DUNGARVAN URBAN COUNCIL.

Mr. M. Morrissey, Chairman, presided at the weekly meeting of the above on Friday last. Also present—Messrs. P. Byrne, J. Mansfield, P. O'Dwyer, P. Doherty, J. Christopher, T. McCarthy, Vice-Chairman, J. F. Foley.

Week's Wages

A paysheet amounting to £5 18s. 3d. was presented and passed.

License For Dancing

The Clerk informed the members that a renewal of the Dance License was now due and asked would the same number as last year be sufficient, viz., eight all-night 36 Cinderella's and 3 weekly practice dances.

Chairman—Dancing seems to be on the increase and it would be disappointing to a club if they found they could not have a night.

It was decided to apply for 10 or 12 all-night dances, the Ciderella and practice dances to remain as last year.

Letting of Meat Market

On the application of Mr. T. Atkins, Strand street, the Board agreed to let to him a part of the meat market for the purpose of carrying on business as a boot and shoe repairer. The rent was fixed at 1/6 per week.

Water

Mr. Farrell, solicitor, writing on behalf of Mrs. Mulcair, stated that for a long time past she had been getting no water at her residence at Knockatemore or at her bungalow in the same district. He stated that in spite of several complaints by his clients nothing had been done and that if something was not done now she would only have to take the proper action.

The Borough Surveyor said that the pipes were in need of cleaning. The seven lengths of piping that they took up there were in a very bad condition. Connecting with the Glendine main did not improve the supply.

Mr. McCarthy—This woman has complained on several occasions during the past two years.

Chairman—How long is the pipe line there?

B.S.—Half a mile.

Mr. Dahill—The B.S. should see the plumber again and ask him to undertake the work of cleaning the pipes.

Chairman—The pipes must be taken up and cleaned anyway.

It was ordered that advertisements be issued for the taking up and cleaning of the pipes on that line.

Mr. Byrne—Orders are being made here and the public laugh at us because they are not carried out.

Regarding the scouring of pipes the B.S. stated that in the old days the water Inspector saw after the regular scouring of all the lines.

The Board ordered that the Water Inspector carry out regular scouring of all pipes.

Water Scheme

Letters were received from Messrs. Delap and Waller, Engineers, re the proposed water scheme and a question arose as to the objections that might be raised by those at Kilmacnehan who had water rights.

Messrs. De Lapp and Waller pointed out that if there were objections the scheme would be held up until next year.

The Chairman said that the people concerned had been visited and there would be objections.

A further letter from the engineers pointed out that in the severest drought the people concerned would have from 20,000 to 30,000 gallons a day.

It was decided to ask the Engineers representative what day he would be in Dungarvan and to ask the people concerned to attend a meeting to see if the difficulty could be got over.

Loughmore

A letter from Mr. Bowen, Co. Surveyor, in response to an inquiry by the Council regarding the cleaning of the roadway at Loughmore, stated that on the map handed to him at the taking over of the roads the Loughmore roads were not marked.

The B.S. was instructed to get the maps back in order to have the Loughmore roads marked.

It was decided to write to the County Council asking that the side walks at O'Connell street, and the Esplanade be cleaned.

Housing

The Department asked for the report on housing conditions in the town that was made some time ago.

It was decided that the M.O.H. be requested to forward the report.

Civil Court Trial of Michael Conway

The letter from the Council agitating for the trial by civil court of Michael Conway deferred from last meeting was considered.

The Chairman asked if any member had anything to say on the matter.

Mr. Dahill—We have a lot about it for the past 4 or 5 days.

Mr. Mansfield—I suggest that as only

WATERFORD CO. BOARD OF PUBLIC ASSISTANCE.

Ald. Jas. O'Donovan, Chairman, presided at the monthly meeting of the above at the Courthouse, Dungarvan, on Wednesday last. Also present—Councillor Cosgrave, Councillor Cassidy, Councillor Halloran, Councillor Caulfield, Councillor Treacy, Councillor Connolly.

Assistance Officer for Clonmel

Arising out of the appointment of an Assistance Officer for Clonmel, which was to have been made.

The Chairman read a letter he had received from Commissioner Moynihan asking for the appointment adjourned, as he (owing to being attending a Board of Health meeting in Kilkenny) would be unable to be present, and as the person appointed would be a matter of course to be appointed as Rent Collector under the Board of Health, he hoped the Board of Assistance would adjourn the appointment.

Chairman—I propose in face of that letter, we accede to the Commissioner's request. Nobody will suffer.

Secretary—Mr. Stokes did not send in his resignation as Rent Collector in time for the last Board of Health meeting.

The Board decided unanimously to adjourn the appointment.

Cappoquin Dispensary

Mr. Farrell, solicitor, to the Board wrote in reply to their order made at the previous meeting regarding the Board's powers in the matter of letting the present dispensary house at Cappoquin.

The letter stated that there is nothing in the lease to prevent the Board from letting the premises.

It was decided to get the consent of the Minister for Local Government to the proposal.

Ringville Dispensary Residence

Dr. Casey, M.O.H., Ringville district, wrote complaining that the recent repairs done to the Dispensary are entirely unsatisfactory.

The letter was referred to Mr. Doyle, Engineer.

Kilmacnehan Doctor's Residence

Mr. Jephson, Engineer, reported on the condition of the doctor's house at Kilmacnehan and estimated that the necessary repairs to it would cost £178.

He also stated that the repairs would make the house habitable but would not alter the character of the house which was very badly positioned.

Dr. Dooley the newly appointed doctor attended the meeting and said that he would do his best to get proper accommodation in the area. There was as far as he was aware no prospect of getting a house in Kilmacnehan.

The Board considered the advisability of erecting a new house and it was agreed that further information on the matter be available for the next meeting. In the meantime that suitable accommodation be looked for in Bonmahon for the doctor.

Home Assistance

Home Assistance for the month amounted to £1,422 11s. 9d. For last month £1,440 15s. 0d., and for the corresponding period last year was £1,204 6s. 7d.

Mr. Halloran—In Waterford last year we had to increase Home Assistance by £1,200 and the ratepayers are kicking up about it.

The Chairman said that they had a long letter before them from the Minister regarding the cutting of able-bodied persons from unemployment assistance. The letter stated that the Board of Referees were not responsible as they only made recommendations to go before the umpire.

Mr. Cosgrave—Who is this umpire of who put him there?

Chairman—The Department of course.

Mr. Cosgrave—Who cut the men off after the Act had been in operation for one and a half years?

The Chairman said that the Minister's one man was brought and that according to the evidence that there are another three men concerned that the letter be marked noted until the other three men have been apprehended.

The letter was accordingly marked read.

Mitchel Street Sewer

The B.S. stated that the Mitchel street sewer would cost £270 for two parts effected.

Mr. Dahill said that the Government had set aside £2,000,000 for sewerage and they should get as much of it as possible.

He had a notice of motion handed in regarding that sewerage and he would move that it be considered.

Clerk—That notice was deferred from July. I suggest that you hand in notice for the next quarterly meeting to be held in a fortnight.

Mr. Foley—The Government have set aside money but we have got none of it. I suppose that this will be another entry of deferred schemes.

Mr. Dahill agreed to hand in notice for the quarterly meeting.

letter was published before the meeting or before members had seen it. He had written a reply to the letter but it would not be published. In his letter he stated that the members of this Board spent 3 or 4 days a month doing Assistance business without remuneration. However, now men were getting back and things were righting themselves.

Mr. Connolly—There was never a clear explanation given as to why the men were cut off.

Chairman—I think it would be better to let the matter lie.

Mr. Cosgrave—I wrote letters to builders and merchants to try and get work for men. They were genuinely seeking work.

Mr. Halloran—I think we should pass a resolution asking that the machine be taxed to the extent of the loss of wages by those whom the machine has put out of work.

Mr. Cosgrave said that he went through hundreds of papers and in 99 cases out of every 100, the cause for men being cut off was that they were not genuinely seeking work, and there were cases where men were refused to be allowed appeal against the Court of Referees. If I bring say a dozen cases of where men were cut off although genuinely seeking work before you next meeting, will you bring the matter before the Minister and the T.D.'s?

Mr. Halloran—You have no T.D.'s.

Mr. Halloran—Yes four differs.

Mr. Cosgrave—Between the Court of Referees and the Umpire we are in a fog.

Mr. Connolly—We never had it explained why the men were cut off. You have a letter there filled with vague phraseology. There is a lot of shuffling going on.

Mr. Connolly then proposed the following:—

In reply to the letter of M. O. Cahan, writing on behalf of the acting Minister for Industry and Commerce, in reference to the statements made at the Waterford Board of Assistance meeting in July regarding the operation of the Unemployment Assistance Act in Waterford.

We are of opinion that the comments made by members of the Board were quite justified, because no clear explanation has been given about the cutting off of hundreds of men from Unemployment Assistance, on the grounds that men were not genuinely seeking work.

We are of opinion that the persons or officials administering the Act in Waterford were frustrating the intention (or object) of the Government by forcing able-bodied men to seek Home Assistance, that may have been due to some misunderstanding, and we are pleased to note that the protests made by this Board have a salutary effect and most of the able-bodied men (debarred some months ago) have now had the Unemployment Assistance restored to them.

The proposition was unanimously adopted.

Oil Engine

The tender of Messrs. Keatinge and Gaal, offering £5 5s. for the old oil engine at the County Home was accepted.

Waterford Fever Hospital

A letter from the Superior General relative to night nursing by the Sisters at Waterford Fever Hospital, suggested that a Sister at Kilkenny be transferred to Waterford to do alternative day and night duty at £72 per year and that the Sister in Waterford go to Kilkenny.

The suggestion was approved of.

DEATH OF MRS. ALLEN, ABBEYSIDE

The news of the death of Mrs. Elizabeth (Lizzie) Allen, Sexton street, Abbeyside, which sad event took place at the District Hospital, Dungarvan, on Monday night last, after a short illness, came as a great shock to her numerous friends.

The deceased young lady, who was of a most retiring and gentle disposition, was most popular with all sections of the community, and those who had the pleasure of knowing her now deeply mourn her loss. Deeply religious, she was always a leading light in all matters pertaining to the Catholic Faith and was an active member of the local branch of the Children of Mary and other Societies.

On Tuesday evening the remains were removed from the District Hospital to the Parish Church, Dungarvan, where they rested overnight, and on Wednesday following the celebrations of Requiem Masses for the repose of her soul at Abbeyside, Dungarvan and Knockanore, the funeral took place to Knockanore cemetery, where the remains were laid to rest.

Very Rev. Fr. Morrissey, P.P., read the last prayers at the graveside.—R.I.P.

The deceased was daughter of the late Wm. Kelly, Kilwatermoy and wife of Mr. Timothy Allen, the popular Manager of the hardware establishment of Mr. J. J. Crotry, Square, Dungarvan, to whom the deepest sympathy of the public is extended in his bereavement.

DUNGARVAN SHOW—

Local prize-winners will please call at the Show Office for their prize money.

FEIS AT BOOLA, CAPPOQUIN

On Saturday, 15 inst., a very successful Feis was held at Boola, between Mellery and Cappoquin, in aid of the Mount Mellery New Church Building Fund.

There was a large attendance, people of this district, and also of Cappoquin attended in full strength, but the Cycling and Athletic Sports in Millstreet on that day proved a strong counter-attraction.

