —(G.C.K.)

"NATIONAL DISGRACE"

Rev. J. Prendergast, P.P., at Ballyhaunis, on the eve of All Souls' Day, used the above words when referring to the state of the graves of the dead, adding: "There is something inconsistent in professing affection for the memory of the dead and at the same time allowing their resting place to become eye-sores, overrun with weeds and refuse of all kinds. Such a deplorable condition of affairs is an insult to the dead. It was a sad state of affairs when it would take an act of Parliament to compel people to do what their religion and natural affection told them should be a labour of love and pious devotion."

G. A. A. WATERFORD CO. BOARD ERIN'S OWN SUSPENDED SEQUEL TO RECENT DISPUTE

A sequel to the recent decision of Waterford Co. Board Selection Committee to eliminate members of Erin's Own, who won the Senior County Hurling Championship for the ninth successive year a few weeks ago from the team which met Limerick in the National Hurling League tie, was provided at a special meeting of the Board when, with Charlie Ware, Erin's Own captain, dissenting, a resolution was passed suspending the club for six months. Remarkably the issue before them was very clear and left no room for compromise or wavering, Mr. Liam Walsh, chairman of the Board declared that they could not progress as a Board without discipline and loyal co-operation of clubs. Generally speaking, the clubs of the county were a credit to the Association, he said, but unfortunately this could not be said of Erin's Own. During the last four years this club has given end less trouble to the Waterford County Board.

CHAIRMAN'S CHARGES

Mr. Walsh, proceeding, charged Erin's Own, on the occasion of the Munster Championship game with Tipperary this year, of turning the team selected in accordance with bye-law upside down a bare hour before the match.

Referring to the reason for the meeting, Mr. Walsh stated that before the Selection Committee had started the unenviable job of selecting the team to meet Limerick a bomb was released by two Erin's Own members of committee, who informed them that the team was already selected by Erin's Own Club, and that the latter felt as county champions they were entitled to pick whatever fifteen they thought desirable.

Furthermore, it was stated that unless the team selected was approved of no Erin's Own player would take the field against Limerick. When the County Board members of the Selection Committee firmly turned this down Erin's Own delegates withdrew and the team was selected on constitutional lines.

BISHOP'S VIEWS

CIRCUIT COURT APPEALS

The question of Sunday night dancing in Waterford was revived at the Circuit Court this week, when a number of appeals against the decision of District Justice McCabe in refusing licences in respect of Sundays came before His Lordship, Judge Sealy.

Dr. Counahan, who with Mr. P. Power, solr., and Mr. P. O'Connor, solr., was concerned in the appeals, stated that the appeals were taken against just so much of the order of the District Justice as concerned Sunday dancing. He understood, however, that while these appeals were pending his Lordship, Most Rev. Dr. Kinane, Bishop of Waterford and Lismore, who objected to Sunday night dancing in the court below, had been good enough to stretch a point in connection with his opposition, and to state that, provided the appellants were now prepared to enter into certain conditions, that he was willing to withdraw that opposition. So far as his clients were concerned, they were quite prepared to observe these conditions, subject to his Lordship's (Judge Sealy) independent view of the matter as a matter of course.

Mr. Molloy (instructed by Mr. H. D. Keane) appeared on behalf of the Bishop, and stated that at the proceedings before the District Justice the Bishop opposed any public dancing on Sundays, and had done so for some time past, being of the opinion that such dancing was not in harmony with the sacredness of the Lord's Day. As a result, however, of representations that had been made to him by responsible public men and members of the Corporation, his Lordship, the Bishop did not persist in his objections to Sunday dancing if certain conditions and restrictions were inserted in the order. He understood that the proprietors of dance halls in the district had entered into and signed this agreement with the Bishop, by which dancing would be carried on under the following conditions:—Days of dancing: Dances are not to be held (a) on Saturdays and the eves of holidays; (b) during Lent, except on St. Patrick's Night. Hours of dancing.—(a) On Sundays, dances are not to begin before 8.30 p.m. and are not to be continued later than 11.30 p.m. On week-days dances are not to continue later than 11 p.m. Extraordinary dances.—Dances which continue later than the hours mentioned above are to be regarded as extraordinary dances. In any hall no more than four such dances should take place during the year, and they are not to continue later than 3 a.m. Intoxicating drink.—(a) At ordinary dances the use of intoxicating drink on dance hall premises is altogether forbidden. At extraordinary dances the use of intoxicating drink on the dance hall premises is forbidden except during supper time and a part of the supper. This prohibits even the use in the dance hall premises by individuals of drink obtained by them outside. Supervision.—With a view to securing that the regulations mentioned above are observed, that all circumstances dangerous to good morals are eliminated, and that good order generally is preserved, dance halls are to be subject to the supervision of a committee to be nominated by the Bishop of Waterford and the Mayor.

