DUNGARVAN URBAN COUNCIL.

CINEMA LICENCE

SLUM CLEARANCE

COMPENSATION TO OWNERS

Mr. M. Morrissey, Chairman, presided at the weekly meeting of the above on Friday. Also present—Messrs. T. McCarthy, V.C., P. Byrne, J. F. Foley, D. Foley, J. Dahill, P. O'Dwyer, J. Mansfield and S. Hayes.

Milk Tests

Mr. R. P. Byrne, V.S., reported on samples of milk tested as follows:—Miss McCarthy, Main street, fair; Mrs. Nugent, Abbeyside, satisfactory; J. Tierney, Abbeyside, satisfactory.

Duty Free

A letter read from the Ministry of Industry and Commerce, notified the Council that the Revenue Commissioners have been requested to permit the importation free of duty of water meters value £28 12s. 6d.

Compensation To Owners

With reference to the letter of the Council regarding the payment of compensation to the owners of the recently cleared slum area, the Department wrote stating that the Minister for E.G. and P.H. is prepared to sanction an overdraft for the payment of the compensation fixed for the lands to be acquired by the Council under their Compulsory Purchase Order pending the issue of a loan for the purpose of a housing scheme on the lands.

The Clerk was directed to see the Bank Manager.

Compensation for Loss

Arising out of a letter from Messrs. E. A. Ryan, sons, on behalf of Mr. Thomas Lee, Loughmore, asking for £48 in respect of a piggyery erected by him in Patrick street, where he kept on an average ten pigs as a result of his removal to Loughmore he has been deprived of this means of livelihood.

Mr. O'Dwyer proposed and Mr. Dalih seconded that Mr. Lee be granted £40 and that the Council consider no further claims.

The proposition was passed, Mr. McCarthy dissenting.

An Eyesore

Mrs. M. R. Crotty, Abbeyside, wrote as follows:—I have recently completed the building of a dwelling house in Abbeyside. Opposite the house beside Mrs. Griffin's Tennis Court there is a small plot owned by the Council. This plot is at present full of weeds, thistles and nettles and is an eyesore from the windows of my house and to anyone passing along the road. I am anxious to have the plot cleared and planted with flowering shrubs, etc. If your Council would have this done I would be quite satisfied, but if they cannot see their way to do so I would be willing to undertake this work provided I am given a long lease at a nominal rent. I do not want to build and you can stipulate this in the lease if you wish. I think the Council will agree that it is in the interests of their town that such objectionable sights as this plot should be eliminated, and I am sure they will agree to my suggestion.

Consideration of the letter was deferred to next meeting.

Sunday Cinema Licence

The following letter was read from the Superintendent's Office, Dungarvan:—On 17th May, Sergeant O'Neill, visited the Cinema at Davitt's Quay, Dungarvan, and saw pictures being exhibited there. He observed members of the public being admitted to the premises on payment. The Sergeant requested Mr. D. Crotty, who was then in charge to produce his Cinematograph licence. No licence was then produced, but subsequently Miss A. Crotty produced a licence issued by the Dungarvan Urban Council. The licence produced had expired on 31st March, 1936 and only authorised the exhibition of pictures for 6 days a week Sunday excluded. It is understood that subsequent to the issue of the licence which was produced, Mr. Crotty obtained permission from your Council to exhibit pictures on Sundays. I have no information as to when that concession terminated, but I presume that your records will contain essential particulars. On the 27th ult., the title of the main picture exhibited was: "Men Of The Hour," and on Sunday, 24th, ult., "Urgent Call." The films used on these occasions were inflammable and according to the provisions of the Cinematograph Act 1909 and regulations made thereunder, it appears that an exhibition of pictures by means of a cinematograph shall not be given unless the premises or hall is fully licensed by the Licensing Authorities.

The letter was referred to the Council's solicitor for his opinion.

The committee expressed approval of the satisfactory manner in which the Inspectors were carrying out their duties.

A Small Item

The Department wrote sanctioning payment of £3 9s. to Mr. Power, Clonmel, for 2 weeks services as substitute for Mr. Mulcahy, V.S. The committee passed £4 4s., but the Department would not sanction it.

It was decided to ask them to reconsider the matter.

Increase Wanted

Mr. J. O'Gorman, Mountain ranger, Monasterv, Lismore, whose present salary is £10 a year, applied for an increase of £7.

Mr. M. Hale, Mountain Ranger, (Knockmaldown) asked to have his salary increased from £12 to £16 a year. Both applications were adjourned for the attendance of Mr. Hynes, V.S.

FARMERS' PLIGHT

Forced To Barter Farm Products

As a result of the trade depression, sales by barter are on the increase in the New Ross district.

Farmers bring in their farm produce, such as poultry, butter and eggs, and exchange them directly for tea and sugar. The farmers do not refresh this system, but needs must when necessity drives. One trader, who was evicted last week for non-payment of rent, had his effects thrown on the street. He proceeded to sell them to passers-by acting as an auctioneer himself and displaying great wit and humour. Then he set out for Waterford on foot at 11 p.m. 15 miles away, stating that he would get in with the milk in the morning.

DUNGARVAN DEFEATED IN CARRICK

At Carrick-on-Suir on Sunday at a football match Ballyneele beat Dungarvan 4 goals 3 points to 3 points. In the hurling match Carrick-on-Suir beat Dungarvan 7 goals 2 points to 4 goals 2 points.

The matches were played in aid of a fund for Roger Walsh, a Carrick-on-Suir hurler who lost an eye recently when hurling in Clonmel.

EXTRAORDINARY—

There were in France 10,498 parishes without priests and every year there are 437 more deaths than ordinations in the Priesthood, said Rev. R. Devane, S.J., in Dublin.

CAPPOQUIN ROWING CLUB

Successful "Scratch Races"

The Cappoquin Rowing Club has been galvanised into new life this year, and the energy and enthusiasm with which the members have been attending to practice and training during the past few weeks are reminiscent of the most rosette days in the history of this old-established club.

This remarkable revival of the sport of rowing is mainly attributable to the energetic efforts made early this year by Mr. T. F. Olden, Hon. Sec., and Mr. L. D. Dunne, Vice-Captain, who set themselves out to win back all those oarsmen who had shed such lustre on the club up to two years ago, and the ready and sportsmanlike manner in which all the latter have responded to the call is a distinct credit to all concerned.

Several crews can be seen on the Blackwater every evening now indulging in steady and vigorous practice, with the result that it has now been decided to purchase a new four-oared outrigger for this season, and when this craft arrives in a couple of weeks time, it is bound to still further stimulate the interest of the rowing members in this manly form of aquatic sport.

The cost of the new boat will be a heavy drain on the financial resources of the Club, to say nothing of the cost of sending crews to most of the Southern Regattas this year, but if the public will only show the proper spirit in giving the necessary support to the Club it is intended to hold the usual Regatta in Cappoquin this season, an event which has always proved a big source of revenue to the town in the past.

For the purpose of creating a greater interest in rowing, and at the same time enabling the Committee to pick the best crews for this season, a very interesting programme of "Scratch Races" was run off on Whit Sunday which provided some excellent contests and showed the valuable amount of rowing material at the disposal of the Club this year. The events were run from the western end of the town and finished a short distance beyond the Boathouse, and although the weather was cold and showery, there was a very large crowd of spectators, who afforded them a commanding view of the races from start to finish. The spectators were amply rewarded for their pluck in braving the elements, because the various heats were so well contested, and provided such thrilling finishes, that only a few feet divided first and second in some of the races, and the programme afforded a most interesting afternoon's sport for all.

Mr. John Lennon, acted as Starter, while Mr. R. J. Colender, Vice-President of the Club, officiated as Judge, and the efficient and impartial manner in which both officials discharged their duties greatly enhanced the success of the event.

Details—

First Heat

No. 1 Station, J. O'Donnell (bow), T. Landers 2, L. D. Dunne, 3; Jas. Brady (stk.), Jas. Crotty (cox).

No. 2 Station, P. Driscoll (bow), W. Glavin, 2, Michael Landers, 3, M. O'Donnell (stk.), J. Regan (cox).

Brady's crew established a slight lead early in the race, and continuing to row a clean, steady stroke they gradually increased their lead, but O'Donnell's crew came with a great burst near the bridge, but were never able to get on level terms with Brady's crew, who won a grand race by about two lengths.

Second Heat

No. 1 Station, P. McGrath (bow), J. Crotty, 2, Mce. Landers, 3, John Curran (stk.), J. Regan (cox).

No. 2 Station, M. Power (bow), W. Glavin, 2, P. Landers, 3, J. Fives (stk.), J. Brady (cox).

This proved a most exciting race, the two boats being practically level coming through the bridge, but Curran's crew then "dozzened" in vigorous style, and the efficient and impartial Fives, the former won a great race by a bare length.

Third Heat

No. 1 Station, J. McCarthy (bow) D. Landers, 2, M. Landers, 3, Martin Daly (stk.), J. Regan (cox).

No. 2 Station, J. O'Donnell (bow), T. Landers, 2, L. D. Dunne, 3, James Brady (stk.), R. Glasse (cox).

This proved a remarkably keen race, as the boats were almost level for most of the journey, but after passing the bridge, Brady's crew showed the greater stamina and just forged ahead almost at the post to win a thrilling race by only two feet.

Final

The final lay between Brady's crew and Curran's crew, (names above), and although this was the third race in which the former crew had to compete, they still showed that they had sufficient in reserve to be able to draw away from Curran's fine crew towards the finish and win a most exciting race by four feet.