The promoters had made very elaborate arrangements for the event, as the Sportsfield and all its approaches were gaily decorated with flags and bunting, and these, with the rich sylvan beauty of the fertile Glenishane valley on the one side, and the graceful "Groves of Mellery" and the rugged grandeur of the Knockmeal-down mountains on the other, completed a picture of rare charm.

Messrs. Sean O'Donnell and Thomas Hallinan, Mellery, the efficient hon. secs., carried out the arrangements in faultless style, ably assisted by Mr. M. J. Sargent, Cappoquin, while Mr. Sean Collins, Dublin, (nephew of the late Mr. Michael Collins, and a past student of Mount Mellery Seminary), also rendered active service in looking after all the important details during the evening.

The Mellery District String Band performed some delightful selections of Irish Airs, both before and during the Feis which won loud applause.

The Feis was formally opened by the Rev. John Hackett, Rochford, Illinois, who is at present home on holidays.

Having been introduced by Mr. Sean O'Donnell, Father Hackett said the obligation had been cast on him to open the Feis, but he should first apologise for not being an Irish speaker, although he had a rudimentary knowledge of the language some years ago.

He said he considered it a great privilege to be asked to do anything he could for Mount Mellery, and especially for Father Paul, whom he esteemed so highly, and for whose unavoidable absence he now apologised.

Having quoted from "Breathes there a man with soul so dead," he said the object of a Feis was to promote the forms of Irish culture, such as Irish singing, dancing, etc., as the fostering of these subjects proved our love of country, such as had been proved by succeeding generations of Irishmen from the days of Emmet and Tone down to the present day, (applause.)

He thanked all present for their kind attendance and in formally declaring the Feis open, he would first call on Mr. Martin Walsh, Touranmore, to give them an exhibition Irish dance which would set a lead to all the competitors who were to follow, (applause.)

Mr. Martin Walsh, who later acted as adjudicator over the various competitions, danced a hornpipe in a well-timed and perfect manner.

Details:—

HORNPIPE.

1st Prize—Miss Mulcahy, Kilkenny, Touranmore. 2nd Prize—Miss Whelan, Ballymacarbery.

Miss Poppard, Dublin; Miss Hogan, Clonmel; Miss Noonan, Miss Whelan, Kilkenny; Miss B. Whelan, do., and Miss Maura Byrne.

IRISH JIG.

1st Prize—Miss Hogan, Clonmel; 2nd Prize—Miss B. Whelan, Kilkenny.

IRISH REEL.

1st Prize—Miss Mulcahy, Kilkenny; 2nd Prize—Miss Whelan, Ballymacarbery.

IRISH CONVERSATION.

Mr. Thomas Tobin, Monalour, was an easy winner. Six competed.

SACK RACE (For Boys under 14 years).

This proved a most humorous event. 1st—P. Barry, Tourin, Cappoquin; 2nd—Michael Hallinan, Monalour; Mellery. Also competed—J. J. Tobin, Monalour; P. Hallinan, do.; John O'Donnell, Mellery, and P. O'Brien, do.

FOOTBALL KICK.

1st—D. Maher, Ardhanan. 2nd—W. Connors, Cluthabina. 12 competed.

HURLING PUCK.

1st—T. Coleman, Mellery 2nd—J. O'Gorman, N.T., Ballyin, Lismore. Both of these tied on the same mark, but on the toss of a coin, Coleman won. 15 competed.

An interesting Hurling match between mixed teams from Cappoquin and Lismore followed, and ended in a draw after a great game. Mr. M. J. Murphy, Mitchelstown, proved a capable referee.

The medals and other valuable prizes were then distributed to the various winners by Mr. Sean O'Donnell, after which the playing of "Faith of Our Fathers" by the Mellery Band concluded a great evening's sport.

DUNGARVAN MARKETS—

Meal 22/-; middicut 21/6; flour 21/- and 22/- per 100 lbs.; bran 9/- cwt.; pollard 8/- and 9/- cwt.; coal 40/- ton.

G.A.A. NOTES & NOTIONS

By "CROGOG."

THE MUNSTER FINALS AT DUNGARVAN

The playing pitch is the burial place of many fondly cherished ambitions—age and the birthplace, too, of many new aspirations. In the Fraher field on Sunday last our hopes of a Munster All-Ireland Football Championship were buried good and deep—and it was Kerry who dug the grave. Not alone was our team beaten and well beaten, but it was also very definitely outclassed. And there is no excuse—no alibi. Everything possible was done to keep the Waterford team in good winning shape—they had numerous challenges, trial and championship games and a special preparation, and the reason they failed was that they were not quite good enough. The reaction to this totally unexpected defeat has not been as deep or as serious as one would be inclined to expect. Somehow or other, this Decies football team, despite its run of success, never aroused much real enthusiasm in the County; perhaps its cosmopolitan complexion discouraged what it was chiefly expected to help along—a football revival in Waterford. The lesson is manifest that such a revival must be rooted in youth and fostered on native talent. The experiment of relying largely on extern aid has been a failure for the simple reason that the "body without the spirit is dead" and will always be dead.

Waterford got away to a flying start and had two goals within ten minutes—both scores coming from manoeuvres engineered by the football genius of Paul Russell. Kerry came back for a point. Even thus early it was evident that the home backs were far from comfortable. They seemed to lack confidence and decision and when Batty Casey retired to be replaced by "Daw" Walsh, the uneasiness increased. The Kerry men getting into their stride treated the five thousand spectators to an exhibition of copper-plate football; their timing, fielding and scheming was a delight to watch. Russell fell back to steady the ragged Waterford defence but still the Kerry men scored steadily. No effort was wasted—everything meant a minor. Declan Goode tore into everything at mid-field and his do-or-die desperation provided the home attack with many chances, but the Kingdom defence held complete control of the situation. Cummins was overawed by the burly O'Shea, the former De La Salle player, who never put a foot or a ball astray. Lynch was outpaced all through and Spollen and Myles were never in the picture.

A Waterford re-shuffle of positions battered for a moment early in the second half, but a despairing listlessness seemed to settle on the whole team. Russell spent himself in a series of valiant efforts to "ginger up" the drooping spirits of his men. Goode and Lovett fought on tirelessly to stave off defeat. O'Sullivan Ruadh came out and by his dare-devil tackling effectively "bottled up" the hitherto unconquerable O'Shea and Seamus Hayes still kept a great goal for Waterford. But Kerry kept forging ahead and their clock-work scoring showed how smoothly their football machine was working. A momentary rally by Waterford produced a goal and Spollen, when well placed, cannoned a ball off the Kerry goalkeeper's hands to raise the white flag. The last quarter saw Kerry continuously bombarding the home goal and Jim Regan's final whistle gave the Kingdom its third Munster Football Championship this year on the decisive score of 4 goals 14 points to 3 goals and 1 point.

But we got no time to mourn over our football funeral. Proudly were the Decies colours of blue and white borne to glorious victory by our dashing young junior hurlers. Not one whit daunted by the fate of their comrades, they took the field, their hearts filled with determination to redeem the Gaelic prestige of their county and right nobly did they do it. Vanquishing Cork to the tune of 3 goals 2 points to 1 goal and 1 point gave the Decies the Munster Junior Hurling Crown, wiped out the bitter memory of the footballers' defeat, and sent the highly gratified Waterford public, who patronised the games so royally, home in right good humour. Youth has triumphed once more—and in the face of great obstacles too. This victorious young team has confounded almost all the critics. Three months ago the consensus of opinion was that the selectors had totally wrecked its prospects by drawing largely on it for Senior material; other drastic alterations too were effected. Many rushed into print to denounce what they were pleased to call the "suicidal incompetence" and "blind stupidity" of the Selection Committee. Well, every Waterford Gael is I am sure, delighted that the prophets of woe were falsified and the judgment of the Selector vindicated.

The game itself was remarkable for some curious features. Waterford took control early and penned the Cork defence in its own territory all through the first half. But scores were few. The inside forwards were not up to the standard of the rest of the team and squandered the many chances which came their way. Shortall, Hickie and Fitzgerald rained balls into the Leeside "21" but an endless succession of wides was the result. Green flashed a lovely air ball to the corner of the net for Waterford's opening goal. A point from a free was the only other flag raised in this half. The exasperating series of overs on the home side flattered the Cork defence, and the score-board gave the game the appearance of an evenly-matched struggle which was really very far from being the case. Waterford led at the interval by 1 goal and 1 point to nil, but their all-round supremacy was worthy of five times this lead.

Johnny Murphy replaced Whelan (who retired with a head injury) as full forward of the resumption. The forward shooting improved a little. Fitzgerald, Phelan, Hoban and Shortall kept up a copious supply of the ball to the full line of attack. Ormond at length struck the bar and Green netted the re-bound. Cork rallied and attacked fiercely, but Curley, in goal, and the magnificent Decies defence, in which Fanning, Gorman and Mountain shone, were equal to all emergencies. Cork had a belated point and encouraged by the determined vigour of Kelleher and Gaine kept up a persistent assault which resulted in their only goal of the match. By the way of reply, Fitzgerald raised the white flag for the home team as they continued to keep a secure grip on the game. A few moments later, Johnny Leahy sounded his whistle to leave Waterford worthy victors of their fourth Munster Hurling Championship.

The Decies defence has improved enormously on the form shown in the semi-final against Clare. They were well-nigh perfect in the final. Gorman, Skehan and Mountain are a stalwart line of hard-pulling half-backs who give opponents little scope to develop an attack. Paddy Fanning at full back is the very thing the doctor ordered. An astute hurling brain in a sturdy muscular frame enabled this fierce little defender to keep the Cork full-forward as helpless as a trussed-up fowl last Sunday. Waters, who replaced the injured Simon Whelan, was sound in the right corner. "Dotty" Hogan hurled a wonderful match until a violent lash on the nose forced his withdrawal late in the game. It is earnestly hoped that his injury will be healed up before the All-Ireland semi-final next Sunday week in Ennis, as the popular "Dotty" has been the mainstay of Waterford defence all along. Hickie and Shortall are an ideal mid-field pair and combine speed, vigour and grit with splendid striking. The half line of forwards are striking the match-winning trio on the team with Fitzgerald and Phelan the best junior wingers of the day. The spear-head of the attack is still unsatisfactory and continues to be the weak spot in an otherwise splendidly balanced team.

The Selection Committee met on Sunday evening and picked the following players to do duty for Waterford in the All-Ireland semi-final—Pat Fanning and M. Parle (Erin's Own), Dan Waters, D. Hogan, J. Phelan, P. Green, and D. O'Mahony (Mt. Sion); M. Skehan and M. Hickie (Dunhill); J. Plunkett, J. Mountain, J. Ormond (St. Stephen's); J. O'Gorman, J. Regan (R. Ryan (Lismore), M. Curley and W. Sheehan (Tallow), J. Halpin (Glenn na h-Uidhre) and M. Goggin (P. H. Pearse), Tom Fitzgerald, J. Murphy, and J. Whelan (Dungarvan). Team placings and general arrangements will be given next week.

What a feast of hurling fare is in store for the Gaelic public of Co. Waterford next Sunday. All our available inter-county talent, Senior, Junior and Minor, to a man practically will be on view in the County Championships.

