DUNGARVAN URBAN COUNCIL.

Mr. M. Morrissey, Chairman, presiding. Also present—Messrs. T. McCarthy, Vice-Chairman, P. Byrne, J. Dahill, J.P. O'Dwyer, J. Mansfield, J. Christopher, J. F. Foley, J. J. Crotty, P. Quinn.

Masons' Grievance
Mr. Fitzgerald and a fellow mason appeared before the meeting and said it was unfair that work for masons should be given to particular men and that there were cases where work was held over until particular men were finished with other jobs. It was not fair said Mr. Fitzgerald, that other masons who were idle were not given the work.

Chairman—I do not think that statement is a fact. I do not believe that work would be kept back for certain men. It is against the order on the books that as far as possible unemployed men should be given preference.

B.S.—I did not hold work over.
Chairman—All we can do now is to instruct the officials that in future unemployed men must get preference in any work.

When the deputation had withdrawn, Mr. McCarthy said he was not against the deputation, but he would like to bring to the notice of the Chair that there was an order that deputations should only be heard and then they should withdraw to allow the Council to discuss the matter complained of. It was not right that the meeting should be held up night after night by members discussing matters with the deputations.

Chairman—I agree, but members ask questions and I do not like to interfere. I hope that members will bear that in mind in future.

Mr. O'Dwyer—I spoke, but I was not the first. I am aware of the order, but when I see officers members talking to the deputation I did the same.

Payments
The following payments were passed: General A/c. £20 18s. 5d. Harbour A/c. £1 8s. 6d.

Horse Fair
Mr. Dahill reminded the Council that it was time advertisements were issued for the forthcoming horse fair which will be held on the last Friday of November. It was agreed that previous arrangements be carried out.

Children's Health Committee
It was decided on the matter being brought up by Mr. Foley that a meeting of the Children's Health Committee be held on Tuesday to make arrangements for children's meals.

Severage
Mr. Lanigan, Secretary Technical Committee, wrote asking permission to connect up with the sewer at the new Technical School. He pointed out that if there was a nuisance it was the Council's duty to abate it.

A letter was read from Messrs. Thomas Power, stating that they would object strongly to the connecting up by the Technical School with the sewer, as it would cause a nuisance at their factory, where in the manufacture of mineral waters, etc., cleanliness was necessary.

The Chairman said that the Technical Committee had evidently got a wrong impression from the report of their meeting in which they were not given permission to connect with the sewer. The reason for this was because there was already an existing nuisance caused by that sewer and there were objections as they saw by Mr. Power's letter. They would do all they could for the Technical School, but he would like to know what the plans were when the school was started, how was it proposed to drain it. It is only now at this late hour that they ask to connect up with the sewer. The Council cannot be held responsible for refusing to allow them to connect up.

Mr. Quinn said that to allow further drainage into that sewer would create a terrible nuisance at Mr. Power's and would also destroy St. Bridget's Well, where people get water. That sewer ran into an open drain at Mr. Power's.

In answer to Mr. Dahill, the B.S. said that since there was a complaint some years ago about that sewer no new connections were made to it.

Mr. Connors said the only way to deal with the matter was to extend the sewer from Roderick's and pipe it out to low watermark.

After further discussion, it was agreed that owing to the existing nuisance permission to connect up could not be given to the Technical School Committee, but it was decided that the matter of continuing the sewer from Roderick's be gone into.

Housing
Regarding the housing scheme it was decided that the Clerk write the Department for sanction on tomorrow. Architects, Messrs. Doyle and Ormond, Architects, wrote stating that they had examined the demolished area and it was not yet properly cleared.

It was agreed that the owners of the land be told exactly what was to be done.

Sympathy
A vote of sympathy was passed with the relatives of the late Mr. Condon, O'Connell Street.

CAPPOQUIN NOTES.

Mount Melleray New Church Building Fund—

The Grand Drawing of Prizes in aid of the above Fund will be held in the C.Y.M.S. Hall in Mill Street, on Thursday night October 29th at 7.30, when the First Prize will be £30, and the total value of the 12 prizes will be £100. Tickets only 6d. each, have been on sale for this big Draw for several months past, and have been in great demand, not only in all parts of Ireland, but in many distant quarters of the globe, and every thing points to the Draw being a huge financial success.

This is only as it should be, because no appeal for funds has ever been made for a more worthy or deserving cause, as the Cistercian Community of Mount Melleray, with its far-flying record of great and noble work in the cause of religion, education and charity, has a strong claim on the most generous support of Catholics everywhere, and we are proud to be able to state that this support has been forthcoming in a liberal and practical manner, not only from Catholics, but also from members of other religious denominations, which is a tribute to the high place which Mount Melleray holds in the hearts of all classes throughout the Christian and civilised world.

Although great progress has already been made with the building of the New Church, much yet remains to be done, and a very heavy expenditure of money must still be faced before this magnificent edifice will be completed, so that a sustained effort must be made to help the Community in completing the noble task which they have so bravely undertaken for the greater honour and glory of God. Those who subscribe to this Fund will have the consolation of knowing that they are helping God's work, and we trust that very few in the Co. Waterford, where the elevating spiritual influence of Mount Melleray is more intimately felt, will have failed to purchase tickets for the Grand Drawing of Prizes on the 29th inst.

Immediately after the Draw a Monster Whist Drive in aid of the same fund, will be held in the more spacious Boathouse Hall, commencing at 8 o'clock, sharp. The prizes offered for this event, both in number and value, are the best awarded at any Whist Drive for years, as can be seen from the list of the principal prizes which will be found in our advt. columns this week. The Hall will be specially heated with oil stoves during the Drive, and with all the arrangements in the capable hands of Mr. M. J. Sargent, the indefatigable Hon. Sec., and the energetic members of the committee, the comfort and enjoyment of all the players can be fully assured.

Having regard to the unusually valuable nature of the prizes offered, the price of the tickets is most reasonable at only 2/6 each, so we expect to see a record attendance at this Monster Drive, when a great night's sport will be enjoyed by all.

A Skilful Nurse—
Miss Gretta Walsh, second daughter of Mr. M. F. Walsh, P.C., Auctioneer, and Mrs. Walsh, Main street, has just completed a two months' engagement as nurse in the fever hospital, Lismore. She acted as substitute for nurse O'Mahony during her month's holidays, and continued in the same capacity for a similar period during the holidays of nurse Heskin subsequently.

Miss Walsh was trained in the Waterford County and City Infirmary, where she spent 4 1/2 years, and also spent one year in the South-Western Hospital, London, and took out her certificate as nurse after passing her final examination in brilliant style early this year. Her valuable services were retained in the Waterford Infirmary until June last, and soon after her return home for a much-needed rest, she was engaged as Private Nurse to Superintendent Quinlan, G.S., Lismore, who had met with rather serious injuries in a motor collision in Leix last July, but whom she quickly and skilfully nursed back to the best of health.

During her two months' engagement in Lismore Fever Hospital, she proved herself a most efficient and attentive nurse, and judging by the auspicious start which she has already made, it is clear that she will be a valuable acquisition to the ranks of the nursing profession.

Improving The Breed Of Sheep—
Mr. M. J. McGrath, Lismore, son of a worthy and respected Cappoquin man, the late Mr. Michael McGrath, Virtual, Lismore, has just imported a number of high-class Pedigree Border Leicester rams and ewes from Scotland, all these animals being prize-winners at the recent Lanark Sales, where they were purchased by him at high prices. Mr. McGrath is one of the leading breeders of sheep in Munster, and has been a regular prizewinner at most of the Southern Shows for many years, and as he possesses the leading Border Leicester flock in the County for breeding purposes, this should be the means of greatly improving the breed of sheep in the Co. Waterford, and he deserves great credit for his sound judgment and wonderful enterprise in this important matter.

The Market For Porkers—
The market for Porkers, which was opened at the Cappoquin Bacon Factory this week, is bound to prove a great boon to the farmers in West Waterford, who can sell their animals more economically and conveniently than when they had to send them to more distant markets in previous years.

Farmers should note that Porkers will be taken at the Factory only on Tuesdays, the same as last year, but the purchase of bacon pigs will be carried on throughout each week, as usual. The present fixed price for the latter is now 60/- per cwt., dead weight, and we are glad to learn that supplies to the local Factory are proving more than ample at present.

Great Inter-County Hurling Match For Cappoquin—
At a meeting of the Waterford Co. Board, G.A.A., held in Waterford, on Saturday night, it was decided that the Waterford v. Clare match in the National Hurling League be played in Cappoquin on a date to be fixed by the Central Council. This is the most important Gaelic match ever fixed for this town, and having regard to the brilliant records of both teams, it should prove a huge attraction and be the means of bringing many thousands of visitors to Cappoquin for the day. Great credit is due to Mr. Joe Mason, Cappoquin's able delegate on the Co. Board, for his successful efforts in getting such a great game fixed for his native town.

DICKENS LEATHER CO., LTD., DUNGARVAN

IN the short period of its existence, the Dickens Leather Factory, Dungarvan, has made very rapid progress.

Though only in production for a few months over 100 men are already employed in the various departments and as time goes on and with every section of the premises in full production it is estimated that a staff of 300 will be required.

In an interesting interview with the highly-efficient Managing Director, Mr. Reginald Dickens, he informed us that the workmanship at the Factory had improved immensely and the employees, though nearly all new to such work, had shown considerable application and zeal in the discharge of their duties. The Factory is a model factory in every way and the workers carry on their work under far happier and better conditions than in similar factories across the Channel.

The Dungarvan Factory has large airy workrooms, thoroughly lighted and ventilated. They are ideally situated on the Harbour's edge and have every advantage to commend them. Mr. Dickens, who has world-wide experience of the manufacture of Leather Linings and fine leather for the manufacture of gloves, hand-bags, etc., etc., informs us he is quite satisfied with the progress of the new firm and spoke with special emphasis of the fine spirit shown by the employees here. One and all gave of their best in the matter of co-operation and were improving daily. It made work a pleasure to be associated with such a staff.

In order to produce the neatly finished fine leather required by the Factory's customers, hides and skins come to Dungarvan from all parts of the Globe—from China, Africa, Abyssinia, The Near East, mid Europe and South America. Here they are put through the full variety of processes which make them the things of beauty, style and finish they look in the completed article.

The establishment of the Dickens Leather Co. was a great boon to the workers of Dungarvan and we are glad to hear how they appreciate the steady lucrative work which has been given them, and the co-operation and good feeling that exists between them and the Managing Director and his fellow-Collaborators on the staff. Such loyalty is the greatest asset of the Factory in facing competition at home or abroad.

Now that there are over 100 employed at the Dickens Factory, would it not be a good thing if provision could be made to establish a Club for the employees where in the evenings they could disport themselves. All work and no play is no use. Work and play must go hand in hand, and we are sure Mr. Dickens and his fellow-Directors would gladly cooperate in having a Club with all the usual amenities associated with same established for the benefit of the workers. When that is done the Dickens Leather Factory will be a model in every sense of the word, and that it will march from success to success is the wish of all who have seen and appreciated the excellence of its products.