NEW CHURCH BUILDING FUND

Programme For Opening Day Of The Bazaar

All arrangements for the Monster Bazaar and Grand Drawing of Prizes to be held in the Town Park, Cappoquin, from Sunday, June 21st to Monday June 29th, in aid of the above worthy object are now nearing completion, and nothing is being left undone by Mr. M. J. Sargent, the energetic Hon. Sec., and the members of the Organising Committee in Cappoquin to ensure that this great event will be carried out without a hitch. The period of the Bazaar is expected to provide a wonderful Carnival Week for Cappoquin, and all the inhabitants, rich and poor, are making every effort, regardless of cost, to have the town present a gay and festive appearance for the occasion.

The catering arrangements for the many thousands of visitors from all parts have been carefully attended to by the Committee, and ample provision has been made to cope with this important question in all its details.

The spacious Town Park has been specially prepared, and almost transformed beyond recognition, and will afford ample accommodation for all who will visit the Bazaar during the week.

The Bazaar will be formally opened at 3.30 p.m. (S.T.) on Sunday afternoon, June 21st, but owing to its having to attend to other important duties in Waterford on that day, His Lordship, Most Rev. Dr. Kinane, Bishop of Waterford, will be unavoidably precluded from performing the opening ceremony.

This ceremony will, therefore, be performed by the Most Rev. Dr. McGrath, Bishop of Menevia, Wales, who is a past student of Mount Melleray Seminary, and he will be assisted by the Right Rev. Dom Celsus O'Connell, Lord Abbot of Mount Melleray, while several distinguished visiting Prelates and other dignitaries of the Catholic Church, as well as Representatives of the State and many Public Bodies, will also be present.

After the opening ceremony there will be a grand Celebrity Concert at 5 o'clock in which many celebrated artists from Dublin, Cork, Waterford, Loughgan, Tallow and other places will take part, while a specially trained Choral Class of the students of Mount Melleray Seminary will also contribute a number of select and high-class items.

At 7.30 on that evening there will be a grand Gymnastic Display with Horizontal and Parallel Bars, Mace Marches with Lances and Banners, and special Tableaux by 100 of the students of Mount Melleray Seminary under the direction of Professor James Frang, P. & R. T. Inst. (1st Class), while the Thomas Kent Pipers Band, Fermoy, in their picturesque uniforms will perform a special selection of Mace music, Counter Marches and other attractive items.

Amusements and Side-Shows of every kind will be in progress on the grounds after this, together with Fancy Stalls and countless other attractions, and at 10.30 there will be a Grand Drawing for several valuable prizes, for which tickets can be purchased on the grounds for a nominal sum. This is but a synopsis of the programme for the opening day, but the full programme for the week will appear next week.

From the above it can be seen what a great day's amusement and entertainment are in store for all on Sunday, 21st June, so that apart from helping the New Church Building Fund, those who will be privileged to be present on that day will be fully rewarded for participating in the opening ceremony of this Monster Bazaar.

DUNGARVAN CARNIVAL

At a meeting of the above Committee held in the Town Hall, on Wednesday night, Mr. M. Morrissey, Chairman U.D.C., presided. A letter was read from the Children's Health Committee requesting that as their funds were exhausted the Carnival should be held again this year. The Chairman stated that last year the Committee had provided 40,000 free meals for the poor children of the town. This was only made possible through the money that had been raised by the Carnival Committee last year, and unless the Carnival was held the number of meals supplied would have to be seriously curtailed.

Apart from the worthy object for which the Carnival was being run, it also is a definite advantage to the town.

It was unanimously decided to hold the Carnival from July 9th to July 10th. Dates of Fancy Dress Parades and all other particulars were left over to a meeting to be held during the week.

The Hon. Sec. was instructed to ascertain in the meantime the cost of getting "The Globe of Death," the "40ft. dive into a ft. square tank," at present in Limerick. The Committee decided to offer a prize of £3 3s. for the most novel suggestion suitable for the Carnival. Suggestions must be practical and must have reasonable prospects of being money makers whilst at the same time offering the public value for their money.

MARRIAGE ORDER

REMARKABLE EVIDENCE

Reception With Hatchet

At Tipperary District Court this week an unusual case was heard when three brothers named O'Gorman, were charged with attempting to compel John Roche, aged 27 years, Ballyrista, to marry his sister Josephine O'Gorman.

Mr. O'Connor, State Solicitor, said that that brothers were caught red-handed by the Guards when taking Roche away. Roche stated that he worked in the local creamery and lived alone with his mother. He had unfriendly conversations with Josephine O'Gorman in March and her brothers first came into the matter in May. On May 8th, about 12 o'clock at night, there was a knock at the door and his mother asked who was there. A voice asked "Is John inside?" and she said "No; he is gone away. Witness, who was inside at the time heard people moving around the house. About six o'clock in the morning they came to the house again and asked had witness come, and his mother replied, "He might be at the creamery." A voice answered "He is not at the creamery, and he never again will be at the creamery." Witness did not go to the creamery that day but stayed at home. He had the door locked and he was afraid to go out. In the evening, about three o'clock, some one called and asked was he inside. His mother said he was not, and the person outside said he never again would stir out. Witness did not go to the creamery for about a fortnight. On the 29th May, when he was working in the creamery with the door bolted, he saw the O'Gorman brothers outside. They knocked, and witness went out through another door and went home.

That night, about ten o'clock, when he was in bed, there was heavy banging at the door, so he dressed himself and came down to the kitchen. He said he would split the first man who came in. The banging on the door continued, and eventually it was broken in and accused entered and told him to come out. He went with them because he was afraid, and they took him first to their own house and from there on towards Pallas, where they were met by Maher and taken to the barracks.

In reply to Mr. Maher, s.e.r., for the accused, witness said he had been keeping company with Josephine O'Gorman for five or six years, but there never was any question of his marrying her. The accused took him away to make him marry Josephine.

In reply to the Justice, witness said that no arrangements for the marriage had been made with him.

Mr. Maher—As a matter of fact you were the only person who showed inclination to assault. You had a hatchet in your hand?—I had.

And you said you would split the skull of the first man that touched you?—Yes. None of these men rough-handled you at all?—No.

Mrs. Mary Roche, mother of John Roche, also described the visit of the men, and said when the men took her son away she went to Emyl and reported the matter.

Mr. Maher—You did all you could to protect him?—Yes.

Did they ever threaten to kill him?—Yes.

When?—On the first morning.

Did you know who was outside the house that first morning?—I didn't see them.

Mr. Maher explained certain features of the case and pleaded for leniency for the accused.

Mr. O'Connor admitted that the merits of the case were against him, but pointed out that the accused showed determination to carry out their intentions.

The Justice extracted a promise from the accused not to interfere with Roche again. While seeing their point of view, he said, he could not sympathise with them more than it was possible to sympathise with anyone who had taken the law into his own hands. He adjourned the case for three months.

BREAD PRICE—

A Bread Bill to fix the price of bread is to be introduced in the Dail at once. Drastic action is to be taken against persons found profiteering.

URBAN COUNCIL WORKMEN'S WAGES

8/- A WEEK INCREASE IN CARRICK-ON-SUIR

DUNGARVAN QUOTED

At the June monthly meeting of Carrick-on-Suir Urban Council, Mr. O'Driscoll, Chairman, presiding, the Council unanimously agreed to a proposal by Mr. J. Norris, seconded by Mr. T. Murphy, to increase the wages of the Council's Workmen from 45/- to 48/- a week for a 48 hour week.

In reply to a query the Clerk said figures that had been supplied to him by the L. G. Department showed that wages paid to workmen by Dungarvan Council was 40/- a week and by Clonmel Council 45/- a week.

Mr. Norris—I understand that 50/- a week is the wages in Clonmel.

Clerk—Cashel is given here as 30/- a week.

Mr. Lonergan (Town Surveyor) said Cashel scavenging is done by contract.

Mr. Norris said the wages paid to workmen by Urban Councils is determined by the class of men in Council. If there are men in the Council who believe in paying a decent wage, a decent wage will be paid, and furthermore, if the men's organisation in town is strong, a decent wage will be secured for them. A wage should not be merely a living wage, but should be sufficient to provide for a decent standard of living.

Mr. Murphy agreed with Mr. Norris. A point was raised re a letter sent some time ago by the L.G. Department that the Council's wages should approximate as nearly as possible to the standard wage paid in the town.

The Chairman said the Council would have to bear that point in mind. Personally he had always been in favour of paying a decent wage and providing men with a decent standard of living.

Mr. Norris said during recent years men's wages had been gradually cut down from 54/- to 45/- a week.

Chairman—I think we are unanimous in agreeing to pay our workmen 48/- a week for a 48 hour week.

CARRICK-ON-SUIR PILGRIMAGE TO KNOCK SHRINE

Arrangements have been made in Carrick-on-Suir for the Pilgrimage to Knock Shrine of the Blessed Virgin, Co. Mayo, on Sunday August 9th. Much interest is taken in the pilgrimage in the town. The Railway Company has arranged for low return fare of 9/6 from Carrick and provision for meals on train.

CAPPOQUIN DISTRICT COURT.

Supt. Quinlan, Lismore, summoned Patrick Guiry, Newcastle, Co. Tipperary, for dangerously driving a motor lorry near Cappoquin, on December 11th.

Mr. James O'Reilly, solr., Clonmel, defended.

John Browne, farmer, Tournaraben, Melleray, examined by the Supt., stated that at about 6.30 o'clock on the evening of December 11th., he was driving two cows along the road from his own place to William O'Donoghue's place at Crowhill. He suddenly saw the light of some car coming against him, and told the boy who was with him about it.

A motor lorry then came quickly around the bend of the road and knocked down one of the cows, which was so badly injured that he had to get her destroyed by Sgt. Dalton, Cappoquin, later that night.

The lorry was driven by the defendant and the cow got wedged under the lorry.

