

CALL TO IRISH PEOPLE

ARCHBISHOP'S PLEA

AT the dedication of the new Cathedral at Mullingar on Sunday, the special sermon was preached by Most Rev. Dr. Glennon, Archbishop of St. Louis, U.S.A.

His Lordship said that little did St. Patrick dream that the message he brought to Ireland was destined to develop a civilisation in which the human spirit was raised to heights undreamt of by the bards and harpists who subdued and enthralled the great gatherings that held revel in Tara's halls.

The apostasy and barbarism from which Irish missionaries rescued Europe in the past, threatened the world again and our Holy Father had called attention to the doom that impended. In his Encyclical on "The Reconstruction of the Social Order" he warned them that now as more than once before in the history of the Church, they were confronted with a world which, in large measure, had fallen back into paganism.

But he did not behold this appalling condition in impotent dismay. The stultified loyalists, frustrated hopes, intellectual bewilderment and emotional despair that oppressed the world to-day with evils which, in their peculiar accumulation, were unprecedented in history did not daunt the intrepid Shepherd of the Seven Hills. He saw how this anarchy might be arrested and order restored and hope and happiness brought back.

He proclaimed that this plague-infested world could be cured only by the benign Dictatorship of Christ, and, accordingly, he had instituted the Feast of Christ the King which he had made the beginning of a more memorable crusade than that which Pope Urban inaugurated 800 years ago. The Crusaders of old sought the recovery of the holy places from the sacrilegious hold of infidel hands.

The Crusade under the leadership of Christ the King sought to recover those sanctuaries polluted by the growing secularism of the modern world.

When the Holy Father called the world to rally to the standard of the new King, no country responded with more joyous alacrity and more fervent enthusiasm than Ireland. The new King was immediately proclaimed through the land. His inspiration energised every department of Catholic action; churches were built under His patronage; and a monument to Him had been planted at the port where the largest numbers arrived in and departed from Ireland, so that travellers might receive the blessing of His welcome and farewell.

But while He was thus widely and loyally proclaimed it was reserved for Royal Meath to build the Basilica of His Coronation and to be the first diocese, not merely in Ireland but in the world, to dedicate its Cathedral to Christ the King. Thus there was more than pious justice in restoring to ancient Meath a monarchy more glorious than the one she lost. For here, where St. Patrick first preached the Faith to Irish kings, the new Monarch, not merely of Ireland but of the world, radiated with a richer effulgence, the light which Patrick first kindled on the Hill of Slane on the Easter of long ago.

They had every confidence that Irish steadfastness would not fail in the crisis they faced today. The kingdoms of the world and the glory of them had been offered as the reward of their apostasy in the past, but the bribe had ever been refused with disdain and defiance.

The Irish exile went sadly but intrepidly to other lands and the crucifixion he underwent at home proved but the means of spreading the Gospel of the Risen Christ wherever the English language was spoken.

The stability of the Irish was put to a severe test in three revolutions within the memory of men not yet old—the Land War and the disturbances that preceded and followed the establishment of the Free State. And yet, despite unrest abroad and revolution at home, and their ingrained opposition for centuries to the civil law that attempted to rule them, the Church, a Divine institution, went serenely on, and the faith and piety of the people were now as deep and intense as ever.

Croagh Patrick and Lough Derg, symbols of man's soaring spirit and heaven's reflection on earth, attracted pilgrims in increasing numbers, who carried out in all the austerity of primitive Christianity those exercises which were the discipline of the Christian athlete and man's best effort to pay for the stripes wherewith he was healed.

And while pilgrims prayed, the scholars had not been idle. The opportunities presented by the educational system of the new State were availed of by students with the same eagerness that made Ireland the Island of Scholars in the past, and their contribution to the more permanent forms of literature in general had a range, a depth, and a distinction such as might have been only expected from a people whose institutions of learning were the uninterrupted development of centuries.

"What answer will Ireland make to the appeal of the exiled Christ? Here you lovingly enthroned Him, but over there His Kingdom is being ravaged, His people destroyed. What answer will you make what action will you take but first to give the exiles a welcome, a loyal welcome, a welcome home?"

"What further can you do? It has been said that preceding Him have come agents from the Governments that exiled Him preaching a similar gospel here, telling you also to betray Him.

"Well, my friends, it would be but simple justice, as well as a duty you owe your nation, to outlaw those who have outlawed Him, and with their exit have the solemn warning to all their kind written on the nation's portals: 'They shall not pass!'

"Further, it were a consumation devoutly to be prayed for in this satanic warfare, now almost universal, that you would make of this island a veritable City and Citadel of God, a beacon light to this storm-tossed humanity, whereby it may, if it will reach some harbour of rest where it shall find peace with God. This Basilica was being dedicated to Christ the King at a time when His Kingship was being denied by so many nations that for centuries had yielded Him loving obedience.

If at the time when the great Pontiff proclaimed the Feast of Christ the King the nations had begun to question His divinely royal prerogatives, they now denied them altogether. They wanted no King but Caesar, and the new Caesar they would serve was but a defilement, in one nation its super-nationalism, in another of race supremacy; in a third of an immoral gregariousness—in all of them the degradation of the Lord God and the fatuous purpose of crowning with divinity their own degraded selves. As for the gentle Jesus, they again condemned Him to death, blasphemed His Name, stripped Him of His garments, polluted His temples, murdering His shepherds while they dispersed His flock.

"I see again a lonely Man and friendless, a crown of thorns, a bleeding heart, an Exile from lands that for centuries had received his benison," said his Grace. "These hands He made great—He brought them civilisation, hope, redemption. And now outlawed by them He stands an exile on the shores of the Irish sea. What a glorious decision that will be if at the call of the King the faithful sons of St. Patrick, no longer scattered, no longer exiled, became united in one grand army of Catholic Action, and thus united, with the prayer of St. Patrick on their lips,

'I bind to myself this day the strength of Heaven—the Power of God—'

how inspiring it would be to see them hurl themselves against the ramparts of sin and slavery—to see them marching outward under the standard of the Cross to the conquest of the world."

Referring to the new Cathedral, his Grace said: "Your Basilica has a strength and grace, a majesty and delicacy that symbolises what is best in Irish character and 'its twin towers are an outward and visible sign that Church and State in Ireland will ever co-operate in promoting the glory of God and the honour of Erin.

"The architecture harks back to the past and points to the future. It embodies those striking features with which the early Christian Church gave a new conception of beauty to the world. But they are treated with something better than antiquarian fidelity; they are adapted to the needs and the spirit of our times and the ease with which this is accomplished is an evidence that Irish art is re-asserting its creative genius.

"It was a happy thought to introduce features of the Romanesque, which form of art owes so much to the beauty of Ireland's ancient illuminated manuscripts.

"And I pray that Irish artists may recapture more and more, the skill and delicacy which were the achievement of the craft before invasion and all the disasters brought in its train, diverted men's minds to other things."

But they must not omit a tribute to the zeal and foresight, the persistent energy and triumphant resourcefulness of their illustrious Bishop. He had no sooner succeeded to that ancient See than he set about completing the plans made by his predecessors. And he enjoyed this distinction, rare in the history of Cathedral building—he turned the sod, laid the foundation stone, and officiated at the Dedication of the completed structure. All that within the first few years of his episcopate.

His Lordship, however, would be the first to admit that this was an impossible task without the loyal co-operation of his faithful clergy—a clergy who nobly perpetuated the best traditions of the Church in Meath. And both bishop and priests would insist that the work could never have been accomplished without a laity who had all the generosity and self-sacrifice with which, from St. Patrick down through the centuries, the Irish people had co-operated with their pastors.

"The significance of today's celebration is enhanced by the presence of His Eminence, the Cardinal-Primate of All-Ireland, and His Excellency, the Apostolic Nuncio, who convey the presence of Peter and Patrick," said his Grace. "And the attendance of so many other illustrious prelates testifies to the impressive unity of the Irish Church and universal rejoicing which this great occasion has produced.

But it was not merely the Church of all Ireland that rejoiced with them that day. They were honoured by the presence of the chief executive head of the State and by members of his official family and others who had played a vital part in his history. "Caesar pays tribute to Christ, and may Christ and State, thus united, ever work together to promote and perpetuate the welfare, spiritual and temporal, of this glorious land."

The call of Faith to which that day's magnificent ceremony was an answer was the only one that could bring together the exiled children of their land. For distance inevitably weakened the bonds that bound the scattered children of the Gael to the land from which they came. The burden of life in the countries of their adoption was engrossing and exacting and just now that so many of the dreams of the past had been realised in the new sovereignty of the people at home, the appeals for sympathy and support ceased to press with their old imperious urge. But one bond would survive all political change—the bond of the Faith which Patrick preached to our ancestors.

"And," said his Grace, "I pray my patron, St. Louis, of France an earthly king who was crowned in heaven, to remember his country played in the establishment of Christianity in Ireland and the eagerness with which the Irish accepted what St. Patrick learned in the schools of France. And I entreat him to plead with the Heavenly King, who is today crowned on earth, that the Irish may ever continue to hold a place of honour in the garrison that defended His Palace among the legions which extend His Kingdom abroad."

All The Way From The U.S.A.—To See A Waterford Chandelier

Two American tourists called recently to the City Hall, Waterford, for the purpose of seeing the elaborate Chandelier (made of Waterford Cut Glass) which hangs in the Council Chamber of the Municipal Buildings. They said that they had come all the way from the United States for the purpose of seeing this unique specimen of an extinct Waterford industry. The courteous Porter Borough Constable Fitzgerald, showed them the various objects of interest in the City Hall, including the Chandelier which is of very artistic design. About thirty years ago a London firm (I think it was Christie's) offered a sum of £300 for the Chandelier. It is doubtful if a similar offer would be made today.