G.A.A. NOTES & NOTIONS

By "CROTOG."

There was joy and gladness in many a Gaelic home throughout the Decies on Sunday night last when the news came through on the air that Waterford had conquered Dublin at Croke Park in the opening round of the National Hurling League. Pride mingled with rejoicing when the details of the victory became known on Monday. And the Gaels of Waterford thrilled with a new fervour and glowed with a new pride as they read how their heroic representatives made hurling history in the National Stadium. It was not so much the result as the manner in which it was accomplished that astounded the Gaelic public—to Dublin it was a staggering surprise, to the critics, a revelation. For a Waterford team to overhaul a second-half lead of ten points and in a desperate finish to beat the Metropolitan on their own home soil is an achievement which would do credit to the best hurling combination in Ireland. Yet the Decies hurlers did it and against sun and wind at that. The long wearying car journey on Sunday morning did not seem to impair their muscular activities in the least; at any rate, their wonderful spirit surmounted all handicaps and, refusing to be beaten, they fought and won the most sensational and spectacular victory in the history of Decies hurling. To their speed, mobility and fitness, but, above all, to their indomitable grit, is due this splendid success. Only a really good team could triumph so emphatically against such odds and this team gives promise of developing into a great team. With judicious attention to training and tactics and a hardening of the will-to-win spirit so much in evidence on Sunday, Waterford will certainly make a bold bid for National League honours.

The game opened on a very subdued note and a tame first half gave little indication of the fireworks which were to illumine the finish. Tom Greaney showed early that he has returned to his best form and with Mick Wyse as partner treated the crowd to some neat touches in hectic bouts with the fiery Daniels-Wade midfield combination. The drawing room brand of hurling is not much favoured by these hard-hitting Dubliners as our lads very soon learnt. Several frees in favourable ground were woefully squandered by reckless play. Greaney's point opened our account and at length Connie Ryan, from a 21 yards free crashed home a great goal. Nevertheless, Dublin led by five points at the interval, thanks chiefly to good-keeping by Culloten and to the aggressiveness of Downes, Feeney and Butler in the forward line.

Twelve minutes of the second half had gone and the lead had stretched to ten points. Dublin, hurling with an easy confidence, had no inkling of the hurricane looming ahead. Tom Greaney retires with a knee injury and is replaced by "Dottie" Hogan. In a moment of inspiration, John Keane moves up mid-field and Hogan and Walsh man the right flank defences. The effect is immediate. The riotous Wade is tamed as if by magic and Con Ryan is galvanised into electrifying action on the right wing. Streaking like a greyhound after a fast ground ball, he raises to send over the bar from long range. A moment later, Keane points a 60 yards free. Now all the Decies guns come into action. Wyse and Keane, Sheehan and Ryan with Dec Goode and Paddy Greene, storm all over the Dublin lines, while Daly and Halpin shoot at every opportunity, but Culloten's goal-keeping is marvellously sure. But the massed assault is kept up and, at long last, Daly breaks through to raise the green flag. Five points behind and seven minutes to go—can it ever be done? The enigmatic Connie Ryan answers the question with another glorious point. Keane, the driving force behind that desperate Decies attacking storm, rains ball after ball into the Metropolitan's square but the defences are stout and defiant. "Pa" Sheehan, waltzing round the our Teehan, centres a beauty which Green doubles in the air to send all the way to the Dublin net. One point behind and three minutes to go. Now the excitement is intense. The Waterford attack gathers more fiercely than ever, but that one priceless point still eludes them. In a sudden sally, Dublin threaten the Decies goal, but Curley is in tremendous form and brings off an amazing one-hand save. A clearance to mid-field and a free to the visitors. Ryan shoots high to the Dublin posts, Keane putting everything into one mad charge, hurtles himself at the falling ball and sweeps goal-keeper, slitter, himself and all into the net for the best goal of the game. All is not yet over. Dublin rally for Cannie and Daniels to attack and their forwards swarm round the Waterford goal. In comes a flying air ball straight towards the net and in ten seconds the net is in a state of commotion. Curley coolly gathers to his breast and eluding the burly Flanagan, side-steps Butler neatly to send the ball clear away into the Hogan Stand. It is the best save of his whole career. The next second, Canniffe shoots a high point to leave but the narrowest margins between the scores. But the City hurlers have shot their bolt and the referee's whistle a few moments later is the climax to the most remarkable hurling triumph ever gained by Decies Gaels.

Every member of the winning team did his bit to put Waterford hurling into the head-lines. While one or two weak spots were noticeable, yet the display all round was so convincing that there can be no doubt but that here is excellent material for weaving into a first-class hurling fifteen. The defence was steady under the heaviest fire; Charlie Ware is still the ace of full-backs, while Johnny Fanning lets nothing pass him. "Dottie" Hogan starred in his new berth at right back. "Loyle" Walsh, made is bow to Senior League hurling by a most impressive display, and Jimmy Mountain put the seal on his reputation for consistency by "bottling up" Sean Feeney, one of the most powerful hurlers of today. Con Curley was slower than is his wont but warmed to his work towards the end. Tom Greaney, until his retreat, hurled a great dashing game. Mick Wyse, after an uncertain beginning, playing rousing hurling in the second half. "Pa" Sheehan eclipsed all his previous displays as a winger by giving plenty of the ball to the inner forwards. "Dec" Goode had the better of the argument with the mighty Canniffe, and worked heroically in the Waterford attack. Green justified his rapid promotion by brainy forward work in the left corner, while Halpin renewed old scores with Charlie McMahon, in which the vigorous Waterford lad showed to advantage. Daly was as usual the master tactician at full forward and peppered the Dublin goal from all angles—his bag would have been much bigger but for the genius of Culloten. Connie Ryan, when the spirit moves him, is the most polished player on the team, a fact which he proved by a perfect second-half display on Sunday. As for Curley in goal, he is a team in himself—so, hats off to him.

But the greatest revelation of the game was the masterly mid-field tactics of John Keane, whose strong suit up to this has been regarded as defence. His ball control and accuracy is only equalled by his versatility. His change to centre-field was the turning point in the game, a fact which, in itself, is a tribute to his ability as captain.

The team to do duty against Cork next Sunday week in Lismore includes all those who fought out against Dublin with one or two additions. The selection is as follows—M. Curley, C. Curley, P. Sheehan (Tallow); J. Halpin, T. Greaney, D. Goode (Dungarvan); C. Ware, J. Fanning, M. Wyse, C. Ryan, J. Ware (Erin's Own); P. Greene, J. Keane, D. Hogan, D. O'Mahoney, J. Walsh (Mount Sion); J. Mountain (St. Stephen's); M. Hickey (Dunhill); "Doyle" Walsh (Passage). Daley of Ballyin is no longer available for League Games as he is confined to College in Drumcondra, Dublin.

At Dunhill last Sunday before a big crowd De La Salle vanquished Fenor in the Senior Football Final on the score of 1 goal 8 points to 4 points. That leaves the County Final between Stradbally and the College lads. In the junior football semi-final at the same venue, Fenor drew with Kill. P. H. Peares, Fery beat Clonea in the Minor Hurling semi-final.

At Ballyduff Lower next Sunday the following two games will be decided—Fenar v. Kill (Junior Football Replay); De La Salle v. Clonea (Junior Hurling semi-final).

On Sunday, Oct. 18th at Lismore, Waterford play Cork in the second round of the National Hurling League (all details next week).

On Sunday Oct., 25th, the following Co. Finals are down for decision in Dungarvan—Junior Hurling Final—Lismore v. Clonea or De La Salle. Senior Football Final—De La Salle v. Stradbally.

Comedy and Drama—
Mr. Ewing Taylor's talented Company has been providing delightful entertainment for the people of Cappoquin this week by their excellent performances of a number of high-class Comedies and Dramas which have won the warmest applause from all. On Monday night the light Comedy "Seventh Heaven" was faultlessly staged and on Tuesday night a real Irish flavour was introduced by the production of the bright Musical Comedy "Sweet Peg of Old Dublin" in the course of which Mr. Ewing Taylor's soft and flexible baritone voice was heard at its best and charmed all. On Wednesday night the fine Melodrama, "Blackmail," was staged, and a further series of Comedies and Dramas will be produced up to and including Sunday night, when the entertainment will come to an end and they proceed to the Town Hall, Cahir, for next week.

BLACKWATER FISHERIES.

At the usual monthly meeting of the above at Tallow, there attended—Messrs. J. Kennedy, Chairman, Lord Charles Cavendish, Vice-Chairman, E. E. Hey, J. Kent, W. Dunne, W. O'Neill, W. Baldwin, M. J. Sheehan.

Legality of Special Meeting

A discussion took place regarding the legality of the special meeting held at Mallow some months ago, but no action was taken.

Grants For Hatchery

A letter was read from the Department regarding a grant towards the upkeep of the Mallow Hatchery, stating that the Minister was pleased to approve of a grant for £50 for that purpose. A P.O. for that amount was enclosed.

Spawning Fish

The Department forwarded two certificates to the Board and the Lismore Estate Co., authorising them to capture and have in possession spawning fish.

Fine Reduced

The Minister wrote stating that the fine of £2 and £1 costs imposed on J. Loidé, Ballydaheen, Mallow, was reduced to 10s and 7s costs.

Fermoy Angler's Letter

The following letter was read:— Fermoy, 26/9/36.

Dear Mr. Drohan—I am directed by my Committee to write and ask you to arrange a supply of trout fry for the rivers in this area for season 1937. We are grateful for your assistance on last season and as far as is known it is thought that the fry put into the rivers Arglan and Brack, are progressing favourably. We would be glad if you could procure the same amount and more if possible for 1937. It has been observed in the rivers Brack and Funcheon particularly that the number of pike has considerably increased of late and one of our members has caught 54 pike in the Brack this season. We are anxious to make a drive to try and lessen, if not to totally exterminate these pests, so we would like to know if it is permissible to fish for pike during the close season and also what bait is legal. We intend holding a general competition similar to that run by the Cork Anglers Club last year and of course as we do not want to break the law in any way we would like your opinion and advice on the subject. Dace and Roach are also becoming alarmingly numerous and some of the members here have inquired if it is possible to net pools where shoals of these exist by having same supervised by members of the Gardai or balliffs. It is of general opinion in this area also that the tourist season would be much better if the opening season could be changed from 1st February to 1st March, and if that could be done it is thought that the trout fishing would be greatly improved. It is noticed that up to six years numbers of anglers fish during the February floods and cause great damage in catching small trout and conditioned ones which would, if given a month longer to revive, be twice as good at least. Any help which you can give in the above matters will be much appreciated.—Yours faithfully—K. J. McAuliffe, Hon. Sec., Fermoy and District Trout Anglers Association.