At Tallow, Dungarvan line out against the homesters in the Senior Hurling semi-final of the county. The form of the two contestants has been discussed and criticised far and wide for weeks past and no wonder. The Old Boro' are pinning their hurling hopes on such widely known exponents as Tom Greaney and Christy Moylan, Dec Goode, Willie Barron, Tom Fitzgerald, Johnny Murphy and John Whelan, all of whom have been in the fore in the Munster Championships this year. Tallow can boast of an array of stars scarcely less formidable in the Condon Brothers, "Sonny" and Mick Curley, "Pa" and "Bill" Sheehan, Doyle, McCarthy and Jimmy Burke. Forecasting the winners here is some job, but the finest Senior match for many years is a certainty. To add spice to the programme, Ballyduff meet Lismore in the Junior Hurling semi-final. Here again anything may happen. The villagers have been much in the limelight all through the year and their sterling and decisive wins over Tallow and Cappoquin have weakened by in-mingling complex. Lismore, weakened by inactivity and the loss of Mick Regan, their famous inter-county back, are a difficult team to size up. But their wonderful do-or-die fighting spirit has helped them in many tight corners, especially against local rivals. Rarely has such a glorious hurling programme been offered to West Waterford Gaels and the side-lines at Tallow will be thronged next Sunday by crowds eager to cheer the young men who have helped to place Decies hurling on the map.

APPALLING CRIMES IN SPAIN

4,000 PRIESTS MASSACRED IN BARCELONA

ACCORDING to statements made by Priests and Nuns who have escaped from Spain wholesale murders of Priests and Nuns have taken place. Amongst the chief sufferers were the Brothers of the Order of St. John of God.

It is not yet known how many members of the Order have met their deaths at the hands of the "Reds," but the following facts show that a large number have been murdered.

Eighteen Brothers, including the Prior Novice-master, and 13 Novices, were shot outside their hospital in Calafell. Owing to the troubled state of Barcelona practically no news has been available but it is definitely known that 30 Brothers have been killed there.

A actual number may be much higher as the brothers of St. John of God have three hospitals in that city. The Order has altogether 17 houses in Spain, including mental hospitals, orthopaedic hospitals, eye hospitals, and epileptic colonies, and it can be presumed that the Communists have paid their attention to some of these. In one hospital, some of the patients were shot at as well as the Brothers.

Some of the Brothers have managed to escape death, and in spite of great difficulties and dangers, have made their way to France. It is expected that some of them will make their temporary home in some of the Houses in England and Ireland belonging to the Irish-English Province and arrangements are being made in anticipation of their arrival.

Solemn Requiem Mass was celebrated at the House of St. John of God, Stillorgan, for the Spanish Brothers of the Order who have been killed. FATHERS TRAGIC STORY

Father Florindo Rubini, Prefect General of the Helpers of the Sick, has returned to Italy from Spain, where he had gone to visit the monasteries of the famous Congregation, and where, caught in the Revolution, he was imprisoned.

From Valencia and Madrid, Father Rubini went to Barcelona when the terror broke out. The outbreak was so sudden that a few hours before it burst there was no sign that it was imminent.

The first intimation was the broadcast announcements proclaiming the revolution, and next day the Church of the Camillini was invaded while Mass was being celebrated. The people were ejected and the religious arrested and thrown into prison. The Carmelites in the nearby monastery suffered the same fate.

Father Rubini recalls how thirteen priests were horribly massacred together with six lay brothers, and five secular priests who had been killed by hatchets. Other terrible episodes still haunt him. In the convent of St. Dominic, after the massacre of the priests, the revolutionaries disinterred the bodies of other priests who had died and been buried a few days previously, and nailed the corpses to the wall "to make room" for the priests they were searching for in the monastery and in the surrounding houses.

Houses suspected of harbouring priests in hiding were summarily burnt. In one a woman lay dying and they hid in waiting for the priest who would come to give her the Last Sacraments. Fortunately, the woman had received the Rites of the Church the previous day.

From Barcelona, Father Rubini fled to Vich, about 70 kilometres distant, where there was a novitiate and school for "Camillini." There he found that the local Communists were so grateful for the good work done by the Camillini fathers, for three days in order to give them time to get the children to places of safety.

The children were put in charge of the priests and after having received Holy Communion they all dispersed as agreed upon, and went into hiding in the neighbourhood woods.

After hiding for five days and five nights Father Rubini decided to try to get away but was caught by the Reds, and charged with having resisted the troops and fired against them. He was imprisoned and questioned on eight separate occasions but no proof could be found against him, and in the meantime the Italian Consul was able to persuade the Reds to hand him over to the police, who, in turn, handed him over to the Consul, thanks to whose help it was possible to get a priest a place on the Italian ship Principessa Maria.

Father Rubini estimates that 400 ecclesiastics in Barcelona alone died for their faith during the five days that he was there.

BISHOP AMIGOS' ADDRESS

"Do not take any notice of the way in which some newspapers speak of 'Reds.' Thank God, I am a rebel in the same sense."

Right Rev. Peter E. Amigo, Bishop of Southwark, preaching at St. George's Cathedral, London.

DUNGARVAN SHOW

Next Year's Fixture

A special meeting of the Dungarvan Show Committee, was held in the Commercial Hotel, on the 14th inst., Mr. Arthur Hunt, President, occupied the Chair. The other members present were: Messrs. Thomas Flynn, Nicholas Morrissey, P. J. Moloney, D. Dempsey, J. A. Lynch, P. A. Walshe, John O'Dwyer, S. J. Power, J. Hayes, T. F. Lynch, D. Coghlan, N. Fitzgerald, N. Connors, and J. Lynch, Secretary.

The Secretary read letters from Mrs. Hunt, Rockmount, and Mr. Arthur Hunt, returning thanks to the committee for their kind resolution of sympathy on the death of Dr. Foster (father of Mrs. Hunt). On the motion of Mr. J. A. Lynch, seconded by Mr. T. Flynn, it was ordered that the letters be inserted on the Minutes.

The Recent Show

The Secretary gave details of the financial position of the Committee following the recent very successful show which showed that after all payments were made there would be a substantial balance to credit. Letters were also read from several of the Judges who officiated here on July 9th, complimenting the Committee and Officials on the success of the event, which they said was unequalled in the quality of its exhibits and the perfection of its arrangements, reflecting the greatest credit on all associated with it.

Next Year's Show

The Committee fixed Thursday, July 8th, 1937, as the date for next year's Show. A general discussion took place on the question of providing attractions for next year's event and various schemes were adumbrated which would make for the greater popularity of the day. All these schemes will be matured in the meantime so that the Dungarvan Show, great and successful as it has been all the years past, will even attain greater heights of prosperity and usefulness henceforward.

"RED" WAR ON CHURCH

Meaning Of Events in Spain

THE struggle in Spain is not one between a Government representing a people and some revolutionaries and rebels, writes Rev. F. Woodcock, S.J., in the "Sunday Dispatch," but is now in fact, a war between Soviet Communists, who have stamped moderate elements in the Government and taken control of its policy, and those true Nationalists and patriots who wish to save their country from becoming merely part of the anti-Christian Communist International planned by Lenin for his world revolution and Soviet domination.

"The Catholic Church is, admittedly the foe that Communism must destroy," writes Father Woodcock, "so whenever and wherever Communism gets power, religion is at once violently attacked and, if possible, ruthlessly exterminated."

"The International is the child and heir of Lenin. He is 'the Christ of Communism' and an enthusiastic biographer sums up his life in the sentence: 'He fought without mercy, religion and all the allies of religion.'"

"Hence the complete destruction of churches and of many convents in the cities where the Communists became supreme. 'If not destroyed the buildings are confiscated for secular uses. In Spain, the altars were desecrated, the Blessed Sacrament hurled from the Tabernacles and trampled underfoot and sacrilegiously profaned, the vestments put on by members of the crowd in derision as 'fancy dress.'"

"The brutal treatment of priests who have been murdered and mutilated in great numbers, in some cases with tortures parallel to those suffered by martyrs in pagan lands, is reported from nearly every centre in Spain where Communism rules. Surely diabolic savagery is manifested in the case of those who, as an American eye-witness testifies, killed a priest, cut off his arms and legs, ripped open his body, and hung the corpse from a statue of the Virgin in his Church. Numbers of priests have been decapitated, and their heads stuck on the spikes of the railings round their churches."

"The heads of the others were carried through the streets amid mocking crowds. 'In Barcelona, that sixteen nursing brothers had spent their lives in the service of the sick and poor in hospital, did not weigh against the fact that they were religious. All were put to death.'"

"The grossest indignities have been perpetrated against good women whose only crime was their dedication to Christ in the persons of His poor and sick."

"In Malaga, a lunatic asylum kept by a religious order, was looted by the Communists and the inmates turned loose in the town. Even the tombs of the dead were molested."

M. Rene Lignac, special correspondent of the Paris "Le Jour" in Spain, relates an interview with a nun who told him that one morning at dawn 30 men came and made the community of 30 nuns. 'Finally,' she said, 'they made us walk in single file out of the convent. In the corridor other men massed around us, insulting us as we ran the gauntlet of this motley gathering.'

GAELIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

FINALIS IN DUNGARVAN

HONOURS DIVIDED

ON Sunday last at Dungarvan the finals in the Munster Junior Football and Hurling Championships took place before a gathering of 5,000 people. The weather was beautifully fine and warm and the conditions under which the games were played were perfect. Waterford lost in their struggle with Kerry in football but emerged victorious in their encounter with Cork in hurling.

J. F. Kerry 4-14; Waterford 3-1

Details

Early after the opening it was apparent that Waterford would have to go all out if they were to take the championship honours, for the Kerry combination soon settled down to business. The first of the scores were fairly evenly distributed, and after quarter of an hour's play Kerry had a point lead. Then the visitors opened up, and from that time onwards gave the others but a very meagre slice of what was going. They tenanted the homesters' territory with a doggedness that defied eviction. Paul Russell, the All-Ireland Kerryman, playing for Waterford, was everywhere, and he and Greany were about the outstanding of the home side. Kerry kept up the feeding of their forward line, and the latter made good use of their opportunities. In this half, however, the Waterford backs defended splendidly. At half time Kerry had 2 points in hand, the position then being: Kerry 1-5; Waterford 2-4.

Waterford set up a promising movement on the resumption after the interval. They failed when a score seemed a certainty, and then came a Kerry point from a close-in free. The Suiriders were strongly pressed till Russell intervened to get them out of difficulty. The easement was very temporary, for the Kerry men were bent on having matters their own way. They launched attack after attack, and gradually the points notched began to mount. At three-quarters of the journey there was only one team in the picture, for Waterford's earlier promise had failed to mature, and in practically every department of the game the visitors were supreme. Waterford were, in fact, fortunate that the score against them, heavy as it was, was not even worse. Kerry had gained their fourteenth point score when a determined rush by the others caused their net to quake and then to fall. Previous to this Waterford had notched a point, and the deft handling and superb footballing of the visitors kept any further endeavour to the unproductive stage. Just towards the close Kerry netted, and almost immediately afterwards had the softest of goals. They were well-deserved winners.

Scorers for Kerry were: McKenna, Counihan, Leary, O'Shea and Sullivan, and for Waterford: Lynch and Sullivan. Both the latter, with Lovatt and Goode, figured well for the homesters, while for the visitors Shea, Counihan and McKenna were specially prominent.

Jim Regan (Cork) was referee. Waterford-S. Hayes (goal); W. Lyne, M. Lovatt, F. O'Meara, D. Goode, M. Bowler, B. Casey, T. Greaney, L. O'Sullivan, M. Lynch, P. Russell, J. Cummins, B. Spollen, M. Myles and D. O'Sullivan.