Pincing The Pendants—Unpardonable Vandalism

The different bowls were decorated with scores of glass pendants, which ornaments have been pinched from time to time during the past quarter of a century. That vandalism it is believed occurs during the progress of all night dances when the Council Chamber had been used for sitting-out purposes. The Chandelier has now been plucked practically bare of all pendants. It received its final plucking at a Congress dance held about seven years ago. The pendants were taken as souvenirs of Waterford! To prevent further damage to public property the Corporation has decided that the Council Chamber shall not be utilised in future on the occasion of public dances. A local mechanic tells me that it would be possible to restore the valuable Chandelier to its original condition by the adjusting of a number of pendants not a very difficult job. He mentioned the case of another Waterford cut-glass Chandelier (not quite so valuable) that was re-conditioned in the manner suggested.

One Of The Best Bands In The Saorstát

We had some beautiful selections of music played by the Barrack Street Band at the People's Park, Waterford City, on Sunday. The band gave a perfect rendition of pieces from "The Gondoliers" and "The Bohemian Girl" that delighted the listeners. The Shamrock selection of Irish airs was also an excellent treat. Hundreds of people have been asking why that splendid musical combination (one of the best in the Irish Free State) does not get an opportunity of broadcasting? We have what was called "Band Week" lately when three Dublin Brass Bands gave broadcasts. "Band Week" for the provincial bands in Waterford, Limerick and Cork? They would give as good value to the thousands of listeners in the Saorstát as any Metropolitan musical combination. I don't suppose that the management of the National station mean to centralise all the musical talent of the Saorstát in Dublin. We have enough of centralisation in the Combined Purchasing Board and the Local (Dublin) Appointments Commission. We don't want our music Dublindised. We have reached the ne plus ultra of Dublin Opinion and Policy! I listened to one Dublin Brass Band during the Dublin Band Week and I confess it could not hold a candle to the Barrack Street Band.

Increasing Demand For Houses—Decreasing Population

Many people thought that the census returns of 1936 would disclose the fact that there are 30,000 persons in Waterford City instead of twenty-seven thousand odd, which shows that the population of the City is practically stationary for the past ten years. It was believed that the 1926 census was not an accurate return as it was stated that at least a few thousand people did not return their papers. There is one amazing fact to be got over, viz., the demand for dwelling houses in Waterford has gone up 1,000 per cent, since 1926 even though the Corporation has built hundreds of houses. There are 600 applicants for 60 houses to be given away by the Corporation next week in the Slievekeale district. There are three good class houses being erected in William street by the Trustees of the Holy Ghost Hospital. The rent will be about £1 per week. The architect who designed the houses informs me that there are one hundred applicants for each house! The housing problem in Waterford seems to be a never-ending one!

"Not Genuinely Seeking Work"

Test Cases To Be tried—The monthly meeting of the East Waterford Home Assistance Committee was held in the Mayor's Office, City Hall, Waterford, on Tuesday September 8th. The scrutiny of the cases on the books occupied several hours. It is interesting to note that a list of "Test Cases" was compiled. The list includes a number of able-bodied industrious men, with large families who have been drawing home assistance for the past four or five months. They were refused the Unemployment Assistance on the usual vague ground that "they were not genuinely seeking work."

The Irish Cross At Lourdes—An Interesting Reminiscence

The Catholic Truth Society Pilgrimage to Lourdes which left Dublin on Monday last headed by the Most Rev. Dr. Kinane, Bishop of Waterford, recalls that it was this month 23 years ago that the great National Pilgrimage from Ireland went to Lourdes. On that occasion a Celtic Cross was erected at Lourdes to commemorate the Pilgrimage. The Cross which is of very artistic design, was made in Waterford by the late Mr. William Gaffney, Monumental Sculptor. It was due to the initiative of the late Very Rev. Canon Furlong, P.P., of Dungarvan that the Cross was purchased by the National Organising Committee of the Pilgrimage. Canon Furlong was one of Munster's representatives on the Committee. The Irish Cross is an enduring monument at Lourdes to Ireland's devotion to the Blessed Virgin.

Waterford's Fourth Picture House—Mr. Breen's Initiative

When the Grand Central Picture House in The Glen, is completed, Waterford City will be accommodated with four cinemas. The Grand Central will occupy the site where Matters Bacon Factory was located for half a century. The new Cinema will accommodate 800 people on the ground floor and 550 in the gallery—the biggest seating space of any picture house or public hall in Portlaoise. The building contract is being carried out by Messrs. Cantwell, Mooncoin, Co. Kilkenny. The Grand Central will not be as centrally situated as the name would indicate. It is really in the West Ward or West End of the City. But the proprietor, Mr. Martin Breen (Leasee of the Theatre Royal Picture House) is a business man of brains and great initiative and vision! Hundreds of new houses have been erected in the West End of the City lately and the new picture house is intended to cater for their entertainment. A new suburb has been created in the Airmount-Dominic Place—Rathbadden—Congress Place area. The West's Awake and Mr. Breen is "Up!"

"Waterford Of The Sworn Inquiries"

The Minister for Local Government and Public Health wrote to the Waterford Corporation on April 16th. Since a substantial minority of the Corporation were not satisfied with the replies given by the officials to the strictures in the auditor's report for the years 1933 to 1934 that he considered the holding of a public inquiry would help "to clear the air" or words to that effect. The Minister mentioned that the Corporation would be informed later on of the date of holding the inquiry. At Thursday week's Council meeting of the Corporation a letter was read from the Local Government Department intimating that a public Sworn Inquiry into the manner in which the members of the Corporation discharged their duties would be held on Tuesday, September 28th 1936, at 11 a.m., in the Council Chamber, Town Hall. This will be the third Sworn Inquiry regarding the Waterford Corporation held within 9 years. The first was in May 1927 and the second in April 1935. A small Committee was appointed at Thursday's meeting to prepare the Corporation's case and engage the necessary legal assistance. Waterford used to be known as "Waterford of the Shippers" in olden times.

Is There A Shortage of Buses—Railway Excursionists Who Must Walk A Mile!

The Summer excursion season to Tramore practically terminates on the last Sunday in August. Although the weather was not propitious the number of Sunday trippers to Tramore was as big as ever. There was a record number of excursionists. Thousands of people from Dublin, Kilkenny, Clonmel, Limerick and other centres have passed through Waterford en route to Tramore for a day's pleasure. I think it is opportune to call attention to the transport arrangements which are deplorably lacking in the city. Ninety per cent. of the excursionists have to walk the journey between the Waterford North Station and the Tramore Railway Station—a distance of roughly one mile. Apart from facilitating the travelling public the G.S. Railway Company would have a good source of revenue in summer time if they put a small fleet of buses on the short route referred to. It is really an essential service. Has the Railway Management lost its initiative or is there a shortage of buses?

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE WATERFORD MEN AND WOMEN OF NEW YORK

Ladies and Gentlemen—The County Waterford Men's Association was founded and incorporated for the benefit of Waterford people and the sons of Waterford parents in New York. The initiation fee is one dollar; dues are fifty cents per month. The objects of the Association are to unite Waterford men for social and benevolent purposes, to provide for the welfare of its members by affording relief in case of accidents or sickness and by assisting in the burial of deceased members (Article II of Constitution).

County Waterford Men's Social Benevolent and Patriotic Association Inc.

Members whose names have been on the books of the Association for one year and in good standing (that is with dues paid to date) were unable through sickness or accidents to attend to their ordinary duties are entitled to ten dollars per week for a period not exceeding five weeks in any one year, commencing one week after the member notifies the Financial Secretary.

On the death of a member in good standing, who has been a member of the Association for one year, the sum of two hundred dollars shall be paid to his wife or next of kin, towards defraying burial expenses. In the absence of such friends the trustees of the Association shall take charge of the remains.

For these and many other reasons such as the benefit of Association with the Waterford people in New York many of whom hold important positions, you are urged to join our Association. Why not come to our next meeting, opening the fall season at Donovans Halls, 59th Street and Columbus Circle, on Friday evening September 11th, at 8 p.m. sharp. At this meeting we hope to lay plans for re-organising our ladies Auxiliary (ladies please note). Further, now that emigration is stopped we should give serious thought to the future of our race in America and lay plans to preserve our racial status in our adopted Country. Remember in unity there is strength so come to our next meeting on above date, ready to express your views on any subject under discussion. Constructive criticism is always welcome.—Your humble servant—Thomas J. Lyons, President Waterford Men's Association of New York.

GIRL DROWNED AT TRAMORE

Rescue Attempts

In the absence of proper life-saving appliances, the life of a young solicitor's clerk was lost on Saturday evening at Tramore. She was Miss Mary Agnes Barry, Scotch Quay, Waterford. She was bathing and was about a hundred yards out from shore at the time the tragedy occurred.

It was revealed in the course of the inquest on Saturday night that there was a leak in the lifeboat, which was kept in a shed behind the promenade; that the lifeboat was provided with only one effective oar, and that five minutes elapsed before the spurs for the rowlocks could be found. Another revelation was that difficulty was experienced in undoing the knots on the rope attached to the life-belt.

Dr. Myles Shelley, Deputy Coroner, expressed much surprise at the condition of affairs, and undertook to bring the matter to the attention of the Commissioner for county administration. Dr. Nicholas Purcell, Tramore, said when he arrived on the scene, after receiving a telephone message, the girl had then been dead for half an hour.

Mrs. Bridget Chapman, Queen street, Tramore, bathing box proprietress, said Miss Barry went out to bathe about five o'clock. As a rule, she swam out a long distance, and witness warned her not to go out until the tide turned and would be coming in. Witness later saw a man go out towards her, and thinking that Miss Barry would not be able to get back witness went to get the lifebelt at the men's bathing place.

Coroner—How far away was the life-belt? Witness—About five minutes' walk. The belt at the women's bathing place was further away.

Further replying to the Coroner, witness said the lifeboat was kept in a house behind the promenade, but there was no man in charge. There was no life-guard employed there for the past three years.

Frank Phillips, photographer, Waterford, said he was sitting on the stones between the men's and women's bathing slips when he noticed a crowd of ladies in an excited state at the water's edge. Some of them said a girl was drowning. Looking out to sea, witness saw a girl in the water waving her arms about. Witness, who had his coat and shoes off, went out with another man in bathing to the girl's assistance. They were both knocked off their feet by the heavy swell, but managed to Miss Barry to keep going, and she replied: "I am exhausted." Another man then appeared with a lifebelt. Witness helped to undo the rope on it, and both waded out as far as they could, but found the rope too short to reach Miss Barry.