Cross-examined by Mr. O'Reilly—Witness denied that it was a foggy night at the time, but there was a fog over the mountain a week afterwards. Where the accident happened was on a narrow mountain road, and he admitted that the cow had turned out of the dyke and had got to the middle of the road when the lorry ran into her and knocked her down.

Mr. O'Reilly—Didn't we pay you decently for the loss of this Kerry cow when the Insurance Co. paid you £9 10s. od. ? Witness—Oh, it was not "too terrible" (laughter).

Patk. O'Brien, aged 16 years, stated that he was with Browne on the occasion he being in front of the cows and Browne behind them. The two cows were being driven along the side of the road when one of them started to go across to the other side, but stood in the centre of the road when the lorry came around the bend and knocked her down.

Sgt. C. Dalton, Cappoquin, said he received a report of the accident about 10 o'clock that night and immediately visited the scene. The road was 16 ft. wide at the point of contact, and he found particles of broken glass scattered about the road. On examining the lorry he found traces of black cow-hair adhering to the running-board, the exhaust pipe and other parts of the vehicle.

The cow was so badly injured that he had to destroy her at Browne's request.

Replying to Mr. O'Reilly, he said the defendant told him that the animal had got so firmly wedged under the lorry that he had to drive the lorry over her in order to get clear.

Patk. Guiry, defendant, was then examined by Mr. O'Reilly, and stated that there was a heavy mist or fog over the mountain that night, which threw the light of his headlights back against the lorry so that he was travelling slowly in third gear. He saw no obstruction until the cow ran right across the road and stood in front of the lorry and he had no opportunity of avoiding hitting her. She got so firmly wedged under the lorry that when he tried to back the lorry he could not do so and had to drive it clean over her in order to get clear.

Cross-examined by the Supt. he said he had already struck the cow before he could realise what had happened.

Browne was re-called by the Justice, and having been further questioned, the Justice said he was satisfied the accident was unavoidable, and dismissed the case.

Breach Of The Fishery Laws

Mr. Thos. Drohan, Sec., Fishery Conservators, Mallow, prosecuted four men named Patk. Coleman, James Guiry, Thos. Ahearne, and John Murray, all residing at Dromore, Villierstown, for illegally fishing for salmon on the river Blackwater during the weekly close season on Saturday night, March, 7th.

Mr. J. L. Keane, solr., Youghal, appeared for the Conservators, and Mr. J. W. O'Gorman, solr., Lismore, appeared for the four defendants.

Mr. Keane explained that the weekly close season extended from 6 o'clock on Saturday morning until 6 o'clock on Monday morning, and if he satisfied the Court that the defendants were guilty of the charge preferred against them he should ask that the statutory penalty be imposed in each case, which was a fine of not less than £10 or more than £50.

Guard Kierman, Villierstown, examined by Mr. Keane, stated that he was on special fishing duty on Saturday night March, 7th, accompanied by Guard J. Harte, Villierstown. They were in ambush near the river bank at Dromore at 9.25, and witness saw four coats in the river in fishing formation, with two men in each coat—the full fishing crew.

He then noticed some signals from lamps flashing from the opposite bank of the river, and two of the coats then pulled over to the opposite side and the four men in them got out. The other two coats made for the bank where he was in ambush and Coleman and Guiry, two of the defendants, came ashore, the other two also landing near them. He saw Coleman carrying a bag out of the coat and when he and Guard Harte approached the men, Coleman dropped the bag which he found to contain one salmon.

Guiry had an empty bag, and when asked to account for the salmon in the other bag, Coleman denied all knowledge of it, and also denied that he had been fishing that night. With the exception of Ahearne, all the defendants wore oilskins that night and appeared to be in full fishing rig.

Cross-examined by Mr. O'Gorman, witness could not say if Murray was fishing that night, but if Murray said he wasn't witness would not believe him.

He agreed that Murray had no dirty marks on his boots, like the others, but he denied that he used the remark, "Tis doubtful about Murray." He did not see any men running away that night, neither did he hear Murray say to Guard Harte, "Why didn't you hunt the other men who ran away."

Replying to further questions, witness said he had the four men under observation from the time they got out of the coats until he accosted them, except for a short space of time while they were passing Ronayne's house, but he did not think it was possible that four other men could have come out of Ronayne's house during that brief period and taken the places of the first four men he was watching.

Murray was wearing oilskins and his legs were slightly splashed with water, but Ahearne wore no oils, but his boots were splashed with fresh mud.

Guard Harte, Villierstown, gave corroborative evidence about seeing the four coats, fully manned, fishing on the river, and also seeing signals being flashed from the opposite bank, as if from a flash lamp.

When two of the coats then went to the opposite side, the other two came to their side and he then saw the four defendants coming ashore. Coleman was carrying the bag, which was later found to contain a salmon.

Cross-examined by Mr. O'Gorman—Murray and Ahearne were some distance away from Coleman and Guiry, and they all denied having been fishing that night.

Maurice O'Keefe, water bailiff, Youghal, said that he found a salmon concealed in a bag, and in his opinion the salmon had been killed within four hours.

Replying to Mr. O'Gorman, he denied that it was a stale salmon, as it was later sold to Mrs. Hanney, Fish Dealer, Villierstown.

Wm. Ahearne, and Patk. Hurin, water bailiffs, having also been examined, Mr. Keane said that closed his case.

The Defence

Mr. O'Gorman then examined John Murray, who swore that he and Thos. Ahearne, were only going into Ronayne's house that night when the two Guards met them. It would have been impossible for the Guards to have seen him coming out of a cot that night.

The Justice—Why ? Defendant—Because I didn't come out of any cot, sir.

The Justice—Well, that is an answer. Defendant added that he had no knowledge about Guiry or Coleman that night. Defendant having been cross-examined by Mr. Keane, James Guiry stated that he had been fishing on that night, but none of the other three defendants was with him.

Cross-examined by Mr. Keane—There were three other men with him, but he would not say who they were.

The Justice—I can draw my own conclusion from that answer.

Thos. Ahearne, admitted that he was fishing that night, but not with Guiry. Patk. Coleman said he was not fishing at all that night, and denied having any bag or salmon with him. He knew nothing whatever about the bag or the salmon, as he had only gone down to Ronayne's about his cot, and he was to have met Wm. Guiry there, but he didn't turn up.

The two Guards were re-called by the Justice at this stage, and adhered to their original statement about seeing Coleman carrying the bag in which the salmon was found, Guard Harte emphatically stating that there was no possibility of doubt about their seeing Coleman with the bag, which he dropped when he saw them approaching.

The Justice then reviewed the evidence and commented on the fact that this case had been conducted by the defence with the same amount of vigour as if it had been a case of murder and that the four defendants were being tried for their lives.

No doubt Mr. O'Gorman, solr., had to carry out the instructions of his clients in the matter, but he (Justice) was now going to apply the principles of common sense to the cases, and deal with them accordingly. It had been admitted by three of the defendants that they had been fishing that night, but the fourth man, Coleman had so stoutly denied this, that he found it necessary to re-call the two Guards, and he was greatly impressed by the conclusive evidence which they had given, and which left no room for doubt that Coleman was equally guilty with the other three men, who had told the truth. He then convicted the four defendants and fined them £10 each, and also ordered them to pay the ordinary costs of Court.

Canteen Licence For Volunteers' Camp

Mr. J. L. Keane, solr., Youghal, applied on behalf of Mr. Daniel McCarthy, North Main street, Youghal, for a Canteen Licence for the Volunteers' Camp in Youghal during the Summer months, and there being no objection on the part of the Guards, the licence was granted.

Decreases For Rates

Mr. Wm. Connors, Rate Collector, obtained decrees against a number of defaulters for sums varying from £2 to £19 5s. 4d., the sum of 15/- costs being granted in each case.

Mr. J. W. O'Gorman, solr., Lismore, appeared for Mr. Connors, in all the cases.

A Travelling Musician In Trouble

Guard Moloney, Cappoquin, summoned an itinerant violin player named Patk. Carr, whose address was given as Ballynoe, Co. Cork, for drunkenness in Cappoquin on the evening of April, 1st and there was a further charge against defendant for having thrown a bottle at the Guard on the same occasion.

Guard Moloney stated that on the date in question, which was the evening of the Cappoquin Point-to-Point Races, he had occasion to remonstrate with a man who was playing the Three-Card-Trick game on the street, and the defendant Patk. Carr, who was drunk, resented witness's action and took sides with the other man. Some time later, as witness was moving the other man away, a large porter bottle was thrown from defendant's direction at him, and narrowly missed striking him on the head, as it grazed his cap and struck a young lad named Richard McCarthy and inflicted an ugly wound on the back of his head. Witness then arrested Carr for drunkenness, but he denied having thrown the bottle.

Richard McCarthy, Cappoquin, stated that he was standing with a crowd near the corner of the Square when a bottle was thrown at the Guard, but it missed him and struck witness on the back of the head.

Maurice Whelan, Cappoquin, said he saw the bottle thrown and striking McCarthy, but he could not say who threw it.

Guard Moloney said he had another witness summoned who was prepared to swear that he saw defendant actually throwing the bottle, but he was unfortunately, ill today and could not attend Court.

Defendant, who was in Court, denied that he threw any bottle, as he had no grievance against the Guard that evening and therefore had no reason for doing such a thing.

The Justice said he was glad to hear that there was at least one witness in Cappoquin who had the manliness and sufficient civic spirit to tell the Guard who threw the bottle, but as he was unable to present today, there was no direct evidence against the defendant, and he should, accordingly, dismiss this charge.

Speaking sternly to the defendant, the Justice said, it was a most cowardly and blackguardly act to throw a dangerous missile like this at anybody, and if he had conclusive evidence that it was he had thrown it he would have given him a long term in prison.

Defendant was then fined 10/- on the charge of drunkenness, but in response to his appeal, he was allowed a month for the payment of the amount.