Hurling

Rev. Fr. Walsh, C.C., Dungarvan, threw in the ball in the hurling tie. Spirited midfield clashes were followed by an excellent clearance by Curley, the Waterford guardian, whose side then drove down the pitch, where an opening score was missed narrowly. In the following passages the alertness of the homesters' backs and the speed of the Waterford combination on the ball were features in evidence. Waterford opened the scoring with a goal and for some time after this play was confined to the Cork half. In face of keen opposition the Leesiders defended magnificently and Cork were fighting hard for an opening, but were held at every turn. They got attacking, and a fast ground shot nearly found the equaliser. A Cork seventy was cleared. Then the visitors net shivered under stout pressure, and following an exciting duel, J. Whelan retired injured to be replaced by J. Murphy, on the home side. A serious Waterford attack was frustrated by the opposing custodian, and with Waterford bombarding their fortress, the defenders acquitted themselves very well indeed in holding their net erect. There was another period of gallant defending by the visitors, but they were beaten for a point. Although the Cork goal was in dire straits at times, there was no further registering in this half.

The second half was dull for the greater portion. Ormonde aimed a goal for the homesters, after a previous effort had failed. There came a period of fast passages, where Cork looked exceedingly like doing damage, but their opposing backs were capable of handling the situation. The next score was also Waterford's, when Fitzgerald, who was doing excellent duty, drove all the way from far out to effect a judgment. Cork made great strides towards freeing themselves of their encompassing opponents, and eventually broke down the barrier, to forge ahead in a decidedly spirited movement. They swarmed about the Waterford sticks, and by dint of sheer determination and persevering endeavour at long last had the gratification of securing a point score. There was little time to go. Another strong drive all but brought the visitors a goal. The play was charged to the other end, where Murphy hit

TO FIGHT IN SPAIN

AN IRISH BRIGADE

CASHEL MEN'S DECISION

CASHEL Branch of the National Corporate Party, at a special meeting in the City Hall, unanimously agreed to open a Recruiting Bureau in Cashel for the enrolment of volunteers anxious to serve in the Irish Brigade, which is intended for service in the cause of Catholicity in Spain.

A resolution was passed warmly approving of the lead given by General O'Duffy in appealing to the Irish nation to come to the assistance of Spain in her hour of direst need; congratulating him as the initiator of the proposal to form an Irish Brigade to aid the insurgents in their fight against barbarism, Communism and irreligion; and promising to do everything in their power to make the proposed Irish Brigade a great success. The resolution further called upon the Free State Government immediately to sever diplomatic relations with the Spanish Government, which had been proved to be guilty of revolting cruelties and horrible excesses against the Catholic Church; and appealed to the Executive Council to cease trading with Spain as long as the present regime of tyranny and torture continues.

Col. Thomas Carew, chairman, proposing the resolution, recalled Spain had proved a never failing friend of the Irish people, and had welcomed the exiled and persecuted Irish priests. Ireland could never forget what she owed to Spain for her kindness and generosity on those days. It was the obvious duty of the Free State Government to break off diplomatic relations with the Spanish Government.

which by its horrible excesses and revolting cruelties to priests and nuns, had put it beyond the pale of civilised States. They called on President de Valera, himself a devout Catholic, and a gentleman closely related, by ancestry, to the Spanish people, to bring to an end this country's diplomatic relations with the present Communist rulers of Spain; and to cease trading with that country as long as the persecution of the Catholic Church is continued in Spain.

It was also decided to call together, immediately, the heads of the different N.C.P. branches in the county, for the purpose of promoting the recruiting proposal. Colonel Carew (chairman), supporting the proposal, said he was prepared to join the Brigade.

KERRY MAN'S OFFER

He would personally organise a Kerry contingent to go to Spain to assist the insurgents. Mr. Eamon Horan, proposing at Tralee U.D.C., a resolution which was passed calling on the Free State Government to sever trade and diplomatic relations with the Communist Government of Spain, and asking them to recognise the Provisional Government set up by the insurgents. Emphatic protests were made against the atrocities.

South Dublin Division National Corporate Party, passed a resolution calling on the Government to break off diplomatic and trade relations with Spain during the present regime. "We also," the resolution concluded, "congratulate our leader, Gen. O'Duffy, on the stand he took in defence of the Catholics of Spain and we wish him every success in the formation of an Irish Brigade, as this is not a conflict between Fascism and anti-Fascism, but between Christ and anti-Christ."

DEATH OF MR. M. COFFEY

Fortified by the rites of the Church, Mr. Matthew Coffey, Carrigcastle, Bonmahon, died on Wednesday week, after a protracted illness and in the fullness of his years. The possessor of many admirable traits of character, the deceased was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him, and widespread sympathy is extended to his bereaved widow and other immediate relatives. He was a brother of Mr. John Coffey, Carrigcastle; Mr. Maurice Coffey, Savageton, Kill; Mrs. M. Coffey, Lisard, Bonmahon, and Mrs. T. Walsh, Barnakill, Kilrossanty. The remains, accompanied by a large cortege, were removed to St. Anne's Church, Ballylincane, on Thursday evening, where, on arrival, Fr. O'Shea, C.C., recited the prayers for the dead. After the celebration of Masses of Requiem for his soul on Friday morning, the funeral took place to Dunhill Churchyard, whereat interment was made in the family plot, in the presence of numerous relatives, friends and sympathisers. May he rest in peace.

the upright, and the ball rebounding was smartly banded back by a colleague to register a further homesters' goal. Again the Corkmen put forth their best, and were rewarded when an united effort saw them force a goal. Off a subsequent seventy they failed to score and yielded Waterford the laurels of the game. J. Leahy (Tipperary) was the referee, and the teams were: Waterford—M. Curley (goal); J. Whelan, P. Fanning, D. Hogan, J. O'Gorman, M. Skehan, J. Mountain, M. Hickey, T. Shortall, T. Fitzgerald, J. Halpin, J. Phelan, J. Ormonde, J. Whelan, J. Green.

Cork—J. O'Connor (capt.); W. Murphy, E. Murphy, W. Murphy, H. A. Kelleher, D. McCarthy, C. Radley, M. O'Connor, E. Geaney, D. Cotter, J. Casey, D. Healy, G. Andrews, C. Horan, T. O'Connor.

HOW IRELAND COULD BE UNITED

Mr. James Dillon, T.D., in the course of an address at a Hibernian demonstration in Buncrana, said that whether it be Nazi Germany or in Communist Russia the theory that there is no higher law than the duty to do anything which will glorify or enrich the State ends in the same false conclusion that the State is God. If we who believe in Ierngl... If we who believe in religious liberty, proceeded Mr. Dillon, are to resist successfully any attempt to destroy it in the world, we have got to make up our minds what it is necessary to do in this country, and what it is necessary to advocate in the Council of the Nations of the World in order to preserve what we regard as essential.

We believe that the authority to govern comes to the Government from God. That being so the authority of the legitimate Government is subject only to the overriding laws of God, which we know is the natural law. Therefore, there devolves on every citizen of the State a very real moral obligation to obey the law as passed by Oireachtas Eireann and to keep constantly before our minds that so long as the legislation of any Government conforms with the natural law, there is upon each of us not only a legal obligation but a real moral obligation as well to obey that law even when we believe it to be inexpedient or contrary to the best interests of the community.

Continuing, Mr. Dillon said that those of them who were Catholics would wish to see all men Catholics with them—believing as they did. But interests of faith and fatherland in the long run were best served by genuine religious liberty, but they would never proclaim in that State the establishment of a Catholic Government for a Catholic people, and would for ever bitterly resent the declaration of Lord Craigavon and Sir Basil Brook that the Government of Northern Ireland was a Protestant Government for a Protestant people. They looked forward to the day when there would be in this country but one Government and that a Government pledged to give equal right and equal liberties to Protestant and Catholic. "We here," declared Mr. Dillon, "at a great Catholic demonstration, say to our Protestant fellow-countrymen that though we differ from them profoundly in religious belief, we respect their convictions and admire the fervour of those who devoutly practice the doctrine which they preach, and we ask them in the name of religious liberty to join with us in repudiating the claim of Lord Craigavon to establish a Protestant Government in Northern Ireland for a Protestant people. We in the Free State are jealous to preserve the liberties, civil and religious, of our Protestant fellow-countrymen. Bitterness and acrimony there has been in the past. Sooner or later, if disaster is to be averted, these things must be made an end of. Someone must first hold out the

Mr. Walsh, B.A., U.C. Cork, has just concluded Mahon Valley. He is a story and words of the Bob Weldon, of Mahon, in collecting a history of the poet, and in the original hand-written proposed to put into print. Mr. Walsh has also taken photographs of the house, had dwell, and of the glens at Mahonbridge, who was familiarly known, a poetic mood, was wont to write.

How often do we over like these—"I wonder how can keep up such style as such a big success, and of his wife and family put on, you would think it at his back, I hope ever is paid for."

Comments of the kind, always motivated by jealousy, may not be surprising, whether justified or not, than dangerous to make of things if an innovator intends in his country with an. An. Siorraist. KILMATHOMAS NEWS.

POPULAR FARMER'S MISHAP—

While Mr. John Crotty, Brennan, Bonmahon, was standing on top of a horse-load of rushes he had just filled on his lands on Wednesday evening of last week, he lost his balance and fell violently to the ground, sustaining very severe injuries. He was quickly conveyed to his home. Priests and doctor were summoned and were soon in attendance, and he was subsequently removed to the Co. Hospital Waterford, where he is still detained, and is reported to be making appreciable progress towards recovery. Mr. Crotty is an exceedingly popular, extensive and progressive farmer, and it is to be hoped that he will be as well as ever soon again.

AN UNQUENCHABLE URGE—

The urge for a "flutter" cannot be quenched. Kilmac's contribution to the racing commissions of the week inclines to be bigger than ever. It was a remarkable fact that most of the racing experts "napped" a different horse for the Redcar Handicap at Redcar, on Monday, with the result that even wide-awake backers were found "napping."

ANT MIGRATIONS—

The usual migration of ant colonies was noticeable in Mid-Waterford over the week-end. Along the highways and by-ways there was much bustle and confusion; the atmosphere was filled with myriads of tiny wings, and the ground beneath quartered by thousands of the notably industrious insects.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS—

The Marchioness of Waterford and her children, the Marquess of Waterford and Lord Patrick Tristan Bessford, have come to Wood House, Stradbally, from Curraghmore. Wood House has been let to Lady Waterford by her brother-in-law, Lord Hugh Bessford, and she and her sons will spend the remainder of the month there. The kindly inhabitants of the lovely locality are proud to have such distinguished visitors in their midst.

BOB WELDON'S WORKS—

Mr. Walsh, B.A., University College, Cork, has just concluded a visit to the Mahon Valley. He is compiling the life-story and works of the late Gaelic poet, Bob Weldon, of Mahonbridge. He was successful in collecting a considerable history of the poet, and several of his works in the original handwriting, which it is proposed to put into print in due course. Mr. Walsh has also taken a number of photographs of the house wherein the poet had dwelt, and of the haunts among the glens at Mahonbridge, where Bob (as he was familiarly known), when he was in poetic mood, was wont to ramble and write.

GROUSE SHOOTING—

Some good bags are reported by sportsmen on the Comeraghs, where grouse is fairly plentiful. Still they are not as numerous as in past seasons. The increase in foxes, weasels, and hawks preyed on the young birds.