Messrs. Power and O'Connor, solrs., expressed themselves as consenting to these conditions. Judge Sealy said he knew these appeals were coming on, and felt the extraordinary difficulty in which he was placed owing to the attitude of Dr. Kinane, and the clergy in the matter. He knew there was a large number of innocent well-behaved people who did want to dance on Sundays, and he confessed that he was in a tremendous difficulty about the matter. Now, however, he was very much pleased that the parties had come together and that Dr. Kinane had yielded in his opposition in the way in which he had done. He would allow the notices of appeal to be varied by appealing against the whole order, and then he would grant the licences with the conditions set out.

AUTHORITY CHALLENGED

It was for them, continued Mr. Walsh, to show that no club, no matter how influential, could flout the authority of the Board and get away with it. The authority of the Board had been challenged, and he asked for fearless and outspoken opinion, feeling that the verdict of the Board would help to restore the confidence of hundreds of patrons who had withdrawn their support because they believed Waterford County Board failed to assert its authority when that authority was challenged.

WAGE CUT RESTORED

With two dissentients the Committee of Management of the Waterford Mental Hospital decided to restore the reduction of 10 per cent. in the wages of all male and female attendants in April, 1936.

GOING WELL

Pleasing to record that the "45" Card Drive, organised in aid of the Stradbally and Ballylanceen parochial debt, is receiving appreciable support on all sides. The final rounds of the Drive will be played out at Ballylanceen Schoolhouse on the first Sunday of next month. The handsome prize of £10 will go to the winning pair, while the runner-up will also receive substantial awards.

THE ASSAULT CASE

Great interest was centred in an action for damages heard at the Circuit Court this week, in which a Waterford blacksmith named Michael Hearne, Wellington street, sued Frank and Reece Morgan, two well-known horse-racers and prominent figures in Irish and English racing circles, for £100 for alleged assault. There was a counter claim by Frank Morgan for £50.

On hearing evidence, his Lordship awarded the plaintiff £25 and costs, and dismissed the counter-claim without costs.

Opening the case for the plaintiff, Mr. Molloy, B.L., said the civil bill was for damages for assault by the defendants on the plaintiff on June 4, 1935, at Killofferan. The facts of the case, he said, disclosed a most cowardly and brutal assault by "these pugilistic gentlemen."

The defendants were represented by Mr. Budd, B.L., who, on behalf of Mr. Frank Morgan, denied the assault or, alternatively, that if he did assault the plaintiff that he only used such force as was reasonable for the purpose of self-defence.

Michael Ahearn, said on the date of the alleged assault he called to the defendants house for 23/- which they owed him for horse-shoeing. He first saw Reece Morgan, who accompanied him to where Frank Morgan was, and calling to Frank, said: "This man wants a pound." Continuing the plaintiff said that Frank made about three steps and, catching him by the throat, gave him a shaking, whilst Reece Morgan hit him right on the top of the head with the stick. Reece rapped him again with the stick and gave him a gash about 4 1/2 inches long. Plaintiff added he was incapacitated for five weeks as a result of the injuries he sustained.

Mr. Reece Morgan, in the witness box, denied hitting the plaintiff with the stick, and added that "it was a fair fight" between plaintiff and his brother Frank. It was not correct that Frank hit plaintiff or seized him by the coat. Both plaintiff and Frank went down twice, and it was a fair fight.

Mr. Reece Morgan further explained that he was watering horses on the occasion. Hearne appeared on the scene behind witness's back with a stick and said: "Now you're for it," and banged it down, missing witness's arm. When Frank appeared Hearne caught hold of his coat and they both started fighting.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLEMENT

At the Waterford Circuit Court, Maurice Edward Phelan, of Broad St., Waterford, pleaded guilty to the embezzlement and conversion to his own use of a sum of £137, the property of the Minister for Posts and Telegraphs, by falsification of a cash account book.