Unlicensed Vehicles

Guard M. Kiernan, Villierstown, summoned John Conlan, Graigue, for using a horse and cart on March 18th, on which there was no lamp and no reflector. Defendant was fined 2/6 and 1/-.

Sergt. Dalton, Cappoquin, v. Michael Lyons, Graigavara, for having no lamp or reflector on pany trap. Fined 2/6 and 1/-.

Do. v. M. Sweeney, for similar offence. Fined 2/6 and 1/-.

Guard O'Mahony, Cappoquin, v. Jas. Corbett, Lismore, no light on bicycle. Cautioned.

In a second case of a similar nature against the same defendant at the suit of Guard Moloney, Cappoquin, defendant was fined 1/-.

Unlicensed Dogs

Guard Thorne, Cappoquin, summoned Thomas O'Donnell, Lyre, for having an unlicensed dog, and he was fined 2/6.

Sergt. Dalton, Cappoquin, v. Richard Ormond, Melleray, same offence. Defendant stated that the dog in question was not his property at all, as it belonged to Paddy Brien, a neighbour, and had only strayed in to his place.

The Justice was not convinced by this explanation and fined defendant 5/-.

Guard O'Mahony, Cappoquin, v. Jas. Callaghan, Knockanask, Melleray, same offence.

As defendant had since taken out a licence, the case was marked "withdrawn" by the Justice.

Guard Kierman, Villierstown, v. James Walsh, Ballymullala, for having four unlicensed dogs on April 8th. As it was stated that the licences had since been taken out, the Justice said he would only convict in the case of one dog, and fined defendant 5/-.

Cases Adjudged

Some cases were adjourned to the next Court on the application of Messrs. W. R. Hodnett, solr., Youghal, and A. R. Farrell, solr., Dungarvan, who were engaged for the defence, and the remaining cases were of no public interest.

CARNIVAL IN AID OF BALLYBRICKEN CHURCH

The chief attraction for holidaymakers in Waterford over Whit was the carnival in the Courthouse grounds, which was officially opened by his Lordship, Most Rev. Dr. Kinane, Lord Bishop of Waterford and Lismore, on Friday night last, and which is being run in aid of the Ballybricken new church building fund. Night after night huge crowds throng the carnival grounds.

While a good deal has already been written as to the carnival and its diversified and colourful character, little or nothing has been said of the small army of Trojan workers who have made it possible to bring to fruition their ambitious plans, which, since first they were laid, have been elaborated and improved upon with such painstaking discrimination, with such meticulous regard for detail, that they have taken the finished, definite and alluring shape which they have assumed.

From the outset optimism was the keynote, the dominant incentive which actuated them—an optimism, let it be said, that must infallibly find its source and outlet in the conception and development of a scheme having for its purpose an object greatly to be desired because of its inspiring, spiritual, and sacred significance. Heading this band of optimists has been the revered and indefatigable curate of Ballybricken, the Rev. M. J. Phelan, C.C., by whom the great project was conceived, fostered, and advanced until it reached the perfect state in which it is now to be found. Heated by the kind patronage so generously extended by the Lord Bishop of the Diocese, enthused by the practical encouragement he received from the former pastor, Right Rev. Dean Byrne, and the invaluable assistance and co-operation he continues to receive from the present Parish Priest, Ven. Archdeacon Kelleher, and his fellow-curates, Fr. Phelan has carried through his work in a manner that has stamped him as an ideal organiser of outstanding ability and foresight. The fête will continue for three weeks.

BLACKWATER FISHERIES.

At the usual monthly meeting of the No. 4 or Lismore Board of Fishery Conservators at Tallow on Wednesday, there attended—Messrs. J. Kennedy, Chairman, T. E. Montgomery, R. Gore Annesley, W. O'Brien, T. Murphy, J. Kent, W. O'Neill, W. Baldwin, A. H. Davison, E. P. Maxwell, E. E. Hey, Ion Villiers Stuart.

Messrs. T. Drohan, Clerk and Inspector and W. Buckley, Assistant Inspector, also attended.

Standing Orders

Before the business. Mr. Annesley asked whether there was a Standing Order as to the notice to be given convening a meeting.

The Chairman—As regards the ordinary meeting yes.

The Clerk said that to day's notice was fixed by statute.

Mr. Annesley said he referred to the special meeting. The notice was sent on the 19th and he got it on the 22nd.

The Chairman—In England. We are not accountable for that.

Mr. Annesley—Was there due notice given ?

The Clerk—Not to days notice. The meeting of the Conference would not allow that.

The Clerk then gave a detailed account of the facts leading up to the special meeting referred to.

The Chairman—Where is the use of going into all this ?

Mr. Annesley—I quite agree, but I submit that when Mr. Drohan got notice of the Conference it was the time to call the special meeting and appoint delegates to the Conference. I was asked to go last November.

The Chairman—There was no conference held then.

Mr. Annesley—I submit that the meeting in question was irregular and that due notice was not given.

The Chairman—All the notice possible was given and I got power to call a meeting.

Mr. Annesley—You power was to call a meeting to deal with the findings of the Commission.

Finally the Clerk read the minutes of the Special Meeting held at Tallow on the 22nd, May.

Mr. Maxwell—Since that meeting on Friday last a letter appeared in the Press from Major Longfield. I ask you to read it.

Replying to the Chairman it was said that the minutes were correct, and they were then signed.

Mr. Annesley—I should like to register a protest as to the irregularity of the meeting in question.

Mr. Maxwell pressed his suggestion.

The Chairman said that had all been threshed out before. If anybody wished they could have in notice of motion for the next meeting.

Mr. Annesley—This goes to prove the justice of one and the findings of the Fisheries Commission that Boards of Conservators should be done away with.

The Chairman—Go ahead with the business.

Mr. Maxwell—If my proposition will not be accepted I see no purpose in remaining at the meeting. I want to propose a resolution in connection with the special meeting.

The Chairman—Are the minutes correct ?

Mr. Maxwell—I have no objection to the minutes, but arising out of those minutes I wish to propose a motion.

Mr. Annesley—There is no good in our staying here. We can see that from the last meeting and this one that this Board should be dissolved.

Messrs. Maxwell, Annesley, Davison and Montgomery, thereupon arose and left the room.

As they were leaving the Chairman said—I hope the Board will live after you.

Mr. Annesley—Yes, and after you too.

Letter From Solicitors

The Clerk said he had received a letter from Messrs. Donegan, solrs., Cork, stating that they had been consulted by Major Longfield. As a law suit might take place as a result of the proceedings of the special meeting, they called on the Clerk to retain certain documents, which might be required in Court.

A letter was also read from Major Longfield dealing with the meeting referred to. He asked to have the letter inserted on the minutes.

It was unanimously decided not to deal with the matter pending further developments.

Unlet Fisheries

Mr. Kent made a strong complaint regarding the inability of riparian owners in the upper waters to let their fisheries. He suggested that the Board wasn't doing their duties properly. If disagreements prevailed amongst them, the business would be neglected.

The Chairman said the Board in his opinion had always endeavoured to carry out the business to the best of their abilities.

The Clerk said he had seen no disagreement upto the present worth mentioning. Several members said that the present season was one of the best for a long time.

Mr. Kent—Whatever the reason be, there is no letting of the fisheries in my locality.

A long and rambling discussion took place, during which some members expressed the opinion that the trouble was due largely to political disturbance and "scare-mongering."

Reviving The Cappoquin Band—Following our remarks about the collapse of our once fine Brass and Reed Band, we are glad to see that our worthy Pastor, Very Rev. T. Fitzgerald, has now taken the matter up, and arranged for a public meeting of the townspeople to be held for the purpose, amongst other matters, of having the Band revived so as to be able to perform at the great Bazaar to be opened here on Sunday June, 21st.

As the newly-formed String Band in Melleray will be heard for the first time in Cappoquin on that occasion, it would be a standing reproach to our town if our own Band should still be silent in such a worthy cause, but we are confident that the musical young men of Cappoquin will not suffer this stain to tarnish the fair name of "The Old Cornerstone."

RESPONSIBILITY OF BULL OWNERS

If a person walking along a public footpath in a field is attacked by a bull and injured, has he any redress against the owner of the animal? This is a question that is constantly being asked, so that the following legal opinion on the matter, obtained by the Essex County Farmers' Union, and reported to the last meeting of the Essex Committee, will be read with general interest.

"It is assumed by the law that an individual animal of a species which is normally harmless is not of a dangerous disposition, and it has been held that it is not in the ordinary nature of bulls to injure human beings. The owner of a bull is therefore under no liability if it attacks people crossing the field unless he knew it was savage.

"The fact that the owner of the field had erected a notice-board would probably weigh against him in an action brought by an injured person, for it would be argued that he would not have erected such a notice if he was satisfied that the bull was harmless.

"It is immaterial that the owner of the bull does not himself know it is dangerous, if such knowledge is in the possession of an employee who has charge of the animal. Bulls are notoriously of uncertain temper, and so the onus which is upon the injured person to prove knowledge is comparatively easily discharged.

"We should, therefore, advise a farmer not to keep a bull in a field through which runs a public footpath unless he is absolutely satisfied that it would not attack persons using the footpath."

"Farm, Field and Fireside."

MANY MID-DEISE GAELS—

Are bent on battering the trail to Fermoy on tomorrow (Sunday) to raise with the rest from the East and the West cheers of encouragement for the County selections in their conflicts with Clare.

THE

PASSING OF THE SENATE

Second Chamber Abolished

BY 74 Votes to 52 the Senate was abolished last week and the Governor-General having given the necessary approval the Second Chamber passed into oblivion.