Mr. Kent said the letter was news to him, but he thoroughly endorsed it. The Anglers Association was a really sporting institution and they deserved the support of the Board in every possible way. After the trout fishing there was a serious destruction of salmon fry.

The Clerk said that it was not illegal to kill pike in the close season, but the practice was open to abuse.

Mr. Sheehan—After March 1st, the trout fishing is practically over.

The Clerk said with reference to the change of the date of opening exhaustive inquiries had been held at Mallow and Youghal, and the result was to adhere to the dates prevailing.

Mr. Baldwin said that the question of the change of date had been before the Board and a resolution in favour of a change was defeated by only one vote.

Mr. Kent—Perhaps it is better for all concerned to leave things as they are.

Replying to Lord Charles Cavendish, the Clerk said that there was one river near Kiltarney and one in Sligo opening earlier than the Blackwater.

Mr. Hey said there were two rivers near Kiltarney, not a half mile apart, and one opened in January and the other in March.

The Clerk said the Cork river did not close till August 15th while the Blackwater closed on 31st July. As regards netting for dace, it was open to grave abuse.

Mr. Buckley didn't see how they could net for dace without netting trout and salmon fry. As regards pike one angler had already killed 68 that year.

The Clerk said he was totally opposed to any form of netting for fish as it was open to terrible abuse.

Mr. Kent—Could it not be done under the supervision of the Inspector?

The Clerk—You would require a dozen Inspectors to supervise the river.

After further discussion the Clerk was directed to use his own discretion as to the distribution of fry.

Acknowledgments

Supt. Quinnan, Lismore, wrote thanking the Board for their resolution commending Garda Kieran and Harte, Villierstown, for their services in preserving the river.

A similar letter was read from the Supt. at Kanturk, in connection with the heroic conduct of Sergeant Berkery and Guard Farrelly. Appropriate action would be taken to have it recognised by the Garda Authorities.

Queries From Major Longfield

The Clerk read a letter from Major Longfield, asking for particulars regarding the number of nets fished on the river and around the coast. He (the Major) was unable to attend the meeting as he had to go to England on private family business.

The Chairman said he had two lengthy communications from the Major, but he would not read them for the Board in his absence.

The Clerk said he would supply the Major with the required information regarding the nets. The Major also asked for certain particulars regarding the weir at Lismore, etc., but he was in a position to supply them.

A letter addressed to the Clerk was read from Major Longfield stating that he would be glad if he would let him know who actually appointed Mr. Hey as representative of Mr. Grant's Kilmurray Fishery.

Lord Cavendish said that was a matter of personal vendetta and not the Board's business. Let him take it up by solicitor with the Minister if he wished.

Mr. Kent—don't see where we come into it at all.

The Chairman agreed. It wasn't the business of the Board to interfere.

After further discussion it was unanimously decided that the question of the legality of Mr. Hey's Power of Attorney was not a matter for the members of the Board.

Mr. Hey said he had intended to submit the document in question to the Board, but in view of Major Longfield's letter he would not do so, but he would show it to the Chairman.

Protection Works at D'Loughane

Mr. Hey called attention to the proposed protection works by the Land Commission at D'Loughane. It was intended to run groynes 20 feet long into the river. He visited the place and consulted the local fishermen and they were all of the opinion that at certain state of the tides these groynes would be destructive to the men's nets and positively dangerous for the boats and their crews.

The Board agreed with those views and the Clerk was directed to bring the matter before the proper authorities.

The Fermoy Meeting

Some discussion took place on the minutes of the previous meeting held at Fermoy where Major Longfield denied that he had stated at the recent Conference of Conservators that the three delegates appointed did not represent the Board.

Mr. Hey adhered to his statement, adding that the Major had given his reasons in support of his contention.

In reply to the Chairman the Clerk said that they had a credit balance in bank of £88a as compared with £83a last year. The rates were not coming in satisfactorily. The fact that a fishing had not been let was no legal excuse for not paying the rates.

Mr. Kent argued that it was a great hardship to ask owners who had not let their fisheries, to pay rates.

A long discussion ensued and the matter was finally adjourned.

IRISH-AMERICAN'S DEATH

Obsequies At Tallow, Co. Waterford

Solemn High Mass and Office were celebrated for the repose of the soul of the late Mr. Garrett Collins, of Oak Quay, Hyde Park, Boston, at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Tallow, on Saturday, 7th inst.

The remains of the deceased, who died at his home on August 26th, arrived at Cove on board the Cunard-White Star liner ss. "Scythia," and were conveyed by road to Tallow, accompanied by a representative gathering of the townspeople.

On arrival the casket was borne to the Church on the shoulders of four members of the local courting club and lay there overnight. After Mass the interment took place in the family plot in the cemetery adjoining the church, the last prayer being recited by Rev. T. M. Murphy, C.C., Lismore, at the conclusion of which special prayers were offered for the repose of the soul of the deceased, all those present uniting fervently.

The deceased, who was a splendid Irishman, was a member of one of the oldest families in the town, the deepest sympathy being extended to the widow, Mrs. M. E. Collins, who accompanied the remains from Boston.

"SATANIC HATE OF GOD"

Archbishop of Tuam and the Aim of Bolshevists

"Bolshevism ever comes to Ireland. It is the Rotary more than eloquence or force that will give Ireland the victory over the most dangerous foe that has ever declared war against God and the Church," said His Grace Most Rev. Dr. Gilmanin, in Tuam Cathedral.

"There are three great episodes in the history of the Church," said His Grace, "in which the Rotary played a decisive part. The first of these is what is called the history of the Alogenes, an aggressive sect that attacked the doctrine and practices of the Church in the South of France. Eloquent preachers failed to convert them. The use of force was found equally unavailing. While beads had been used to count 'Rosary' beads, St. Dominic made them into a Rosary and used them on this occasion as a campaign of prayer, which had the effect of stamping out the heresy of the Alogenes. This was the first great victory of the Rosary in the history of the Church.

"The next episode in which the Rosary played a decisive part was the naval battle of Lepanto, between the Turks and the Christians on 7th October, 1571. Pius V. while celebrating his annual mass, ordered a general recitation of the Rosary that God, through the intercession of the Blessed Virgin Mary, would grant a victory to the Christians. This was in the history of God was rewarded, with such a decisive victory that Cardinal Newman expressed his surprise that Grey has not placed it among the decisive battles of the world. Writing nearer our own times, Les XIIE, wrote no less than five Encyclicals on the Rosary, and added to the Litany 'Queen of the Most Holy Rosary' pray for us."

"Coming now to the present moment there is a war raging against Christianity, which is, at least, as dangerous and aggressive as either the heresy of the Alogenes or the onslaught of the Turks. It is raging in Russia, in Mexico and in Spain. The Alogenes were not atheist. The Turks believed in one God, and that they were right; but the Bolshevists not only do not believe in God, but they aim at abolishing by violence all forms of religious worship. The burning of churches and the murder at sight of bishops, priests and defenceless nuns in Spain are examples of this Satanic hate of God.

"In this campaign of prayer it would ill become Ireland to be behindhand. I would, therefore, today, on this the first Sunday in October, renew my appeal to the priests and religious and the faithful people of the diocese to join in this campaign of prayer. The intercessory power of Our Lady of Victory is not diminished. What she did at Lepanto, she will do for Spain and for Europe. Whatever may be your own needs, say at least one decade of the Rosary, if not the whole Rosary, for Spain, until her victory over Bolshevism and anarchy is assured. Queen of the Most Holy Rosary, pray for us; Queen of the Most Holy Rosary, pray for Ireland.

"If Bolshevism ever comes to Ireland, it is the Rosary more than eloquence or force that will give Ireland the victory over the most dangerous foe that has ever declared war against God and the Church. While fasting six, we must pray for sinners. In the midst of plenty there is need of prayer and crying poverty in the world. Pope Pius XI has indicated the lines of justice and charity in which an abolition of these evils may be found, while safeguarding the liberty and dignity of man. Back to the evil is at present while there is life there is hope for a better world in all who have faith; but unless Communism is successful, there would be a cloud level of degradation and misery, without faith and without hope for anything more than the life of a slave in this world, with terrible and unavoidable years of God's judgments for the life to come."

IRISH CHRISTIAN FRONT

Right Rev. Mgr. Byrne, on Rising in Spain

PUBLIC MEETING IN CLONMEL

Ever the rising of a people in sheer self-defence and in defence of interests most fundamental and sacred was justified it was the present rising in Spain declared Right Rev. Monsignor Byrne, P.P., V.G., at a public meeting in Clonmel under the auspices of the Irish Christian Front, held on Sunday.

The prairie fire of that conflict must not be allowed to spread, he declared. Communism was preceded and unfurling, accompanied by universal, persistent and most astute propaganda which aimed at seducing the masses and throwing them against any form of institution, human and divine. They must resist that abominable subversive propaganda in Ireland.

Mr. P. S. Belton, T.D., said they knew that there were people in Ireland, who wanted to organise a brigade for Spain, and so far from condemning these men they took off their hats to them. The Christian Front would give medical aid to any Irishman fighting with the patriots in Spain.

A big procession preceded ceremonies in Cashel on Sunday in reparation for the blasphemies and outrages committed in Spain and Russia against Almighty God and his Church.

By order of the Bishop of Kilmore Sunday was observed in the Cathedral, Cavan, as a day of reparation for the insults offered to Our Divine Lord in Spain, and as a day of supplication for all those who are suffering because of the devotion to the Holy Name and for those who have undertaken to defend religion in that country. Close on two thousand men marched in procession to the closing ceremonies.

Right Rev. Monsignor Byrne, P.P., V.G., proposed a resolution that they express their profound sympathy with their persecuted co-religionists in Spain, and with the Spanish people in the conflict that had been forced upon them by atheists, anarchists and Communists. They rejoiced in the heroic example of so many Spanish martyrs, went on the resolution, which gave a noble demonstration to the world in the present materialistic age, that as in all ages, there were loyal Christians prepared to fight and endure even unto death, for the faith of Christ. They pledged themselves to furthering social justice in Ireland, according to Catholic social principles, and to opposing the existing menace of tyrannical and Godless Communism and all other forces that would deprive them of their Christian heritage.

Monsignor Byrne said that if ever the rising of a people in sheer self-defence and in defence of interests most fundamental and sacred was justified it was the present rising in Spain. Today they could confidently feel that the darkness over Spain was disappearing before the dawn of victory.

Many experts told them that the leaders of the Red army had shown hopeless strategy in the war, and he ventured to say that their crowning and most colossal blunder was the direct and fiendish attack on the Church, on sacred persons, and on the holy houses of God. By this they revealed themselves to the whole world as inspired by Satanic hatred of the Catholic Church and the Catholic religion. When the Reds made Christian martyrs in Spain on an extensive scale they blundered badly for the success of their own fell purpose, and they unwittingly enriched the soil of Spain with a fertility from which would spring up a purified, glorious, and triumphant Church and an ardent Catholic legion (applause). Their prayers for Christian Spain must be frequent and fervent, and help for her stricken and wounded must be immediate and generous.