Pierce Kelly, chauffeur, Cobble, Tramore, who with Mr. Phillips, went to Miss Barry's assistance, said she was about a hundred yards out from the shore when he saw her. He heard her shout come quickly in a faint voice. She appeared to be swimming quickly. The lifebelt was then brought along by a man named Hutchinson, and they had much difficulty in undoing the knots on the rope attached. When 25 yards out, Mr. Phillips said the rope would not go any further, and witness pushed the belt out towards Miss Barry. The other man who was swimming towards her said he was done in and gave up. Witness then saw a boat coming out, but it went over the girl, and the wind and incoming tide drove it about twenty yards away. The body was washed in towards witness, floating head downwards.

Returning a verdict of death from asphyxia, due to immersion in the water, the Coroner said he would like to state there should be more done in the way of life-saving at Tramore. There should be more lifebelts provided in convenient positions, and the lifeboat should be available.

At this stage, Thomas McCarthy, bank cashier, Tramore, who was present, said he knew the lifeboat to be leaking, that there was a piece broken off one oar, and that the spurs for the rowlocks could not be found for five minutes.

The Coroner asked who was responsible for the keeping of the lifeboat and the care of the oars, and Pierce Kelly, one of the witnesses, said all that work was done voluntarily.

The Coroner—Whoever is responsible should have their attention drawn to the fact that the lifeboat was in a leaking condition, and was not convenient, and that there was only one oar available.

On the suggestion of Mr. H. J. Kenny, M.P., deceased's employer, the Coroner undertook to report the matter to the County Council Commissioner.

TOBACCO GROWING IN CO. WATERFORD

The annual demonstration of tobacco-growing was held recently at Messrs. Power's Trial Grounds, Glenville Nurseries, and attended by growers from all over Ireland. Representatives from the Department of Agriculture and County Instructors were present and gave a practical demonstration on the curing. In the afternoon the comparative tests between Canadian, African and acclimatised seed were inspected and the superiority of the home-grown was unquestionably apparent. The growers were later entertained to lunch at Glenville by Messrs. Power and Co.

BY THE WAY—According to "Mr. Gossip" in the "Daily Sketch"—"No fever than 22 Peers will have cause to regret the day they were born when they realise that because they will be under 21 on May 12, 1937, they will be ineligible to take part in the coronation ceremony."

Then follows the names of the twenty-two referred to, and the list includes Lord Waterford, now in his 3rd year.

AN "AT HOME" WITH A GREAT IRISH PIPER

LIAM WALSH OF WATERFORD By Carrig Na nGaedheal

When the Rev. J. K. Fielding of Chicago was holidaying in Ireland he called at the City Hall, Waterford, inquiring for Mr. Liam Walsh, Borough Constable, the well-known exponent of Uilleann Pipe music. Father Fielding is a native of Mooncoin, Co. Kilkenny. He had been associated with Chief O'Neill's Irish Pipers Club in Chicago for more than a quarter of a century and is recognised as an authority on Irish pipe music. The writer arranged for a demonstration of Uilleann Pipe playing by Mr. Walsh. At the conclusion of the recital, Father Fielding declared that he considered Mr. Liam Walsh, one of the best performers that he had heard at home or abroad—in fact, the greatest living exponent of Irish pipe music. Mr. Walsh has broadcasted occasionally from London, Dublin and Glasgow stations respectively. His wireless repertoire was necessarily limited and so I would like for the information of readers of "The Observer" to give an account of the history of some of the tunes which he played in masterly fashion for the entertainment of Father Fielding and myself. The programme included "The Coolin" (The Coolin (Western song) belongs to the period shortly after Róisín Dubh, which was made around the fame of Red Hugh O'Donnell about 1600. A soaring magical air, with all the exotic beauty of the West of Ireland. The Cullin (fair lady) is, of course, synonymous with Ireland despoiled after the battle of Kinsale.

The Fox Chase—It is the most exciting tune I have ever heard and exhibits the power of the Irish piper in a manner in which I had previously no conception. Needless to state, Mr. Walsh, did full justice to the piece, the playing of which occupied four minutes. It is of considerable length beginning with the first sight of the fox stealing the farmer's goose. The well-known and popular air "Maiden Duadh"—the great hunting song of the Gael—is then struck up. Passing through all the varied incidents of the chase; there is the initiation of the blowing of the horn, the calling of the hunters, the baying of the hounds, the dogs in full cry, and terminates with the Kill. The moans of Reynard in his death agony are brought out very distinctly and the loud shouts over the victim. Then there is the grand finale. The Fox-hunters Jig, a fine old air, representing the high revelry which the huntsmen are having in the 'Big House' after the chase.

It is interesting to note that the fox Chase was composed by a celebrated Munster piper, Edward Keating Hyland, in 1799. When George IV visited Dublin in 1821, he ordered a new set of pipes for Hyland costing fifty guineas as a mark of appreciation of his performance.

Mr. Walsh then played a selection of dance music including the red known as "The Maid Behind The Barrel." It is a very old tune—four-part reel. It is considered the acid test of a good piper. The origin is unknown. That tune was following by the rollicking jig dance—"There is Plenty of Fish in Dungarvan." The trawlers have chased away the fish (the hake) from their ancient haunts. An old sea-faring man told me that the once famous Dungarvan Hake were driven down to Vigo on the north coast of Spain. The tune is reminiscent of the good old times, when a Dungarvan hake for 7d. or 8d. provided an excellent dinner for a big family. Then the Retreat Set dance was played. The set dance differs from a jig, reel or hornpipe inasmuch as the steps are specially arranged for the dance.

Eamonn A Cnuic (Ned of the Hill)—We were then treated to a charming rendering of the well-known and popular air "Eamonn A Cnuic." The famous song to which the air is wedded is described by an authority as one of the most precious gems of Gaelic poetry. It has reference to the Red Hugh O'Donnell period of Irish History. The song typifies the cry of the outlaw—a soldier of the old Irish clans who chose the hunted life among the mountains to exile across the sea. Beautiful lines—well-wrought and sorrowful in cadence like the wind in the rover knots at a gale in winter. The cottage door to gain furtive succour from one who seems to be Eire herself, who can give him nothing save "a fold of her gown" (Beinn dem Ghuna) as shelter. "Long am I wandering under snow and frost, my plough unloosed, my fields unown. In those plaintive verses the destitution of Ireland's, lover is powerfully portrayed. The song is the last utterance of the century of transition.

Dunphy's Hornpipe—We were again in a lively atmosphere when Mr. Walsh gave the splendid dance tune known as Dunphy's hornpipe—a very popular hornpipe that always delights an Irish audience. It is called after the late Mr. J. Dunphy (a native of Mooncoin, Co. Kilkenny) who played it in Chicago for the compiler of O'Neill's Dance Music of Ireland. The late Mr. Dunphy, was an uncle of the famous family of hurlers Messrs. Mike, Ned and Dick Doyle of Mooncoin, who have each seven All-Ireland hurling Championships to their credit. There is still plenty of talent in that great hurling parish.

The clar was again varied with a delightful and entrancing melody known as "Down by the Slaney Side." The beautiful and well-known and "She lived beside the Anner at the foot of Slievenamon" is said to be founded on the traditional air just mentioned. It was followed by a masterly piping of the double jig "Tatter Jack Walsh." This tune shows the Irish predominant F and C. A very appropriate air for a musical recital in Waterford was "The Banks of the Suir." It is a haunting traditional melody and very old—in fact, as old as the hills. Mr. Walsh then played Shane O'Neill's march, a rousing air that recalled a stirring period in Irish history when the Irish clansmen, through the influence of that great air, stepped together, when marching to meet the foe. The enjoyable recital concluded with the playing of the set dance "The Downfall of Paris." That tune was taken down from a great Irish musician, Edward Cronin, who played it on the flute.

Pipers, like poets, are born, not made. Mr. Liam Walsh felt the urge for pipe playing when a youngster in his father's farmstead in Kill, Co. Waterford. He was about two or ten when the great piper James Byrne of Mooncoin, used tour the Deise. Byrne always received a cord mile faine and the height of hospitality at Walsh's residence where he stayed for the night. Liam had to be up at the break of day to give a hand with the cows. He pinched the set of pipes that lay beside the sleeping piper; sounded a "reveille" which stampeded some of the cows and was rewarded for his initial effort at pipe-playing with a stern paternal rebuke. That incident happened about two decades ago. It did not however, put a damper on the youthful enthusiasm, for Mr. Walsh has made the subject of Irish pipe music a life study. He lives for his Uilleann pipe music. And when free from his Municipal duties he practises his pipe music at his Bungalow in Passage Road, Waterford City. A great piper finds that there is always something new to learn about Irish folk music. And as I said "Beannacht Leit" when parting, after a most enjoyable "At Home" with the renowned Deise musician, I felt convinced that we must rely on the Uilleann pipes for continuity with the great musicians of the past. The Uilleann pipes is now the only National instrument that has survived the vicissitudes of our chequered national traditions.

The Egan set of pipes on which Mr. Walsh played his selections of Irish marches, dance tunes and melodies was made in the year 1761 and is in splendid condition.

ARCHBISHOP AND COMMUNIST AGENTS

That it would be simple justice, as well as a duty they owed their nation, to outlaw those who had outlived Christ, was stated by Most Rev. Dr. Glennon, Archbishop of St. Louis, U.S.A., in an eloquent sermon which he delivered at the dedication of the new Cathedral of Christ the King in Mullingar.

"What answer will Ireland make," said his Grace, "to the appeal of the exiled Christ? Here you enthrone Him, but over there His Kingdom is being ravaged. His people destroyed. What answer will you make, what action will you take but first to give the Exile a welcome, a loyal, royal welcome, a welcome home?"

What further can you do? It has been said that preceding Him have come agents from the Governments that exiled Him, preaching a similar gospel here, telling you also to betray Him.