Mr. Mangan (instructed by Mr. Ryan, State Solicitor), prosecuted, and Mr. Budd, (instructed by Mr. Hally, solr.) defended.

Mr. Budd, in a plea for leniency, said that the prisoner was not the ordinary type of the criminal class. His lapse on this occasion had been a single instance, and nothing had been alleged against him before, his record up to the time of the present offence being entirely blameless. There had been complete restitution of the money involved. He explained that the prisoner carried on a grocery business, together with the sub-post office, and what had happened was that the accused got into the habit of borrowing money out of the post office register and putting it into his own and using it for the purpose of his own business. The time came when he could not pay it back to the post office register, and, fearing a post office check, he changed the accounts so as to make it appear that there had been withdrawals from the Post Office Savings Bank. The offence was not premeditated, nor was it the result of a carefully prepared plan.

Evidence of good character on behalf of the accused having been given by the Mayor of Waterford and other residents, his Lordship applied the Probation of Offenders Act. "It is very hard," said his Lordship, to the prisoner, "to know what to do with a man like you. It seems that you are a man who has got to live in Waterford, and the leading citizens of Waterford apparently think that you should not be punished for what you have done, or else that you have been punished sufficiently already. I will now allow you out under the Probation of Offenders' Act and bind you over to keep the peace for a period of two years, to come up for judgment when called upon."

TOUGHAL URBAN COUNCIL

CHAIRMAN ADJOURNS MEETING

Present—Messrs. P. J. O'Gorman, P.C., Chairman; M. Ahern, T. Beausang, J. Daly, B.E.; R. Savage, W. O'Sullivan, J. N. R. Macnamara, solr.; R. Power, M. Cashman, J. Forrest, E. P. Lynch, D. McCarthy, E. D. Condon, R. C. Farrell, Vice-Chairman, J. Whelan, Capt. C. Watson.

Corrections of Report.

Mr. Beausang said there was an error in the report of their last meeting regarding the proposer and seconder of the motion fixing the rent of the new cottages.

The Chairman said it wasn't a matter of much importance.

Mr. Daly said it was stated that the proposition fixing the salary for the Town Surveyor at £100 was passed unanimously. He had proposed the figure of £85, as he thought it adequate for the work to be done.

The Clerk said that was correct. Mr. Daly's proposition hadn't been seconded.

Collectors' Poundage.

Replying to Mr. Daly, the Clerk said that the poundage on the collection of the rates was 6d. for the town rate and 9d. for the County rate. The reason for the higher figure was the fact that the collector had to lodge the full amount at the close, whether collected or not.

Replying to Mr. Lynch, the Clerk said that the Town Collector received 6d. in the £ on all his collection except rents, in which case he received 2/- in the £1.

Grants

Mr. Forrest called attention to the amount to be given to local authorities in grants. They should apply for a share.

The Clerk said that, acting on the Chairman's instructions he had already made application for a grant, and they were awaiting a reply. Last year they had got £200 and they supplemented that themselves with £50.

Mr. Forrest—What about the Sewerage Scheme?

The Clerk—That is a rather tall order.

Mr. Forrest—Now that Christmas is approaching, we ought press for a grant to relieve the unemployed.

The Clerk said they would probably have a reply soon.

Mr. Savage said that it would be advisable to think out some useful scheme of work in anticipation of the grant.

The Clerk—That is a very good idea. On the Chairman's suggestion it was decided to deal with the matter at their meeting on the 21st.

Mr. Daly—The Town Surveyor could look into the matter beforehand.

Applications For Hall

The following applications for the use of the Town Hall, for dances, etc. were granted:—Southern Rowing Club, 15th; Continental Dance Band, 19th (Mr. Savage—Not on Continental lines, I hope) (laughter); Republican Memorial Committee Celidhe and Concert, 1st Dec.; Handball Club (45 Drive) 15th Dec.; League of the Cross (Dramatic Performance) 20 and 21st.

Mr. Savage—The hall is certainly in great demand.