They all agreed that the Free State Government, fully sensible of its grave responsibility, had adopted a rightful attitude in respect of the terrible war in Spain. The prairie fire of that conflict must not be allowed to spread. Communism was preceded and unfurling, accompanied by universal, persistent and most astute propaganda, which aimed at seducing the masses and throwing them against any form of institution, human and divine. They must resist that abominable subversive propaganda in Ireland. The agents were in this country and showed all that astuteness and deceptiveness which characterised their movements everywhere. The Catholics of Ireland had enormous divine advantages in the possession of the truth in regard to individual and social life. Let them in heaven's name be true to their divine inheritance.

The resolution was seconded by Ald. T. A. Morris.

KILMATHOMAS NEWS.

LOCAL CLUB RE-ORGANISED—

At a specially convened meeting of the members held in the Temperance Hall, Kilmathomas, there was an extremely large attendance, including the local Curate, Father James Hally, who, at the outset, explained that the meeting was called for the purpose of re-organising the Temperance Hall Club, and he expressed the hope that all present would become members.

A Committee was then formed, with Fr. Hally as President, Mr. Percy Kirwan, Vice-President, Mr. Geoffrey Flynn, Hon. Treasurer and Mr. John Ormond, N.T., Hon. Secretary.

Everybody present became enrolled as members, and the entire proceedings were most enthusiastically conducted. The Temperance Hall is a very comfortable structure, it is electrically lighted; has a fine billiard-table, and several card tables, and members will enjoy whiling a few hours away nightly therein throughout the winter and spring months. The newly-formed Committee appointed Jeremiah Deo to act as caretaker of the Hall.

KILROSSANTY WEDDING—

St. David's Parish Church, Kilrossanty, was the scene of a very pretty wedding in the sparkling sunshine of last Wednesday week (9th ult.), when Miss Cissie Walsh, second youngest daughter of Mrs. B. Walsh, licensed vintner, Kilrossanty, and the late Mr. Maurice Walsh, do, became the wife of Mr. Pat Walsh, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Walsh, Barnakill, Kilrossanty.

The ceremony was performed by the Very Rev. James Walsh, P.P., Kilmecleen (uncle of the bride), with Nuptial Mass and Pupal Blessing. The following priests assisted: Very Rev. W. Kehoe, P.P., Kilrossanty; Rev. J. Hart, C.C., do, (cousin of the bridegroom); Rev. J. Walsh, C.C., Ballyduff Upper (cousin of the bride); Rev. J. Power, C.C., Kiltobinet, and Rev. D. Byrne, C.C., Chaplain, Carrigea Convent.

The bride, who looked charming was attended by her sister, Miss A. Walsh, as bridesmaid; while Mr. Martin Walsh (brother of the bridegroom) acted as best man.

Following the ceremony, the wedding party motored to Dungarvan, where a reception was held at the Commercial Hotel, and upwards of fifty guests were entertained. The happy couple left later for Dublin on their honeymoon.

The bride is a sister of Sr. M. Josephine, Convent of Mercy, Wexford, and Mr. Monnie Walsh, N.T., Newtown, Kilmathomas, and she is a niece of the Rev. Mother Josephine Hassett, Co. Hospital, Wexford, and of the late Rev. E. Hassett, C.C., Ring, and the late Dr. Denis Hassett, Bridgetown, Co. Wexford.

The bridegroom is a prominent and popular playing member of the Kilrossanty Gaelic Football Club. The newly-united pair were made the recipients of numerous costly and serviceable wedding presents. Their friends on all sides join in heartily wishing them length of years in the enjoyment of the graces and blessings of conjugal bliss.

HOLIDAYING—

Master P. Whelan, nephew of Mr. Pat. Whelan, Hotel, Stradbally, has just arrived from a holiday from London. Master Whelan is a pupil of a leading Catholic College in the English Metropolis and his intermediate career has been exceptionally brilliant. He certainly faces a very rosy future.

THE HATLESS HABIT—

Amongst males the no-hat fashion still prevails. How daring we have been to go without hats! The male sex is notoriously so conservative in the matter of raiment—drab as compared with the chameleon variety of women (bless 'em!)—that this departing of the regular head covering is positively revolutionary. We know men who haven't bought a new hat for three years. So it really looks as though the fashion were something more than a passing phase. Fashion makes fools of us all. Before the vogue of noddle exposure, if a grown man went hatless along the Main Street of Kilmathomas eyebrows would have been raised, thumbs jerked, winks exchanged, and you would have heard the epithets "eccentric," "daft," "screw loose," "case for the 'nut factory.'" We should have been ashamed almost to have been seen talking on the street to one of these wild reactionaries. Pardonable enough, perhaps, to stride hatless or along the sands of the neighbouring lake, but within the confines of the town—tut! Also holy-toity! But daylight saving and one or two exceptionally fine summers encouraged the discarding of the "tile," and our emancipation from headgear lasted, in successive years, farther and still farther into the autumn, until now many of us heroically receive our naked napes the battery of the entire winter's furies—smiling rain, pelting hailstones, snow, sleet, withering winds, or perhaps all these at once. All this is good for our craniums; we are becoming a hard-headed race, and we do not take colds so readily. Though it's a long time since we have had the convulsions of pleasure of raising our hat to a lady. The courtly gesture of hat lifting is decaying amongst men. That politeness has been sacrificed to the tough poll. Montaigne records that King Maximissa, even in his eldest days, could never be induced to put any covering on his head in even the severest weather. The like is reported of the Emperor Severus. "In the battles that passed between the Egyptians and the Persians, Herodotus says that he and others took special notice that of such as lay slain on the ground the Egyptians' skulls were without comparison much harder than those of the Persians by reason that the latter go ever with heads covered with coifs and turbans, and the former from their infancy ever shaven and bareheaded." It is also chronicled that Caesar marched bareheaded before his troops whether the sun shone or the rain rained. So we follow Imperial Caesar. Our "nits" will become equally tough. But it does not follow that the kernel will be of the Caesarian quality. . . . What next? Men may go to the other extreme, and discard their boots and socks, and goodbye to corns and bunions. . . . Meanwhile we await the bold leader of the barefooted brigade.

PARNELL DAY—

Tuesday of this week was the anniversary of Charles Stuart Parnell. Nearly half a century, bringing many remarkable changes, has passed by since Parnell's time, but the memory of "the Chief" remains green in the hearts of those of his faithful followers who still survive. The joy left was worn by these, and countless others anxious to venerate the memory of this great leader, on the 6th inst.

IN LAST SUNDAY'S GLORIOUS WEATHER—

Hundreds of Gaels at Dunhill venue saw De La Salle defeat Fenor in the final of this year's senior football championship of the East Waterford Division, by a substantial margin, and the junior football fifteens of Kill and Fenor emerge from a hectic hour's battle with honours easy, at 4 points each. At the city Gaelic venue, P. H. Pearce (Ferrybank) convincingly conquered Clones in their re-play hurling match—Final of the East. At Ballymacarbery, in a friendly, big ball bout, Faha went under to Glenahirey, being two points in arrears at long-whistle blast.

Congratulations to our County's National Hurling League XV, on their meritorious triumph over Dublin at Croke Park. Kilrossanty will field out against the Clonmel Commercial on tomorrow (Sunday) to decide their tie in the local Football Tournament, while the junior hurlers of Clones will oppose St. Stephen's (Waterford), at Kilmecleen in the Eastern Divisional Final of the current annum. Look out for the great "who shall" between Stradbally and De La Salle—the 1936 County ultimate in Senior Football, you ken.

AN OUTSIZE "SPUD"—

A potato of the Arran Banner variety, grown on the farm of Mr. Nicholas Power Fahaleagh, Kilmathomas, weighed 3 1/2 lbs. This tuber is believed to be the largest ever grown in the locality.

A BALLYLANEEN ITEM—

Having sold his licensed premises at Ballylaneen, wherein he had transacted business right honourably and well for a considerable number of years, deservedly popular Mr. Thomas McCarthy, and his most estimable Mrs. left there last weekend for Belfast, where they now reside with their daughter, Miss Kathleen McCarthy, a highly educated and charmingly-mannered lady, who occupies an important position in the Northern capital over the past decade. Their numerous friends wish Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy many years to enjoy their retirement from business.

By the way, Mr. McCarthy's establishment was purchased by Mr. Joseph McGrath, who has been manager at the extensive and flourishing trading concern of Mr. Percy Kirwan, Main Street, Kilmathomas, for several years, and who is long since noted for his courtesy, integrity and efficiency. He is a sterling sportsman and enjoys a wide circle of firm friendships, and all unite in wishing him every good luck and success in the running of his newly-acquired shop.

We Put It To You (Serious And Not)—

That Ireland has no fewer than 101 towns with a name beginning with "Bally"—

That Wales favours towns with names beginning with "Llan," as there are 279 of these—

That England has 160 towns with a name commencing "Sal"—

That Scotland favours (but only to a small degree) "Augh," having thirty of them—

That perhaps the strangest name for a town across the Channel is "LLANFAIRPWLLGWYNGYLL" in Anglesey—

That the Metal Man desires to be generally known that there is no occasion for any friend or acquaintance to make him a Christmas present of false teeth this year—

That in a charmingly severe little jacket in mustard velvet, sweeping free at the hips, Annetown Anne cut the whale of a dash at the brace of big ball bouts at Dunhill on Sunday last—

That two Torunaneen tempers are tending to be erratic and hasty, latterly—

That the Deise would be very much the poorer if it were deprived of the nine neat and natty Nire Valley virgins whose birthday anniversaries occur next moon-change—

That a Kilbrien belle of good circumstances and education became engaged to a stalwart son of Slieve gCua at a minute to midday ere yesterday—

That a superb chin is adding years to the age of Bonmahon's meekest maiden—

That a certain mud-pack has made tiny red marks round the nose of a rather nice-mannered young lady of the Rathgormack region—

That anyone who has a plan to do something with someone else's money is called an "Economist" in Portlaoise and purloine—

AND—

That a friend of that Duke of Devonshire who died in 1908 once told him that really he must not yawn in the middle of his own speeches, and the Duke replied: "But my dear fellow, you have no idea how dull they are."

CO-OP. MEAT LTD., WATERFORD

THE STRIKE

Directors' Action Approved by Shareholders

The action of the Directors of Irish Co-Op. Meat Ltd., Waterford, in connection with the strike of the employees at the factory, was endorsed at a public meeting of the Shareholders of the Company at Waterford on Tuesday.

There was a large attendance of Shareholders at the meeting fully representative of all the counties associated with the Factory. They came by trains, cars, buses and lorries and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed.

The directors of the factory first met, and later at an open-air meeting, where views were put before the shareholders.

Mr. Denis Gorey, who presided at both meetings, speaking to the shareholders, said he deplored the necessity that had called them together. "Great issues are at stake," he went on, "and we have to decide whether you are going to be master here or let control pass out of your hands to some organisation outside, to take the empty counts as your share to divide among 0,000 shareholders, while a few people take all the money."