"Well, my friends, it would be but simple justice, as well as a duty you owe your nation, to outlaw those who have outlived Him, and, with their exit, have the solemn warning to all their kind written on the nation's portals: 'They Shall Not Pass.'"

Further, it were a consummation to be prayed for in his satanic warfare, now almost universal, that you would make of this Island a veritable city and citadel of God, a beacon light to his storm-tossed humanity, whereby it may, if it will, reach some harbour of rest where it can find peace with God.

"And let us remember that service in the King's cause extends as far as the King's realm, and the Kingdom of Christ is not limited to the Irish shores. It extends to all the races and all the nations of the world. From these many races and nations come today a call like unto that which you sent to Patrick in the long ago: 'Come and dwell amongst us.'"

We Put It To You (Serious And Not)—That in their replay game at Faha on Sunday the junior football XV of the Pike drew with the local team on the scores of 1-3 to the credit of each side.

That fit weather with a gale crowd of enthusiasts favoured the fray, which was admirably refereed by Mr Joseph Two-mey of the Kilrossanty Gaelic Football Club.

That the Waterford inter-County J.H. string again covered themselves with glory in qualifying for the All-Ireland Final of the current annum—

That under last Sunday's sparkling sunshine, Bonmahon beach was placarded with Mid-Portlairge "pretties," while at Stradbally several berles at South Tipp. "charmers" were amongst the many seen percolating to the local cove—

That the platinum blonde From above or beyond Who invaded Kill village of late Was as charming a "sweet" As the boys of the street Ever saw in their midst (so they state)—

That both Annetstown Anne and the Metal Man at a lot of ice cream on the last Sabbath Day—

That crickets and frogs are singing their love-songs in the Nire Valley nowadays—

That the cricket match for a set of medals (presented by a well-known Kilmacomas sportsman), played at Seafield on the 30th ult., between the Kilmacomas and Seafield Eleven, wound up with a win for the homesters—

That the girls of Slabh cGua are a bit on the "touchy" side these days—

That a postcard delivered to a Bohadoun daughter a day or two ago bore this message: "It was Fate that I should love you. It was Fate that we met; But it's due to perseverance That I'm seeing you yet."

LISMORE NOTES.

Coursing Club Dance—On Sunday night September 27th., dance enthusiasts are being catered for by the Lismore Coursing Club at the Town Hall, where a most enjoyable Cinderella Dance until 2.30 a.m. will be held.

Those who have already attended functions organised by this popular Club are eagerly looking forward to this great night, as they know how enjoyable these dances have been in the past. The energetic committee are "all out" to make this dance even better and brighter than its forerunners. Dancing to the strains of the Lismore Nightgale Orchestra, the ever popular dance band will commence at 9 p.m. A really good night's enjoyment is assured.

Fishing For Pearls—Very few people in this district realise that there is a profitable pearl-fishery business carried on in this district. I met a man some few weeks ago, who seemed to think it an extraordinary thing when he was shown some small pearls found in the Blackwater near Camphire. The general idea is that these are to be found only in tropical waters. This statement is incorrect as year after year two Scottish fishermen come to Lismore. They travel along the banks of the Blackwater and its tributary streams; they wade into the centre of the river and by means of a long taube fitted at the end with a magnifying glass are able to pick up pearl-bearing fish from the river bed.

The elder gentleman assured me that he had fished for pearls in many countries and though he regarded the rivers in Wales and the Highlands as very good he thought about Lismore as being the best. There is, of course, a strong element of luck in the business, but it pays pretty well. It also provides a healthy pleasurable pursuit. They carry their canvas tent and utensils with them on bicycles and as they fish a different area every day, they are assured of a daily change of scenery. They are their own bosses and what more could even a Scotsman want.

Death of Mr. F. C. Guest, Main St., Lismore—The death of this esteemed gentleman severs another link from the town of Lismore which is deeply regretted by all its residents. Deceased was a member of the Pharmaceutical Society of Ireland and carried on an extensive business in Lismore for 26 years, and he died a happy and peaceful death surrounded by tender care and comfort and having partaken of the rites of the Holy Church. The character of his manner made him a favourite with all. His life was regulated by the highest principles of rectitude and was governed by the strict application of the precept of scripture of all that was right and just and he faced it always with that resolute and definite purpose which is essential to true manhood and success. Deep sympathy is extended to his sons Charles and Claude on their recent bereavement.

The remains lay overnight at St. Catharine's Cathedral, and on Saturday, the 5th inst., were conveyed to the New Council cemetery to his last resting place, by an exceptionally large and representative funeral.

Rev. T. O'Gorman, Adm., Lismore, recited the final prayers at the graveside. The general public included—J. W. O'Gorman, solr., Lismore; A. L. Hanrahan, M.P.S.I., do.; D. Noonan, M.I.A.A. do.; J. P. Daly, do.; J. F. O'Donnell, do.; B. Lowe, do.; T. Crofty, do.; J. Crofty, do.; J. Geary, do.; K. O'Connell, J. Bennett, J. Scanlon, B. Baldwin, J. Moore, B. Condon, P. O'Neill, J. Noonan, M. Foley, Rev. Br. P. A. Mullon, B.A., V. O'Donoghue, B.E.; M. J. Sargent, Cappoquin; Dr. D. Healy, M.B. Dr. J. Dennehy, M.B.; Dr. O'Farrell, Co. M.O.H., Lismore; Dr. Heskin, Ballyduff; C. Moore, J. Foley, J. McGrath, Cappoquin; J. Fitzgerald, Dungarvan; Leo O'Donnell, Kilahala; J. Campion, Sean Goulding, T.D.; Mr. McCarthy, Wine Vaults; J. Feeney, B. Sargent; Mrs. Ormonde, Feeny, Ballyntyne, etc., etc.

Lismore on Sept., 20th—Trains, motor cars, bicycles and every known mode of conveyance available will bring all Waterford and East Cork to Lismore on Sunday, September 20th., to watch the clash between Tallow and Mount Sion, in the Final of the Senior Hurling Championship of the County. From reports to hand it looks as if the town will be submerged by a great Gaelic wave. It is up to the people of Lismore to see that our visitors are accommodated in comfort. Let them rise to the occasion and show that Lismore is capable of dealing with huge crowds, and we may anticipate later in the year the clash between Waterford and Limerick in the National League. The Fermoy Kent Pipers Band will play the teams on to the field, which is getting a complete overhauling for the occasion.

Granted fine weather the 20th should prove a red-letter day in the town of Lismore.

That genuine evicted tenants and Old I.R.A. men should have first claim on any lands acquired for distribution in the Deise by the Government—

That what the Belle of Kilbrien breathed into the right ear of a Tuaraneena "toll" on the last day but one, reads: "The longer I know you The more I believe That you'd be a wonderful man to deceive"

AND—That tomorrow will be a veritable "go-getters' day" from the foot of the Comerags to the mouth of the Tay.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT—But a jovial Kilmacomas bachelor has just received a "kiss-chain letter," and "This kiss-chain was started in the Spring of 1934, and must not be interrupted by you if you do not desire to challenge fate.

"Pass this kiss, which is sent to you by a young woman among your acquaintances, to 10 girls you like, explaining to them that they each have to write similar letters to 10 young men. Thus the whole of mankind shall kiss each other.

"World peace will, consequently, be a matter of course."

When asked if he meant to comply with the "kiss-chain" instructions, the recipient replied "Provide me with the names and addresses of ten 'eligible' young ladies, together with ten twopenny stamps, and I'll gladly comply."

DUNGARVAN FIRM'S VICTORY

At the Bakers and Confectionery Exhibition in London, this known firm of A. Moloney & Sons, Ltd., Dungarvan, made some years past Moloney's Bread, winning high honours in the Exhibition, they have put all their might in the shade. In the competition they won 1st and 2nd place in the Pan-Ireland and the Silver place for the Open Bakers. From out of 616 entries was runner-up in the Irish Championship Cup, honour of which any firm and is in keeping with the bread baked by A. Moloney & Sons.

We tender heartfelt thanks to this great and progressive firm directed by Mr. P. J. Moloney, the Old Borough in All-Ireland in the making of the excellent bread, to the excellent staff who have proved themselves the Bakery Art, and to those who have brought such prizes to the firm.

Moloney's Bakery has a trinsic worth of its product test of Open Competition ahead to further victory roll on.

DUNGARVAN FIRM'S GREAT VICTORY

At the Bakers and Confectioners Exhibition in London, this week, the well-known firm of A. Moloney and Sons, Ltd., Dungarvan, made history. For some years past Moloney's Bread has been winning high honours in the Irish section of the Exhibition, but this year they have put all their previous successes in the shade. In the teeth of the keenest competition they won the Gold Medal and 1st place in the Pan-Loaf Class open to Ireland and the Silver Medal and 2nd place for the Open Basket Pan-Loaf. From out of 676 entries the same firm was runner-up in the competition for the Irish Championship Cup. That is an honour of which any firm may feel proud and is in keeping with the high quality of the bread baked by A. Moloney and Sons.

We tender heartfelt congratulations to this great and progressive firm, so ably directed by Mr. P. J. Moloney, on putting the Old Borough into first place in All-Ireland in the making of high-class bread; to the excellent staff of craftsmen who have proved themselves experts in the intrinsic worth of its products in the acid test of Open Competition and looks ahead to further victories as the years roll on.

NURSING ASSOCIATION—The Lady Collectors for the Dungarvan and District Nursing Association will call for the Annual Collection this week.

NATIONAL CO-OPERATIVE PARTY—Under the auspices of the Provisional National Co-operative Party, a house to house collection to help the formation of an Irish Brigade for Spain will be taken up in the West Waterford Area at an early date. It is hoped all Catholics will subscribe and help in the defeat of Communism. Subscriptions can also be sent to Howard Bulger, Nire, W. J. Twohey, Ballymacarbery; J. Brady, Cappoquin, or F. Fitzgerald, Glen, Modligo.