The Chairman—At the rate it is being used, it will be absolutely necessary to lay down a new floor before long.

Band Recitals

The Hon. Sec., North Abbey Band, applied for the remuneration for recitals in the Green Park promised by the Council, and gave the dates.

The Chairman said he had intended mentioning that matter that night. The Council had made a promise and they would keep it. He suggested that they should ascertain the number of recitals given by the other bands—The League of the Cross and the Pipers Band, and deal with them at the next meeting.

Flooding Danger

In reply to a complaint by the Council that his workmen had thrown stuff into the Tourig river, Mr. J. Bowen, B.E., Co. Surveyor, Waterford, wrote stating that the Urban Area was a mile from the river.

The Chairman—That is a very tact reply.

Mr. Lynch—The river is alongside the road.

Mr. Power—But in the Co. Waterford.

Mr. Lynch said that the attention of the Cork Co. Council should be called to the matter.

Mr. Beausang said the practice was likely to cause flooding.

Mr. O'Sullivan said that he knew of a piece of land that had been flooded owing to clods, etc., being thrown into the river.

It was decided to call the attention of the Cork Co. Surveyor to the complaint.

Collector's Demands

A letter was read from a ratepayer complaining that the collector had served him with a ten-day notice. He had always paid his rates in February or March and he would like to know if all ratepayers had been treated similarly.

Mr. Power said he had been notified for rent due last September, probably owing to his attitude at the last meeting of the Harbour Board. Further, he had been called on for dues, details of which were incorrect. He returned the demand for correction, but it was returned unchanged. It was decided to call the collector for an explanation.

Mr. Power here informed the Board that Capt. Hagan had arrived in the Harbour and had sailed up the river. He suggested the Board should send up a motor car to bring him down to the meeting at which his (Mr. Power's) complaints regarding the collection of the dues were to be considered. After a protracted discussion, this was agreed to, a special meeting to be held to deal with the matter.

A Scene

Arising out of an application by Mr. P. Keenally, builder, for permission to lay a 4 inch main to supply water to the four houses he was building at Windmill Lane, it was proposed and seconded that the application be granted.

Mr. Lynch asked why a similar concession wasn't granted to Mr. T. O'Donovan.

The Chairman said that was a different matter, they were now dealing with Mr. Keenally's application, and he asked for the Council's decision.

Mr. Lynch persisted in calling attention to the other case, the Chairman ultimately calling on him to sit down and let the business be done.

Mr. Lynch—I'll sit down when I like.

The Chairman (ringing the bell)—The meeting stands adjourned.

The Chairman left the chair. The members thereupon left the room, it being only 9 o'clock.

FREE STATE'S POLICY ON SANCTIONS

IRISH CHURCHMAN PROTESTS

Rt. Rev. Monsignor Curran, Rector of the Irish College, Rome, in a letter to the Press says:—

"I beg a few lines space to protest most earnestly against the Free State's policy on sanctions against Italy."

"All Irishmen in Rome deplore it as unwise and futile at the very least. No ecclesiastic here believes that this policy will bring peace. All believe it will generate greater international bitterness. In what an unfortunate position ecclesiastics are to be placed! Guests of Italy, our countrymen are to starve her while we receive all she has to give. Such a procedure is neither Christian nor honourable."

DIVIDING AN ESTATE

JOHN DUNN—A ZULU!

A Commission appointed by the South African Government met on the Mangate reserve to consider how the land and property of John Dunn, a Zulu chief, should be divided among his eighty-three children.

So many others have come forward claiming to be his children and demanding a share that the commission will be unable to finish its task for many days.

Dunn was a white man, the child of European parents, and was born in Natal 100 years ago.

As a young man he traded with the Zulus and became a friend of Cetewayo.

He then went to live among the Zulus and became a chief.

He had several wives, according to native custom, and acquired 10,000 acres of land.

After his death disputes arose in the family over the division of his property.

A special commission was appointed to decide who were his lawful heirs.

It was then announced that each child living on the reserve should receive 100 acres, while those outside should be content with what they had received.

The family quarrel became more acute as those outside threatened to sell their lands and return to the reserve.

The Government then appointed a commission to settle the whole matter.