Moving his motion to abolish the Senate, the President said that he saw on the Opposition benches two Deputies who when he tried to act reasonably on previous occasions, made the point that he did not include in a lengthy explanation of a matter that was already so fully explained that nobody could fail to understand it, and he wondered should he now enter into a long and formal speech to explain why it was that this motion should be passed by the House. The abolition of the Senate had been before the country for more than two years. It had been discussed by the Dail on several occasions in the Senate, and he felt that this debate was unlikely to reveal any new arguments on either side.

The Government decided to abolish the Senate because they regarded it in the existing circumstances as not being a help to the country, but rather a danger. They announced that opinion before the last general election. He himself said at that time that they intended, if returned to office, to abolish the Senate as at present constituted and if it was decided to retain a second legislative chamber, they intended to reduce its membership considerably.

Anyone who read that statement could not fail to understand that it was their intention to abolish the Senate as at present constituted. As Fianna Fail had promised so had they, when the occasion arose, which made it clear to them that further delay would be dangerous, brought in a Bill to abolish the Senate and so implement that promise.

It had been argued that while they got permission of the electorate to abolish the Senate as now constituted, they did not seek and did not obtain a mandate to abolish the Second Legislative Chamber. On a previous occasion he had pointed out that they had not gone to the people, and said that their minds were definitely made up as to whether there should be a Second Legislative Chamber, but they had clearly indicated that it was open to them either to abolish it altogether, or, if they retained it, to considerably reduce its membership.

In all the arguments put forward very few had been directed to the maintenance of the Senate as at present constituted. There was, perhaps, more general agreement on this than on any other political issue, and he was asking the Dail to pass final sentence and to send the Senate off.

"I say to those" continued the President, "who are not convinced that the country would be better served by a single Legislative Chamber than by two, that in doing so the door is not definitely closed" (Opposition laughter and shouts of "Thamas").

He had challenged the Opposition on previous occasions to indicate to them—because that was the real crux—how a Senate was to be composed which was reasonably worth setting up, which would be a help and not a danger, and he had seen no response whatever to that challenge except one, and that was that the Senate should be nominated. That was not the first time that proposition had been made.

There were Senates that were nominated and that continued to exist, but it must be obvious to anyone who thought that such a Senate could not in fact be a real safeguard, and that it was open to attack from so many directions that the moment it strove in a crisis to function properly, it was bound to fail if it opposed or seemed to oppose popular majority opinion. He did grant that if they were thinking in the abstract of forming an ideal Senate they would get nearer to the ideal by that method than by any other he had seen suggested, but if he were to come into the House with a concrete proposition that a second Chamber should be established by nomination, he doubted if many Deputies would vote for the proposition.

Not many of the Opposition had defended the existing Senate, but it was singular that none of them had come forward with a proposition. He renewed his challenge now. They had some hours that day to consider the matter and if the Opposition could put up any concrete proposition to consider them very closely. But they could not continue to leave this matter any longer in suspense. If they were to consider dispassionately the advisability of a second chamber they could do it better when the old Senate was gone.

The present Senate was composed at a time when in the nature of things only a certain part of the community was represented in it. It was suspect almost from the beginning, and its later actions proved that these suspicions were not ill-founded. It was felt by the majority that this Senate would be a definite danger whenever the people tried to advance to freedom which the people felt to be their right.

"I can only say this," continued the President, "that I hope in the autumn we will have a measure here outlining a new Constitution. Whether that Constitution is to be based on the principle of a single Chamber or a Second Chamber, will depend on this fact—whether it is possible to devise a Second Chamber which can be of value and not of danger. I have not myself, and I have told the House my opinion about the matter, been able to devise a really satisfactory Second Chamber, one that I think would be worth while putting into a Constitution.

I have had many suggestions put before me, had many of them examined, and the challenge which I issued still holds. If it can be shown how we can constitute practically a Senate which will be of value, then certainly we will give such a proposition the most careful consideration. If it cannot then the constitution will be introduced as a single chamber legislature. I have indicated, so far as I am concerned, that hankering after a second chamber which most of us have mainly because we visualise that ideal state which cannot be attained in practice, and which in my opinion has not so far been approximated to in practice.

He believed it would be extremely difficult to get agreement inside any party concerning the constitution of a new Senate, but somehow he thought it should be possible, and all the arguments put forward from the opposite side indicated their belief that some such Senate could be constituted, and that having been constituted it would function.

They were not developed in the sense here that they could have a Second Chamber on a vocational basis. He did not think they would get a satisfactory vocational representation with the small number he had in mind. If there were to be co-ordinating powers, the Second Chamber must be subordinate to the representation in the Primary House. There was that system of opposing measures for political purposes, and the Opposition in the Dail had supposed it to be its duty to oppose. That was a very negative form of its duties, which should be to see that whatever measures are introduced and passed are in the interests of the people (Shouts of "Hear, hear" from the Opposition benches).

President de Valera went on to say that if the drag out in the Second Chamber were to be the same as in the Dail it would reproduce the same effect of political partisanship, and the same results would be produced. The duties of the Opposition, said President de Valera, are not necessarily to oppose. It might be to expedite and to improve, but it was taking a very strained and narrow partisan view to oppose.

Mr. Morrissey—Which you practised for years.

President de Valera said that in considering the question, not a single consideration had been given to its merits. A further difficulty in regard to a Chamber on a vocational basis was the danger that they might be constituting separate parts of a Legislature on different principles. At the moment it was wasteful and ridiculous to argue on this matter at all, because it had been argued upon, and the best thing generally to do would be to put it to the vote. (Opposition cries of "Hear, hear").

President de Valera said he was anxious that the question of the abolition of the existing Senate and the challenge that a Second Chamber was valuable should be carefully separated. The burden showing that a Senate could be constituted and how it was to function successfully, was upon those who held for the Two Chamber system, and not upon those who think that with proper modification a Single Chamber would work fairly well.

The Norwegian system was not a Two Chamber system at all, but a Single Chamber with a division for particular work, and final decision with the body as a whole. If they had a second Chamber that definitely thwarted the people's will, and the Dail were to continue to send up Bills and not bother about them, would it be worth the nation's while to set up such a body, unless it were shown it was definitely necessary.

Prof. O'Sullivan, at the outset, congratulated the President on his return to the Dail and his improvement from the ailment from which he suffered. The suggestion from the President that the matter should be put to the vote showed the conception of Parliamentary government by his Ministers, who would not answer questions or give information to the Dail. The Ministers for Finance and Industry and Commerce were lamentable failures in this regard, and were actually insolent to this Dail. Their actions illustrated what the new system of uni-cameral Government would be in practice. The President and his party thought would experience something quite irrelevant, though the experiences of the last few years in their own country was against them. The President's view appeared to be that this country was in such a unique position as to be able to escape the evils that elsewhere followed a uni-cameral system of Government. There was mention of the Federal system in the United States, with which the President had a certain amount of familiarity, but he seemed to have forgotten that there were some of these States in which there were not federal bodies. The President asked for an ideal Senate, but that was absurd, for they could not get an ideal second or primary Chamber. Recently they had from the Minister for Finance the very best lessons of the danger of a single-Chamber Government and a perfect example of dictatorship. It was not in countries that had aristocratic traditions but in the most democratic that the necessity of a second Chamber was demonstrated. It was ridiculous for the President to suggest that he put before the people the idea of a uni-cameral system of Government. His promise was to cut down the number of the Senate, but not to abolish it altogether. The Opposition had never set itself up to oppose, but to scrutinise and examine proposals put forward by the Government, and it was to that the President and Ministers objected. The President's conclusions for the abolition of the Senate had the same ground for abolishing of the Opposition. The whole development in the last couple of years was in that direction. The Government had kept to the letter of proportional representation, but taken good care to kill its spirit, and similarly they had treated democracy.

Mr. MacDermot said that the President had begun his speech by telling them that a new Constitution would be presented in the autumn. He (speaker) hoped that he would lift the curtain a little but further and tell them if that Constitution would be passed into law before the people of the country had an opportunity of giving their judgment on it at a general election. The President's speech had been a great deal more encouraging than any he had heard him make on the topic. Unless he was talking with his tongue in his cheek, the President was seriously considering the possibility of having a Second Chamber and was open to suggestions, in the next few months. He wished that the President would go to the length of appointing a committee or a commission to consider the subject and to make suggestions. Then he could believe that a serious, earnest effort was going to be made to devise the best possible Second Chamber for the country, he would almost be inclined to vote in favour of the proposition before the House. He was in favour of having a Second Chamber, but he never felt less easy on the subject than when listening to speeches in favour of a Second Chamber, because the greater part of the arguments that he had heard in favour of it seemed to be unsound.

The President did not suggest you could get an ideal one, but I suggested that the Opposition arguments were that an ideal Second Chamber could be got.

Mr. MacDermot said that the Dail had its faults, and so had the Senate, but the faults of both Houses should not be identical. Their characteristics should be different from each other. A Single Chamber could not be entirely representative of a nation, and they should aim at making the Government as representative as possible. Large numbers of individuals were cut off from entering politics altogether by reason of their inability to bear the expense of an election, or from their inability to enter a party machine. He was prepared to admit that the nominated Senate might not be the best possible Senate, and he suggested that it should be partly nominated and partly composed of men who would enter it ex-officio. The President's statement that he could not agree to a Second Chamber with large membership than 45 was infantile. The expense the President complained of could be eliminated by just giving the senators enough to cover their travelling expenses and loss of work for each day they attended.

STATE CONTROL OF VOLUNTARY HOSPITALS

Views of Most Rev. Dr. Kinane

The question of the State taking over control of voluntary hospitals and other relief-giving institutions in this country in the immediate future was referred to by Most Rev. Dr. Kinane, Lord Bishop of Waterford and Lismore, when he presided at the annual general meeting of the Waterford District Nursing Association. "I think, an Association like this serves a very important purpose, because it affords a great opportunity, and a great means of exercising Christian charity," said his Lordship, in a striking address, during the course of which he referred to the great work being done by the nurses for the relief of the poor.