ALLEGED STEALING OF MOTOR CAR

A young man, Nicholas Moroney, near Cahir, was remanded on bail at a special Court in Clonmel, on the charge of stealing a motor car, the property of Mr. D. S. Doyle, Assistant Co. Surveyor, Co. Waterford.

WATER SUPPLY

At the moment negotiations are proceeding between the Urban Council and some interested parties in Monarud district in connection with the provision of a better water supply for the town by increasing the catchment area above Glenfine and taking in some extra streams. Without a perfect and plentiful supply of good water there can be no sound progress and money spent on such a scheme is the best investment that could be made, safeguarding, as it does, the health of the public.

A NEVER FAILING SCHEME

Had our water experts looked a little further afield, they would have secured free of charge an extra water supply for the town which would stand any increase of consumption, and at the same time give full pressure at the highest levels in Dungarvan. A few miles from Monarud across the hills the Dalgan river has its source and there from beneath a rock it pours out water daily by the hundred thousand gallons. The cost of connecting that supply with Glenfine would be the only outlay involved and it would solve for all time the water supply of Dungarvan, even if the Borough were to extend miles beyond its present limits and its population increased by thousands. And as that source has not been known to fail any money invested would be wisely spent.

THE HARVEST

Harvesting operations all over the country have been greatly interfered with by the changeable weather we are having of late and farmers find considerable difficulty in doing their work in the broken weather prevailing. At the best of times harvesting is a difficult task, but in a season of intermittent showers like this it tends to make life miserable for those whose duty it is to save the food of the people. And strange to relate for such men and their workers who labour from dawn to dark there is no provision in the recent Act to regulate their working hours or provide them with holidays. Perhaps all these concessions will come to them some day soon.

HORRORS OF SPAIN

Spain is as troubled as ever and fighting is going on day and night with no prisoners taken on either side and everybody caught being put to death. The Insurgents are making considerable progress against the Reds according to reports, but it will be some time before there is any kind of peace in that land as both sides seem to have plenty money, arms and ammunition and as nobody can afford to be neutral except to be shot by one side or the other, the prospects of going about one's work are not very rosy. Meantime, the desecration of Churches and the murder of Priests and Nuns go on.

DEATH OF MR. JAS. WHELAN, DUNGARVAN

We regret to announce the death of a very old and respected citizen in the person of Mr. James Whelan, St. Thomas Terrace, at a good age. The late Mr. Whelan, carried on a good business in the Bakery and Spirit trade at St. Mary street for many years, and retired from some 20 years ago. He was a good practical Catholic, and his purse was every ready to help any Catholic and National cause. In his younger days he was a member of the old Dungarvan Football Club and played many a hard-fought game. To his widow we tender sincere sympathy.—R.I.P. His remains were removed on Wednesday evening to the parish Church and on Thursday there was office and High Mass for his soul. Rev. P. F. McGrath, was celebrant; Rev. M. O'Meara, deacon; Rev. M. Power, sub-deacon. In the choir—Very Rev. Fr. Donegan, O.S.A.; Rev. M. F. Hearne, C.C.; Rev. T. B. Walsh, C.C.; Rev. Fr. Dunne, O.S.A. The interment took place immediately afterwards in the adjoining graveyard.

CAPPOQUIN NOTES.

CAPPOQUIN ROWING CLUB—SCRATCH RACES

The weather conditions on Sunday evening were not favourable for the Scratch races and owing to unforeseen circumstances the programme had to be curtailed. Mr. J. Lenoxx, acted as Starter and Mr. Jas. Daly as Judge.

A special feature of the races was the number of juvenile members taking part most of whom are sons of former oarsmen and the form shown by these youngsters proved that the sons of today give every promise of emulating the rowing prowess of their fathers some years ago.

Details—First Heat—No. 1 Station—W. Sargent (bow), Liam Ryan (2), T. Walsh (3), Martin Daly (stk.), J. Crotty (cox). No. 2 Station—A. Crotty (bow), J. Kegan, Junr., (2), W. Glavin (3), J. Brady (stk.), J. Lacey (cox).

The crews rowed practically level until nearing the bridge, when Daly's crew forged ahead and won a grand race by three-quarters of a length.

Second Heat—No. 1 Station—P. Dickoll (bow), W. Sargent (2), L. B. Dunne (3), J. Crotty (stk.), J. Lacey (cox). No. 2 Station—P. Lacey (bow), E. Crowe (2), J. O'Donnell (3), J. Foley (stk.), J. Brady (cox).

This was another great race. Foley's crew won by a length.

Semi-Final Heat—No. 1 Station—W. Sargent (bow), Liam Ryan (2), T. Walsh (3), M. Daly (stk.), J. Crotty (cox). No. 2 Station—J. Hartley (bow), J. Brackett (2), Jas. Moloney (3), M. O'Donnell (stk.), J. Lacey (cox).

Final—No. 1 Station—P. Lacey (bow), F. Crowe (2), J. O'Donnell (3), J. Foley (stk.), Jas. Lacey (cox). No. 2 Station—W. Sargent (bow), L. Ryan (2), T. Walsh (3), M. Daly (stk.), J. Crotty (cox).

On Sunday night a Cinderella dance was held in the Boat-house which was very largely attended.

AUCTION AT KNOCKLARA

On Monday, Mr. M. F. Walsh, P.C., Auctioneer, put up for sale on behalf of the Exor of the late Miss E. C. Foley, Knocklara, her valuable residence and holding of 35 acres, subject to a Fee Fund rent of 49/. There was a large attendance, but as the reserve price was not reached the sale was withdrawn. Mr. T. C. Williams, solicitor, had carriage of sale. Subsequently Mr. Walsh held a most successful sale of the furniture and effects, every item being sold.

WHOLESALE SLAUGHTER

The above startling heading has no reference to the atrocities being committed in Spain but refers to the wholesale slaughter of rabbits now being carried on in Cappoquin and district since Messrs. J. O'Connor and Sons, opened a market for the purchase of rabbits some weeks ago. The plague of rabbits which infested the country was doing immense damage to farm crops everywhere, but now that good prices are being offered for them every form of device for their slaughter is being adopted here, such as snaring, trapping, terreting, shooting, hunting with dogs, etc., and if the present campaign of destruction is carried on much longer, it will be soon as difficult to find a rabbit on any farm as a hair on a bald man's head!

PREVALENCE OF LOOSE SMUT

Result of Previous Dry Seasons

Curious feature of this wet summer is the prevalence of Loose Smut in Wheat. From all parts of the country farmers are complaining that their wheat crop is more than usually infected, and in certain quarters are prone to take this as an argument against the efficacy of dry dressing. Such an attitude is quite unjustifiable when the facts are understood. In the first place, the mistake arises through applying the word "smut" to two entirely different wheat diseases—"Loose Smut" and "Covered Smut." The former causes the appearance of smutty heads in the growing wheat round about flowering time, and in these smutty ears the developing grain is actually replaced by a mass of black spores, which are blown about the field by the wind and infect the surrounding healthy heads of flowering wheat. At harvest time the plants affected by Loose Smut will have discharged their infectious spores and only the discoloured bare stem remains. When the crop is threshed the grain sample will be clean and saleable, and to all appearance quite healthy, but many of the grains will have the spores (or seed) of the Loose Smut fungus inside them, and if used for seed will in due course grow into plants producing smutty heads.

Covered Smut (or "Bunt" as it is sometimes called) is a very different disease. It does not make itself obvious during the growing season. Infected plants appear from casual observation to develop quite normally until harvest time when the disease can be identified by the appearance of black coloured masses of smut spores replacing the normal grain in the ear. In this disease the Smut spores are held together by the skin of the grain which remains intact until broken by some mechanical injury, such as threshing, and it is during harvesting and threshing operations that the spread of the infectious spores takes place, the spores becoming attached to the outside of clean grain, giving it a dirty sooty appearance and an unpleasant fishy odour, which if heavily infected is practically unsaleable.

It should be clearly noted that the fundamental difference between the two diseases is that whereas in Covered Smut or Bunt the infection is carried by spores on the outside of the Wheat and can therefore be easily reached and controlled by "Agrosan G" dry dressing, infection of Loose Smut is inside the seed and dressing the outside surface is therefore useless. The only known method of controlling Loose Smut in Wheat is known as "Jansen's Hot Water Method"—a method which is not practicable under ordinary farm conditions. The interesting fact is that Loose Smut, since its spread depends on wind borne spores, flourishes only in a dry climate. Consequently, in our ordinary Summer with frequent showers at wheat flowering time the Loose Smut Spores, clogged by moisture, have little chance of travelling far. The prevalence of Loose Smut in the present season is therefore the result of three or possibly four exceptionally dry seasons prior to 1936, during which the infection has steadily become more widespread. The abundant rain this year may be expected to check this tendency.

It is a coincidence that during these years many farmers have given up using old fashioned wet seed dressings such as Bluestone and Formalin to control Covered Smut, in favour of the more efficient and convenient dry seed dressings such as "Agrosan G." This coincidence has misled many farmers to believe that dry seed dressings have let them down and allowed Loose Smut to increase. No known seed dressing, wet or dry, will control Loose Smut in wheat, and until Science devises a more convenient method than hot water treatment, farmers will be well advised to avoid sowing seed Wheat produced from crops which have shown evidence of Loose Smut during the past growing season, and if possible obtain seed from a clean crop which should be reasonably free from infection, although since Loose Smut spores may in dry weather be carried for long distances by the wind, complete freedom from the disease can hardly be guaranteed.

To the farmer Covered Smut is by far the more serious of the two diseases, and it is much more widespread in its incidence and its presence in a threshed sample of what is obvious to the eye of any experienced observer. Those who have tried to sell a smutted sample of grain know the effect it has on the price obtainable. Fortunately, this disease can be controlled by a good seed dressing, and those who have adequately disinfected their seed with a dressing of Agrosan can be sure of having a clean sample of grain to offer.

PORTLAIRGE
COUNTY WATERFORD LIBRARIES COMMITTEE

FIFTH ANNUAL REPORT

A Chairde,—

I have the honour of submitting to you hereunder the Fifth Annual Report of the working of the County Waterford Libraries.