LEFT—

On Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. Patk. Mullins, Millbrook Terrace, Kilmacthomas, and their son and daughter (Michael and Eileen Mullins) set sail from Cobh, bound for the land of the Stars and Stripes and they bear with them the prayers and good wishes of young and old of the whole wide community for their future welfare and happiness in the clime of their adoption. The Mullins' family were beloved of all locally and they deserve to fare well. We join with the rest in bidding them "God-speed," with all that is best to the end of their days.

RIGHT—

How often do we over-hear remarks like these—"I wonder how those people can keep up such style? He can't have such a big 'screw'; yet to see the 'swank' of his wife and family and the airs he put on, you would think he had the Mint at his back. I hope everything they get is paid for."

Comments of the kind, though nearly always motivated by jealousy and envy, may not be surprising in some cases, but whether justified or not it will be more than dangerous to make a swagger show of things if an innovation that Mussolini intends in his country will be adopted in An Saorstad. It does not appear to be satisfied to levy income tax on the amount of income declared by the taxpayer. He has noted the lavish scale upon which many of his fellow-countrymen live, and having looked into the amount some of them pay into the National Exchequer, finds that it bears no proportion whatever to the luxury of their living. Therefore, he proposes to levy tax not on income declared, but on the manner of the life of the subject.

BY THE WAY—

Dear Reader, have you ever experienced what we will describe as a "flash-back"? You visit some place which, from a point of fact, you know you have never been near before, and you find that every inch of it is familiar—you could almost walk about blind-folded, for you feel certain it is known to you. A Kiltosanty resident told us recently that he knows this sensation well. He also explained it as a theory of "hereditary memory." "You feel you have been there before," he said, "because the place was visited years ago by your nearest relations." This, at least, is an explanation. Not very convincing we must admit.

DEATH—

Fortified by the rites of Holy Church, Mrs. Mary Anne Curran, relict of the late Mr. John Curran, Carrigcastle, Bonmahon, breathed her last on the evening of the 15th inst., after a protracted illness and in the fullness of her years. Possessed of many sterling qualities, she was respected by all with whom she came in contact for the quiet sincerity of her manner. The remains, followed by a large cortege, were conveyed to St. Anne's Church, Ballylaneen, on Sunday evening, and, following the celebration of Requiem Mass for her soul on Monday, the burial took place in the adjoining cemetery. Fr. O'Shea, C.C., officiated at the graveside.—R.I.P.

NICE TO NOTE—

That the Gaels of Mid-Waterford were well to the fore amongst the four (or more) thousand enthusiasts present at last Sunday's junior Munster finals at Dungarvan. Here are the full figures of both games—Football: Kerry—15 frees, 6 50's, 8 overs, 4 goals 14 points; Waterford—11 frees 5 overs, 3 goals 1 point. Hurling: Waterford—11 frees, 3 70's, 3 goals 2 points; Cork—2 frees, 24 70's, 11 overs, 1 goal 1 point. The homesters flattered for the first fifteen minutes of the big ball bout, but after that the King-dom's second string were monarchs of the match. Paul Russell and Tom Greaney were Waterford's best by long chalks, and Bernard Spollen did little to justify his selection.

"Our minors are almost as good as our juniors and we mean to capture All-Ireland honours in both grades this year"—so said a Kerry camp-follower to your news-writer at the close of the football game on Sunday. The home-county's canan combination cheered the Deise spectators by their plucky play, and every individual of the side—from good goalie Curley out—gave of his very best. Taking everything into consideration, to collar one Munster title in this Leap Year of grace is something to feel pardonably proud of, and it is to be hoped the victorious hurlers will add the All-Ireland crown to their blades. The Old Borough Club's Ceilidhe in the Town Hall, on Sunday night was well supported and immensely enjoyed.

HOLIDAYISTS—

Nurse A. Cullinan, has just returned to London after spending a pleasant holiday at her parental roof-tree at Currahaha, Kilmacthomas. She is attached to the staff of one of the leading hospitals in the English Metropolis.

Miss Dalton, Briskey, Kiltosanty, and her niece, Miss Bridget Dalton, have also returned to London after an enjoyable holiday in their native parish.

Miss Maggie Hayes, daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. James Hayes, Leamybrien, is home on a two months' holiday from London, looking well, as also is her neighbour, Miss Mary Kirwan, daughter of Mrs. Bridget Kirwan, Ballinagoula (Kiltosanty.)

BIG CONTINGENT—

Upwards of 1,000 Mid-Waterfordians attended the Garda Athletic and Cycling Sports at the Old Borough Sunday week. The day was delightful; the arena admirable; the stewarding and general arrangements absolutely unbeatable; the various events were smartly under way and capitally contested, and the sparkling contributions of the Metropolitan Garda Band appreciably enhanced the glamour of the great occasion. Never before were so many attractively-attired and finely faced figured "eligibles" of the "oposite" sex seen at such an event—little wonder that doughty Dan O'Mahony was there in spirit with the boys from within and without the confines of the Barones! And the youth and beauty of the heat of the Deise country were well to the fore at the Gala Garda Sports Dance on Sunday night.

LETTERS TO HAND—

We have received a number of letters complaining of noises caused by barking dogs and otherwise. Why does not someone offer, as a commercial proposition, the ear-flap with which Mr. Herbert Spencer used to shut off undesired conversations? That which was once deemed an eccentricity and even an impertinence, might well be a boon in the days of motor horns, gramophones and wireless.

"XXX" (Stradbally) states—"It is rather odd to discuss the etiquette of dress in relation to aviation, but I think that a hard bowler is not appropriate for flying." Well, we venture to opine that the best headgear for a flight is none at all, and if this is not a bull, we don't know what it. Anyway, good luck to "XXX!"

"The other day," writes a valued Kill reader, "I met a friend suffering from an irritating sty— a little boil protruding from the edge of his eye. Without extending very much sympathy, I remarked that he looked rather ridiculous and half asleep. My friend grinned. 'You wait,' he said, 'styes are contagious, and it's more than likely you will have one yourself before long.' I laughed and forgot the incident until next morning, when I discovered that the laugh was on me—I had a sty." It is difficult to explain this extraordinary infection. We had heard before that a person who looked at a sty was liable to develop one, but we had not credited the statement.

"Nireside Nell's" epistle is unpleasing times too long to reproduce in full, but a few of her "points" follow: "Did you ever reflect how many people thrive and are fat because of the adverse things that happen to you and me in this wicked world? Their number is legion. . . . It is a misfortune to be ignorant, and every shark, montebank, quack and confidence trickster profits by this misfortune. These shrewd fellows are indebted to every mutt, bumpkin and bonehead for being deficient in charting the familiar ditty to the new words. 'When You're Down, We're Up!' . . . So it's an ill-wind that blows nobody good, and if it were not for our human imperfections half the professional and business world would be obliged to put their shutters up within a week. It's a rum thought. The lucky dogs owe so much to the unlucky dogs in this world." There's "Nireside Nell" you now, bad scans to the dear dickeybird!

THE SEASON—

Thanks in no small degree to the wretched weather that prevailed in June and July, the summer season so far has been anything but a good one. However, with the qualified improvement in the climatic conditions that set in this month, there has been a satisfactory influx of "olishers" or "Gaybricks" (as they term them in Dungarvan). In instituting a comparison between the summer seasons now-a-days and those of the past, it should be remembered that cheap excursions, motors and buses have greatly altered things. Some years ago there were neither railway excursions nor motor traffic, with the result that inlanders wanting a holiday had to come and stay for a time willingly. Further, it must be noted that the Strand district has grown immensely and continues to grow year by year, and that houses in all parts of the town take in visitors during the summer months. In other days they were confined to the comparatively small strand and houses at the Southern end of the town.

EDUCATION—

It is pretty well catered for in Youghal, but the question arises "are the facilities afforded our youth fully availed of?" The admirable schools of the Presentation and Loreto Convents, the South Abbey National and the Christian Brothers Schools provide all that is required in the way of primary and secondary branches. When our girls and boys part with those they are faced with the problem, the very serious and practical problem, of what to do with themselves. Some of them—and it may be safely said a small minority—get positions or take the necessary steps to qualify for some profession or other. But what about the majority? If they hang on doing nothing but awaiting the off chance of "something" turning up, their prospects are anything but rosy. Freed from the restraints of school, they are apt to adopt a policy of "dolce far niente," sweet do nothing, letting their fine brains go rusty for want of use. Then when anything turns up requiring something more than the 3k's they are unable to take it. Here is where the great utility of the Vocational and Technical Education Classes comes in. They hold out wonderful opportunities to past pupils of the ordinary schools of preparing themselves for the real battle of life. The curriculum includes such practical subjects as motor Engineering, Woodwork, Electricity, Geometrical and Mechanical Drawing, Art, and Design, Shorthand and Typewriting, Irish, Cookery, Sewing, Domestic Economy, etc. The fight for existence now-a-days is so intense that no one can be too well prepared for it. It is a good thing to have more strings than one to one's bow.

RUMOUR—

Went round recently to the effect that a certain public official was about to resign his position, which is one of the few-and-far-between local plums." It was at once taken up seriously and within a very short time, some 6 or 7 candidates were "nominated" for the position, by "the man in the street." It is even said that some of the nominators indulged in a bit of anticipatory canvassing. This rumour has been on the go for the past month or more, but though there have been several meetings of the public body which has the appointment to the position in question, there has been no mention, oral or written, and anything tangible in the shape of a notice of resignation. There has been a great deal of wild gossip in connection with the matter, but nothing more.

COUNCIL'S CONGRATULATIONS—

At the weekly meeting of the Urban Council, Mr. Broderick, proposed a vote of congratulation to Mr. and Mrs. J. Clancy, Meashambles street, on the brave action of their son Richard, in saving the life of a fellow seaman in New Zealand. Capt. Watson, seconded. Messrs. Beausang, Power, the Chairman and Clerk and others having associated themselves with the proposition, it was duly passed.

YOUGHAL NOTES.

YOUGHAL LADY RECEIVES HABIT—

An impressive religious ceremony took place during the week in Sienna Convent, Drogheda, when Miss Rose Aherne, only daughter of Mr. Aherne, ex-N.T., and Mrs. Aherne, Strand street, Youghal, received the habit of the Dominican Order, with the name of Sister M. Evangelist of the Blessed Sacrament. Amongst those present in the Sanctuary were Rev. Fr. Aherne, C.C., Ballymacoda, and Rev. J. Aherne, C.C., Cork, (brothers); Mr. and Mrs. Aherne, Youghal (father and mother); Dr. and Mrs. Aherne (brother and sister-in-law) Silvermines. Co. Tipperary and Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald, Dublin (friends of the family).

DEATH OF YOUGHAL MAN

IN DUBLIN— The news of the death in Dublin, of Mr. David Barret, an old Youghal man, was received with genuine regret by his many old friends and admirers in the town, in no way lessened by the fact that he had reached the fine age of 78. Many years before leaving his native place, David Barret, was sacristan to the Parish Church, and in that capacity he was the right man in the right place. In the words of a distinguished member of a Metropolitan—a Youghal man himself by the way—Ulster Order, the late Mr. Barret was "a saint, a scholar and a gentleman" an unobtainable admirable combination. All who knew him can cordially endorse that description. In addition to his other acquirements he was a Church work artist of no mean order and he had a good knowledge of Latin, French and Italian. Some of his old Youghal friends possess souvenirs of his affection for his old townies in the shape of prayer books in English, French, Italian and Irish. Go ndeinidh Dia trocaire araanan.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

DEATH OF SISTER M. BERCHAM'S (O'CONNOR) PRESENTATION CONVENT, DUNGARVAN

The death occurred on Thursday 20th inst. at the Mercy Home, Cork, of Sister Mary Bercham's (O'Connor) one of the most esteemed members of the Community of the Presentation Convent, Dungarvan.