The great principle of co-operation was invoked, he said, and in a crisis like that he had no patience with the people who started asking little questions such as "was the man (who was put off) warned," or "was he asked for a doctor's certificate." All they knew was that his suspension was seized on as a means of achieving other things.

When the factory was founded a guarantee was given that its two principal objects were, first, to deal with as far as possible, farmers' produce, and second to provide employment for farmers' families. "These fundamental principles must be maintained," he added, "and anything that will cut across them fought to the death." The whole principle of co-operation had been challenged and every co-operator in the country must rally to the call of the Waterford shareholders.

He then went on to deal with the conditions at the factory. While the directors did their best for the shareholders at all times, it was their policy to make the welfare of their employees their first care through good times and bad. During their ten years in business wages had been revised yearly at first, and then half-yearly, without any demand from the staff, and the last revision was made only a few weeks ago. The men were loyal, they were happy, they were paid well, and there were others who had given their time and their brains to the factory's development, and had yet to get their first shilling out of it. The attendance of the shareholders in such great numbers and their grim determination was a sufficient guarantee of the part they were going to play in the fight. He asked for their support in insisting on Clover products and the support of every decent citizen in the State, who did not wish to be the slaves of the sheltered trades.

They had evidence of pickets visiting traders all over the country, and asking them not to stock the factory's products. "Pickets must be met by pickets; visit by counter visit," declared Mr. Gorey, amid applause.

Referring to an alleged attempt to spread Communism among the employees, he declared—"We want no Spain here; this fight has been forced upon us, and we are prepared for it" (applause).

In conclusion, he said, "the heritage you have entrusted to us will be maintained to the very death even if every bit of cement and iron in this factory is blown to heaven or to hell" (applause).

MANAGER'S STATEMENT

Mr. J. C. Landy, manager, said as he was the person primarily responsible for the situation which had arisen, he desired to explain to the shareholders the situation with which they were confronted.

Mr. Landy then related the incidents, already published, which led up to the withdrawal of labour by the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union. He was not opposed, he said, to Trades Unions as long as they confined themselves to legitimate functions such as collective bargaining, etc., but when they compelled every man to join a Union before he was put to work then he did object. He opposed the formation of a Union in the factory from the beginning, firstly, because they had agreed to implement Clause 39 of the Pigs and Bacon Act, and the conditions of that would be granted to men whether Trades Unionists or not. Secondly, because he knew as soon as the Union got control there they would at once bring about the very conditions which had arisen. Clause 12 of the Joint Industrial Council, of which he was a member, with representatives of the Trades Union Congress, stated any local dispute should be submitted to the Council before a strike took place. That was not done in the present case, and hence he maintained the fact that the Union Congress should call that an unauthorised strike, and that the calling out of their engineers was wrong. In all industries key men were left, and in the United States of America in packing house disputes the men in charge of the refrigerating machinery taking care of perishable products were not called out. In the present case he was informed at 11.30 at night, and the engineers left work at midnight.

That strike could not be called by any other name than an outrage, and he was surprised at a decent body of men like the engineers supporting it.

He contended he was fully justified in dismissing the man Daly, which led to the dispute, and if himself or his successor was not supported in maintaining discipline then the factory was doomed to fail (applause).

DIRECTORS ACTION ENDORSED

Mr. Martin Gorman, Tipperary, proposed a resolution declaring the shareholders affirmed the action and the measures taken by the board of directors to deal with the present emergency, and pledged them full approval and support to such further action as the board might consider necessary to maintain the principles of the Society and control of their own factory.

Mr. O'Brien, Windgap, seconded, and the resolution was passed, only five hands going up as dissenting.

Mr. White, Wexford, proposed that the support of all co-operative organisations in the Free State be solicited for the Society to maintain control of action in their business.

It was seconded by Mr. Walsh, Redacre, and passed, only one dissenting.

Declaring the resolutions passed, Mr. Gorey said that big meeting frankly amazed him, and there was no doubt the directors had the support of the shareholders and many people throughout the country to encourage them. No man there was a bigger shareholder than he and his family, and they did not want the few shillings their shares represented now and they did not give a damn if they ever saw the money. "We can sell our products anywhere else for the difference of a few shillings, he went on, "but we want this factory for the farmers and their families, the people who paid for it, and nobody will come into it except farmers or farm labourers the people who would carry Ireland on their backs (applause)."

When the gathering was asked if any member wished to say anything, Mr. Samus Lenton, Borris, said he gathered from the speeches that the board of directors and manager had refused to recognise the right of the men in the factory to join a Union. If that was so it was against the famous Encyclical of Pope Leo XIII, and also that of the present Holy Father. It was contrary also to the principles of human nature.

Mr. Gorey said the speaker was criticising the action taken, but reminded him the shareholders had passed already a vote of confidence in the directors. The answer to Mr. Lenton, however, was that the Trades Union had destroyed the right to or its chances of recognition (applause) by demanding every man must be a Trades Unionist, whether he liked it or not. "The Transport Union as such," he declared, "will never enter the gates of this factory."

Mr. Lennon—Very good: that is the issue. I just wanted to get that clear. The meeting then ended.

SOVIET HORSES TO LOSE THEIR TAILS

All Soviet farm horses will lose their tails before November 1 as the result of an order issued by the Commissariat of Agriculture to State and collective farms. The order, issued in an advertisement in the agricultural Press, which showed a picture of a peasant cutting his horse's tail, read:—

"Attention of collective farmers, individual peasants, and State farm workers! Organised cutting of tails and manes of horses we can supply our industry with very valuable raw material. Cutting of horses' tails is ordered until November 1.

"When the mane and tail are combed during grooming much hair remains on the combs and brushes. Collect this and deliver all hair to the collecting organisations, where it will be paid for at fixed prices."

Export Bounty on Certain Shell-Fish

The Department of Agriculture announces that an export bounty will be payable on periwinkles, mussels and scallops exported to Great Britain and Northern Ireland in the period from 1st October, 1936, to 31st March, 1937, both dates inclusive.

The bounty will be a sum equivalent to the amount of the Customs Duty paid on importation into Great Britain or Northern Ireland in the case of periwinkles and mussels, and to one-half of the amount of similar Duty in the case of scallops.

Copies of the conditions governing the payment of these bounties may be obtained on application to the Department of Agriculture (Bounties Section), Dublin.

THE SENATE—

Now that the Committee the President has reported of a Senate required for to replace that which was year it is interesting to note posed to have 45 members House and the salary of a year) will be the same as Senate. The new Senate posed of most outstanding phases of our public life—done good work for their day. Now here in Dungarvan man who certainly is qualified on the Senate by virtue of done as a practical model refer to Mr. John Green, for the past 30 years has production in the market and making two and three grow where only one grows ther he is a certified expert planter of mangels and in Three crops where others do That is something that shined in an agricultural ex hope to see Mr. Green's duly recognised by a seat Senate.

In addition to that Mr. long record of honourable to his credit, and in the Nationalism he did more part. What a grand thing find our own Government such a man in the way would be an incentive to work on specialised lines production and so make a delightful soil and climate. Mr. Green has provided a fine example of what a farmer should be.

A general meeting of the Dungarvan Club will be held at the Clubhouse on Monday, October 13th, at 8 o'clock.

DEATH

DELANEY—October 3rd, 1936, at his residence, Congress Villas, Dungarvan, Patrick Delaney, ex-N.T. Deeply regretted. Interred at Old Parish.—R.I.P.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

PRESENTATION CONVENT, DUNGARVAN.

The results of the Intermediate, Civil Service, Musical and other examinations which we publish in this issue make interesting reading and show that our Presentation Convent Schools have maintained their high standard of efficiency in all branches of high-class education. In a highly-competitive age that is something of which any school should feel proud, but true to their past records the Presentation Schools have again proved that in the education of the young girls entrusted to them, they have in every phase of intellectual endeavour shown they stand in the first rank. The results are a credit to the brilliant teaching staff of the Presentation Convent and to the close application of the pupils. In common with their numerous friends we hope that as the years roll on the results achieved by the pupils of these great schools will be greater and greater.

RABBITS—

Now that the Dungarvan Co. Op. Creameries announce they will take 25,000 rabbits a week and pay 10d. per brace there should be no man or woman out of employment for the winter. There is already a locum in spinning, fletting and every other means of putting an end to this pest which has been so destructive all the year. If not exterminated they will eat up the country.

CATS LEAVE HOME—

Possibly due to an old desire for the glories of the chase and eager to get even with the rabbits while the going is good, numbers of honest cats up and down the country have left home and gone on a marauding campaign. On every road in the country now you meet cats with strange looks on their faces and evidently reverted to the wild state. Turned to hunters, they seem to be enjoying the new life, but when the rabbits are rounded up it is possible the cats will return to their own firesides.

DEATH OF MR. P. DELANEY, DUNGARVAN.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Patrick Delaney, ex-N.T., which occurred at his residence, Congress Villas, on Saturday last, after a brief illness. The late Mr. Delaney had been teacher at Ballymacart N.S., for nearly 40 years up to his retirement a few years ago and during his long official career he won the esteem and appreciation of his superiors as well as the enduring affection of the pupils who passed under his charge.

A brilliant and capable teacher he ever gave of his best and by word and example he was all that a model guide of youth should be. Beloved by his pupils as well as by his fellow teachers for his loyalty, devotion and earnestness, his death at a comparatively early age, is deeply regretted, and to his bereaved wife and children sincere sympathy is extended in their bereavement.—R.I.P.

On Sunday evening the remains were removed to the Parish Church, Dungarvan, and were followed by a large and imposing cortege representative of all classes in town and country. On Monday after High Mass for the repose of his soul, the funeral took place to Old Parish. The funeral procession was very large and in keeping with the esteem in which the deceased and the members of his family are held. From far and near mourners came to pay their last tribute of respect to the memory of an upright gentleman who in life ever played his part honourably and well. Amongst those who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy, Ballyphilip, Dunhill; Mrs. Harney, Dunhill; Mrs. Harney, Annetstown; Mr. Moore, Kilkannon, do.

An appreciation of the deceased by "One who knew him" will appear next issue.

THE SENATE.

Now that the Committee appointed by the President has reported on the kind of a Senate required for the Free State to replace that which was abolished last year it is interesting to note that it is proposed to have 45 members in the New House and the salary of each (£360 a year) will be the same as in the old Senate. The new Senate will be composed of men outstanding in various phases of our public life—men who have done good work for their country in their day. Now here in Dungarvan we have a man who certainly is qualified for a seat on the Senate by virtue of what he has done as a practical model farmer. We refer to Mr. John Greene, Burgery, who for the past 50 years has been doubling production in the market garden line and making two and three blades of grass grow where only one grew before. Further he is a certified expert as a transplant of mangels and the growing of three crops where others grow only one. That is something that should be recognised in an agricultural country, and we hope to see Mr. Greene's great life work duly recognised by a seat in the new Senate.