GENERAL REPORT

The County Waterford Library Service has now arrived at a crucial stage in its development. Its whole future depends on its ability to keep pace with its growth and to offer to its reading public the borrowing facilities which they expect and are entitled to. It would be a very grave error of policy to lull our minds to rest with the illusion that our Library Service is complete and adequate. It falls, alas! very far short of actual requirements.

The County Library Service has increased to its present proportions as rapidly as its available resources have permitted, and we may rightly claim that the utilisation of these resources has produced very satisfactory results thus far.

We must now consider our present position with the object of ascertaining to what extent we are meeting the actual requirements of our reading public, and what our future policy must be, if we wish to make provision for future developments and to evolve along progressive lines.

The County Library Service is at present little more than a skeleton one. We have laid the foundations upon which a really adequate and efficient Library Service may be built. But, having attained this object and having given the public a taste for reading, we must not now disappoint their expectations, by failing to keep pace with their demands.

The following facts will substantiate the above statement—
Our largest Library Branch, at Dungarvan, with a population of 5,000 is a glaring example of how far short we fall of adequate Library provision. In a ridiculously small room both borrowers and books are "cubed, cribbed, confined." The borrowers crowd and jostle each other, the book stock is about 50% of what is required and even at that, the shelving is inadequate. The Honorary Librarians strive their utmost to stem the tide and a considerable number of volumes have been stolen. The present Library provision for Dungarvan is merely a makeshift. There is no reading-room, no reference section and no central Juvenile depot, to cater for the real needs of such a populous area.

Though the number of borrowers in Dungarvan has increased by 120 during the year, and now totals 1,443, the number of issues in this branch has decreased by 3,458 in the last year. This proves irrefutably that we have failed to keep pace even with the present demand and that as a result our readers are losing interest. It is not enough to increase the membership of the Library, we must make due provision for the increase.

In Tramore, whose population is nearly 3,000, the Branch Library, though it has made wonderful progress under the very able administration of the present Honorary Librarian, does not meet the real requirements of the town. It is very inadequately housed and it only opens one night per week. There is no Juvenile Section in Tramore.

We cannot hope to solve the problem presented by the Dungarvan and Tramore areas if we employ merely palliative measures. The matter must be dealt with in a truly liberal and progressive spirit by the provision of suitable Library Buildings, adequately stocked and staffed.

I wish to emphasise the lack of provision for the Juvenile Section of the population in the Dungarvan and Tramore areas, as I consider that it is in this department of educational work that the Library can render its most important services to the Community.

As regards the three other large Centres, Lismore, Cappoquin, and Tallow, I consider that their book-stock is not yet adequate and the same applies to the majority of other centres throughout the County. By adequate stock I do not mean a very bare minimum of books leaving a very narrow margin over and above the actual number of borrowers. There must be a fairly wide field of selection proportionate to the number of borrowers, if real needs are to be met and a reasonable number of new books to keep the interest of borrowers alive.

There are two conditions which must be fulfilled if we wish to prevent our Library Service from not merely standing still, but actually deteriorating. Firstly, we must be adequately financed and secondly we must have an adequate staff at headquarters to deal with the considerable volume of work, always on the increase.

The Carnegie Trustees, to whose munificence we are greatly indebted, have altogether ceased to make grants to County Libraries, and the Library Service must now subsist on the income from the rates. The Library Rate for the year 1936-37 was increased by 1d. This increase merely counterbalances the loss of the Carnegie Grants. As I have already pointed out, we are already far behind the existing demand so that this increase does not even enable us to keep level with it. It is obvious, if we wish to solve our present problems and make provision for future requirements that a much larger increase is needed.

The constant increase in the number of borrowers proves, that the ratepayers of the County and their families avail more and more of the facilities offered by the County Library, that they recognise its value; that they desire not only its continuance but its expansion, and denotes the existence of a large body within the County who might not be adverse to the adequate financing of the Library Service.

The question of an adequate staff at headquarters has already formed the subject matter of a special report to the Libraries Committee, and is at present being considered by the Commissioner for County Waterford.

LECTURES

During the year five Lectures were delivered—

Lismore—12th November, 1935—Lynn Doyle
on
"Art, the Artist and the Story."

Lismore—16th January, 1936—Mr. F. E. Stephens, M.A.,
on
"St. Joan of Arc."

Dungarvan—13th December, 1935—Professor J. Busted.
on
"The Revolt Against Capitalism."

Dungarvan—18th February, 1936—Professor T. Thompson Flynn
on
"A Naturalist in Tasmania."

Dungarvan—15th May, 1936—Dr. Walter Starkie
on
"Tramping Through Europe—Adventures With a Fiddle."

These Lectures were all by experts on their subjects and were, on the whole, very well patronised.

Library Lectures serve a very useful purpose in stimulating interest in the reading of general works. It would be desirable to organise a wider and more comprehensive scheme of lectures.

Such a scheme is unfortunately impossible at the moment as staffing difficulties prevent its organisation.

The situation is now so serious that unless an extra assistant be appointed we shall be obliged to curtail our service by reducing the number of visits to centres per annum. This is a retrograde policy and even if we adopt such drastic measures the present staff is so inadequate that a general deterioration of the whole service must inevitably follow as a result of the constantly increasing volume of work.

During the year under review the County Library has functioned very satisfactorily despite the adverse circumstances to which I have already drawn attention.

GENERAL READING

The issue of general works has maintained its level of the previous year. Historical, Biographical and Travel books still continue to be the most popular in this section. The demand for works on Agriculture in general and its various branches, works on Cookery, Household Management, Carpentry, Knitting, etc., are in good demand.

NEW CENTRES

During the year four new Centres were opened, Abbeyside Boy Scouts, Melloray Boys' School, Cappoquin Technical School, and an all-Irish Centre at Ring.

BOOK STOCK

During the year, 1,874 new volumes were added to stock and 1,061 worn books withdrawn, making a total net increase of 813 volumes and total Stock of 16,481. Though the number of borrowers increased by 1,779, our additions to Stock numbered only 813 volumes.

The following figures show the net increase in the various sections:—

	FICTION	GENERAL	JUVENILE
1934-'35	7,391	5,307	2,970
1935-'36	7,605	5,991	2,885

BORROWERS

During the year there was an increase of 1,719 borrowers.

	Adult Borrowers	Juvenile Borrowers	Total
1934-'35	4,776	1,704	6,480
1935-'36	6,059	2,140	8,199

STATISTICS OF BOOK ISSUES

The total number of issues for the year according to available returns is 117,176.

	1934-'35	119,154
1935-'36	117,176

This shows a decrease of 1,988 on last year's issues. This decrease is due to the fact that nearly a third of our total Centres in operation either did not keep Statistics at all or furnished incomplete Statistics with the resultant apparent decline in issues.

ANALYSIS OF ISSUES

	Fiction	Juvenile	General
1934-1935	76,760	26,295	16,099
1935-1936	74,660	26,347	16,169

HONORARY LIBRARIANS

Our Honorary Librarians still continue to co-operate generously in the work of the County Library. Special thanks are due to the teachers who, despite the many demands on their spare time, are as enthusiastic as ever. Our sincerest gratitude is due to all our voluntary helpers.

THE LIBRARIES COMMITTEE

The sympathetic and progressive spirit with which the Libraries Committee approach all Library problems has greatly facilitated the general administration of the Library Scheme, and made the County Librarian's work with them a pleasure.

DONATIONS

We wish to thank the following most sincerely for their kindness in presenting the County Library with books and pamphlets:—The Smithsonian Institution, U.S.A.; The Editor, "Irish Travel"; The National University of Ireland; Miss C. Fairholme, Comeragh House, Kiltassanty; Mr. T. H. Brown of Kilmacthomas.

REASONS
why you will buy
ROSCREA MEAT & BONE MEAL

1. Because better health and earlier maturity follow its use.
2. Because it is the purest and most highly concentrated Cattle Food on the market to-day.
3. Because it offers you an opportunity of buying a good and inexpensive home food instead of foreign products.

On merit alone you will buy Roscrea Meat and Bone Meal. Feeding tests now being carried out with pigs, dairy cattle, beef cattle and poultry, reveal a tremendous possibility of better and more economical milk, bacon and egg production, as a result of the widespread use of Roscrea Meat and Bone Meal in the feeding of all Farm animals and poultry.

Pier Head

The Engineer reported that with the good spring tides it was possible to commence the repairs of the Pier Head and as much work as possible was done.

The Sea Wall Repairs

Mr. P. J. Little, Parliamentary Secretary to the President, wrote:—I am now informed by the Minister of Local Government and Public Health that the matter of repairs to the sea wall at Youghal is under consideration in conjunction with the Commissioners of Public Works and the matter of the reception by the Minister should be deferred until the proposals have been more fully considered. The Minister promises to write you as soon as possible.

The following letter, signed by a large number of Strand residents was read:—As owners of houses on the Youghal Strand, we view with grave apprehension the condition of the Sea Wall in front of our properties. We are amazed to find that no steps have been taken this summer to repair the damage done during last winter's storms. The condition of the wall is shocking. From the Esplanade Hotel to the corner where the remains of the old Sea Wall still shows, the cement backing, the wooden piling is completely undermined; the broken pieces of cement acting as battering rams are breaking up the remainder.

We realise that the fall of the sand level of recent years has made the erosion more severe, but we feel that that is only one more reason why the job should be put in hand at once. Surely it is not going to be left till the equinoctial gales and winter storms start again. We realise that you are taking steps to deal with the surplus water that reaches the road, but we consider it more important to save the wall first as there may be no road left if the wall can't stand up to the ravages of next winter.

We have determined that we should pay no more rates until adequate steps are taken to safeguard the sea wall and our properties.

The Chairman said the Council were fully aware of the seriousness of the matter and they had taken all the steps possible to impress the necessity of something being done without delay, and they couldn't do any more. They had to wait for the decision of the Department.

It was decided to send a copy of the above letter to the Department.

Republican Memorial Committee. The Hon. Sec., of the Republican Memorial Committee applied for the use of the Ball Room to hold a Cellidhe on the 27th inst., and the application was granted.