A Postulate of Healing

Speaking at a Lecture in Cork on "The Apostolate of Healing" Very Rev. Dr. James, O.M.Cap. said, so many of the interests of medicine have been saying that Catholic Action is as old as the Church, that must protest against their failure to appreciate the originality of the Pope or to sense the living vitality of a Church, which, the more she changes to adapt herself to new conditions, the more she is the same.

Catholic Action is not a discovery, it is that you mean something entirely new and hitherto absent from the Church. Apostolate there has always been in the Church, but as a manifestation of apostolate, Catholic Action is something new and original: the precise form that apostolate will take is new, and the emphasis on this form is new. Catholic Action, as envisaged by the Pope, could not have been always present in the Church precisely as he sees it, for the simple reason that Catholic Action is intended by him to meet a condition of things that never existed until the present era in which we live. That condition of things is the de-Christianisation of society, and in this reform of Catholic Action I see again the enduring impulse of a living organism to defend its life against unfavourable conditions.

Would it be too much to say that in the history of the medical profession we have a repetition in miniature of that divorce of religion from life which has broadly de-Christianised Europe? I am not now saying that a certain degree of separation of medicine from religion was not in the process of time inevitable, or that it has been entirely without advantages. The historical fact is that the Church itself stepped in to hand over from its priesthood to laymen the specific functions of the physician and surgeon, but this distinction in time became such a separation that medicine has not only forgotten its primitive associations with the Church, but, as it stands today, is so anxious for complete autonomy that it seems not to recognise the claims of Christ Himself.

It must be remembered that from the earliest ages, in the civilisations of Egypt, Rome, Greece and Judaism, religion and medicine were very closely allied.

The part played by the Church in the medical sciences, in surgery, in the founding of hospitals, is too well-known to be elaborated. So close, indeed, was the association, a natural one, that one remembers that the Church was the founder of the universities and seats of learning, that before the twelfth century doctors of theology were automatically doctors of medicine.

There is for Catholics no question of a fusion of religion and medicine, or of confounding the role of the priest and that of the doctor. But to say that the doctor in his care of the body can ignore what natural ethics and theology have to say of man is to forget that the end of man is not bodily health but God, and hence that any course of action which does not take account of this is necessarily condemned on ethical and religious grounds. Likewise, the psychological approach of therapy is one that makes one shudder for fear of evil consequences. For here, obviously, the doctor is coming very near the sphere of pure religion. It cannot be doubted that there are cases of emotional neurasthenia which seem somehow to involve human conscience itself. That being so, the menace of a medicine that has no true religious outlook and inspiration is of possibly tragic dimensions. In many of its aspects then, medicine leads its advocate to problems that are ethical and religious. The mutually exclusive character of medicine and religion is a pure pretence that has no foundation, except in a medical mind that has lost all real contact with Jesus Christ.

What, I ask is the remedy for this menace of medicine entirely divorced from religion? The answer seems obvious and logically inevitable. Firstly, what have been so separated and divorced must be brought together again, not necessarily by a fusion of the roles of doctor and priest, but by a living Christian inspiration in the minds of medical men, which will radiate its influence in medical theory and practice, and make of medical healing a positive apostolate. Secondly, the form required by the Church must be imposed upon this apostolate of healing, so as to make of it a real manifestation of Catholic Action.

In conclusion, I have no hesitation in saying that the vitality of Christ's mystic organism, the Church, is palpably displaying itself in our midst when Catholic doctors, anxious for cohesion amongst themselves and desirous of Catholic Action, are ready to make abundant sacrifices in their sincere interest in the cause of Christ. They have no new doctrine to offer; they have the faith, and their aim is to reflect together upon their faith in order the more fully to live that faith and to seek from their faith the norms and standards of medical practice.

Conscious that modern conditions are not ideal for Christian life, that man's supernatural end is ignored when not actually excluded or impeded, their sole ambition is to help towards the formation of a social order which will best serve the interests of Christ. But they have no merely temporal aim or purpose. On that I would insist for it would be a contradiction to think of associating Catholics together under the title of Catholic Association, and entertain merely earthly or temporal ambitions. An Association of Catholics as Catholics, that has not a supernatural goal and aim, has simply no right to be: it is a state within a state, and has never been and never shall be accepted by the Church whose sole direct pre-occupation is the Kingdom of God on earth. Christianising themselves then in their own consciences by prayer and with Christianising their profession by Christian principles, these men, like the first Christians living in the bosom of the world, are in an ideal position to recreate a Christian social order around them. In this way they will help the peaceful, though insistent, return of Christ to the particular world in which they move.