DUNGARVAN FAIR

The August Fair on Wednesday was well supplied with cattle in all departments but trade was slow and prices were lower than at the last fair.

GREAT HORSE FAIR

Dungarvan Horse Fair on Friday 14th was a tremendous success. Buyers from across the Channel and all over Ireland were in attendance.

GOLF NEWS

Next Thursday 27th inst., at Clonea Links, the Married vs. Single Match Competition will take place.

WHAT ABOUT THE SEAWALL?

Now that Mr. Bowen, Co. Surveyor, has laid out the roads at Abbeyside in the most up-to-date style, converting the Strand road via Abbeyside Church into a delightful boulevard, would it not be a wise proposition for our Council to consider the repairs to the sea wall and so put a stop to the erosion which is daily undermining the wall and which, if not dealt with, will eventually destroy both road and Church.

ST. DECLAN'S WELL, ARDMORE

A young local man writes stating that on his first visit to St. Declan's Blessed Well at Ardmore, he was cured of an ailment which the doctor had failed to cure. He exhorts people to visit the Holy Well on July 23rd and 24th each year.

BY-ELECTIONS—F.F. VICTORIES

The By-Elections in Galway and Wexford were won by the Government. The figures were—

- GALWAY—Mr. Neiland (Fianna Gael) 39,982. Prof. J. Hogan (Fine Gael) 22,446. Count Plunkett (Republican) 2,626. WEXFORD—M. D. Allen (F.F.) 23,263. Mr. J. L. Esmonde (Fine Gael) 16,734. Mr. M. Murphy, N.T. (Lab.) 4,276. Mr. S. Hayes, (Republican) 1,301.

DEATH OF MRS. MORRISSEY BURGERY

The death occurred on Tuesday last of Mrs. Morrissey, Burgery, Abbeyside, after a brief illness and fortified by the rites of the Church.

The deceased, who had reached a ripe age, was a most esteemed lady who reared a large and respected family, who are very popular with everybody. She was an upright and honourable lady whose whole life was spent doing good.

IN SPAIN—

Desperate deeds are being done in Spain in the fight for power between the Reds and the anti-Reds. Wholesale massacres are taking place according to the reports issued and the burning of Catholic Churches and the murders of Priests and Nuns are appalling. General O'Duffy, has announced that he will lead an Irish Brigade to fight against Communism in Spain and we hope he will get a big following and show the world that Ireland stands where she always did—solid and true to her ancient Faith.

KILNAFREHAN BALL COURT

Great progress is being made by the members of the local Handball Club to reconstruct the ball court and subject to good weather the operations should be completed by September 1st.

"LOCKIE BYRNE" CASE—LATEST DEVELOPMENTS

We are indebted to a Waterford Contemporary for the following interesting side-lights on the above case.

"A meeting was held to make arrangements for the training of the Mooncoin team for the replay with James Stephens, and it was urged that each player get down to serious practice and training to be perfectly fit for the next outing.

The statement of Mr. Dunphy was greeted with applause and tribute was paid to Mr. Clifford for his sporting gesture on behalf of Limerick.

LISMORE DISTRICT COURT

In the absence on holidays of Mr. Patrick O'Keefe, Court Clerk, the duties of clerk were efficiently carried out by Mr. J. Ballantyne, Lismore.

Alleged Arson

The Attorney-General, at the suit of Supt. Quinlan, Lismore, charged Mr. Mountain, Knockmore, with having set fire to a house at Knockmore on the night of Dec. 16th, 1935.

Mr. E. A. Ryan, State Solr., Dungarvan, prosecuted, and Mr. O'Gorman, solr., Lismore, defended.

Mr. Ryan said he would not be able to go on with all the evidence, and he proposed to examine only two witnesses, the Sgt. of the district, and Capt. Quicke, Handwriting Expert, Dublin, after which he would ask to have the case adjourned to a future date.

Mr. O'Gorman, solr., raising no objection, the Justice acceded to this course.

Sergt. Corby, Killenagh, examined by Mr. Ryan, stated that in consequence of a report received by him on the night of Dec. 16, 1935, he proceeded to Knockmore at 11.45 and found a dwellinghouse and shop premises on fire, and despite the efforts of the Guards and civilians, the premises were completely destroyed.

The premises belonged to Mrs. Bridget Mountain, mother of accused, but were occupied as a lock-up shop by a local lady. Very few articles were saved, as the house had a thatched roof and was blazing furiously when he arrived. The accused occupied another part of the premises, and witness saw him at the window of the room in which he was sleeping. There was a door communicating between the shop and the part of the house where accused resided, the upper portion of the door having a glass window, but this was all broken up as a result of the fire.

Witness handed in a sketch of the premises which he made.

Captain Quicke, Handwriting Expert, Dublin, in reply to Mr. Ryan, stated that on or about July 11th, he had received the letter marked "A," now produced. He also received the document marked "A 2," which was the second sheet of the letter marked "A." He also received the letter marked "B," signed by Michael Mountain, and also the letter marked "C," which was similarly signed by Michael Mountain. He further received some specimens of writing, and having submitted them to the usual tests by micro-photographs, he was satisfied that all the documents referred to are in the same handwriting.

Witness then handed in twelve photographs, of specimen words and letters from the various documents, which were attached to his deposition.

Mr. O'Gorman, solr., said he had no questions to ask the witness.

Mr. Ryan said this was all the evidence he would tender today, and the further hearing of the case was then adjourned to the next Lismore Court, the accused being allowed out on bail.

Charge of Dangerous Driving

Supt. Quinlan, Lismore, summoned Denis Kenneally, Sean House, Ballyduff, for dangerously driving a pony and trap at Ballyduff on Sunday, 28th June, contrary to the provisions of The Road Traffic Act.

Inspector O'Brien, Cork, conducted the prosecution, and Mr. E. Carroll, solr., Fermoy, defended.

Thomas Herlihy, N.T., Mitchelstown, in reply to the Inspector, said that on Sunday morning, June 28th, he was motoring from Mitchelstown to Youghal via Ballyduff, accompanied by his son.

After crossing the bridge at Ballyduff he saw a horse and trap approaching him on his side of the road and he immediately applied his brakes and pulled up the car within a short distance. The iron step on the right hand side of the trap caught the right-hand wing lamp of his car and damaged it. There were three persons in the trap, including the defendant, one of them being a lady, who screamed and fell out of the trap as the accident happened. Witness had been driving a car for 11 years. He reported the accident at Ballyduff barrack, and Guard Barry arrived and took measurements.

By Mr. Carroll, witness said it was a 1930 Ford car he was driving, and he was practically stopped when the step of the trap struck his lamp as he pulled up the moment he saw the trap right up against him.

Mr. Carroll—Would I be right in saying that you were admiring the scenery along the river as you were going over the bridge and not paying much attention to the position of your car on the road?

Witness denied this and said his son was on that side of the car at the time. He also denied that he had been driving along the middle of the road and only pulled his car over to the left-hand side after the accident had occurred.

Guard Barry, Ballyduff, stated when he came on the scene he found the motor car on its own side of the road, the left front wheel being only an inch from the left-hand wall, and the rear wheel being only a foot from the wall. The road was 31 feet wide at that point, and the accident had happened 25 feet beyond the pillar of the bridge. A driver coming from Ballyduff direction would have a clear view of about 80 yards after clearing the bridge.

To Mr. Carroll, witness said he saw no tracks which would suggest that the motor car had been turned in from the centre of the road to the spot where he found it. The pony and trap had gone away as Mr. Kenneally and his party had gone to Mass in Ballyduff.

The defendant examined by Mr. Carroll said he was driving a 20-year-old pony and was travelling at only about 4 miles an hour on his way to Mass when the accident occurred. There were three altogether in the trap, and he was going slowly on his own side of the road when the motor car came over the bridge at a fast pace in the centre of the road and collided with him with such force that his sister was thrown out of the trap.

There was no negligence on his part, and he claimed that it was the motorist who was to blame for the accident.

Defendant having been cross-examined by the Inspector, Mr. Carroll asked for a dismissal, as he had received certain instructions with a view to taking a civil action in connection with the accident, and he asked the Justice not to give any decision which might prejudice the result of such action.

The Justice said he would accede to Mr. Carroll's request and dismiss the case, as this was the first prosecution in connection with a pony and trap brought before him under the new Traffic Act. He wished it to be publicly known, however, that all classes of vehicles, including pony traps as well as bicycles now came under the provisions of this Act, and where he had any future cases before him for a serious infringement of the Traffic Act he would impose heavy fines.

A Weekly or Monthly Tenancy?

The Lismore Estates Co., (Lismore Castle), sued Guard Peter Murphy, Lismore, for the sum of £1 8s. 2d., alleged to be due for rent for a house formerly held in Chapel street, Lismore, by defendant, who now resides in the Main street.

Mr. E. Carroll, solr., Fermoy, appeared for plaintiffs, and Mr. O'Gorman, solr., defended.

Plaintiff's case was that the defendant took the house as a monthly tenant and was bound to give a month's notice when leaving, or pay a month's rent, but as he gave only a week's notice on April 25th, he was now charged for the rent up to May 25th, in accordance with the conditions governing a monthly tenancy.

The defence was that the house was taken as a weekly tenancy, and that the defendant had complied with all the requirements by giving only a week's notice.

Mr. E. E. Hey, Secretary of the Estates Co., stated that the house was let to defendant as a monthly tenant on January 23, 1934, at the rent of 36/- per month, including rates, but this was later changed to 39/- per month, without rates. Defendant gave a week's notice on April 25, 1936 and gave up possession at the end of April, and the present claim was for the balance of rent due up to May 25.

The rent books were then produced, and Mr. O'Gorman pointed out that the original book showed that it was for a weekly tenancy, but Mr. Hey said that this was a mistake and the words "monthly tenancy" were later written in by his assistant.

Mr. Carroll asked for the production of a letter which he had sent to defendant, and which would show that it was a monthly tenancy, but defendant said he had not that letter now.

Mr. Carroll said that unfortunately, he had forgotten to bring a copy of the letter with him, which was lying in his office in Fermoy, and he now asked for an adjournment of the case in order to enable him to produce it the next day, and he would pay all the costs of the day.

The Justice refused Mr. Carroll's application and said the case must now proceed.

Mr. Carroll said this placed him at a great disadvantage, as the letter was a most important one, but the Justice said he couldn't help that.

Mr. Hey, having been cross-examined at length by Mr. O'Gorman as to the alterations in the rent book and other points.

Guard Murphy, was examined by Mr. O'Gorman and stated that when he took over possession of the house it was on the distinct understanding that he was to be a weekly tenant, but as he was paid only monthly it was agreed that the rent should be paid monthly.

The first rent book he got showed clearly that he was a weekly tenant, but when he found later that this had been changed into a "monthly" tenancy he took the book down to the Estate Office and got this entry rectified by Mr. Henchcliffe.

Defendant added that it would be a foolish thing for any Civic Guard to enter into a monthly tenancy, as he was liable to be transferred on a few days' notice.