"In these days," he continued, "when the State is multiplying its activities in so many directions, especially in providing medical relief and relief of other kinds for the poor, there is the danger that private effort in this respect would be altogether eliminated. I think, to my mind, it would be a great misfortune if such elimination takes place; not, indeed, that I object in any way to State help. On the contrary, I recognise fully its great importance and its value, and I recognise that it would be impossible to command schemes which are now deemed necessary without the assistance of the State. But, at the same time, I think that we must all admit that in the working of State schemes and State activities, there is a very small amount of exercising of real Christian charity. Most of us, I feel in contributing taxes which are necessary to finance these schemes are dominated by other than charitable motives, and then the administration of these State schemes tend to become mechanical and soulless, and to a large extent, a matter of business. It is for that reason that I should consider it a great misfortune if this State activity eliminated altogether private charitable Associations such as this, in which, of necessity, the principal motive of the members must be that great Christian virtue of fraternal love."

Remarking that there was no greater charity than to attend to the sick poor, and especially the aged poor, Dr. P. Purcell, Waterford, said the question of these voluntary institutions and Associations was very much alive at the present moment and he understood the position would come to the fore immediately in connection with the Waterford County and City Infirmary, which was, with another, the only entirely voluntary hospital in Ireland, and in connection with which efforts to have it amalgamated were being made. He thought the citizens of Waterford should awaken as soon as possible to the danger that lay in that direction. He had long experience of poor law institutions on both sides of the Irish Sea, and he agreed with his Lordship that they were soul-less institutions.

LISMORE NOTES

Lismore Race Committee--

At a special meeting of the above held at the Devonshire Hotel on Saturday, Mr. D. Noonan, presiding. A vote of sympathy was passed to the relatives of the late Mr. Owen W. Macken, and to Mr. J. Geary, on the death of his wife. The Chairman spoke of the great loss the committee sustained by Mr. Madden's death, and of his long and invaluable service towards making the annual Point-to-Point race one of the best meetings in Munster. He was always ever ready to give buoyant support to anything that proved beneficial to the town.

Lismore on Monday--

The bookies lost a small fortune in Lismore on Monday last. Every man, woman and child that ever placed a penny on a winner looked early to the booking office to get a straight win for their money on Green, Minstrel. Luckily enough the booking office was shut all day, and when it became known that Green Minstrel, formerly owned by Mr. George Heskin, Tallow was amongst the also-rans, the backers thought within themselves that the bookies were great sports after all.

DO WE WANT A SENATE—The man in the street does not care whether we have a Senate or not. He wants work; he wants money; he has the desire to live and knows he will be dead long enough. He is not concerned with the ghosts of the past or worrying over generations yet unborn. He wants to be happy while alive and have the price of ordinary enjoyments—enough to eat and drink to marry and rear his family decently and have them provided for. He is not concerned with politics or the fate of Brian Boru. He wants prosperity for all not for the few. Let us have that prosperity and no more talk.

IRISH LIBRARIES INTERESTING PAPER ON "NATIONAL CULTURE." By Mr. F. Murphy, B.A., Co. Librarian, Lismore

At a Conference of the Library Association of Ireland in Limerick, on Monday, a very interesting paper entitled "National Culture and Irish Libraries" by Mr. Fergus Murphy, B.A., Dip. in Lib., Co. Librarian for County Waterford, was in his unavoidable absence read by Miss Connolly, Co. Librarian, Wexford.

Mr. Murphy said that with the re-awakening of the national consciousness and the will to achieve national independence came a revival of interest in Irish art and literature and a desire to regain contact with the cultural past. The first and most serious obstacle encountered as they entered the more active and positive era of national reconstruction was that of language.

In Ireland the language suffered from a stunted growth, and consequently failed to keep pace with the development of other European languages. This, however, was a defect which time could remedy under normal circumstances, and which might disappear if and when Irish became once more the spoken language of the entire population.

The Irish library movement, in common with all other educational innovations, had been subjected to severe criticism, which it had refuted by proving its value as one of the most powerful factors in the cultural field.

They had been accused of exercising a denationalising influence upon readers, or at least of lack of cooperation in furthering the cause of national culture. The great majority of the books circulated by Irish libraries were written by English or American authors, representing the English or American civilisation and attitude towards life, and consequently were alien in outlook, unsympathetic towards Irish national, religious, and social ideals, and far removed from the characteristic mode of life and habits of thought of the majority of the Irish reading public.

Irish libraries were consequently compelled to draw upon the only available resources, and their activity in the struggle for the revival of Irish culture was necessarily circumscribed and limited by existing conditions. Irish libraries had to cater for a reading public, the great majority of whom were not sufficiently conversant with Irish to enable them to read it for pleasure or for the acquisition of general knowledge. As long as this state of things obtained they were obliged to have recourse to books written in English.

The chief preoccupation of Irish librarians was the provision of an adequate and varied stock of books in Irish to suit the requirements of all sections. If they failed always to achieve this object their failure was due to the lack of adequate funds and the insufficient supply and variety of Irish books as compared to the demand. On the whole, however, Irish libraries had for years been one of the most potent factors in helping the spread and revival of Irish.

As the use of Irish as a spoken language increased the necessity for a greater supply and variety of works in Irish would be urgently felt. Even at present they had reached the point where the demand exceeded the supply.

Regarding translations into Irish from other languages they would do well to venture further afield. Good contemporary novels in French, German, Italian, etc., should offer a wide field of choice to prospective translators.

The translation of mediocre English works, available to all in the original English, seemed to be a waste of energy. It would be much more useful if the time thus spent were devoted to the writing of original works in Irish.

In Anglo-Irish literature, and particularly in Anglo-Irish fiction, the effect and influences of alien education and culture are most apparent.

The success of Anglo-Irish literature depended on the enterprise of Irish publishers, the sympathy of Irish readers, and the co-operation of Irish Public Libraries.

CAPPOQUIN NOTES.

Following the Scratch Races on Whit Sunday afternoon, a grand dance was held under the Rowing Club's auspices on Sunday night and was attended by the same measure of success as had attended the aquatic fixture earlier in the day. The attendance exceeded all expectations. Special thanks being due to the large contingent of young ladies and gentlemen who travelled by bus and motor cars from Dungarvan. There was a good attendance from Cappoquin, while Lismore, Tallow, Cappagh, Villierstown, Aghish and other surrounding districts were also strongly represented.

During an interval Mr. Olden, Hon. Sec., Rowing Club presented a set of valuable prizes to the winning crew in the final of the Scratch Races held on Sunday afternoon.

Departure of Popular Sportsman—During the past week-end Mr. Bobby Bell, one of our most popular and respected sportsmen, took his departure from Cappoquin for the Co. Carlow to the great regret of his hosts of friends in this town and all the surrounding districts.

For the past 12 years Mr. Bell and his father had been responsible for the management of the farm and other agricultural interests of the Cappoquin Estate Company, of which Sir John Keane, Bart., is the Managing Director.

Mr. Bell was presented with a Wallet of notes by Mr. M. J. Sargent and a representative Committee on behalf of the Race Committee and the Cricket Club, while a further valuable presentation was made to him by a number of his friends in Lismore.

He has gone to take over the Management of the extensive property of Major Alexander, Milford, Co. Carlow, and he has carried with him from Cappoquin the best wishes of his countless friends.

G.A.A. NOTES & NOTIONS

By "CROTOG."

Last Sunday's games in Dungarvan call for little comment. Stradally swamped Avonmore in Senior Football though the score rather flattered the winners. The Western lads played well individually, but lacked team-sense and club spirit. Stradally's combination in attack was the vital winning factor. There is no doubt that they are playing superb football this year; they have infused method and precision into their forward tactics. They are preparing for the vital tie against Dungarvan with a quiet confidence. This is going to be a clash of football giants and though the Old Boro' often carry the bigger inter-county guys, they have doughty foes to subdue in the boys from the little seaside village.

Next Sunday's hurling teams are critically analysed below. Our Seniors, one and all, are class hurlers individually. Fermoy pitch will settle their expectations of their team-work and combination sense. Without question, it is a strong team and I venture to say one of the best that has ever represented the Decies. Our attack carries power and punch and supercharged as it is with shooting talent should develop into a prolific scoring machine. Our defence is probably our strongest sector, cool and steady under the hottest pressure. Unless Clare carries super-guns in attack our backs should come through with flying colours. Centre field we may not have it all our own way, but our pair are tough and experienced and should give a good account of themselves hereabouts. Our wing forwards should prove the deciding factor and with a steady service of the ball to the inside men I have no doubt but that this team will win and win well at that.

Our Minor Hurlers should show the seniors the way. They are a bunch of fiery young hurlers, and unless the Dalcaian lads are extra-hot, the boys of the Decies should register a comfortable victory.

Sunday's minors are—Sean O'Mahoney, Seamus Waters, Frank Sneyd, Richard Foley (P. H. Pearse's, Ferrybank), Andrew Lane, Michael Feeley, Patrick Moore, (St. Carthage's), Sean Moloney, Paul Lannon, and Sean Morrissey (Dungarvan), David Power (Portlawn), M. Condon, D. Hannigan (Mt. Sion), Alex. Casey (Ballytruckle), Sean O'Connor (Dungarvan). Reserves—Cooke and O'Mahoney (Mt. Sion), Foley, Healy and Ryan (St. Carthage's), Parkinson (Tamore), and L. Morrissey (Dungarvan).

The following are the Senior Hurling stalwarts who carry the full confidence of Waterford next Sunday in Fermoy—

"Bon" Ryan (Mount Sion) cultuire. "Bon" is the French for good, but though Bon might not be good for French he's great at the goal-keeping. Young and tough but cool as a cucumber and as resourceful as a fox.