In addition to that Mr. Greene has a long record of honourable public service to his credit, and in the days of fighting Nationalism he did more than one man's part. What a grand thing it would be to find our own Government honouring such a man in the way suggested. It would be an incentive to younger men to work on specialised lines of agricultural production and so make the most of the delightful soil and climate which a bountiful Providence has provided for us.

DEATH OF MR. T. O'CONNELL, TALLOW.

The death of Mr. Thomas O'Connell, Chapel Street, Tallow, is deeply regretted. He was an extensive landowner and carried on a successful victualling business. There was a large attendance at the obsequies in the Parish Church when High Mass was celebrated by Rev. T. Walsh, C.C., Dungarvan; Rev. T. O'Gorman, C.C., Lismore, was deacon and Rev. J. Hickey, C.C., Knockanore, sub-deacon. Very Rev. Canon Prendergast, P.P., presided. In the choir were: Rev. M. Morrissey, Adm., Knockanore; Rev. Fr. Murphy, C.C., Lismore; Very Rev. M. Dowley, P.P., Ballyduff; Rev. J. Walsh, C.C., do.; Very Rev. M. Carroll, P.P., Modeligo; Rev. Fr. Leahy, C.C., Glendine. The interment took place in the adjoining graveyard in the presence of a large gathering. The chief mourner was Miss A. O'Connell (sister), to whom deep sympathy is extended.

MEMORIAL CROSS ERECTED IN MEMORY OF THE LATE MOST REV. DR. HACKETT, BISHOP OF WATERFORD AND LISMORE.

On Tuesday October 6th, a beautiful Memorial Cross standing twelve feet high was erected over the grave of the late Most Rev. Dr. Hackett, Bishop of Waterford and Lismore in St. John's Churchyard, Waterford. The cross is of chaste Celtic design with exquisite and appropriate ornamentation, interlacing and embossing, which show good taste and skill on the part of the sculptors. A mitre and the symbol of episcopal office is excellently executed in the centre of the shaft of the cross. A unique feature in the body of the cross is the unified tracery which is closely interwoven and knotted.

Covering the grave in front of the Memorial is a massive tomb sloped on each side with a heavy scroll running through to the base. The Cross and tomb are laid on a foundation consisting of a slab nine feet by five—the whole being neatly and accurately proportioned.

The contract was carried out by the well-known firm of Monumental Sculptors, Messrs. R. O'Keefe and Sons, Michael Street, Waterford, and Abbey-side, Dungarvan. The material used throughout is Kilkenny limestone from Three Castles, County Kilkenny, where Messrs. O'Keefe, have extensive quarries covering five acres of land. We heartily congratulate them on their excellent workmanship which reflects great credit on a Waterford firm.

We understand that Mr. Early, Camden Street, Dublin, a member of the famous and world-renowned firm of Artistes in Stained Glass, Sculpture and Church Decorators, was in Waterford this week and incidentally inspected the Memorial Cross. He expressed the opinion that it was one of the best designed Celtic Crosses that he has ever seen.

In our next issue we will publish the Latin text of the inscription on the pedestal of the Cross together with the English translation. Also the Scriptural quotations inscribed on the tomb, one of which was the motto of the late Most Rev. Dr. Hackett.

Lismore On Sunday 19th October—

Lismore will be once more the venue of a great hurling clash. This time the issue is to be decided by the two adjoining counties Cork and Waterford, who meet in their National League tie at Lismore on Sunday October 18th.

There is little to be said of the teams previous records as everyone knows the facts already.

Come to Lismore on Sunday week in your thousands and watch this needle affair.

ARDMORE AS A HOLIDAY RESORT

This summer I had the pleasure of spending a fortnight's holiday at Ardmore. It was a camping holiday and while there with a troop of Boy Scouts we decided on seeing all its sights of which we often read.

The remains of an old Church are seen a few yards from the Round Tower that instantly revivits the attention of the tourist. Nothing remains now but the aisles flanked on each side by two enormous buttresses.

To those who have never visited Ardmore, I think it would present more attractions to them than any other village in Ireland if they paid it a visit when the summer comes round again.

Picturesque villas cover the head on its extreme point near the village, and one must be fastidious indeed not to be pleased with the gentility of the townspop.

Sloping down to the waters edge the sea runs in and washes the little village, and about a mile from the huge headlands, that, like sentinels of the deep seem to guard the little community, are the richest meadows and pasture lands, giving an indescribable lightness and elegance to the panorama, that otherwise would look so weird, and as you look down from the headland that bears the name of the village, inside between two heads, a placid lake lies entombed in almost fatiguing calmness, while out beyond the headland the Atlantic tosses itself in a thousand convulsions that delict the mind, while it awakes it with God's presence.

NUNS' ORDEAL IN SPAIN

The Mother House of the Sisters of the Immaculate Conception in Barcelona is in the hands of the Reds, and of the 200 nuns of the Community, 60 are now in Rome.

The Mother Superior told a Rome correspondent that nearly all the nuns returned to their families or sought shelter with friends, who provided them with clothes to replace their habits. As far as the Rev. Mother knows, only two nuns fell into the hands of the Reds and were murdered, together with the doctor of the monastery, in whose house they were discovered. One was surprised giving lessons to the doctor's daughter, while the other was carrying a sack of potatoes, but on being roughly handled by the Reds they discovered that hidden among the potatoes was a golden chalice. Both nuns and the doctor were shot down. The fate of the remaining hundred odd nuns is unknown.

It was only through the action of the Italian Consul at Barcelona that the 60 escaped with their lives. The Consul sent word to them that if they could all gather at a certain time he would see that they got on board a warship in the harbour. Together with many other religious, they gathered at the quay at 7 a.m. The Reds, who had promised to let them go on board, were however going to do so at a price. They kept the nuns, some not at all young, standing in the hot sun from that hour until 9 p.m. No food was given them, and they had not a chance to move a step without being threatened by a Red bayonet. All through the day the men guarding them jeered at and insulted them. In the end they told them that the Pope and Mussolini would not look after them or feed them, besides, if they did so, it would not be for long, since the Reds were determined to get to Rome and have revolution there at the same time eliminating both the Vatican and Fascist Italy.

I saw the Superior of the Spanish Carmelite Tertiaries, known as Sisters of Charity, who is refuged here with about 30 Sisters. They, too, were protected by the Italian Consulate at Barcelona, through whose efforts they were able to reach Italy after merciless treatment meted out by the Reds. The Mother Superior preferred not to recount their experiences, because she said that many of her flock were still in hiding, and any information she gave might lead the Reds to their hiding places or to their identification.

INJURED HURLER

Tallow Man Making Satisfactory Progress—At the Lismore Cottage Hospital the injured player, T. Sheehan, Tallow, who was seriously hurt at the County Championship hurling match on Sunday week played at Lismore, is making very satisfactory progress.

It was feared earlier that the sight of the injured eye had been destroyed. Such fears have now been dispelled, and it is hoped that this prominent member of the Tallow Hurling Club will be able to resume his hurling activities in the course of a few weeks.

BISHOP AT WATERFORD

Most Rev. Dr. Kinane, Bishop of Waterford and Lismore, at St. John's Church, Waterford, blessed a new Tabernacle presented by an anonymous parishioner. There was a large congregation. His Lordship presided at the ceremony at the Franciscan Church, Waterford, when the Feast of St. Francis was observed. Solemn High Mass was sung by members of the Dominican Order, and in the evening a panegyric on the saint was preached by Rev. J. Keatinge, B.A. Vice-President, St. John's College.

A FREE STATE MINISTER

During the course of his address at the luncheon given at the new Nenagh hospital following its official opening by the Vice-President of the Executive Council, Mr. Sean T. O'Kelly, T.D., treated the company to a selection of the type of letters which were daily received by the Local Government Department.

The Department, he said received from 1,000 to 1,500 letters per day and he had asked the officials to let him have a kind of census of these letters. "Some smart guy in the Department sent me along the following extracts from letters received, as a kind of preliminary," said the Vice-President.—A lady wrote—"I can't get sick pay. I have children, can you tell me why?"

Another lady—"This is my eighth child. What are you going to do about it?" "This," said Mr. O'Kelly "was addressed to the Minister."

Also addressed to the Minister was—"I am forwarding my marriage certificate. There are two children, one of which is a mistake as you will see."

Apparently a letter from the Minister had evoked this reply—"In answer to your letter I have given birth to a boy weighing ten pounds. I hope this is satisfactory."

There was Ministerial wizardly suggested in "You have changed my little boy into a girl. Will it make any difference?"

FEEDING DAIRY COWS

RELATION OF FOOD TO BUTTER-FAT

In the September issue of the Journal of the English Ministry of Agriculture Dr. Charles Crowther, Principal, Harper Adams Agricultural College, points out that the consistency of butter is influenced by the individuality of the cow, the nature of the food and the mode of manufacture of the butter.

So far as the influence of food is concerned, grass pastures and other green feeds give a soft butter, especially where the pasture is rich in red clover. Hay and silage made from such material do not produce this effect to anything like the same extent, but silage has rather more of a softening tendency than hay.

Roughages and roots in general tend to give a hard and firm butter, there being little difference in this respect between hay and straw. Cereals give good consistency, especially oats, though barley tends to give rather a hard butter, as do also peas and other leguminous grains that are similarly poor in oil. The effect of oil cakes and meals varies with the amount and nature of the oils present in them. Where the proportion of acids of the olein type in the food-oil is higher than in normal butter-fat, the tendency will be to soften the butter-fat, whilst with oils poorer in olein the opposite tendency will be found. Thus linseed cake and soya cake have a softening tendency whilst coconut, palm kernel and cottonseed cakes tend to make the butter firmer.

The effect of a change of feed on the consistency of butter usually begins to be evident about a week after the change, but the effect may vary in intensity as between individual cows and according to the stage of lactation.

Closely allied with the question of food-fat and body-fat is that of the possible influence of food-fat upon the quantitative secretion of milk-fat. The older experiments have demonstrated that, when the oil-content of the ration is steadily reduced, a point is reached at which any further diminution tends to lower the secretion of milk-fat, but this point is far below the level of oil-supply in any rations likely to be used in farm practice.

In practical feeding experiments, starting with rations such as are commonly used on the farm, and adding oils or oily food thereto, the great majority of experimenters have failed to detect even a temporary rise in fat secretion that might be ascribed to the added oil. Only in the case of palm kernel and coconut cakes does there appear to be any considerable body of evidence of a specific influence of these foods tending to enrich the milk in fat, this influence being apparently associated with the oils of these foods. Practical opinion on the Continent accepts this evidence as valid, and the inclusion of these foods in the rations of dairy cows is regarded as standard practice. The question has never been investigated on an adequate scale in this country, but such small exploratory tests as have been made have given no encouragement to further work with these foods. It has been, indeed, the almost invariable experience in all experimental work in this country on the influence of food on the fat-content of milk that no significant increase could be detected from any of the variations of food-supply that have been tested. Where the effects of adding oil rather than oily food, to the ration have been tested experimentally, the only positive results have shown actually a slight depression of the fat-content in certain cases, notably with cod-liver oil and possibly rice oil.