Fianna Eireann. A similar application from Fianna Eireann for the 7th September, was granted.

A Question of Rates. Messrs. Hodnett, solrs., wrote, that they were of opinion, having regard to decided cases, that the storing of a few boats, fishing gear, or such like, for a small portion of the years as described, would not constitute such use and enjoyment of the premises as to render them liable for payment of rates. They assumed of course that the premises in question were otherwise unoccupied and that nothing in the nature of rent was paid by the owners of the boats, etc., to the owners of the yards or stores.

Unemployment Scheme. A letter was read from the Department relative to the provisional allocation of a grant under the Employment Schemes Vote, 1936/37 and to the proposal to raise the Council's contribution by way of loan repayable in 10 years, he was directed by the Minister for Local Government and Public Health to inform the Council that as already indicated, in the letter addressed to the Council on the 19th, repayment of the loan must be made within 3 years. If the Council agreed to the raising of a loan for a period of 3 years a resolution in the terms set forth in the annexed form should be passed by the Council and a certificate copy furnished to the Department.

The Chairman and other members protested strongly against the dictatorial attitude of the Government in the matter. The Clerk said it would mean an increase of 13d. in the rates as compared with 11-8d. by the arrangement with the Bank to pay off the loan in 10 years.

The Clerk was directed to write to the Department stressing the point.

Leaseholders Organisation. A long letter was read from the National Leaseholders Association thanking the Council for their support. They proposed that all Urban land available for building should be valued and subject to taxation; they sought the establishment of Fair Rent Courts and a National Purchase scheme at a fair price over a period of years. That would also affect Urban Councils property held on lease where the Corporation property was extensive purchase could be effected through the organisation. Any loss of income could be supplemented by an increased rate, which would be more equitable apart from the stimulus to business. At present the leaseholder was faced with the prospect of having his lease rent trebled because he was trying to better himself. Their proposals would save the Council enormous trouble and expense in acquiring land compulsorily and meant that Councils could obtain land at a reasonable price instead of at the landlord's. The Organisation was fully alive to the vital value of open spaces and an extension of Lard Acls was sought to vest the freehold of all open spaces in Urban areas in Councils in perpetuity. The Organisation felt that their proposals when carried into effect would not only be a fillip to business but would go far to develop the country.

ARDMORE DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Mr. G. P. Farrell, D.J.)

LICENSE TRANSFER. Mr. Wm. R. Hodnett, solr., Youghal, applied on behalf of F. D. Nugent, for transfer of a licence held by Mary T. O'Kelly, Cliff Hotel, Ardmore.

Formal evidence having been given, and there being no objection the application was granted.

Renewal Certificates. This was the Annual Licensing Sessions and Supt. Walsh, Dungarvan, stating that there was no objection all the local licences were renewed.

Dance Licence Application. Mr. T. K. Keane, solr., Youghal, applied for a dance licence for St. Declan's Parochial Hall, Ardmore, Mr. Wm. Mockler, being the nominee of the P.P.

The Justice—This is a renewal? Mr. Keane said a new licence was required every year. The place had been licensed for dancing since March last.

W. Mockler, said they required four all-night dances for the year—St. Stephen's night, Patron night and St. Patrick's night and one night in August in connection with the Sports or Regatta, hours 9 to 3 a.m. and practice dances on week nights, 8.30 to 11.30.

The Superintendent—I would like to limit the number of practice dances in the week to three.

Mr. Mockler said that was all they required—Sunday night for the winter and 3 in July and August.

The Supt. said there was one disadvantage about that—there was no sanitary accommodation.

The Justice—I won't bother about that.

Mr. Keane—The Board of Health have raised no objection.

The Supt. said it came within the provisions of the Section of the Act.

Mr. Keane—It says "may be taken into consideration," but it does not bind your worship.

The Justice said that so long as there was no complaint he would not bother. It got on all right hitherto?

Mr. Mockler, yes, sir.

The Justice said if there was any complaint he might go into the matter.

The Supt. said he would raise no further objection provided the usual age limit and the intoxicating liquor clause were imposed.

Mr. Keane asked the Court as Ardmore was a seaside resort not to impose the 3-mile limit.

The Supt. said he would not object and the licence was granted.

Unlicensed Dogs. Sergt. Gallagher, Ardmore, had a number of persons charged with having unlicensed dogs.

Fines of 5/- were imposed where the licences were not taken out after the issue of the summonses.

Thomas Butler, Dungarvan was charged with using an expired licence on a motor van.

Guard Grace having given evidence, Mr. Miller owner, said the matter was all an oversight.

A fine of 2/- was imposed.

Donald J. O'Donovan, Whiting Bay, was charged with having faulty brakes on his hackney motor car.

Guard Grace stated that he had the brakes tested. There was no speedometer on the car. With the machine going 15-20 m.p.h. it took 33 yards to stop the car with the hand-brake, 40 yds. with the foot brake and 27 with both together. The defendant said it was very difficult and expensive to keep them in order. The car was an Overland. He had relined them several times.

The Supt.—This charge arose out of a complaint as to a narrow escape the previous day.

Imposing a fine of 20/-, the Justice said it was a very serious matter to have brakes defective.

Malicious Injury. Two young visitors, Michael Hodge, and Thomas Foley, were charged with maliciously damaging a store, the property of Martin Hurley.

Evidence was given by Mr. Hurley to the effect that he had detected the defendants smashing several panes of glass in the store. The damage 6/- had been made good.

Sergt. Gallagher handed in statements made by defendants, from which appeared that they were returning home from a local entertainment and when passing the store, thinking it was derelict, they threw some stones breaking the glass.

They were both let out under the P.O.A.

Interesting Malicious Injury Case. At a Children's Court, a boy aged 8 was charged with his father with malicious damage to Monameen National School.

Miss Margaret McSweeney, N.T., stated that she left that boy and others home at 2.50 o'clock on Friday July 10th, locking up the schools. On the following Monday she found 18 panes of glass broken and the floor littered with glass and stones. The damage amounted to £2 8s. 8d.

Sergt. Fitzgerald, Ring, stated that he interviewed the boy at the school on 13th July. Having carefully cautioned him, he made a statement admitting that on the Friday evening in question his younger brother and he returned to the school, climbed over the wall and broke the windows. He thought with the glass broken that there would be no school.

The boy replying to his father, said he made the statement referred to.

Is it true?—The Guard frightened me. The Justice—There is always trouble about statements by juveniles. Reference was made to a similar statement made by the younger brother who

WEST WATERFORD DIVISIONAL FINALS

On Sunday two important championship matches were played in the Sports-field, Cappoquin, when the finals in the West Waterford Divisional Junior Football and Junior Hurling were decided.

The weather was most inclement for the games, as heavy rain fell all through the afternoon which made the ground slippery and greasy, so that the play in either game was far below Championship standard, and the four teams concerned had shown much better form in the previous games played by them.

As a result of the unfavourable weather, the attendance was the smallest seen at any Championship match in Cappoquin this season, while the absence of a large number of Gaelic enthusiasts from various parts of the West Waterford who had gone to Dublin to witness the All-Ireland Hurling Final also contributed largely to the sparse attendance and the poor "gate" receipts.

The football match was the first on the programme, the opposing teams being Sliabh gCua (Touraneena), and Tallow, who were expected to provide a first-class game, but owing to the adverse conditions prevailing, the standard of play fell far short of expectations.

The Touraneena men almost completely dominated the play in the first half, Tallow appearing to be entirely off form, and the half-time whistle found Sliabh gCua leading by the score of 3 goals 2 points to 1 point for Tallow.

Play was of a much more even nature in the second half, when the Touraneena forwards were well held up by the Tallow back division and were unable to raise a solitary flag during this moiety.

Tallow scored one point, but their shooting in the forward line had been more accurate, they should have added several further scores, but many chances were thrown away, and the end of a rather disappointing match resulted as follows:—

SLIABH gCUA 3-2
TALLOW 0-2
Mr. Seamus Hayes, Dungarvan, refereed.

The Hurling final lay between Lismore the recent conquerors of Ballyduff, and Dungarvan, who had easily defeated Ballylin (Lismore), and this was expected to prove a thrilling and well-contested match between two teams with such brilliant records.

Neither team, however, fielded at full strength, as some prominent players from both sides had gone to Dublin, and in order to complete their team on the field, Dungarvan had to requisition the services of Mr. Seamus Hayes, who had refereed the football match, and who, although a brilliant footballer, had never previously played in an important hurling match.

The game started in promising fashion and was not charged, owing to his age. He was questioned by Guard Moloney a short distance away.

The Justice—How long did all this last?

The Sergt.—About half an hour. The boys were taken out of school during school hours.

The father said he was quite sure all the glass wasn't broken by his boys.

The Justice—Why?

The father—Because if they did it I would knock it out of them, and they wouldn't get over the wall. This is not the first time the glass was broken.

The Sergt. said the wall was from 3 to 5 feet high and the boys could get over it.

The father—It was wrong to take those children out of school and to threaten them.

The Sergt.—I deny on my oath that they were threatened.

Guard Moloney denied using any threats to the younger boy. Those boys could get over the wall.

Miss Condon, principal teacher, stated she knew the wall. The boys got over it often.

The Supt. said they had received a statement that the glass was broken between 3 and 7.45 p.m. on the evening in question.

Replying to the Court, the boy said he did not break the glass. The Sergeant frightened him telling him he would take him away.

The Justice—You told him lies?—I did. Why?—(No answer).

To the Superintendent—Did you ever climb that wall?—I did. I didn't see my brother climb it.

The father replying to the Court said he told the boys to tell the truth and they said they didn't break the windows.

The Justice—Is it your honest opinion that they didn't break them?—It is.

The Justice—Then you are a very simple man—that is all I have to say.

After a further hearing, the Justice said it was difficult to deal with a case like that where the only evidence was statements obtained by the Guards. He was perfectly satisfied that the Guards didn't threaten the boys and he rejected that ridiculous story. He never acted on such evidence except in an indictable case. He wanted to make it perfectly plain that he didn't believe for a moment that there was any duress brought to bear on those boys, but naturally they would get afraid and it would be better if the statement were taken in presence of the parents. He believed the boys did break the glass and the father couldn't escape for he was liable for the damage done.