John Keane, Mount Sion, a fine young defender. Sound and consistent will give the Clare attack little scope. Has a perfect understanding with his club mate in goal.

Paddy Duggan, also of Mount Sion, a rare back of the sturdy type—uses his head as well as his strength. A genius to cover up and frustrate flank attacks.

Johnny Fanning, Erin's Own, left back, has a few equals in Munster in this position. Tons of grit and stamina and a big clearance. His consistency is proverbial.

Mick Regan, Lismore, the most powerful back on the team. Oh! you're surprised that he is playing. Ah! well, Clare will be more so. He's trained to the ounce and hurling like a steam engine only with more steam. The keystone of a powerful defence which should smash up the fiercest Dalcaian attack.

Dick Ryan of Erin's Own, a sound back who is an adept at the soiling game. His hurling may not be exactly copy-book stuff, but he gets in a powerful lot of effective work.

"Connie" Ryan, Erin's Own, a brilliant defender who can rise to great heights when confronted with the big occasion. His easy going manner is deceptive; but when the ball comes along, the nonchalant disappears in a flash and many a surprised forward is left gasping at the tigerish swiftness which is Connie's trump card.

"Sonny" Curley (Con) of Tallow, the most improved back in training. Knows all the tricks of the "bottling up" game and exploits them to great purpose. Deadly on the ball, strikes with prodigious length and always to be found holding the breach.

"Fad" Brown of Erin's Own partners Tom Greaney of Dungarvan at mid-field. Both are seasoned warriors and though approaching the veteran stage are still full of hurling. Having trained in deadly earnest, they will field out as fit as the proverbial fiddle. "Fad" who, by the way, figured in several victorious Provincial games for Munster, is a brilliant striker and a live-wire forager, a born artist with the caman. The seepies say he is "going off" but on Sunday he will be "all out" to prove that he is still the greatest centre-field stylist in Munster. If fault he has, it is impetuosity. Admittedly, he was rather prone to play himself to a standstill in the early stages of a game, but experience will have taught him that it is at the finish the greatest efforts have the most telling effect. Tom Greaney is the indefatigable worker, rugged, solid and tireless. May have lost some of his old speed, but certainly none of his dash. His determination and experience should enable Waterford to hold their own under "the fall of the ball."

Christy Moylan, Dungarvan, will make the home attack hum in his new role of centre-forward. This has been the weak spot for a long time in our Senior Hurling sides. Christy is the ideal type for this tough job; great strength and speed allied to hurling science of a high order supported by bull-dog tenacity are the outstanding characteristics of this splendid battler.

Willie Barron, also hailing from the Old Boro' partners Christy on the right wing. Fast, elusive with glorious ball control and uncanny direction, this young winger shone against Dublin. Will be up against some serious work next Sunday but that don't upset him. The more momentous the occasion, the better he huris. If he does not keep the score-board soaring in Fermoy, I'll be sorely disappointed.

"Bill" Lynch, of P. H. Pearse's Club, need only reproduce the form shown against Limerick recently to get well into the scoring headlines. Can sprint, tackle, shoot, and stay; what more do you want? His Kilkenny experiences will be a telling factor in keeping the Clare defence on edge. If he sees enough of the ball the edge. If he sees plenty of the net under and over, "Pa" Sheehan, the Tallow sharp-shooter, is only a handful you say; but what a "handful" he is, many a National League back who tried to mark him has good reason to know. Cuts with rare length and accuracy from the side-line and can always be relied on to play a sound game forward.

John Halpin of Gleann-na-h-Uidhre fills the right-forward berth. Strong as a lion and fighting fit, his clashes with J. J. Doyle should provide hurling fire-works worth going a long way to see. My money goes on the Nire man and he will give value for every penny of it. If the Clare net does not hear from him, hard and often, then I am a Dutchman and not a hurling scribbler.

"Sonny" Wyse of Erin's Own, should be much at home in his favourite left corner. Has played and won with Munster in this position. Combining craft with speed, he can weave and dribble the sliotar through the best defence; good sense of position, centres well and shoots accurately. Though occasionally inclined to over-use the ball, all his forward play bears the mark of the schemer who seeks to out-wit as well as to out-play the defence.

"Locky" Byrne, of P. H. Pearse's Club and of Kilkenny All-Ireland fame, will be the spear-head of the Waterford attack. Don't believe the scare paragraphs of the daily Press and the other "hot air" wholesalers; "Locky" is not playing for Kilkenny. That "declaration" of which the critics make so much play is invalid. Anyhow you'll see him in action in Fermoy, so that's that.

Among the reserves are hurlers of the prowess of Charlie Ware, ex-Interprovincial full-back and Mick Wyse of Erin's Own, Horan and Kehoe of Mt. Sion, "Dec" Goode of Dungarvan, Daly of Ballylin and Kinsella of Ferrybank.

UNOFFICIAL CLUBS—

A well-known cycling veteran of the Delse some time ago mourned the fact that young cyclists were not joining clubs as in olden days. Maybe not, but as far as we can see the majority belong to unofficial clubs. In Mid-Delse district the mode of the moment seems to be for a batch of cyclists to meet at a certain corner at a given time on a Saturday or Sunday. They then set off together. Every corner a "club" appears to be the order nowadays. Though this does not have the official ring about it we are sure the cycling is none the less enjoyable.

MINISTER FOR LANDS

Mr. Aiken To Succeed Mr. Connolly.

EX-SENATORS' FUTURE

When the Dail meets tomorrow Mr. de Valera will ask the House to give assent to the nomination of Mr. Frank Aiken, Minister for Defence, as Minister for Lands.

The vacancy in the Ministry for Lands has been caused by the abolition of the Senate, of which the Minister, Mr. Joseph Connolly, was a member. It is stated that Mr. Connolly's services will be transferred to a high post on a semi-Government controlled Board.

With the transfer of Mr. Aiken from the Ministry of Defence a re-shuffling of the Cabinet becomes necessary. There is much speculation as to the nature of the changes to be made, but except for the introduction of one new Minister, possibly a Parliamentary Secretary, no real changes are likely in the personnel of the Cabinet.

The Chairman—If you wish I will propose—and save this Council a lot of responsibility—that the houses be given to them altogether. There are 17 or 18 weeks arrears due in some cases.

Mr. Broderick—They were put there against their wills, and a rent fixed that they could not pay, viz., 3/6. Now they are asked to pay 4/- or be evicted.

Mr. Daly—Out of the 20 notified only 3 have made an offer. What would happen if they go to Court?

The Clerk—If brought to Court you won't get them out. There is no place to put them.

The Chairman said he believed some of those tenants could pay.

After further discussion, the matter was adjourned to next meeting.

Old Railway Coaches The Clerk read a letter from Messrs. Hodnett, Council's solicitors, stating they had received Council's opinion regarding the removal of the old railway coaches put up at the rear of the Strand Villas and enclosing notices to be signed and form of resolution to be adopted.

Mr. Power said he was nothing wrong about those wagons. What about the people living in the sheds?

Mr. Lynch agreed.

The Chairman—The Council has decided to have those coaches removed and that ends the matter.

Mr. Lynch proposed that they take no action.

The Chairman—I won't accept any proposition of the kind. The Council has long ago decided to proceed against the persons who put those coaches there. Mr. Lynch, who had sat in the chair ought know the procedure.

Mr. Ahern proposed that they sign the notices and pass the resolution submitted by their solicitors. That matters had been discussed several times during the past year.

This was seconded by Mr. Farrell and passed.

Green Park Wall The Town Surveyor, submitted recommendations for the lowering of the Green Park Wall, the erection of railing thereon, etc., the estimate for the work being £210.

Mr. Broderick suggested that the Engineer be instructed to examine the wooden promenade in the Park.

Mr. Forrester said that was a matter of urgency.

The Chairman said the Engineer might prepare a plan, etc., to replace the present promenade by a concrete structure.

Mr. Farrell said that steps should be taken to procure a loan to carry out the work.

Mr. Broderick dissented. It was scandalous to expend money on the wall as proposed in view of the condition of the promenade.

The Chairman said those in favour of the project were animated only by a desire to improve and beautify the entrance to the town and he saw nothing scandalous in their action. The promenade would be attended to.

Mr. Broderick was in favour of the project years ago.

After further discussion it was decided to go on with the work, a loan to be procured and to instruct the Engineer to examine and report on the condition of the promenade.

Mr. Power said that something should be done to improve Dunne's Park. It was largely used by children and they deserved some consideration.

It was decided to have the Town Surveyor examine the place.

WEDDING—At St. Joseph's Church, Glashule, Co. Dublin, on Whit-Monday, Mr. M. Walsh, eldest son of Mr. Maurice Walsh, Stillorgan Park, Co. Dublin, the well-known author, and Miss M. O'Kiersey, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sean O'Kiersey, Glasnagary, do. were married by the Rev. M. O'Shea, C.C., assisted by Rev. Fr. M. Loughlin, S.J. The bridesmaids were Misses N. Walsh and O. Sheehan, and the best man Mr. W. Forrester.

KILMACKTHOMAS NEWS.

DEATH—Mr. Matthew Broderick passed away at his home, Bellahassan, Kilmackthomas, on Tuesday of last week. A fine type of an older generation of Kilmackthomas parishioners, Mr. Broderick was always physically and mentally robust, and had reached the octogenarian span. The deceased in his day was an outstanding player at a game with bowls. All the neighbours followed the remains to the Parish Church, Kilmackthomas, on Wednesday week. Requiem Masses for his soul were celebrated by Fr. Kehoe, P.P., and Fr. Harty, C.C. on the following morning, and the burial took place later in the Churchyard.