Defendant having been cross-examined by Mr. Carroll, the Justice said he was satisfied that this was a weekly tenancy, and he, accordingly, dismissed the case.

Instalment Order

Joseph Levin, Cork, applied for an instalment order against Timothy Doherty and his wife, Mary Anne Doherty, Lismore, on foot of a decree previously obtained for a debt due for goods sold to the defendants.

The Justice made an order against the male defendant for an instalment order at the rate of 5/- per week, but struck out the case against his wife.

Drunk and Disorderly

Guard Mason, Lismore, summoned Percy V. Lloyd, Stranally, for being drunk and disorderly in Chapel street, Lismore.

Complainant stated that he found the defendant, hanging on to the door of a motor car, he being drunk at the time. Witness was in plain clothes, and when he told defendant that he was a Civic Guard, defendant replied "I'm a Civic Guard, too," and became abusive towards him.

There was no appearance on behalf of defendant in Court, and when the Justice asked what was his position, complainant said he was a man of independent means, and the Justice then imposed a fine of 40/-.

No Lights

Guard Collins, v. Michael Roche, for cycling without a light. Fined 2/6.

Guard Murphy v. Michael O'Gorman, Cooladlane, no lamp and no reflector on his horse and cart. Fined 2/6 and 1/-.

Present—Messrs. R. C. Farrell, Vice-Chairman, presiding; M. Cashman, R. Power, T. Beausang, R. Savage, Capt. C. Watson, M. Ahern, J. Daly, B.E., M. D. Broderick, E. P. Lynch.

The Minutes of the previous meeting having been read.

The Chairman said his recollection was that the meeting was adjourned before the resolution of Messrs. Savage and Power was brought up. He did not know exactly the position with reference to the latter portion of the minutes.

Mr. Savage said his recollection was that the Chairman didn't adjourn the meeting.

Mr. Power said it was 9.35 when he moved the suspension of Standing Orders.

Mr. Beausang said when the Chairman accepted the motion re the Standing Orders the meeting went on.

Mr. Power said that six formed a quorum and six remained after the Chairman vacated the chair.

The Chairman said he left the chair because he didn't accept the proposition which he deemed political.

Mr. Power said when he recently moved a proposition requesting the Government to release the prisoners, it wasn't refused as being political. The Chairman took an "imperialistic" outlook.

The Chairman said he didn't pay much heed to Mr. Power's opinion. If Mr. Power spoke as an out and out Republican, they could understand his attitude.

Mr. Broderick suggested that the Chairman sign the first part of the minutes and Mr. Lynch the rest.

The Clerk said he didn't take it that the Chairman had adjourned the meeting, otherwise he would not have gone on with the business.

Mr. Broderick agreed with the Clerk. Mr. Lynch—Were we within our rights in carrying on the meeting when it was not adjourned?

The Clerk—Yes.

Mr. Broderick said the resolution regarding Michael Conway was passed when the meeting consisted of 6 supporters of the Government. He suggested that the Chairman sign the minutes and let them go on with the business.

After further considerable discussion, Mr. Daly pointed out that they had already waited 25 minutes thrashing the matter out. He proposed that if the Chairman wouldn't sign the minutes, he leave the Chair, and let another take it.

Finally the minutes were signed.

Deputation re Sea Wall Correspondence was read regarding the proposed deputation to the Minister on the subject of the Sea Wall.

Main Sewer The Local Government wrote with reference to the proposed new main sewer, which it was proposed to carry out in sections. The back streets were served by a rubble sewer, which the Co. M.O.H. said was working satisfactorily. In the circumstances it would not be advisable to undertake a scheme involving heavy expenditure.

Grant For Work A letter was read from the Department notifying a grant of £405 for road and footpath work, provided the Council put up a similar amount.

The offer was unanimously accepted, and it was decided to raise a loan of £405 to carry it out.

Spanish Atrocities Mr. Cashman proposed a strongly-worded resolution condemning the "Red" atrocities on religion and religious in Spain and calling on the Government to break off diplomatic and trade relations with the "hellish Government" of that country.

The Chairman said he was sure that the Government were aware of what was happening.

Mr. Ahern seconded.

Mr. Lynch said that Italy and Germany deserved congratulations on the part they took.

Messrs. Savage, Power and others having supported the proposition, it was passed unanimously.

RESTAURANT FINED FOR PRICE INCREASE

The owner of a well-known wine restaurant in the Kurfirstendamm, Berlin's largest West End thoroughfare, has been fined £75 because he increased his prices for the Olympic Games.

This was only two days before the formal dissolution of the Second Dail and three days before the Third Dail was to assemble. The Third Dail did not meet. The Provisional Parliament met instead. That Parliament dissolved the Republic and acted as if the people had formally accepted the Treaty and Constitution.

COMMISSION OF INQUIRY INTO FREE STATE'S BIRTH

PRESIDENT'S PROPOSALS

AN offer that he was prepared to propose to the Executive Council the setting up of an Historical Commission of Inquiry into the sequence of events leading up to the Treaty, and the events leading up to the Civil War, was made by President de Valera, in Co. Wexford.

Referring to "the propaganda which passed for a history of that period," he said that on one occasion he had suggested to the former Government, when the Civil War was under discussion, that an Historical Commission of Inquiry should be set up so that there might be some independent authoritative examination of the sequence of events leading up to the signing of the Treaty, and later the sequence of events leading up to the start of the Civil War. His suggestion at that time met with no response.

"I am ready," he said, "to let Mr. Cosgrave nominate three of the members, say a judge or constitutional lawyer; a professor or recognised student of history (say, his candidate for Galway), and some person similarly qualified, to examine documents and to weigh historical evidence.

"I will similarly nominate three of the same character.

"If we cannot agree upon an impartial Chairman, I am prepared to invite the Bench of Bishops to nominate one of their body to be an impartial chairman.

"I am prepared to give evidence before it, and Mr. Cosgrave and Miss MacSwiney may both be my accusers, if they will.

"The whole of the Government archives can be made available to them.

"If this challenge be accepted I have no doubt that the result will be of lasting benefit and will end the expense of producing views and propaganda as if they were impartial history and truth.

Reviewing the history of that time for the benefit of young people, who, he said, could not themselves be expected to know first-hand the complex happenings of the time, he asked to remember that Dail Eireann, after the General Election of 1918, declared Ireland's independence as a Republic, and pledged itself to maintain the Republic by every means in its power.

In 1922 another General Election was held, the people being asked to return members to maintain the Republic.

Dail Eireann of itself was not competent to dis-establish the Republic. The people only and not the Dail could dis-establish the Republic.

The Republican members continued to sit in the Dail for the vote on the Treaty when explicit undertakings had been given by Mr. Griffith that the Republican institutions would be preserved intact until the people in a General Election had pronounced on the issues of the Treaty.

When the Republican Army in March 1922, began to be divided he urged that the new Minister for Defence and the new Cabinet be given the same loyal obedience as had been given to Cathal Brugha of the old Cabinet.

Bitterness, however, increased. A conference broke down.

A general election was announced for the middle of June, and an agreement was finally reached and signed on May 20, generally called "The Pact."

The effect of that Pact was that the Sinn Fein Organisation should, as a united whole, contest the election against all organisations. It provided that after the election a Coalition Cabinet could be formed. That agreement was also broken, but not by them.

It was broken on the eve of polling day, after both sides had been through the campaign together. It was quite clear that the Treaty as such could not have been an issue in that election.

After the result became known, Republicans were in doubt as to what was going to happen, but it was clear that the spirit of the Pact was not likely to be adhered to. Discussions between the two sides, and particularly between the two sections of the army, were still taking place when Sir Henry Wilson was shot dead.

It was that rather than any other single happening that destroyed finally the peaceful settlement for which the Republican Party in the Dail had striven.

Sir Henry Wilson was shot on June 22, 1922, and on the same day Mr. Lloyd George wrote to Mr. Collins, stating that documents had been found upon the murderers of Sir Henry Wilson clearly connecting the assassins with the I.R.A.

He insisted that Rory O'Connor and his followers should not be permitted to remain in the Four Courts, promising whatever military assistance might be necessary.

An ultimatum was sent to those in occupation of the Four Courts and Fowler Hall, and on the 28th June cannon opened fire on the Four Courts.

This was only two days before the formal dissolution of the Second Dail and three days before the Third Dail was to assemble. The Third Dail did not meet. The Provisional Parliament met instead. That Parliament dissolved the Republic and acted as if the people had formally accepted the Treaty and Constitution.

By what could only be called a coup d'etat by the Executive they proceeded to change the established State and substitute another. It was thus that the Civil War began. In the Spring of 1923 it was evident that the Republic could not be restored by force, and so in order that

YOUGHAL MENTAL HOSPITAL

At the usual monthly meeting of the Committee of the above there attended: Messrs. Wm. J. Broderick, T.D., Chairman; Sean O'Loaghaire, T.C.; Rev. D. Duane, and Dr. M. Twomey, P.C., Visiting Physician.

Arrangements out of the reading of the minutes, the Chairman said that the Inspector referred to was the Inspector of Public Health Department and not of the Agricultural Department.

Doctor's Report The Doctor's report was as follows:—

Since my last report there has been one death. One patient is confined to bed on the male side of the house and nine on the female side owing to debility and other causes. There has been no case of seclusion, restraint, injury or violence. There has been no complaint of the water supply. The food supplies have been regularly examined and found up to standard requirements. There has been no case of zymotic disease and the general health of the Institution is excellent.

Manager's Report The Manager's report read:—

Since last meeting two patients—one female and one male) have been admitted from the Cork Mental Hospital and one female has died, leaving in residence at present a total of 427 patients (257 men and 170 women).

The account of Mr. Hyde, Veterinary Surgeon, in connection with his visit to Youghal, to inspect the beef supply was submitted. Contracts have been satisfactorily carried out during the month.

The Insurance Inspector's report on engines and dynamos, was attached. Cheque value £29 15s. od., had been received for the sale of pigs, and £2 towards the maintenance of patients. These had been lodged to the credit of the Mental Hospital account. The corn was ripe for threshing and a thrasher was required.

In reply to the Chairman, it was said that the number in the house varied. The normal was 80.

There were five tenders received for the supply of beef for the month—39/3, 39/8, 44/-, 48/- and 41/10.

The Chairman said three of the tenders were rather low. A fair average price would be about 44/-.

Mr. O'Leary said since the recent squabble about tenders, he had come to the conclusion that it was rather a mistake to accept the lowest tender in any case, if it did not compare reasonably with current market prices. He thought they ought knock out the two lowest tenders.

The Chairman said the hides and other things should be considered. He didn't think they could rule the tenders out as suggested.

Fr. Duane said the contractors might be speculating on a falling market.

The Chairman said there was a seasonal fall from August to October. The tenders might be low, but they were not ridiculously low. The lowest tender would not make much money.

Mr. O'Leary—I'd be inclined to accept the tender for 41/10, whoever he is.

The Chairman—I would be in favour of recommending the lowest tender.

Mr. O'Leary said he would raise that question on every possible occasion. At such low prices, the patients could not get a fair crack of the whip from the contractors.

In reply to a query, Fr. Duane, said that the last contract price was 33/-.

Mr. O'Leary—What was the market price at the time?

The Chairman—That was the market price at the time.

The tenders were referred to the Cork meeting.

Complaints were made that the price got for the pigs sold was not satisfactory.

"WORLD'S RUDEST MOTORIST"

Mr. James O'Flaherty, of Hamilton, Canada, says he has met the "world's most discourteous motorist."