As against these results, data from American experiments were published a few years ago which showed a marked increase in the fat-content of milk over short periods by additions to the ration of various oils and fats, such as butter-fat, lard, tallow, linned oil, cottonseed oil, maize oil, groundnut oil, soya bean oil and coconut oil, in amounts from 1 lb. to 2 lb. daily. Whether the fat was added to the ration or substituted for carbohydrates of equivalent energy value, the result was the same. The amount of the change produced was to a large extent proportional to the amount of fat that was fed, and was due to increased secretion rather than to the amount of milk remaining practically unchanged. A period of 12 to 24 hours elapsed after the fat was fed before the influence became evident in the milk, and this influence was maintained for 30 to 42 hours after the last fat was fed.

These observations are so striking at variance with all previous experience that they can hardly be accepted without confirmation, which is not yet forthcoming. On the contrary, indeed, more recent tests on similar lines, both in Ireland and Scotland, have failed to reveal any significant alteration in the fat-content of milk through the addition of oil to rations, beyond the slight depressant effect already mentioned of cod-liver oil. In any event, as the minimum dose of oil found to be effective in the American experiments was apparently about 1 lb. of oil daily, this method, even if reliable, is hardly likely to find any practical application, except possibly in the milking trials of the showyard if the rules permit. The problem of improvement of the fat-content of milk through the cow's diet has been under almost continuous investigation throughout the present century and still awaits solution; as, also, does the problem, even more perplexing and difficult to the agricultural adviser, of the causes and remedy of low non-fatty solids in milk. Both problems, Dr. Crowther points out, are of great economic importance to the dairy industry and will probably find their solution eventually through fundamental research into the physiology of milk secretion rather than through the cumbersome and not very accurate device of the practical feeding trial.

THE DRIFT TOWARDS THE TOWNS

The continued exodus of young people from the country to the towns has brought us almost to the time when farmers will be faced with an actual shortage of young lads to augment their staffs. Several factors have contributed to this, and now that country lads are taken into the towns each day for their education they are losing their contact with rural life, and an even larger proportion of them will be lost to agriculture.

It may be questioned whether in the past farmers themselves have done anything to counteract this tendency. The village lad, on reaching the school-leaving age, will usually (if he can) get a job at some occupation other than farming, for preference in the nearby town, and those that come on to the farms do not get the encouragement (or the training) that is likely to develop them into keen skilled men. Usually they just do the "odd jobs" about the farm, and any enthusiasm they may have had soon evaporates. It may be said that it is no part of the farmer's business to finish a boy's education. He wants the boy (as other employers do) for his work. But one may well question whether this attitude is the right one, in view of the growing shortage of available lads.

It might be suggested that a scheme on the lines of the Young Farmers' Clubs throughout the country would help to this end. These Young Farmers' Clubs are usually confined to the sons and daughters of farmers, whilst the sons and daughters of labourers, having (as a general rule) neither the cash resources nor the available buildings, cannot take a young call to rear, although there may be very many who would like to do so. This is where the farmer can come in. Whatever other jobs a lad may be engaged to do he might be given a few calves to rear, under the guidance and instruction of the farmer, following the practice of the Young Farmers' Club by keeping a record of all the various feeding stuffs used in rearing the calves. It may be said with certainty that not only would the lad get interested in his charges and gain experience, but the employer, too, would have some costings which would be helpful to him. This practice could be extended to pig feeding and to poultry with similar beneficial effects, and a lad, given such opportunities, might find many others amongst the different departments of the farm in which not only could he develop his interest, with the result that after a few years, aided if it could be arranged by any schemes that were provided for an extension of the educational side, these lads would have been weaned from many attractions that town life ever had for them and have developed into really useful men.

There is another question that organised agriculture will soon have to face, and that is the question of the reduced working week. It is easy to say that work on the farm cannot be conducted in this way as in factories, that cows, pigs and poultry have to be attended to every day and that the farm cannot be shut down from Friday night to Monday morning. This is unanswerable, but the very potent fact is that as workers in other industries get fewer working hours with Saturday afternoon and Sunday free the greater attraction there is to many of the farm men to find a job in those industries and the likelihood there is of any man taking to farm work (especially attendance on stock) if there is a chance of his getting any other job.

The one suggestion that can be made states a writer on this subject in "The Estate Magazine," is that there must be on every well-managed farm relief men who will take their turn at milking or feeding on either Saturday afternoon or Sunday's so as to give the regular hands occasional time off. The obvious argument against this is the additional expense, and every farmer will object on the ground that farming cannot stand this under existing conditions. It may be argued also that relief men would not be easy to find even if one was prepared to pay for them, but in that case if a number of neighbouring farmers got together arrangements could undoubtedly be made with someone who would fill in his whole time as "relief" man for several farms and the difficulty could without any doubt be surmounted in that way. At all events the fact has got to be faced, and the difficulties that must be faced must be overcome. Events are moving fast and farmers must be prepared for these drastic changes.

Reorganisation is very much to the fore today. Existing conditions and the outlook for the future demand that this should be so. The last ten years have brought with them changes that our fathers never dreamed of. The next ten years will bring changes that we cannot at the moment foresee, and as reorganisation has been necessary to save agriculture during the past decade, so will it become vitally necessary in the future—"Farmers' Gazette."

MAIZE MEAL MIXTURE Minister's New Order—On consideration of the position regarding supplies of oats and barley of the present season's crop, the Minister for Agriculture has made an Order under the Agricultural Produce (Cereals) Act, 1936, prescribing that as from October 1 the proportion by weight of home-grown cereals to be included in maize meal mixture shall be 33-1/3 per cent. Maize millers who use oat kernels only in the manufacture of maize mixture will, as from that date, be required to incorporate 25 per cent. by weight of such kernels in the mixture. The proportion is the same as last year.

PRUNES FOR ALL—Every part of the U.S.A. and its possessions is to have an opportunity to sample California prunes. The Government have bought 300,000 tons for distribution to the needy.

YOUGHAL URBAN COUNCIL.

Present—Messrs. P. J. O'Gorman, P.C., Chairman; R. Power, T. Beausang, D. McCarthy, R. Savage, J. Whelan, E. P. Lynch, J. N. R. Macnamara, Esq., M. Ahern.

Labour and Wages

On the proposition of Mr. McCarthy, seconded by Mr. Power, a cheque for £64 12s. 6d., labour and wages was passed.

Acknowledgments

Mr. and the Misses Torpey, wrote thanking the Council for their kind sympathy with them in their recent bereavement.

John Glenn and family, Limerick, wrote conveying their gratitude for their vote of sympathy on the tragic death of their son Sean at Arbour Hill.

Dr. J. J. Beausang, Dera Ghaze Khan, Punjab, India, wrote conveying his sincere gratitude for their kind vote of condolence on the death of his mother.

Dumping Rubbish on Strand

The Chairman called attention to the reprehensible practice of dumping rubbish just outside their boundary on the Strand. A gent imbued with some civic spirit had given him the name of the offender.

Mr. Macnamara said he had brought that matter before the Council several times.

It was decided to communicate with the South Cork Board of Health and the Civil Guards with the view to instituting proceedings.

Public Property Damage

The Gas Manager reported that the public lamps at the top of Hayman's Hill Windmill Lane, and Cork Hill by Bellevue Cottages have to be remounted almost daily on account of unwarranted interference, and the lamp on the Rope Walk opposite Sarsfield Terrace was being so continuously broken by stone-throwing that it required frequent re-lamping.

Mr. Macnamara—This is great blackguardism.

The Chairman said it was a shocking state of things putting the ratepayers to this repeated expense. There was practically no sense of civic spirit amongst the people nowadays. All that mischief could not be done without being seen by some one. Yet nobody had the decency to prevent it, or come forward and give information to enable the Council prosecute the culprits. At the rate things were going they would have to employ a permanent glazier.

The Clerk said he saw four youngsters hanging on to a lamp-post and shaking it with the result that the mantles were broken.

Mr. Macnamara—What they want is a good hiding (hear, hear).

The Chairman—I don't attribute all the mischief to youngsters.

The Clerk said that those he saw were fairly big lads.

The Chairman—They seem to take a delight in damaging public property.

Mr. Lynch suggested putting up a notice.

The Chairman—Those stamps would take no notice of a mere notice. I would appeal through the Press to all decent members of the public who see any of this mischief being done to come forward and give information to enable the Council to prosecute and press for severe penalties.

Ball Room Floor

A report was read from Mr. J. Murray, B.E., Town Surveyor, on the proposed re-flooring of the Ball Room, at a cost ranging up to £100.

On the Chairman's suggestion it was unanimously decided to adjourn the matter to next year.

With reference to the Town Superintendent's report that M. Slattery, had taken gravel and said from the back of the breastworks.

Mr. Savage said he had taken only a small quantity from his own field. He didn't think he was doing any harm and he would not do it again.

Mr. Power—Can he legally take it?

The Chairman—No. He is exposing the breastworks to serious damage, and if the tide broke in there his own land would be the first to be flooded.

It was decided to take no further action this time.

WATERFORD'S WIN

Metropolitans Lose the Interval Lead

Waterford, 4-5; Dublin, 4-4.

The defeat of Dublin by Waterford (4-5 to 4-4), at Croke Park, provided a surprise in the opening round of the National Hurling League.

It was a keen, hard-fought game, Waterford opened in promising style, but they missed scoring chances, and a point did not represent the due reward of their efforts had their shooting been more accurate.

Dublin were quick to equalise, and at the interval the home side led by 5 points. After resuming, this was increased to 10 points; but Waterford made a plucky stand, and when Keane, following the retirement, owing to an injury, of Greaney, moved from the right full-back position to mid-field, the game underwent a complete change, and it was a ding-dong battle to the end.

Keane gave a fine display, and a great rally by Waterford turned the tables on Dublin, who, until then, appeared to have the verdict secure.

In a rousing finish Waterford wiped out the arrears, and forged ahead to hold the lead despite a strong assault by Dublin in the closing minutes. Waterford richly merited their victory, and they would have won by a wider margin but for the splendid goalkeeping by Cullen of Dublin.

Both sides were short-handed, R. Ryan, C. Moyhan and N. Condon for Waterford being replaced from amongst the reserves by Walsh, Greaney and Greene. After a weak start Waterford put in a strong finish. Hogan, who had come on as a substitute, being prominent in the defence. Ryan on the right wing was a very effective worker, and as centre forward Goode rendered sterling service.