The Superintendent said he was grateful to his Worship for that expression of opinion regarding the charge of threats made by the father against the Guards. He was the last man in the district who should take that course.

The case was then dismissed.

FOR A PERFECT GUINNESS ASK FOR MERRY'S. CLEAN BOTTLES. GOOD CORKS. THE LABEL WITH 68 YEARS REPUTATION BEHIND IT.

by Dungarvan opening the scoring with a point within the first few minutes, to which Lismore quickly responded with a goal.

Both sides having sent wide in succession, Dungarvan shot their second point, which was followed by a second goal for Lismore, who from this onward completely outclassed their opponents, and added three further goals and a point, while Dungarvan had to content with one goal, so that the half-time whistle found Lismore leading on the score:—

LISMORE 5-1
DUNGARVAN 1-2

Dungarvan showed up to much better advantage in the second half, and happily attacked, only to be driven back by the veteran "Marsh" Regan, who proved a stone-wall "goalie," and played brilliantly throughout the game.

Lismore then carried the attack to their opponents' posts and were soon rewarded with a goal, and after Dungarvan had sent wide, Lismore shot a further goal.

With the score now standing at 7-1 to 1-2 against Dungarvan, the odds seemed heavy against them, but they gamely returned to the attack and cleverly beat the vigilant "Marsh" for a goal.

Dungarvan were now playing a grand and spirited game, and kept the Lismore backs busy time after time, but the latter at length effected a fine clearance and raised the green flag after a stubborn defence.

Dungarvan next attacked, and beating all opposition, scored a clever goal, bringing the score to 8-1 against 3-2. Some fast play in midfield now followed, the Dungarvan men giving some spectacular exhibitions of over-head play, while Lismore proved superb in ground play and were soon rewarded with a further goal.

Dungarvan, however, were not done with yet, and quickly responded with a similar score, but Lismore then transferred play to the other end, and were strongly pressing the Dungarvan backs when the full-time whistle went, leaving Lismore deserving winners on the following score:—

LISMORE 9-1
DUNGARVAN 4-2

The match was refereed by Mr. W. Sheehan, Tallow.

CHANGE.—On every hand, locally, the trees are noticeably fading, and many have shed a lot of leaves before their time. It is entirely an autumnal country-side that we look upon today, despite the blazing sunshine. Potato plants in the fields are brown and gold, and agriculturists will soon be busy harvesting the crop. This scene is reminiscent of October. Woodlands and waysides are dry and faded, and even the green summer bracken is turning crisp and brown. Wild fruits and berries are conspicuous, and numbers of youngsters and oldsters are paying special visits to the country to gather blackberries. Bird life is having a great time among the bright coral bunches on the mountain ash, and dark glossy berries of the elder. Hips and haws abound, and already the ground beneath the oaks is strewn with acorns. The increasing song of robins, and their evening "licking" note are another indication of the enveloping autumn. So, too, the very noticeable flocking of birds, of which the swallows and martins are a conspicuous example.

From the first week of August sand martins have been gathering and moving south, and more recently the twittering notes of swallows and house martins have attracted everyone's attention. Throughout these calm September days flocks may be observed fitting gracefully in a southerly direction.

G.A.A. NOTES & NOTIONS

By "CRÓTOG."

Last Sunday the eyes of all Gaeldom were focussed on Croke Park. Never before in the history of the G.A.A. had a hurling final aroused such all-absorbing interest.

Limerick won the Munster Championship with ease and disposed of Galway without being extended; and yet, the publicity merchants would have it that they had less than an even money chance against the Marble County, whose progress in Leinster was not too impressive.

The Central Council met on last Saturday evening and Locky Byrne's application for a transfer to Kilkenny was raised. No discussion was allowed on the matter.

An unusually small crowd was present in Cappoquin last Sunday for the Western Junior Finals. The lure of the radio from Croke Park as well as the wretched weather conditions was largely responsible for the disappointing attendance.

The year is now clear for the County Finals. Unfortunately, the G.A.A. Championships in East Waterford are still far from finished. Why this should be so it is difficult to understand.

A replay has been ordered by the Eastern Divisional Board in the much-discussed Mount Sion v. Dunhill Senior Hurling final. The referee's report on the original game was not adopted as it did not comply with the rules, and the Chairman ruled the match void.

On Sunday next our hurlers line out in Croke Park to battle with Westmeath for the Junior All-Ireland Crown. There is no denying the fact that this is far and away the most formidable opposition they have yet been called on to face.

YOUGHAL NOTES.

Christian Schools, Youghal—

As will be seen by our advertising columns, the success of the boys of the Christian Schools, Youghal, at the recent Intermediate Certificate Examination is but a continuation of similar successes in previous years.

Corkman Weds In Dublin—

The wedding took place at the Church of the Sacred Heart, Donnybrook, Dublin, with Nuptial Mass and Papal Blessing of P. J. Broderick, youngest son of the late Mr. William Broderick and Mrs. Broderick, Youghal, and brother of Mr. W. J. Broderick, T.D., Chairman, Cork County Council and Miss Mary C. Cashman, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cashman, Red Forge, Youghal.

The happy couple have the sincerest good wishes of their wide circle of friends in Youghal and out of it. Mr. "Joe"—by which cognomen he is much better known—Broderick is the youngest son of a highly and deservedly esteemed Youghal man, the late Mr. Wm. Broderick, North Main street, one of the most prominent local public men, who for many years devoted his energies and abilities to foster the welfare of his native town, working hand and glove with other fine public men, such as the late Messrs. Richard Carey, Michael Kennedy, Thos. J. Farrell, etc.

clides two stars in Sheehan and White of "Young Irelands" not to mention the versatile Colm Boland and McNeice of University College, two "crack" Dublin teams. The rest of the fifteen is comprised of Army hurlers stationed in Athlone and Mullingar and several Tipperary, Galway and Kilkenny hurlers figure prominently on it.

In the National Hurling League we travel to play Dublin on Sunday October 4, just three weeks time. Our hurlers have a very busy time ahead. What with inter-county engagements and home championships there is going to be no rest for Waterford hurling for a long time yet.

The Senior Hurling Tournament Final at Fermoy between Limerick and Waterford has been postponed for the present. The Cork County Final between Glen Rovers and Sarsfields fixed for the Athletic Grounds, next Sunday, prompted this decision.

The best wishes of every Gael in the Decies accompany the juniors to Croke Park in their quest for All-Ireland honours. Should they bear home the crown of victory, they will have deserved well of their native county; in that case, it is to be hoped that they will be acclaimed on their return with some of the enthusiasm and whole-hearted appreciation lavished by other counties on teams who may have gained more trophies and more publicity but hardly less hono.

local matter years ago, and ever after the effects of that split was felt with the result that the town suffered for it. The bride is member of a most respectable family, hailing from the nearby adjoining Co. Waterford. They have been intimately connected with Youghal, where they have acquired a high place in the estimation of all who know them. Go n-éirighidh a-naistrighadh leo, and may their "troubles" be etc., etc.

Is feara Sompá na Teagasc—

Our friend Master Joe, has set an example well worth and worthy of following. We have here a pretty big batch of young eligible bachelors, who, let us piously hope, may now be tempted to go and do likewise, and this in spite of Mr. Punch's well-known piece of advice. Various lame excuses are from time to time given by those "shivers on the brink." First they would, and next they wouldn't, then they would, and next they wouldn't, then they said: Oh! my "and so on." May we take it that our young friend will become an apostle in the good cause. He has a fine and fertile field wherein to labour. Who knows, but the result of his efforts may give us material for future paragraphs. Honestly, Mr. People, there ought to be a heavy tax put on eligible bachelors.

A Local Industry Wanted—

At a recent meeting of one of our local public Boards, a very interesting discussion arose indirectly out of some other interesting subject, it doesn't matter what. It was stated by Councillor Savage who said that the town was in a state of stagnation, being utterly devoid of anything in the shape of a real industry that would afford employment to a number of people. Councillor Power backed him up strongly, saying it was a shame that while numerous towns in the country had been up and doing with the result that they had succeeded in getting some industry established in their midst. The Chairman (Mr. P. J. O'Gorman, P.C.) said he thoroughly agreed with the remarks passed by his colleagues, but he regretted to say that he feared there was no immediate prospect of anything practical being done. Mr. Power said that there had been a move made some time ago to start an industry and it was a great pity it was not followed up. The Chairman, said the first question they would be faced with if any practical move were made was: how much money will the town put up? That was the kernel of the situation. Was it possible for instance, to raise, say a sum of £5,000 for the purpose mentioned? Mr. Power said there was plenty of local money invested in foreign securities and businesses, and it was a shame that local people with money could not be got to invest a share in some local project. The Chairman said he feared there was little use in further discussion.

Emigration—

Almost every week for some time past, young men and women, the very flower of the flock, are leaving for across-Channel in search of the employment which unfortunately there is not the slightest opportunity or possibility of procuring at home. By all accounts last week's exodus formed a painful record, from 20 to 30 having gone. It is hard to find fault with them for unemployment was never so rampant amongst us as at present and the prospect for the coming winter is simply appalling. The Government have offered £405 towards a scheme to relieve the situation, on the condition that the Urban Council provide a like amount. This the Council have unanimously agreed to and without the slightest delay arranged with the Provincial Bank for a loan repayable in ten years. Now the Government come along and insist on its being repaid in 3 years. According to the Town Clerk, the best authority on the subject, this would mean a rate of 34d. in the £ as against 1r-8d. Goodness knows rates are high enough at present, too high for many, without increasing them unnecessarily. But there you are. The proverb has it: "The man on the ditch is the best hurler," but what do the bureaucrats up in Dublin know about the practical working of small local bodies? If the thing goes through it will afford some relief, but it won't go far and unfortunately it will benefit only a portion of those seeking employment. Therefore, the probability is: that the exodus will continue to increase.