It is because I believe that the Guild of St. Luke approved by the Irish hierarchy has no other ambition than this re-Christianisation of the medical profession that it has my wholehearted approval. The day is not far distant, I trust when its numbers will increase, and when God will bless its efforts towards a true "apostolate of healing."

His Lordship, in conveying the vote of thanks to Dr. James, said that they were very pleased indeed to have this meeting in Cork. The city, as they knew, was the seat of a great medical school, which was, indeed, second to none. That college had supplied the city and county, as well as the province, with splendid doctors. Besides the medical profession, they undertook the training of nurses and chemists, and they also had a school of dentistry. They could not tolerate any divorce between their profession and their religion, and, whether they were doctors, or chemists or nurses, they must be Catholics, and practical Catholics, and regulate their professional lives by the principles of their religion. They knew that there were various discoveries of modern times that could be used lawfully, and they the Guild of St. Luke had a great future before it. He need not remind them that there were many ways and many cases where doctors and nurses could be of great influence, and where it would be very hard for a priest to get admission at all. "I am very pleased to be here to-night," concluded his Lordship, "because it is like a profession of faith by the doctors, chemists and nurses, and an indication that they are going to make the principles of their faith regulate the rules of their professional lives. The members of the medical profession are a great support to the priests, and they are an exemplary and fine body of people in the different parishes."

THE FRUIT INDUSTRY.

In a broadcast from Dublin, Mr. J. J. Bergin, Secretary Irish Fruit Growers' Association, said that there were 12,000,000 acres of arable land in the Free State, but that less than 8,000 acres were devoted to fruit production. That was not sufficient. It meant about one shilling's worth of fruit per head per annum for the entire population. Imports of fruit, fruit pulp and juices last year were valued at £1,087,566, or an expenditure of nearly £21,000 weekly; £169,231 was spent on imported apples last year. Much of the imported fruit, he said, could not be produced here commercially, but approximately £339,607 represented the value of imported apples, pears, plums, fruit juices and pulp which could be produced in the Free State. It was a needless loss of national wealth, amounting to over 24,000 per cent per annum.

Fruit production, however, was a highly technical branch of agriculture and called for unremitting care and attention to the crop in season and out. Modern conditions obliged successful growers to combine the offices of farmer, businessman and horticulturist. Nevertheless, fruit farmers ought to take notice of the figures quoted. Irish fruit farmers had a market worth, on an average basis, approximately two and a half times the present home production and they allowed it to go to the foreigner.

The middleman, in Mr. Bergin's opinion, discouraged production by offering a low price and discouraged consumption by charging high prices. The consumer got insufficient fruit and paid too much for it. Some time ago he was shown magnificent Irish-grown plums being sold in Dublin for 3s. 6d. to 4s. 6d. per 14 lb. chip. The same afternoon he saw the same plums exposed for sale in shops at 1s. 4d. per lb. That might have been an individual example, but he was aware that Irish plums were selling in other Dublin shops on the same day at 8d. and 9d. per lb. Quite recently he had seen a Dublin agent go from orchard to orchard down the country buying apples at 4s. per barrel of 8 to 10 stones and within the last few weeks he had seen the same apples selling in the middle-class and working-class shopping centres of Dublin at 9d. per quarter stone.

A few days ago a lady entered a fruit shop and asked for apples. She was shown foreign apples at 2s. per dozen, and Irish apples at 4d. per lb. She said that the Irish apples, which were fine specimens, were too dear, and she took a dozen of foreign apples at 2s. A simple calculation showed that she had paid 8d. per lb. for her fancy, and left better apples behind. It was deplorable that so many of our own people despised home-grown products. There was, however, a growing demand for home-grown fruit, and growers could safely treble their output within the next five years. Markets were calling for more apples, pears, plums, currants, raspberries and strawberries, and so it was quite safe to increase production. Mr. Bergin said that there was a pronounced opposition to home growers