Greaney (point) opened the scoring for Waterford, who had the better of the earlier exchanges, Devitt (point) replied for Dublin, and Dublin took the lead when Flanagan goalied from a centre by Butler. Waterford had a stroke of hard luck when from an effort by Halpin the ball hit the upright. Wade (Dublin) added a point, and M. Curley (Waterford) goalied from a rousing shot by Flanagan. Cullen (Dublin goal) was tested by Greaney, and Connolly (full back) saved from Halpin. Dublin improved their lead by a goal from Butler, and Goode (Waterford) failed on a short-range free. Daniels (Dublin) had a point, and Ryan (Waterford) scored a goal from a free. There was a tough battle to the interval, when Dublin led by 5 points (2-3 to 1-2).

Dublin had a good goal soon after resuming, Butler scoring from a pass by Feeney. M. Curley (Waterford goal) saved from Flanagan. Greaney (Waterford) retired injured and was replaced by Hogan. From far out on the right wing Ryan (Waterford) put over a point and then O'Brien had a goal for Dublin.

Keane, who had moved out from the defence, had a point for Waterford, and Ryan (Waterford) followed with a point from a free. Cullen brought off a few great saves in the Dublin goal, but Waterford kept on the pressure and had a goal by Greaney. Dublin still led by 5 points (4-3 to 2-4).

From a free at nearly 80 yards range Keane (Waterford) scored a point, and Hogan (sub.) showed to effect in the Waterford defence. Caniffe (Dublin) sent over from a "90" and a free, swifly taken by Keane, led to a goal for Waterford, scored by Greaney, who finished from Wisc. Dublin were now leading by only one point (4-3 to 3-5) and the Waterford backs broke two spirited assaults, while Dublin failed on a free within scoring distance.

The Dublin defence was hotly tested. Waterford showed up in determined style, and Cullen saved splendidly in the Dublin goal. Waterford kept up the attack and took the lead 4-5 to 4-3 when Ryan goalied from a free. Dublin fought back and after a good save by M. Curley (Waterford goal), Caniffe (Dublin) had a point in an exciting finish.

Sean Hogan, Dublin, referred. Mr. Waterford-M. Curley (goal), (Tallow); J. Keane (Mount Sion), C. Ware, J. Fanning (Erin's Own), W. Walsh (Passage), C. Curley (Tallow), J. Mountain (St. Stephen's), M. Wyse (Erin's Own), T. Greaney (Dungarvan), C. Ryan (Erin's Own), D. Goode, (Dungarvan), P. Sheehan (Tallow), J. Halpin (Dungarvan), E. Daly (Ballym.), P. LEAVING CERTIFICATE RESULTS 1936

FROM the ordeal of the Leaving Certificate, Pass and Honours Examinations of this year, Rockwell College emerges with unequalled honours and success.

For the tenth year in succession the College holds pride of place amongst the Colleges of Ireland.

Presenting the very imposing number of 63 candidates Rockwell brought no fewer than 53 to success and gained outstanding honours for 35.

The College Authorities know well that these examinations are an excellent and in a sense necessary preparation for the great enterprise of life. They presented last year every eligible senior student in the house for this crowning test of our Secondary Education. They realise too that the College exists for the welfare of the whole student body and they apply this to the letter. No further proof of this is needed than the fact that Rockwell was able to present a far greater number for examination than some Colleges with larger numbers on their School Rolls.

A cursory review of the different subjects reveals many outstanding successes.

LATIN

In Latin one candidate, Owen O'Neil (Limerick), gained 412 marks and another, E. Hickey (Limerick), 401—the excess marks being gained by doing the paper through Irish. Desmond O'Driscoll (Cahir) has to his credit 393 out of 400; T. Heaton (Louth) 377 and Paul Ryan (Leix) 370. Several others of the same class gained marks ranging from 80% to 60% in the same subject. Those who took the Pass Paper also did extremely well.

GREEK

In Greek Desmond O'Driscoll secured 375 out of 400; Owen O'Neil 343 and Michael Troy (Dublin) 328—very creditable results in papers which those competent to judge consider amongst the most difficult tests yet set at our public examinations.

IRISH

It is worthy of note that in Irish not a single candidate failed the examination and of the 63 presented 36 obtained Honours with comfortable margins. T. Cronin (Kilbarney) deserves special mention for his mark 332 out of 600. Five others gained very high marks too.

ENGLISH

Reviewing the results in English one finds that 38 students obtained Honours scoring very high marks. T. Heaton was first among the Rockwell boys with a total of 348.

FRENCH

Neither is the study of French neglected. Paul Ryan got Third Place in Ireland. Four others got good Honours, while six obtained passes on the Full Course Paper.

HISTORY & GEOGRAPHY

In these subjects a high percentage of the students presented were successful in both the Pass and Honours Papers. Again E. Hickey, deserves mention for his score of 267 marks out of 300 in History and E. Van de Velde for 222 out of 300 in Geography.

Such gratifying results in literary subjects might lead one to expect that the achievement of Rockwell students would not be outstanding in Mathematics and Science. The very opposite is the case.

ARITHMETIC

In Arithmetic two students, Desmond O'Driscoll and Owen O'Neill obtained full marks.

SCIENCE

C. Blair (Dublin) secured a high place in Ireland in Chemistry and so did C. Houllihan (Clare) in Physics.

So far four Rockwell students have won University Scholarships on the results of the Leaving Certificate Examinations:—Desmond O'Driscoll, Tipperary S.R. Thomas Heaton, Louth; Michael Troy, Dublin; Paul R. Ryan, Galway University.

The following have been called to training in the Department of Education Training Colleges:—T. Cronin; C. Savage; J. Joy; and J. Reidy (Kerry). D. O'Driscoll (Tipperary); J. Murphy (Clare).

A number of Leaving Certificate boys sat for the Civil Service Examination, the results of which have not yet been published. We may remark too a point that has been brought to our notice about the recent examinations. A survey of the Schools that presented over 40 candidates shows that in the percentage of passes on this basis Rockwell holds First Place in Ireland with 84.7%. The success of the average pupil is the best test of sound teaching. For the tenth year in succession Rockwell has stood that test and has emerged supreme.

Mr. James A. Nugent, President of the Rockwell College Union, in a letter of congratulations on the results to the Very Rev. Fr. McCarthy, President, pays to the College, its staff and its boys a tribute which we take the liberty of quoting:—

This brilliant achievement is a magnificent proof that under your Presidency, with the assistance of a professional staff second to none, Rockwell not only maintains her traditional reputation as one of the foremost educational institutions amongst the Colleges of the State, but is marching on to still greater achievements. This wonderful result has been attained in competition with other Colleges noted for their educational records in the past, and only those who realise the keenness with which all these institutions, with their splendid staffs of teachers, are carrying out their great purpose, can appreciate the splendour of your victory in being the first amongst the foremost.

PHENOMENAL DAIRY COW

An address of much interest for the up-to-date dairyman was delivered by Mr. A. D. Buchanan Smith to the Agricultural Section of the British Association at Blackpool.

Mr. Buchanan Smith, whose subject was "Breeding for Milk Yield and Unimpaired Health," stated that the yield of a dairy cow was determined by market requirements in relation to environment factors of the farm and the capacity of the farmer. It was not the function of the geneticist to determine the optimum yield for any type of farming, but to advise the farmer how he might secure that yield with a reasonable degree of accuracy. At the present moment there was a tremendous variation in the lactation yield of dairy cows, which might normally extend anywhere from 500 to 3,000 gallons, with occasional animals below and above these limits. Even within a breed the variation was great, and greater in some breeds than in others.

Discussing the problem of the dual-purpose cow, he said they were faced with one of the most difficult or genetical problems. To fix in a strain one productive quality was a difficult task, since any single quality was dependent upon a multitude of genes. To fix two productive qualities did more than double the difficulties, for it was a matter of geometrical rather than arithmetical progression.

Amongst a certain section of the agricultural community it was customary to decrie the cow that was a phenomenal yielder of 3,000, or even nearly 4,000, gallons. There was, however, economic justification for such a type of high-powered animal, and given certain circumstances, it might be the most remunerative type for the farmer to keep. But, putting his question on one side, if a somewhat more moderate yield, say, 2,000 gallons, was desirable than to get the breed type fixed there it was desirable to encourage the phenomenal yielder of the breed and keep it there when it was reared, for the higher the yield the greater was the tendency to regression. Phenomenal cows, were thus to be encouraged. That in the past extraordinary yields had frequently been associated with animals unable to stay the course was no justification for believing that phenomenal yield was synonymous with a short life. Indeed, recent records of the heaviest milking breed they had, the British Friesian, already belied such statements. The deduction to be made was that it was essential to select not only for high milking capacity, but also for sensible udders, good legs and feet, as well as robust constitution. Hence it was that the scientist heartily endorsed life-time rather than lactation yield as the basis of selection. The same principle applied to those other dairy breeds whose characteristic was a more modest optimum of production.

In discussing the use of very high yielders as a means for the improvement of the average, there were two additional points which required to be taken into consideration. The first was the cost of production. Observation indicated that there appeared to exist cows which were more efficient as converters of foodstuffs into milk than were the majority of the breed. Whether this difference was a more modest optimum of production.

Generally speaking, he thought it was easier by means of advanced management and nutrition to increase the yield of a high than a low-yielding cow. Whatever the type, in selecting the bull it was essential to consider him from the point of view of whether the yields of his daughters were uniform or not. The future lay undoubtedly with the bull that transmitted uniformly and proved himself prepotent, and therefore homozygous, for the desired qualities. A breeder should not endeavor to fix too many points at once. He should do it step by step. First, reasonable yield, then improved butter fat; next, the type of the lactation curve. The same held true for conformation, the udder, the legs, and so forth. If their breeding policy were organised on a national basis, as it was in Russia, then certain herds would be handed for the excellence of certain characters and other herds for other qualities. Thus a breeder having fixed certain desirable qualities in his own herd could obtain a bull from another from which the faults in his own herd had been eliminated. Careful selection would thus enable the best desirable characteristics to be incorporated without the loss of those already fixed. But it was easy to question as to whether further substantial advance could be made without rational organisation and an enlargement of the herds in order that selection might operate more effectively. Personally, he believed that the future of live stock improvement demanded the large herd.

Caring For The Old Dairy Bull

Nowadays farmers think more of their old bulls than they used to, owing largely to the increase in keeping milk records which is in vogue all over the country, and which records have shown them plainly the value of many a bull they have scrapped. Yet an old bull requires far more attention than the active hearty youngster, for, owing to his weight, he may go off his legs, and the majority of herdsmen prefer to exercise the smart, showy youngster rather than the old veteran.

The older a bull grows, however, the more need to keep him fit, and to keep his temper from going wrong. Everlasting condemnation will upset a mature sire and therefore he should be taken out each day for exercise and his feet should be attended to. Shut up in his stall, any bull of high breeding and courage will be inclined to go wrong, and if he has proved his worth as a stockgetter he is surely worth some extra care and attention. Dealing out blows and kicks only helps to put everything wrong, but kindness, a certain amount of petting, regular feeding and regular exercise will keep the sire fairly juvenile. Firmness, however, must be shown whenever the bull is inclined to take any liberties.