WOODWORK—Courses of instruction in the carpentry craft have been given on three evenings of each week since September last to a full complement of students at Kilmackthomas by Mr. D. Lynch, the highly efficient and painstaking instructor to the County Vocational Education Committee. The work performed by the classes here is certainly a credit to all concerned. Mr. Lynch will conclude his session at this centre at the end of the present month, and his local pupils were pleased to learn that he is to return next September to continue his valuable courses as heretofore—he having already obtained the sanction of his Committee to this arrangement.

GIRL GUIDES—In the presence of a very large congregation at the Parish Church, Stradbally, Very Rev. John Warren, P.P., Kilsheelan, assisted by Very Rev. Patrick O'Neill, P.P., Stradbally; Rev. Patrick O'Farrell, C.C., do., and Rev. Thomas O'Shea, C.C., Ballynaneen, performed the solemn ceremony of the investiture of the following young ladies into the local branch of the Catholic Girl Guides of Ireland—Misses Mary Galvin, Eily Flynn, Ita O'Reilly, Bridget Foley, Mary Curran, Mary O'Meara, Kathleen McKeon, Margaret O'Brien, Philomena Frawley, Annie Foley, Mary Flynn, and Bridget Dunford, all of whom are pupils of the Mercy Convent schools, Stradbally. A company of Catholic Boy Scouts was formed in Stradbally some few months since.

OLD-FASHIONED BIKES—The Rev. Canon Burkitt, M.A., Stradbally, who is a septuagenarian, is probably the oldest person in the world now using a "penny-farthing" bicycle. A wonderfully active man for his years, Canon Burkitt loves to take a spin on his old-fashioned vehicle, of which he is pardonably proud. Canon Burkitt is exceedingly popular amongst all classes and creeds in his district. He is a brother of the Venerable Archdeacon Burkitt, M.A., The Rectory, Cappoquin. He is the only owner and user of a "penny-farthing" machine in Mid-Deise today.

We Put It To You (Serious And Not)—That the final "45" Card Drive and Cellidhe of the season, under the aegis of the Ballylaneen Parochial Committee, was held on Sunday night last, and proved a pronounced success from every standpoint.

That similar forms of entertainment at Newtown Hall on the same night (in aid of the local parochial debt) were splendidly supported and thoroughly enjoyed—That Messrs. P. Morrissey and J. Hanly (Kilmackthomas), P. and J. Fahy (Kilmackthomas), and M. Power and A. N. Other (Dungarvan), won their respective rubbers in the initial round of the local "doubles" Tourney at Stradbally Handball Court on last Sunday evening.

That the games were witnessed and appreciated by a large and enthusiastic crowd.

That the Stradbally senior football team's triumph at Dungarvan on the 31st ult., was hailed with delight throughout the whole parish.

That the "Whit" weather was very unpleasant for holidaymakers.

That the daughters of Kilbrien are again maddened with the moth menace.

That what Annetstown Anne moans as a most attractive way of treating satin for the evening is a wide hand of shirring across from one shoulder to waist, banner fashion.

That the expression "the twiggid it" is not peculiar to Portlaoise.

That the landladies of all our watering-places are usually very confiding as to their romantic pasts, and take a melancholy pleasure in giving intimate descriptions of their deceased partner (they usually have a deceased partner), who was a model mate if it hadn't been for a partiality for "pints" and "half-wans."

AND—That the belles of Bohadoun didn't half-mind" the thunder and lightning and heavy showers of the past few days.

OVER THE PHONE—The other evening (writes a rightly respected rate-paying resident of the Rathgormack region) I smoked a cigarette with a friend—over the telephone! When I rang him up from the Carrick-on-Suir P.O., he knew we'd probably chat for some time; therefore he produced cigarettes—he being in his office in Clonmel I couldn't see him, of course—and lit one. As an afterthought he asked me would I have one! I thanked him, but said I'd rather have one of my own. Forthwith I lit up, too. We then settled down together for a "yarn" in the congenial atmosphere of tobacco smoke. The "call" cost me 3/9 but it was jolly well worth it.

CERTAINLY—The gorseons and collets of Kilmackthomas and the surrounding districts are well off in more ways than one. They allowed the fullest elasticity in the matrimonial race, and if they encounter handicaps these cannot be traced to either rigid domestic authority or to interference from outside. As for Mrs. Grundy, she is virtually non-existent. How different it must be in Athens where Romeo and Juliet are slaves to home restrictions, as well as to

DEISE DOINGS

CHRONICLED AND CRITICISED

By - CARRIG NA GAEDHEAL (Specially Contributed.)

Mr. Liam Rafis—Inscribed his Name On The Roll Of Fame... Mr. Liam Rafis, Borough Treasurer, Waterford Corporation, who signed the 1916 roll of Honour and subsequently participated in the Easter Week Heroes Parade in Dublin on May 24th is a well-known figure in Irish-Ireland circles in the Deise for thirty years. It is interesting to note that he had not met his erstwhile comrades in arms for the past twenty years due to the fact that he was dismissed from his very responsible position (Chief Clerk Great Southern Railways Loco Department, Dublin) for taking part in the Rising of Easter 1916. Re-instated after some time through the intervention of the late Mr. William Martin... Mr. Rafis was reduced and sent home, on the down grade, presumably to his native Waterford. Mr. Rafis fought in Westland Row station and in Boland's Mills under the command of President de Valera. He was a very trusted man in the Irish Volunteer organisation, being Secretary to The O'Rahilly's company of volunteers; and had intimate inside knowledge of all projected military movements.

"Did Not Hope To See Him Alive"—Later days saw Mr. Rafis in Limerick when all the boys were scattered, but not "bated". He was doing temporary duty in the Great Southern Railway offices in that city when the famous East Clare Election was in progress. Taking an evening off he travelled to Ennis to hear the result of the 16th Parliamentary tussle. The count was held in the Ennis Town Hall where hundreds of people assembled. Mr. Rafis slipped into the Town Hall and was quickly lost in the crowd (as he thought himself) when President de Valera spotted him and came directly towards him and extending a hearty greeting and a warm handshake said: "I did not hope to see you alive: the last I saw of you was when we parted in Westland Row Station."

Doctor Val Coghlan—Dr. Val Coghlan, D.P.H., has been appointed by the Waterford Corporation as substitute for Dr. M. M. J. Maguire, M.S.O.H., during his annual holiday period. Dr. Coghlan has been doing temporary duty in the Kilmacthomas Dispensary district for some months pending the appointment of a permanent Dispensary doctor. I understand that he has given complete satisfaction in looking after the needs of the sick poor in that area. Dr. Coghlan is one of our most highly qualified Deise doctors holding the Diploma of Public Health (with honours) as well as many other high medical degrees. By the way Dr. Coghlan is the only medical practitioner in Waterford city who possesses the necessary qualifications to fill the position of temporary M.S.O.H.

One Of The Ablest L.G. Officials In The Saorstát—In a previous paragraph I referred to Mr. Liam Rafis's prowess as a fighting man. He has filled the honourable position of Borough Treasurer of the Waterford Corporation with distinction for sixteen years and is regarded as one of the ablest Local Government officials in the Saorstát today. He is the author of two very interesting and practical pamphlets—"Local Government Systems Compared" and "A Pension Scheme For Employees of Local Authorities." The latter treatise should form the basis (or nucleus) of any Bill which the Parliamentary draughtsmen may be called upon to draft when the Minister for Local Government introduces legislation to empower Corporations and Urban Councils to pension their employees who are beyond their labour. Mr. Rafis wrote his treatise in response to a request by the Executive Committee of The Municipal Authorities Association of Ireland. It is to be noted that several local authorities in the Saorstát have been clamouring for a pension scheme for the past few years.

A Popular Greyhound Racing Track—The Waterford Greyhound Racing Track at Keshon Park is now one of the most "live wire" tracks in the country. The meetings on Tuesday and Friday of each week continue to draw big patronage from the sporting men of Waterford City and the counties of Waterford, Wexford and Kilkenny. The Director, Mr. Kelly, is giving every satisfaction to patrons of the track and dog owners have shown their great appreciation of this fact in no small manner. The anomaly of having local sportsmen travel thirty miles out of town to try their dogs, is killed for all time. A monopoly of any sport (like a business) is not good for man or beast. To go off the track for an hour is noticed an incident recently on a road adjacent to Waterford city that emphasized the growth of the doggie population of this area and the enthusiasm for greyhound racing. A one-handed man (probably a wounded soldier of the Great War) leading sixteen greyhound puppies. He had eight leashes with a hook that was the substitute for an artificial limb. Sixteen in hand!

Mr. Roddy Kirwan Comes Back—His many friends in the Deise were delighted to note that Mr. Roddy Kirwan (of Kilmacthomas) has come nearer home than he has been for twelve years, having been appointed recently manager of the New Ross Branch of the National Bank. Roddy, like his popular brother Percy, has excelled as an all-round athlete. He was a member of the famous Kerry Gaelic Football team that won several All-Ireland Championships. There is scarcely another sportsman like him in Ireland today who has participated in so many different forms of sport. He has been a keen golfer, hockey player, exponent of tennis, a good hurler as well as a hurdler etc., etc. He goes straight from his desk to the sporting arena. And his hands are always full in his leisure hours! He informed me many years ago that the most scientific game that he has played, next to hurling is hockey.

A Real White Race—Neither Black Nor Tan—The matter to be referred to in this paragraph has a wider significance than that embraced by the Deise territory doings. At the annual General meeting of the largest firm in the world of manufacturers of safety razor blades held recently the Chairman stated that the Irish people used more safety blades per head of the population than any other country, which showed that they were a very clean people. A shareholder interrupted to remark that they were always of opinion that the Irish were a very hygienic race. In other words that we were not as black as we were painted—A race of real white men!