He was crossing the street when a car knocked him down.

The driver leapt out of the car, waited for the dazed man to regain his feet, and then knocked him unconscious with a heavy blow to the jaw.

The motorist then jumped back into the car, and calmly drove away.

THE EVOLUTION OF THE SUGAR BEET PLANT

HOW THE SCIENTIST HAS IMPROVED UPON THE WORK OF NATURE

Of the real origin of the sugar beet we cannot be quite certain. According to some authorities, both the common mangel and the sugar beet are descended from a wild plant called Beta Vulgaris, or common beet, or from a variety of this plant very similar to the so-called sea beet (Beta maritima). This much is certain, that the ancestors of the aristocratic sugar beet were humble plants, living for preference on land near the coast, and rejoicing in rather more salt than the ordinary plant considers desirable in the soil.

The roots of these primitive beet were long, fleshy and very tough, but under the influence of cultivation the roots became succulent enough to use as a food for stock.

We, in these islands, can claim no credit at all for developing the plant. We have followed Continental farmers right from the start. German farmers have been using the improved beet, or mangel, for some time before it was introduced over here some 130 years ago. This mangel was found to be a useful addition to our clearing crops, but no interest was taken in it apart from its stock feed virtues.

Abroad, however, the significance of its sugar content had not passed unnoticed. Maggraf had isolated sugar from the mangel in 1747, which was about the time that Townsend in Norfolk, was devoting himself to the improvement of the common turnip. Fifty-two years later the

BEAUTIFUL BONMAHON

THE Morning Star of prosperity has apparently again risen over this historic and romantic spot by the silvery sea, for I have noticed much activity concerning the project of the re-starting of the Copper Mines. Bonmahon has witnessed various vicissitudes of fortune the rise and fall of industrial anticipations and prospects its resources tapped with equal success and failure, fortunes made and lost, in the undertaking. It is not, however, with the financial features of the project I am concerned but with the prospect of finding much-needed employment for our people, peace and contentment for wage-earners in a happy home. Modern conditions have completely changed our modes of living and only the few of us who remain can look back with regret at the glamour and hectic style of the old mining days. Bonmahon was no exception in this respect and its white tents and white washed walls presented an animated scene in the morning sunshine with the silvery waves in the background, a fitting back to the picture. Then the modes of travelling on the highways for only roads were open to the public to those bygone days. True we had no Biancino cars plying out of Bonmahon, but we had other unique ways and means of travelling. There was old Jimmy Shearan with his four donkeys silver mounted harness and tandem, plying for hire carrying passengers daily on the public thoroughfare in and out of Waterford and what fun and enjoyment was experienced on those journeys.

What a picturesque sight the arrival on Waterford Quay, the driver top-hatted, long whip in hand with a commanding influence over his control reminiscent of the period.

Bonmahon is situated at the mouth of the river Mahon, which flows down from the Comeragh mountains and I give here a brief history of past workings of ore in the mines.

In old manuscripts reference is made to mines here, but it was not until 1745 however, any determined effort was made to work in the Knockmahon area and a Company was formed and rented the rights from Lord Ranelagh and in a few months the workers raised 130 tons of Copper and 35 tons of lead ore. Later a Mr. Wyse worked them and in 1811 Lord Ormonde expended considerable sums in the experiment. It was not however, until 1824 a permanent success became apparent. The Mining Company of Ireland in this year took over the rights starting with a subscribed capital of £500,000, of which £140,000 was paid up. The success of the venture was so creditable that the shareholders received in dividends the value of their shares twice over. Owing to foreign competition and the value of the metal having fallen by half this undertaking was abandoned about 1870, the Company subsequently liquidated. However, again in the early years of the present century a prospecting company was formed, but this too, was abandoned through lack of working capital. In this era of Industrial revival we look forward to a successful issue of the project. For its mining operations Bonmahon got on the map and the miners who emigrated from here carried its name and fame to the gold fields of far away Australia, the mining areas of Bute, besides several other districts in the colonies. And wasn't it here, too, that great American Orator and Statesman Senator Leno was born. I had the pleasure of his acquaintance and after 30 years can still picture his great tone and ringing voice, also within sight and the sympathy of these waves Tyrone Power the outstanding actor of his day was brought up. His acting on the stage in after years thrilled audiences by the thousand in South Africa, Australia and the United States of America. Unfortunately his career was brought to an untimely end for he went down on the ill-fated ship President on his return after a second most successful tour of America. And again, it was here that great seaman Commander Mark Anthony, first saw the light. In a great measure he was responsible for the Naval victory at Trafalgar. He commanded a Frigate and it was his dexterity and daring in a flanking movement that changed the day in favour of England. He sleeps peacefully beside his forbears in the local Churchyard.

with a further example of vegetable evolution, but it demonstrates also the evolution of modern agriculture. Introduced about the middle of the eighteenth century the turnip at once provided an alternative food for stock, and an alternative method of cleaning land. Prior to turnip cultivation the only satisfactory means of cleaning agricultural land was by following it—an expensive and somewhat wasteful method. The turnip made it possible to both clean land and get a crop off it, thought it is interesting to note that at first the plant was sown broadcast. The turnip had developed from an ugly, rather coarse plant, into the present-day shapely "root" easily digestible and nutritious, through the constant attention of selectors and breeders. It is worth noting, however, that the yellow-fleshed turnip, which is sometimes spoken of as the "hybrid turnip," is not the result of a cross between a white fleshed turnip and a swede. Experiments in crossing these two plants have been made, but the progeny are not like yellow fleshed turnips and are sterile.

The question of the evolution of the cereals is one of the most interesting possible, but it cannot be discussed within the limits of an article such as this. The literature on the subjects is enormous and is continually being added to. But if one has access to a collection, say, of wheats from all parts of the world, one cannot fail to be struck by the way in which the different types grade, the one into the other. The primitive ones with slender ears and skinny grains, the most recent ones with heavy ears, and plump, well-filled grain. In between there are all possible variations. Here again it is the breeder and collector who have played the foremost part in evolution—D. in "Farmers Gazette."

BY THE WAY— A well-known Cork commercial traveller states that when calling on his numerous customers he tells some short, snappy story which makes them laugh, puts them in a good temper, so that they look over their stocks to see if they can give him an order. His friends say that "it is marvellous the amount of business he nearly gets."

VETERINARY RESEARCH IN THE FREE STATE

Protecting Our Live Stock Industry

In a paper read at the general meeting of the Veterinary Medical Association of Ireland, held at the Veterinary College, Dublin, Professor W. Kearney, M.R.C.V.S., makes an earnest plea for some determined line of action which would procure better facilities for research work in the Irish Free State.

The animal population of this country, he pointed out, according to the census made on the 1st June, 1935, consists approximately of 4,019,000 cattle, 320,000 horses, 12,000 mules and jennets, 153,000 donkeys, 3,042,000 sheep, 121,000 goats, 1,088,000 pigs, 19,485,000 poultry, making a total of 28,340,000 farm animals, (not including cats). The monetary value of these animals has been officially estimated at £43,000,000.

In 1928, the value of farm animals in the country was estimated at £72,000,000. The export trade in live stock and live stock products realised £32,250,000 in 1930 and £13,153,000 in 1935, while the total agricultural exports realised £43,000,000 and £19,815,000 in the same years, which means that the sales of live stock and their products overseas approximate 70 per cent. of the value of the total agricultural export trade.

For the maintenance of this asset, the largest source of wealth in the country, the veterinary profession bears a considerable share of responsibility. The freedom of these animals from certain infectious diseases allows them entrance to the markets of Great Britain and other countries which otherwise would be closed to them, and without which the live stock industry of the country would soon dwindle to comparative insignificance.

"This state of freedom from these diseases has resulted," Professor Kearney said, "from the scientific application of measures of eradication and prevention adopted by our profession in the past. (The diseases I refer to are: rinderpest, pleuro-pneumonia, glanders, rabies, foot-and-mouth disease and swine fever). Furthermore, were it not for our profession existing infectious diseases would, in all probability, become so widespread that live stock production would not be an economical undertaking. In short, the very existence of the biggest industry in the country is dependent on our profession. It appears to me that there are not many people engaged in the industry or outside it who realise that fact, and I submit that the sooner it is more generally known the sooner will the industry benefit."

"The purpose of this paper, however," Professor Kearney continued, "is not to boost the veterinary profession or to unduly stress its importance, but to put before you the nature of the work which still confronts us, and the pressing need for making more adequate provisions to reduce the waste from existing diseases. There are still in this country a number of infectious and other diseases of animals, which, though not alarming in their severity in any particular locality, are, nevertheless, serious in their general economic and public health effects. I refer particularly to tuberculosis, infertility, contagious abortion of cattle, mastitis of cows, diseases of newly-born animals, worm infestations and certain diseases of sheep, poultry and dogs.

"The direct and indirect losses from these diseases are not possible to estimate with any degree of accuracy, but I have roughly calculated the direct losses as being in the neighbourhood of three million pounds per annum. At this figure it means that in an industry capitalised at £43,000,000, there is a preventable annual wastage of £3,000,000 approximately. I ask you what commercial concern would allow such a state of affairs to continue, and how many shareholders from among our farming community would remain content with a directorate with whom they had invested money, who were responsible for such a position?

"What are the necessary facilities required to undertake the work? Before any measures of disease suppression can be applied, it is necessary to investigate the causation, methods of spread and other factors which influence the occurrence of disease. In other words, research must be undertaken as a preliminary step. The application of suppressive measures will then follow on the lines best indicated by the results of the preliminary investigation. At the present time the facilities for veterinary research here are ultra vires, for they are so meagre that they cannot be materially effective.

"In the official estimates of Government expenditure there is provided under the heading of veterinary research a figure of £3,778, but the position is, in fact, that only the salary of one research officer and about £170 are expended on this work. The balance of £3,108 is devoted to laboratory diagnosis work of a routine nature. This means that a sum of about £670 only is spent annually in investigating ways and means of preventing a loss through various diseases of £3,000,000 a year.

"Let us compare this provision with that of other countries in this respect. In Great Britain, with an animal population of 6,338,000 cattle, 18,470,000 sheep, 3,812,000 pigs, a little over three times the animal population of this country, there are eight veterinary research institutes, employing 32 research workers at an expenditure for which, unfortunately, I have not been able to get a complete estimate, but towards which £32,570 are given by the Development Fund annually.

"In Northern Ireland, where there are 799,250 cattle, 618,300 sheep, 457,000 pigs, 21,800 equines and 10,886,000 poultry, or approximately one quarter of the population of the Irish Free State. Leaving poultry out of consideration, the annual expenditure on Veterinary Research is £719.

GREAT DANCE

The dancing season opened at Lismore on Sunday night last, when the Dramatic Club held a Cinderella dance which was well patronised by all the dancing enthusiasts from the surrounding towns as well as from the home venue. The hall was a picture of invitation in itself, and with the floor in perfect order, and with the enjoyment was spent, great night's entertainment was the result. People came as far as Cork, Fermoy and Youghal and the adjoining towns were well represented.

The music was supplied by the Lismore Nightingale Orchestra. Dancing continued until 2 o'clock.

LISMOR ESPORTS

The above will be held in Lismore on Sunday, August 30th, and with the records of previous years behind them, this year's sports should eclipse all previous records. Very valuable prizes will be offered for the different events, and a big Sports Dance will be held in the Town Hall, that night.
